GRAMMAR OF NEW TESTAMENT GREEK

\mathbf{BY}

FRIEDRICH BLASS, DR.PHIL, D.TH., HON. LITT.D. DUBLIN

TRANSLATED BY HENRY ST. JOHN THACKERAY, M.A.

SECOND, REVISED AND ENLARGED EDITION

MACMILLAN AND CO., LIMITED ST. MARTIN'S STREET, LONDON

First Edition 1898. Second Edition 1905. Reprinted 1911.

PREFACE TO THE ENGLISH EDITION.

Professor Blass's Grammatik des Neutestamentlichen Griechisch appeared in Germany in October, 1896. The present translation reproduces the whole work with the exception of the Preface, which the author considered unsuitable to the English edition, on account of the somewhat personal character given to it by the dedication which he had combined with it. Some points of the Preface, however, are of sufficient general interest to be reproduced here in a summary form.

The author maintains that whereas Hellenistic Greek cannot in comparison with Attic Greek be regarded as a very rich language, it is for all that (except where borrowed literary words and phrases intrude themselves) a pure language, which is governed by regular laws of its own. He applies to it the proverb τῶν καλῶν καὶ τὸ μετόπωρον καλόν.

The present work does not profess to give the elements of Greek grammar, but presupposes some knowledge on the part of the reader. Those who desire to read the Greek Testament after a two months' study of the Greek language are referred to such works as Huddilston's Essentials of New Testament Greek.

With regard to textual criticism, a distinguishing feature in the grammar is that whereas earlier grammarians quote the editions of the leading N.T. critics, Professor Blass quotes the MSS., leaving the reader to draw his own conclusions as to the true text in each instance. Whilst admitting that we have now reached something like a new "Textus Receptus" based on the oldest Greek tradition, and acknowledging the services rendered to N.T. criticism by such critics as Lachmann, Tischendorf, Westcott and Hort, and Tregelles, he has to confess that a definite conclusion on this subject has not yet been arrived at.

The only point in reference to matters of 'higher criticism' to which attention has to be called is that the John who wrote the Apocalypse is distinguished from John the author of the Gospel and Epistles. The first and second Epistles of Peter do not present sufficiently well-marked differences to require a distinction to be drawn between them in a grammar of this kind. The Pauline Epistles are all quoted as the work of St. Paul; the Epistle to the Hebrews is naturally not so quoted. The general position taken up by Professor Blass with regard to questions of authorship is shown by the following words: 'The tradition which has been transmitted to us as to the names of the authors of the N.T. books, in so far as it is unanimous, I hold to be approximately contemporary with those authors; that is to say, the approximation is as close as we can at present look for; and, without claiming to be a prophet, one may assert that, to whatever nearer approximation we may be brought by fortunate discoveries in the future, Luke will remain Luke, and Mark will continue to be Mark.'

The books to which the author expresses his obligations are the grammars of Winer (including the new edition of P. Schmiedel) and Buttmann, Jos. Viteau, Étude sur le Gree du N.T., Paris, 1893, and Burton, Syntax of the Moods and Tenses in N.T. Greek, Chicago, 1893. The first-named of these works having grown to such voluminous proportions, the present grammar, written in a smaller compass, may, the author hopes, find a place beside it for such persons as maintain the opinion $\mu\acute{e}\gamma a$ $\beta \iota \beta \lambda\acute{l}ov$ $\mu\acute{e}\gamma a$ $\kappa d\kappa\acute{o}v$.

The isolation of the N.T. from other contemporary or nearly contemporary writings is a hindrance to the proper understanding of it, and should by all means be avoided; illustrations are there fore drawn by the writer from the Epistle of Barnabas, the Shepherd of Hermas, the first and the so-called second Epistle of Clement, and the Clementine Homilies.

The translator has merely to add that the references have been to a great extent verified by him, and that the proofs have all passed through the hands of Professor Blass, who has introduced several additions and corrections which are not contained in the original German edition. He has also to express his thanks to the Rev. A. E. Brooke, Fellow of King's College. Cambridge, for kindly looking over the greater part of the translation in Ms. and removing some of its imperfections, and to two of his own sisters for welcome assistance in the work of transposing the third of the Indices to suit the new pagination.

H. St. J. T.

NOTE TO THE SECOND ENGLISH EDITION.

In the present edition the various minor alterations and additions introduced by the author into the second German edition (Göttingen, 1902) have been incorporated. Owing to the plates of the first English edition having been stereotyped, it has been found necessary to adhere, except at the end of the volume, to the original pagination. The bulk of the author's additions have consequently been collected into two appendices. This unavoidable arrangement may, it is feared, be a little inconvenient to the reader: the references at the foot of the pages, however, indicate in each case where the additional matter is to be found. The indices have been corrected and considerably enlarged.

PART I.

INTRODUCTION: PHONETICS AND ACCIDENCE.

§ 1. INTRODUCTION.

1. The special study of the grammar of New Testament Greek has been for the most part prompted by purely practical needs. In Greek literature as such the writings brought together in the New Testament can claim but a very modest position; and the general grammar of the Greek language can take but very limited notice of the special features which they present. Yet, on the other hand, their contents give them so paramount an importance, that in order to understand them fully, and to restore them to their primitive form, the most exact investigation even of their grammatical peculiarities becomes an absolute necessity.

The New Testament writers represent in general that portion of the population of the Hellenised East, which, while it employed Greek more or less fluently as the language of intercourse and commerce—side by side with the native languages which were by no means superseded—yet remained unfamiliar with the real Hellenic culture and the literature of classical Greek. Luke, whose Hellenic culture is unquestionable, forms an exception. But how far, in this respect, exceptions are also to be admitted in the case of Paul and the author of the epistle to the Hebrews (Barnabas), it is not, especially in the case of the first-named writer, easy to decide: at any rate the traces of classical culture in all three writers are next to nothing, whereas in the next generation a Clement of Rome, with his yuvaîkes Δαναΐδες καὶ Δίρκαι and his story of the phœnix, at once displays an entirely different character. Accordingly, the language employed in the N.T. is, on the whole, such as was spoken in the lower circles of society, not such as was written in works of literature. But between these two forms of speech there existed even at that time a very considerable difference. The literary language had always remained dependent in some measure on the old classical masterpieces; and though in the first centuries of Hellenistic influence it had followed the development of the living language, and so had parted some distance from those models, yet since the first century before Christ it had kept struggling back to them again with an ever-increasing determination, ¹Clem. ad Corinth. vi. 2: xxv.

- If, then, the literature of the Alexandrian period must be called Hellenistic, that of the Roman period must be termed Atticistic. But the popular language had gone its own way, and continued to do so until out of ancient Greek there was gradually developed modern Greek, which, however, in its literature—its prose literature in particular—is still very strongly affected by classic influences. The N.T. then shows us an intermediate stage on the road between ancient and modern Greek; on this ground, too, its language is deserving of a special treatment.
- 2. It is indeed true that for a knowledge of the popular language of the first century after Christ, as of the immediately preceding and succeeding periods, the N.T. is by no means our only source. In the way of literature not much is to be added, certainly nothing which can diminish the supreme importance of the N.T. doubtedly the Greek translations of the Old Testament show a great affinity of language, but they are translations, and slavishly literal translations; no one ever spoke so, not even the Jewish translators. Of profane literature, one might perhaps quote the discourses of Epictetus contained in Arrian's commentary as the work most available for our purpose. But, alongside of its use in literature, the spoken language is found—found, too, in its various gradations, corresponding naturally to the position and education of the speaker -in those private records, the number and importance of which is being perpetually increased by fresh discoveries in Egypt. The language of the N.T. may, therefore, be quite rightly treated in close connection with these. A grammar of the popular language of the period, written on the basis of all these various authorities and remains, would be, from the grammarian's point of view, more satisfactory than one which was limited to the language of the New Testament. The practical considerations, however, from which we set out, will be constantly imposing such a limitation; for it cannot be of the same importance to us to know what some chance Egyptian writes in a letter or deed of sale, as it is to know what the men of the N.T. have written, however true it may be that in their own day the cultured world drew no distinction between these last and the lower classes of Egyptians and Syrians, and despised them both alike.

§ 2. ELEMENTS OF THE NEW TESTAMENT LANGUAGE.

1. By far the most predominant element in the language of the New Testament is the Greek of common speech which was disseminated in the East by the Macedonian conquest, in the form which it had gradually assumed under the wider development of several centuries. This common speech is in the main a somewhat modified Attic, in which were omitted such Attic peculiarities as appeared too strange to the bulk of the remaining Greeks, and thus were at an earlier time not adopted in the language of Tragedy, such as $\tau\tau$ instead of $\sigma\sigma$ in $\theta d\lambda a \tau \tau a$ etc., and $\rho\rho$ instead of $\rho\sigma$ in $\sigma \rho \rho \eta \nu$

¹Cf. G. A. Deissmann, Bibelstudien (Marburg, 1895), p. 57 ff.

etc. As a matter of course it is the later Attic, not the older. which lies at the base of it, which explains, to take one example, the absence of any trace of a dual in this language. But as the development extended, the remaining distinctions in the language between duality and plurality were also set aside: not only is πότερος abandoned for τίς, εκάτερος for εκαστος, and so on, but above all the superlative is abandoned for the comparative: and this is a state of things which we find in the language of the N.T., but by no means in the literary language of a contemporary and later date, which affords no traces of these peculiarities. With this is connected the more limited use of the optative, and many other usages, to be discussed in their place. Another not very considerable portion of the alterations concerns the phonetic forms of declension and conjugation, under which may be classed the extension of the inflexion $-\alpha$, gen. $-\eta$ s to words in $-\rho\alpha$, and the transference of 1st agrist terminations to the 2nd agrist. A third and much larger class embraces the uses and combinations of forms and "form-words," in which a similar striving after simplification is unmistakable. Very many usages disappear; the use of the infinitive as the complement of the verb is extended at the expense of that of the participle, the objective accusative at the expense of the genitive and dative; the rules concerning ov or $\mu\eta$ are as simple as they are intricate for the classical languages. Of quite another order, and concealed by the orthography, which remained the same, are the general changes in the sounds of the language, which even at that time had been carried out in no small measure, though they were still far from attaining their later and modern dimensions. A last class is composed of changes in lexicology—for the most part the substitution of a new expression in place of the usual expression for a thing or an idea, or the approach to such a substitution, the new appearing side by side with the old as its equivalent. This, however, does not as a rule come within the province of grammar, unless the expression be a kind of "form-word," for instance a preposition, or an irregular verb, an instance of this being the present of είδον, which in general is no longer $\delta\rho\hat{\omega}$, but $\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\omega$ or $\theta\epsilon\omega\rho\hat{\omega}$. The Hellenistic language as a whole is in its way not less subject to rules nor less systematic than Attic; but it has certainly not received such a literary cultivation as the latter, because the continuous development of culture never allowed it completely to break away from the older form, which was so exclusively regarded as the standard of what the language should be.1

[•]¹ Since the κοινή had such a wide diffusion, from Italy and Gaul to Egypt and Syria, it is a priori impossible that it should have been everywhere entirely uniform, and so it is correct to speak also of an Alexandrian dialect (ή 'Αλεξωνορίων διάκετον) as a special form of it (W.-Schm. § 3, 1, note 4). Of course we are not in a position to make many distinctions in details in this respect. This is apparent even in the attempt made by Thumb, d. griech. Spr. im Zeitalter des Hellenismus, pp. 162-201. Yet even in the N.T. writers certain differences are well-marked, which have nothing to do with a more or less cultivated style, e.g. some writers, and Luke in particular, confuse eis and êν, whereas the author of the Apocalypse is able to distinguish between these prepositions.

- 2. One element of the popular languages of that time, and therefore of the New Testament language, which though not prominent is clearly traceable, is the Latin element. The ruling people of Italy intermingled with the population of all the provinces; Roman proper names were widely circulated (as the N.T. at once clearly shows in the names of its authors and the persons addressed); but appellatives (κουστωδία, δηνάριον, σουδάριον, ¹ κεντυρίων) also found admission, and some phrases, particularly of commercial and legal life, were literally translated (as τὸ ἱκανὸν ποιεῖν, λαμβάνειν = setisfacere, satis accipere). In general, however, this influence remains confined to lexicology and phraseology; in a slight degree it affects the formation of words (Ἡρφδιανοί, Χρηστιανοί, Φιλιππήσιοι = Philippē(n)ses²), in perhaps a greater degree the syntax (ἐκέλευσεν αὐτὸν ἀπαχθῆναι = duci eum iussit), still it is difficult here to determine what is due to native development of the language and what to foreign influence.
- 3. The national Hebrew or Aramaic element influenced Greekwriting Jews in a threefold manner. In the first place it is probable that the speaker or writer quite involuntarily and unconsciously rendered a phrase from his mother tongue by an accurately corresponding phrase; again, that the reading and hearing of the Old Testament in the Greek version coloured the writer's style, especially if he desired to write in a solemn and dignified manner (just as profane writers borrowed phrases from the Attic writers for a similar object); third and last, a great part of the N.T. writings (the three first Gospels and the first half of the Acts) is in all probability a direct working over of Hebrew or Aramaic materials. This was not a translation like that executed by the LXX., rendered word for word with the utmost fidelity, and almost without any regard to intelligibility; but it was convenient to adhere to the originals even in expression instead of looking for a form of expression which was good Greek. The Hebraisms and Aramaisms are, then, for the most part of a lexical kind, i.e. they consist in the meaning which is attributed to a word (σκάνδαλον is the rendering of בְּבְשׁרְבֹּ in the ethical sense, hence σκανδαλίζαν), or in phrases literally translated (as πρόσωπον λαμβάνειν Ευμκρί 'to respect the person,' hence $\pi\rho\sigma\sigma\omega\pi\sigma\lambda\dot{\eta}\mu\pi\tau\eta s - \lambda\eta\mu\psi\dot{\iota}u$); these expressions, which moreover are not too numerous, must have been current in Jewish, and subsequently in Christian, communities. In the department of grammar the influence of Hebrew is seen especially in a series of peculiarities in the use of prepositions, consisting partly of circumlocutions such as ἀρέσκειν ἐνώπιόν τινος instead of τινί, πρὸ προσώπου τῆς εἰσόδου αὐτοῦ, 'before him,' partly in an extended use of certain prepositions such as $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ ($\dot{\epsilon}\pi\dot{\iota}$) on the analogy, of the corresponding Hebrew word ($\frac{\pi}{2}$); much is also taken over in the use of the article and the pronouns; to which must be added the periphrasis for the simple tense by means of $\hat{\eta}\nu$ etc. with the participle, beside other examples.

Again Hermas, undoubtedly a representative of the unadulterated $\kappa o \nu \dot{\eta}$, uses often enough the superlative forms in $-\tau a \tau o s$ and $-\iota o \tau o s$ in elative sense, whereas the forms in $-\tau a \tau o s$ are almost entirely absent from the writers of the N.T., and even those in $-\iota \sigma \tau o s$ are only very seldom found (see §11, 3). Such cases must, then, go back to local differences within the $\kappa o \nu \dot{\eta}$, even if we can no longer rightly assign the range of circulation of individual peculiarities.

4. The literary language has also furnished its contribution to the language of the N.T., if only in the case of a few more cultured writers, especially Luke, Paul, and the author of the Epistle to the Hebrews. A very large number of good classical constructions are indeed found in the N.T., but confined to these particular writers, just as it is only they who occasionally employ a series of words which belonged to the language of literary culture and not to colloquial speech. Persons of some culture had these words and construction, at their disposal when they required them, and would even employ the correct forms of words as alternatives to the vulgar forms of ordinary use. This is shown most distinctly by the speech of Paul before Agrippa (Acts xxvi.), which we may safely regard as reported with comparative accuracy. On this occasion, when Paul had a more distinguished audience than he ever had before, he makes use not only of pure Greek proverbs and modes of speech (προς κέντρον λακτίζειν 14, οὐκ ἔστιν ἐν γωνία πεπραγμένον τοῦτο 26), but there also appears here—setting aside the Epistle of Jude²— •the only superlative in -τατος in the whole N.T. (την ακριβεστάτην αιρεσιν 5), and here only ισασιν for 'they know' (4), not οιδασιν; he must therefore have learnt somewhere (?at school), that in order to speak correct Attic Greek one must conjugate ἴσμεν ἴστε ἴσασιν. The writer of the Ep. to the Hebrews also once (12. 17) uses "ore for 've know,' although the Vulgate rendering is scitote (the imperative never had any other form). But in another place he has οἴδαμεν and not $l\sigma\mu\epsilon\nu$ (10. 30); therefore his employment of $l\sigma\tau\epsilon$ is not due to Atticism, but apparently to regard for rhythm (cp. § 82, 3). For the culture of this writer was of a rhetorical nature, the reflex, in fact, of the rhetoric and oratory of the time. Luke's culture, on the other hand, was grammatical, and to that extent Atticistic or classical: hence he occasionally reproduces the old and classical forms. noteworthy that in the artificial reproduction of the ancient language the same phenomenon repeated itself to a certain degree, which had long before occurred in the reproduction of Homeric language by subsequent poets: namely, that the imitator sometimes misunderstood, and accordingly misused, a phrase. Just as Archilochus on the strength of the Homeric line: τέκνον ἐμόν, γενεŷ μὲν ὑπέρτερός ἐστιν 'Αχιλλεύς, πρεσβύτερος δὲ σύ ἐσσι (Il. xi. 786, Menœtius to Patroclus) employed $\hat{v}\pi\epsilon\rho\tau\epsilon\rho\sigma s = \nu\epsilon\hat{\omega}\tau\epsilon\rho\sigma s$ (a sense which it never bore)⁴: so in all probability Luke (with or without precedent) used μετὰ τὴν ἄφιξίν μου in A. 20. 29 as equivalent to 'after my departure,' because he had misunderstood μετὰ τὴν ἄπιξιν (correctly 'arrival') τῆς γυναικός in Herodotus, 9, 77. The same writer has ἀπήσσαν, ἐξήσσαν (from the obsolete ἄπειμι, ἔξειμι) with the force of the agrist, ἐκείσε, ὁμόσε, in answer to the question Where? and many other instances.

§ 3. ORTHOGRAPHY.

- 1. One portion of the changes in the Greek language that have been alluded to (§ 2, 1) concerned generally the sounds and combinations of these; but in general alterations of this kind it is usual for the spelling not to imitate the new sound off-hand, and certainly not without hesitation, in the case of a word which already had a stereotyped and ordinary spelling. So, in Greek, in the time of the composition of the N.T., there was, as we know from manifold evidence of stone and papyrus, no one fixed orthography in existence, but writers fluctuated between the old historical spelling and a new phonetic manner of writing. The sound-changes, at that time not nearly so great as they afterwards became, had principally to do with the so-called adscript in the diphthongs $\bar{a}, \eta, \bar{\omega}$ (strictly $\bar{a}i, \eta i, \omega i$ with i pronounced), which, since about the second century before Christ, had become mute, and with the old diphthong ei, which from about the same period ceased to be distinguished from long i. But the writing of AI, HI, OI, EI did not on that account become obsolete, preserved as they were by their occurrence in all ancient books and literal transcripts of them; only it was no longer known in which cases \bar{a} , \bar{e} , \bar{o} should be furnished with the symbol for ι mute, and in which cases long ishould be written as EI. Many persons took the drastic measure' of omitting the i mute in all cases, even in the dative, as Strabo 1 attests, in the same way that we also find I as the prevailing spelling for $\bar{\iota}$ (though still not without exceptions) in manuscripts of the period²; others considered that in EI as against I they had a convenient means of distinguishing between \bar{i} and l, in the same way that \bar{e} and \bar{e} , \bar{v} and \bar{v} were distinguished. So $\kappa i \nu \hat{e} \hat{s}$ is sometimes KINIC, sometimes KEINEIC; and even KEINIC would be frequently written by any ordinary scribe. It was not until a later date that the historical method of writing was uniformly carried out, and even then not without occasional errors, by learned grammarians, especially Herodian of Alexandria, who taught in Rome under This was in keeping with the prevailing impulse of the time, which made for the revival of the old classical language. Since then, in spite of increasing difficulties, this method of spelling has been continuously taught and inculcated in the schools with the help of numerous artificial rules up till the present day.
- 2. It is impossible therefore to suppose, after what has been stated, that even Luke and Paul could have employed the correct historical spelling in the case of ι mute and $\epsilon\iota$; for at that time there was nobody in the schools of Antioch and Tarsus who could teach it them, certainly not in the case of $\epsilon\iota$, though some rules might be formulated at an earlier period with regard to ι mute. We are debarred from all knowledge as to how they actually did write, and it is a matter of indifference, provided that one realizes this state of things, and recognizes that e.g. $\lambda\omega$ cin stood equally well for $\delta\omega$ $\epsilon \iota \nu$ or $\delta\omega$ $\epsilon \iota \nu$. The oldest scribes whose work we possess (cent. 4-6) always kept themselves much freer from the influence of the schools than the later, i.e. they frequently wrote phonetically or according to the rule $\epsilon \iota = \bar{\iota}$ (so the scribe of B), and indeed ι mute finds no place in MSS. before the seventh century. In our case there can be no question that we should follow the Byzantine school, and consistently employ the historical spelling in the N.T., as well as in the case of all profane writers, and remove all half measures, such as those, for instance, still remaining in Tischendorf and in the Stuttgart N.T., without any regard to the MS. evidence. The recording and weighing of evidence of this kind in the case of individual words, e.g. words in $-\epsilon \iota a$, $-\epsilon a$, is the most unprofitable of tasks.

- 3. The ι mute should therefore be supplied, as the correct historical spelling, in the following words, as well as in the well-known cases: $\mu\iota\mu\nu\gamma'\sigma\kappa\epsilon\iota\nu$, $\theta\nu'\gamma\sigma\kappa\epsilon\iota\nu$ (for $-\eta$ - $\iota'\sigma\kappa\epsilon\iota\nu$), $\pi\alpha\nu\tau\alpha\chi^0$, $\pi\acute{\alpha}\nu\tau\eta$, $\epsilon i\kappa\eta^0$, $\kappa\rho\nu\phi^0$, $\lambda\acute{\alpha}\theta\rho\alpha$, $\pi\epsilon\dot{\zeta}^0$, $(\mathring{\alpha}\nu\tau\iota)\pi\acute{\epsilon}\rho\alpha^1$ (old dative forms); $\mathring{\alpha}\theta\phi\alpha$ s, $\zeta\phi\alpha\nu$, $\pi\alpha\tau\rho\phi\alpha$ s, $\iota'\pi\epsilon\rho\phi\alpha\nu$, $\psi\acute{\alpha}\nu$, $\tau\rho\dot{\phi}\alpha$ s, 'H $\rho\psi\acute{\alpha}\eta$ s (for 'H $\rho\omega\acute{\alpha}\eta$ s, from $\eta\rho\omega$ s), $\tau\rho\phi\alpha$, $\sigma\dot{\phi}\dot{\zeta}\epsilon\iota\nu$ (for $\sigma\omega$ - $\iota'\zeta\epsilon\iota\nu$). In the case of $\sigma\dot{\psi}\zeta\epsilon\iota\nu$, it is not yet satisfactorily ascertained how far the tenses partook of the ι since $\sigma\alpha\acute{\omega}\omega$ interposes itself and supplies $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\dot{\omega}\theta\eta\nu$ (for $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\alpha\dot{\omega}\theta\eta\nu$), $\sigma\omega\tau\dot{\eta}\rho$ etc.; in the active we may write $\sigma\dot{\zeta}\sigma\omega$, $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\dot{\omega}\rho\alpha$, $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\dot{\omega}\kappa\alpha$: in the perf. pass. $\sigma\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\dot{\omega}\rho\alpha\mu\alpha$ appears to be correct, like $\nu\epsilon\nu\dot{\omega}\rho\iota\sigma\rho\alpha$, but $\sigma\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\omega\tau\alpha\iota$ (A. 4. 9) on the model of $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\dot{\omega}\theta\eta\nu$. It is also doubtful whether an ι was ever present in the forms first found in Hellenistic Greek, $\delta\dot{\omega}\eta\nu$, $\gamma\nu\dot{\omega}\eta\nu$ (optat.), $\pi\alpha\tau\rho\dot{\omega}\alpha$ s, $\mu\eta\tau\rho\dot{\omega}\alpha$ s (Attic $\delta\dot{\omega}\eta\nu$, $\gamma\nu\dot{\omega}\eta\nu$, $-\lambda\dot{\omega}\alpha$ s); but since ι is essential to the optative, we may insert it in those instances. As yet there is not sufficient evidence to decide between $\tau\rho\dot{\alpha}$ os $-\pi\rho\dot{\alpha}$ os, $\tau\rho\dot{\alpha}$ or, $\tau\rho\dot{\alpha}$ or. For $\epsilon\iota$ in place of $\eta\iota$ vide infra 5.
- 4. Et for $\bar{\iota}$ is established in MSS, and editions, being found most persistently in Semitic words, especially proper names, where it would never once be without use as an indication of the length of the ι , provided only that it be correctly understood to have this meaning, and not to represent a diphthong, which is fundamentally wrong. We can, if we please, in these cases assist the pronunciation by means of the symbol for a long vowel ($\bar{\iota}$): thus $\Delta \alpha v \bar{\iota} \delta$, 'A $\delta \delta \bar{\iota}$, 'A $\chi \bar{\iota} \mu$, B $\epsilon \nu \iota \alpha \mu \bar{\iota} \nu$, 'E $\lambda \iota \alpha \kappa \bar{\iota} \mu$, 'E $\lambda \bar{\iota} \sigma \alpha \beta \epsilon \tau$,' I $\delta \bar{\iota} \rho \sigma \rho$, K $\bar{\iota} s$, $\Lambda \epsilon \nu \bar{\iota} (s)$, N $\epsilon \phi \theta a \lambda \bar{\iota} \mu$, E $\delta \pi \phi \bar{\iota} \rho a$, Ta $\delta \bar{\iota} \theta a$, X $\epsilon \rho o \nu \beta \bar{\iota} \nu$; I' $\epsilon \theta \sigma \eta \mu a \nu \bar{\iota}$, 'I $\epsilon \rho \bar{\iota} \chi \omega^5$; ' $\dot{\eta} \lambda \bar{\iota}$, $\dot{\rho} a \beta \beta \bar{\iota}$, $\tau a \lambda \bar{\iota} \theta a$,

² Ελεις, always in B, generally 8, occasionally CD, see Tisch. on L. 1. 5.

 $^{^4}$ See Kautzsch in W.-Schm. § 5, 13 a (Hebr. אָרַיִּם for בַּיִּם -).4* The spelling with η at the end as against - ϵ i, - ι has only the very slenderest attestation; even the η of the second syllable must perhaps give way to the α of the western tradition (many authorities in Mt. 26. 36: cp. Mc. 14. 32). 4* v. App. p. 327.

- 5. With regard to Greek words and names, the following must be noted for the correct discrimination between ει and ι: οἰκτίρω, not -είρω (cp. οἰκτιρμός, -ἰρμων, which in B certainly also have $\epsilon \iota \S 4, 2$). Ίκόνιον, not Είκ. (τ according to Etym. M. sub verbo, which, however, does not agree with the coins, which give i and ei; the MSS. in A. 13, 51, 14. 1 also read ι). μείγνυμι, ἔμειξα etc., μείγμα. τίνω, τείσω, ετεισα. φιλόνικος, -νικία (from νίκη). πανοικεί Α. 16. 34 (8AB¹C), $\pi \alpha \mu \pi \lambda \eta \theta \epsilon i$ L. 23. 18, see § 28, 7. There is considerable fluctuation in the language from the earliest times between -αα (proparoxyt.) and $-i\bar{a}$; $\kappa a \kappa o \pi a \theta l a$ Ja. 5. 10 (B¹P) is the form attested also for Attic Greek; ωφέλεια, however (R. 3. 1, Jude 16), already existed in Attic beside ωφέλεια. Λογία 'a collection' 1 C. 16. If. is, as Deissmann has shown from the papyri, radically wrong, and should be λογεία, from the verb λογείω, the existence of which we have also learnt from the papyri.³ The spelling στρατείας (B) 2 C. 10. 4 cannot be invalidated on the ground that in Attic στρατεία 'campaign' and στρατιά 'army' are interchanged, and the one form stands for the other; $\epsilon \pi a \rho \chi i a$ 'province' A. 25. 1 has for a variant in the MSS. not $\epsilon \pi \alpha \rho \chi \epsilon i \alpha$ but $\dot{\eta}$ $\epsilon \pi \dot{\alpha} \rho \chi \epsilon i \alpha$ (A, cp. 81), but inscriptional evidence now proves -εία to be the correct form.⁴ E_i is produced from η_i according to the later Attic usage (which converted every $\eta \iota$ into $\epsilon \iota$) in the words λειτουργός, -ία, -είν (orig. ληϊτ., then λητ.), which were taken over from Attic, and in βούλει (L. 22. 42, the literary word roots and in terminations (dat. 1st. decl., conjunct., 2 sing. pass.) remained as \bar{e} , and the use of the future for aor. conj. (§ 65, 2, 5) can on no account be explained by this Attic intermixture of the diphthongs.
- 6. H in the language of the N.T., and also in the standard MSS., is in general far from being interchanged with ι . $X\rho\eta\sigma\tau\iota a\nu o\iota$ (and $X\rho\eta\sigma\tau \delta s$) rests on a popular interpretation of the word, for in place of the unintelligible $X\rho\bar{\iota}\sigma\tau \delta s$ the heathen (from whom the designation of the new sect as $X\rho\eta\sigma\tau$. proceeded) substituted the familiar $X\rho\eta\sigma\tau \delta s$, which had a similar sound; the spelling of the word with η (in the N.T. preserved in every passage by \aleph^1 A. 11. 26, 26. 28. 1 P. 4. 16) was not completely rejected even by the Christians, and maintained its position for a very long time. 1 Κυρήνιος for Quirinius L. 2. 2 may be explained in a similar way (by a connection of it with $Kv\rho\eta\nu\eta$), but B and the Latin Mss. have $Kv\rho(\epsilon)i\nu\rho\nu$ Cyrino.² In L. 14. 13, 21 ἀνάπειρος for ἀνάπηρος is attested by quite preponderating evidence (&ABD al.), and is moreover mentioned by Phrynichus the Atticist as a vulgar form. εί μήν for η μήν H. 6. 14 (8ABD1) is attested also in the LXX. and in papyri 4; besides, all this class of variations belongs strictly to the province of correct pronunciation [orthopy], and not to that of orthography. It is the same with the doubtful γυμνήτης οτ γυμνίτης (γυμνιτεύομεν 1 C. 4. 11, with η L al., which, according to Dindorf in Steph. Thes., is the correct spelling), and σιμικίνθιον semicinctium A. 19. 12 (all MSS.), with which one might compare the comparatively early occurrence of δινάρια denarii (N.T., however, always has δην.). uncials have σιρικοῦ sericum⁶ Ap. 18. 12. The distinction made between κάμηλος 'camel' and κάμιλος 'rope' (Mt. 19, 24 etc., Suidas), appears to be a later artificiality.

- 7. At a much earlier time than the interchange of $\eta \iota$ begins that of $\alpha\iota \epsilon$ (η), appearing in passive verbal terminations already in the Hellenistic period, in the middle of a word before a vowel (and soon after universally) in the first and second centuries A.D., so that little confidence can be placed in our Mss. as a whole in this respect, though the oldest (D perhaps excepted) are still far more correct in this than in the case of $\epsilon\iota \iota$. The question, therefore, whether, in obedience to these witnesses, $\kappa\epsilon\rho\dot{\epsilon}a$ is to be written for $\kappa\epsilon\rho\alpha\dot{\epsilon}a$, $\dot{\epsilon}\xi\dot{\epsilon}\phi\nu\eta_{\rm S}$ and the like, should not be raised; the following may be specially noticed: $Ai\lambda a\mu\hat{\iota}\tau a\iota$ A. 2. 9 (B correctly)?; $\dot{\epsilon}\alpha\dot{\epsilon}\alpha\gamma\alpha\iota o\iota$ Mc. 14. 15, L. 22. 12 (on quite overwhelming evidence); $\dot{\rho}\alpha\dot{\epsilon}\delta\eta$ Mc. 14. 15, L. 22. 12 (on quite overwhelming evidence); $\dot{\rho}\alpha\dot{\epsilon}\delta\eta$ madd Ap. 18. 13 (all uncials $\dot{\rho}\dot{\epsilon}\delta\eta$); $\dot{\phi}\alpha\iota\lambda\dot{\delta}\nu\eta$ s paenula (the Greek form: strictly it should be $\dot{\phi}\alpha\iota\nu\dot{\delta}\lambda\eta$ s) 2 Tim. 4. 13 ($\dot{\epsilon}$ all uncials except L); but $\sigma\nu\kappao\mu\rho\rho\dot{\epsilon}a$ (A al. $a\dot{\epsilon}a$) L. 19. 4 (from $\sigma\nu\kappa\dot{\epsilon}\mu\rho\rho\rho\nu$, formation like $\mu\eta\lambda\dot{\epsilon}a$ from $\mu\dot{\eta}\lambda\rho\nu$).
- 8. The diphthong v_i is already from early times limited to the case where it is followed by another vowel, and even then it is contracted in Attic Greek from the fifth century onwards into v; it reappears, however, in Hellenistic Greek, being frequently indeed

- written (in inscriptions and papyri) $v\epsilon\iota$, i.e. ü-i, whereas on the other hand the inflexion $-v\hat{\iota}a$, $-v\hat{\iota}\eta s$ (§ 7, 1) seems to imply that the ι is not pronounced. The uncial MSS. of the N.T. write it throughout: it sometimes occurs in the word-division in B that the first scribe divides $v|\iota o v^1$; A has occasionally what comes to the same thing, $\ddot{v}ios$, and so D in L. 1. 18 $\pi \rho o \beta \epsilon \beta \eta \kappa v \ddot{u}a$. The diphthong ωv is non-existent (as also in Attic it may be said not to occur); $M\omega v \sigma \dot{\eta} s$ is a trisyllable, and consequently to be written $M\omega \ddot{v}\sigma \dot{\eta} s$. Hv (§ 15, 4) also in MSS. such as κA regularly has the marks of diaeresis.
- 9. Consonants. $Z-\sigma$.—The spelling $\xi\beta$, $\xi\mu$ in place of $\sigma\beta$, $\sigma\mu^3$ is widely disseminated in the Hellenistic and Roman period, in order to indicate the soft sound which σ has in this position only. This ξ , however, is found far more rarely in the middle than at the beginning of a word. In the N.T. the MSS. have $Z\mu\nu\rho\nu\alpha$ Ap. I. 11, 2. 8 (8, Latt. partly; but $\xi\mu\nu\rho\nu\alpha$ has little support, as D Mt. 2. 11, $\xi\xi\mu\nu\rho\nu\eta$ s N Jo. 19. 39); $\xi\beta\epsilon\nu\nu\nu\nu\alpha$ 1 Th. 5. 19 (B¹D¹FG).
- 10. Single and double consonant.—With regard to the writing of a single or double consonant much obscurity prevails in the Roman period. The observance of the old-Greek rule, that ρ , if it passes from the beginning to the middle of a word (through inflexion or composition), preserves the stronger pronunciation of the initial letter by becoming doubled,4 is even in Attic Greek not quite without, exceptions; in the later period the pronunciation itself must have changed, and the stronger initial ρ approximated to the weaker medial ρ , so that even a reduplication with ρ was now tolerated (ἡεραντισμένος § 15, 6). The Syriac vss., however, still represent ἡ by rh: Υώμη. The reduplication cannot be universally adopted in the N.T. without great violence to the oldest MSS., although in these also there are still sufficient remnants of the ancient practice to be found: thus all MSS. have ἔρρηξεν I. 9. 42, ἐρρέθη Mt. 5. 21, 27 etc. (always in these words, § 16, 1), see Gregory Tisch. iii. 121; ἄρρωστος always, ἄρρητος 2 C. 12. 4, χειμάρρους Jo. 18. 1 etc.; on the other hand, ἄραφος Jo. 19. 23 (ρρ B), ἐπιράπτει Mc. 2. 21 (ρρ Β²ΚΜUΓ), ἀπορίψαντες A. 27. 43 NC etc. But while this matter too belongs to orthography, the spelling $\rho\rho$ recommends itself as a general principle. $\pi a \rho \eta \sigma i a$ is wrong, since it is assimilated from παν-ρησία (παρησ. B¹ Mc. 8. 32, and passim; also ≈DL sometimes, see Tisch.)6; ἀρραβών (a borrowed Semitic word) has the metrical prosody — — guaranteed and the doubling of the consonant established in its Semitic form (ἀραβ. 2 C. 1. 22 NAFGL, 5. 5 NDE, E. 1. 14 FG), cp. also Lat. arrha.

In the case of the other liquids and all the mutes there are only isolated instances. $\beta \alpha \lambda \lambda \dot{\alpha} \nu \tau \iota \nu \nu$, not $\beta u \lambda \dot{\alpha} \nu \tau \iota \nu \nu$, is shown on quite preponderating Ms. evidence to be correct, and the orthography is also vouched for on metrical grounds. Φύγελος 2 Tim. 1. 15 CND etc., -ελλος A: the single letter appears to be the better spelling.1 In μαμωνας מברונא the duplication of the μ has very slender attestation. ἐννενήκοντα, ἔννατος are wrong; γέννημα for living creatures is correct (γενψάν, γεννάσθαι), for products of the field incorrect, since these are termed γένημα from γίνεσθαι Mt. 26. 29, Mc. 14. 25, L. 12. 18 etc. This rests on quite preponderant evidence, which is confirmed by the papyri.² On $\chi \dot{\nu}(\nu) \nu \omega$, $\kappa \tau \dot{\epsilon} \nu \nu \omega$ see § 17. 'Iωάνης the single ν is attested by the almost universal evidence of B, often by that of D³; it belongs to the series of Hellenised names $(\S 10, 2)$, which treat the an of the Hebrew termination as a variable inflection (the LXX. have 'Iwavav and 'Iwavov as var. lect., § 10, 2), whereas the interpretation of Ἰωάννης as from Ἰωαναν-ης (W.-Schm. \S 5, 26 c) affords no explanation whatever for the $-\eta_{\S}$. On the other hand, "Avva בירתן is correct, and 'Iwávva (Aram. ירתן, cp. שרשון, cp. עורשון Σουσάννα, Μαριαμ = Μαριάμμη of Josephus) is also explicable (L. 8. 3 with ν BD: 24. 10 with ν only DL); the masc. "Aννας (for τοπ Hebr., "Avavos Joseph.) might be influenced by the analogy of "Aννα.—Mutes: κράβατος appears to be commended by Lat. grūbūtus, and the duplication of the β (introduced by the corrector in B) is accordingly incorrect in any case; but for the $\tau\tau$ there is the greatest MS. authority (for which \aleph has $\kappa\tau$; the single τ in B^1 only at Mc. 2. 4). Cp. W.-Schm. § 5, note 52. 'Young is the orthography of the N.T. (1 Macc.); elsewhere 'Ιόπη preponderates (W.-Schm. § 5, note 54).

- 11. Doubling of the aspirate.—The aspirate, consisting of Tenuis + Aspiration, in correct writing naturally doubles only the first element, $\kappa\chi$, $\tau\theta$, $\pi\phi$; but at all times, in incorrect writing, the two are doubled, $\chi\chi$, $\theta\theta$, $\phi\phi$. So N.T. 'A $\phi\phi$ ía for 'A $\pi\phi$ ía (§ 6, 7) Philem. 2 D¹; Σά $\phi\phi$ ιρα A. 5. 1 DE (but σ á $\pi\phi$ (ϵ)ιρος Ap. 21. 19 in all MSS.); ϵ φ ϕ μαθα or ϵ θα Mc. 7. 34 nearly all: especially widely extended is Ma $\theta\theta$ αίος (in the title to the Gospel BD); Ma $\theta\theta$ ίας A. 1. 23, 26 B¹D; Ma $\theta\theta$ άν Mt. 1. 15 B(D); Ma $\theta\theta$ αθ (- α αθ, - α τ) L. 3. 29 κ ¹B¹.
- 12. Assimilation.—Much diversity in writing is occasioned in Greek (as also in Latin) at all periods by the adoption or omission of the assimilation of consonants, which clash with each other by reason of their juxtaposition within a word. In the classical period the assimilation is often further extended to independent contiguous words, and many instances of this are still preserved in the oldest Mss. of the Alexandrian period; at a later date there are a few remnants of it, and so we find the following in the Mss. of the

The later period, on the other hand, in accordance with its character in other matters (cp. \S 5, 1; 28, 8), was rather inclined to isolate words and even the elements of words; hence in the later papyri the prepositions εν and σύν remain without assimilation even in composition, and so also in the old MSS. of the N.T., but this more often happens with $\sigma \psi$ than with $\dot{\epsilon} \nu$, see W. H. App. 149 f., W.-Schm. § 5, 25¹. 'Εξ is everywhere assimilated to the extent that it loses the σ before consonants, both in composition and as a separately-written word; but the Attic and Alexandrian writers went further, and assimilated the guttural, so that èy was written before mediae and liquids, $\dot{\epsilon}_X$ before $\dot{\theta}$ and ϕ . But the Mss. of the N.T. are scarcely acquainted with more than $\dot{\epsilon}\xi$ and $\xi\kappa$; for $\ddot{\epsilon}\kappa\gamma\sigma\nu\alpha$ 1 Tim. 5. 4 D¹ has ἔγγονα (i.e. eggona, not engona, Blass, Ausspr. 123"), άπεγδύσει B* Col. 2. 11; ἀνέγλιπτος D L. 12. 33. We naturally carry out our rule consistently.

13. Transcription of Semitic words.—In the reproduction of adopted Semitic words (proper names in the main) the MSS. occasionally show an extraordinary amount of divergence, which is partly due to the ignorance of the scribes, partly also, as must be admitted, to corrections on the part of persons who thought themselves better informed. Thus the words on the cross in Mt. 27. 46 run as follows in the different witnesses: $\eta \lambda \epsilon \iota - \alpha \eta \lambda \iota (\dot{\alpha} \dot{\eta} \lambda \iota) - \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \omega(\epsilon) \iota(\mu), \lambda \epsilon \mu \alpha - \lambda \eta \mu \alpha$ $-\lambda(\epsilon)$ ιμα $-\lambda$ αμα, σαβαχθαν(ϵ)ι - σαβακτανει - ξαφθανει (σαφθ.); in Mc. 15. 34 $\epsilon \lambda \omega(\epsilon) \iota - \epsilon \lambda \omega \eta - \eta \lambda(\epsilon) \iota$, $\lambda \epsilon \mu a - \lambda a \mu(\mu) a - \lambda(\epsilon) \iota \mu a$, $\sigma a \beta a \gamma \theta$. $\sigma a \beta a \kappa \tau$. $-\sigma \iota \beta a \kappa \theta a \nu \epsilon \iota - (a(\beta a) \phi \theta a \nu \epsilon \iota$. Grammar, however, is not concerned with individual words, but only with the rules for the transcription of foreign sounds, which are the same for the N.T. as for the LXX.² The following are not expressed: N, T, T, J, with some exceptions, where π is represented by χ , as $Pa\chi\eta\lambda$ 'Αχάζ της, Χαρράν της, πάσχα ΝΠΟΡ, ΣΠΟ varies between 'Ραχάβ Mt. 1. 5, 'Ραάβ Η. 11. 31, Ja. 2. 25; and " by γ, as Γόμορρα Τήμε, Γάζα Τυς; 'Ακελδεμάχ Α. 1. 19 is strange for איָרָ דְּבָּרָ (cp. Σιραχ יבירא and $\gamma = \iota$ and ν ; the latter (a half-vowel, our w, not our v) blends with the preceding vowel to form a diphthong: Δανίδ, Είσα, Λευίς, Νινευίται L. 11. 324; cp. with this Σκευάς A. 19. 14 if this = Lat. Γεννησαρεθ, $-\rho\epsilon\tau$ in Mt. 14. 34, Mc. 6. 53, L. 5. 1, is incorrect, D in Mt., Mc. correctly Γεννησαρ; in Έλωσαβέθ, $-β\epsilon\tau$ the τ corresponds to Semitic $\vec{\nu}$, $\vec{\nu}$ $\vec{\nu$

§ 4. DIVISION OF WORDS, ACCENTS, BREATHINGS, PUNCTUATION.

1. In the time of the composition of the N.T. and for long afterwards the division of words was not generally practised, although grammarians had much discussion on the subject of the position of accents and breathings, as to what might be regarded as εν μέρος τοῦ λόγου and what might not. It is absent from the old MSS., and moreover continues to be imperfect in the later MSS. down to the 15th century. Of course it is the case with Greek as with other languages—the controversy of the grammarians shows it—that the individuality of separate words was not in all cases quite strictly established: words that were originally separate were by degrees blended together in such a way that it is not always perceptible at what point in the development the separation came absolutely to an end. One indication of the fact that the blending has been completed is when the constituent parts can no longer be separated by another word: ὅταν δέ, not ὅτε δ' ἄν is the correct expression, whereas ős δ' ἄν is employed; in the N.T. we also have ὧσαύτως δέ Mc. 14. 31, L. 20. 31, R. 8. 26 (on the other hand Homer has ως δ' αὖτως, which is still met with in Herodotus and Attic writers)4; τὸ δ' αὐτό, τῷ γὰρ αὐτῷ are still retained in the N.T. On the same principle the following e.g. form one word: σστις (still separable in Attic), καίπερ, τοίνυν, μέντοι, οὐδέ, οὖτε, οὐδέποτε, οὖπω (the two last separable in Att.), μήτι and μήτιγε, ώσεί, ὥσπερ, ὡσπερεί, in the N.T.

Sporadic instances like οὐκ εὖρον, οὐκ clerical errors; oux odiyos, however (where there is no former digamma in question), is not only a good variant reading in nearly all the passages in the N.T. (A. 12. 18 NA, 14. 28 N, 17. 4 B*, 19. 23 8AD, 19. 24 8, 27. 20 A; elsewhere only 15, 2, 17, 12), but is found also in the LXX, and the papyri.5

- 4. A difficult, indeed insoluble, question is that concerning the use of rough or smooth breathing in Semitic words, especially proper names. The principle carried out by Westcott and Hort appears to be rational, namely, of representing \mathbf{n} and \mathbf{r} by the smooth breathing, \mathbf{r} and \mathbf{r} by the rough, a practice which gives us many strange results: ' $A\beta\epsilon\lambda$ (\mathbf{r}), ' $A\lambda\phia\hat{\imath}$ os (\mathbf{r}), E $\ddot{\imath}$ a (\mathbf{r}), " $A\nu\nu a$ (\mathbf{r}), and ' $A\nu\nu a$ (\mathbf{r}), and ' $A\nu\nu a$ (\mathbf{r}), $\dot{\imath}$ a $\lambda\lambda\eta\lambda$ ovia (\mathbf{r}), but ' $E\beta\rhoa\hat{\imath}$ os (\mathbf{r}). The Ms. evidence, on the other hand, is deserving of little confidence in itself, and these witnesses are anything but agreed among themselves (' $H\sigma a\hat{\imath}$ as –' $H\sigma$., ' $A\beta\rho a\hat{\imath}\mu$ –' $A\beta\rho$, ' $H\lambda\hat{\imath}$ as –' $H\lambda$. etc.). Initial \mathbf{r} must, when represented by ι , receive the smooth breathing, except where Hellenisation connects the Hebrew with a Greek word with a rough breathing: ' $I\epsilon\rho\sigma\sigma\hat{\imath}\lambda\nu\mu a$ (but ' $I\epsilon\rho\sigma\sigma\hat{\imath}\lambda\hat{\imath}\mu$, ' $I\epsilon\rho\iota\chi\hat{\wp}$, in accordance with the rule). $H\sigma a\hat{\imath}$ as has dropped the \mathbf{r} (so also Aram. \mathbf{r}).
- 5. Of the remaining symbols, the familiar signs for long and short in unfamiliar words might in many cases be employed with advantage, so $\bar{\iota}$ in Semitic words as an equivalent for the $\epsilon\iota$ of the MSS. (§ 3, 4). The marks of diaeresis, which from a very early time were made use of to indicate a vowel which began a syllable, especially ι or v, are necessary or useful in cases where the ι or v might be combined with a preceding vowel to form a diphthong: 'A $\chi a i a$, 'A $\chi a i k$, 'E $\beta \rho a i v \tau i$, II $\tau o \lambda \epsilon \mu a i s$, Iái v o k i b last name was still a trisyllable in Latin when the literature was at its prime). In Semitic names, moreover, it is often a question what is a diphthong and what is not; the use of the marks of diaeresis in ancient MSS. (as in D Χοροζαϊν, Βηθσαϊδά) and the Latin translation can guide us here, thus Ἰεσσαι Jessae (-e), Ἐφραίμ Ερhraem (-em, also NL in Jo. 11. 54 -εμ),² but Καϊν, Ναϊν, Ησαΐαs, Βηθσαϊδά(ν), although in the case of Καινάν, in spite of the Latin ai and of Καϊναν in D, according to the primary Semitic form (ໆໆ) αι appears to be more correct.³

On $Ka\iota(a)\phi as$ Caiphas it is difficult to make any assertion; 4 on $Mo\tilde{\iota}\sigma\hat{\eta}s$ see § 3, 8. The hypodiastole may be employed in \tilde{o} , $\tau\iota$ for distinction, though \tilde{o} $\tau\iota$ may likewise be written (but $\tilde{o}\sigma\tau\iota s$).

6. As regards punctuation, it is certain that the writers of the N.T. were acquainted with it, inasmuch as other writers of that time made use of it, not only in MSS., but frequently also in letters and documents; but whether they practised it, no one knows, and certainly not how and where they employed it, since no authentic information has come down to us on the subject. The oldest witnesses (* and B) have some punctuation as early as the first hand; 5 in B the higher point on the line (στιγμή) is, as a rule, employed for the conclusion of an idea, the lower point (ὑποστιγμή viz. AYTON.) where the idea is still left in suspense. One very practical contrivance for reading purposes, which (although often imperfectly executed) meets us e.g. in D of the Gospels and Acts, and in D (Claromont.) of the letters of St. Paul, and which Euthalius about the middle of the 5th century employed in his editions of New Testament writings, is the writing in sense-lines ($\sigma \tau i \chi o i$), the line being broken off at every, even the smallest, section in the train of ideas, which required a pause in reading.6 Later editors are compelled to give their own punctuation, and therewith often enough their own interpretation: this they do very decidedly when they put signs of interrogation (which in the MSS. are not earlier than the 9th century) in place of full stops. Economy in the use of punctuation is not to be commended: the most correct principle appears to be to punctuate wherever a pause is necessary for reading correctly.

§-5. ELISION, CRASIS, VARIABLE FINAL CONSONANTS.

- 1. It is in keeping with the tendency to a greater isolating of individual words, which we have mentioned above (§ 3, 12) as characteristic of the language of the period, that only a very moderate use is made in the N.T., according to the MS. evidence which may here be relied on, of the combination of words by means of the ousting (clision) or blending (crasis) of the concluding vowel (or diphthong) of a word. This tendency was carried so far, that even in compound words the final vowel of the first component part was not elided (τετρα-άρχης in the N.T., in later Greek δμο-ούσιος; § 28, 8). In no case does elision take place in noun or verb forms; even in the verse of Menander, 1 C. 15. 33, there is no necessity whatever to write $\chi\rho\eta\sigma\theta$ δμιλίαι for $\chi\rho\eta\sigma\tau\dot{a}$ δμ. for the sake of the verse, since the writing with elision or in full (plene, the regular Latin usage) was always, even in verse, quite a matter for individual opinion with the ancients. The only case where a pronoun suffers elision is τοῦτ' ἔστι or τουτέστι (§ 4, 1)°; so that it is particles alone which are still coupled together with comparative frequency with other words, though here also the elision might be much more abundant than it is.² 'Aλλά, according to Gregory, out of 345 cases where a vowel follows, undergoes elision in 215 (in these statistics it must, however, be remembered that the standard MSS, are far from being always in agreement); before articles, pronouns, and particles it shows a greater tendency to combine than before nouns and verbs. $\Delta \epsilon$: δ ' δ ' δ ' frequently, otherwise combination hardly ever takes place (Ph. 2. 18 δε αὐτό κΒΡ, δ' αὐτό ACDE al.). Οὖδ' ἄν Η. 8. 4, οὐδ' οὐ Μτ. 24. 21, Η. 13. 5, οὐδ' οὕτως 1 С. 14. 21, οὐδ' ὅτι Κ. 9. 7; in οὐδ' ἴνα Η. 9. 25, C deviates from the rest with οὐδέ; the scriptio plena is more widely attested in οὐδ' εἰ A. 19. 2, οὐδ' ἡ H. 9. 18; elsewhere the final vowel remains. T_{ϵ} , $ov{\tau}_{\epsilon}$, $\mu\eta\tau_{\epsilon}$, $\ddot{a}\mu a$, $\ddot{a}\rho a$, $\ddot{a}\rho a$ etc. are not subject to elision. In prepositions, elision very seldom takes place where a proper name follows; even on inscriptions of an earlier time there was a preference for preserving the names independent and recognisable by writing the preposition in full. On the other hand, there was a tendency to elision in the case of current phrases, and where a pronoun followed: $\mathring{a}\pi'$ $\mathring{a}\rho\chi\eta$ s, $\mathring{a}\pi'$ $\mathring{a}\rho\tau\iota$, $\mathring{a}\pi'$ $\mathring{a}\upsilon\tau\upsilon$, $\mathring{a}\pi'$ $\mathring{\epsilon}\mu\upsilon$, $\mathring{\epsilon}\pi'$ $\mathring{a}\upsilon\tau\bar{\psi}$, $\kappa a\tau'$ $\mathring{\epsilon}\mu\acute{\epsilon}$, $\kappa a\tau'$ ($\kappa a\theta'$) $\mathring{\iota}\delta(a\nu$, $\kappa a\tau'$ οἶκον, μετ' ἐμοῦ, παρ' ὧν, ὑφ' ἡμῶν (ὑμῶν), ὑπ' οὐδενός (1 \mathbb{C} . 15). ' $A\nu\tau\ell$ undergoes elision only in $d\nu\theta$ ' $\delta\nu$; elision is most frequent with διά (because there were already two vowels adjacent to each other), thus $\delta i'$ $\dot{v}\pi o\mu o\nu \hat{\eta}$ R. 8. 25, $\delta i'$ $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma \dot{\sigma}\pi \tau \rho o\nu$ 1 C. 13. 12; but with proper names διὰ Ἰησοῦ R. 16. 27, διὰ ἸΗσαΐου Mt. 8. 17 (before $^{7}A\beta\rho\alpha\dot{\alpha}\mu$ H. 7. 9 $\delta\iota\dot{\alpha}$ and $\delta\iota'$ are both attested).
- 2. The use of crasis is quite limited in the N.T. In the case of the article, which affords so many instances in Attic Greek, there occur only the following in the N.T.: τοὖναντίον 2 C. 2. 7, G. 2. 7, 1 P. 3. 9 (stereotyped as a single word, hence τοὖν. δέ); τοὖνομα 'by name' Mt. 27. 57 (D τὸ ὄνομα); κατὰ ταὖτὰ (γάρ) L. 6. 23, 26, 17. 30, but even in this phrase (which is equivalent to a single word) there is not wanting strong attestation for τὰ αὖτά. 1 With καί the crasis is constant in κἄν = 'if it be but,' fairly constant in κἄν = 'even if' (but κᾶν for και ἐάν 'and if' is only sporadically found); in most places there is preponderating evidence for καγώ, καμοί, καμέ, κακεῖνος, κἀκεῖ(θεν). 2 Thus καί is only blended with the following word, if it be a pronoun or a particle; of καιλεγεν and the like there appears to be hardly a thought. 3

3. The variable ν after ι and ϵ at the end of a word became more and more firmly established in Attic Greek in the course of time, as the inscriptions show, and so passed over into the Hellenistic language as the favourite termination, though modern Greek shows us that it subsequently disappeared again. In the standard Mss. of the N.T. it is but seldom wanting, whether a consonant or a vowel follow it, or the word stands at the end of a sentence; the rule that the ν should always be inserted before a vowel and always omitted before a consonant is indeed not without a certain ratio, and receives a certain amount of early support from the usage of the papyri, but as far as we know the rule was only formulated in the Byzantine era, and the instances where it is broken are quite innumerable.4 The ν is wanting occasionally after -ε (L. 1. 3 ἔδοξε κBCD etc., $-\epsilon \nu$ AEKSA), and in $\epsilon \sigma \tau i \nu$, somewhat more often after the $-\sigma \iota$ of the plural (χαλώσι most MSS. Mc. 2. 4, ἔχουσι L. 16. 29, τιμώσι twice Jo. 5. 23), most frequently, comparatively speaking, after -ou dat. plur.; πέρυσι 6 2 C. 8. 10, 9. 2 (D*FG πέρσυ, Db πέρισυ which is elsewhere attested), and εἴκοσι (12 exx. in N.T.) remain free from it.

4. The σ of ours is also established, for the most part, in the N.T. before consonants as well as before vowels; our is only strongly attested in A. 23. 11 (NAB before $\sigma\epsilon$), Ph. 3. 17 (NABD*FG

§ 6. SPORADIC SOUND-CHANGES.

1. General sound-changes in the language of the N.T. as opposed to Attic Greek do not openly present themselves, or at least are no longer apparent, being concealed by the older orthography, which either remained unaltered or was restored by the scribes (ep. § 3, 1). Of sporadic alterations which influenced the spelling as well as the pronunciation of words, the following are noteworthy:—

 $\mathbf{A} - \mathbf{E} (\bar{a} - \eta, av - \epsilon v)$. For $a\rho$ we have $\epsilon \rho$ in $\tau \epsilon \sigma \sigma \epsilon \rho \alpha \kappa \sigma \nu \tau \alpha$ (lon., mod. Gk., also papyri) in all cases according to the earliest evidence; also τέσσερα Jo. 19. 23 NALM, Ap. 4. 6, A. 4. 9 NA etc.; but τέσσαρες, -άρων, -αρσι: τέσσερας never, but in place of it -αρες = accusative (see § 8, 2), so that we must give the regular inflection τέσσαρες, -apa etc., to the N.T. writers (= Ionic and mod. Gk. -ερες, -ερα etc.). 2 Καθαρίζειν also frequently has ερ in the MSS. (καθαρός never; cp. also μυσερός Clem. ad Cor. i. 14. 1, 30. 1 Λ): Mt. 8. 3 έκαθερίσθη Β*ΕL al. (ibid. καθαρίσθητι, 2 καθαρίσαι all MSS.), Mc. 1. 42 ἐκαθερίσθη ÀΒ*CG al. (41 καθαρίσθητι, 40 καθαρίσαι, 44 καθαρισμοῦ all MSS.); elsewhere more often with $-\epsilon \rho$, especially in A; 3 no possible paradigm results from this, $-\alpha \rho$ must be written throughout. Cp. further $\Pi \acute{a} \tau \epsilon \rho a$ for $-a \rho a$ AC A. 21. 1.—Variation between $\iota a - \iota \epsilon$ ($\upsilon a - \upsilon \epsilon$): $\psi \iota a \lambda \eta$, $\upsilon a \lambda \sigma s$, as in Attic (Ionic and Hellenistic φιέλη, νέλος Phryn. Lob. 309), χλιερός Ap. 3. 16 only in κ; vice versa, ἀμφιά(ει Β in I. 12. 28 for -έ(ει, -έννυσιν see § 17. The vulgar term πιάζω 'seize' (§ 24, ληστοπιαστής Papyr. Berl. Aeg. Mus. 325, 2) comes from the Doric $\pi\iota$ άζω = $\pi\iota$ έζω 'press,'a but has become differentiated from it ($\pi\epsilon\pi\iota\epsilon$ - $\sigma\mu\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ os 'pressed down' L. 6. 38).—a and $\epsilon\nu$ at the close of a word: ένεκεν (είν.) is Ionic and Hellenistic; the Attic ένεκα (§ 40, 6) cannot. be tolerated except in A. 26. 21, where all the witnesses have it (speech of Paul before Agrippa, cp. § 1, 4; on the other hand in 19. 32 -κα is only in NAB). The Ionic and Hellenistic εἶτεν for είτα is only found in Mc. 4. 28 ×B*L; ἔπειτεν nowhere (according to Phrynichus 124, Lob., both words are ἐσχάτως βάρβαρα). For άγγαρεύω (a word borrowed from Persian: so spelt in mod. Gk.), ŊA generally, not BC: frequent in papyri).²

- Πατρολώας, μητρολώας (§ 3, 3) were written 2. A – O, E – O. instead of -aλοίας, from άλο(ι) âν 1 Tim. 1. 9 according to NADFGL, on the analogy of πατρο κτόνος etc., when the formation of the words had been forgotten. Μεσανύκτιον Mc. 13. 35 only B*, L. 11. 5 only D*, in A. 16. 25 and 20. 7 all MSS. μεσον-; cp. μεσαστύλιον Lob. Phryn. •195. Κολοσσαί C. 1. 2 is read by nearly all MSS., but the sitle is πρὸς Κολασσαείς in AB*K(κ). The editor would bring the text and the title, which certainly did not originate with the author, into agreement; in favour of o we have the coins and nearly all the evidence of profane writers (-a- is a v.l. in Xenophon, Anab. i. 2. 6).—Ε - Ο: ἐξολοθρεύειν Α. 3. 23 κΒ³ΕΡ al. (-ε- AB*CD), ολοθρεύειν Η. 11. 28 (-ε- only ADE), ολοθρευτής 1 C. 10. 10 (- ϵ -'D*[FG]). Thus the evidence is overwhelming for the second o, which has arisen from assimilation with the first o (as in Cβολός for ¿βελός), this is also the popular spelling (mod. Gk. ξολοθρεύω); side by side with it ὅλεθρος remains constant in N.T. Buresch³ is in favour of ϵ in the N.T. and the LXX.; in the latter, where the word is extraordinarily frequent, we should write with ϵ according to A*B*(B° -0-).—In 'Aπελλη̂s A. 18. 24, 19. 1 * for 'Απολλώς ('Απολλώνιος D) it must be remembered that the names are originally identical: 'Απέλλων being Doric for 'Απόλλων. It appears in fact that in the Acts we should read $\Lambda \pi \epsilon \lambda \lambda \hat{\eta}$ s (in the a text), whereas 'Απολλώς is an interpolation from 1 C. 1. 12 etc.: the scholia also (Cramer, Caten., p. 309) seem to assume a difference with regard to the name between Acts and 1 Corinthians.
- 3. E I, I Y. The Latin i in the majority of cases where the vowel was no pure i, but inclining to i, was represented by the older Greek writers not by i but by i: $Tildet \beta \epsilon \rho i s$, $Tildet \beta \epsilon \rho i s$,

- 4. Interchange of short and long vowel (or diphthong).—A Ω . ἀνάγαιον, ἀνώγαιον (cp. on $\alpha\iota - \epsilon$, § 3, 7): the spelling with α has overwhelming authority in Mc. 14. 15, L. 22. 12 (from ἀνά-γη̂; άνωγαιον with v.l. ανόκαιον in Xenoph. Anab. v. 4. 29).—EI before a vowel easily loses its i from early times, especially in derivatives ("Aρειος πάγος, but 'Aρεοπαγίτης as in N.T.); hence may be explained η_{X} ρεώθησαν R. 3. 12 O.T. (*AB*D*G, in LXX. *A²), whereas axρείοs does not vary. But there are instances in the simple word as well: τέλεος (and τελεοῦν) often in Attic, τέλειος (and τελειοῦν, but τελεώσαι De in H. 10. 1) N.T.; πλέον also in N.T. occasionally, L. 3. 13 (-είον C), A. 15. 28 (D -είον), elsewhere πλείον, and always $\pi \lambda \epsilon i \omega v$, $\pi \lambda \epsilon i \omega v$ etc. (Attic also has $\pi \lambda \epsilon i \omega v$); in the derivatives always πλεονεξία, -εκτείν.—Ν.Τ. always έσω (Homer and tragedians have εἴσω and ἔσω); on the other hand, εἴνεκεν with lengthened vowel (Ionic; είνεκα is found in Attic Gk. as well, even in prose) is an alternative for ενεκεν in L. 4. 18, O.T. (also LXX. Is. 61. 1; supra p. 20, note 4), A. 28. 20 8*A, 2 C. 3. 16 (most MSS.).— $O - \Omega$: $\pi \rho \omega \iota \mu o s$ (from $\pi \rho \omega \dot{\iota}$) and $\pi \rho \dot{\sigma} \dot{\iota} \mu o s$ Ja. 5. 7 (o AB^*P) are comparable with $\pi\lambda\omega\mu\omega$ (Att.) and $\pi\lambda\omega\omega\omega$ (late writers). For χρε-οφειλέτης L. 7. 41, 16. 5 we should not write χρεωφ. (which has less authority); nor should we replace the correct Στωικός A. 17. 18 by Στοϊκός of NAD al.—[Υ – ΟΥ: κολλύριον Αp. 3. 18 NBC, -ούριον AP does not belong here, on account of the long v; the latter form, which is found elsewhere, is certainly of Latin origin.] A peculiar word is $\delta\mu\epsilon\ell\rho\rho\mu\alpha\iota$ or $\delta\mu$, which is equivalent to $\iota\mu\epsilon\ell\rho\rho\mu\alpha\iota$ ($\epsilon\pi\iota\theta\nu\mu\hat{\omega}$) in sense, 1 Th. 2. 8 (in O.T. sporadically), but cannot easily be connected with $t\mu\epsilon i\rho$. (from $t\mu\epsilon \rho os$); but $\mu\epsilon i\rho o\mu a\iota$ appears to exist in this sense (Nicand. Theriac. 403), cp. (δ)δύρομαι, (δ)κέλλω, and the like, Kühner, I³, i. 186.
- 5. Contraction and loss of vowel.—In contraction the Hellenistic language, as appears from its inflections, does not go quite so far as the Attic. Still νεομηνία for Att. νουμηνία in Col. 2. 16 is only attested by BFG (LXX. occasionally): while ἀγαθοεργεῖν (1 Tim. 6. 18; ἀγαθουργῶν Α. 14. 17, v.l. ἀγαθοποιῶν) arises from the endeavour to keep the two halves of the compound word recognisable, § 28, 8

³ See W.-H. 152 a, W.-Schm. § 16, 6.

(always κακοῦργος, ἱερουργείν etc.).¹ An entirely new kind of contraction \P s that of ιει = ii into τ: ταμεῖον from ταμιεῖον, πεῖν (pīn) from πιεῖν, see \S 24, ἐπείκεια B* Acts 24. 4^2 (so also ὑγεῖα for ὑγίεια, no instances in N.T.). In νεοσσός, νεοσσία, νεοσσίον contraction never took place, but the ε dropped out in (Ionic and) Hellenistic Gk.: so in N.T. νοσσός L. 2. 24 κBE al., νοσσιά with ν.l. νοσσία 13. 34, Mt. 23. \P 37 (condemned by Phryn. 206, Lob.). In ἐλεινός (Att.) for ἐλεεινός it must be remembered that the spelling ελεινος (Ap. 3. \P 7 AP, 1 C. 15. 19 FG) may also represent ελείνος, and moreover, contraction in the N.T. is improbable. The reflexives in Hellenistic Gk. are σεῶντοῦ, ἐᾶντοῦ (and ἐμᾶντοῦ), \S 13, 1; the conjunction 'if' is ἐάν, \S 26, 4, a form which is also very largely introduced to express the potential particle (ibid.)

- 6. Prothetic vowels.—The only points to note under this head are that $\theta \in \lambda \omega$ always stands for $\theta \in \lambda \omega$; on the other hand $\kappa \in \lambda \omega$ never stands for $\theta \in \lambda \omega$: Similarly $\chi \in \lambda \omega$ is not found, but only $\theta \in \lambda \omega$ (also the prevalent Attic form) Jo. 4. 52 NAB*CD al., A. 7. 28 NB*CD, H. 13. 8 NAC*D*M. On $\theta \in \lambda \omega$ vide supra 4.
- 7. Interchange of consonants.—The main point under this head is that the Hellenistic language did not adopt the Attic substitution of $\tau\tau$ for $\sigma\sigma$ or of $\rho\rho$ for $\rho\sigma$, though isolated instances of this were continually intruding into it from the literary language, especially as Atticising writers naturally imitated this peculiarity as well as others. In the N.T. for σσ we have: θάλασσα, πράσσω, ταράσσω, έκπλήσσομαι (ττ A. 13. 12 B) περισσός; also κρείσσων Pauline epp. on preponderant evidence (1 C. 7. 38, 11. 17, Ph. 1. 23, only 1 C. 7. 9 -ττ- *BDE), but κρείττων Hebrews (ττ 1. 4, 7. 7, 19, 22, 8. 6 [twice], 9. 23, 11. 16, 35, 40, 12. 24, there is diversity only in 9, where ττ is read by D*K, and 10. 34 σσ κA) and Petrine epp.
 P. 3. 17; doubtful 2 P. 2. 21). To this corresponds ησσων, ήσσοῦσθαι in St. Paul (1 C. 11. 17, 2 C. 12. 13, 15), but the literary words ήττασθαι, ήττημα are read with ττ even in his letters, 2 P. 2. 19 f., R. 11. 12, 1 C. 6. 7; ἐλάσσων Jo. 2. 10, R. 9. 12 O.T.; έλάττων H. 7. 7, 1 Tim. 5. 9 (all MSS.; cp. § 2, 4); literary words, έλαττονεῖν 2 C. 8. 15 O.T.; ἐλαττοῦν Η. 2. 7 (9) O.T., Jo. 3. 30. (ττ is also occasionally found in Hermas: Vis. iii. 7. 6 ἔλαττον; Sim. ix. 27. 4 έλάττους; 9. 6 έλάττωμα). Similarly σήμερον always takes the place of Att. τήμερον.—With regard to Att. ρρ for ρσ the usage is more evenly divided. "Αρσην Gospels, Ap. 12. 5 (but ἄρ(ρ)ενα ΝΒ, clearly a correction for ἄρσεν), R. 1. 27 [twice] (ρρ [C]), G. 3. 28 (ρρ *), 1 C. 6. 9, 1 Tim. 1. 10°; but along with $\theta \acute{a}\rho \sigma os$, $\theta \acute{a}\rho \sigma \epsilon \iota$, $\theta a\rho \sigma \epsilon \iota \tau \epsilon$, which are constant, we find (in Paul. epp. and Hebr.), θαρρείν 2 C. 5. 6, 8, 7. 16, 10. 15, H. 13. 6 (also mod. Gk. $\theta a \rho \rho \hat{\omega}$; but Apoc. Petr. 5 $\theta a \rho \sigma \dot{\eta} \sigma a \nu \tau \epsilon s \pi a \rho a \theta a \rho \sigma \dot{\nu} \nu \epsilon \iota \nu$); for the vulgar $\mu\alpha\kappa\rho\dot{\alpha}\nu$, $\mu\alpha\kappa\rho\dot{\alpha}\theta\epsilon\nu$ Lc. and Hebr. give $\pi\dot{\alpha}\rho\rho\omega(\theta\epsilon\nu)$ L. 14. 32, 17. 12. 24. 28. H. 11. 13 (Mt. 15.8 = Mc. 7. 6 O.T.; μακράν καὶ πόρρω Barn. 20. 2).—Apart from these, there is hardly anything worthy of Fluctuation in the aspiration of consonants: $\sigma\pi - \sigma\phi$ (also fluctuate in Attic) in $\sigma\pi\nu\rho$ is, $\sigma\phi\nu\rho$ is Mt. 15. 37 $(\sigma\phi$ - D), 16. 10 (σφ- BD), Mc. 8. 8 (σφ- NA*D), 8. 20 (σφ- D), A. 9. 25 (σφ- NC, hiat D); σφόγγος D Mc. 15. 36 (not Mt. 27. 48; σφ- is also Attic); $\sigma\tau - \sigma\theta$: $\mu\alpha\sigma\tau$ os Ap. 1. 13 BCP, $-\sigma\theta$ os \aleph , $\mu\alpha\zeta$ os A (ζ orig. $=\sigma\delta$, so still in N.T. The π in 'Απφία ('Αφφία, see § 3, 11), Philem. 2, is aspirated, as in inscriptions of the regions (Phrygia, Caria) to which Appia belonged, where the name is fre-The Attic πανδοκείον, πανδοκεύς for -χείον, -χεύς (Lob. In ov $\theta \epsilon is$, $\mu \eta \theta \epsilon is$ the δ of ov $\delta(\epsilon)$, $\mu\eta\delta(\grave{\epsilon})$ has united, contrary to rule, with the aspirate of $\epsilon\hat{l}$ s to form θ (elsewhere $\theta = \tau + \text{aspirate}$); these forms occur from the latter part of the Attic period onwards, in writers (Aristot.), on inscriptions, and on papyri, and so, too, in the N.T. (and LXX.) occasionally: $\mu\eta\theta\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ A. 27. 33 NAB; οὐθενός L. 22. 35 ABQT al., 2 C. 11. 8 NBMP; οὐθέν L. 23. 14 NBT, A. 15. 9 BHLP, 19. 27 NABHP, 26. 26 NB, 1 C. 13. 2 NABCD^cL (thus this spelling is by no means universal). Still έξουθενεῖν is the prevalent form (as also in LXX.; only in Mc. 9. 12 BD have $-\delta \epsilon \nu \eta \theta \hat{\eta}$). W. Schm. § 5, 27, n. 62 (Herm. Mand. iv. 2. 1 οὐθέν  Sim. ix. 4. 6; Clem. Cor. i. 33. 1, 45. 7 μηθαμώς, i.e. μηδὲ ἀμῶς).

8. Insertion and omission of consonants.— $\Lambda \alpha \mu \beta \acute{a} \nu \omega$ in Hellenistic Gk. retains in all forms and derivatives with the stem $\lambda \eta \beta$ the μ of the present tense: $\lambda \eta \mu \phi \theta \eta \nu$, $\lambda \eta \mu \psi \iota s$, $\pi \rho \sigma \omega \omega \sigma \delta \eta \mu \pi \tau \eta s$ etc., § 24, W.-Schm. § 5, 30.° The addition of μ in $\epsilon \mu \pi i(\mu) \pi \lambda \eta \mu \iota$, $\epsilon \mu \pi i(\mu) \pi \rho \eta \mu \iota$ is as variable in Attic as in Hellenistic Gk. (W.-Schm. ibid.); N.T. $\epsilon \mu \pi \iota \pi \lambda \hat{\omega} \nu$ A. 14. 17 (with μ DEP), $\epsilon \mu \pi \iota \pi \rho \hat{a} \hat{\sigma} \theta \alpha \iota$ 28. 6 8* for $\pi \iota \mu \pi \rho \hat{a} \sigma \theta a \iota (\pi \iota \pi \rho)$. A; elsewhere uncertainty about the μ only exists in the case of these compounds with $\epsilon\mu$ -).—Insertion of cons. for euphony (ἀν-δ-ρός, μ εσημ-β-ρία) takes place in many Semitic names (E σ - δ - $\rho \alpha s$, M $\alpha \mu$ - β - $\rho \hat{\eta}$), in the N.T. $\Sigma \alpha \mu \psi \dot{\omega} \nu$, i.e. $\Sigma \alpha \mu$ - π - $\sigma \dot{\omega} \nu$, H. 11. 32 (Ίστραήλ D L. 2. 32, etc.).—σφυδρόν for σφυρόν A. 3. 7 AB*C* is unexplained. μογγιλάλος Mc. 7. 32 has no authority (μογιλάλος = ὁ μόγις λαλῶν, and so with one γ in NAB*DGK al.: also LXX. Is. 35. 6: B^{corr.} is the first to write $\gamma\gamma$). The excision of a consonant (accompanied by lengthening of a vowel) appears in γίνομαι, γῖνώσκω (Ionic and Hellenistic); also noticeable is ἄρκος = ἄρκτος Ap. 13. 2 (all uncials), found also in the LXX. and elsewhere in the late language (W.-Schm. § 5, 31).

• § 7. FIRST AND SECOND DECLENSIONS.

- 1. Words in $-\rho \tilde{\alpha}$ and those in $-v\hat{\iota}a$, i.e. $-v\hat{\iota}a$ (§ 3, 8) follow the pattern of those in $-\sigma \sigma a$, $-\lambda \lambda a$ etc., i.e. they take in G.D. ηs , η instead of Att. $\tilde{a}s$, \tilde{q} . (On the other hand those in $-\rho \tilde{a}$ [$\tilde{\eta}\mu\dot{\epsilon}\rho\tilde{a}$], and in true $-\iota a$ [$\tilde{\iota}\lambda\dot{\eta}\partial_{\epsilon}\iota a$, $\mu\dot{\iota}\check{a}$] retain a throughout the sing.) $\Sigma\pi\dot{\epsilon}\hat{\iota}\rho a$, $-\eta s$ (A. 10. I etc.), $\mu \alpha \chi a\dot{\iota}\rho \eta$ (A. 12. 2), $\pi\lambda\eta\mu\mu\dot{\iota}\rho\eta s$ (L. 6. 48), $\pi\rho\dot{\iota}\rho\eta s$ (A. 27. 30), $\Sigma\dot{a}\pi\dot{\phi}\epsilon\iota\rho a$, $-\eta$ (5. 1), $\sigma\upsilon\dot{\epsilon}\iota\dot{\rho}a$ (adj.), $\sigma\tau\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\iota}\rho a$ L. 1. 36 all MSS.
- 2. The inflection \bar{a} , G. $\bar{a}s$, etc. in proper names is not confined to words where a definite sound (ϵ, ι, ρ) precedes, any more than it is in Attic. Mé $\rho\theta a$, -as Jo. 11. 1; $\Lambda \dot{\nu}\delta\delta a$, -as (?) A. 9. 38 (cp. § 10, 5). To this corresponds the inflection of masc. names, N. $\bar{a}s$, G. \bar{a} (as in Doric etc.), D. a, A. $\bar{a}\nu$, V. \bar{a} : Yor δas , -a (Mc. 6. 3); 'A $\gamma \rho i\pi\pi as$, - \bar{a} (A. 25. 23). Cp. § 10, 1. (On the other hand, -ias, -iov: so Za $\chi a\rho ias$, -ov L. 1. 40, 3. 2, beside "A $\nu \nu a$ and Ka $\bar{u}a\phi a$; 'H λiov , 1. 17 [-a NB], 4. 25, like Att. Ka $\lambda \lambda \lambda ias$, -ov.)
- 3. Peculiarities.— $\theta\epsilon\dot{a}$ A. 19. 27 occurs in the formula $\dot{\eta}$ $\mu\epsilon\gamma\dot{a}\lambda\eta$ $\theta\epsilon\dot{a}$ "Aprems (as in inscriptions); but ibid. 37 $\dot{\eta}$ $\theta\epsilon\dot{o}$ s, which is the usual Att. form.— $\theta\epsilon\dot{o}$ s, voc. $\theta\epsilon\dot{\epsilon}$, Mt. 27. 46 is unclassical, occasionally in LXX.; cp. Synt. § 33, 4.
 - 4. Contracted words in Decl. I. and II.—Βορράs, G. â, L. 13. 29, Ap. 21. 13 (Att. and later writers have βορέαs and βορράs). The use of contracted words of Decl. II. is very limited: νοῦς and πλοῦς are transferred to Decl. III. (§ 9, 3); χειμάρρον Jo. 18. 1 is no doubt from -ρρος; ἀστοῦν Jo. 19. 36 O.T., but uncontracted ἀστέα L. 24. 39 (D ἀστᾶ); -έων Mt. 23. 27, Eph. 5. 30 T.R., H. 11. 22,² like χρυσέων Ap. 2. 1 AC, -έους 4. 4 %, -έας 5. 8 % (cp. Clem. Hom. x. 8 χρυσέους, ἀργυρέους, χρύσεα, ἀργύρεα, χάλκεα; xvii. 3 χάλκεα, χρύσεα); but this uncontracted form is in no passage read by all MSS., and alternates with much more numerous examples of contraction in this adj. (and in the adjectives ἀπλοῦς, διπλοῦς) in Ap. and elsewhere. Cp. W. Schmidt de Joseph. eloc. 491 f. Χρυσᾶν Ap. 1. 13 κ*AC is a gross blunder, wrongly formed on the model of χρυσᾶς 1. 12 (?).
 - 5. The so-called Attic second declension is wanting, with the exception of the formula ἴλεώς σοι (v.l. ἴλεως) Mt. 16. 22; cp. ἴλεως v.l. -εος H. 8. 12 (Hermas, Sim. ix. 23. 4; ἴλεων [-εως A] Clem. Cor. i. 2. 3). ᾿Ανώγεων Mc. 14. 15 (-άγαιον, -ώγαιον are the best attested readings), L. 22. 12 (-άγαιον, -ώγαιον, -αγεον, -ωγεον) is an incorrect form; ἡ ἔως is non-existent, αὐγή taking its place; λαός, ναός stand for λεώς, νεώς; ἡ ἄλων, -ωνος for ἡ ἄλως. Ἡ Κῶς Α. 21. 1, acc. Κῶ for Κῶν (like late Attic), is declined in this case after the manner of αἰδώς Decl. III.

§ 8. THIRD DECLENSION.

- 1. Accusative singular in a and v.—The late-Greek forms in -av for a (inscriptions, papyri: found quite early in dialects), on the analogy of Decl. I. are frequently found in MSS., Mt. 2. 10 ἀστέραν κ*C, Jo. 20. 25 χείραν AB, A. 14. 12 Δίαν DEH al., ἄρσεναν Ap. 12. 3 A, εἰκόναν 13. 14 A, μηναν 22. 2 (Tisch. on H. 6. 19); they do not deserve to be adopted. In words in $-\eta s$ the accus, in $-\eta \nu$ is not unknown to Attic $(\tau \rho \iota \eta \rho \eta \nu, \Delta \eta \mu o \sigma \theta \dot{\epsilon} \nu \eta \nu)$, but occurs only in barytone words [paroxyt. or proparoxyt.]; in the N.T. the following are incredible: ἀσφαλην (?accent) H. 6. 19 ACD, συγγενην R. 16. 11. AB*D*, ἀσεβην R. 4. 5 8D*FG, ὑγιην Jo. 5. 11 8*.—In barytones in -15 with τ δ in the stem, the regular Attic accus. is -1 ν , and so too in the N.T. χάριν etc. are the usual forms: but χάριτα A. 24. 27 (-11 8*EL), 25. 9 A, Jd. 4 AB, Hellenistic according to Moeris (papyri). 1 Cp. κλείδα L. 11. 52 (LXX.; Attic has κλείν and so Ap. 3. 7, 20. 1, and also D in Luke, but according to Justin we should read in Ap. τàs κλείς, infra 2).
- 2. Accusative plural (assimilation to the nominative plural).— The old termination (ν) s in vowel stems $(\tau o \hat{\nu} s \beta \delta \tau \rho \bar{\nu} s, \tau o \hat{\nu} s \beta o \hat{\nu} s)$ has disappeared in Hellenistic Gk., and these words are inflected with α_s : Mt. 14. 17 $i\chi\theta \dot{\nu} as$, Jo. 2. 14 $\beta \dot{\nu} as$. But $\kappa\lambda \epsilon \hat{\iota} s \kappa\lambda \epsilon \hat{\iota} \nu \tau \dot{\alpha} s \kappa\lambda \epsilon \hat{\iota} s$, Ap. 1. 18 $(\kappa\lambda \epsilon \hat{\iota} \delta as B)^a$ —For -as we have $-\epsilon s$ in the MSS. (accus. = nom.: old dialects and late Gk.²) in the case of $\tau \dot{\epsilon} \sigma \sigma a \rho \epsilon s$ (§ 6, 1), A. 27. 29 8, Jo. 11. 17 8 Δ , Ap. (4. 4), 7. 1 A twice, P once, 9. 14 8 (so still more often in LXX.). So also we have by assimilation (like $a\hat{\iota}$ and $\tau \dot{\alpha} s \pi \dot{\alpha} \lambda \epsilon \iota s$, $\tau \rho \iota \dot{\eta} \rho \epsilon \iota s$) of and $\tau o \dot{\nu} s \beta a \sigma \iota \lambda \epsilon \dot{\iota} s$ in Hellenistic Gk., and this accus. plur. is regular in N.T. for all words in $-\epsilon \dot{\nu} s$.
- 3. Relation of the nominative to the cases (inflection with or without consonant).—The inflection -as, $aos = \omega s$, as $\gamma \hat{\eta} \rho as$, - ωs , $\kappa \hat{\epsilon} \rho as$, - ωs , has almost disappeared. $\Gamma \hat{\eta} \rho as$, dat. $\gamma \hat{\eta} \rho \epsilon \iota$ in L. 1. 36 (as, in Ionic: so usually in LXX., where also the gen. $\gamma \hat{\eta} \rho ov s$ occurs, as in Clem. Cor. i. 63. 3; ibid. 10. 7 $\gamma \hat{\eta} \rho \epsilon \iota$, v.l. - α). Ké ρas , $\tau \hat{\epsilon} \rho as$ take τ (as in Attic and always in Hellenistic Gk. $\tau \hat{\epsilon} \rho a \tau a$, $\tau \hat{\epsilon} \rho a \tau a$ Ap. 13. 1, $\tau \hat{\epsilon} \rho a \tau a$ Mt. 24. 24. We have only $\kappa \rho \hat{\epsilon} a$ and plur. $\kappa \rho \hat{\epsilon} a$ R. 14. 21, 1 C. 8. 13 (other cases wanting).

There is most attestation for the consonantal inflection with ν for all cases of the comp. in $-\omega \nu$: exceptions are almost confined to the Acts (πλείους nom. or acc. A. 13. 31, 19. 32, 21. 10, 23. 13, 21, . 24. 11, 25. 6, 14: but -ves, -vas 27. 12, 20, 28. 23) and John (μείζω, * -ονα 1. 51, ἐλάσσω 2. 10, μείζω ABE al. -ων, D -ονα 5. 36, ἐλώσσω 2. 10, a few MSS. -σσων or -σσον, πλείους 4. 41, elsewhere Mt. 26. 53 πλείω or -ovs). On the other hand the δ is omitted not only in νήστεις Mt. 15. 22, Mc. 8. 3, wrongly written νήστις—the vulgar nom. was νήστης, [Herodian] Cramer, An. Ox. iii. 248, hence νήστεις like $\dot{a}\lambda\eta\theta\epsilon\hat{i}$ ς (although the so-called Herodian speaks of declining like the 1st declension)—but also in έρεις (acc.) Tit. 3. 9 *AD al. (ἔριν *DE al., but in the middle of words that are clearly plurals), G. 5. 20 (nom. with v.l. έρις sing.), 2 C. 12. 20 (ditto), ep. v.l. in 1 C. 3, 3, 1 Tim. 6. 4; side by side with εριδες 1 C. 1. 11 all MSS. (έρεις acc. in Clem. Cor. i. 35, 5).—Assimilation of the nom. to the oblique cases takes place in Hellenistic Gk. in words in -ts, -îvos when $t\nu$ is substituted for $\bar{t}s$ ($\hat{\rho}(\nu)$, $\Sigma a\lambda a\mu(\nu)$, and so in N.T., $\hat{\eta}$ $\hat{\omega}\hat{c}(\nu)$ 1 Th. 5. 3 (ἀκτίν Apoc. Petr. 7).

- 4. Open and contracted forms.—'Ορέων Ap. 6. 15 (Hermas, Sim. ix. 4. 4 etc.; Clem. Cor. i. 10, 7), and χειλέων H. 13. 15 (from LXX. Hos. 14. 3) show the widespread tendency, which is apparently not wholly foreign to Attic, to leave this case uncontracted in words in os. (But ἐτῶν A. 4. 22, 7. 30 etc.) On the other hand we have πῆχυς, πηχῶν for πήχεων Jo. 21. 8 (·εων A), Ap. 21. 17; ¹ ημισυς (a barytone adj. in vs: βαθύς etc. are never so inflected) has ἡμίσους for -εος Mc. 6. 23 (Apoc. Petr. 27), ἡμίση L. 19. 8 ΓΠ ·(D²), with the var. lect. ἡμίσ(ε)ια κΒLQ, τὰ ημισυ ARΔ(D*). 'Ημίσεια would be a not impossible assimilation to ἡ ημίσεια; ἡμίσους and -ση are attested as Hellenistic.² 'Υγιής, ὑγιῆ Jo. 5. 11, 15 etc. are Hellenistic (Attic has ὑγιᾶ as well)
 - 5. Genitive - ϵ os and - ϵ os. $\beta \alpha \theta \dot{\epsilon} \omega s$ L. 24. I (on preponderant evidence), and $\pi \rho \alpha \dot{\epsilon} \omega s$ 8BKL 1 P. 3. 4 are mistakes of the popular language (see Lobeck, Phr. 247) for - ϵ os (otherwise there is no instance of the gen. of the adj. in - ϵ s).
 - 6. Peculiarities.— 'Salt' in Attic is οἱ ἄλες, in N.T. τὸ ἄλας, Mt. 5. 13 twice (ἄλα [cp. τὸ γάλα] κ twice, D once), Mc. 9. 50 twice (ἄλα οπος κ*, twice LΔ), L. 14. 34 (ἄλα κ*D), no doubt derived from τοὺς ἄλας, and inflected like τέρας: ἄλατι Col. 4. 6. This form is also characteristic of the common language, according to Herodian ii. 716, Lentz. (In Mc. 9. 49 D has ἀλί in a clause from Levit. 2. 13 which is wanting in κΒLΔ; ibid. 50, acc. ἄλα κ*Α*ΒDLΔ, ἄλας κ*Α²CN al.)—Ναῦς only occurs in A. 27. 41 τὴν ναῦν (literary word = vulgar τὸ πλοῦον).—"Ορνιξ 'a hen' nom. sing. L. 13. 34 (cp. Doric gen. ὄρνιχος); ³ for 'bird' N.T. has ὅρνεον Ap. 18. 2 etc. (also Barn. 10. 4, Clem. 1 Cor. 25. 2, Herm. Sim. ix. 1, 8).— Συγγενίς, -εῖς, dat. plur. -εῦσι (like γονεῖς, -εῦσι) Mc. 6. 4 (-έσιν κ* [om. κ*] AB²CD* al.), L. 2. 44 Β*LΧΔΛ; according to [Herodian] Cram. An. Ox. iii. 246 others even said -νεῦσι.

§ 9. METAPLASMUS.

- 1. Fluctuation between neuter and masculine in Declension II.— Δάπνος for -ον is only a v.l. in L. 14. 16, Ap. 19. 9 (B), 17. Δεσμός has plural δεσμά (old) L. 8. 29, A. 16. 26, 20. 23, and δεσμοί (old) Ph. 1. 13 (without distinction). Ζυγός 'yoke' (in use since Polyb.) never ζυγόν. Θεμέλιον, plur. -α A. 16. 23 (Hom. LXX.; Herm. Sim. ix. 14. 6; Attic, according to Moeris), elsewhere δ θεμέλιος 1 C. 3. 11 f., 2 Tim. 2. 19, Clem. Cor. i. 33. 3 etc. (strictly sc. λίθος; Attic). 'Ο νώτος R. 11. 10 Ο.Τ. quot. (class. τὸ νώτον). Σίτος, plur. σῖτα A. 7. 12 HP (Att. and LXX.; σιτία read by NAB etc. does not suit the sense). Στάδιον has plur. στάδια Jo. 6. 19 Ν*D, and σταδίονς Νουτ. ABL al.: the latter also occurs in L. 24. 13 and Ap. 21. 16 AB al. with v.l. -ίων (both plurs. are Attic).
- 2. Fluctuation between Declensions I. and II.—Compound substantives with $\mathring{a}\rho\chi\epsilon\nu$ in their second half are formed with $\mathring{a}\rho\chi\sigma$ in Attic, in (dialectic and) Hellenistic Gk. more often with $\mathring{a}\rho\chi\eta$ s (Decl. I.), Kühner, i. 3, i. 502. So in N.T. $\mathring{\epsilon}\theta\nu\mathring{a}\rho\chi\eta$ s, $\pi a\tau\rho\iota\mathring{a}\rho\chi\eta$ s, $\pi o\lambda\iota\tau\mathring{a}\rho\chi\eta$ s, $\tau \epsilon\tau\rho\mathring{a}\rho\chi\eta$ s ('A $\sigma\iota\mathring{a}\rho\chi\mathring{\omega}\nu$ Acts 19. 31), also $\mathring{\epsilon}\kappa\mathring{a}\tau\sigma\nu\tau\mathring{a}\rho\chi\eta$ s centurio Mt. 8. 13 ($\mathring{\epsilon}\chi\mathring{\omega}\nu\mathring{\omega}\nu\mathring{\omega}$), and in the majority of places in the Acts; but $\chi\iota\mathring{\lambda}\iota\mathring{a}\rho\chi\sigma$ s tribunus always, $\mathring{\epsilon}\kappa\mathring{a}\tau\mathring{\sigma}\nu\tau\mathring{a}\rho\chi\sigma$ s A. 22. 25 and often (with much variety of reading about the vowel); $\sigma\tau\rho\mathring{a}\tau\sigma\mathring{\tau}\acute{\epsilon}\mathring{\sigma}\rho\chi\sigma$ s or $\mathring{\epsilon}\eta\mathring{\sigma}$ 16, an addition of the $\mathring{\beta}$ text (om. NAB). Supervápiou A. 28. 8 according to Moeris is Hellenistic for $\mathring{\epsilon}\rho\mathring{\iota}\mathring{a}$, Lob. Phryn. 518. Hyos, $\mathring{\sigma}$ (in L. 21. 25 $\mathring{\tau}\mathring{\sigma}$), see 3), L. 4. 37, A. 2. 2, H. 12. 19, similarly stands for $\mathring{\eta}\chi\mathring{\eta}$ (Moeris).
- 3. Fluctuation between Declensions II. (I.) and III.—The exx. of interchange of -os masc., Decl. II., and -os neut., Decl. III., have somewhat increased in number, in comparison with those in the classical language. The Attic δ theos becomes τὸ ἔλεος in LXX. and N.T. always (exc. Mt. 9. 13 ἔλεον C3EFG etc.: 12. 7 ἔλεον EG etc., 23. 23 τον έλεον CΛΔΠ: Η. 4. 16 έλεον CbDeEL: Tit. 3. 5 τον ἔλεον D·KL), with gen. ἐλέους, dat. ἐλέει (the original forms, if we may judge from the old derivative έλεεινός, ep. φαεινός from φάος, and the compound νηλεής). 'O ζήλος is the class, and also the usual N.T. form; τὸ ζ. (nom. or acc.) 2 C. 9. 2 NB, Ph. 3. 6 N*ABD*FG, with gen. ζήλους A. 5. 17 only B* (Clem. Cor. i. 6. 1, 2, 9. 1 etc. τὸ; 5. 2, 4, 5 etc. ὁ). "Hχους Ľ. 21. 25 for ηχου (see 2). Θ θάμβος (ancient) for τό L. 4. 36 D (θ. μέγας), cp. A. 3. 10 θάμβου C. Τὸ πλοῦτος (nom. or acc. sing.) 2. C. 8. 2 BCP, E. 1. 7, 2. 7, 3. 8, 16, Th. 4. 19, Col. 1. 27 (also δ πλ. Ν), 2. 2 (neut. Ν*ABC), is attested on preponderant or very good evidence; elsewhere (even E. 1. 18) δ πλ., and always gen. πλούτου. Τὸ σκότος (cp. σκοτεινός). is universally found (earlier δ and $\tau\delta$): in H. 12. 18 $\sigma\kappa\delta\tau\omega$ is a wrong reading for ζόφω. Fluctuation between -os neut. and -a, -η Decl. I. is rarer: τὸ δίψος (Attic, which has also ἡ δίψα) 2 C. 11. 27 δίψει $(\delta i \psi_{\eta} B^{*})$; $\tau \delta \nu i \kappa o s^{2} 1 C. 15. 54 f. O.T. quot., 57, Mt. 12. 20 O.T.$

§ 10. PROPER NAMES. INDECLINABLE NOUNS.

- 1. The Hebrew personal names of the O.T., when quoted as such, remain with few exceptions unaltered and indeclinable: 'Αδάμ, 'Αβραάμ, 'Ιακώβ, Φαραώ, Δαυίδ etc. The exceptions are mainly nominatives in 57, which are represented by the termination -as and declined according to Decl. I. (gen. -a and -ov, see § 7, 2): Ἰούδας Mt. 1. 2 f.; Οὐρίας, gen. -ov ibid. 6; Ἐζεκίας, Ἡσαίας etc. (but ᾿Αβιά [as LXX:] ibid. 7 nom. acc., L. 1. 5 gen.). Other exceptions are: Maraσση Mt. 1. 10 acc., Maraσσηs nom., cp. inf. 3 (Maraσση nom. κ B); Ίαννης and Ἰσμβρης 2 Tim. 3. S; Λευις, -εις nom. H. 7. 9 N°BC*, the remaining Mss. -ι (a): cp. inf. 2. Σολομων is declined cither with gen. -ωνος (therefore nom. -μων), so Mt. 1. 6 -μωνα (but * -μών indecl.), 12. 42, and elsewhere: or -ωντος (like Ξενοφων, therefore nom. -μων): Λ. 3. 11 -μωντος (DE -μωνος), 5. 12 (-μωνος BDEP); so also LXX., unless, as usually happens, the word remains Ιησοῦς Josua H. 4. 8. Μωϋσῆς (so, according to the indeclinable. best evidence, with LXX and Josephus, instead of Mωσ. of the ordinary MSS.), gen. always -έως as if from -εύς, dat. -εί Mt. 17. 4 BBD al. (others -η̂), Mc. 9. 4 ABBDE etc., ibid. 5 NABCDE etc. (nearly all), and so elsewhere with constant variation in the MSS. between -α and -η: acc. -α only in L. 16. 29, elsewhere -ην (A. 6. 11, 7. 35, 1 C. 10. 2, II. 3. 3). The latter inflection: $-\hat{\eta}s$, $-\hat{\eta}$, $-\hat{\eta}$, $-\hat{\eta}\nu$ (cp. inf. 3) is that prevalent in the LXX.³
- 2. The same old Hebrew names, if employed as proper names of other persons of the N.T. period, are far more susceptible to Hellenisation and declension. The Hellenising is carried out: (a) by appending -os; ' $I\dot{\alpha}\kappa\omega\beta$ os always, "Aya β -os A. 11. 28, 21. 10: (b) in words that in their Greek pronunciation would end in a vowel, by appending -s to the nom., - ν to the acc.: so ' $I\eta\sigma\sigma\hat{v}$ s, ' $I\eta\sigma\sigma\hat{v}$ ' (cp. 1), A ω 1s (also written - ε 1s; therefore $\bar{\iota}$) Mc. 2. 14 (acc. - $\iota\nu$, indeel. 8*A Josephus also makes Kaivas out of Καινάν and Ναθας out of Ναθάν. The common name Ίωάνης is also abbreviated into Ίωνα (Syr. בְּרָבֵּא LXX. 2 (4) Kings 25. 23, and so Mt. 16. 17 Σίμων Βαριων $\hat{a} = \dot{\Sigma}$. (d) The Hellenisation is carried furthest in $\Sigma i \mu \omega \nu$, $-\omega v \circ s = \Sigma v \mu \epsilon \omega \nu$ (this form occurs for Peter in A. 15. 14 in James' speech, 2 P. 1. 1 [Σίμων B]: for others in A. 13. 1, L. 2. 25 etc.): the pure Greek name with a similar sound is substituted for the Hebrew name, after a fashion not unknown to the Jews of the present day, just as Ἰάσων (A. 17. 5 etc.) is substituted for Jesus, and perhaps Κυδίαs for Χουζᾶs (L. 8. 3 according to the Latin cod. l). On the other hand, the following, though employed in this way, remain unaltered and indeclinable: Ἰωσήφ generally (vide sup.), $Na\theta a \nu a \eta \lambda$ (also the names of the angels $M \bar{\iota} \chi a \eta \lambda$ [Meay, B] and $\Gamma \alpha \beta \rho_i \dot{\eta} \dot{\lambda}$), Mαναήν A. 13. 1. Similarly the woman's name Έλωταβέτ: whereas בְּרֵיֶם sometimes remains as Μαριάμ, esp. for the mother of Christ, and sometimes is Hellenised to Mapía (Μαριάμμη in Joseph.), with great diversity of reading in the MSS. (gen. Maplas Mt. 1. 16, 18, 2. 11 etc.; acc. Μαριάμ 1. 20 [-ίαν BL]: in chaps. 27 and 28 the form -ia for the nom. has most support in the case of the other Maries; in L Μαριάμ 1. 27, 30, 34, 37, 39 etc., but τη̂s Μαρίας 41, ή Μαρία 2. 19 κBD [D has also frequently elsewhere nom. -a, dat. -a i.e. -a, acc. -av]; Paul in R. 16. 9 has Μαριάμ, an unknown lady, in ABCP-(av).3 The following are declinable without further addition: "Aννα הַבָּה (nom. ^{1&#}x27; Ιωνάθας appears already on an Egyptian papyrus of the 3rd cent. B.C., Flinders Petrie Pap. ii., p. 23: 'Απολλώνιον... [παρεπ]ίδημον, δς καὶ συριστὶ 'Ιωνάθας [καλείται].

3. The declension of Hebrew masc. proper names whose stem ends in a long vowel (with the exception of those in -ias), and of the similar Greek or Graeco-Roman names which are formed by abbreviation (§ 29), follows the same pattern on the whole for all vowels, and is consequently known as the "mixed" declension. Three cases (G.D.V.) exhibit the pure stem (the datives in α , η , ω being in our spelling extended by an i mute); the nom. in all cases has s, the acc. generally v, but this is often wanting in LXX. and N.T. with the $\eta(\iota)$ and ω stems: Mava $\sigma\sigma\eta$ s, acc. $-\eta$, vide sup. 1 (so LXX., e.g. 2 (4) Kings 20. 21, 21. 1, 2 Chron. chap. 33): Acris, vide sup. 1, 2: 'A π o $\lambda\lambda\hat{\omega}$ s, acc. 'A π o $\lambda\lambda\hat{\omega}$ A. 19. 1 (- $\omega\nu$ A²L, 'A π e $\lambda\lambda\hat{\eta}\nu$ 8*, § 6, 2), cp. Kω acc. § 7, 5, 1 C. 4. 6 (-ων *AB), Tit. 3. 13 (-ων *DbH, -ωνα FG). Exx. (a) Βαραββας, Βαρνάβας, Ἰούδας, Ζηνας (from Ζηνόδωρος), Σιλᾶς (= Σίλουανός). (b) (Μανασσής, vide sup.) 'Απελλής R. 16. 10, acc. $-\hat{\eta}\nu$ (as in A. 19. 1 8, vide sup.). The gen. of Greek names of this class, in classical Greek -ov, is unrepresented in N.T. (c) $\Lambda \epsilon \nu \iota s$, vide sup. 2. (d) $I \eta \sigma \circ \hat{\iota} s$, $- \circ \hat{v}$, $- \circ \hat{v}$, $- \circ \hat{v}$. (e) $\Lambda \pi \circ \lambda \lambda \hat{\omega} s$ (from 'Απολλώνιος). In extra-Biblical Greek besides this declension of such names there is found a second, in which there is a similar nom, in -s, but the stem for the remaining cases is extended by the addition of a consonant (usually δ , in Egypt and in the Cyrenaica τ), e.g. ' $\Lambda\pi\pi\hat{a}$'s, $-\hat{a}\delta\sigma$'s, ' $E\rho\mu\hat{\eta}$'s, $-\hat{\eta}\delta\sigma$'s (Inser. of Arsinoe in C. I. G. 5321 -Inσούς σούτος, cp. Ptolemais 5289): the single N.T. example of this declension is Ἰωση̂s, -η̂τοs, sup. 2.

4. Roman proper names.—There need only be noticed Agrippa 'Αγρίππας, -α: Aquila 'Ακύλας: Clemēns, Crescēns, Pudēns, gen. -ĕntis = $(K\lambda \dot{\eta} \mu \eta s)$ -εντος Ph. 4. 3, Κρήσκης 2 Tim. 4. 10, Ποιδης (-εντος) 21. The u of the nom., which was hardly pronounced, is often absent from Latin inscriptions.

5. Names of places, mountains, rivers.—In this category it is the usual practice in by far the majority of cases for non-Greek names to remain un-Hellenised and undeclined, with the exception, of course, of prominent place-names, which were already known to the Greeks at an earlier period, such as Τύρος; Σιδών, -ωνος; "Αζωτος Asdod (cp. § 6, 7) A. 8. 40; Δαμασκός etc. and (river name) 'Ιορδάνηs, -ov. The Hellenisation is well marked, a new etymology (ἱερός, Σόλυμοι) being given, in the case of Ἱεροσόλυμα, -ων, a form which is employed in the N.T. alongside of Ἰερουσαλήμ (in the latter there is no good reason for writing the rough breathing, § 4, 4; Mc. and John (Gosp.) always have Teρoo., and so Mt. exc. in 23. 37: 'Ispovo. is always the form in Ap., Hebr., and in Paul, except in the narrative of G. 1. 17 f., 2. 1: L. gives both forms, but 1ερουσ. rarely in his Gospel. Other exceptions are: Βηθανία, gen. -as, acc. -av Jo. 11. 1, Mc. 11. 12, Jo. 12. 1, Mc. 11. 11 etc. (but Mt. 21. 17, Mc. 11. 1 B* είς Βηθανία, L. 19. 29 8*BD* είς Βηθφαγή καὶ Βηθανία): Γολγοθα, Με. 15. 22 τὸν Γολγοθάν τόπον (Γολγοθά ACDE al.): Γόμορρα, -ων Mt. 10. 15 (-as CDLMP), -as 2 P. 2. 6, cp. inf. 6 (ή Γομόρρα): Λύδδα, gen. On the other hand the following e.g. are unaltered and indecl.: Βηθλεέμ, Βηθφαγή, Καψαρναούμ, Αἶνών Jo. 3. 23, Σαλίμ ibid., Σιών; (mountain) Σινα, (brook) Κεδρών Jo. 18. 1 (τοῦ χειμάρρου τοῦ Κ. correctly AS; other Mss. are corrupt with τῶν Κέδρων, τοῦ Κέδρου; Josephus declines τοῦ Κεδρῶνος). Έλαιών, Mount of Olives, as a Greek rendering cannot be indecl.; therefore, as we elsewhere have τὸ ὄρος τῶν ἐλαιῶν, we must also read όρος (acc.) τὸ καλούμενον έλαιῶν (not Ἐλαιών) L. 19. 29, 21. 37: all Mss. give a wrong inflection in A. 1. 12 τοῦ καλουμένου Ἐλαιωνος for έλαιῶν : cp. § 33, 1.2
- 6. On the declension of place-names.—Double declension as in class. Greek is seen in Νέαν πόλιν Α. 16. 11; therefore also read Ἱερᾶ πόλει Col. 4. 13. Instances of metaplasmus: Decl. I. fem. sing., Decl. II. neut. plur.—Λύστρᾶ, acc. -ἄν Α. 14. 6, 21, 16. 1, but dat. -οις 14. 8, 16. 2: Θνάτειρα acc. Acts ibid. like Justin ii. 7. 7, Salaminae insulae xliv. 3. 2, Salaminam (cp. the new formations in romance languages, Tarragona, Cartagena, Narbonne).

§ 11. ADJECTIVES.

1. Adjectives in -os, - η (- α), -ov and -os, -ov.—(a) Compound adj. $\dot{\eta}$ $\dot{d}\rho\gamma\dot{\eta}$ ($\dot{d}\rho\gamma\dot{o}s=\dot{d}$ - $\epsilon\rho\gamma\dot{o}s$) 1 Tim. 5. 13, Tit. 1. 12 (Epimenides), Ja.

¹ There is a similar fluctuation in Josephus, W.-Schm. ibid. ² v. App. p. 329. ³ Josephus has $\dot{\eta}$ Σ., sc $\dot{\tau}$ $\pi\eta\gamma\dot{\eta}$, B. J. v. 12. 2, vi. 8. 5, but $\mu\dot{\epsilon}\chi\rho\iota$ τοῦ Σ. ii. 16. 2, vi. 7. 2.

'Η παραθαλασσία Mt. 4. 13 (τὴν παραθαλάσσιον D, παρὰ θάλασσαν ), but ἡ παράλιος L. 6. 17; these compounds in -ιος admit of both forms. (b) Uncompounded adj. 'Η ἔρημος always (Att. -μος and -μη). 'Η ἔτοιμος Mt. 25. 10 (A -μαι), -μη 2 C. 9. 5, 1 P. 1. 5 (Att. -μος and -μη). 'Η αἰώνιος is the usual form as it is in Att.; -ία 2 Th. 2. 16 (-ιον FG), H. 9. 12, often as a v.l. 'Η βεβαία always (Att. -α and -ος). 'Η κόσμιος (Att. -ία) 1 Tiπ. 2. 9 ADcor. al.; v.l. -ίως. 'Η μάταιος and -ία (as in Att.). 'Η ὅμοιος ? Ap. 4. 3. 'Η ὅσιος 1 Tim. 2. 8 (-ία Att. and LXX.). 'Η οὐράνιος L. 2. 13 (v.l. οὐρανοῦ), A. 26. 19 (Att. -ία). In other cases the N.T. is in agreement with the ordinary grammar.
- 2. To συγγενής L. 1. 36 has the fem. $\dot{\eta}$ συγγενίς for Att. - $\dot{\eta}$ ς (Clem. Hom. xii. 8: Phryn. Lob. 451: Cramer, An. Ox. iii. 247; cp. εὐγενί-δων γυναικῶν Clem. Rom. Epit. ii. 144), whereas strictly this fem. only belonged to words in $-\tau\eta\varsigma$, $-\tau ov$, and to those in $-\epsilon \dot{\varsigma}$ ς ($\beta a \sigma \iota \lambda \dot{\varsigma}$).
- 3. Comparison.—The absorption of the category of duality into that of plurality (cp. §§ 2, 1, and 13, 5), occasioned also the disappearance from the vulgar language of one of the two degrees of comparison, which in the great majority of cases (cp. inf. 5) was the superlative, the functions of which were taken over by the comparative. The only instances of a superl. in -τατος in the N.T. are ἀκριβέστατος A. 26. 5 (in literary language, the speech of Paul before Agrippa, § 2, 4) and ἀγιώτατος Jd. 20, the latter being used in an elative sense. The remaining superlatives are in -1070s, and are generally employed in intensive [elative] sense, and in some cases have quite lost their force: ἐλάχιστος perexiguus passim² (as a true superl., either due to the literary language or corrupt reading in 1 C. 15. 9: for which ἐλαχιστότερος occurs in E. 3. 8, inf. 4): ήδιστα 2 C. 12. 9, 15, A. 18. 3 D ('gladly,' 'very gladly'): κράτιστε m an address L. 1. τ etc.: μέγιστος permagnus 2 P. 1. 4: πλείστος Mt. 11. 20, 21. 8, cp. § 44, 4: 1 C. 14. 27 (τὸ πλείστον 'at most'): 3 ώς τάχιστα A. 17. 15 (literary language, a true superl.): τψιστος passim: ἔγγιστα D Mc. 6. 36 (Joseph. passim: Clem. Cor. i. 5. 1). The most frequent superlative which still remains is (μᾶλλον-) μάλιστα (Acts, Pauline epp., 2 Peter: still there are no more than twelve instances in all).4 Cp. Synt. § 44. 3.

- 4. Special forms of the comparative.—For comp. of dyadós we never have ἀμείνων, βέλτιον as an adv. only in 2 Tim. k 18 (-ίων Herm. Vis. iii. 4. 3, 7. 1); κρείσσων (-ττων, § 6, 7) only in Pauline epp., Hebrews, and Pet. ('more excellent' or 'mightier,' 'of higher standing, opp. to έλάττων Η. 7. 7); the vulgar ἀγαθώτερος (Herm. Mand. viii. 9. 1) is never found in the N.T. Tor comp. of κακός, χείρων 'worse' is frequent; τὸ ήσσον is opp. to τὸ κρείσσον 1 C. 11. 17; ησσον adv. 'less' (of degree) 2 C. 12. 15. 'Ελάσσων deterior is the opposite to κρείσσων Jo. 2. 10, Η. 7. 7, vide supra: or, as in Attic, to μείζων R. 9. 12 O.T. quot.; adv. ἔλαττον 'less' (of number) 1 Tim. 5. 9 (μικρότερος is 'smaller' as in Attic). Τάχιον (Hellenistic, B $\tau \alpha \chi \epsilon \iota \sigma \nu$) is the constant form, not $\theta \hat{\alpha} \tau \tau \sigma \nu$ (Att.) or -σσον, unless the latter is to be read for ασσον in A. 27, 13 (a literary word, cp. in Clem. Cor. i. 65. 1 the juxtaposition of the cultured phrase ὅπως θᾶττον with conj., and the vulgar είς τὸ τάχιον with inf.). 'Ελαχιστότερος 'the lowest of all' (see 3) is correctly formed according to the rules of the common language: μειζότερος 3 Jo. 4^a shows an obscured sense of the idea of the comp. in μείζων, but is not without analogies in the older language (e.g. ἀμεινότερος). Διπλότερον Mt. 23. 15 = duplo magis (Appian also has διπλότερα τούτων = διπλάσια τ. Proem. 10), whereas \dot{a} πλούστερος shows the Attic formation of such comparatives.
- 5. Adjectival comparative (and superlative) of adverbs.—The superl. $\pi\rho\hat{\omega}\tau$ os has been retained where the comp. $\pi\rho\hat{\omega}\tau$ os in the sense of 'the first of two' has disappeared, so Jo. 1. 15, 30 $\pi\rho\hat{\omega}\tau$ os μ ov, A. 1. 1 τ òv $\pi\rho\hat{\omega}\tau$ ov λ óγον (but $\pi\rho\hat{\omega}\tau$ ρος = 'former,' 'hitherto' survives in E. 4. 22 τ ὴν $\pi\rho\hat{\omega}\tau$ ρον $\hat{\omega}$ να $\hat{\omega}\tau$ ροφήν, cp. Herm. Mand. iv. 3. 1, 3 etc.); the corresponding adv. $\pi\rho\hat{\omega}\tau$ ρον = 'formerly' H. 10. 32, 1 P. 1. 14 τ ò $\pi\rho\hat{\omega}\tau$. (§ 34, 7) in Jo. 6. 62, 9. 8 (ibid. 7. 50, 51 as a wrong reading), G. 4. 13, 1 Tim. 1. 13, whereas the first of two actions is here also denoted by $\pi\rho\hat{\omega}\tau$ ον (Mt. 7. 5, 8. 21, L. 14. 28, 31 etc.), except in H. 4. 6, 7. 27 (literary style; in 2 C. 1. 15 $\pi\rho\hat{\omega}\tau$ ρον should apparently be erased with ). The opposite word $\hat{\omega}\tau$ αστος is likewise also used in comp. sense (Mt. 27. 64); while $\hat{\omega}\tau$ τρος is superl. 1 Tim. 4. 1 (a wrong reading in Mt. 21. 31); the adv. $\hat{\omega}\sigma\tau$ ρρον is

So also the Berlin papyri, 326, ii. 9 εἰ δὶ ἔτι περισσά γράμματα καταλίπω ('further'), and mod. Greek περισσότερος, adv. -ρον 'more.' In St. Paul, however, περισσότερως appears occasionally to have a still stronger force = ὑπερβαλλόντως 2 C. 7. 15, 12. 5, G. 1. 14, cp. A. 26. 11 (περ. μάλλον 2 C. 7. 13 (?) = 'still much more,' cp. sup.), while in other passages of his writings it may be replaced by μάλλον ον μάλιστα, as περισσότερος by πλείων: Ph. 1. 14, 2 C. 1. 12, 1 C. 12. 23 f., 2 C. 10. 8 etc. So also H. 7. 15 περισσότερον (= μάλλον) ἔτι κατάδηλον, 2. 1, 13. 19 -ρως, Herm. Mand. iv. 4. 2, Sim. v. 3. 3.

common (also in superl. sense, as in Mt. 22. 27, L. 20. 32). Further exx. of comp. of adverbs: ἐξώτερος Mt. 8. 12 etc. (Herm. Sim. ix. 7. 5), ἐσώτερος A. 16. 24, H. 6. 19, κατώτερος E. 4. 9 (of course also in superl. sense); these adjectives are not found in Attic, which however has the corresponding adverbs: ἀνώτερον L. 14. 10, H. 10. 8 (Att. more often -ρω), 1 κατωτέρω Mt. 2. 16 (κάτω perhaps more correctly D), πορρωτέρω (-ρον AB) L. 24. 28, ἐγγύτερον R. 13. 11.

§ 12. NUMERALS.

- 1. Δύο has gen. δύο, dat. δυσίν (plural inflection): similarly LXX.: ² δυσίν for δυοΐν is condemned by Phrynichus (Lob. 210).
- 2. In compounds of δέκα with units, at least from thirteen upwards, δέκα occupies the first place (this practice is more frequent in the later language than in the older: in mod. Gk., except in the case of eleven and twelve, it is universal): (δεκαδύο [Polyb.] Λ. 19. 7 HLP, 24. 11 same evidence; δεκατέσσαρες Mt. 1. 17, 2 C. 12. 2, G. 2. 1: δεκαπέντε Jo. 11. 18, Λ. 27. 28, G. 1. 18 (δέκα καὶ πέντε Herm. Vis. ii. 2. 1 κ): δεκαοκτώ L. 13. 4 (δέκα καὶ δ. κ°Λ al.), 11 (δ. κ. δ. ΛL al.). The ordinals, however, take the reverse order: τεσσαρεσκαιδέκατος Λ. 27. 27, πεντεκαιδέκατος L. 3. 1 (Ionic and later language: Attic usually τέταρτος καὶ δέκ.). With larger numbers there is a similar order of words, with or (usually) without καί: εἴκοσι τρεῖς 1 C. 10. 8, τεσσεράκοντα καὶ ἔξ Jo. 2. 20.

§ 13. PRONOUNS.

- 1. Personal.—The 3rd pers. is represented by $\alpha \tilde{v} \tau o \hat{v}$: the same form is used for the 3rd pers. possessive. Reflexives: 1st pers. sing. $\tilde{\epsilon} \mu \bar{u} v \tau o \hat{v}$, 2nd sing. $\sigma \epsilon \bar{u} v \tau o \hat{v}$ (not $\sigma a v \tau o \hat{v}$), 3rd sing. $\tilde{\epsilon} \bar{u} v \tau o \hat{v}$ (not $a \tilde{v} \tau o \hat{v}$): 3 plural 1st, 2nd, and 3rd pers. $\tilde{\epsilon} \bar{u} v \tau \bar{\omega} v$ (so in Hellenistic Gk., not $\tilde{\eta} \mu \bar{\omega} v$ α ., $\tilde{v} \mu \bar{\omega} v$ α ., $\sigma \phi \bar{\omega} v$ α .; on $\tilde{v} \mu \bar{\omega} v$ $a \tilde{v} \tau \bar{\omega} v$ in 1 C. 5. 13 from Deut. 17. 7, see § 48, 10).
- 2. Demonstratives.— $O\hat{v}\tau$ os, $\hat{\epsilon}\kappa\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\nu}$ os as usually; the intensive $\hat{\iota}$ ($o\hat{v}\tau$ o σ - $\hat{\iota}$) is unknown, but is employed by Luke (in the Acts) and Paul (Hebrews) in the adv. $\nu\nu\nu\hat{\iota}=\nu\hat{v}\nu$. "Obe is rare and almost confined to the phrase $\tau\hat{\alpha}\delta\hat{\epsilon}$ $\hat{\lambda}\hat{\epsilon}\gamma\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\iota}$: Acts 21. 11, Ap. 2. 1, 8, 12, 18,
- ¹ Peculiar are ἔτι ἄνω, ἔτι κάτω for ἀνώτερον, κατώτερον in the apocryphal addition to Mt. 20. 28 in DΦ, with which cp. Xen. Anab. 7, 5. 9 ἔτι ἄνω στρατεύεσθαι (and Dindorf's note). 2 W.-Schm. § 9, 11.
- ³ Even in the inscriptions of this period the trisyllabic forms, ἐαντοῦ etc. supplant the dissyllabic, which in classical times were used alongside of them. In the old edd. of the N.T. the latter still appear pretty frequently, but are now rightly replaced by ἐαντοῦ or αὐτοῦ (see Synt. § 48, 6), so even in R. 14. 14 δι' ἐαντοῦ NAB, A. 20. 30 ὁπίσω ἐαντῶν NAB. The long α results from the contraction (ἔο αὐτοῦ); in the Hellenistic and Roman period it has occasioned the loss of the ν in pronunciation, whence the spelling ἐματοῦ, ἐατοῦ (just as the ι in αι, α was unpronounced). See Wackernagel in Kuhn's Zeitschr. xxxiii. (N. F. xiii.), p. 2 ff.

- 3. 1, 7, 14; elsewhere $\tau \acute{a} \acute{b} \epsilon$ A. 15. 23 D; $\tau \acute{\eta} \acute{b} \epsilon$ L. 10. 39; $\tau \acute{\eta} \nu \acute{b} \epsilon$ Ja. 4. 13 (Clem. Cor. ii. 12. 5 $\H{\eta} \acute{b} \epsilon$ is only a conjecture). Cp. Synt. § 49, 1, and inf. 4.
- 3. Relatives.—"Os, $\mathring{\eta}$, \mathring{o} : $\mathring{o}\sigma\tau\iota s$, $\mathring{\eta}\tau\iota s$, $\mathring{o},\tau\iota$; the latter, however, only in the nom. sing. and plur., except that $\mathring{o},\tau\iota$ also appears as acc.: in meaning it becomes confused with $\mathring{o}s$, see Synt. § 50, 1. We have the stereotyped phrase $\tilde{\epsilon}\omega s$ $\tilde{o}\tau\upsilon v$ in Luke and John (also in Mt. 5. 25; $\mathring{a}\varphi'$ $\mathring{o}\tau\upsilon v$ in D L. 13. 25); otherwise there is no instance of these old forms (so we never find $\mathring{a}\sigma\sigma a$, $\mathring{a}\tau\tau a$ for $\mathring{a}\tau\iota\nu a$), in the same way that the forms $\tau\iota o\hat{v}$, $\tau\iota v$ (= $\tau\iota \nu vs$, $\tau\iota v \iota os$), $\tau \hat{\varphi}$, $\tau \psi$ (= $\tau\iota \iota v\iota$, $\tau\iota v\iota'$) etc. from $\tau\iota s$, $\tau\iota s$ have become obsolete. "O $\sigma\pi\epsilon \rho$ is only found in Mc. 15. 6 $\aleph^c B^3 C$ al. $\mathring{o}\nu\pi\epsilon \rho$ $\mathring{\eta}\tau\iota o\hat{\nu}\nu\tau o$ (male $\mathring{o}\nu$ $\pi a\rho\eta\tau$. \aleph^AB^ ; the right reading in DG $\mathring{o}\nu$ $\mathring{a}\nu$ $\mathring{\eta}\tau\iota o\hat{\nu}\nu\tau o$ § 63, 7), and according to Marcion in L. 10. 21 $\mathring{a}\pi\epsilon \rho$ $\mathring{\epsilon}\kappa\rho\upsilon\psi as$. On the use of $\mathring{o}s$ for a demonstrative pron. see Synt. § 46, 2.
- 4. Correlative pronouns.—Ποίος τοιοῦτος (τοιόσδε only 2 P. 1. 17 τοιῶτος, cp. 2) οἷος ὁποίος. Πόσος τοσοῦτος ὅσος. Πηλίκος (G. 6. 11, H. 7. 4) τηλικοῦτος (2 C. 1. 10, H. 2. 3, Ja. 3. 4, Ap. 16. 18) ἡλίκος (Col. 2. 1, Ja. 3. 5). To these must be added ποταπός (with similar meaning to ποίος), Synt. § 50, 6. On the correlative adverbs, see § 25. Τοιοῦτος από τοσοῦτος (τηλικοῦτος) have neut. in -ον and -ο (both forms are also found in Att., though the first is more frequent): with var. lect. Mt. 18. 5, Λ. 21. 25 β text, H. 7. 22: with -ον only H. 12. 1; on the other hand τηλικοῦτο Herm. Vis. iv. 1. 10 (2. 3 with v.l.)."
- 5. With pronouns and pronominal forms it has also happened that words indicating duality as distinct from plurality have become obsolete ($\pi \acute{o}\tau \epsilon \rho os \tau \acute{i}s$; $\acute{\epsilon} \kappa \acute{a}\tau \epsilon \rho os \~{\epsilon}\kappa a \sigma \tau os$), with the exception of $\~{a}\mu \phi \acute{o}\tau \epsilon \rho oi$ (the N.T. form, never $\~{a}\mu \phi \omega$) and $\~{\epsilon}\tau \epsilon \rho os$, which, however, already becomes confused with $\~{a}\lambda \lambda os$. Cp. Synt. § 51, 6.

§ 14. SYSTEM OF CONJUGATION.

1. The system of the conjugation of the verb is apparently not much altered from its earlier state, since nearly all the classical forms are found in the N.T., the dual, of course, excepted. The voices remain as before: and the tenses are the same, except that in all voices only one future exists: $\tilde{\epsilon}\chi\omega$, $\tilde{\epsilon}\xi\omega$ (the fut. $\sigma\chi\dot{\eta}\sigma\omega$, which is derived from the aorist and related to it in meaning, never occurs); $\mu\mu\nu\dot{\eta}\sigma\kappa \rho\mu a\iota$, $\mu\nu\eta\sigma\theta\dot{\eta}\sigma\rho\mu a\iota$ (not $\mu\epsilon\mu\nu\dot{\eta}\sigma\rho\mu a\iota$ fut. perf., of which the name 'Attic future' is sufficient indication that it was absent from the Hellenistic language); $\tilde{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\eta\nu$, $\sigma\tau\dot{\eta}\sigma\rho\mu a\iota$; $\hat{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\dot{\alpha}\theta\eta\nu$, $\sigma\tau\alpha\theta\dot{\eta}\sigma\rho\mu a\iota$, but not $\hat{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\dot{\eta}\dot{\xi}\omega^1$ fut. perf.; $\phi\alpha\dot{\iota}\nu\rho\mu a\iota$, $\phi\alpha\nu\dot{\eta}\sigma\rho\mu a\iota$, but the form $\phi\alpha\nu\dot{\eta}\sigma$. which in Attic was allied to the present as distinguished from $\phi\alpha\nu\dot{\eta}\sigma$. which belonged to $\hat{\epsilon}\phi\dot{\alpha}\nu\eta\nu$, no longer appears (1 P. 4. 18 is a quotation from LXX. Prov. 11. 31). This certainly destroys the harmonious structure of the system of the tenses, viz. continuous action in present, past, and future time = pres. impf. and fut. of the present (ξω, τιμήσομαι pass.): completed action in past and future time = aorist and fut. of the aorist (σχήσω, τιμηθήσομαι): continuity of completed action in present, past, and future time = perf., plupf., and fut. of the perfect ($\epsilon\sigma\tau\eta\xi\omega$, $\beta\epsilon\beta\lambda\eta\sigma\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$ pass.). Of the moods, moreover, the optative is clearly on its way to becoming obsolete, being only found in Luke's writings with any frequency, where its presence is due to the influence of the literary language which retained it. Of the future opt. there is no trace, and this tense is, generally speaking, almost confined to the indic., since the use of the fut. infin. is, with few exceptions, limited to the Acts (11. 28, 23. 30, 24. 15, 27. 10: cp. Synt. § 61, 3), and the fut. part. outside the writings of the same author (Gosp. 22. 49, Acts 8. 27, 20. 22, 22. 5, 24. 17) is of quite rare occurrence (Mt. 27. 41 σώσων, but σώσαι , καὶ σώσει D Jo. 6. 64 [?], 1 C. 15. 37, H. 3. 5, 13. 17, 1 P. 3. 13, 2 P. 2. 13 with v.l.), cp. Synt. § 61, 4. Finally, the verbal adjective has practically disappeared, with the exception of forms like δυνατός which have become stereotyped as adjectives; the only exx. are $\pi a \theta \eta \tau \delta s$ 'liable to suffering' A. 26. 23, and $\beta \lambda \eta \tau \delta \delta \nu$ L. 5. 38 (κ*D) βάλλουσιν; as a v.l. also in the parallel passage Mc. 2. 22) 'one must put into,' as in Att.: cp. Herm. Vis. iv. 2. 6 αίρετώτερον.

2. Periphrastic forms.—The perf. and pluperf. indic., act. and pass., are not unfrequently represented by a periphrasis (as is also the case in Att.), while for the perf. conjunctive (passive) a periphrasis is a necessity (as in Att. for the most part); the perf. imperat. is expressed periphrastically in L. 12. 35 ἔστωσαν περιεξωσμέναι; on the other hand we have πεφίμωσο Mc. 4. 39. By means of periphrasis the place of the fut. perf. may also be supplied (L. 12. 52, Mt. 16. 19, 18. 18, H. 2. 13); periphrasis has, on the whole, a very wide range in the N.T., see Synt. § 62.

§ 15. AUGMENT AND REDUPLICATION.

The syllabic augment is wanting as a rule in the pluperf. (as also in other Hellenistic writings, but not in Att.); exceptions are chiefly in the passive (W. Schmidt de Josephi elocut. 438): ἐβέβλητο L. 16. 20, ἐπεγέγραπτο A. 17. 23 (ἢν γεγραμμένον D), συνετέθειντο J. 9. 22, περιεδέδετο 11. 44 (περιδέδ. D*), ἐπεποίθει L. 11. 22 (πέποιθεν D), ἐγεγόνει Jo. 6. 17 v.l., and many others.

2. The syllabic augment, in places where in Attic it holds an exceptional position instead of (or in addition to) the temporal, has been ill maintained: $\mathring{\omega}vo\mathring{\nu}\mu\alpha\iota$, $\mathring{\omega}vo\mathring{\nu}\mu\eta\nu$ (Att. $\mathring{\epsilon}\omega\nu$.; Pap. Oxyrh. ii. p. 205 $\mathring{\epsilon}\omega\nu\eta\mu\acute{\epsilon}vo\mathfrak{e}$, 253 $\mathring{\omega}\nu\eta\mu\acute{\epsilon}\nu\eta\nu$), $\mathring{\omega}\theta\mathring{\omega}$, $\mathring{\omega}\sigma a$ ($\mathring{\alpha}\pi\mathring{\omega}\sigma a(\nu)\tau\sigma$ A. 7. 27 etc., $\mathring{\epsilon}\mathring{\xi}\mathring{\omega}\sigma\epsilon\nu$ 45, $\mathring{\epsilon}\mathring{\xi}\acute{\epsilon}\omega\sigma\epsilon\nu$ only in N*E; $\mathring{\omega}\theta\sigma\nu\nu$ Ev. Petr. 6): in $\mathring{\alpha}vo\acute{\epsilon}\gamma\omega$, $\kappa\alpha\tau\acute{\alpha}\gamma\nu\nu\mu\iota$ it has indeed survived, but through being misunderstood has intruded into the other moods and the fut. (see irreg. verbs, § 24); $\pi\rho\sigma\sigma\dot{\omega}\mu\eta\nu$ (- $\omega\rho$ - B³P) A. 2. 25 O.T. quot.: $\mathring{\epsilon}\acute{\omega}\rho\omega\nu$ Jo. 6. 2 NΓ Δ al. is no doubt a wrong reading for $\mathring{\epsilon}\theta\epsilon\omega\rho\sigma\nu\nu$ (cp. ibid.). On the reduplication in $\mathring{\epsilon}\acute{\epsilon}\rho\alpha\kappa\alpha$, vide. inf. 6.

3. The augment $\dot{\eta}$ - instead of $\dot{\epsilon}$ - (less frequent in Att. than in later writers) is always used with $\theta \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \omega$ (Att. $\dot{\epsilon} \theta \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \omega$, $\ddot{\eta} \theta \dot{\epsilon} \lambda o \nu$), never with βούλομαι (a word adopted from the literary language: but ήβούλετο Herm. Sim. v. 6. 5); in δύναμαι and μέλλω there is much variation in the MSS. between ήδυν., ήμ-, and έδυν., έμ- (cp. W.-Schm. § 12, 3).

- 4. Loss of the temporal augment.—The addition of the temporal augment was not without exceptions even in Attic Gk. in the case of an initial diphthong of which the first letter was ϵ or o. The N.T. has είξα G. 2. 5 (as in Att.), οἰκοδομῶ, οἰκοδομήθη κΒ* Jo. 2. 20, οἰκοδόμησεν Β*D A. 7. 47, ἐποικοδόμησεν 1 C. 3. 14 (ἐπωκ. β³C): on the other hand ψκοδόμησεν Mt. 21. 33 all MSS., ψκοδόμητο L. 4. 29 (οἰκοδόμηται D), cp. ἐνψκησεν 2 Tim. 1. 5 (-οί- only D*), κατψκησεν (-ισεν) Ja. 4. 5 O.T., παρψκησεν H. 11. 9 etc. W. H. App. 161. Since the original documents of the time show several instances of unaugmented oi, and the practice is proscribed as Ionic by the grammarians (Phrynich. 153 Lob., Cramer, An. Ox. iii. 260), it may safely be attributed to the writers; besides \bar{o} (for $\bar{o}i$) no longer bore much resemblance to oi (which in ordinary pronunciation inclined to v). Cp. W.-Schm. § 12, 5. Ev in older Attic when augmented always became ηv , in the later Attic (which also used $\eta \iota$, $\epsilon \iota$ interchangeably) not always; in the N.T. ϵv preponderates, but ηv - also occurs not unfrequently: ηὐρίσκετο H. 11. 5 acc. to ADE, προσηύξαντο A. 8. 15 (- ϵv - only B), 20. 36 (- ϵv - B*D), $\eta \dot{v} \chi \dot{\phi} \mu \eta \nu$ R. 9. 3 ($\epsilon \dot{v} \chi$. DEKL).² For unaugmented at the only ex. is 2 Tim. 1. 16 $\epsilon \pi a \iota \sigma \chi \dot{v} \nu \theta \eta$ (- η - 8*K; interchange of $\alpha i = \bar{e}$ and η ?).—The augment is wanting in the case of a single short vowel in εληλύθειν (as in Att.: Attic reduplic.): in $d\nu \epsilon \theta \eta$ for $-\epsilon i\theta \eta$ A. 16. 26, $d\phi \epsilon \theta \eta \sigma a \nu$ R. 4. 7 O.T. (ϵ arose from the moods instead of $\epsilon i = i$: similarly LXX.): in $\partial \phi \epsilon \lambda o \nu$ as a particle introducing a wish, cp. § 63, 5; other cases appear to be clerical errors: διερμήνευ(σ)εν L. 24. 27 (-η- ΕΗΚΜ al.), διεγείρετο Jo. 6. 18 B al., προορώμην A. 2. 25 O.T., vide supra 2, ἀνορθώθη L. 13. 13 (-ω-ℵE al.) etc.
- 5. Temporal augment η or ει.—In general the N.T. agrees with Attic; thus it has ἐργάζομαι, ἤργαζύμην A. 18. 3 κ*AB*DE, ἢργασάμην Mt. 25. 16 κ*B*DL, 26. 10 κ*B*D, Mc. 14. 6 κ*B*D, L. 19. 16 κ*AB*DE* al., H. 11. 33 κ*D* (see also R. 7. 8, 15. 18, 2 C. 7. 11, 12. 12; B* reads εἰ- only in R. 15. 18, κ in all these four passages, DE never) as in Attic, and in the Berlin Egyptian Records 530. 15 συνηργάσαντο (but perf. -ει-, augm. and redupl. being distinguished, see 6).
- 6. Reduplication.—Initial ρ loses its peculiarity in ρεραντισμένος H. 10. 22 κ*ACD*P for ερρ.: περιρεραμμένος Ap. 19. 13 only κ* (περιρεραντισμ. κ°), cp. ρεριμμένοι Mt. 9. 36 D*. (Similar forms in Ionian and late writers, W.-Schm. § 12, 8: Kühner, I.³ ii. 23). On ρ for ρρ, vide supra § 3, 10. μνηστεύω, μεμνηστευμένη (on the model of μέμνημαι) L. 1. 27, 2. 5 only as a v.l. (Clem. Hom. xiii. 16:

^a v. App. p. 307.

Kühner, ibid. 24). $\epsilon \tilde{\iota}\rho\gamma\alpha\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$ (from $F\epsilon F\epsilon\rho\gamma$.) as in Att. (augm. η , see 5) Jo. 3. 21, 1 P. 4. 3. Similarly we have $\epsilon \delta\rho\alpha\kappa\alpha$ beside $\epsilon \delta\rho\omega\nu$: in this case, however, the spelling $\epsilon \delta\rho\alpha\kappa\alpha$ is very widely spread both in Att. and in the N.T. (1 C. 9. 1 -0- 8B*D°EFGP, -ω- AB³ al.: Jo. 1. 18-0- B*EFGHKX, -ω- 8AB³CLM al. etc.). $\epsilon \tilde{\iota}\lambda\kappa\omega\mu\hat{\epsilon}\nu\sigma$ s is read by nearly all MSS. in L. 16. 20 (as if from $\tilde{\epsilon}\lambda\kappa\omega$).

7. Augment and reduplication in compound verbs and verbs derived from compounds.—Where the simple verb (with initial vowel) has been forgotten, the augment precedes the prepos. (so usu. in Att., but always in N.T.): καθείδω, ἐκάθευδον; καθίζω, ἐκάθισα, ἐκαθεζόμην, ἐκαθήμην¹; ἡμφιεσμένος. In addition to these N.T. has ἀφία (= ἀφίημι) ἤφιεν Mc. 1. 34, 11. 16 (attested also in Att., but hardly correctly, as an alternative for ἀφίει, ἢφίει), and ἀνοίγω, ἤνοιξα side by side with ἀνέφξα, ἤνέφξα, with inf. ἀνεφχθῆναι L. 3. 21 (ἀνοιχθ. only in D): impf. only (δι)ήνοιγε L. 24. 32, perf. act. in nearly all cases ἀνέφγα Jo. 1. 52 (ἠνεωγότα Ν), 1 C. 16. 9, 2 C. 6. 11. See irreg. verbs, § 24. Thus whereas in this instance the double augm. appears as against the Att. usage, ἀνέχομαι has only the single augm.: ἀνεσχόμην Α. 18. 4 (ἢν. DEHLP), ἀνείχεσθε 2 C. 11. 1 (ibid. 4, but BD* ἀνεχ.), cp. Moeris's dietum ἡνέσχετο ἀΛτικοί, ἀν. Ἑλληνες; elsewhere, too, in the N.T. there is no instance of doubly augmented forms of this kind.

Verbs derived from compounds $(\pi \alpha \rho \alpha \sigma \acute{\nu} \nu \theta \epsilon \tau a)$ are in general treated like compound verbs in Attic Gk., if the first component part is a prepos.: the same is always the rule in NT. except in the case of προφητεύειν: ἐπροφητεύσαμεν Mt. 7. 22 ×B*CLZ, προεφ. B²EGM al., 11. 13 ἐπροφήτευσαν ×B*CDG, προεφ. BEFG al., (with similar division of MSS.) 15. 7, Mc. 7. 6, L. 1. 67, A. 19. 6 (* always έπρ. except in Jd. 14 προεπροφητευσεν: Β* έπροφ., Β' έπροεφ., all others $\pi\rho$ οεφ.). So also διᾶκονῶ makes διηκόνουν (from διάκονος: does διά form part of the word?), but in Att. ἐδιακόνουν (we even have περισσεύω, περιέσσευον in E Acts 16. 5, a form proscribed by Phrynichus and Cramer, An. Ox. iii. 257). Verbs formed from compounds of $\epsilon \hat{v}$, when the adverb is followed by a short vowel, have a tendency in the late language to augment this vowel: εὐαγγελίζομαι, εὐηγγελιζόμην (so always): εὐαρεστῶ, εὐηρεστηκέναι Η. 11. 5 »DEP Verbs compounded of two prepositions tend to a (εὐαρ. AKL).3 double augmentation: ἀπεκατέστη (ἀποκ. B) Mc. 8. 25, ἀπεκατεστάθη (ἀποκ. DK) Mt. 12. 13: similarly Mc. 3. 5 (ἀποκ. D), L. 6. 10 (parallel forms occur in inscriptions and the papyri); but in H. 12. 4 αντεκατέστητε is hardly attested.

² This verb is treated at length in Κόντος κριτικαὶ καὶ γραμμ. παρατηρήσεις (1895), p. 70 ff.: see also W. Schmidt, Joseph. eloc. 442. Παρρησιάζομαι ἐπαρρ. does not come under this head (πᾶν not παρά is imbedded in it).

§ 16. VERBS IN -Ω. TENSE FORMATION.

- 1. Verbs with pure stem.—Φορέω keeps a short vowel in the formation of the tenses (Att. -η-), ἐφορέσαμεν, φορέσομεν 1 C. 15. 49 (φορέσαι Herm. Sim. ix. 16. 3, but perf. πεφορηκότες ibid. 1); ¹ inversely (ἐπι)ποθέω makes ἐπεπόθησα 1 P .2. 2 (LXX.; in old and Attic Gk. -εσα preponderates). Cp. ἐρρέθην from stem ρε- Mt. 5. 21 NLM al., 27 KL al., 31 NLM al., and so elsewhere interchangeably with ἐρρήθην (cp. LXX. and other late writings), but the short vowel is limited in N.T. and other writings to the indic.: where there is no augment the form is always ρηθείς etc. (but in Pap. Oxyrh. ii. p. 161, we even find ρεθέντων). Πεινᾶν makes πεινάσω, ἐπείνασα (no doubt with ἄ, not ā) L. 6. 25 etc. (so also LXX.); but διψᾶν, διψήσω. With σ we have λελουσμένοι H. 10. 23 ND*P, the other MSS. have λελουμ. as in Att. and so Jo. 13. 10 (-σμ- only E): κέκλεισμαι always (L. 11. 7 etc.), as against Att. -ειμαι (-ημαι): ἐκλείσθην as Att.: cp. irreg. verbs ζώννυμι, κεράννυμι, σφίζω.
- - 3. Verbs with liquid stem.—Verbs in -αίνω, -αίρω take only -ανα, -αρα in the 1st aor. act., without regard to the preceding sound: thus ἐξήρᾶνα (ρ precedes) as in Att., but also ἐλεύκᾶνα (ἐκέρδανα),² ἐβάσκᾶνα, ἐσήμᾶνα for Att. -ηνα: ἐπιφᾶναι from -φαίνω L. 1. 79, ἀναφάναντες (male -φανέντες AB*CE al.) A. 21. 3, φάνη Ap. 18. 23: ἐξεκάθᾶρα 1 C. 5. 7, 2 Tim. 2. 21 (ἐκάθαρα is also sporadically found in 4th century Attic). ²Αραι (contracted from ἀεῖραι) agrees with Att. Perf. pass. ἐξηραμμένος Mc. 11. 20 (Att. -ασμαι, though -αμμαι is also attested), μεμιαμμένος Tit. 1. 15 (Att. -σμ-), cp. μεμαραμμένος Herm. Vis. iii. 11. 2 κ (-ασμ- αs), κατησχυμμένος Mand. xii. 5. 2 (we even have κατασεσημημμένα in Pap. Ox. i. p. 183).

\S 17. VERBS IN - Ω . NEW FORMATION OF A PRESENT TENSE.

A new present tense is formed out of the perf. (instances of which are forthcoming also at an earlier period: γεγωνέω from γέγωνα): γρηγορείν (Phryn. 118) from έγρήγορα (the latter never in N.T.:

² 1 C. 9. 21 NAB al., but N°DEKL κερδήσω the regular form elsewhere, cp. Irreg. Verbs, § 24.

γρηγ. LXX., never in good writers, N.T. with aor. έγρηγόρησα): στήκω 'stand' from ἔστηκα (used along with the latter word)," Με. 11. 25 στήκετε (-ητε; στητε Ν), 3. 31 στήκοντες ΒC* (v.l. στάντες, έστηκότες, έστῶτες), 1 C. 16. 13 (imperat. στήκετε), G. 5. 1 (id.), Ph. 4. 1 (id.), 1 Th. 3. 8 (id.), the only additional forms elsewhere are στήκει R. 14, 4, and στήκετε indic. Ph. 1. 27: thus it is almost confined to Pauline writings, and is mainly found in the imperat. (for which έστατε is the old form, έστήκετε is unexampled). The word (mod. Gk. στέκω: στήκω, Epigr. Kaibel, 970) is thoroughly plebeian. Other exx. of new present forms are: ἀμφιάζω for -έννυμι (Hellenist., also LXX.) L. 12. 28, ἀμφιάζει Β, -έζει DL (the latter form, elsewhere unattested, is cited by Cramer, An. Ox. 2. 338, as κοινόν, and -άζω as δωρικόν), -έννυσι NA etc. as all MSS. read in Mt. 6. 30:—ἐνδιδύσκω 'put on' Mc. 15. 17 κBC (D ἐνδυδισκ.) for ένδίω: ένδιδύσκομαι 'put on oneself' L. 8. 27 καΑ (D -δυδί-) al. (v.l. 20r.), 16. 19 (LXX., Herm. Sim. ix. 13. 5):—κρύβω (Hellenist., see Phryn. Lob. 317: formed from the Hellenist. aor. ἐκρύβην, like έγράφην from γράφω: see § 19, 2), L. 1. 24 περιέκρυβεν impf., not 2nd aor.: elsewhere no instances of pres. or impf. in N.T., Ev. Petr. 16 ἐκρυβόμεθα:—(ἀπο)κτέν(ν)ω for -κτείνω, with extremely uncertain spelling: Mt. 10. 28 -κτεννόντων (-ενόντων Ε al., -εινόντων Β): Mc. 12. 5 -κτέννοντες, FG al. -ένοντες, Β -εννύντες, κ° -ιννύντες, MS σαίνοντες: L. 12. 4 -εννόντων, -ενόντων DG al., -αιν- M, -ειν- B: 2 C. 3. 6 -έννει, ACDE al. -ένει, B -είνει : Ap. 6. 11 -έννεσθαι, BP -είνεσθαι: 13. 10 -ένει, -ενει BCP, -είνει *; here Lachm. writes -αίνει (as he does in 2 C. 3. 6), Tischend. -ενεί. The ordinary -είνω has most support in Mt. 23. 37 (-ενν- CGK, -εν- N), L. 13. 34 (-ενν- AK al.). For the spelling with -νν- or -ν- see on χύν(ν)ω:—νίπτω (apparently not earlier than Hellenistic Gk., from νίψω, ἔνιψα) for νίζω: χύν(ν)ω for χέω (Hellenist., mod. Gk.: cp. κέχυμαι, έχύθην with $\epsilon \pi \lambda \hat{v} \theta \eta \nu$ from $\pi \lambda \hat{v} \nu \omega$) everywhere except in Mt. 9. 17 $\epsilon \kappa \chi \epsilon \hat{v} \tau a \iota$ (probably due to interpolation^d); in Ap. 16. 1 we should write $\epsilon \kappa \chi \epsilon a \tau \epsilon$ aor. with B instead of $-\epsilon \epsilon \tau \epsilon$. The best Mss. write the word with νν: A. 9. 22 ×B*C, 21. 31 ×*AB*D, 22. 20 ×AB*, Mt. 26. 28 ×ABCD al., similarly 23. 35, Mc. 14. 24, L. 11. 50, 22. 20; in other writings, however (Lob. Phryn. 726), χύνω is the only recognised form, and this also has analogy in its favour. Cp. further in the table of verbs, § 24, βλασταν, γαμίζειν, οπτάνεσθαι (under δραν).

\S 18. VERBS IN - Ω . ON THE FORMATION OF THE FUTURE.

1. The so-called Attic future of verbs in $-\epsilon \omega$, $-\epsilon \omega$ etc. disappears, almost entirely, as the name implies, from Hellenistic Greek, and entirely from the N.T.; therefore $-\epsilon \sigma \omega$, $-\epsilon \omega$, not $-\hat{\omega} -\epsilon \hat{\iota} s$, $-\hat{\omega} -\hat{\iota} s$ in N.T.

² Herm. Vis. v. 5 συγχύννου \aleph ; in Sim. viii. 2.•7 παραχέειν of as should perhaps be emended παραχέαι. a b c d v. App. p. 307.

Greek are correct (whilst the LXX. retains e.g. ἐργᾶται, ἀρπᾶ). So in particular καλώ καλέσω, τελώ τελέσω (ἀπόλλυμι, ἀπολέσω, Επολούμαι, § 24). On the other hand, verbs in -i(w to a great extent form their fut., as in Att., with -ιω, particularly (W. H. ii. App., p. 163) in the 3rd pers. plur. act., where the following syllable also begins with a σ: ἐλπιοῦσιν L. 1. 48, ἐδαφιοῦσιν 19. 44 ecc. (only in Col. 4. 9 γνωρίσουσιν 8ºBFGP, -ιοῦσιν 8*ACD° al., whereas ibid. 7 all MSS. have γνωρίσει, cp. E. 6. 21, Jo. 17. 26). In the LXX. the formation in -i prevails, and this is accordingly found in O.T. quotations, παροργιῶ R. 10. 19, μετοικιῶ A. 7. 43. Additional exx.: Mt. 25. 32 άφορίσει κ*LΔ, -ιεί κ°ABD al. (-ιοῦσιν 13. 49 all MSS.): βαπτίσει always: Ja. 4. 8 έγγιει (-ίσει À): ἐμφανίσω, θερίσω, καθίσω are constant: διακαθαριεί Mt. 3. 12, item (L. 3. 17) H. 9. 14 (καθ.): κομιείσθε 1 P. 5. 4, κομιείται Col. 3. 25 ACD* (-ίσεται *BD° al.), E. 6. 8 κ°D° al. (-ίσεται κ*ABD* al.), κομιούμενοι 2 P. 2. 13 (v.l. άδικούμενοι): στηρίζω, , ίσω or -ίξω, § 16, 2. φωτιεί Αp. 22. 5 κΒ, -ίσει ΑΡ: χαρίσεται R. 8, 32: χρονιεί Η. 10. 37 O.T. 8 AD al., -ίσει 8*D* (οὐ μὴ χρονίση LX.X. ed.): χωρίσω. Since in O.T. quotations the -ιῶ of the LXX. has, not been corrupted by scribes into -ίσω, it appears that in original passages of the N.T. the reading -iow should in general be preferred.

- 2. Future without the characteristic form of the future tense.— Πίομαι agrees with the Att. form: for ἔδομαι N.T. has φάγομαι,• L. 14. 15, 17. 8, Jo. 2. 17 O.T., Ja. 5. 2, Ap. 17. 16 (LXX. has εοδμαι passim: φάγομαι, εφαγον correspond to πίσμαι, επιον: Phryn. 327, φάγ. βάρβαρον). In place of the fut. χέω the LXX. and N.T. have $\chi \in \hat{\omega}$, $\chi \in \hat{\omega}$; etc.; $\dot{\epsilon} \kappa \chi \in \hat{\iota} \tau \in \text{Deut. } 12.$ 16, 24 (Clem. Cor. ii. 7. 5 παθείται for πείσεται from πάσχω, cp. καθεδούμαι).
- 3. Whereas in Att. many active verbs form a future middle, in N.T. the active form is in most cases employed throughout. 'Aκούσομαι occurs in the Acts (exc. in 28. 26 O.T. quot. -ετε) and R. 10. 14 a wrong reading of * DE al. for -σωσιν * B; but ἀκούσω," Jo. 5. 25 (-0v7ai AD al.), 28 (item), 10. 16 al. (where there is diversity of reading -σω is preferable, since -σομαι has not been corrupted in the Acts). 'Αμαρτήσω Mt. 18. 21 (Herm. Mand. iv. 1. 1, 2): ἀπαντήσω Mc. 14. 13: ἀρπάσω Jo. 10. 28 (ΝDLΧ οὐ μὴ άρπάση): βλέψω Acts 28. 26 Ο.Τ.: γελάσω L. 6. 21: (γνώσομαι as ordinarily): διώξω Mt. 23. 34 al.: 1 (ἐσθίω, φάγομαι, see 2): ζήσω Jo. 5. 25 ABDL (-ονται A al.), 6. 51 ADL (-εται BC al.), 57 ABC² (- $\epsilon \tau \alpha \iota \Gamma \Delta$ al., $\xi \hat{\eta}$ C*D), with diversity of reading ibid. 58 and so passim, ζήσομαι all MSS. in Jo. 11. 25, R. 8. 13, ζήσω (1 Th. 5. 10, see § 65, 2) 2 Tim. 2. 11 (συνξήσομεν; -ωμεν CLP is only a corruption): both forms also occur in Att.: (ἀποθανούμαι as usual): θαυμάσονται Ap. 17. 8 κB, correctly for N.T. θαυμασθήσονται AP (from θαυμάζομαι = -ω, cp. 13. 3): κλαύσω L. 6. 25, Jo. 16. 20, Ap. 18. 9 (wrongly -ονται &A, though so read in Herm. Vis. iii. 3. 2):

^{1 &#}x27;Επιορκήσω Mt. 5. 33 ic also the Att. form: κατεπιορκησόμενος Demosth. 54. 40 is passive. ^α v. App. p. 307.

κράξω L. 19. 40 κΒL, κεκράξονται AR al. as in Att. and LXX., κράξονται ΦD: (λή(μ)ψομαι, όψομαι as usual): παίξω Mc. 10. 34: (πεσοῦμαι, πίομαι as usual): ρεύσω Jo. 7. 38: σπουδάσω 2 P. 1. 15 (-άζω κ): συναντήσω (cp. ἀπαντ.: no Attic instance of fut. from συναντώ) L. 22. 10, A. 20. 22: (τέξομαι, φεύξομαι, χαρήσομαι as usual).

\S 19. VERBS IN - $\!\Omega$. FIRST AND SECOND AORIST.

- 1. 1st aorist act. in -σα instead of 2nd aorist.—("Ηξα) beside ἤγαγον is seen in ἐπάξας 2 P. 2. 5, ἐπισυνάξαι L. 13. 34, συνάξαντες A. 14. 27 D (found at the least in dialects, LXX., and late writers): ήμάρτησα side by side with ημαρτον R. 5. 14, 16, Mt. 18. 15, Herm. Mand. iv. 3. 6. vi. 2. 7 etc. (Empedocl., LXX., Lob. Phryn. 732): ἐβίωσα 1 P. 4. 2 (the better Att. form is $\epsilon \beta i\omega \nu$), $\epsilon \zeta \gamma \sigma a$ often takes the place of the last word (Ionic and late, not Att.) A. 26. 5 etc.: ἐβλάστησα Mt. 13. 26, H. 9. 4, cartsative Ja. 5. 18 as in LXX. Gen. 1. 11 (Empedocl., late writers), never ἔβλαστον: ἔδυσα intrans. for ἔδυν Mc. 1. 32 BD (ἔδυ × A etc.), L. 4. 40 δύσαντος D, δύναντος a few MSS., δύνοντος most MSS.: ἔκραξα as in late writers (the Attic ἀνέκραγον in L. 23. 18 BLT and Herm. Vis. iii. 8. 9 ἀνέκραγεν; Α. 24. 21 ἐκέκραξα *ABC as LXX.): ἔλειψα (late) A. 6. 2 (κατέλ.), L. 5. 11 D (id.), Mc. 12. 19 * καταλείψη for $-\lambda(\epsilon)$ ίπη, elsewhere $\tilde{\epsilon}\lambda\iota\pi o\nu$. The assimilation to the ofut. is everywhere well marked.—A new 2nd aor. ἀνέθαλον is formed from ἀναθάλλω Ph. 4. 10 (LXX.), apparently in causative sense (ἀνεθάλετε τὸ ὑπὲρ ἐμοῦ φρονεῖν), unless τοῦ should be read with FG; cp. §§ 24: 71, 2.
- 2. 2nd aorist passive for 2nd aorist active.— Έφύην for ἔφυν, φυέν (συμφυεῖσαι) L. 8. 6 ff., ἐκφυῆ Mt. 24. 32 = Mc. 13. 28 (like ἐρρύην; late). So also παρεισεδύησαν for -υσαν is read by B in Jd. 4.
- 3. 1st and 2nd agrist (and future) passive.—In the passive voice the substitution of the 2nd agr. for the 1st is a very favourite idiom. $\eta \gamma \gamma \epsilon \lambda \eta \nu^c L$. 8. 20 $d\pi$. (LXX., and as early as Att.): ηνοίγην Mc. 7. 35 $(-0i\chi\theta. \text{ A al.}), \text{ A. 12. 10 } (-\chi\theta\eta \text{ EHLP}), \text{ Ap. 11. 19 } (-\chi\theta\eta \text{ B}), \text{ 15. 5 side}$ by side with -χθην (Att. has 1st aor.): fut. -γήσομαι Mt. 7. 7, L. 11. 10 NAC al., ανοίγεται BD (as also B in Mt. loc. cit.), but -χθήσομαι L. 11. 9 f. (A)(D)EF al.: ήρπάγην 2 C. 12. 2, 4 (late) for Att. $\eta \rho \pi d\sigma \theta \eta \nu$ (so Ap. 12. 5 ACP, but $-\dot{\alpha} \gamma \eta \approx -\dot{\alpha} \chi \theta \eta$ B), with fut. -γήσομαι 1 Th. 4. 17: ἐκάην (Hom., Ionic, late writers) Ap. 8. 7, 1 C. 3. 15 (2 P. 3. 10), elsewhere, as in Att., we have the 1st aor. and the fut. formed from it: ἐκρύβην Mt. 5. 14, etc. In these new 2nd agrist forms there was a preference for the medial letters as the final sound of the stem, even though as in the last instance ($\kappa\rho\nu\phi$ -) the stem strictly had another termination $(-\phi \theta \eta \nu)$ Att., $-\phi \eta \nu$ poet.): cp. pres. $\kappa \rho \dot{v} \beta \omega$ § 17 : κατενύγην Acts 2. 37 : διορυγήναι v.l. $-\chi \theta \hat{\eta} \nu \alpha \iota$ Mt. 24. 48 (Herm. Sim. ix. 6. 7): διετάγην G. 3. 19 ὑπετάγην

¹ Χαρήσομαι is also to be regarded as Att. fut. of the arrist, as compared with χαιρήσω fut. of the present.

 $^{^2}$ Herm. Sim. viii. 3. 5 has κατέλειψεν along with -ιπεν. Clem. Cor. ii. 5 καταλείψαντας, 10 -λείψωμεν. Deissmann N. B. 18 [= Bible St. 190] (the simple form ἔλειψα is frequent in the Anthology).

- R. 8. 20, 10. 3 al., προσετάγη Herm. Mand. iv. 1. 10, ὑποταγήσομαι 1 C. 15. 28, H. 12. 9 (Barn. 19. 7), but L. 17. 9 f. διαταχ (Εντα as in Attic. Ψύχω makes ψυγήσεται Mt. 24. 12 (-χήσεται K; late writers even say ψύγω, Lob. on Soph. Ajax, p. 373^2 : cp. ἐκρύβην κρύβω). New 1st aorists (for what in Attic is expressed by a different verb) are ἐτέχθην L. 2. 11, Mt. 2. 2 (Att. ἐγενόμην): ἀπεκτάνθην passim (Att. ἀπέθανον). A substitute for 2nd aor. is ἐκλίθην (poet.), the regular form (also κλιθήσομαι) for Att. ἐκλίνην.
- 4. On the intermixture of terminations of the 1st and 2nd aor. act. and mid. see § 21, 1.

§ 20. VERBS IN -Q. AORIST AND FUTURE OF DEPONENT VERBS.

1. Agrist passive for agrist middle.— Έγενήθην (Hellenist., Phryn. 108. LXX.) in addition to ἐγενόμην: Mt. 6. 10, 9. 29, 15. 28, 26. 42 imperat. $\gamma \epsilon \nu \eta \theta \dot{\eta} \tau \omega$, in O.T. quot. $\dot{\epsilon} \gamma \epsilon \nu \dot{\eta} \theta \eta$ 21. 42; elsewhere only 11. 23 -νήθησαν ×BCD, 28. 4 ×BC*DL; Mc. and Jo. (including Epp. and Apoc.) never have this form except in O.T. quotations, so also L. Gosp., but 10. 13 (= Mt. 11. 23) -νήθησαν BDLΞ, 18. 23 -νήθη NBL: in Acts the only instance is 4. 4 all Mss. $-\nu \eta \theta \eta$, but D also has it in 7. 13, 20. 3, 16; it is frequent, however, in the epistles of Paul and Peter, and in Hebrews. Cp. the perfect yeyévnµaı (found in Att.) in addition to γέγονα. 'Απεκρίθην (Hellenist., Phryn. 108) is universal, Luke alone uses the Attic form ἀπεκρινάμην as well, 3. 16 (23. 9, L correctly -veto), A. 3. 12 (D is different), and always in the indic.: otherwise the latter form is only found with var. lect.: Mt. 27. 12 (D correctly -ετο), Mc. 14. 61 (-ίθη D; -νετο?), Jo. 5. 17, The corresponding fut. is ἀποκριθήσομαι. So also ύποκρινομαι 'dissemble,' συνυπεκρίθησαν G. 2. 13 (ὑπεκρίθην Herm. Sim. ix. 19. 3, as Polyb.), διακρίνομαι 'doubt,' διεκρίθην. ' $\Lambda \pi \epsilon$ λογήθην (an old form, but not good Attic) L. 21. 14, απελογήσησθε12. 11, but Clem. Alex. ii. 357 Dind. cites here too $-\eta\theta\hat{\eta}\tau\epsilon$. Again, ἐγείρομαι only makes ἡγέρθην (found in Attic), never ἡγρόμην: ἀναπαύομαι, (ἐπ)αναπαήσομαι L.~10.~6~8B (-αύσεται rell.), Ap. 14. 13 NAC (ibid. 6. 11 -αύσονται or -ωνται all MSS., and so elsewhere; but Herm. Vis. i. 3. 3 κ, iii. 9. 1 κ ἐπάην, and καταπαήσεται Pap. Londin. p. 113, line 916; εκαυσα, εκάην corresponds to επαυσα, επάην). Το verbs expressive of emotion, which also in Att. take a passive agrist, belong ἀγαλλιῶμαι (found along with -ιῶ, § 24), ἡγαλλιάθην (-σθην BL) Jo. 5. 35 (but 8. 56 -ασάμην, and so elsewhere): (θαυμάζομαι, late form) έθαυμάσθην Ap. 13. 3 A (-αύμασεν NBP, -αυμαστώθη C), -σθήσομαί 17. 8, cp. § 18, 3 (the act. -άζω occurs in Ap. 17. 7 and regularly elsewhere; έθαυμάσθην in pass. sense 2 Th. 1. 10): θαμβείσθαι Mc. 1. 27 έθαμβήθησαν (-βησαν D), θαμβηθέντες A. 3. 11 D, cp. impf. Mc. 10. 24, 32, but θαμβών A. 9. 6 D as in Hom. etc.—Διελέξατο A. 17. 2 $AB (-\epsilon \chi \theta \eta DE)$, 18. 19 $AB (-\epsilon \chi \theta \eta EHLP)$ is a wrong reading for διελέγετο; the Attic διελέχθην stands in Mc. 9. 34. 'Αρνείσθαι and a b c v. App. p. 308.

άπ- have only the aor. mid. (Att. more often aor. pass.; a corrupt active for π άπαρνησαι occurs in Herm. Sim. i. 5).

2. The future passive (i.e. strictly the aoristic fut., see § 14, 1) is found with other verbs similar to those mentioned: (εὐφρανθήσομαι only B for pres. Ap. 11. 16) κοιμηθήσομαι 1 C. 15. 51, μεταμεληθήσομαι Η. 7. 21 O.T. φιοτ., φανήσομαι (φανοῦμαι 1 P. 4. 18 O.T. quot.), φοβηθήσομαι Η. 13. 6 O.T. On the other hand: γενήσομαι, δυνήσομαι, επιμελήσομαι 1 Tim. 3. 5: πορεύσομαι (L. 11. 5 etc.).

§ 21. VERBS IN -Ω. TERMINATIONS.

1. As early as Attic Greek there is not wanting an intermediate form between the 1st and 2nd aor. act. mid., with the terminations of the 1st agr. but without its σ : $\epsilon i\pi a$ beside $\epsilon i\pi \nu \nu$, $\eta \nu \epsilon \gamma \kappa a$ beside ηνέγκον. The Hellenistic language had a tendency to extend this type to numerous agrists which in classical Greek had the terminations of the 2nd aor. throughout: $\epsilon \tilde{\iota} \lambda \alpha$, $- \dot{\alpha} \mu \eta \nu$, $\epsilon \tilde{\nu} \rho \alpha$, $- \dot{\alpha} \mu \eta \nu$ etc. (Kühner I.3 ii. 104). Still this process, by means of which the second agrist was eventually quite superseded, is in the N.T. far from complete. Elma (W. H. App. 164) keeps a unchanged in the forms with τ (as also in Att.): εἴπατε, -άτω, -άτωσαν; also fairly often before μ: ἀπειπάμεθα 2 C. 4. 2, προείπαμεν 1 Th. 4. 6 (-ο- AKL al.); eîmas Mt. bis, L. semel, Mc. 12. 32 with v.l. -es DEF al., Jo. 4. 17 - ϵ s B^ ; - $\alpha \nu$ has preponderant evidence; rarely $\epsilon i\pi \alpha$ as in "A. 26. 15; imperat. $\epsilon i\pi \hat{\epsilon}$ and $\epsilon i\pi o\nu$ (for accent, Lob. Phr. 348) interchangeably; the part εἴπας is rare (A. 22, 29 -ών HLP), εἴπασα hardly occurs (in Jo. 11. 28 all Mss. have εἰποῦσα in the first place, BC* have -aσa in the second; -aσa Herm. Vis. iii. 2. 3 N, iv. 3. 7 N*); εἰπόντος etc. and εἰπεῖν are constant. Ἡνεγκα has a except in the infin. (only 1 P. 2. 5 has ἀνενέγκαι, always -είν in Joseph., W. Schm. de Joseph. elocut. 457); imp. Mt. 8. 4 προσένεγκε (-ον BC), παρ- Mc. 14. 36, L. 22. 42 (male vv. Il. -αι L al., -είν AQ al.). Other verbs never have inf. in -a nor part. -as, nor yet imperat. 2 sing. in -oν; on the other hand these forms occur: εβαλαν A. 16. 37 BD, 21. 27  A (ἐπ-), Mc. 14. 46 *B (ἐπ-), (ἐξέβαλαν Mc. 12. 8 B, cp. Mt. 13. 48 D, 21. 39 D, Ap. 18. 19 C); elbar Mt. 13. 17 NB, L. 10. 24 NBC al., Mc. 6. 33 D etc.: εἴδάμεν Mt. 25. 37 B*I, Mc. 2. 12 CD, 9. 38 DN: εἴδατε L. 7. 22 A, Jo. 6. 26 C: εἶδα Ap. 17. 3 A, 6 MA; in these instances -ov has far the most support from the MSS. It is otherwise with είλον, -λα: είλατο 2 Th. 2. 13 (-ετο K), Herm. Sim. v. 6. 6: ἀνείλατε Α. 2. 23, -ατο 7. 21 (-ετο P), -αν 10. 39 (-ον HLP): ἐξείλατο 7. 10 (-ετο H), 12. 11 (-ετο P), -άμην 23. 27 (-όμην HLP), but -έσθαι 7. 34 O.T. quot. Εδρα has only slender attestation: εὐράμενος Η. 9. 12 (-ό- D*), -αν L. 8. 35 B*, Mt. 22. 10 D, A. 5. 10 AE, 13. 6 A: -αμεν L. 23. 2 B*L al. Again there is preponderant evidence for έπεσα, -αν, -ατε (G. 5. 4): imp. -ατε L. 23. 30 (-ετε ABD al.), Ap. 6. 16 (-ετε *BC). *Hλθα Ap. 10. 9 A (-ον ΝΒČP), -αμεν A. 27. 5 ΝÅ, 28. 16 A. 21.6 B, Mt. 25. 39 D: -αν is often interchanged with -ον: but the imp. $\tilde{\epsilon}\lambda\theta\alpha\tau\epsilon$, $\tilde{\epsilon}\lambda\theta\acute{\alpha}\tau\omega$ is ^{a b} v. App. p. 308.

- attested by the mass of the MSS. All other instances are quite isolated: $\delta\pi\epsilon\theta a\nu a\nu$ Mt. 8. 32 \aleph^b , L. 20. 31 B*, Jo. 8. 53 D*: $\epsilon\lambda a\beta a\nu$, $-a\mu\epsilon\nu$, $-a\tau\epsilon$ Jo. 1. 12 and 1 Jo. 2. 27 B*, L. 5. 5 A: $\epsilon\pi\iota a\nu$ 1 C. 10. 4 D* etc.
- 2. The (mod. Gk.) extension of the terminations -a, -as etc. to the imperfect is rare, and in no case unanimously attested. Εἶχαν Mc. 8. 7 ΝΒΟΔ, A. 28. 2 ΝΑΒ, 8. 10 Ν, Ap. 9. 8 ΝΑ (9 -ον omn.), L. 4. 40 D, Jo. 15. 22, 24 D* (rell. -ον or -οσαν): -αμεν 2 Jo. 5 ΝΑ: ἔλεγαν Jo. 11. 56 ΝD, 9. 10, 11. 36 Ν*, A. 28. 6 B. According to Buresch, Rh. Mus. 46, 224, these forms should not be recognised in the N.T., since the MSS. supporting them are quite thrown into the shade by the enormous mass of those which support -ον, -ες etc.
- 3. The (aoristic) termination -αν for -ασι in the 3rd pers. plur. perf. (Alexandrian according to Sext. Emp. adv. gramm. 213) is not frequent either in the LXX. or in the N.T., and in the latter is nowhere unanimously attested, so that its originality is subject to the same doubt with the last exx. (Buresch, p. 205 ff.). The instances are: ξώρακαν L. 9. 36 BC²LX, Col. 2. 1 κ*ABCD*P: τετήρηκαν BDL Jo. 17. 6: ἔγνωκαν ABCD al., ibid. 7 (ἐτήρησαν ἔγνων κ): ἀπέσταλκαν κAB A. 16. 36: εἰσελήλνθαν BP Ja. 5. 4: γέγοναν R. 16. 7 κAB, Ap. 21. 6 κ°A (-α κ*BP, Buresch): πέπ(τ)ωκαν 18. 3 AC: εἴρηκαν 19. 3 κAP.
- 4. The termination -σαν for -ν in the 3rd pers. plur. in Hellenistic and N.T. Greek is constant in the imper. (also in the pass. and mid. as προσευξάσθωσαν Ja. 5. 14); in the impf. (Hellenist., Kn. I. ii. 355) it is found in ἐδολιοῦσαν R. 3. 13 O.T. quot.: also εἴχοσαν Jo. 15. 22, 24 &B al. (εἶχαν D*, εἶχον AD² which makes a very serious ambiguity), παρελάβοσαν 2 Th. 3. 6 AD (-ετε BFG, -ον *Deore E al., somewhat ambiguous). The forms are apparently authentic, since it is difficult to suppose that they were very familiar to the scribes, except in contract verbs, where these forms are also found in mod. Gk.; ep. ἐθορυβοῦσαν D A. 17. 5 (κατοικουσαν? D 2. 46; D also has ψηλαφήσαισαν, εὕροισαν in 17. 27, see 5; Herm. Sim. vi. 2. 7 εὐσταθοῦσαν, ix. 9. 5 ἐδοκοῦσαν). Cp. Buresch, 195 ff.
- 5. The termination -εs for -as (in perf. and aor.) is not only quite unclassical, but is also only slenderly attested in the N.T.: Ap. 2. 3 κεκοπίακες AC, 4 ἀφῆκες C: ἐλήλυθες A. 21. 22 Β, ἑώρακες Jo. 8. 57 Β*, ἔδωκες 17. 7 AB, 8 Β, εἴληφες Ap. 11. 17 C etc. (W.-Schm. § 13, 16; Buresch, 219 ff.; εἴωθες Papyr. of Hyperides c. Philipp. col. 4. 20).
- 6. The rare optative has 3rd sing. of the 1st aor. in αι (also Clem. Cor. i. 33. i ἐάσαι), not the better Att. -ειε; and a corresponding 3rd plur. in αιεν: ποιήσαιεν L. 6. 11 BL (-ειεν ΝΑ, -ειαν Att. ΕΚΜ al.: D has quite a different reading): A. 17. 27 ψηλαφήσειαν B al., -ειεν ΝΕ, -αισαν and ibid. εὕροισαν D, which may be correct (cp.

¹ Apollonius, Synt. i. 10, p. 37: 37, p. 71, attests εξρηκες, έγραψες, γραψέτω for -ας, -άτω as forms about which grammarians were in conflict. 'Αφήκετε Β* Mt. 23. 23.

LXX. αἰνέσαισαν Gen. 49. 8, ἔλθοισαν Deut. 33. 16, W.-Schm. § 13, 14, note 14; Even γένοισαν, Kleinasiat. Inschr. Bull. de corresp. hellén. ii. 600), since the scribes of D and of its ancestors certainly did not find the optative in the living language.

7. The plupf. of course keeps ει (not ε) in the plur.: πεποιήκεισαν

Mc. 15. 7 etc.

8. The 2nd pers. sing. of the pres. and fut. pass. and mid. regularly ends (as also in the older Attic) in $-\eta$; the later Attic $\epsilon\iota$ ($\eta\iota$ and $\epsilon\iota$ interchangeable, § 3, 5) is found only in the word $\beta o i \lambda \epsilon\iota$, borrowed by Luke from the literary language (L. 22. $42 - \lambda \eta$ FGR al.; cp. Herm. Sim. ix. 11. 9 $\beta o i \lambda \eta$, v. 5. 5 apparently $\beta o i \lambda \epsilon\iota$, $= \theta \epsilon \lambda \epsilon\iota$ s of the popular language. Along with $-\eta$, the termination $-\sigma a\iota$, esp. frequent in contract verbs in $-a\omega$, corresponding to the forms $-\mu a\iota$, $-\tau a\iota$ as in the perf., is a new formation of the popular language which coincides with the primitive ending, and in mod. Greek has affected verbs of all classes? 'Οδυνάσαι L. 16. 25: καυχάσαι 1 C. 4. 7, R. 2. 17, 23, 11. 18: also ϕ άγεσαι, πίεσαι L. 17. 8. (Herm. Vis. ii. 4. 1 πλανάσαι: Sim. i. 3 χράσαι [Vis. iii. 6. 7 the same form, but corrupt], ix. 2. 6 ἐπισπάσαι.) These should be regarded as the regular forms in the N.T., since δδυνξ, ϕ άγη, πίη are not represented.

§ 22. CONTRACT VERBS.

- 1. Verbs in -4ω.— $Z\hat{\eta}\nu$ takes η as in Att., but $\pi\epsilon\iota\nu\hat{\alpha}\nu$, $\delta\iota\psi\hat{\alpha}\nu$ take α for η as in other Hellenist. writings (cp. $\hat{\epsilon}\pi\epsilon\iota\nu\alpha\sigma\alpha$, § 16, 1). (From $\hat{\zeta}\hat{\eta}\nu$ 1 sing. impf. $\tilde{\epsilon}\hat{\zeta}\eta\nu$ R. 7. 9 B for $\tilde{\epsilon}\hat{\zeta}\omega\nu$.) From $\chi\rho\hat{\omega}\mu\alpha$ we have $\chi\rho\hat{\eta}\tau\alpha\iota$ in 1 Tim. 1. 8 ×D al., $\chi\rho\hat{\eta}\sigma\eta\tau\alpha\iota$ AP, otherwise there is no apposite example; $\chi\rho\hat{\alpha}\sigma\theta\iota\iota$ is Hellenistic, cp. Clem. Cor. ii. 6. 5 A, § 21, 7, W.-Schm. § 13, 24.—Confusion of - $\hat{\alpha}\omega$ and - $\hat{\epsilon}\omega$: $\hat{\eta}\rho\hat{\omega}\tau\sigma\nu\nu$ Mt. 15. 23 ×ABCD, Mc. 4. 10 ×C, Jo. 4. 31 C (no Ms. in 4. 40 [9. 15 X], 12. 21), A. 16. 39 A; no other form of this vb. with ov. [$\hat{\epsilon}\nu\epsilon\hat{\beta}\rho\iota\mu\hat{\omega}\nu\nu\tau\sigma$ Mc. 14. 5 ×C*, - $\mu\hat{\omega}\hat{\mu}\mu\hat{\omega}\nu\sigma$ Jo. 11. 38 ×AU; $\hat{\beta}\rho\iota\mu\hat{\omega}\hat{\omega}\sigma\theta\alpha$, 'to be angry,' occurs in Xenoph. Cyrop. 4. 5. 9, - $\hat{\alpha}\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$ in Aristoph. and Lucian, § 20, 1; the case therefore resembles $\hat{\eta}\sigma\sigma\hat{\alpha}\sigma\theta\alpha\iota \hat{\eta}\sigma\sigma\hat{\omega}\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$, Koπιοῦσιν Mt. 6. 28 B:— $\nu\iota\kappa\hat{\omega}\nu\tau\iota$ Ap. 2. 17 AC, 2. 7 A (-οντι B), 15. 2 C:— $\kappa\alpha\tau\epsilon\hat{\lambda}\hat{\epsilon}\gamma\sigma\nu\nu$ L. 8. 53 D*KX etc. Cp. mod. Greek; W.-Schm. § 13, 26.—On - $\hat{\alpha}\sigma\alpha\iota$, 2 pers. sing. pass., see § 21, 7.
- 2. Verbs in -έω.—Uncontracted contrary to the rule is ἐδέετο L. 8. 38 (-εἶτο καBC²LX, -εεῖτο AP formed out of -εετο with correction ει written over it), cp. Clem. Hom. iii. 63; πνέει Jo. 3. 8 according to L and Chrys.; κατέρρεε Apoc. Peti. 26, Phryn. 220. It is conceivable that the conjugation was pneo pne -is -i -omen -ete, and not pnis -i -ite.—Confusion of -έω and -άω: ἐλεῶντος R. 9. 16 (-οῦντος B³K), ἐλεᾶτε Jd. 22 κΒC², 23 κΒ (there is much variety of reading in this verse); but R. 9. 18 ἐλεεῖ κΑ²BD°L al., ἐλεῷ only in D*(E)FG (otherwise no exx. of such forms from ἐλεῶ: both forms found in

- LXX.: ¹ the tenses have η , though $\dot{\epsilon}\acute{a}\omega$ has $\dot{\epsilon}\acute{a}\sigma\omega$):— $\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\lambda\acute{o}\gamma\alpha$ Philem. 18, $-\epsilon\iota \ \aleph^c D^{corr} EKL$, $-\hat{a}\tau a\iota \ R$. 5. 13 only \aleph^a (and $\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\lambda\acute{o}\gamma\hat{a}\tau\dot{b}$ A); the Hellenistic vb. elsewhere employs $-\epsilon i\nu$.²
- 3. Verbs in -δω.—Infin. -οῖν (= όειν) for -οῖν: κατασκηνοῖν Mt. 13. 32 B*D, Mc. 4. 32 B*: ἀποδεκατοῖν H. 7. 5 BD*: φιμοῖν 1 P. 2. 15 κ*: but πληροῦν all uncials in L. 9. 31, and it is the constant form in LXX., so that the termination -οῖν is hardly established for the N.T. Cp. W.-Schm. § 13, 25: Hatzidakis Einl. in d. neugr. Gramm. 193.—The conjunctive is regular in εὐοδῶται 1 C. 16. 2 (-δωθŷ καΙ al.): on the other hand it takes the indic. form in G. 4. 17 ζηλοῦτε, 1 C. 4. 6 φυσιοῦσθε (just as the sing. of the conj. act. is identical with the indic., and in vbs. in -άω the whole conjunctive).

§ 23. VERBS IN -MI.

- 1. The conjugation in -μι, which from the beginning of the Greek language gradually gives way to the other conjugation in -ω, and which has eventually entirely disappeared in modern Greek, in spite of many signs of decay is not yet obsolete in the N.T. In vbs. in -νυμι (and in ὅλλυμι), which in Attic and other early writers have already a very strong rival in the forms in $-(\nu)i\omega$, the older method of formation has not yet disappeared in the N.T., and is especially the prevalent form (as in Att.) in the passive: Mt. 8. 25 ἀπολλύμεθα, 9. 17 ἀπόλλυται, etc. Active forms: δείκνυμι 1 C. 12. 31 (never -ύω in this form), δεικνύεις Jo. 2. 18 (never -υς), δείκνυσιν Mt. 4. 8 (κ -νύει), Jo. 5. 20 (-νύει D, but ibid. D -νυσιν for δείξει), cp. ἀμφιέννυσιν § 24; but ἀπολλύει Jo. 12. 25 (v.l. -έσει), ὀμνύει
 Mt. 23. 20 ff. (from this verb there is no certain form in -μι), όμνύουσιν Η. 6. 16. Imperf. only in -ω form: εζώννυες Jo. 21. 8, (ὑπ)εστρώννυον Mt. 21. 8 (v.l. ἔστρωσαν), Mc. 11. 8 D, L. 19. 36. Imperat. $d\pi \delta \lambda \lambda v \in \mathbb{R}$. 14. 15, $\delta \mu \nu \dot{\nu} \epsilon \tau \epsilon$ Ja. 5. 12, $\sigma \beta \dot{\epsilon} \nu \nu v \tau \epsilon$ 1 Th. 5. 19. Infin. ομνύειν Mt. 26. 74, Mc. 14. 71 (-ύναι BEHL al.), δεικνύειν 16. 21 (-ύναι Β). Partic. ἀπολλύων Αp. 9. 11, δεικνύοντος 22. 8 (-ύντος κ): but ὑποζωννύντες Α. 27. 17, ἀποδεικνύντα 2 Th. 2. 4 (-ύοντα AFG).
- 2. In verbs in -άναι, -έναι, -όναι there are similar transitions to the ω conjugation. Συνίστημι R. 16. 1, συνίστησι 3. 5, 5. 8, 2 C. 10. 8 are a few certain relics of the active of these forms in -άναι (undoubtedly from the literary language); elsewhere this verb takes the form of ἱστάνειν (Hellenist.), for which ἱστᾶν (more often than -άνειν in LXX.) is a frequent v.l., occasionally also the plebeian στάνειν (ἀποκαταστάνεις Α. 1. 6 D, 17. 15 καταστάνουτες D*, Mc. 9. 12 ἀποκαταστάνει Ν*D, -τιστάνει Β*). Thus: συνιστάνειν 2 C_ι, 3. 1, FG -άναι, BD* -ᾶν: 4. 2 συνιστάντες NCD*FG, -ῶντες D°EKL, -ἄνουτες ABP, a similar division of the MSS. in 6. 4 (-ῶντες is also read by N°): 1 C. 13. 2 μεθιστάνειν ACKL, -άναι NBDEFG (this is the only instance where a μι form is strongly supported as a v.l.): μεθιστάνει

 $^{^2}$ On this confusion of $\text{-} \omega$ and $\text{-} \epsilon \omega$ see Hatzidakis, Einl. in d. neugr. Gr. 128.

- Herm. Vis. i. 3. 4. Πιμπλῶν stands for πιμπλῶναι in A. 14. 17 ἐμπι(μ)πλῶν (LXX.). The passive remains unaffected by this change (cp. 1): περιίστασο 2 Tim. 2. 16, Tit. 3. 9, καθίσταται Η. 5. 1 etc. ([ἐμ]πίμπρασθαι Α. 28. 6, Tisch. -ᾶσθαι), κρέμαται Μt. 22. 40, κρεμάμενος Α. 28. 4, G. 3. 13 O.T. quot.: so also δύναμαι, ἐπίσταμαι as usual, except that δύνομαι, -όμεθα, -όμενος are read by B or B* in Mt. 19. 12, 26. 53, Mc. 10. 39, A. 4. 20, 27. 15 (also in the papyri), cp. ἐξεκρέμετο L. 19. 48 κB: and δύνη stands for δύνασαι in Mc. 9. 22 f. κ (or κ°) BD al., 1. 40 B, L. 16. 2 κBDP (v.l. -ήση), Ap. 2. 2, but -ασαι is read by all MSS. in Mt. 5. 36, L. 5. 12, 6. 42, Jo. 13. 36 (Phryn. 359: still δύνη or -α is already found in Attic poets). Cp. W.-Schm. § 14, 17; both forms are found in Hermas, e.g. δύνη Vis. ii. 1. 3, iii. 10. 8, -ασαι iii. 8. 5.—On ἔστην vide infra 4.
- 3. Τίθημι, δίδωμι.—The pres. indic. as in Att.; παραδίδως is found L. 22. 4; διδῶ only in Ap. 3. 9 AC¹ (-ωμι ΒΡ, δέδωκα κ); τιθι, i.e. τίθει, for -ησιν occurs in L. 8. 16 D. But in the impf. the forms ἐτίθει, ἐδίδον are already found in Att. and so in N.T.; 3rd plur. ἐτίθονν A. 3. 2, 4. 35 (cp. for Attic, Bekk. Anecd. i. 90), also 8. 17 according to D*EHLP (-εσαν κΑD², -οσαν Β, -εισαν C), Mc. 6. 56 ADN al. (-εσαν κΒLΔ): ἐδίδονν A. 4. 33, 27. 1, Mc. 15. 23, but A. 16. 4 -οσαν (-ονν HLP), Jo. 19. 3 κΒ; the forms in -ονν are to be preferred. Imperat. τίθει, δίδον as in Att. But δίδωμι in the passive goes over to the ω conjugation, the analogy between the two forms being very close: διεδίδετο A. 4. 35 (-οτο Β³P), παρεδίδετο 1 C. 11. 23 (-οτο Β³LP), and so 2nd aor. mid. ἀπέδετο Η. 12. 16 AC, cp. Mt. 21. 33 κ*Β*CL, Mc. 12. 1 κΑΒ*CKL, L. 20. 9 κ*ΑΒ*CL; but ἀπέδοσθε Α. 5. 8 all MSS.—For pres. conj. see 4.
- 4. 2nd aorist active and middle.—" $E\sigma\tau\eta\nu$ is found as an alternative for $\epsilon\sigma\tau\iota\theta\eta\nu$, see 6; $\tau\iota\theta\eta\mu$, $\delta\iota\delta\omega\mu$ employ the 2nd aor. only in the mid., while $\epsilon\theta\eta\kappa\alpha\mu\epsilon\nu$, $-\alpha\tau\epsilon$, $-\alpha\nu$, $\epsilon\delta\omega\kappa\alpha\mu\epsilon\nu^2$ etc. are the aor. act. forms in use (only L. 1. 2 has Attic 2nd aor. act. $\pi\alpha\rho\epsilon\delta\sigma\sigma\alpha\nu$, literary language in the preface). From other verbs $\epsilon\beta\eta\nu$, $\epsilon\gamma\nu\omega\nu$ may be added. The indic. is regular (for the mid. cp. 3). The conj. to $\epsilon\delta\omega\kappa\alpha$ (and $\delta\iota\delta\omega\mu\iota$) $\epsilon\gamma\nu\omega\nu$ shows great fluctuation (2 sing. $\delta\phi$ s Mt. 5. 25): in the 3rd sing., which through the loss of the ι in pronunciation had become identical with the 1st sing., beside $\delta\phi$ ($\delta\iota\delta\phi$) and $\gamma\nu\phi$ we also have the forms $\delta\sigma$ ($\delta\iota\delta\sigma$), $\gamma\nu\sigma$ or $\delta\omega\eta$ (identical with the optat.). This last form, however, is almost confined to the Pauline Epistles, where the scribes often met with the optat., which was not current in their own day, and therefore introduced it occasionally for the conj. (vide infra): E. 1. 17 $\delta\omega\eta$ most MSS. ($\delta\phi$ B), 3. 16 $\delta\omega\eta$ only DEK al., 2 Tim. 2. 25 $\delta\omega\eta$ *ACD*P (Jo. 15. 16 $\delta\omega\eta$

In Hermas $\tau \iota \theta \hat{\omega}$ occurs Vis. i. 1. 3, ii. 1. 2; Clem. Cor. i. 23 ἀποδιδοῖ. Examples from the papyri in W. Schmid, Gtg. Gel. Anz. 1895, 45.

It is more difficult to decide between $\delta \hat{\varphi}$, $\gamma \nu \hat{\varphi}$ and $\delta o \hat{\imath}$, $\gamma \nu o \hat{\imath}$ (the latter like $\zeta \eta \lambda o \hat{\imath}$): still $\gamma \nu \hat{\varphi}$ has the greater attestation (Jo. 7. 51, 11. 57 [$\gamma \nu o \hat{\imath}$ D*], 14. 31, A. 22. 24: whereas $\gamma \nu o \hat{\imath}$ has equal or greater authority in its favour in Mc. 5. 43, 9. 30, L. 19. 15); also $(\dot{\alpha}\pi o)\delta \hat{\varphi}$ all Mss. in Mt. 18. 30, the same form or $\delta \omega \eta$ all Mss. in E. 1. 17, 3. 16, 2 Tim. 2. 25, Jo. 15. 16 ($\kappa \delta \omega \sigma \epsilon \iota$), cp. 13. 29 ($\delta o \hat{\imath}$ D).—The optat. $\delta \omega \hat{\eta}$ is Hellenistic (Phryn. 345 f., Moeris)¹ and in Paul. Οἶδα, -ας, -ε, -αμεν etc. (Ionic and Hellenist.); only in A. 26. 4 (speech of Paul before Agrippa) ἴσασιν (literary language); ἴστε H. 12. 17 (unless it bt imperat.; cp. § 2, 4); plupf. ἤδειν, -εις, etc.; moods as in Att.: εἰδῶ, impt. ἴστε H. 12. 17 ¼ Ja. 1. 19 ¼ (v.l. ἄστε) E. 5. 5 ¼ (v.l. ἐστέ); infin. εἰδέναι, part. εἰδώς.
- 6. Remaining tenses of the ordinary verbs in -μ...- Ἰστάνω in transitive sense has fut. στήσω, aor. ἔστησα, perf. ἔστάκα (differentiated from -ηκα; first found in Hyperides) A. 8. 11. Intransitive are ἴσταμαι, fut. στήσομαι and σταθήσομαι, aor. ἔστην and ἐστάθην; both forms in the simple vb. are identical in meaning, as in Ionic and Hellenist.³ (in Att. ἐστάθην, σταθήσ. have a passive sense). Compounds of ἴσταμαι, e.g. ἀνθίσταμαι, ἀν-, ἀφ-, δι-, ἐξαν-, ἐξ-, ἐφ- etc. take -ην, -ήσομαι in aor. and fut. in intransitive senses; on the other hand the following also take aor. in -θην in passive senses: καθίσταμαι (R. 5. 19), ἀποκαθ. (Mt. 12. 13, Mc. 3. 5 -στη C, Mc. 8. 25 -στη 8BCLΔ, L. 6. 10 -στη κ*, H. 13. 19), μεθ. (L. 16. 4). ⁴ The perf. ἔστηκα has present meaning; but in Jo. 8. 44 οὐκ (κΒ*DLX al.) ἔστηκεν (§ 4, 3) it has true perfect sense 'has stood,' a new formation related to ἔστην (?). From φημί. except for -μί, -σί, ἔφη (which is at once impf. and aor., as in Att.), no forms are represented in N.T.

³ There is not sufficient ground for attributing a passive sense to the simple verb σταθηναι in passages like L. 21. 36 (D ibid. στήσεται).

⁴ But also without passive sense ἐπεστάθην D L. 4. 39, 10. 40, Clem. Cor. i. 12. 4; ἀντεστάθην Herm. Mand. xii. 2. 3, παρεστ. Sim. viii. 4. 1, and so D in L. 4. 39, 10. 40 ἐπισταθείς.

^{a b} v. App. p. 308.

—Τίθημι has, as generally in the Hellenist language, perf. act. $\tau \epsilon \theta \epsilon \iota \kappa \alpha$ (Jo. 11. 34: Att. -ηκα), perf. mid. $\tau \epsilon \theta \epsilon \iota \mu \alpha \iota$ (συντ.) Jo. 9. 22 (pass. in $\tilde{\eta} \nu \tau \epsilon \theta \epsilon \iota \mu \epsilon \nu \sigma$ Jo. 19. 41 8B for $\tilde{\epsilon} \tau \epsilon \theta \eta$; in the parallel passage L. 23. 53 $\tilde{\eta} \nu \kappa \epsilon (\mu \epsilon \nu \sigma)$ according to the Att. usage, which is adhered to elsewhere in N.T. in the substitution of $\kappa \epsilon \tilde{\iota} \sigma \theta \alpha \iota$ for $\tau \epsilon \theta \epsilon \tilde{\iota} \sigma \theta \alpha \iota$).

7. "In μ L.—Only found in composition with $d\nu$ -, $d\phi$ -, $(\pi a \rho$ -), $\kappa a \theta$ -, σvv , and in the case of $\dot{a}\phi$, σvv - $i\eta\mu\iota$ (the only compounds in use in the popular language) with the alternative form in -ίω: in -ίετε, -ίεται the two conjugations coincide. 'Αφίημι (so Jo. 14. 27), -ίησι (Mt. 3. 15), -ιέναι (Mc. 2. 7 etc.); on the other hand -ίομεν (so *ABCDE) in L. 11. 4 (Mt. 6. 12 D al., but B ἀφήκαμεν); 2nd sing. pres. $d\phi \epsilon is$ (i.e. $-i\epsilon is$, -iis, cp. § 6, 5, note 2), though in this case there appears in Att. also -ieis (and $\tau i\theta \epsilon is$); impf. $\eta \phi i \epsilon \nu$ Mc. 1. 34, 11. 16; in the passive there is fluctuation between -ίενται, -ίονται, -έωνται (vide infra). Cp. in Hermas ἀφίησιν Mand. x. 3. 3, -ίενται Vis. ii. 2. 4, -ίουσιν iii. 7. 1. In the case of συνίημι there is only one undisputed instance of the conjugation in -μι: A. 7. 25 συνιέναι: elsewhere Mt. 13. 19 συνιέντος, DF -ίοντος: L. 24. 45 συνιέναι, B συνείναι; also συνίω, except in quotations, is never without var. lect.: Mt. 13. 13 συνίουσι (language influenced by O.T.: -ιωσιν Β cp. D), (2 C. 10. 12 συνιουσιν [-ιᾶσιν κ B, -ισασιν κ*]), R. 3.11 συνίων, Ο.Τ. quot. (Barn. 12. 10 συνίων, but 4. 6, 10. 12 -ιέναι: Herm. Mand. iv. 2. 1, x. 1. 3 συνίω, iv. 2. 2 συνίει, x. 1. 6 συνίουσιν, Sim. ix. 12. 1 σύνις; in the LXX, the forms from ἀφίω and συνίω are more established and fairly frequent, W.-Schm. § 14, 16). 'Ανίημι, ἀνιέντες E. 6. 9; καθιέμενος Α. 10. 11, 11. 5.—Tenses: Ν.Τ. has ἀφῆκαν etc. like εθηκαν (4 supra), the perf. -είκα never occurs, while συνήκατε Mt. 13. 51, ἀφήκαμεν καὶ ήκολουθήκαμεν (BCD, al. -ήσαμεν) Mc. 10. 28 may indeed give the impression of being perfects, but are still to be taken as agrists (cp. Mt. 19. 27, L. 18. 28, and with συνήκατε Aristoph. Ach. 101 ξυνήκαθ δ λέγει). The Doric (and Ionic) perf. was εωκα, pass. ἔωμαι, and the latter also appears in N.T.: the form ἀφέωνται is to be preferred in Jo. 20. 23 (wrong variants -ίενται, -(ε)ίονται:  άφεθήσεται), 1 Jo. 2. 12, L. 7. 47 f., 5. 20, 23 (also in Mt. 9. 2, 5 against -ίονται D [5 Dκ*], -ίενται 8 [5 κ°]Β, Mc. 2. 5 [-ίενται Β], 9 [- $i\epsilon$ - B]). On $dv \in \theta \eta v$, $d\phi \in \theta \eta v$ see § 15, 4.

8. Etµt.—The transition to the inflection of a deponent vb. (seen in $\epsilon\sigma o\mu a\iota$: in mod. Gk. universally carried out) appears in $\eta \mu \eta \nu$ 1st pers. (differentiated from $\eta \nu$ 3rd pers. Lob. Phryn. 152), from which $\eta \mu \epsilon \theta a$ is also formed Mt. 23. 30, A. 27. 37, E. 2. 3 xB; in G. 4. 3 $\eta \mu \epsilon \nu$ in the first instance (all Mss.) with $\eta \mu \epsilon \theta a$ (xD*FG) following; elsewhere $\eta \mu \epsilon \nu$.—The 2nd sing. impf. $\eta \sigma \theta a$ only occurs in Mt. 26. 69, Mc. 14. 67 (Euseb. quotes the verse with ηs), elsewhere it is ηs (the termination $\sigma \theta a$ occurs nowhere else) as in Hellenistic Gk. (Phryn. 149). The imperat. has beside $\epsilon \sigma \tau \omega$, $\epsilon \sigma \tau \omega \sigma a\nu$ the vulgar form $\eta \tau \omega$ Ja. 5. 12, 1 C. 16. 22 (Herm. Vis. iii. 3. 4, Clem. Cor. i. 48. 5), cp. W.-Schm. § 14, 1.° "E $\nu \iota$ (i.e. strictly $\epsilon \nu \epsilon \sigma \tau \iota$, $\epsilon \nu \iota' = \epsilon \nu$: cp. $\pi a \rho a = \pi a \rho \epsilon \sigma \tau \iota$) occurs

 $^{^1}$ Herm. Sim. ix. 15. 4 has τεθειμένοι in pass. sense, similarly περιτεθειμένα, Clem. Cor. i. 20. 4. $^{a\,b\,c}$ v. App. p. 308.

- 9. Etm.—In the popular language the verb occurs neither in its simple form nor in composition, $\tilde{\epsilon}\rho\chi o\mu a\iota$ taking its place, § 24; the compounds only are employed by L. and Hebr. (from the literary language) and not always correctly. Εἰσίασιν Η. 9. 6 for Att. εἰσέρ-χονται (εἰσίασιν is fut. in Att.): εἴσιθι B Acts 9. 6 (the other Mss. -ελθε): εἰσιέναι 3. 3, 20. 7, 4 D, 27. 43: partic. 'will depart'], cp. 54. 2: Clem. Hom. ii. 1, iii. 63, (ἐπ)εισιών = -ελθών.)
- 10. Ήμαι, κεῖμαι.—Κάθημαι, κάθη Α. 23. 3 (cp. δύνη, supra 3; so already in Hyperides for -ησαι), imperat. κάθον (already in late Att.) Ja. 2. 3, Mt. 22. 44 etc., and O.T. for -ησο. Imperf. always ἐκαθήμην § 15, 7; fut. καθήσομαι Mt. 19. 28 (-ίσεσθε CD* al.), L. 22. 30 ΝΑΒ³ al. Cp. § 24.—Κεῖμαι is regular: also used as perf. pass. of τ ίθημι as in Att., supra 6.

§ 24. TABLE OF NOTEWORTHY VERBS.

(The prefixing of * indicates that the paradigm embraces several stems.)

'Αγαλλιῶν active L. 1. 47 (Ap. 19. 7, prob. more correctly $-\dot{\omega}\mu\epsilon\theta\alpha$ B; 1 P. 1. 8 -ᾶτε only BC*); elsewhere deponent with aor. (mid. ? and) pass., § 20. The verb is absent from profane Greek (which has ἀγάλλομαι instead).

'Αγγέλλειν, ήγγέλην constant, § 19, 3.

"Ayειν, aor. ήγαγον and rarely ήξα, § 19, 1; perf. act. unattested.

('Αγνύναι) only in composition κατᾶγν. (as in Att.), pres. impf. unattested: aor. κατέᾶξαν (Att.) Jo. 19. 32 f., but the use of the augm. is incorrectly extended (§ 15, 2) to the fut. κατεάξει Mt. 12. 20, O.T., and aor. conj. pass. κατεαγῶσιν Jo. 19. 31.

*Aiρεῖν, aor. εἶλον and -λα, § 21, 1: fut. ἐλῶ (late writers, LXX.) L. 12. 18, 2 Th. 2. 8 (v.l. ἀναλοῖ, vide inf.), Ap. 22. 19 (but mid. αἰρήσομαι, = Att. Ph. 1. 22).

'Ακούειν, fut. ἀκούσω and Attic -σομαι, § 18, 3.

'Αλήθειν for ἀλεῦν (Phryn. p. 151): only pres. attested (aor. ἤλεσα in LXX.: no other form of the aor. is likely to have existed). Cp. νήθειν.

"Αλλεσθαι, with compounds $\dot{a}\nu$ -, $\dot{\epsilon}\xi$,- $\dot{\epsilon}\phi$ -, almost confined to Acts: (Jo. 4. 14, 21. 7 D), 1st aor. $\dot{\eta}\lambda\dot{a}\mu\eta\nu$ (LXX.) A. 14. 10 (Jo. 21. 7 D): 2nd aor. $\dot{\epsilon}\phi\omega\lambda\dot{\phi}\mu\epsilon\nu$ os 19. 16 (also 3. 8 $\dot{\epsilon}\xi\alpha\lambda\dot{\phi}\mu$ is better than - $\lambda\lambda$ - of the MSS.): both forms occur in Att.

'Αμαρτάνειν, fut. ἀμαρτήσω, § 18, 3: 1st aor. ἡμάρτησα along with 2nd aor. ἡμαρτον, § 19, 1.

'Αμφιάζειν, -ιέζειν, -εννύναι: see § 17.

'Αναλοῦν = ἀναλίσκειν (both Att., -οῦν also in LXX., W.-Schm. § 15): ἀναλοῦ 2 Th. 2. 8 κ* Origen (v.l. ἀναλώσει, ἀνελεῖ). Tenses regular: L. 9. 54, G. 5. 15. ('Αντᾶν): fut. ἀπαντήσω, συν-, § 18, 3.

'Απειλείσθαι deponent A. 4. 17, 21 for Att. $\dot{\alpha}\pi\epsilon$ ιλείν (1 P. 2. 23); διαπειλείσθαι as depon. is also Att.

'Απολογείσθαι deponent with pass. (mid.) aor., § 20, 1.

Αρπάζειν: fut. -άσω, § 18, 3: 2nd aor. pass. -γην (and 1st aor. -σθην? as in Att.), § 19, 3.
^a v. App. p. 308.

Aὔξειν, αὐξάνειν, both forms Att., but in transit. sense 'increase,' whereas 'grow' is -Φιαι. N.T. has -άνω trans. only in 1 C. 3. 6 f., 2 C. 9. 10 (Herm. Vis. iii. 4. 1 αΰξω, i. 1. 6 αὐξήσας). Elsewhere -άνω (and αὔξω: only E. 2. 21, Col. 2. 19) is used = Att. -ομαι A. 6. 7 al.: along with -άνομαι Mt. 13. 32 (\aleph^{9} P -ήση), Mc. 4. 8 v.l., Epp. Paul. passim, 1 P. 2. 2.

Bαίνειν: aor. ἔβην, ἀνάβα, -βατε, § 23, 4.

Βαρείν: βεβαρημέρος old (βεβ. ηδιδεν Plat. Sympos. 203 B) Mt. 26. 43, L. 9. 32 (Mc. 14. 40 var. lect. βεβ., καταβεβ., καταβαρούμενοι, καταβαρουόμενοι. Βαρύνω is the ordinary Att. word, but in N.T. besides this passage it only occurs as a v.l. in L. 21. 34 DH, 2 C. 5. 4 D*FG). Elsewhere in the pass.: 2 C. 1. 8, 5. 4, 1 Tim. 5. 16, L. 21. 34. Also the compounds $\epsilon \pi \iota \beta \alpha \rho \epsilon \hat{\nu} \iota$, καταβ. in St. Paul (καταβ. Herm. Sim. ix. 28. 6, βαροῦντα Clem. Hom. xi. 16). W. Schmidt, Atticism. iii. 187.

Βασκαίνειν: aor. -ανα, § 16, 3.

[Βιοῦν]: β ιῶσαι 1 P. 4. 2, for Att. -ναι (the only form in which this verb occurs: elsewhere ζ $\hat{\gamma}$ ν , cp. inf.).

Βλαστάνειν: pres. conj. -νη Mc. 4. 27 8AC² al., but BC*DLΔ βλαστ $\hat{\alpha}$ from βλαστ $\hat{\alpha}$ ν, as Herm. Sim. iv. 1 βλαστώντα (W.-Schm. § 15): a new 1st aor. -ησα occurs, § 19, 1.

Bλέπειν, 'to look,' primarily and in old Greek only of the function of the eye, with no signification of perception: aor. ξβλεψα (Acts 3.4) as in Att. (Jo. 9.39 βλέπωσιν v.l. βλέψωσιν i.e. become possessed of sight, somewhat like ἀναβλέψ, which is so used in Att. as well as in N.T.; cp. βλέψετε A. 28. 26 O.T., also without an object): περιεβλεψάμην Mc. 3. 5, etc. With the Hellenistic meaning 'to see' of perception (for ὁρᾶν, vide inf.) only in pres. and impf. (Προβλέψασθαι = προϊδέσθαι Η. 11. 40, see § 55, 1.)

, Βούλεσθαι, § 15, 3: § 21, 7.

Γαμεῖν: also used of the wife (for Att. -εῖσθαι) Mc. 10. 12 (-ηθ $\hat{\eta}$ v.l.), 1 Tim. 5. II, 14 etc.; elsewhere for the wife N.T. uses -ἰζεσθαι (but aor. -ἡθην 1 C. 7. 39 = ἐγημάμην Att.), for which γαμίσκονται is read Mc. 12. 25 E al., L. 20. 34 κΒL (ἐκγαμίζκ. Ε al., ἐκγαμίζ. A al., γαμοῦνται D), 35 B (γαμίζ. κD al., ἐκγαμίζ. A al.). The act. γαμίζειν (ἐκγ.) 'to give to wife': Mt. 24. 38 (γαμ. κD, rell. ἐκγ.), 1 C. 7. 38.—Aor. act. ἐγάμησα Mt. 5. 32 al., Herm. Mand. iv. 4 (so -ἡθην, vide supra), for which the Att. form occurs as a v.l., γήμας Mt. 22. 35 κΒL, L. 14. 20 (ἔλαβον D), 1 C. 7. 28 γαμήσης ... γήμη (D*FG γαμ $\hat{\eta}$).

Γελαν, fut. -άσω, § 18, 3.

Γίνεσθαι (never γίγν. as in Att.), aor. $\dot{\epsilon}$ γενόμην and -νήθην, § 20.

Γινώσκειν (never γίγν. as in Att.), 2nd aor. conj. γνοί and γν $\hat{\omega}$, § 23, 4.

Γρηγορείν, § 17; cp. έγείρειν.

Δεῖσθαι, ἐδέετο, § 22, 2.

 Δ ιακονεῖν, διηκόνουν, § 15, 6.

Διδόναι, see § 23, 3 and 4.

 $\Delta \iota \psi \hat{\mathbf{a}} \mathbf{v}$, - $\hat{\mathbf{a}} \mathbf{s}$, § 22, 1; $\delta \iota \psi \dot{\eta} \sigma \omega$, § 16, 1.

Διώκειν, fut. $-\xi\omega$, § 18, 3.

Δύνασθαι pres., § 23, 2; augm. ή- or έ-, § 15, 3; fut. δυνήσομαι, § 20, 2; aor. ήδυνήθην (and ήδυνάσθην Mt. 17. 16 B, Mc. 7. 24 κB, Epic and Ionic).

Δύειν intrans. 'to set' E. 4. 26 (Homeric: Att. δύομαι), for which δύνω (Xenoph. and others) occurs in L. 4. 40 (δύσαντος D): aor. ξδυν, ξδυσα, § 19, 1 (εδύησαν, § 19, 2); ἐνδύνοντες 'creeping in' 2 Tim. 3. 6 (cp. Barn. 4. 10). Ἐνδύειν trans. 'to put on' pres. only in Mc. 15. 17 AN, correct reading - διδύσκειν, see § 17: so mid. ἐνδιδύσκεσθαι, see ibid.: but tenses as in Att. - έδυσα, - άμην etc.: similarly ἐκδῦσαι (pres. and impf. unattested).

Έγκιρειν raise up' ('awake' is rather διεγείρειν): intrans. ἔγειρε (not -αι aor. mid.), sc. σεαυτόν Mc. 5. 41 etc. (Eurip. Iph. Aul. 624); intrans. -ομαι rise (διεγείρομαι 'awake' intrans.), aor. ἢγέρθην, § 20; perf. ἐγήγερται 'is risen' Mc. 6. 14 \times BDL, 1 C. 15. 4 (late writers; Att. ἐγρήγορα 'I am awake' has become γρηγορῶ, § 17).

ΕΙΔ – οίδα, § 23, 5 : fut. ϵ ίδήσω H. 8. 11 O.T. quot. (Ionic and late = Att. ϵ ἴσομαι).

Είπειν, είρηκα etc. see λέγειν.

Έλεαν - έλεειν, § 22, 2.

Έλκειν, aor. εἴλκύσα as in Att., fut. ελκύσω Jo. 12. 32 (Att. ελξω).

Έλκοῦν: είλκωμένος, § 15, 6. Ἐμβριμᾶσθαι -οῦσθαι, § 22, 1; aor. § 20, 1.

Έργάζεσθαι: ήργαζόμην, ήργασάμην, είργασμαι, § 15, 5 and 6.

Eρχεσθαι. In Att. for 'to come' ἔρχομαι is used only in the indic., conj. $\mathring{\iota}\omega$, inf. $\mathring{\iota}\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ αι etc., impf. $\mathring{\eta}a$, $\mathring{\eta}\epsilon\iota\nu$: 'will come' = $\mathring{\epsilon}\mathring{\iota}\mu$. When $\mathring{\epsilon}\mathring{\iota}\mu$ fell out of use (§ 23, 9), ἔρχομαι was employed throughout: ἔρχωμαι, $\mathring{\eta}ρχόμην$ etc., fut. $\mathring{\epsilon}\lambda \acute{\epsilon}\dot{\nu}\sigma$ ομαι (Epic and Ionic: Phryn. 37). Aor. $\mathring{\eta}\lambda\theta$ ον and perf. $\mathring{\epsilon}\lambda\mathring{\eta}\lambda\nu\theta$ α as in Att.

* 'Eodíw and éoden (- $\theta\epsilon\nu$ as early as Hom., Doric and late writers). The former predominates (as also in LXX.), so without var. lect. Mt. 9. 11, 11. 18 f., 12. 1 etc., R. 14. 2 f., 6, 20 etc.; but $\epsilon\sigma\theta\eta\tau\epsilon$ L. 22. 30 BD*T, $\epsilon\sigma\theta\omega$ Mc. 1. 6 ×BL*Δ, 12. 40 B, L. 7. 33 BD, 34 D, 10. 7 BD (elsewhere even Mc. and L. have $\epsilon\sigma\thetai\epsilon\nu$ in all the Mss.). Fut. $\phi\dot{\alpha}\gamma \omega\mu$ from aor. $\epsilon\phi\alpha\gamma \omega$, § 18, 2: 2nd sing. $-\epsilon\sigma\alpha\iota$, § 21, 7. Pf. $\beta\epsilon\beta\rho\omega\kappa\alpha$ (from the obsolete $\beta\iota\beta\rho\omega\kappa\omega$) Jo. 6. 13, aor. pass. $\beta\rho\omega\theta\hat{\eta}$ L. 22. 16 D (fut. perf. $\beta\rho\omega\theta\dot{\eta}\sigma\omega\mu$ LXX.); the verb 'to eat' thus completed. (The pres. in the popular language was $\tau\rho\dot{\omega}\gamma\omega$, so always in S. John, elsewhere only Mt. 24. 38; see also Herm. Sim. v. 3. 7, Barn. 7. 8, 10. 2, 3.)

"Εχειν, fut. only έξω, § 14, 1; similarly ἀνέχεσθαι has only ἀνέξομαι: impf. and aor. ἀνειχ., ἀνεσχ., § 15, 7.

Zη̂ν, fut. ζήσω and -ομαι, § 18, 3: aor. ἔζησα A. 26. 5, Herm. Sim. viii. 9. 1, for which in Att. ἐβίων was introduced as a supplementary form (cp. sup. $\beta\iota ο \hat{\nu}_{\nu}$): perf. unattested. (Impf. 1st sing. ἔζην, -ων, § 22, 1.)

Ζωννύναι, perf. pass. and mid. $\pi \epsilon \rho \iota \epsilon \zeta \omega \sigma \mu \dot{\epsilon} \nu \sigma s$ (Att. without σ) L.12. 35 al.

Heew: 3rd. plur. ηκασιν Mc. 8. 3 NADN (al. ηκουσιν, B είσίν), cp. Clem. Cor. i. 12. 2. The transition of this verb of perfect meaning to the inflection of the perfect tense is found also in LXX. and other late writings, W.-Schny. § 13, 2: Kuhner I. ii. 3438: W. Schmidt, Jos. elocut. 470.

'Ησσοῦσθαι, 2 C. 12. 13 BD* ἡσσώθητε (Ionic ἐσσοῦσθαι), with v.l. ἡττήθητε (the Attic form [literary lang.] as in 2 P. 2 19 f. ἤττηται, ἡττῶνται, and even ἤττημα in S. Paul), FG in 2 C. loc. cit. ἡλαττώθητε, cp. Jo. 3. 30 (literary lang.).

(Θάλλειν), aor. ἀνέθαλον, § 19, 1 (no other form attested) ; ἀναθάλλω (intrans.) Clem. Cor. i. 3 $\dot{\omega}$. 2.

Θαυμάζειν (-εσθαι depon.), aor. ἐθαύμασα and -άσθην, fut. (θαυμάσομαι), -ασθήσομαι, \S 18, 3: \S 20, 1.

Θεασθαι, see $\theta \epsilon \omega \rho \epsilon \hat{v}$.

Θέλειν not (as in Att.) ἐθέλειν, the ordinary word of the popular language for 'will' (so mod. Gk.): beside it is found βούλεσθαι (literary lang.) without distinction of meaning, rare in the Gospels, and not often in the Epistles, frequent only in the Acts.—Augm. always $\dot{\eta}$, § 15, 3 (perfect unattested).

*Θεωρεῖν, generally defective, only pres. and impf. being used, but fut. Jo. 7. 3. aor. Mt. 28. 1, L. 8. 35 D, 23. 48 NBCD al., Jo. 8. 51 (-σει Ν), Ap. 11. 12; elsewhere the tenses of $\theta \epsilon \hat{a} \sigma \theta a \iota$ (pres. impf. wanting) are used: aor. $-\alpha \sigma \dot{a} \mu \eta \nu$, perf. $\tau \epsilon \theta \dot{\epsilon} a \mu a \iota$, aor. pass. $\dot{\epsilon} \theta \dot{\epsilon} \dot{a} \theta \eta \nu$.

'Ιλάσκεσθαι, mid. (Att.) Η. 2. 17; lλάσθητι 'be merciful' L. 18. 13, cp. εξιλασθέν 'expiated' Plat. Legg. 862 C.

Ιστάνειν ($l\sigma \tau \hat{a}\nu$), $l\sigma \tau a\sigma \theta a\iota$, § 23, 2, 4, 5, 6.

Καθαρίζειν 'to cleanse,' vulgar form for Att. καθαίρειν (Jo. 15. 2 D correctly καθαριεῖ, cp. H. 10. 2; κεκαθαρμένων is found in Herm. Sim. ix. 18. 3). In compounds the simpler form is more attested: διακαθάραι L. 3. 17 \ 4 2 (for καὶ διακαθαριεῖ), ἐκκαθάρατε 1 C. 5. 7, ἐκκαθάρη 2 Tim. 2. 21.

Καθέζεσθαι, καθίζειν, καθήσθαι. In Attic ἐκαθεζόμην aor. = 'I seated myself,' καθίζω 'I seat' trans. and also intrans. 'I seat myself,' which is elsewhere expressed by -ίζομαι: κάθημαι 'I sit' (in perfect sense). In the N.T. 'I set' or 'seat' is καθίζω, aor. -ισα (as in Att.): 'I seated myself' = ἐκάθισα (not mid.), so that the sense of Jo. 19. 13 is extremely doubtful: there is also a perf. κεκάθικεν (intrans.) H, Î2. 2 (the present only appears in trans. sense: for fut. vide inf.); aor. ἐκαθέσθην from καθέζομαι (Phryn. 209) only in L. 10. 39 NABC* al., $\cdot l\sigma a\sigma a$ CoPP etc.; 'sit' is $\kappa a\theta \eta \mu a\iota$ (in the majority of cases) and $\kappa a\theta \epsilon \xi o\mu a\iota$ (rare): $\epsilon \kappa a\theta \epsilon \xi \epsilon \tau o$ impf. 'sat' ('had seated himself') Jo. 4. 6, 11. 20, for which $\epsilon \kappa a\theta \eta \tau o$ occurs elsewhere, as in Mt. 13. 1; $\kappa a\theta \epsilon \xi o\mu \epsilon v o$ = $\kappa a\theta \eta \mu$. A. 6. 15 (D $\cdot \eta \mu \epsilon v o$) etc.; fut. $\kappa a\theta \eta \sigma o\mu a\iota$ Mt. 19. 28 ($\cdot l\sigma \epsilon \sigma \theta \epsilon$ CD* al.), L. 22. 30 % AB³ al. ($\cdot l\sigma \epsilon \sigma \theta \epsilon$ EF, but B* $\kappa a\theta \eta \sigma \theta \epsilon$ conj., D $\kappa a\theta \epsilon \xi \eta \sigma \theta \epsilon$) for Attic $\kappa a\theta \epsilon \delta o \ell \mu a\iota$. The 2nd pers. of $\kappa a\theta \eta \mu a\iota$ is $\kappa a\theta \eta \eta a\iota$ is $\kappa a\theta \eta a\iota$ ('sit' = 'seat thyself' Mt. 22. 44 O.T., Ja. 2. 3).

Καλείν: aor. and fut. pass. § 19, 3. Καλείν: fut. καλέσω, § 18, 1. (Κεραννύναι), perf. pass. κεκέρασμαι (late; Att. κέκρᾶμαι) Η. 4. 2 (ℵABCD*), Ap. 14. 10. •

Κερδαίνειν (pres. and impf. unattested), aor. ἐκέρδησα as if from κερδέω (Ionic and late writers) Mt. 16. 26 and passim; but κερδάνω (§ 16, 3) 1 C. 9. 21 ABC al. (*DE al. κερδήσω, as also four times in the same chap. ver. 19, 20, 22); a corresponding fut. pass. κερδηθήσονται occurs 1 P. 3. I. There is fluctuation also in Josephus between the Attic and the vulgar forms, W. Schmidt, de Jos. elocut. 451, 459.

Κλαίειν, fut. κλαύσω, § 18, 3.

Κλείειν, perf. pass. κέκλεισμαι for -ειμαι, § 16, 1.

Κλίνειν, aor. and fut. pass. ἐκλίθην, κλιθήσομαι, § 19, 3.

Κράζειν, the pres. rare in Att. (which uses κέκραγα instead) is often in N.T., on the other hand κέκραγα is only used in Jo. 1. 15 (see § 56, 5): fut. κράξω (κεκράξομαι), § 18, 3: aor. ἐκέκραξα (LXX., from κέκραγα) only A. 24. 21 NABC.

Κρίνειν: ἀποκρίνομαι, ὑποκρίνομαι, aor. and fut. § 20, 1.

Κρύβειν, aor. pass. ἐκρύβην, § 19, 3.

(Κτείνειν): only in compound ἀποκτείνω and -έν(ν)ω, § 17; aor. pass. ἀπεατάνθην (late) Mc. 9. 31 al. = Att. ἀπέθανον.

(Κυείν, κύειν) ἀποκυεί (-κύει) Ja. 1. 15, -ύησεν 1. 18 (from κύω we have ἐκύομεν in l.xx., W.-Schm. § 15).

Κυλίειν (already in Att.; older form $-i\nu\delta\omega$) Mc. 9. 20, fut. $-t\sigma\omega$ Mc. 16. 3, aor. act. $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa\dot{\nu}\lambda\iota\sigma\alpha$, perf. pass. $\kappa\epsilon\kappa\dot{\nu}\lambda\iota\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$ as in Att.

Λακών 'to burst': ἐλάκησεν A. 1. 18 (cp. Acts of Thomas, § 33) as in Aristoph. Nub. 410 διαλακήσασα: elsewhere unknown: to be distinguished from λάσκω 'sound' (aor. ἐλάκον).

Λαμβάνειν, fut. λήμψομαι, aor. pass. ἐλήμφθην (λῆμψις Ph. 4. 15, ἀνάλημψις L. 9. 51: προσωπολήμπτης) as in other Hellenistic writings, § 6, 8. (The later MSS restore the Attic form by omitting the μ , and even in the N.T. Apocryphal writings practically no trace of these forms remains: Reinhold, de graecit. patr. apost. etc., p. 46 f.)

(Λέγειν 'to collect'): only in συλλέγω, ξα, έκλελεγμένος (Att. usually έξειλεγμ.) L. 9. 35.

*Λέγειν 'to say': Att. λέξω, έλεξα etc.; but in N.T. defective (the beginning of this defective state reaches back into Attic times, Miller, Amer. Journ. of Philol. xvi. 162) with only pres. and impf.; the remaining tenses being aor, $\epsilon i \pi o \nu$, ·α (§ 21, 1), fut. $\epsilon \rho \tilde{\omega}$, perf. $\epsilon l \rho \eta \kappa \alpha$, aor. pass. $\epsilon \rho \rho \ell \theta \eta \nu$, $\rho \eta \theta \tilde{\eta} \rho \alpha \iota$, § 16, 1, perf. $\epsilon l \rho \eta \mu \alpha \iota$. (Still λέγειν and $\epsilon l \pi \epsilon \hat{\iota} \nu$ were felt to be separate verbs, otherwise we should not find these combinations: $\tau o \tilde{\iota} \tau o \nu$ λέγει Jo. 21. 19, $\epsilon l \pi e \nu$ λέγων L. 12. 25, 20. 2.) But $\delta \iota \alpha \lambda \epsilon \gamma \rho \mu \alpha \iota$, $\delta \iota \epsilon \lambda \epsilon \lambda \theta \eta \nu$ as in Att. (Mc. 9. 34), see § 20, 1.

Λείπειν (class.) with alternative form $\lambda \iota \mu \pi \alpha \nu \epsilon \nu$, διελ $\iota \mu \pi \alpha \nu \epsilon \nu$ Acts 8. 24 D, 17. 13 D, $\dot{\iota} \pi \delta \lambda \iota \mu \pi \alpha \nu \epsilon \nu$ 1 P. 2. 21, $\dot{\epsilon} \gamma \kappa \alpha \tau \alpha \lambda \iota \mu \pi \alpha \nu \delta \mu \epsilon \nu \omega$ FG Euseb. Chrys. in 2 C. 4. 9 (also LXX.); 1st aor. έλειψα occurs occasionally instead of έλιπον, § 19, 1.

Λούειν, λέλουμαι, § 16, 1.

(Μέλειν) ἐπιμελοῦμαι (LXX.) or -ομαι (both Attic forms) not represented: fut. -ήσομαι, § 20, 2: μεταμέλομαι (the only Att. form) 2 C. 7. 8, aor. -ήθην (not attested in Att.) Mt. 21. 29 etc., fut. -ηθήσομαι H. 7. 2 O.T. quot.

Μέλλειν: ἔμελλον and ήμελλον, § 15, 3. Μιαίνειν: μεμίαμμαι, § 16, 3.

Μνηστεύειν: perf. pass. μεμνήστευμαι v.l., § 15, 6.

Nήθειν 'to spin' for νην (Ionic and late), the constant N.T. form, cp. αλήθειν.

Νίπτειν for νίζειν, § 17.

(Ξυρεῦν), pres. unattested: aor. mid. ξύρασθαι as if from ξύρειν (not ξυρᾶσθαι pres.) 1 C. 11. 6 and ξυρήσασθαι A. 21. 24 (both forms unattested in Att.), but in Acts D^* has ξύρωνται, $\aleph B^*D^2EP$ ξυρήσονται: perf. έξύρημει (Att.) 1 C. 11. 5.

(Οἴγειν) ἀνοίγειν (never -γνύναι): the augment is always in the α in the comp. διανοίγειν, διηνοίχθησαν L. 24. 31, διήνοιγεν 32 etc.; also in the simple vb. constantly in the 2nd aor. pass. ἡνοίγην A. 12. 10 (- χ θη E al.), which is a new formation; in the other forms (the impf. is only attested for διαν.) the old syllabic augm. is still strongly represented: 1st aor. act. ἀνέφξα Jo. 9. 1.; (ἡνέφξεν LX, ἡνοιξεν D), 17 ἡνοίξεν NAD al., BX ἡνέφξ., KL ἀνέφξ., similarly ver. 32: in verses 21, 26, 30 B also has ἡνοιξεν, and this form deserves preference (cp. A. 5. 19, 9. 40, 12. 14, 14. 27, Ap. 6. 1, 3 etc.);—perf. (intrans. as in late writers) ἀνέφγα Jo. 1. 52 (ἡνεφγότα N), 1 C. 16. 9, 2 C. 6. 11, elsewhere ἀνέφγμαι as in Att. R. 3. 13 0.T. quot., 2 C. 2. 12 (ἡνεφγή. DEP), A. 10. 11 (ἡνε. E), 16. 27: Ap. 4. 1 B, but NAP ἡνε., similarly 10. 1, 8, 19. 11 (3. 8 ἀν. ABC);—lst aor. pass. ἀνεφχθην Mt. 3. 16 (ἡνε. B), 9. 30 (ἡνε. BD), 27. 52, L. 1. 64 etc.: ἡνεφχθ. Jo. 9. 10 with preponderant evidence (ἀν. AK al.): Acts 16. 26 ἡνοίχθ. NAE, ἡνεφχθ. BCD, ἀνε. HLP: there is diversity of reading also in Ap. 20. 12. Infin. ἀνεφχθῆναι L. 3. 21 (-νοι- only D), cp. supra ἀγνίναι, § 15, 2. On 1st and 2nd aor. (ἡνοίγην) and fut. -γήσομαι (-χθήσ-) see § 19, 3.

Οἰκτίρειν (so to be spelt for -είρειν), fut. οἰκτιρήσω R. 9. 15 O.T. quot. (late). ('Ολλύναι) ἀπολλ., § 23, 1: fut. ἀπολέσω as also in Herm. Sim. viii. 7. 5 (= Att. ἀπολῶ 1 C. 1..19 O.T. quot., so nearly always in LXX.): but fut. pass. ἀπολοῦμαι L. 13. 3 etc.

'Ορύσσειν aor. pass. § 19, 3.

Παίζειν, παίξω etc., § 16, 2; § 18, 3. Παύειν, ἀναπαήσομαι, § 20, 1.

Πείθειν, aor. pass. ἐπείσθην, fut. πεισθήσομαι L. 16. 31 (πιστεύσουσιν D).

Πειναν, - âs etc., § 22, 1: aor. ἐπείνασα, § 16, 1.

Πειράζειν 'to tempt' or 'try any one' (Hom., and late writers) always for Att. πειρῶν; also for 'to attempt anything' = Att. πειρῶσθαι A. 24. 6 al. (πειρῶσθαι A. 26. 21 speech of Paul before Agrippa).

Πιάζειν, Πιάζειν. The latter = 'to press' as in Att. L. 6. 38 (but in LXX. the a form is used even in this sense, ἐξεπίασεν 'pressed out' Jd. 6. 38); the former is confined to the common language = 'to lay hands on' (mod. Gk. π ιάνω), aor. ἐπίασα, ἐπιάσθην (John, Acts, once even in St. Paul, Apoc.).

Πιμπλαν for -άναι, § 23, 2.

Πίνειν, fut. πίσμαι, πίσσαι, § 21, 7; aor. ἔπιον, imper. πίε L. 12. 19 (Att. also πΐθι), infin. contracted to πεῖν, πῖν (§ 6, 5) Mt. 27. 34 8*D, Mc. 10. 38 I), 15. 23 D, Jo. 4. 7 8*B*C*DL, cp. ibid. 9, 10 etc. (Anthol. Pal. xi. 140 in verse: papyri in W. Schmid, Gtg. Gel. Anz. 1895, 40.)

*Πιπράσκειν, in Hellenistic Gk. conjugated in full with the exception of fut. and aor. act. (so impf act. ἐπίπρασκον Α. 2. 45). In Attic it is only in the pass. that the conjugation is fairly complete: the act. has perf. πέπρακα (Mt. 13. 46: D ἐπώλησεν), but in the other tenses πωλεῖν and ἀποδίδοσθαι are used. The N.T. employs the aorist of the latter of these two verbs (A. 5. 8, 7. 9, H. 12. 16), from the former we have $\pi\omega\lambda\hat{\omega}$, $\epsilon\pi\omega\lambda\omega\nu$, $\epsilon\pi\omega\lambda\omega\hat{\omega}$, $\epsilon\pi\omega\lambda\omega\hat{\omega}$, $\epsilon\pi\omega\lambda\omega\hat{\omega}$, $\epsilon\pi\omega\lambda\omega\hat{\omega}$, and in Att. as well): in addition to these $\pi\epsilon\pi\rho\alpha\mu\alpha$ R. 7. 14, $\epsilon\pi\rho\alpha\theta\eta\nu$ Mt. 18. 25 etc.

Πίπτειν, έπεσον, and more frequently έπεσα, § 21, 1.

Ποθείν, aor. $\dot{\epsilon}\pi \delta\theta \eta\sigma\alpha$, § 16, 1.

'Paίνειν, ραντίζειν. For reduplication, § 15, 6.

'Pεîν, fut. ῥεύσω, § 18, 3 (Attic has pres. fut. ῥεύσομαι, aoristic fut. ῥνήσομαι).

'Ρηγούνα in the pass. Mt. 9. 17, L. 5. 6 A al.: for which ρήσσειν (-ττειν, late writers) appears in Mt. 9. 17 D, L. 5. 6 κBL, Mc. 2. 22 AΓ al., v.l. ρήξει; aor. ξρρηξα; the old epic word ρήσσειν = τύπτειν, cp. the Attic (and LXX.) ράπτειν 'to dash down' Demosth. 54. 8 is found with the latter meaning in Mc. 9. 18 (ράσσει D), L. 9. 42, LXX. Sap. 4. 19: Hermas, Mand. xi. 3 ράξαι as). To this word also belongs προσέρηξεν = προσέβαλε L. 6. 48.

'Ρίπτειν and ρίπτειν, Att., in the N.T. the present stem only occurs in A. 22. 23, $-0\dot{\nu}\nu\tau\omega\nu$ (- $\dot{\nu}\nu\tau\omega\nu$ DEHL) cp. $\dot{\epsilon}\rho(\rho)\dot{\epsilon}\pi\tau\sigma\nu\nu$ Herm. Vis. iii. 5. 5: perf. $\dot{\rho}\dot{\epsilon}\rho\iota\mu\mu\alpha\iota$, § 15, 6.

'Ρύἐσθαι 'to save' (Epic, Iorfic, and late writers) with aor. mid. $\epsilon \rho(\rho) \nu \sigma \delta \mu \eta \nu$ and aor. pass. $\epsilon \rho(\rho) \nu \sigma \theta \eta \nu$ (late) L. 1. 74 etc.

Σαλπίζειν, σαλπίσω etc., § 16, 2.

Σημαίνειν, ἐσήμανα, § 16, 3.

*Σκοπεῖν, σκέψασθαι in Attic form one verb, since only pres. and impf. of σκοπεῖν are found, and from σκέψ. the forms -πτομαι, έσκεπτόμην are absent. In N.T. σκοπεῖν is used as in Att., σκέψ. never: while ἐπισκέπτεσθαι is found in the pres. = 'to visit' (H. 2. 6, Ja. 1. 27); ἐπισκοπεῖν = 'to take care' H. 12. 15 (ἐπιξκοπεσθαι 'to inspect' Clem. Cor. i. 25. 5; συνεσκέπτοντο Ev. Petr. 43).

Σπουδάζειν, fut. $-\sigma\omega$, § 18, 3.

Στηρίζειν, tenses, § 16, 2.

Στρωννύειν (not στορενν., which appears first in late scholiasts), § 23, 1.

Σώζειν (ι adscript, § 3, 3): like ἐσώθην (ἐσαώθην, σαόω) the perf. σέσωται is still found Acts 4. 9 % A (v.l. -σται), but σεσωσμένοι E. 2. 5 all Mss., and in v. 8 only P has the Att. form -ωμένοι.

Τάσσειν, $\epsilon \tau \dot{\alpha} \gamma \eta \nu$, together with $\epsilon \tau \dot{\alpha} \chi \theta \eta \nu$, § 19, 3.

Τελεῖν, fut. τελέσω, § 18, 1.

Τίκτειν, $\dot{\epsilon}\tau\dot{\epsilon}\chi\theta\eta\nu$, § 19, 3.

Τυγχάνειν: the Hellenistic perf. is τέτευχα for Att. τετύχηκα, Phryn. 395: so H. 8. 6 τέτευχεν ℵ°BD°E (v.l. τετύχηκεν P, τέτυχε male ℵ*AD*KL, a form which is also occasionally found in the older editions of late writers: Lob. on Phryn. loc. cit.).

*Τύπτειν is defective and completed by means of other verbs as in Attic: τύπτειν, ἔτυπτον, πατάξω, ἐπάταξα (pres. impf. etc. from this stem not found), ἔπαισα (no pres. and impf. found: προσέπαισαν is a good suggestion of Lachmann in Mt. 7.,25 for -εσαν), pass. τύπτομαι, αοτ. ἐπλήγην (the only form of this verb represented) Ap. 8. 12.

*Ύπάγειν 'to go,' 'depart,' a word of the common language (never in Acts, "Υπάγειν 'to go,' 'depart,' a word of the common language (never in Acts, Paul, or Hebrews; mod. Gk. πάγω, πηγαίνω), which makes only a present tense (most frequently the pres. imperat.); supplemented by πορεύομαι (which, however, is not defective itself).

Φαίνειν, ἔφανα, § 16, 3: φανήσομαι (φανοῦμαι), § 20, 2.

(Φαύσκειν L.XX.), Φώσκειν (ἐπιφώσκουσα Mt. 28. 1, ἐπέφωσκεν L. 23. 54), an Ionic and Hellenistic verb, only found in composition with δια-, ἐπι-, ὑπο-, and elsewhere only in pres. and impf. (cp. φάος, φῶς): N.T. has fut. ἐπιφαύσει E. 5. 14 a quotation (διέφαυσε LXX. Gen. 44. 3; ιπόφαυσις Herodot.).

*Φέρειν, ήνεγκα, -εῖν etc. $\S 21$, 1.

Φθάνειν, aor. ἔφθἄσα (so and ἔφθην Attic), perf. ἔφθακα (unattested in Att.) 1 Th. 2. 16 BD*. Meaning 'to arrive at,' 'come upon' as in mod. Gk.; 'to anticipate' only in 1 Th. 4. 15 (for which $\pi\rho\rho\phi\theta$. is used Mt. 17. 25).

Φοβείσθαι, φοβηθήσομαι, § 20, 2.

Φορείν, φορέσω etc. § 16, 1.

Φύειν, in act. only H. 12. 15 (O.T. quot.) intransitive (frequently in late writers); elsewhere only aor. $\dot{\epsilon}\phi \dot{\nu}\eta\nu$, § 19, 2.

Χαίρειν, χαρήσομαι, § 18, 3.

Χύ(ν)νειν for χεῖν, § 17: fut. χεῶ, § 18, 2: aor. ἔχεζα as in Att.: pass. κέχυμαι, ἐχύθην also Att.

Ψύχειν, pres. L. 21. 26 άπο-: fut. perf. ψυγήσομαι, § 19, 3.

'Ωθείν, augment, § 15, 2.

'Ωνεῖσθαι, augment, § 15, 2: aor. ἀνησάμην Α. 7. 16 (Att. ἐπριάμην, which is still used in the LXX.).

§ 25. ADVERBS.

- 1. Adverbs of manner formed from adjectives with termination -ωs occasionally have a comparative with a corresponding ending in -τέρως: περισσοτέρως 2 C. 1. 12, and constantly in St. Paul, H. 2. 1. 13. 19 (6. 17 -ότερον, but B -οτέρως, 7. 15 -ότερον), Mc. 15. 14 ENP al. (περισσώς NAB al.), 7. 36 D (-ότερον NAB al.), cp. for their meaning and usage § 11, 4; σπουδαιοτέρως Ph. 2. 28 (D*FG -ότερον); acp. έσχάτως έχειν (Polyb.) Mc. 5. 23. Elsewhere such comparative adverbs take - τερον, which is also the predominant termination in Attic, and from -(ί)ων the constant adverbial form is -(ι)ον (βέλτιον etc., Attic has also the adverbial ending -όνως). b 'Well' is καλώς, no longer εδ (except in E. 6. 3 O.T. quot., A. 15. 29 literary language: εδ ποιείν 'to benefit' anyone, only in Mc. 14. 7); 'better' is κρείσσον (1 C. 7. 38). Διπλότερον 'in double measure' Mt. 23, 15 (late).—On ανώτερον, κατωτέρω, πορρώτερον (-τέρω) see § 11, 5. We have an instance of a numeral adverb πρώτως in A. 11. 26 BD² (πρώτον A al., D reads differently), i.e. 'for the first time,' cp. Clem. Hom. ίχ. 4 τὸν πρώτως ἀναγκάσαντα, χνί. 20 πρώτος ἐφθέγξω, ἃ πρώτως ἡκούσαμεν, always used of the first appearance of something. Similarly in Polyb. vi. 5. 10, Diod. Sic. iv. 24 τότε πρώτως etc., Phryn. Lob. 311 f.—An instance of an adverb formed from a participle (according to classical precedent) is φειδομένως 2 C. 9. 6 (Plutarch).
- 2. In adverbs of place the distinction between 'where?' and 'whither?' is not always preserved even in classical Gk. (ἔνθα, ἐνταῦθα, ἐνθάδε, ἄνω, κάτω, εἴσω, ἔξω);¹ in the N.T. there is no longer any distinction whatever, in the same way that ἐν and εἰs begin to be confused (§ 39, 3). Ποῦ is 'where?' and 'whither?' (ποῦ has disappeared); to it corresponds οῦ, ὅπου (που indef. is only in H. 2. 6, 4. 4, and in the sense 'about' in R. 4. 19; δήπου H. 2. 16). 'Here' ('hither') is expressed by ἐνθάδε in L. (esp. in Acts) and Jo. 4. 15 f. (nowhere by ἐνταῦθα), but usu. by δδε (in Acts only 9. 14, 21), which πεποησε has its original meaning 'thus' (from δε δε): Att. also occasionally uses $\delta\delta\delta\epsilon$ = hither.'1 'There' ('thither') is ἐκεῖ, in scholarly language ἐκεῖσε A. 21. 3, 22. 5 (D ἐκεῖ) = 'there,' as in Pap. Oxyrh. i. p. 119 ἐκ(ε)ῖσε διατρίβουσιν.² Cp. δμόσε for δμοῦ A. 20. 18 D joined with ἄντων; πανταχοῦ 'to every quarter' Mc. 1. 28, ἀλλαχοῦ 'to another place' ibid. 38, Lob. Phryn. 43 f.—The local adverbs in -η are no longer represented except πάντας πανταχη̂ (-οῦ HLP) 'everywhere' A. 21. 28; πάντη τε καὶ πανταχοῦ 24. 3 appears to mean 'in every way and everywhere.'

- 3. Adverbs answering the question 'whence?' with termination $-\theta \epsilon \nu$: $\pi \delta \theta \epsilon \nu$ ($\pi \delta \theta \epsilon \nu$ nowhere), $\delta \theta \epsilon \nu$ ($\delta \pi \delta \theta \epsilon \nu$ nowhere), $\delta \nu \theta \epsilon \nu$ (opposed to έκεὶ, unclass.) Mt. 17. 20 (ἐντεῦθεν C), L. 16. 26 (= Attic ἐντεῦθεν, $\dot{\epsilon}\nu\theta\dot{\epsilon}\nu\delta\epsilon$), elsewhere $\dot{\epsilon}\nu\tau\epsilon\hat{\nu}\theta\epsilon\nu$, which is also used for Attic $\ddot{\epsilon}\nu\theta\epsilon\nu$ in the phrase Jo. 19. 18 έντεθθεν καὶ έντεθθεν = Attic ἔνθεν καὶ ἔνθεν (Ap. 22. 2 έντ. καὶ ἐκεῖθεν AB, ἐντ. καὶ ἐντ. some minuscules, ἔνθεν καὶ \aleph^* , $\tilde{\epsilon}\nu\theta$ εν add. κ°). 'Thence' is $\tilde{\epsilon}\kappa\epsilon\hat{\iota}\theta$ εν; other forms are $\pi\acute{a}\nu\tau$ οθεν ($\pi a\nu\tau a$ χόθεν Mc. 1. 45 EGU al. as in Attic prose), ἀλλαχόθεν.—The termination $-\theta \epsilon \nu$ has become stereotyped and meaningless in most cases in the words $\epsilon \sigma \omega \theta \epsilon \nu$, $\epsilon \epsilon \omega \theta \epsilon \nu$ 'within,' 'without,' as is often the case even in Attic Gk. (they have the meaning 'from within,' 'from without' in Mc. 7. 18, 21, 23, L. 11. 7; these forms are never used in answer to the question 'whither?'): also in $\kappa \nu \kappa \lambda \delta \theta \epsilon \nu$ Ap. 4. 8 (Att.): and the termination is entirely without force in $\ddot{\epsilon}\mu\pi\rho\sigma\theta\epsilon\nu$, $\ddot{\sigma}\pi\iota\sigma\theta\epsilon\nu$, as it is from the earliest times. On the other hand $\mathring{a}v\omega\theta\epsilon\nu = from a\mathring{b}ore'$ ($\kappa\acute{a}\tau\omega\theta\epsilon\nu$ does not appear); $\mathring{a}\pi'\mathring{a}v\omega\theta\epsilon\nu$ $\mathring{\epsilon}\omega$ s $\kappa\acute{a}\tau\omega$ in Mt. 27. 51 ($\mathring{a}\pi'$ om. »L), Mc. 15. 38 is like ἀπὸ μακρόθεν beside μακρόθεν Mt. 26. 58 (ἀπὸ om. κCF al.), Mc. 15. 40, 5. 6 (ἀπὸ om. AKL al.) etc. (also used in conjunction with $i\sigma\tau\alpha\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$, so that $i\sigma\alpha$ and $i\sigma\alpha$ both lose their force), $i\kappa$ $i\sigma\alpha\iota\delta\iota\delta\theta\epsilon\nu$ Mc. 9. 21 (without $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa$ AX al., D $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa$ $\pi \alpha \iota \delta \acute{o}s$), cp. $(\dot{a}\pi', \dot{\epsilon}\xi)$ $o\dot{v}\rho a v \acute{o}\theta \epsilon v$ Homer, Acts 14. 17 (without prep.); later writers are fond of reviving this kind of expression Lob. Phryn. 46. Μακρόθεν first occurs in Hellenistic Gk. (= Attic πόρρωθεν which occurs in L. 17. 12 with ἔστησαν, H. 11. 13), also παιδ(ι)όθεν is first found in late writers (Lob. Phryn. 93); on the other hand the classical ἐγγύθεν is absent from N.T.
- 4. Adverbs of time.—Πότε, ποτέ, ὅτε (ὅπότε only L. 6. 3 AEHK al., ὅτε κΒCD al.), τότε; besides these (ἄλλοτε is wanting) πάντοτε frequently in St. Paul for ἀεί³ (mod. Gk. and late writers, cp. Phryn. 103), and occasionally in Mt. Mc. L. (never in Acts), H. 7. 25 (never in Epp. Cath.); ἀεί only occurs in [Mc. 15. 8 ACD al., om. κΒΔ] A. 7. 51, 2 C. 4. 11, 6. 10 [Tit. 1. 12 quot., H. 3. 10 O.T.], 1 P. 3. 15 (om. A Syr. Euseb.), 2 P. 1. 12.—Πηνίκα etc. do not occur, only ἡνίκα in 2 C. 3. 15 f. (modelled on O.T. language).
- 5. The waning of the system of the correlative adverbs is seen chiefly in the indefinite adverbs, of which $\pi \sigma \tau \epsilon$ alone is in ordinary
 - 1 Hermas frequently has ὧδε κάκεῖσε 'hither and thither,' Mand. v. 2. 7 etc.
- ² For ἐκεῖ in A. 18. 19 BHLP have αὐτοῦ, which is only found elsewhere in Mt. 26. 36 (om. \aleph C*), A. 15. 34 β text (?), 21. 4 (not without var. lect.).
- ³ In Hermas the use of $d\epsilon l$ instead of $\pi \dot{\alpha} \nu \tau \sigma \tau \dot{\epsilon}$ is one of the indications which mark the forged conclusion of Simonides (Sim. ix. 30-x.).

use $(\pi\omega s)$ only in $\epsilon i\pi\omega s$, $\mu i\pi\omega s$: on πov $[\pi o\theta \epsilon v]$ see 2 and 3); also in the indefinite relatives, which become confused with the definite forms (§§ 13, 3; 50, 1), and then in some cases (for $\delta\pi \phi \theta \epsilon v$ sup. 3, $\delta\pi \delta\tau \epsilon$ 4) entirely or almost entirely disappear.

6. On compounded adverbs see § 28, 7.

§ 26. PARTICLES.

- 1. In the use of particles the New Testament language is poor in comparison with the classical, not only because a considerable number of old particles are completely absent, but more especially because many of the remainder are only employed in a limited way. The Syntax will treat of the manner of employment and the combinations of the individual particles; here we merely give a table of those which are represented and those which are absent, together with remarks on the form of some of them.
- 2. Particles (and conjunctions) or combinations of particles in the N.T.: ἀλλά, ἄμα, ἄν, ἄρα (ἄραγε), ἄρα (ἄράγε), ἄχρι(s), γάρ, γε, δέ, δή, δήπου (one ex.), διό, διόπερ, διότι, ἐάν. ἐάνπερ, εἰ, εἴπερ, εἶτα, εἴτε, ἐπάν, ἐπεί, ἐπειδή, ἐπειδήπερ (one ex.), [ἐπείπερ R. 3. 30 v.l.], ἔπειτα, ἕως, ἢ, [ἢ, more correctly εἶ (see § 3, 6), in εἶ μήν O.T. quot.],ἢδη, ἡνίκα (see § 25, 4), [ἢπερ v.l. in Jo. 12. 43], ἢτοι, ἵνα, καθά, καθάπερ, καθό, καθότι, καθώς, καί, καίπερ, καίτοι(γε), μέν, μενοῦνγε, μέντοι, [μέχρι(s), v.l. for μ. οδ], μή, μηδέ, [μήν only in εἶ μήν, vide sup.], μήτε, μήτι, ναί, νή (one ex.), ὅμως, ὁπότε (one ex.), ὅπως, ὅταν, ὅτε, ὅτι, οὐ (οὐχί), οὐδοῦν (one ex.), οὖν, οὖντε, (περ as in Att. prose only in combinations: διόπερ, εἴπερ etc.), πλήν, πρίν, τε, (τοι only in καίτοι, μέντοι etc.; but according to Theodoret in R. 4. 16 διά τοι τοῦτο), τοιγαροῦν, τοίνυν, ὡς, ὡστάν, ὡσεί, ὥσπερ, ὡσπερεί, ὥστε.¹
- 3. The following Attic particles are entirely wanting: $d\tau d\rho$, $d\tau \epsilon$, $a\tilde{v}$, $\gamma o\tilde{v}v$, $\delta \hat{\eta} \theta \epsilon v$, $\delta \hat{\eta} \tau a$, $\epsilon i \theta \epsilon$, $\mu \hat{\alpha}$, $\mu \hat{\eta} \tau o \iota$, $\mu \hat{\omega} v$, vvv, $\delta \pi \acute{\sigma} \tau a v$, $(o\tilde{v} \kappa o v)$, $o\tilde{v} \tau \iota$, $o\tilde{v} \tau o \iota$, $\tau \acute{\epsilon} \omega s$. But the limitation of the rich store of particles began at an early period, as may be shown e.g. by the fact that in the $A \theta \eta v a \iota \omega v$ $A \theta \iota v \iota \iota u$ $A \theta \iota v \iota u$ $A \theta \iota u$ $A \theta$
- 4. 'Εάν is the Hellenistic form for 'if' (cp. ἐαντοῦ, σεαντοῦ), not ἥν or ἄν; ἄν however is found in the MSS. of the N.T. in some few instances, so Jo. 12. 32 B, 13. 20 (ἐάν DEFG al.), 16. 23 BC al., 20. 23 bis (ἐάν AD, semel ), Acts 9. 2 NE. This may perhaps be connected with the disproportionately greater encroachment which ἐάν made into the province of ἄν, out of which a kind of interchange of meanings between the two words might easily grow (modern Gk. uses ἐάν and ἄν for 'if'). 'Εάν is found very frequently after

§ 27. WORD-FORMATION BY MEANS OF TERMINATIONS AND SUFFIXES.

1. The formation of words is naturally carried further in the Hellenistic language than in the classical to meet new requirements, but in all essentials the old patterns are adhered to.

Verbs from noun forms in -os have termination -óω: ἀναστατοῦν, ἀποδεκατοῦν (in the older lang. δεκατεύειν), ἀνακαινοῦν (class. -ίζειν), άφυπνοῦν 'to fall asleep' (-ίζειν in class. Gk. = 'to awake,' -οῦν in Hellenistic Gk. has the same meaning; 'to fall asleep' in the older lang. = καθυπνοῦν, cp. ἐπικαθυπνοῦν Barn. 4. 13), δολιοῦν 'to deceive' (δόλιος) R. 3. 13 O.T. quot., θεμελιοῦν, κεφαλαιοῦν (-λιοῦν ×BL) Mc. 12. 4 appears to mean 'to beat on the head' = κολαφίζειν, but is quite unparalleled in this sense (cp. Lob. Phryn. 95), κραταιοῦν, so also σθενοῦν from το σθένος, (ἐν)δυναμοῦν from δύναμις, νεκροῦν, σαροῦν = σαίρειν (from σάρος: Lob. Phryn. 83), χαριτοῦν from χάρις. Verbs in -ω are principally compounds, see § 28, but there is also δυνατείν from δυνατός (άδυνατείν is old). For έξουδενίζειν (Plut.) N.T. generally has έξουθενείν (LXX.), with θενούν as a v.l. in Mc. 9. 12.—In -ίζειν or (after an ι) -άζειν: άγιάζειν (άγιος, old form άγίζειν), αίχμαλωτίζειν, άναθεματίζειν, άνεμίζειν (old form -μοῦν), δογματίζειν, δειγματίζειν, ενταφιάζειν, θεατρίζειν, θυσιάζειν for θύειν (θυσία), εματίζειν (from $i\mu\alpha = \epsilon i\mu\alpha$, not from $i\mu \dot{\alpha}\tau i\sigma\nu$; $i\mu\alpha\tau i\sigma\mu$ appears already in Polyb.), ἰουδαίζειν, αμυκτηρίζειν, νηπιάζειν (Hippocr.), ὀρθρίζειν, πελεκίζειν (Polyb.), σινιάζειν (σινίον 'sieve,' also a late word; old form σάω, then σήθω), (δια)σκορπίζειν (old-Ionic, Phryn. 218), σμυρνίζειν σπλαγχνίζεσθαι from σπλάγχνα דַּהָבְיים, συμμορφίζειν, φυλακίζειν from φυλακή 'prison'; in Hermas συνετίζειν from συνετός, Mand. iv. 2. 2, cp. σοφίζειν 'to make wise' (LXX.) 2 Tim. 3. 15. Verbs in -εύω are likewise formed from the most various stems: (αἰχμαλωτεύω only in 2 Tim. 3. 6 as a v.l. for -τίζω, vide supra; -είνω Diod. Sic.), παγιδεύειν (παγίς), (έξ)ολεθρεύειν (LXX. passim) : γυμνητεύειν (-ιτεύειν) from γυμνήτης (§ 3, 6), μεσιτεύειν from μεσίτης (Polyb.) 'to be naked,' 'to be a mediator,' so too ιερατεύειν (like βασιλεύειν, ήγεμονεύειν): on a similar pattern έγκρατεύεσθαι 'to behave as an έγκρατής' (Aristot.) like είρωνεύεσθαι: so περπερεύεσθαι 1 C. 13. 4, παραβολεύεσθαι Ph. 2. 30 (nowhere else) 'to show oneself παράβολος' ('foolhardy'), άναιδεύεστθαι (άναιδής) Herm. Vis. iii. 7. 5, άκριβεύεσ θαι Barn. 2. 10. —In -ύνω we have σκληρύνω (like βαθύνω, μηκύνω). Cp. W.-Schm. § 16, 1. On new present formations like στήκω, γρηγορώ see § 17.

2. Verbal substantives in -μόs, denoting an action: ἁγιασμός, βαπτισμός, ἐνταφιασμός (-άζω 1), ὀνειδισμός, παροργισμός, πειρασμός, ῥαντισμός, σαββατισμός (from σαββατίζω, not in N.T.), σωφρονισμός

all from verbs in -ίζω, -άζω, whereas with other verbs the tendency to form such derivatives (όδυρμός, ἀρδμός and others in the earlier language) appears to have almost died out; we only have ἀπελεγμός from ἀπελέγχω, ἀρπαγμός from ἀρπά(ω: and in Hermas συμφυρμός Vis. ii. 2. 2 8, πλατυσμός Mand. v. 2. 3 (Clem. Cor. 3. 1). substantives in -ua (generally denoting the result of the action) are formed from verbs of all kinds: ἀγνόημα 'a sin,' αἰτίωμα A. 25. 7 (a strange form instead of the old airiana 'an accusation'),1 άνταπόδομα (old form -σις), ἄντλημα 'an instrument for drawing water, a strange form (elsewhere ἀντλητήρ, -τήριον), ἀπαύγασμα, ἀποσκίασμα, βάπτισμα (cp. supra -σμός, which is never used of John's baptism, and of Christian baptism only in Col. 2. 12 8°BD*FG. cp. H. 6. 2; the distinction of meaning is preserved: βαπτισμός is the act of immersion, in $\beta \acute{a}\pi \tau \iota \sigma \mu a$ the result is included), 2 $\acute{\epsilon} \acute{\epsilon} \acute{\epsilon} \rho a \mu a$, ήττημα, θέλημα, ιεράτευμα (ιερατεύειν 1), κατάλυμα (Hellenistic for καταγωγείον; here also there is a peculiar use of -μα for the place of lodging), κατόρθωμα (Polyb.), πρόσκομμα; Hermas has ματαίωμα 'a vain thing' Mand. ix. 4, μέθνσμα 'an intoxicating drink' vi. 2. 5 etc. (also in Philo, like ἔδεσμα). Abstract nouns, again, take termination -ors, and are mainly formed from stems that end with a vowel (not from verbs in -ζω, where -σμός is used): βίωσις, έπιπόθησις, θέλησις Η. 2. 4 (elsewhere -ημα), κατάνυξις R. 11. 8 O.T. quot. (κατανύσσειν 'to stupefy' Dan, 10. 9), πεποίθησις (πέποιθα. Phryn. 294 Lob.), πρόσκλίσις (Polyb.), πρόσχυσις (άμάρτησις Herm. Vis. ii. 2. 5). Nouns in -εία are from verbs in -εύω: ἀρεσκεία (ἄρεσκος, -σκεύομαι, -εία; Polyb.), ἐριθεία (Aristot.), ἱερατεία (-εύω sup. 1), μεθοδεία (-εύειν is Hellenistic from μεθοδος). The termination -μονή occurs in a few instances: $\pi \lambda \eta \sigma \mu o \nu \dot{\eta}$ (old), new forms $\pi \epsilon \iota \sigma \mu o \nu \dot{\eta}$ from $\pi\epsilon i\theta\omega$ and $\epsilon\pi\iota\lambda\eta\sigma\mu$ ονή Ja. 1. 25, LXX. Sir. 11. 29, related to $\epsilon\pi\iota\lambda\eta\sigma\mu$ ων. Without suffix is οἰκοδομή 'edification' or 'a building,' a new word, and strictly speaking incorrectly formed instead of -ία or -ησις, Lob. Phryn. 490 (the formation δομή belongs to a primitive word δέμω, not to οἰκοδομέω); but cp. παρασκενή from -άζω and esp. the Attic μισθοφορά.—New nouns to express the doer are formed in -της (no longer in -τωρ, -τήρ): βιαστής, βαπτιστής, γογγυστής, διώκτης, δότης (old form δοτήρ), έλληνιστής from -ίζειν 'to speak Greek,' so the Greek-speaking Jew A. 6. 1 etc., εὐαγγελιστής, λυτρωτής, μεριστής, προσκυνητής; such words, as is shown e.g. by Mt. 11. 12 βιάζεται - βιασταί, Jo. 4. 20 ff. προσκυνείν - προσκυνηταί, are coined with almost the same facility as verbal forms. With ἐπενδύτης 'an upper garment' Jo. 21. 7 (already in Sophocles) cp. the German 'Ueberzieher' [English 'overcoat'].—In -τήριον (from -τήρ) are ίλαστήριον (on σωτήριον inf. 6.), ἀκροατήριον.—It is noticeable that words in $-\mu a$ in the Hellenistic language follow the analogy of those in -ois and -ths (-tos) in so far that they, like the latter, now prefer the verbal stem ending in a short vowel and avoid the stem with a long vowel: δύμα like δόσις δότης, θέμα (already in old Doric) like θέσις θετός, whence ἀνάθεμα = Att. -θημα, 1 so πόμα = Att. πῶμα, κλἴμα, κρῗμα, even ἀνάστεμα for -στημα² (true stem στἄ), διάστεμα A. 5. 7 D (but κατάστημα Tit. 2. 3), ὀφ(ε)ίλεμα D Mt. 6. 12, D* R. 4. 4.

- 3. Substantives from adjectives: with termination -ότης: ἀγιότης, ἀγνότης (old form ἀγνεία from -εύω), ἀδηλότης, ἀφελότης A. 2. 46 from ἀφελής 'simple,' 'plain,' Hellenistic (elsewhere the subst. is always ἀφέλεια), γυμνότης, ματαιότης, μεγαλειότης; corresponding forms from substantives are θεότης (Lucian), ἀδελφότης (1 and 4 Macc., Dio, Chrys.) in concrete sense 'the brotherhood' 1 P. 2. 17, 5. 9 (Clem. Cor. i. 2. 4; in abstract sense Herm. Mand. x. 1. 4), κυριότης in concrete sense 'principality' (an angelic order) E. 1. 21 (abstract Herm. Sim. v. 6. i) etc.—With -σύη: from adj. in-(μ)ων, with which this formation is specially frequent (σωφροσύνη, μνημοσύνη), ἐλεημοσύνη (already found in Callimachus: in N.T. usu. in concrete sense 'alms'): from adj. in -os (like δικαιοσύνη, ἀκεραιοσύνη Barn. 10. 4), but with lengthening of the antepenultimate, as in the comparative, when the syllable preceding it is short: ἀγαθωσύνη, ἀγιωσύνη, μεγαλωσύνη; ἱερωσύνη (=ἱερεωσ. from ἱερεωwhich is from ἱερεύς) occurs in the older language. With -ία: ἐλαφρία, παραφρονία 2 P. 2. 16 (from παράφρων -ονεῦν, ερ. εὐδαιμονία).
- 4. Substantives from substantives: The feminine in -100a is the correct form corresponding to masculine in -ιξ, Φοῖνιξ Φοίνισσα, but in the later language this becomes an independent suffix (βαλάνισσα from βαλανεύς, βασίλισσα, Γαλάτισσα), so in N.T. Συροφοινίκισσα from Συροφοΐνιξ (Lucian) Mc. 7. 26 (v.l. Συραφ. i.e. Σύρα Φ.: D Φοίνισσα, Latt. Συροφοίνισσα).3—Of Latin origin are the designations ending in -uavo's derived from proper names, in the N.T. Ἡρωδιανοί 'adherents of Herod' Mc. 3. 6 etc., and Χρηστιανοί from $X\rho\eta\sigma\tau\delta s = X\rho\iota\sigma\tau\delta s$, the heathen designation for Christians A. 11. 26, 26. 28, 1 P. 4. 16 (on η cp. § 3, 6), formed on the model of Pompeiani, Caesariani; in later times this form was frequently employed for the names of sects.4—Diminutives are, in keeping with the whole character of the N.T., not abundant; some, however, had become popular expressions, such as παιδίον, παιδάριον, παιδίσκη (old), "ψιχίον" 'bread-crumb' (only in N.T. from ψίξ), πτερύγιον, ώτίον, ώτάριον 'ear' (the latter form in Mc. 14. 47 κBC, Jo. 18. 10 *BC*LX) of the part of the body considered as such (Moeris says ώτίον is Hellenistic for Attic οὖς), 5 whereas οὖς (together with ἀκοή) denotes the organ of hearing regarded as such; St. Luke, therefore, atticises when he uses ovs for the part of the body (L. 22. 50: ωτίον DK). Besides these we find κλινίδιον L. 5. 19, 24, κλινάριον (Lob. Phryn. 180) A. 5. 15 κABCD (v.l. κλινών), βιβλαρίδιον Ap. 10. 2, 8 ff. (Herm. Vis. ii. 1. 3 v.l. βιβλιδάριον, cp. λιθαρίδιον late writers), formed from βιβλάρι(ον) +-ίδιον (only here). The following diminutives contain a subjective idea and belong to the special class of ὁποκοριστικά [endearing terms]: κυνάριον Mt. 15. 26 f., Mc. 7. 27 f., ἰχθύδιον Barn. 10. 5, γυναικάριον (also contemptuous) 2 Tim. 3. 6, also probably ὀνάριον Jo. 12. 14 (elsewhere ὄνος): with the subjective sense of love ῥαβδίον Herm. Sim. viii. 2. 9.—Formed with -ειον οτ -ιον is εἰδωλεῖον οτ -ιον (§ 4, 2) from εἴδωλον (also LXX.). With -ών we should not reckon ἐλαιών 'mount of olives,' which should rather be written ἐλαιῶν gen. plur. (with variant form in A. 1. 12), but no doubt ἀφεδρών 'privy' Mt. 15. 17, Mc. 7. 19, cp. κοπρών, περιστερεών, and others.²

5. Adjectives from verbs.—Πειθός would be formed directly from a verbal stem, did not this word in 1 C. 2. 4 owe its origin to a patent corruption ($\pi\epsilon\iota\theta\circ\hat{\imath}$ s written for -o $\hat{\imath}$). In -τος (verbal adjectives) there are many instances of compound words (see § 28, 5); an uncompounded word is $\pi\alpha\theta\eta\tau$ ός 'capable of suffering' A. 26. 23 (Plutarch), in the narrower sense of words in -τός; on the other hand in the more general sense, equivalent to a perf. part. pass., we have $\sigma\iota\tau\iota\sigma\tau$ ός Mt. 22. 4 'fattened,' $\gamma\rho\alpha\pi\tau$ ός R. 2. 15 'written' (besides compounded words). With the rare suffix -ωλος we have $\dot{\alpha}\mu\alpha\rho\tau\omega\lambda$ ός LXX. N.T., cp. $\dot{\phi}\epsilon\iota\delta\omega\lambda$ ός.

6. Adjectives from nouns (and participles).—In $-\cos \sigma \omega \tau \eta \rho \cos$ (old); from which the substantive τὸ σωτήριον is formed, in LXX. 'a thankoffering,' also in the N.T. L. 3. 6, A. 28. 28 etc. = 'salvation': ep. ή ζευκτηρία A. 27. 40 (only here, ζευκτήριος is old). From the LXX., again, is λαὸς περιούσιος Tit. 2. 14= אָלֶב י 'a people of possession,' = ος περίεστι, ον ο θεως περιεποιήσατο έαυτώ, cp. Jerome ap. Tisch. ad loc., Lightfoot, Fresh revis. of Eng. N.T. 260 ff. Another equally singular word is ἐπιούσιος Mt. 6. 11, L. 11. 3 which cannot well be derived from any other source but ή ἐπιοῦσα sc. ἡμέρα (A. 16, 11 and elsewhere in Acts), so that its meaning is 'bread for the coming day': see the detailed exposition in Lightfoot, pp. 217-260. Origen (i. 245) was not acquainted with the word either in literature or in the colloquial language, and it must therefore be an artificial translation of an Aramaic expression. An obscure word in -ukós is πιστικός Mc. 14. 3, Jo. 12. 3 (ναρδοῦ πιστικής), which should perhaps be rendered 'genuine' and be derived from πιστός or πίστις, but' may on the other hand have an entirely different origin, W.-Schm. § 16, 3 b. Other forms in -ικός (or -ακός, after ι) are κυριακός (ἡμέρα Ap. 1. 10, δείπνον 1 C. 11. 20), σκεύη κεραμικά Ap. 2. 27 with v.l.

² For details see Fischer, Vitia lexicorum N.T. 698 ff.

-εικά i.e. 'the vessels of the potter' (κεραμεύς, but the more natural meaning is 'earthen,' so that the word is incorrectly used instead of κεραμεοῦς, Lob. Phryn. 146), σαρκικός = 'belonging to σάρξ,' 'of the nature of σάρξ '(opposed to πνευματικός), in the MSS. occasionally confounded with σάρκινος 'consisting of flesh' (like λίθινος and N.T. ὀστράκινος) 2 C. 3. 3 (-ικός R. 15. 27, 1 C. 9. 11, 2 C. 1. 12 [FG-ίνη], 2 C. 10. 4, 1 P. 2. 11, also 1 C. 3. 3 according to N al. [D*FG-ινοι]; in the similar passages R. 7. 14, 1 C. 3. 1, H. 7. 16, while the best tradition is in favour of -ινος, the sense demands -ικός, since there is an antithesis with πνευματικός). In -ινός we have adjectives of time (as in class. Gk. μεσημβρινός): ὀρθρινός 1 L. 24. 22 (ὄρθριαι Κ²P al., an atticising correction, Lob. Phryn. 51: -ινός also in Herm. Sim. v. 1. 1), πρωϊνός (older form πρώιος, πρῷος), καθημερινός A. 6. 1, Herm. Vis. i. 3. 2 (a similar form μεθημερινός in class. Gk.) 'daily' (from καθ' ἡμέραν = class. καθημέριος), ταχινός 'speedy' (from τάχα, ταχέως) 2 P. 1. 14, 2. 1, Herm. Sim. viii. 9. 4.

§ 28. WORD-FORMATION BY COMPOSITION.

- 1. Λ distinction is drawn in Greek between true composition (σύνθεσις), in which the first of the component parts, if subject to inflection, is represented by the stem alone without inflection, and improper composition (παράθεσις), i.e. the mere coalescing of words originally separate, without further adaptation than is required for euphony. To the class of parathetic compounds belong all compounds of verbs with prepositions, together with some substantival forms such as $\Delta \iota \acute{o} \sigma \kappa ο \rho \iota o \iota$ from $\Delta \iota \acute{o} s \kappa \acute{o} \rho \iota \iota$, and many adverbs, in the formation of which the later language showed itself as prolific as it did in the production of compound verbs. A third category is formed by the derivatives of (true or improper) compounds (παρασύνθετα), such as $i \pi \pi ο \tau \rho o \phi \acute{e} \iota v$, $-i \alpha$ from $i \pi \pi \sigma \tau \rho \acute{o} \phi o s$, $\Delta \iota o \sigma \kappa \acute{o} \rho \iota o v$ from $\Delta \iota \acute{o} \sigma \kappa o \rho o \iota$.
- 2. To enumerate the new (parathetic) compounds formed from verb and preposition, together with the verbal substantives and verbal adjectives belonging to them, does not come within the province of the study of grammar.² We may also have more than one preposition combined in a word, as in the classical language; special mention may be made of $\delta\iota a\pi a\rho a\tau \rho\iota \beta a\iota$ 1 Tim. 6. 5 'perpetual disputations' ($\pi a\rho a\tau \rho\iota \beta a\iota$) = 'dispute' Polyb.). Adverbs formed by composition or cohesion (incorrectly used as prepositions) are coined more freely by the later than by the classical language (Lob. Phryn. 45 ff.); as a rule they are composed of preposition and adverb, as $i\pi\epsilon\rho a\iota a\nu$ E. 1. 21 etc. ($i\pi a\nu a\nu$, $i\nu a\nu a\nu$) belong to the earlier period).

² Winer, five essays 'de verborum cum praep. compositorum in N.T. usu,' Leips. 1834-43; A. Rieder 'Verbs (and other words) compounded with more than one prep. in the New and Old Test.,' Progr. Gumbinnen, 1876.

- ἔκπαλαι 2 P. 2: 3, 3. 5 (ἐκ παλαιοῦ in Attic according to Phrynichus); also from prepos. and adj. as ἐκπερισσοῦ (beside ἐκπερισσοῦ? as κBCD read in Mc. 14. 31: the word would naturally be forced into an adverbial form), by accumulation ὑπερεκπερισσοῦ (-ῶs), E. 3. 20, 1 Th. 3. 10, 5. 13, cp. (-ῶs) Clem. Cor. i. 20. 11 (§ 4, 1 note), also ὑπερπερισσῶς Mc. 7. 37 (v.l. ὑπερεκπ.), ὑπερλίαν 2 C. 11. 5, 12. 11, ὑπεράγαν Clem. Cor. i. 56. 2; ὑπερέκεινα 2 C. 10. 16 is another new form (prep. and pron.: ἐπέκεινα is old).
- 3. True compounds are in a few cases fundamentally substantives. formed in such a way that in front of a substantive, which keeps its ordinary form, there is placed another substantive (or adject.) more nearly defining or restricting its meaning (e.g. lion-head, Greek λεοντοκεφαλή an architectural term); so in N.T. Συροφοίνισσα or -ίκισσα § 27, 4 (Λιβυφοίνικες Polyb.): εὐρακύλων a hybrid word from εξρος and aquilo (cp. εξρόνοτος 'north east'); ψευδοπροφήτης, -δάδελφος. -δαπόστολος, -δοδιδάσκαλος, (ψευδόμαρτυς appears in Attic); σαρδόνυξ (Α σαρδιόνυξ) Ap. 21. 20 from σάρδιος and ὄνυξ, ibid. χρυσόλιθος (but χρυσόπρασος in the same verse is an adjective formed from πράσον 'leak,' sc. λίθος); χρεοφειλέτης from χρέος and ὀφειλέτης, but words of this kind (cp. $i\pi\pi\eta\lambda\acute{a}\tau\eta$ s, $i\pi\pi\circ\delta\iota\acute{\omega}\kappa\tau\eta$ s) belong rather to compounds of subst. and verbal stem, vide infra 5; on the other hand οἰκοδεσπότης (cp. Phryn. 373 who condemns the word: derivative οἰκοδεσποτεῖν) does really consist of οἶκος and δεσπότης.—The subst. is defined by a particle in συστρατιώτης (class.), συμπρεσβύτερος, συγκληρονόμος: by a verbal stem in ἀρχιερείς (but the older form is άρχιέρεως, i.e. ὁ ἄρχων τῶν ἱερέων), ἀρχιτέκτων (which is likewise strictly to be explained as ὁ ἄρχων τῶν τεκτόνων), ἀρχιτελώνης L. 19. 2, άρχιποίμην 1 P. 5. 4, άρχάγγελος (but in άρχισυνάγωγος, άρχιτρίκλινος it is clear that the first component still continues to govern the second).1
- 4. There are a great number of adjectival forms composed of adjectives (adv., prep., numeral) and substantive (adj.), which express the combined notion of both ideas, such as the peculiar δευτερόπρωτον σάββατον L. 6. I (from two numeral adjectives), with var. lect. and variously explained, see Tisch. ad loc. and W.-Grimm; an example of the ordinary type (particle and subst.) is ἀνέλεος Ja. 2. 13 (class. άνηλεής, due to τὸ ἔλεος, § 9, 3), so σκληροτράχηλος (LXX.) A. 7. 51, δίψυχος Ja. 1. 8, 4. 8 (Hermas pass.), έτερόγλωσσος (Polyb.), δίστομος and μονόφθαλμος already found in classical Gk.; ἰσάγγελος = ἴσος τοῖς ἀγγέλοις, like Homeric ἰσόθεος; especially with a preposition in the first place, in which case the formation of the adj. in -ιος (ἀκρογωνιαίος is from -a-ιος) is preferred: παραθαλάσσιος (old), ἐπιθανάτιος 1 C. 4. 9 = ἐπὶ θανάτω συνειλημμένος (also in Dionys. Halic.), ἐπίγειος and έπουράνιος (old), καταχθόνιος (also old); ενώπιον (neuter of ενώπιος) likewise takes this formation. From these words again neuter substantives are formed. A peculiar compound of elements which are coordinate and simply added together, is νυχθήμερον (late) 2 C. 11.

25, 'a period of a night and a day,' Kühner i.3 ii. 318; note moreover τὸ δωδεκάφυλον Α. 26. 7 = αἱ δώδεκα φυλαί (§ 44, 1); ὑποπόδιον 'footstool, ὑπολήνιον (ληνός) the receptacle or vat excavated beneath the winepress, $\dot{a}\nu\dot{a}\gamma a io\nu$ (§§ 3, 7; 6, 4); further $\dot{a}\kappa\rho o\theta i\nu io\nu$ H. 7. 4 (old), μεσονύκτιον (Hellenistic, Lob. Phryn. 53; § 6, 2), ημιώριον 'half an hour' Ap. 8. 1 (ἡμίωρον AP, cp. ἡμίδραχμον, ἡμιπόδιον etc.; Kühner i.³ ii. 323); προσάββατον, εήδύοσμον a plant (garden mint). In the femin, we have ή καλλιέλαιος and its opposite ἀγριέλαιος (for which, according to Moeris, Attic has κότινος) R. 11. 17, 24, not άγριελαία, although άγριοin the later language is also directly compounded with the substantive (supra 3), as in ἀγριοκολοκύνθη; also ἀκροβυστία, a distorted form of $\dot{\alpha}\kappa\rho\sigma\sigma\sigma\theta\dot{\alpha}$ or $-\iota\sigma\nu$ (the old word) from $\pi\dot{\alpha}\sigma\theta\eta$. Then from adjectives of this kind there was a further creation of abstract substantives, such as σκληροκαρδία 'hardness of heart' (LXX.) related to σκληροκόρδιος (LXX.), and therefore for -καρδι-ία, cp. διπλοκαρδία Barn, 20. 1, and of verbs (cp. 5), amongst which may be specially noticed δρθοποδείν (ὀρθόπους is old) G. 2. 14 (nowhere else), and εγκακείν (the word έκκακείν is a wrong reading, occurring also in Herm. Mand. ix. 8) 'to be slack in anything' Polyb. 4, 19. 10, formed directly from $\epsilon \nu$ and κακός, although no word έγκακος ever existed; ένωτίζεσθαι Α. 2. 14 (LXX.) is also certainly formed directly from εν and ωτα, cp. ένστερνίζεσθαι Clem. Cor. ii. 1, ένστηθίζειν Athanasius.

5. The greater number of compounds, originally adjectival, are formed of substantive (adject., pronoun) or particle and verbal stem; from these adjectives there are then formed parasynthetic babstract The most ordinary form is: adj. -os, substantives and verbs. abstract subst. -ία, verb -έω, like ἱπποτρόφος, ἱπποτροφία, ἱπποτροφέω. So in the N.T. we have ἀγαθοποιός 1 P. 2. 14, ἀγαθοποιία 4. 19 (ἀγαθοποίησις Herm. Mand. viii. 10, Sim. v. 3. 4), ἀγαθοποιείν 2. 15 (beside ἀγαθοεργεῖν 1 Tim. 6. 18, ἀγαθουργεῖν with v.l. ἀγαθοποιεῖν A. 14. 17), καλοποιείν 2 Th. 3. 13, κακοποιός (and κακούργος, both old). κακοποιείν (old), είρηνοποιός -είν, μοσχοποιείν only in N.T. (Acts 7. 41) of the image of the golden calf, where the adjectival stem only exists, and only needed to exist, in idea, ισχυροποιείν (and -ποίησις) Hermas, Vis. i. 3. 2 etc. With other verbal stems there are: κακουχείν an old form (from έχω: κακούχος nowhere), πληροφορείν -ία (first in N.T.: -φόρος nowhere), λογομαχείν -ία (late, other writers also have $-\mu \dot{\alpha} \chi o s$), $\lambda \iota \theta o \beta o \lambda \epsilon \hat{\iota} \nu$ 'to stone' together with $\lambda \iota \theta \dot{\alpha} \xi \epsilon \iota \nu$ (the old word was λεύειν), λατομείν, έτεροζυγείν 2 C. 6. 14 (έτερόζυγος LXX.), ἀνθρωποκτόνος, ἀνθρωπάρεσκος (ἀρέσκω), of uncertain meaning δεξιολάβος Acts 23. 23 (an infantry corps), according to a probably certain conjecture $\kappa \epsilon \nu \epsilon \mu \beta \alpha \tau \epsilon \dot{\nu} \epsilon \iota \nu = -\epsilon \dot{\iota} \nu$ Col. 2. 18 ($\kappa \epsilon \nu \epsilon \mu \beta \dot{\alpha} \tau \eta s$ has to be imagined: the word is formed like ἐμβατεύειν) etc. Where the verbal stem has an active sense the adjectives are paroxytone or oxytone (according to the quantity of the paenultima), whereas in the case of a passive stem the accent is thrown back on to the first part of the word (πρωτότοκος 'firstborn,' whence πρωτοτόκια, cp. εὐαγγέλιον.

H. 12. 16). But for words of passive meaning the form of the verbal adj. in -τος is preferred to that in -os; thus in N.T. πατροπαράδοτος 1 P. 1. 18, σητόβρωτης Ja. 5. 2, λιθόστρωτος (Sophocles) Jo. 19. 3. ποταμοφόρητος (-φορείν) Ap. 12. 15,1 είδωλόθυτον (like ίερόθυτον); just as in active words - 775 (the noun of the agent) may take the place of -os, χρεοφειλέτης supra 3, καρδιογνέστης Acts 1. 24. 15. 8 Herm. Mand iv. 3. 4 (nowhere else), προσωπολήμπτης 10. 34 (-τείν, -ημψία). From διδάσκειν the compounds are formed with termination -διδάσκαλος: νομοδιδάσκαλος, καλοδιδάσκαλος Tit. 2. 3 (like χοροδιδάσκ. in older Greek), έτεροδιδασκαλείν? (= ετερα διδάσκειν? $or = \epsilon \tau \epsilon \rho o is$ διδασκάλοις χρ $\hat{\eta} \sigma \theta a i$?) 1 Tim. 1. 3, 6. 3; from φυλάσσω with -φύλαξ (Hellenistic words): δεσμοφύλαξ Α. 16. 23 (γαζοφυλάκιον Mc. 12. 41 etc. LXX., a παρασύνθετον from γαζοφύλαξ); from verbs in -άω, -έω with termin. -ης (1st decl.): $\pi \alpha \tau \rho o \lambda \omega as$ (§ 6, 2) ἀλοᾶν, φρεναπάτης² ἀπατᾶν (whence φρεναπατᾶν), πορφυροπώλης πωλεῖν, with fem. -πωλις A. 16. 14; so also ἀρσενοκοέτης (κοιτά(εσθαι, κοίτη) 1 C. 6. 9, 1 Tim. 1. 10, είδωλολάτρης (λατρεύειν), whence είδωλολατρείν Hermas, εἰδωλολατρία N.T. (a more correct form than -εία like λατρεία; B however, except in 1 C. 10. 14, has $-\lambda \alpha \tau \rho \epsilon i\alpha = -i\alpha$), and from $\tilde{a}\rho\chi\epsilon\iota\nu$ we have words in $\tilde{a}\rho\chi\eta$ s beside those in $\tilde{a}\rho\chi\rho$ s, see § 9, 2. In δφθαλμοδουλία Ε. 6. 6, Col. 3. 22 (B reads with ει, like δουλεία which is formed from δουλεύω) the underlying word is οφθαλμόδουλος (which occurs in Const. Apost.), where the formation is dependent on δοῦλος. Occasionally -ής, -ές also appears as a termination: εἰλικρινής (κρίνω), subst. -ίνεια (old), τηλαυγής Μc. 8. 25 (-ῶς; v.l. δηλαυγώς * al.), an old poetical word, but also in LXX.: the sense has become weakened to 'clear,' so also in Herm. Sim. vi. 5. 1; γονυπετής (πίπτω, Eurip.), -τείν (Polyb.), νουνεχής from νοῦν and εχω (Polyb.), ιεροπρεπής (Att.). 'Αλεκτοροφωνία 'cock-crowing' (vulgar word, Lob. Phryn. 229 = ή ωρα ήνίκα ὁ ἀλ. φωνεί) is peculiar, there being no conceivable adjective from which it can be derived. In γλωσσόκομον 'a case' 3 Jo. 12. 3, 13. 29 the verb κομείν, κομίζειν is concealed; the Atticists require in place of this vulgar form the longer γλωττοκομείον Phryn. Lob. 98 (cp. χερνιβείον 'a hand-basin').

6. In the older language it frequently happens that in compound words of this kind the verb is given the first place ($\phi\epsilon\rho\epsilon o\iota\kappa os$, $\delta\eta\dot{\xi}(-\theta\nu\mu os)$, in the later language this does not often occur; on compounds in $\dot{a}\rho\chi\iota$ - vide supra 3: $\dot{\epsilon}\theta\epsilon\lambda o\theta\rho\eta\sigma\kappa (a$ (- $\epsilon\iota a$ B, cp. 5) Col. 2. 23 based on $\dot{\epsilon}\theta\epsilon\lambda \delta\theta\rho\eta\sigma\kappa os$ (from $\theta\rho\dot{\eta}\sigma\kappa os$) which is not found, cp. $\dot{\epsilon}\theta\epsilon\lambda o\delta\iota\delta\dot{a}\sigma\kappa a\lambda os$ Hermas, $\dot{\epsilon}\theta\epsilon\lambda o\delta\upsilon\lambda (\epsilon)\iota a$ Plato, $\dot{\epsilon}\theta\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\dot{\epsilon}\chi\theta\rho os$ Demosth., $\dot{\epsilon}\theta\epsilon\lambda o\kappa a\kappa\dot{\epsilon}\iota\nu$ Hdt., ($\dot{\epsilon}\theta\epsilon\lambda o-$ expressing spontaneity): $\phi\iota\lambda \delta\theta\dot{\epsilon}os$, $\phi\iota\lambda\dot{\alpha}\gamma a\theta os$ and $\phi\iota\lambda a\upsilon\tau os$ (Aristot.), ($\phi\iota\lambda\dot{\delta}\sigma\rho\omega\tau os$ late language, and) $\phi\iota\lambda o\pi\rho\omega\tau\dot{\epsilon}\upsilon\omega\nu$ 3 Jo. 9 (no forms with $\mu \omega \sigma$ - appear in N.T.).—The words compounded with certain pronouns and particles deserve a special mention: αἰτοκατάκριτος Tit. 3. 11 (αὐτόματος and αὐθαίρετος are old); words with a privative for the most part formed in -τος, e.g. in N.T. αγενεαλόγητος, αδιάκριτος, άδιάλειπτος, 1 (ἀδύνατος, -εῖν are old), ἀκατάγνωστος, ἀκατακάλιπτος, ἀκατάκριτος, ἀκατακαλιπτος, ἀκατάπαυστος, (ἀκατάστατος is old, -ασία Polyb.), αναπολόγητος, αμετανόητος, (ανόητος old), ανεξερεύνητος, ανεξιχνίαστος etc., not however exclusively in a passive sense (e.g. those from $d\pi \circ \lambda \circ \gamma \in \hat{i}\sigma \theta a \iota$, [$\mu \in \tau a \mid \nu \circ \in \nu$): so also $d\pi \tau a \iota \sigma \tau \circ \sigma$ Jude 24 (old) is active.² The opposite to \vec{a} - is $\vec{\epsilon}\nu$ - (e.g. $\vec{\epsilon}\nu\tau\iota\mu\sigma s = \vec{\epsilon}\nu \tau\iota\mu\hat{\eta}$ opposed to ἄτιμος): ἐμπερίτομος is opposed to ἀπερίτμητος in Barn. 9. 6 C and = έν περιτομή of NG: Paul has ανομος - εννομος 1 C. 9. 21, \$ 36, 11.— With εθ we have: εθάρεστος (already in Xenoph.), εθμετάδοτος 'ready to impart' 1 Tim. 6. 18, εὐπρόσδεκτος, εἰπερίστατος Η. 12. 1 (nowhere else) probably = $\dot{\eta}$, $\dot{\rho}$ αδίως περιισταμένη 'easily surrounding and thereby hindering' a person; with δισ-: δισβάστακτος, δισερμήνευτος, δυσνόητος. 'A(ν)- (and δισ-) can also be compounded with ordinary adjectives (in classical Gk. avayvos, cioayvos), but in the case of εὐπάρεδρος 1 C. 7. 35 we should rather refer the word to $\pi \alpha \rho \epsilon \delta \rho \epsilon \psi \epsilon \iota \nu$ than to $\pi \dot{\alpha} \rho \epsilon \delta \rho o s$; a compound of adverb and verb is quite inadmissible, therefore είδοκείν (Hellenistic) must be derived from an imaginary εὔδοκος (δέχομαι), certainly not from δοκεῖν (aorist ιδόκησα), similarly the old word καραδοκέιν (N.T. ἀποκαραδοκία) is derived through an imaginary καραδόκος from κάρα and δέχομαι (cp. δοκεύω). Εὐάγγελος (class.) is from εδ and ἀγγέλλειν; whence εὐαγγέλιον (as early as Homer) = reward for good news, thanks for a good message, cp. πρωτοτόκια supra 5; it is only late writers who employ it for the good news itself; εὐαγγελίζεσθαι 'to bring good news' is also found in Attic Greek.—Προσφάγιον Jo. 21. 5, which according to Moeris is Hellenistic for Attic of v 'something eaten with bread, comes from $\pi\rho\delta$ and $\phi\alpha\gamma\epsilon\hat{i}\nu$; $\pi\rho\sigma\delta\eta\lambda\nu\tau\sigma$ however (LXX.) is connected with προσέρχεσθαι (ἔπηλυς, ἐπηλύτης are old).—A special formation is that in -ἄσία, -εσία, -ἴσία, -οσία, -ἴσία, allied to -σις, and not to be confused with abstract nouns from adjectives in - 705 (ἀκαταστασία), since the former has the active sense of the verbal substantive: δρκωμοσία 'an oath,' δροθεσία A. 17. 26 'a setting of bounds' (unless with Hesychius τὰ ὁροθέσια should be read, cp. τὰ όρια; γυμνάσιον, συμπόσιον), δικαιοκρίσία 'righteous judgment' R. 2. 5. αίματεκχύσία Η. 9. 22, also παλιγγενεσία (γίνεσθαι) Tit. 3. 5; in composition with a preposition this formation appears in the older language, e.g. ἀποστασία (προστασία is as early as Attic; also from a simple verb ονομασία).

² I.e. one who deceives his own mind = 'conceited'; the word also occurs on a papyrus of the 2nd cent. B.C. (in rhetorical and artificial prose, Grenfell 'An Alexandrian erotic fragment,' Oxf. 1896, p. 3).

7. Of compound adverbs, which were not originally derived from adjectives, there are not many instances in the N.T. In - ϵi there are $\pi a \mu \pi \lambda \eta \theta \epsilon i$ L. 23. 18, $\pi a \nu o \iota \kappa \epsilon i$ A. 16. 34, in the cultivated language of Luke, although these particular instances are not Attic;

cp. Kühner i.³ ii. 303 ($\bar{\iota}$ is probably an incorrect spelling, $\epsilon\lambda\lambda\eta\nu\iota\sigma\tau\iota$ and the like have $\bar{\iota}$). ' $O\mu o\theta \nu\mu\alpha\delta\delta\nu$ is frequent in the Acts (also occurring in R. 15. 6), a classical word. (For adverbs in - $\delta o\nu$ see Kühner ibid. 307 f.)

8. As is already apparent from the preceding instances, the employment of compound words in the N.T. is fairly large, and is not absent even from the simplest style, although the more elevated style naturally has a larger number of them: for the $\delta\iota\pi\lambda\hat{a}$ (as Aristotle terms the compounds) serve from the earliest times as an embellishment to the speech. In the short letter to Titus the following striking instances occur (verbal compounds and others are neglected): άδόκιμος, ἄκαρπος, ἀκατάγνωστος, ἄμαχος, ἀνέγκλητος, ἀνόητος, ἀνομία, άνυπότακτος, άνωφελής, άπειθής, άσωτία, άφθορία, άψευδής; αὐθάδης, αὐτοκατάκριτος; αἰσχροκερδής; εὐάρεστος; γενεαλογία; ἱεροπρεπής; καλοδιδάσκαλος; ματαιολόγος; οἰκουρ(γ)ός, οἰκονόμος; παλιγγενεσία; πειθαρχείν; φιλάγαθος, φίλανδρος, φιλανθρωπία, φιλόξενος, φιλότεκνος; φρεναπάτης.—With regard to the manner of the composition, it is further to be noticed that, at least in the case of words compounded with numerals, the numeral undergoes no elision as it does in Attic. but remains intact, in accordance with the effort after a clearer isolation of the words—a tendency which has likewise diminished the number of cases of elision between separate words (§ 5, 1, cp. 3, 12). Thus τετραάρχης, -χείν Tisch. in Acts 13. 1 according to , L. 3. 1  U etc. (Tisch. on L. loc. cit.), τεσσερακονταετής A. 7. 23, 13. 18, έκατοντα- $\epsilon \tau \dot{\eta}$ s R. 4. 19 (which is an old form in dialects, but this is due to Fέτος Kühner i.3 ii. 332; Att. -τούτης from -τοέτης); with αρχιϊέρεις B in Mt. 26. 14 cp. ἀρχιϊατρός MSS. of Origen's Homilies, p. 289, Klostermann, ίπποϊατρός Pap. § 29. PROPER NAMES.

In the proper names of the N.T. the only grammatical point which calls for attention is the class of (hypocoristic) abbreviated These abbreviated names have always existed in Greek, and present a great diversity in their formation, see Bechtel-Fick, Griech. Personennamen 26 ff.: $-\iota s$, $-\iota a s$, $-\epsilon \iota a s$, $-\epsilon a s$ $(-\hat{\eta} s)$, $-\nu s$, $-\iota \lambda(\lambda) o s$, $-\nu(\lambda)\lambda_{0s}$, $-\omega\nu$, $-i\omega\nu$ etc.; the Hellenistic language, on the other hand, as it meets us in the N.T., has hardly any other form of the abbreviated name than that in -as, which is employed not only when the full name contains an a, as in 'Αντίπας Ap. 2. 13 from 'Αντίπατρος, but also when there is no such support for it, and the second half of a name containing two stems is completely set aside. These short names were in some cases given at birth, as when a Mantitheus called his son Mantias, a Niceratus Nicias, a Demoteles Demon, but in others the person originally had the full name, but was frequently called by the shorter name, as Menodorus the admiral of Sextus Pompeius is spoken of by the historians sometimes by his full name, sometimes as Menas (W.-Schm. § 16, 9). An instance of this in the N.T. is Σιλουανός, as he is always called in St. Paul (also 1 P. 5, 12), and Σιλᾶς A. 15. 22 etc.: also no doubt 'Απολλώνιος A. 18. 24 D and 'Απολλώς in St. Paul (' $\Lambda \pi \epsilon \lambda \lambda \hat{\eta}_S \approx \text{in Acts, see § 6, 2), '} A \mu \pi \lambda \hat{\iota} \alpha \tau \sigma_S R. 16. 8 with$ v.l. The name 'Aνδρέαs, which has early attestation, is of a genuine old Greek form.

PART II.

SYNTAX.

§ 30. SUBJECT AND PREDICATE.

- 1. It has already been noticed (in § 2, 1) that it is in the syntax, i.e. in the method of employing and combining the several wordforms and 'form-words' current in the language, that the principal grammatical difference between the classical and the N.T. language undoubtedly lies, just as it is here too that there is the greatest difference between the individual writers of the N.T. It is also on the syntactical side that the language itself has shown the greatest development, and moreover it is here that the antithesis between the artificial writer and the plain narrator of facts or the letterwriter—as also that between the man who has received a pure Greek education and the man whose education has been wholly or preponderantly Hebrew—is most clearly marked. difference in culture between the individual N.T. writers must make itself felt in their syntax, from the author of the Apocalypse at one extreme to Paul, Luke, and the author of the Epistle to the Hebrews at the other.
- 2. The two principal kinds of words are the noun and the verb. The simplest sentence is formed by the combination of these two, where the noun ($\ddot{o}\nu o\mu a$) represents the subject, i.e. the fundamental idea, and the verb $(\hat{\rho}\hat{\eta}\mu a)$ represents the predicate, i.e. some further statement concerning the subject. If however the predicate is complex, the noun must very soon be called into requisition for this office as well, and will serve sometimes as the principal part of the predicate, sometimes as the complement of the verb. In the former case, where one noun serves the purpose of specifying and defining another noun, the verb is in many cases a mere 'formword' necessary for the statement of this relation, though like every verb it still presents the two inflections denoting tense and mood. It is therefore only natural that, at least in the case of the commonest tense, the present, and the commonest mood, the indicative, the language should omit the verbal 'form-word' 'to be' as readily intelligible. On the question of the omission or nonomission of the auxiliary verb different languages are divided.

Hebrew the omission is the rule, in Greek it is allowable from the earliest times and occurs also in the N.T., whereas modern Greek has given up this liberty and always inserts the auxiliary verb.

3. Omission of the auxiliary verb. By far the most frequent instance of omission, as in the classical language, is that of the commonest form of the pres. indic. of the auxiliary verb, namely the 3rd pers. sing. ἐστίν. Still this omission never grew into a fixed usage of the language, except in the case of a few stereotyped phrases. Such are: $\delta\hat{\eta}\lambda \delta \nu$ ő $\tau \iota$ (class.) 1 C. 15. 27, (1 Tim. 6. 7??), also with reverse order of words ő $\tau \iota$..., $\delta\hat{\eta}\lambda \delta \nu$ G. 3. 11; $\tau \iota$ $\epsilon \mu o \iota$ $(\hat{\eta}\mu\hat{\iota}\nu)$ "καὶ σοί Mt. 8. 29, Mc. 1. 24, 5. 7, L. 4. 34, 8. 28, Jo. 2. 4¹ (=Hebr. בין לֶבֶּן Judges 11. 12 etc.; there are, however, similar classical phrases); $\tau i \pi \rho \delta s \sigma \epsilon (\eta \mu \hat{a} s)$ Mt. 27. 4, Jo. 21. 22 f., quil hoc ad te (similar classical phrases), cp. τί γάρ μοι 1 C. 5. 12, and many other instances, infra § 50, 7; τί (μοι) τὸ ὄφελος 1 C. 15. 32, Ja. 2. 14, 16 (ἀλλὰ τί τούτων ὄφελος αὐτοίς Demosth. 9. 69); ἔτι μικρόν, καὶ ... Jo. 14. 19, 16. 16 f., 19 (ἔτι μ. ὅσον ὅσον Η. 10. 37 O.T., but in LXX. Is. 26. 20 without this ellipse); μακάριος ἀνηρ ος – Ja. 1. 12, R. 4. 8 O.T. (Hebr. אַשָׁרֵי הָאִישׁ), so also μακάριοι οί πτωχοί etc. Mt. 5. 3 etc., in this exclamation where the 3rd pers. is used the auxiliary verb is never expressed (it is different with the 2nd pers., Mt. 5. 11, 16. 17, and in a statement of fact, 11. 6 [om. $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\iota\nu$ X ab Chrys.] = L. 7. 23): cp. the classical $\mu\alpha\kappa\dot{\alpha}\rho\iota\dot{\alpha}s$ γ' $\dot{\alpha}\nu\dot{\gamma}\rho$ $\ddot{\epsilon}\chi\omega\nu$ κ.τ.λ. Aristoph. Ran. 1482. The classes of sentence where this omission is particularly frequent are exclamations (A. 19. 28, 34 μεγάλη ή "Αρτεμις 'Εφεσίων, R. 11. 33 ώς ανεξερεύνητα τὰ κρίματα αὐτοῦ) and questions (L. 4. 36 τίς ὁ λόγος οὖτος; Α. 10. 21 τίς ἡ αἰτία δι' ἡν -; R. 3. 1 τί τὸ περισσον τοῦ Ἰουδαίου, ή τίς ή ωφέλεια της περιτομής;): but it is also found not infrequently in statements of fact. Mc. 14. 36 πάντα δυνατά σοι, Η. 9. 16 f. ὅπου διαθήκη, θάνατον ἀνάγκη φέρεσθαι τοῦ διαθεμένου διαθήκη γὰρ ἐπὶ νεκροῖς βεβαία, 1 C. 10. 13 and 2 C. 1. 18 πιστὸς ὁ θεός, 1 Th. 5. 24 πιστὸς ὁ καλῶν ὑμᾶς (with ἐστίν in 2 Th. 3. 3, but the verb is wanting in FG al.), πιστὸς ὁ λόγος 1 Tim. 1. 15, 3. 1, 4. 9, 2 Tim. 2. 11, Tit. 3. 8. Another class of expression where (as in classical Greek) the omission is common consists of impersonal phrases; ἀνάγκη H. 9. 16 (vide supra), 9. 23, R. 13. 5 ?^a (with ἐστί Mt. 18. 7 but om. BL), ὥρα R. 13. 11, ἐξόν A. 2. 29, 2 C. 12. 4, ἀδύνατον Η. 6. 4, 18, 10. 4, 11. 6, εἰ δυνατόν (as we say 'if possible') Mt. 24. 24, Mc. 13. 22, R. 12. 18 (G. 4. 15 vide infra), but with ἐστίν (Mt. 26. 39?), Mc. 14. 35. Κεφάλαιον δὲ Η. 8. 1 is classical. The verb may also be omitted even when it is not a

 $^{^1}$ On R. 1. 15 οὔτως το κατ' έμὲ πρόθυμος (so more correctly than -oν) sc. εἰμί (ὀφειλέτης εἰμί precedes), see § 42, 2. a b v. App. p. 309.

4. Absence of the subject. On the absence of the subject, where it is not contained in the verb or in the context, the following remarks may be made for the N.T. usage. The so-called impersonal verbs expressing meteorological phenomena are almost entirely want-Βρέχει (the vulgar word for νει, which nowhere appears) is personal in Mt. 5. 45, sc. δ θεός (LXX. Gen. 2. 5, but δ θεὸς νει is also a classical phrase), a impersonal in Ja. 5. 17 (Ap. 11. 6 ἴνα μὴ ὑετὸς βρέχη, in the Vulgate simply pluat). Βροντα, 1 ἀστράπτει etc. are nowhere found (ή ἀστραπή ἀστράπτουσα L. 17. 24; the verb is used = 'to shine' as in class. Greek ibid. 24. 4, cp. περισστράπτειν A. 9. 3, 22. 6 'to shine round about'). Equally uncommon in the N.T. are the classical expressions in which the agent is readily supplied from the verb in the person to whom some particular task belongs (e.g. ἐκήρυξε sc. ὁ κῆρυξ): σαλπίσει 1 C. 15. 52 'the trumpet shall sound' (Winer compares the German 'es läutet'; in any case ὁ σαλπιγκτής cannot be understood, the most that can be supplied is $\dot{\eta} \sigma \dot{\alpha} \lambda \pi \iota \gamma \dot{\xi}$). Peculiar phrases are τρίτην ταύτην ἡμέραν ἄγει ('it is,' as ἄγω ἡμέραν is used) L. 24. 21, and ἀπέχει 'it is enough' Mc. 14. 41 (Anacreontea 28. 31'; but D has $d\pi$. $\tau \delta$ $\tau \epsilon \lambda os$, the matter has received its completion). Somewhat more frequent is the impersonal passive, like Latin itur 'one goes,' but this usage was never developed to any great extent in Greek: Mt. 7. 2 έν & μέτρω μετρείτε μετρηθήσεται ύμίν (= Mc. 4. 24. •L. 6. 38), L. 6. 38 δίδοτε καὶ δοθήσεται ὑμῖν (cp. Mt. 7. 7, Mc. 4. 25), where the writer passes at once to the 3rd pers. plur. act. with equivalent meaning μέτρον ... δώσοισιν: 1 P. 4. 6 νεκροῖς εὐηγγελίσθη, R. 10. 10, 1 C. 15. 42 f. σπείρεται εν φθορά, εγείρεται εν άφθαρσία κ.τ.λ., Herm. Mand. iii. 3 έπιστεύθη τῷ λόγω μου. But ἐρρέθη ὅτι Mt. 5. 21 does not come under this head, since the question 'What was said?' finds its answer in the $\delta \tau \iota$ clause; in the same way $\pi \rho \epsilon \pi \epsilon \iota$. πρέπον έστί, δεῖ, ἔξεστι, ἐξόν (ἐστι), ἐγένετο, ἀνέβη ἐπὶ τὴν καρδίαν αὐτοῦ (A. 7. 23)2 followed by an infinitive are not instances of the loss of the subject. The use of the 3rd pers. plur. act without a subject is occasioned by the indefiniteness of the agent, but the subject may also, if one likes, be denoted by οἱ ἄνθρωποι, as in L. 6. 31 $\kappa \alpha \theta \omega_S \theta \epsilon \lambda \epsilon \tau \epsilon$ "va $\pi \circ \iota \omega \sigma \iota \nu \psi \mu \iota \nu \circ \iota \omega \nu \theta \rho = \epsilon that one should do unto you."$ The instances of omission in this case are not very many: Mt. 7. 16 συλλέγουσιν, Με. 10. 13 προσέφερον, L. 17. 23 έρουσιν, 12. 20, Jo. 15. 6, 20. 2, A. 3. 2, Ap. 12. 6 (1 C. 10. 20).—In the formulas of citation such as λέγει 2 C. 6. 2, G. 3. 16 evc., φησίν 1 C. 6. 16, H. 8. 5, $\epsilon i \rho \eta \kappa \epsilon H. 4. 4$, $\delta \theta \epsilon \delta s$ is to be understood ('He says'); in 2 C. 10. 10 φησίν (NDE etc., ? 'one says') appears to be a wrong reading for φασίν (B), unless perhaps a τις has dropped out (but cp. Clem. Hom. xi. 9 ad init.).

 $^{^2}$ Used impersonally in Herm. Mand. iv. 1, μη ἀναβαινέτω σου έπι την καρδίαν περι γυναικὸς ἀλλοτρίας (Hebr. על הַלָּבְּע על על על על פּ. 2. App. p. 310.

§ 31. AGREEMENT.

- 1. The arrangement (σύνταξις) of the different parts of the sentence, primarily of subject and predicate, hyolves a mutual assimilation, inasmuch as the individual nouns and verbs are not represented by a single abstract radical form, but only appear in certain definite and distinctive forms, and these forms cannot differ from each other in different parts of the sentence, where they refer to the same thing or person. In addition to its application in the case of subject and predicate, this law of agreement holds good also for nouns which are bound up together into a smaller whole within the sentence, one noun more nearly defining the other (the attribute, apposition). The individual forms [or inflections] to which nouns and verbs are subject express the following ideas: (a) one of the three genders, since there are nouns which possess different forms for these genders (adjectives), or which at least draw a distinction between the masculine and feminine genders (designations of persons such as $\beta a \sigma i \lambda \epsilon \dot{v} s - \beta a \sigma i \lambda i \sigma \sigma a$; (b) one of the two numbers (the dual no longer existing in the N.T.)—this applies equally to nouns and verbs; (c) one of the five cases (nouns); (d) one of the three persons in the case of the verb, while the noun is for the 1st and 2nd persons represented by a certain class of words—the pronouns. Any combination of words where the agreement in any of these respects is not adhered to is strictly proscribed as a solecism, except in some definite cases where the language admits of the violation of the law of agreement.
- 2. Want of agreement in gender.—Instances of an adjectival predicate in neuter sing, agreeing with a feminine subject are: $\dot{\mathbf{M}}$ t. 6. 34 ἀρκετὸν τ $\hat{\eta}$ ἡμέρα ἡ κακία αὐτῆς, 2 C. 2. 6 ἰκανὸν τ $\dot{\hat{\phi}}$ τοιούτ $\dot{\phi}$ ἡ ἐπιτιμία αὕτη, \mathbf{A} . 12. 3 \mathbf{D} ἰδὼν ὅτι ἀρεστόν ἐστιν τοῖς Ἰουδαίοις ἡ έπιχείρησις αὐτοῦ. The third instance is, however, uncertain, since the text in D may be due to corrupt conflation of different readings. In the other two instances it appears better to regard ἀρκετόν and ίκανόν as imitations of the Latin satis (cp. L. 22, 38 ίδου μάχαιραι ώδε δύο - ίκανόν έστιν, Herm. Vis. iii. 9. 3 το άρκετον της τροφης satis cibi; on the other hand the predicate is ἀρκετός in 1 P. 4. 3) than to compare the classical usage in general propositions such as οὐκ άγαθὸν πολυκοιρανίη; in instances like the last the word 'thing' must be supplied, and a comparison is drawn between the general idea contained in the subject and other things of a different charac-Kaλòν τὸ άλας Mc. 9. 50, L. 14. 34 'salt is a good thing' would also in classical Greek be expressed by something like χρήσιμον οἱ άλες; but there is an absence in the N.T. of analogous instances of this use with a masculine or feminine subject, just as the fuller classical forms of this neuter predicate—μάταιόν τι, χρημα σοφόν—are also wanting. Still we find τι 'something (special),' οὐδέν 'nothing' i.e. 'nothing worth' used as neuter predicates to a mase. or fem. subject: G. 6. 3 εί δοκεί τις είναί τι μηδέν ων (as in class. Greek; beside this we have elval ris A. 5. 36, cp. 8. 9 = 'a great man'). Further instances are τί ὁ Πέτρος ἐγένετο (τί εἴη ταῦτα), see § 50, 7; 1 C. 11. 5 (the woman who is unveiled) ξυ έστι και τὸ αὐτὸ τη έξυρημένη, Μt. 6. 25 = L. 12. 23 ή ψυχή πλείον έστι της τροφής: in general assertions of this kind μία καὶ ἡ αὐτή, πλείων would be impossible. But in particular statements the pronoun is brought into agreement with the noun: R. 11. 15 τίς ή πρόσληψις εἰ μή-(German would use the neuter 'was'), E. 1. 18 τίς ἐστιν ἡ ἐλπὶς τῆς κλήσεως αυτού, 1 C. 3. 17 (ὁ ναὸς τοῦ θεοῦ) οἴτινές ἐστε ὑμεῖς (but in 1 C. 6. II $\tau \alpha \hat{v} \tau \alpha$ [sc. $\kappa \lambda \epsilon \pi \tau \alpha i \kappa, \tau, \lambda$.] $\tau i \nu \epsilon s \hat{\eta} \tau \epsilon = \tau o i o \hat{v} \tau o i$, which would not have been sufficiently clear, while οδτοι would have been impossible; Herm. Sim. ix. 5. 3 τί ἐστιν [is the meaning of] ἡ If the pronoun is the subject, in this case also there is οἰκοδομή). agreement, which is contrary to German usage: Mt. 22. 38 αυτη έστὶν ή μεγάλη έντολή, Ph. 1. 28 ήτις (i.e. resistance, τὸ ἀντικεῖσθαι) έστιν αὐτοις ενδειξις ἀπωλείας, cp. E. 3. 13, A. 16. 12 Φιλίππους ήτις έστὶ πόλις. But in assimilation of this sort Latin goes a step further than Greek: see 1 P. 2. 19 f. τοῦτο χάρις, εἰ - ὑποφέρει τις—ἀλλ' $\epsilon \hat{i} - \hat{v}\pi o\mu \epsilon \nu \epsilon \hat{i}\tau \epsilon$, τοῦτο χάρις παρὰ $\theta \epsilon \hat{\varphi}$, where the Greek regards the two ideas of 'grace' and 'endurance' as too distinct to admit of being merged into one, while the Latin translation has haec est gratia (Buttmann, p. 112). In interpretations by means of a relative sentence (as in 1 C. 3. 17 oltives quoted above) the prevalent form elsewhere for the relative is the neut. sing. (which in that passage would be intolerable: ὅ ἐστιν ὑμεῖς), even though neither the explanatory word nor the word explained has this gender: Mt. 27. 33 τόπον λεγόμενον Γολγ., ο (ος A al.) έστιν κρανίου τόπος (the repetition of λεγόμενος either before or after τόπος is rightly omitted by κ^{ca}D), Mc. 15. 22 Γολγ. τόπον, ο έστιν μεθερμηνεύομενον κρ. τ, 3. 17 Βανηρεγέζ (700), ο έστιν νίοι βροντής, Jo. 1. 421 etc.; Mc. 12. 42 λεπτὰ δύο, ὅ ἐστιν κοδράντης; Col. 3. 14 τὴν ἀγάπην, ὅ (v.l. ὅς, ἤτις) έστιν σύνδεσμος της τελειότητος² (Barn. 15. 8 ἀρχην ..., δ ἐστιν ἄλλου κόσμου άρχήν); cp. Mc. 15. 16 της αὐλης, ὅ ἐστιν πραιτώριον; Ε. 6. 17 τὴν μάχαιραν –, ὅ ἐστιν ῥῆμα θεοῦ; in the Apocalypse alone is there assimilation of the relative to the subject or predic.: 4. 5 $\lambda \alpha \mu \pi \acute{a} \acute{o} \epsilon s$, α (v.l. αι) είσιν τὰ πνεύματα 5. 6, 8. This phrase ο έστι has become as much a stereotyped formula as the equivalent τοῦτ' ἔστι (τουτέστι) in Mt. 27. 46 ήλι - τοῦτ' ἔστι Θεέ μου κ.τ.λ., Η. 2. 14 τὸν τὸ κράτος έχοντα τοῦ θανάτου, τουτέστι τὸν διάβολου, 7. 5, 9. 11 etc. But all these instances represent not so much a classical as a Hellenistic usage. (Τί ἐστι ταῦτα is common to N.T. and classical Greek § 50. On πρώτη πάντων Mc. 12. 28 see § 36, 12; on want of agreement in the constructio ad sensum vide infra 4; on the construction

² Since this is a case not of interpretation but description, is would be more correct, cp. where the subject of the sentence is composed of several words, or in the case of an attribute to several nouns vide infra 5.

3. Want of agreement in number; neuter plurals with singular Probably there is no more striking peculiarity in the whole of Greek syntax than the rule that where the subject is a neuter plural the verb still remains in the singular. This rule, which in Attic is never broken, is however not without exceptions in Homer and in the Hellenistic language, and modern Greek has gone back completely and exclusively to the use of the plural verb in this instance as in others. In the N.T. (as in the LXX.) there is great fluctuation, and very often this fluctuation extends to the readings of the MSS. in individual passages: while in the Shepherd of Hermas the plural is found in the majority of cases. Of neuter words which denote persons: τέκνα is used with plural verb in Mt. 10. 21 (sing. $B\Delta$) = Mc. 13. 12 (sing. B), but with sing. verb in 1 Jo. 3. 10, R. 9. 8: $\tilde{\epsilon}\theta\nu\eta$ with plur. verb Mt. 6. 32 (sing. EG al.), 12. 21 O.T., 25. 32 (sing. AE al.), L. 12. 30 (sing. AD al.), Acts 4. 25 O.T., 11. 1 (sing. D*), 13. 48, R. 2. 14 (sing. DE), 15. 27, 1 C. 10. 20 ? (om. τὰ ἔθνη BDEF al., sing. KL), G. 3. 8 O.T., 2 Tim. 4. 17 (sing. KL), Ap. 11. 18 (sing. 8*), 15. 4, 18. 3, 23, 21. 24, Clem. Cor. i. 59. 4 (with sing. verb all Mss. in R. 9. 30, E. 4. 17); but with δαιμόνια the sing. verb preponderates, L. 4. 41 (plur. 8C), 8. 2, 30 (plur. CF, also D with another reading, cp. 31 f.), 35 (plur. 8°), 38 (in verse 33 $\epsilon i \sigma \hat{\eta} \lambda \theta o \nu$ has overwhelming evidence, $\epsilon \nu$ SU), 10. 17: the plur is found in Ja. 2. 19; $\pi \nu \epsilon \nu \mu a \tau a$ uses both constructions, a plur. verb in Mc. 1. 27, 3. 11 (v.l. sing.), 5. 13 (sing. B), A. 8. 7? Ap. 4. 5? 16. 14 (v.l. with sing. partially introduced), a sing. verb in L. 8. 2 κατοικεΐ, 10. 20 (v.l. δαιμόνια), 1 C. 14. 32 (v.l. πνεθμα). Other neuter words besides these appear with plural verb: Mt. 6. 23 τὰ κρίνα πῶς αὐξάνουσιν (but with sing, verb in the corresponding words in L. 12. 37), Jo. 19. 31 has first ἵνα μὴ μείνη τὰ σώματα, followed by ἵνα κατεαγῶσιν αὐτῶν τὰ σκέλη, Jo. 10. 8 οὖκ ήκουσαν (- σ εν L) αὐτῶν τὰ πρόβατα. In the verses preceding the last passage quoted a sing, verb is used with $\pi\rho\delta\beta\alpha\tau\alpha$, ibid. 3 ἀκούει, 4 ἀκολουθεί, with the additional words ὅτι οἴδασιν τὴν φωιὴν aὐτοῦ (because οἶὸε would have been ambiguous) and further on another plural in verse 5; in the subsequent verses, 10 has έχωσι where $\pi\rho\delta\beta\alpha\tau\alpha$ must be regarded as the subject, in 12 $\epsilon\sigma\tau\nu$ is read by ABLX, είσιν by DΓ al., and so on with constant interchange up till 16 (in 27 and the following verse there are conflicting On the whole, the singular verb certainly is more readings). frequently used with words which have not a personal meaning (the singular is not excluded even by the insertion of a numeral, έὰν γένηται - ἐκατὸν πρόβατα Mt. 18. 12), and is uniformly employed with abstract words (exceptions are τὰ ρήματα ταῦτα with ἐφάνησαν L. 24. 11, and perhaps έργα with δύνανται [v.l. -αται] 1 Tim. 5. 25) and with pronouns such as ταῦτα and α (Ap. 1. 19 α είσιν καὶ α μέλλει γενέσθαι; Clem. Cor. i. 42. 2 έγένοντο άμφότερα, cp. 27. 6 πάντα; so Jo. 17.7 v.l.). In 1 C. 10. 11 there are two readings: ταῦτα δὲ τυπικῶς συνέβαινεν and - τύποι συνέβαινον, cp. verse 6 ταθτα δε τύποι ήμων έγενήθησαν, the verb taking its number from the noun which forms the predicate, as it does also in classical Greek as well as in Latin (Kühner-Gerth ii.3 75 f.).1

- 4. The so-called constructio ad sensum is very widespread in Greek from early times, though without being subject to any rules, the same construction appears in the N.T. It affects both number and The instances mainly consist of the collective words which embrace in a singular noun the idea of a plurality of persons: masculine words like ὄχλος, λαός, feminines like στρατιά, $oi\kappa ia$, neuters like $\pi\lambda \hat{n}\theta$ os, $\sigma\pi\epsilon\rho\mu a$ (with plur, verb in Herm. Vis. Instances of this construction, where a masculine plural conforming to the sense only appears in a clause appended to the main clause, do not give serious offence even in English: e.g. 1 C. 16. 15 οἴδατε τὴν οἰκίαν Στεφανά, ὅτι - ἔταξαν ἐαυτούς (ἔταξεν έαυτήν is unnatural). Jo. 6. 2 ηκολούθει όχλος πολύς, ότι έθεώρουν. The following are rather harsher constructions: L. 2. 13 $\pi \lambda \hat{\eta} \theta$ os στρατιᾶς οὐρανίου $(= \dot{a}\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda\omega\nu)$, αἰνούντων τὸν θεὸν καὶ λεγόντων, Α. 21. 35 ήκολούθει το πλήθος του λαού, κράζοντες Αίρε αὐτόν (κράζον DHLP) cp. 3. 11. And this want of agreement in number is not excluded even where the singular and plural words are directly connected: Α, 6. 11 πολύς τε σχλος τῶν ξερέων ὑπήκουον (-εν ΑΕ) τη πίστει, 25. 24 απαν τὸ πληθος τῶν Ἰουδαίων ἐνέτυχόν (ΒΗ -έν) μοι -, Βοώντες κ.τ.λ., Μt. 21, 8 δ πλείστος σχλος έστρωσαν, Jo. 7. 49 δ σχλος δύτος ὁ μὴ γινώσκων τὸν νόμον ἐπάρατοί εἰσιν. The following also are closely allied to $\ddot{o}\chi\lambda\sigma$ etc.: $\tau\dot{a}$ $\ddot{\epsilon}\theta\nu\eta$ 'the heathen,' E. 4. 17 f. τὰ ἔθνη περιπατε $\hat{\iota}$ –, ἐσκοτωμένοι κ.τ.λ. (İ C. 12. 2 is not an instance of this), αὶ ἐκκλησίαι G. 1. 22 f. (which is followed by μόνον δὲ ἀκούουτες ήσαν), and names of places: L. 10. 13 Τύρφ καὶ Σιδώνι – καθήμενοι, though here the other reading -ναι (DEG al.), since the towns are regarded as wholes (as in Mt. 11. 21 ff.), appears prefer-Cp. § 48, 5 (use of the personal pron. αὐτοῦ and the relative). able.
- 5. If the subject consists of several coordinate words connected by Kal, the common predicate must, according to German feeling, stand in the plural in conformity with the sense, and of course if one of the subject words is έγώ, this plural predicate must be the plural of the 1st person: L. 2. 48 ὁ πατήρ σου κάγὼ οδυνώμενοι εζητοῦμέν σε, Jo. 10. 30, 1 C. 9. 6. An additional modifying word, referring to the subject, as οδυνώμενοι in the passage quoted, will, if declinable, likewise fall into the plural, and into the masculine plural in a case where the subject consists of a combination of masc. and fem. words (Joseph and Mary in that passage). This is always the case if the predicate follows the subject; on the other hand, if it precedes the subject, it is rather the custom for the verb to stand in the singular, and to correspond in form to the subject immediately following it: , again, if the verb is interposed between the different subjects, it is made to correspond to the subject which has preceded it, and can only take the number of that subject. Instances of the singular verb occupying the first place: A. 11. 24 σωθήση σὰ καὶ ὁ οἶκός σου, where the first word is the main subject 'thou together with thy whole house, similarly Jo. 2. 2 έκλήθη δέ καὶ Ίησοῦς καὶ οἱ μαθηταὶ αὐτοῦ, and, so far as the participle at the head of the sentence is concerned, A. 5. 29 ἀποκριθεις δε Πέτρος καὶ οἱ ἀπόστολοι εἶπαν (cp. verse 21); but the singular verb is also used where the subjects are placed on an equality: Jo. 18. 15 ήκολούθει δε τώ 1. Σίμων Πέτρος καὶ άλλος $\mu \alpha \theta \eta \tau \dot{\eta}$ s (cp. 20. 3, A. 26. 30; so without exception where the subject words are not persons, as in Mt. 5. 18 δ οὐρανὸς καὶ ἡ γῆ); L. 2. 33 ην δε δ πατηρ αὐτοῦ καὶ ή μήτηρ θαυμάζοντες, Mt. 17, 3 ἄφθη (ABD: al. -ησαν) - Μωυσής καὶ 'Ηλίας συλλαλούντες. From the last two instances it follows that where the predicate is divided, that part of it which precedes the subject is in the singular, the part which follows it is in the plural (so in the passage A. 5. 29 quoted above). In the following instances there is a special reason for the plural verb: Mc. 10. 35 προσπορεύονται αὐτῷ Ἰάκωβος καὶ Ἰωάνης οἰ viol Zεβεδαίου (the pair of brothers who from the first were thought of together), Jo. 21. 2 ήσαν όμοῦ Σίμων Πέτρος καὶ κ.τ.λ., L. 23. 12 έγενοντο φίλοι ο τε Ἡρώδης καὶ ὁ Πιλάτος, Α. 5. 24 ώς δὲ ἤκοισαν - ὅ τε στρατηγός - καὶ οἱ ἀρχιερεῖς (the plural has already been used before of the same persons in verse 21; cp. 1. 13, 4. 27). Accordingly, in default of any reason of this kind, where the readings differ, the singular appears to deserve the preference, as in L. 8, 19, A. 17. 14^a; we even have ἀκούσας δὲ Βαρνάβας καὶ Παῦλος the reading of D in Acts 14. 14, cp. 13. 46 D. Instances of interposition of the predicate are L. 8. 22 αὐτὸς ἀνέβη εἰς πλοίον καὶ οἱ μαθ. αὐτοῦ, Jo. 4. 36 etc.—For adjectives and participles qualifying several words cp. L. 10. 1 είς πασαν πόλιν καὶ τόπον, 1 Th. 5. 23, on the other hand δώρα καὶ θυσίαι μὴ δυνάμεναι Η. 9. 9 (ibid. 3. 6 βεβαίαν is an interpolation from verse 14).—The singular verb is regularly used, if the two subjects instead of being connected by καί are separated by $\ddot{\eta}$: Mt. 5. 18 $i\hat{\omega}\tau a \hat{\epsilon} \nu \hat{\eta} \mu i a \kappa \epsilon \rho a i a o <math>\dot{\nu} \mu \dot{\eta} \pi a \rho \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \theta \eta$, 12. 25, 18. 8, E. 5. 5 (especially if the verb precedes as in 1 C. 14. 24); G. 1. 8 έαν ημείς η αγγελος έξ ουρανοῦ εὐαγγελίζηται (it would be impossible to include the two subjects in $-(\omega\mu\epsilon\theta\alpha)$. An exception is Ja. 2. 15 ἐὰν ἀδελφὸς ἢ ἀδελφὴ γυμνοὶ ὑπάρχωσιν (occasioned by the adjective, the singular of which, γυμνός or γυμνή, would have been harsh).

6. Solecisms (in the Apocalypse). In distinction from all other New Testament writings, and in particular from those of the Apostle St. John, the Apocalypse exhibits a multitude of the most remarkable solecisms, which depend in the main upon the neglect of the laws of agreement. Thus we have in 1. 5 ἀπὸ Ἰησοῦ Χρ, ὁ μάρτυς ὁ πυστός, ὁ πρωτότοκος τῶν νεκρῶν καὶ ὁ ἄρχων τῶν βασιλέων τῆς γῆς, τῷ ἀγαπῶντι ἡμᾶς κ.τ.λ. (the datives on account of αὐτῷ in verse 6 according to Winer), 11. 4 οδτοί εἰσιν αὶ δύο ἐλαῖαι καὶ αὶ δύο λυχνίαι αἱ ἐνώπιον τοῦ κυρίου τῆς γῆς ἐστῶτες (*ABC; ἐστῶσαι καΡ), 12. 5 καὶ ἔτεκεν υἰὸν ἄρσεν (ΑΡ; ἄρρενα κΒ, ἄρσενα P), δς μέλλει κ.τ.λ. (the correction -ενα is no improvement; a better alteration would be to strike out υἰόν), 14. 19 ἔβαλεν εἰς τὴν ληνὸν τοῦ θυμοῦ τοῦ θεοῦ τὸν μέγαν (τὴν "ν. Αρρ. p. 310.

μεγάλην 8). Cp. 2. 20 (nom. in apposition with acc.), 3. 12 (nom. for gen.), 6. 1 (the same, as a v.l.), 7.4 (nom. for acc.), 8.9 (for gen.), 9. 14 (for dat.), 14. 12 (for gen., which reads), 20. 2 (for acc.): 7. 9 $(\ddot{o}\chi\lambda_0 s \dots \dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\hat{\omega}\tau\epsilon s \dots \pi\epsilon\rho\hat{\iota}\beta\epsilon\beta\lambda\eta\mu\dot{\epsilon}\nu\sigma\nu s$; the acc. is dependent on $\epsilon\hat{\iota}\delta\sigma\nu$ which stands at the beginning of the verse, the nom. on καὶ ἰδού which follows είδο, Winer), 5. 11f. (λέγοντες following φωνήν ἀγγέλων and ην ὁ ἀριθμὸς αὐτῶν μυριάδες κ.τ.λ.; similar anacolutha with λέγων or -01745 in 4. 1, 11. 15, 14. 7; and with v.l. 11. 1, 19. 6), 21. 9 with v.l. It has even been fixed as a rule for this writer that an appositional phrase following a noun in any case stands in the nominative, although scribes have shown a strong inclination to correct these solecisms. The isolated cases of anacoluthon of this kind which appear in other writings of the N.T. should be regarded either as excusable or as due to a corrupt text. Jo. 1. 14 ὁ λόγος σὰρξ ἐγένετο - καὶ ἐθεασάμεθα τὴν δόξαν αὐτοῦ – πλήρης (-ρη D) χάριτος καὶ ἀληθείας. In this passage the word in question is one which to a remarkably great extent, both in the N.T. and also in papyrus documents, appears as indeclinable: thus A. 6. 5 ἄνδρα πλήρης (-ρη BC²) πίστεως, 3 πλήρεις (-ρης AEHP) πνεύματος, 19. 28 γενόμενοι πλήρεις (-ρης ΑΕL) θυμοῦ, Με. 8. 19 κοφίνους πλήρεις (-ρης AFGM) κλασμάτων, 2 Jo. 8 μισθον πλήρη $(-\rho\eta s~L)$; the only passages where it is declined in all MSS. (no genitive following it) are Mt. 14. 20, 15. 37 (ϵs), Mc. 4. 28 a v.l. (-ρη), 6. 43 a v.l. (-ρεις); cp. Papyr. Berol. no. 13. 8 απερ απέσχαμεν πλήρης, 81. 27 åς παραδώσω πλήρης, 270. 9, 373. 13, 21; Grenfell-Hunt, Pap. ii., p. 107 διὰ τὸ πλήρη[ς α] ὐτὸν ἀπεσχηκέναι, 118 (perhaps also 117, where $\pi \lambda \eta \rho \eta$ is given at the end of a line).2—In Philipp. 2. I εἴ τις παράκλησις - , εἴ τι παραμύθιον - , εἴ τις κοινωνία - , εἴ τις σπλάγχνα καὶ οἰκτιρμοί, εἴ τι ('if it avails ought,' cp. § 31, 2) ought to be, as it seems, written throughout. Δ Ja. 3. 8 την γλώσσαν οὐδεὶς δύναται δαμάσαι, ἀκατάσχετον κακόν, μεστη ἰοῦ (Tisch. puts a colon after δαμ., making the following clause independent, sc. ἐστίν).—L. 24. 47 κηρυχθήναι μετάνοιαν – ἀρξάμενοι (-ένων D correctly, -ενον AC3FH al.) and A. 10. 37 οίδατε τὸ γενόμενον βημα καθ' ὅλης τῆς Ἰουδαίας, $\mathring{a}\rho\mathring{\xi}\mathring{a}\mu\epsilon\nu$ os $\mathring{a}\pi\mathring{b}$ $\tau\mathring{\eta}$ s $\Gamma a\lambda\iota\lambda$. $(\mathring{a}\rho\mathring{\xi}.\ \gamma\mathring{a}\rho\ AD$, which is no improvement; -ενον correctly LP; but the whole clause ἀρξ. ἀ. τ. Γ. is perhaps taken from L. 23. 5). For other instances cp. § 81.

 $^{^2}$ " $\Pi\lambda\eta\rho\eta s$ is also used indeclinably in the LXX., e.g. Num. 7. 13 F, 19 &, 20 BA*, Job 21. 24 all Mss., Sir. 19. 23 B*. Cp. the phrase 'eine Arbeit voller Fehler.'" (E. Nestle.)

SYNTAX OF THE NOUN.

§ 32. GENDER AND NUMBER.

- 1. The neuter of the adjective or participle is sometimes used with reference to persons, not only in phrases like τὸ γεννώμενον L. 1. 35 'that which is to be born,' cp. τὸ τέκνον, but also as in Jo. 17. 2 $-\pi$ άσης σαρκός, ἵνα π âν δ δέδωκας αὐτῷ, δώσει αὐτοῖς (ἔχ η D), where men are first comprised under the collective name $\sigma \acute{a} \rho \xi$, then under the neuter $\pi \hat{a} \nu$, and finally (in $a \hat{v} \tau o \hat{s}$) the usual mode of designation Cp. Jo. 6. 37 (a similar instance), 1 Jo. 5. 4 ($\pi \hat{a} \nu \tau \hat{o}$; $\pi \hat{a} \hat{s}$ δ has been previously used in verse 1); further H. 7. 7 τὸ ἔλαττον ύπο του κρείττονος εὐλογείται, for ὁ ἐλάττων or οἱ ἐλάττονες, in order to represent the thought in a more abstract and so in a more general A similar collective use of the neut. sing, appears in classical Greek (Kühner-Gerth ii.3 14). Elsewhere the neut. plur. is used: 1 C. 1. 27 f. τὰ μωρὰ τοῦ κόσμου – τὰ ἀσθεν $\hat{\eta}$ τ. κ. – τὰ ἶσχυρά, where the sing, would have been wrong because of the idea of unity which it would imply—since the μωροί etc. do not form a definite section and moreover with the masculine the emphasis would not have lair so strongly upon the abstract quality of foolishness etc. Cp. further G. 3. 22 τὰ πάντα, which is not so strong as τοὺς πάντας, which might also have stood, πάντα Jo. 12. 32 *D. (In classical Greek τὰ φεύγοντα Xenoph. Anab. 7, 3. 11 ap. Winer; πάντα τὰ συμβεβιασμένα Dem. 8. 41.)
- 2. The feminine appears to stand in place of the neuter, in consequence of a literal rendering from the Hebrew, in the O.T. quotation Mt. 21. 42 = Mc. 12. 11 παρὰ κυρίου ἐγένετο αὕτη καί ἐστιν θαυμαστή, from Ps. 118. 23 = Hebr. האז 'this.'
- 3. The so-called collective use of the masc. sing. (on the neuter sing, vide supra 1) is found in R. 3, 1 τί τὸ περισσὸν τοῦ Ἰουδαίου; i.e. 'What advantage has the Jew as Jew?' (which every individual Jew has ipso facto); cp. 2. 17-29, where the individual has already been selected as the representative of the community. We have just the same use with names of nations and rank, 'the soldier,' 'the Jew'; Latin miles, Romanus etc.; in classical Greek it is less common (Thucyd. 6. 78 τὸν Συρακόσιον, τῷ ᾿Αθηναίω). Other instances are Mt. 12. 35 ὁ ἀγαθὸς ἄνθρωπος, R. 13. 8 τὸ ἀγαθὸν ἔργον, 1 P. 4. 18 ό δίκαιος - ὁ ἀσεβής, R. 14. 1 τὸν ἀσθένοῦντα. But in Ja. 2, 6 τὸν $\pi\tau\omega\chi\acute{o}\nu$ refers to the example of verse 2: also in 5. 6 a single instance is thought of in τον δίκαιον, while 1 C. 6. 5 διακρίναι ανά μέσον τοῦ ἀδελφοῦ αὐτοῦ is an incorrect expression, possibly requiring emendation (since ἀνὰ μέσον of course presupposes more persons than one), for ἀνὰ μέσον ἀνδρὸς καὶ (ἀνὰ μέσον) τοῦ ἀδ. a., and is modelled on the LXX., Ez. 18. 8 κρίμα ποιήσει ανα μέσον ανδρός και ανα μ. τοῦ πλησίον αύτοῦ,

- 4. Of another character is the use of the sing. of objects, which belong individually to several persons, where several persons are spoken of, as we also say 'they shook their heads' [die Köpfe] or 'they shook their head' [den Kopf], i.e. everyone his own head, where the insertion of 'everyone' would be quite superfluous. Greek, including NoT. Greek, the plural is usual in such cases; but deviations from this are permitted in classical as in N.T. Greek: Α. 25. 24 ΐνα ξυρήσωνται την κεφαλήν (Vulg. capita), L. 1. 66 εθεντο πάντες έν τη καρδία (DL ταις καρδίαις) αὐτῶν, Μc. 8. 17 πεπωρωμένην έχετε την καρδίαν ὑμῶν, Ε. 6. 14 περιζωσάμενοι την όσφὺν ὑμῶν, Ap. 6. 11 ἐδόθη αὐτοῖς στολὴ λευκή (but ἐσθής in L. 24. 4 is collective 'raiment,' as is usual with this word [ἐσθήσεσιν ACL al.]). sing, is always used in the Hebraic periphrastic expressions ἀπδ προσώπου των πατέρων Α. 7. 45, κατά πρόσωπον πάντων L. 2. 31, διά στόματος πάντων A. 3. 18 (21); also διὰ χειρὸς is used with a plural word as in A. 2. 23, but here we have also the conceivable use of δια των χειρών with a singular; έκ της χ. αὐτών Jo. 10. 39.
- 5. The plural is used with reference to a single person by a generalising mode of expression in Mt. 2. 20 τεθνήκασιν οἱ ζητοῦντες $\tau \dot{\eta} \nu \psi \nu \chi \dot{\eta} \nu \tau o \hat{\nu} \pi a i \delta i o \nu$, namely Herod (verse 19); the plural implies the thought, there is nothing more to fear, since with Herod's death all are dead who etc. More peculiar is the use of the plural in the c.se of a certain group of substantives. This is partly due to the influence of Hebrew; thus alwes is used in H. 1. 2, 11. 3, 1 Tim. 1. 17 (?) for 'the world,' in L. 1. 33 and often for 'eternity' (esp. in the phrase ϵis τοὺς αἰώνας τῶν αἰώνων G. 1. 5 etc.) = צוֹלֶלְמִים : οὐρανοί = שֵׁמֵיִם, but in most writers this plural is only used of heaven in the figurative sense as the seat of God (beside the sing. which is used in the same sense), whereas in the literal sense of the word the sing. prevails, except where, in accordance with the Jewish conception, several heavens are distinguished (E. 4. 10 ύπεράνω πάντων τῶν οὖρ., cp. l. 10, Col. l. 16, 20, H. l. 10 O.T., 4. 14, 7. 26, 2 P. 3. 5, 7, 10, 12, 13; also probably αἱ δυνάμεις τῶν οὐρανῶν Mt. 24. 29 = Mc. 13. 25 = Lc. 21. 26). Thus we always have ή βασιλεία τῶν οὐρανῶν Mt. 3. 2 etc., ὁ πατὴρ ὑμῶν ὁ ἐν (τοῖς) ούρ. 5. 16 etc.; similarly in Luke 10. 20 τὰ ὀνόματα ὑμῶν ἐγγέγραπται έν τοις οὐρ. (τῷ οὐρανῷ D), 12. 23 θησανρὸν ἐν τοις οὐρ., Α. 2. 34, 7. 56; in Paul 2 C. 5. 1, Ε. 3. 15, 6. 9 (κ οὐρανῷ), Ph. 3. 20, Col. 1. 5, 4. 1 (οὐρανῷ ABC), 1 Th. 1. 10; 1 P. 1. 4 (οὐρανῷ *); (John never has the plural; also in the Apoc. it only occurs in 12. 12); in Mt. the passage 24. 31 ἀπ' ἄκρων οὐρανῶν ἔως ἄκρων αὐτῶν runs counter to the rule given above (Mc. 13. 27 has the sing. here), but not 3. 16 f., cp. Mc. 1. 10 f. είδεν σχιζομένους τους ουρανούς -, καί φωνη έκ τῶν οὐρανῶν (L. 3. 21 f. has the sing., but cp. A. 7. 56). Further οἰκτιρμοί = בְּחֲבָיִים in Paul, R. 12. 1 etc.; the sing. only occurs in Col. 3. 12 (plur. K); cp. infra 6. The following plurals agree with the classical use: ἀνατολαί, δυσμαί east and west Mt. 2. 1, 8. 11 etc., but only in the formula ἀπὸ (ἔως) ἀνατολῶν, δυσμῶν, on the other ^a v. App. p. 310.

hand we have $\vec{\epsilon} \nu \tau \hat{\eta}$ $\vec{a} \nu a \tau o \lambda \hat{\eta}$ Mt. 2. 2, 9; $\vec{a} \pi \hat{o}$ $\vec{a} \nu a \tau o \lambda \hat{\eta}$ (B- $\hat{\omega} \nu$) is also found beside ἀπὸ δυσμῶν Ap. 21. 13, ἀ ἀνατολης (A -ῶν) ἡλίου 7. 2, 16. 12 (δυσμή never occurs, as in class. Greek δυσμαί is practically the only form). Always ἐκ δεξιῶν, ἐξ ἀριστερῶν or εὐωνύμων; ἐν τοῖς δεξιοίς Mc. 16. 5, είς τὰ δεξιὰ μέρη Jo. 21. 6; beside these we have $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ δεξι \dot{q}^a R. 8. 34, E. 1. 20 etc., sc. χειρί (classical use is similar). Cp. τὰ μέρη 'the region' Mt. 2. 22 etc., ἐπέκεινα beyond A. 7. 43 (a wrong reading from the LXX.; it should be ἐπὶ τὰ μέρη). ἄγια, τὰ ἄγια τῶν ἀγίων parts of the temple (or tabernacle) H. 9. 2 f. are used as well as τὸ ἄγιον in verse 1 (τὰ ἄγια τ. ἀγίων in LXX. 1 Kings 8, 6). Πύλαι (class.) is only so used in πύλαι "Αιδου Mt. 16. 18 (LXX. Sap. Sal. 16. 23; class.), elsewhere the sing. is used for one gate; similarly $\theta \dot{\nu} \rho a$ for one door (class, often $\theta \dot{\nu} \rho a \iota$), cp. ai θύραι πάσαι A. 16. 26, so that Jo. 20. 19 f. θυρών, and perhaps also A. 5. 19, 23, 21. 30 are to be understood of several doors; the plural is used in the expression ἐπὶ θύραις Mt. 24. 33, Mc. 13. 29, cp. Ja. 5. 9 πρδ των θυρών figuratively, πρὸ τῆς θύρας A. 12. 6 literally (but ibid. 5. 23 $\pi\rho\dot{o}$ $\tau\hat{\omega}\nu$ $\theta\nu\rho\hat{\omega}\nu$ in a similar connection). Κόλποι (class.) is used in L. 16. 23 $\epsilon \nu$ τοῖς κόλποις (τ $\hat{\varphi}$ κόλπ φ D) αὐτοῦ (᾿Αβραάμ), the sing. in verse 22. (Ἡμάτια means 'clothes' including ἱμάτιον and χιτών; but is used inaccurately = ἱμάτιον in Jo. 13. 4, 19. 23, also probably in A. 18. 6). The use of ἀργίρια for 'pieces of money' Mt. 26. 15 is not usual in classical Greek; όψώνια 'wages' L. 3. 14 etc. is Hellenistic. Αίματα (in classical poets) Ap. 18. 24 B (but ACP read αίμα) is blood shed by several martyrs⁵; Jo. 1. 13 οὐκ ἐξ αἰμάτων is used of the substance from which a man is begotten (Eurip. Ion 693, Winer). The names of feasts are as in classical Greek (Διονύσια, Παναθήναια) in the plural: έγκαίνια, γενέσια (τὰ ἄζυμα in Mc. 14. 1 τὸ πάσχα καὶ τὰ ἄζυμα, but D omits καὶ τὰ ἄζ.: strictly it should be ἄζυμοι sc. ἄρτοι: it is an abbreviation of $\dot{\eta}$ $\dot{\epsilon}o\rho\tau\dot{\eta}$ $\tau\hat{\omega}\nu$ $\dot{a}\dot{\xi}\dot{\nu}\mu\omega\nu$ or $a\dot{i}$ $\dot{\eta}\mu\dot{\epsilon}\rho a\dot{i}$ τ . $\dot{a}\dot{\xi}$., \dot{L} . 22. r etc.); also $\gamma\dot{a}\mu\omega$ 'a marriage-feast' Mt. 22. 2, Lc. 12. 36 etc. (classical): but the sing. is used in Mt. 22. 8 etc. Διαθήκαι Ε. 2. 12, R. 9. 4 κCK (ἡ διαθήκη BDE al.) must be a real plural (elsewhere διαθήκη is always used, as also in the LXX.).

6. The plural of abstract expressions is found in Greek in a manner that appears strange to us, not only in poets, but also not infrequently in an elevated prose style, being used to indicate the individual concrete manifestations of the abstract quality. The New Testament occasionally presents a similar usage: Mt. 15. 19 φόνοι, μοιχεῖαι, πορνεῖαι, κλοπαί etc., cp. Mc. 7. 21 f.: 2 C. 12. 10 ἔρις (ν.l. ἔρεις, cp. § 8, 3), ξῆλοις (ν.l. ξῆλοι), θυμοί, ἐριθεῖαι, καταλαλιαί, ψιθυρισμοί, φυσιώσεις, ἀκαταστασίαι, cp. G. 5. 20, τὰς πορνείας 1 C. 7. 2, ὑποκρίσεις, φθόνους, καταλαλιάς 1 P. 2. 1 cp. 4. 3, προσωπολημψίαις Ja. 2. 1, αἰσχύνας Jd. 13; alsο θανάτοις 'mortal dangers' 2 C. 11. 23 (μυῆμαι Herm. Sim. vi. 5. 3).

§ 33. THE CASES-NOMINATIVE AND VOCATIVE.

1. The nominative as the case of the name $(\partial \nu \rho \mu \sigma \sigma \tau \iota \kappa \dot{\eta} = \text{nominativus})$ appears to stand occasionally, where a proper name is introduced, without regard to the construction, in place of the case which is strictly required. Thus Jo. 13. 13 φωνεῖτέ με ὁ διδάσκαλος καὶ κύριος, but here the nom. has mainly a vocative character, vide inf. 4: Ap. 9. 11 ὄνομα ἔχει (ὄν. ἔχει is omitted by the Latin Vulgate and may be supplied from the preceding words) 'Απολλύων. Cp. Xenoph. Oecon. 6. 14 τοὺς ἔχοντας τὸ σεμνὸν ὄνομα τοῦτο τὸ καλός τε καγαθός (other instances in Lobeck, Phryn. 517. 1). But elsewhere the name is regularly assimilated to the case: Mt. 1. 21, 25 καλέσεις τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ Ἰησοῦν, Με. 3. 16 ἐπέθηκεν ὄνομα $\tau \hat{\omega} \Sigma i \mu \omega \nu \iota \Pi \epsilon \tau \rho \sigma \nu$ (only Δ and the Latin versions have $\Pi \epsilon \tau \rho \sigma s$): and without exception in the phrase ονόματι 'by name' e.g. A. 27. 1 έκατοντάρχη ονόματι Ἰουλίω: cp. infra 2. It is accordingly incredible that the Mount of Olives should be translated by δ Ἐλαιών and that this word should be used as indeclinable in L. 19, 29, 21, 37 ὄρος (acc.) τὸ καλούμενον έλαιών, but we must write έλαιῶν (τὸ ὄρος τῶν ἐλ. in L. 19, 37 etc.), and in the single passage where we distinctly have the other form, A. 1. 12 (ὄρους τοῦ καλουμένου) ἐλαιῶνος we must correct the text to ἐλαιῶν (as also in Joseph. Ant. Jud. 7, 9. 2), see § 10, 5.

- 2. The nominative occasionally stands in a parenthesis interrupting the construction: thus Jo. 1. 6 ἐγένετο ἄνθρωπος , Ἰωάνης ὄνομα αὐτῷ (ἦν is read before ὄν. by κ*D*), cp. 3. 1 (where κ* has Νικόδημος ὀνόματι; there is a more detailed expression introduced by ἦν δὲ in 18. 10; cp. also Ap. 6. 8, 8. 11, 9. 11; a similar classical use, § 30, 2); for this elsewhere with a more normal adjustment to the construction ῷ ὄνομα (often in Lc., but in Acts only at 13. 6; οδ τὸ ὄν. with v.l. ῷ ὄν. Mc. 14. 32) or ὀνόματι (Luke, Gospel and Acts) is used. The instances in statements of time are more striking: L. 9. 28 ἐγένετο δὲ μετὰ τοὺς λόγους τούτους, ὡσεὶ ἡμέραι ἀκτώ, καὶ παραλαβὼν κ.τ.λ., Mt. 15. 32 ὅτι ἤδη ἡμέραι (ἡμέρας κ) τρεῖς προσμένουσίν μοι. So also we may accordingly interpret A. 5. 7 ἐγένετο δέ, ὡς ὡρῶν τριῶν διάστημα, καὶ ἡ γυνὴ κ.τ.λ., and perhaps too (as Bengel and Winer) L. 13. 16 ἡν ἔδησεν ὁ Σατανᾶς, ἰδοὺ δέκα καὶ ὀκτὼ ἔτη. 16
- 3. The double nominative (nom. of the subject and nom. of the predicate) is found in the N.T. as in Attic, except that occasionally in place of the second nominative εἰς with the accusative is used after a Hebrew model (as it is also used instead of the second accusative with corresponding active verbs, § 34, 5). This construction appears with εἶναι (more precisely with the fut. ἔσομαι, which has a certain relation to γίνομαι) and γίνεσθαι, but chiefly in quotations: ἔσονται εἰς σάρκα μίαν Μt. 19. 5 O.T. = Hebr. Α΄, ἐγενήθη εἰς κεφαλὴν γωνίας 21. 42 O.T., ἔσται τὰ σκολιὰ εἰς εὐθείας L. 3. 5 O.T., 2 C. 6. 18 O.T.; seldom except in quotations, as in L. 13. 19 ἐγένετο εἰς (om. εἰς D) δένδρον, Jo. 16. 20 ἡ λύπη ὑμῶν εἰς χαρὰν γενήσεται (= μεταστραφήσεται, with which the use of εἰς is not remarkable), Ap. 8. 11 (with 16. 19 ἐγένετο εἰς τρία μέρη cp. διαιρεῖν εἰς: with 1 Th. 3. 5 εἰς κενδν γένηται ὁ κόπος ἡμῶν cp. the Attic εἰς κέρδος τι δρᾶν). The combination λογίζεσθαι (passive) εἰς is also not Attic, being taken from LXX. Gen. 15. 6 ἐλογίσθη αὐτῷ εἰς δικαιοσύνην; in addition to its use in that quotation we have εἰς οὐδὲν λογισθῆναι A. 19. 27 (the same combination in Is. 40. 17), τὰ τέκνα λογίζεται εἰς σπέρμα R. 9. 8, cp. 2. 26^a (for nothing, for a seed; cp. class. οὐδὲν εἶναι, τὸ μηδὲν εἶναι); from this use comes the phrase ἐμοὶ εἰς ἐλάχιστόν ἐστι 1 C. 4. 3.

4. The language has created a special case for address, namely the vocative; this is limited, it is true, to the singular, and even there is not in all cases distinguished in form from the nominative. This case appears also in the N.T. (ἀδελφέ L. 6. 42, πάτερ Mt. 6. 9), but generally without the accompaniment which it usually has in Attic, namely the interjection &. In most cases where this & is found in the N.T. it expresses emotion: Mt. 15, 28 & (om. D) γύναι, μεγάλη σου ή πίστις (γύναι in L. 22. 57, Jo. 2. 4, 4. 21 etc.), 17. 17 (= Mc. 9. 19, L. 9. 41) & γενεά ἄπιστος (on the nom. vide infra), L. 24, 25, A. 13, 10 & πλήρης (cp. inf.) κ.τ.λ. (R. 11, 33 & $\beta \acute{a}\theta os \pi \lambda o \acute{v} \tau o v$ is not an address, but an exclamation, for which purpose & [in this case also written \(\tilde{\alpha} \)] is likewise used in Attic), G. 3. 1, 1 Tim. 6. 20. With a less degree of emotion: & ἄνθρωπε R. 2. 1, 3, 9. 20, Ja. 2. 20 (ἄνθρωπε without & in L. 12. 14, 22. 58, 60); it is found without any sense of emotion in the Attic manner only in the Acts: & Θεόφιλε 1. 1 (in L. 1. 3 κράτιστε Θεόφιλε, as the author of the work $\pi\epsilon\rho i$ ψovs has the address $\Pi o\sigma \tau o\psi \mu \iota \epsilon$ φίλτατε; on the other hand Dionysius of Halicarnassus in the work περὶ τῶν ἀρχ. ἡητόρων has ὧ κράτιστε 'Αμμαῖε; in any case Θεόφιλε without either & or κράτιστε would be much too bald), 18, 14 & (ἄνδρες) Ἰονδαίοι (Gallio is speaking), 27. 21 & ἄνδρες (while ἄνδρες άδελφοί, ἄνδρες 'Αθηναίοι etc. are used even in this book without &, and even the simple ἄνδρες 7. 26, 14. 15 etc., 27. 10, 25), & βασιλεῦ according to the witnesses supporting the β text in A. 26. 13 (7).— From the earliest times (the practice is as old as Homer) the nominative has a tendency to usurp the place of the vocative. In the N.T. this occurs in two instances: on the one hand, with adjectives standing without a substantive or with a substantive whose vocative is not distinguishable from the nomin.: Mt. 17. 17, Mc. 9. 19, L. 9. 41 & γενεά ἄπιστος (but D in Mc. and Lc. has $\mathring{a}\pi \iota \sigma \tau \epsilon$), A. 13. 10 $\mathring{a}\pi \lambda \acute{\eta} \rho \eta s$ (with which may be compared $\mathring{a}\delta \iota \sigma \tau \nu \chi \acute{\eta} s$ in Menander); ἄφρων L. 12. 20 (a variant -ov has little support), 1 C. 15. 36 (ditto); -on the other hand, where the article is introduced, which must naturally be followed by the nominative. The latter use of the nom. for voc. is also found already in Attic, e.g. Aristoph. Acharn. 242 πρόϊθ' είς τὸ πρόσθεν ὀλίγον ἡ κανηφόρος. i.e. you (who are) the basket bearer, Ran. 521 δ παις (you there, the lad I mean) ἀκολούθει; in prose σὸ ὁ πρεσβύτατος, ὧ ἄνδρες οἱ παρόντες, οι οικέται, Πρόξενε και οι άλλοι οι παρόντες (Xen. Anab. i. 5. 16), and esp. with participles, one half of which do not form a vocative at all. And so in the N.T. we have L. 8. 54 ή παις έγείρου, Mc. 5. 41, 9. 25, L. 12. 32 μὴ φοβοῦ, τὸ μικρὸν ποίμνιον, 11. 39 ὑμεῖς οἱ Φωρισαῖοι, 2 R. 14. 4 σὸ ... ὁ κρίνων, Col. 3. 8 ff. αἱ γυναΐκες – οἱ ἄνδρες – τὰ τέκνα etc. = ὑμεῖς μὲν αἱ γυν.—ὑμεῖς δὲ οἱ ανδρες, Ap. 18. 20 οὐρανὲ καὶ οἱ ἄγιοι κ.τ.λ. In all these instances we have not so much a simple address as a more definite indication of the person addressed. But the N.T. (and the LXX.) have extended this usage still further; in particular (3) $\theta \epsilon \epsilon$ is not common (only in Mt. 27. 46 in a translation; also rare in LXX.), the phrase δ $\theta \epsilon \delta s$ being used instead, L. 18. 11, H. 1. 8 O.T., 10. 7 O.T. etc., κύριε δ θεός Ap. 15. 3, and so also δ πατήρ Mt. 11. 26, R. 8. 15, δ δεσπότης Αρ. 6. 10, ὁ κύριός μου καὶ ὁ θεός μου Jo. 20. 28 (ὁ διδάσκαλος καὶ ὁ κύριος 13. 13, vide supra, 1); further ὁ βασιλεύς Ap. 15. 3, Mt. 27. 29 (BD al. βασιλεύ), Mc. 15. 18 (here BD al. βασιλεύ), Jo. 19. 3 (βασιλεῦ Ν), since this βασ. των Ἰονδαίων is not a correct title, but a special designation, whereas the mode of addressing king Agrippa in A. 26. 7 etc. is and must be βασιλεῦ.

§ 34. THE ACCUSATIVE.

1. The use of the accusative as the complement of transitive verbs, which is the most ordinary function of this case, in the N.T. gives occasion only for a few special remarks, since in the first place transitives and intransitives are not so sharply distinguished in N.T. Greek as in older Greek, and again other cases besides the accusative offer rival claims to be used as the comple-The following verbs occasionally appear as ment of the verb. transitives. Μένειν 'to await,' A. 20. 5, 23 (ὑπομένειν 1 C. 13. 7 etc., also in the sense of 'to await the help of God,' Clem. Cor. i. 34. 8, a quotation, for which LXX. uses the dat.; περιμένειν A. l. 4, αναμένειν 1 Th. 1. 10). Φεύγειν 'to avoid' (opposed to διώκειν 'to strive after' anything), 1 C. 6. 18, 1 Tim. 6. 11, 2 Tim. 2. 22 (with Hebraic construction ϕ . $d\pi\delta$ in the same sense 1 C. 10. 14); 'to flee before,' 'to escape,' only in H. 11. 34, ἔφυγον στόματα μαχαίρης as in class. Greek, elsewhere φ. ἀπὸ as in Mt. 3. 7 φυγεῖν ἀπὸ τῆς μελλούσης όργης (which in class. Greek is only used of places, φεύγειν ἀπὸ τῆς Σκύλλης Xen. Mem. ii. 6. 31, cp. Herm. Mand. xi. 14 φεύγει ἀπ' αὐτοῦ 'from him')"; ἐκφεύγειν trans. in L. 21. 36 etc.; ἀποφ. 2 P. 2. 20 (ibid 1. 4 with genit. ? see § 36, 9). Φυλάσσεσθαι 'to shun,' trans. as in classical Greek, A. 21. 25 etc., as well as with ἀπὸ L. 12. 15

(in classical Greek also trans.). Θανμάζειν, usually intrans., is trans. in L. 7. 9 ἐθαύμασεν αὐτόν (om. αὐτ. D), A. 7. 31 τὸ ὅραμα (om. τὸ ὅρ. A). Jd. 16. Αἰσχύνεσθαι is intrans. (with ἀπό in 1 Jo. 2. 28), but ἐπαισχύι. is transitive, cp. έντρέπεσθαι infra 2. " Έλεειν (οικτίρειν R. 9. 15 Ô.T.) trans. Κλαίειν mostly intrans., trans. in Mt. 2. 18 O.T. (LXX. is different), L. 23. 28 according to D (in the other MSS. it takes ἐπί with accus.). Πενθείν is trans. only in 2 C. 12. 21 (and in L. 23. 28 according to D). Κόπτεσθαι 'to bewail' is trans. in L. 8. 52 (class.), and takes έπί with acc. in Ap. 1. 7, 18. 9. Εύδοκεῖν 'to take pleasure in' is trans. only in Mt. 12. 18 O.T. in κ*B (al. εἰς, ἐν), H. 10. 6, 8 O.T. (the LXX. here has $\eta \theta \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \eta \sigma \alpha s$, elsewhere however it uses $\dot{\epsilon} \dot{\nu} \delta$. transitively e.g. Ps. 51. 18). ('Απορείσθαι τι occurs in A. 25. 20 NABHI', CEL insert ϵis ; nowhere else in the N.T. is the accus. found after $d\pi$. or $\delta\iota a\pi$. [occasionally in classical Greek after $d\pi$.], which take $\check{\epsilon}_{l'}$ or $\pi \epsilon \rho i$, both of which constructions occur in Herm. Sim. viii. 3. 1). Kauxâσθaι 'to boast,' mainly intrans., is trans. in 2 C. 9. 2, 11. 30 (with acc. of the thing). Βλασφημεῖν is often transitive (a late use, not Attic), $\epsilon i \leq \tau \iota \nu a$ the Attic construction is found in Mc. 3. 29 (om. $\epsilon i \leq \tau \iota \nu a$ D), L. 12. 10.2 (Υβρίζειν is only used transitively.) Όμνύναι is no longer used with accusative of that by which one swears, except in Ja. 5. 12; elsewhere it takes $\epsilon \nu$ ($\epsilon i s$) = Hebr. $\stackrel{?}{=}$ Mt. 5. 34 etc., or (as is found as early as class. Greek) κατά τινος H. 6. 13, 16; but ορκίζειν τινά (ἐνορκ.) still keeps this accus. Mc. 5. 7, A. 19. 13, 1 Th. 5. 27 (ἐξορκίζω [D όρκ.] σε κατὰ with genit. Mt. 26. 63, Herm. Sim. ix. 10. 5). Θριαμβεύειν 'to triumph' is used transitively = 'to lead in triumph' in Col. 2. 15, and somewhat differently in 2 C. 2. 14 ('to cause to go in triumph as a victor'; the use in the first passage may be paralleled by Plutarch Comp. Thes. et. Rom. 4). Μαθητεύειν (a late word) is intrans., 'to be a disciple,' in Mt. 27. 57 v.l., but the passive ἐμαθητεύθη is read by aCD: trans., 'to make a disciple,' in A. 14. 21, Mt. 13. 52 (pass.), 28. 19. Έμπορεύεσθαι, a middle verb, is intrans. in Ja. 4. 13: trans. 'to deceive' in 2 P. 2. 3 (sο ἐμπολᾶν Soph. Ant. 1050). Γερουργεῖν (a late word) τὸ εὐαγγέλιον (like θυσίαν) occurs in R. 15. 16.3 ° Υστερεῖν in the sense of 'to be wanting' (without a case in Jo. 2. 3, cp. Dioscor. 5. 86), is trans. in Mc. 10. 21 ἔν σε ὑστερεῖ κΒC al. (σοι AD al.), cp. LXX. Ps. 22. I (elsewhere the LXX. also has the dat. Buttm. 147; § 37, 3). The following are transitive in virtue of their composition with κατά (as in class. Greek): καταβραβεύειν Col. 2. 18, καταγωνίζεσθαι Η. 11. 33, κατασοφίζεσθαι Α. 7. 19 ('to get the better of' etc.): with διά (class.) διαπορεύεσθαι, διέρχεσθαι, διαπλείν in Lc., Acts, and Hebr. (in one sentence we have beside this the construction with διά and the genit., Η. 11. 29 διέβησαν τὴν θάλασσαν ὡς διὰ ξηρᾶς γῆς): with παρά παρέρχεσθαι (including Mc. 6. 48): with περί περιέρχεσθαι τὰς οἰκίας 1 Tim. 5. 13 (class.), περιτρέχειν Mc. 6. 55 (ditto), περιστῆναί τινα Α. 25. 7 (class.), περιάγειν (also intrans. § 53, 1) Mt. 9. 35, 23. 15, Mc. 6. 6 (with v.l. ἐν in Mt. 4. 23): with πρό προάγειν Mt. 2. 9 etc. praecedere aliquem (not class. in this sense), for which we have προέρχεσθαι in Lc. 22. 47 (D προῆγεν: there are difficult vll. αὐτοῖς and αὐτῶν), cp. Mc. 6. 33 (many vll., a difficult passage): 1 with ὑπέρ ὑπερέχειν Ph. 4. 7 (cp. § 36, 8).

² 2 P. 2. 12 ἐν οῖς ἀγνοοῦσιν βλασφημοῦντες 'railing at those things in which they know nothing' (the idea is expressed more intelligibly in Jd. 10).

2. Verbs with variable construction. Εδ (καλώς) ποιείν in Attic take the accus. in all cases, similarly κακώς (πολλά κακά) ποιείν τινα and the like; but in L. 6. 27 we have καλῶς ποιείτε τοίς -, Mc. 14. 7 $\epsilon \hat{v}$ moie with dat. (this is wanting in ): for the use of these verbs with the accus. cp. infra 4. But ώφελειν and βλάπτειν (a rare word) take τινα in the N.T. as in Attic (λυσιτελείν τινι as in Att., but only in L. 17. 2 where D has συμφέρει); similarly κακῶς λέγειν τινα, but only in A. 23. 5 O.T., for which elsewhere κακολογών τινα is used in A. 19. g etc., like εὐλογείν, besides which we further have καλῶς εἴπωσιν ύμας, but only in L. 6. 26 (D ύμιν). (The simple λέγειν with accus. of the person = 'to allude to anyone in one's speech,' is found in Jo. 1. 15 [a v.l.], 8. 27 [a v.l.], Ph. 3. 18, as in classical Greek.) The following verbs of cognate meaning take the accusative: ἐπηρεάζειν (Att. with dat.) τινα Mt. 5. 44, L. 6. 28, 1 P. 3. 16: λυμαίνεσθαί τινα A. 8. 3 (Att. τινά and τινί): λοιδορείν τινα Jo. 9. 28, A. 23. 4 (as in Att.): ονειδίζειν (Att. τινί) τινά Mt. 5. 11 etc. (in 27. 44 αὐτῶ is a wrong reading for αὐτόν): μέμφεσθαι αὐτούς Η. 8. 8 AD*al., αὐτοῖς κ BD al. (the latter is the Attic use): καταράσθαι (Att. with dat.) with accus. in [Mt.] 5. 44 [D* ὑμῖν], Mc. 11. 21, L. 6. 28 (ὑμῖν EHL al. Justin. Ap. i. 15), Ja. 3. 9 (cp. supra 1 βλασφημείν, ύβρίζειν, with which verbs this whole class, with the exception of εδ ποιείν etc., appears to have been brought into uniformity). Έντρέπεσθαί τινα is 'to be afraid of anyone' (Polyb. and Acts; the earlier use with τινο\$ = 'to trouble oneself about'), cp. ἐπαισχύνεσθαι supra 1; βασκαίνειν τινά 'to envy,' 'bewitch,' G. 3. 1 (in Attic it perhaps also takes τινί like $\phi\theta_0$ νείν?); προσκυνείν τινα (Att.) occurs in Mt. 4. 10 O.T., L. 4. 8 O.T., 24. 52 (om. D), Jo. 4. 22 bis, 23 (αὐτῷ κ*; in the same verse all MSS. have $\tau \hat{\varphi} \pi \alpha \tau \rho \hat{i}$, 9. 38 D: elsewhere with $\tau i \nu \hat{i}$ (a late use. Lobeck Phryn. 463) or absolute (πρ. ἐνώπιόν τινος L. 4. 7); γονυπετεῖν (Polyb.) τινα Mt. 17. 14 (D omits αὐτόν), Mc. 10. 17: without a case in Mc. 1. 40, with $\xi \mu \pi \rho \rho \sigma \theta \epsilon \nu$ Mt. 27. 29 (the dat. $\alpha v \tau \hat{\varphi}$ in the former passage has very slight support); εὐαγγελίζεσθαι in Attic has accus. of the thing, dat. of the person: so also in L. 1. 19, 2. 10.

1 C. 15. I f. etc.: but it is also found with accus. of the person L. 3. 18 εὐηγγελίζετο τὸν λαόν and frequently in Luke and Acts, also G. 1. 9 (ibid. 8 with dat.), 1 P. 1. 12; ¹ παραινέν (only in Luke, from the literary language) has accus. instead of the classical dat. A. 27. 22 (construction like that of $\pi a \rho a \kappa a \lambda \epsilon \hat{\iota} \nu$)²; χρῆσθαι takes acc. in 1 C. 7. 31 οἱ χρώμενοι τὸν κόσμον κ*ABDFG, dat. according to κ°Deortek etc. as in 9. 12, 18 etc. (cp. Buttm. p. 157); πεινᾶν and διψᾶν take accus. τὴν δικαιοσύνην Mt. 5. 6 (class. gen.), elsewhere they are used without a case.

3. The so-called accusative of the inner object or of content, found with intransitive and passive verbs and generally with any verb, is used in the N.T. practically in the same way as in the classical language (there being a special reason for its being kept, as the Hebrew had a similar usage). This accusative, whether it be that of a substantive which is radically connected with the verb or of one connected only in sense, in most cases requires, in order to have any raison d'être at all, to be more nearly defined by means of an adjective or a genitive, whereas the dative of verbal substantives when similarly used does not need this nearer definition, see § 38, 3. also occasionally omitted with the accusative, if the substantive has a more concrete meaning, as in Mt. 13. 30 (according to the correct reading of D Origen etc.) δήσατε (αὐτὰ) δεσμάς (κBC etc. read εἰς δ.) 'into bundles,' which is a quite different use from Mt. 12. 29 δήση τον ἰσχυρόν (acc. of the outer object), but at the same time is not entirely similar to the possible phrase δείν δέσιν, since the acc. δεσμάς denotes an external result or product of the action (cp. οἰκοδομεῖν οἰκίαν L. 6. 48, ποιεῖν ποίημα, γράφειν γράμματα); an object of this kind may then become the subject to a passive verb (G. 1. 11). A similar instance is L. 2. 8 φυλάσσοντες φυλακάς of 'watch duty,' 'sentry duty' (so in Xenoph. Anab. 2. 6. 10 etc.; also in LXX.), where φυλακή expresses a definite objective kind of φυλάσσειν, and by no means expresses merely the abstract idea of the verb; so ἰδεῖν ὕραμα A. 11. 5, 16. 10 (passively $\delta \rho \alpha \mu \alpha \ \delta \phi \theta \eta$ 16. 9). But in other cases we have Mt. 2. 10 έχάρησαν χαράν μεγάλην σφόδρα, Mc. 4. 41 έφοβήθησαν φόβον μέγαν, Αρ. 16. 9 έκαυματίσθησαν καθμα μέγα, 1 P. 3. 14 τον φόβον αὐτῶν ('fear of them') μη φοβηθητε, Col. 2. 19 αὔξει ('grows') την αυξησιν τοῦ θεοῦ. This closer defining of the noun is also not absent where the verb stands in a relative sentence : Jo. 17. 26 $\dot{\eta}$ $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\dot{\alpha}\pi\eta$ $\dot{\eta}\nu$ ηγάπησάς με (ή according to D), Mc. 10. 38 τὸ βάπτισμα δ έγω βαπτίζομαι βαπτισθηναι, Herm. Mand. vii. το φόβος ον δεί σε φοβηθηναι. To the same class of accusative belong the cases where, in place of the substantive with the word which more closely defines it, the latter word occurs alone, either in the gender of the substantive, which must then be supplied, as in L. 12. 47 f. δαρήσεται πολλάς, ολίγας sc. πληγάς, or more commonly in the neuter: L. 5. 33 νηστεύουσιν πυκνά (=πυκνάς νηστείας), 2 С. 13. ι τρίτον τοῦτο ἔρχομαι ('for the third time'), Ph. 1. 6 πεποιθώς αὐτὸ τοῦτο ('having this confidence'), 2. 18, 1 C. 9. 25 πάντα ἐγκρατεύεται (but in Herm. Mand. viii. 2 έγκρ. τὸ πθνηρόν is an instance of a true objective acc., being opposed to $\pi \circ \iota \in \nu \to \pi$.: ibid. 2-12 the verb is also used with $d\pi \circ$, genit., and inf.; cp. νηστεύειν τὸν κόσμον in the Λόγια Ἰησοῦ from Oxyrhynchus), 10. 33 πάντα πᾶσιν ἀρέσκω, 11. 2 πάντα μου μέμνησθε which is still more adverbial 'in everything,' 'in every respect'; τὸ δ' αὐτὸ Ph. 2. 18, Mt. 27. 44 'in like manner' (on which is modelled the concise phrase in 2 C. 6. 13 την αὐτην ἀντιμισθίαν 'in like manner in return,' Fritzsche); μηδέν διακρινόμενος Α. 10. 20, cp. 11. 12; 2 C. 12. 11 οὐδὲν ὑστέρησα, 1 cp. 11. 5, Mt. 19. 20 τί ὑστερῶ; ('wherein am I still backward?' whereas τίνος ὑστ. = 'what do I lack?'), 2 C. 12. 13 τί ἐστιν ὁ ἡσσώθητε (similar sense); R. 6. 10 ὁ γὰρ ἀπέθανεν, τη άμαρτία ἀπέθανεν - ο δε ζη, ζη τω θεω, G. 2. 20 ο νυν ζω έν σαρκί, έν πίστει ζω (the death that He died, the life that He liveth, or else = in that He died and liveth). Still the use of these neuters in the N.T. is far less extensive than in the classical language.

 $^{^1}$ But not with a double acc.; in A. 13. 32 thm ... $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\alpha\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda\dot{a}\nu$ should be taken with the following clause.

 $^{^2}$ Διδάσκειν with dat. instead of acc. in Ap. 2. 14 rests on a reading which is quite uncertain.

4. A double accusative is found mainly with a number of verbs which can take both a personal object as well as (in another relation) an object of the thing. Thus διδάσκειν with ἀποστασίαν πάντας τοὺς - A. 21. 21, cp. Mc. 6. 34 αὐτοὺς πολλά (where however πολλά is rather to be regarded as acc. of the inner object), Jo. 14. 26 υμας πάντα, also H. 5. 12 τοῦ διδάσκειν ὑμᾶς τινὰ (not τίνα) τὰ στοιχεῖα κ.τ.λ. (thus the examples with this verb are not many): ἀναμιμνήσκειν 1 C. 4. 17, ὑπομιμν. Jo. 14. 26. But κρύπτειν τινά τι is not represented, the phrase used being τι ἀπό (Hebr. גוף) τινος, Mt. 11. 25 $(d\pi)\epsilon\kappa\rho\nu\psi\alpha$ s $\tau\alpha\hat{\nu}\tau\alpha$ $d\pi\delta$ $\sigma\sigma\phi\hat{\omega}\nu$ (Herm. Sim. ix. 11. 9) or the still more Hebraistic κρύψατε ήμᾶς ἀπὸ προσώπου τοῦ - Ap. 6. 16 (passively κεκρυμμένον ἀπ' αὐτῶν L. 18. 34 [as incidentally also in Homer Odyss. 23. 110 κεκρυμμένα ἀπ' ἄλλων], ἐκρύβη ἀπὸ ὀφθαλμῶν σου 19. 42). Αἰτεῖν τινά τι Mt. 6. 8 (D is different), Mc. 6. 22 f. etc., besides which $\pi \alpha \rho \dot{\alpha}$ may be used of the person (class.) Jo. 4. 9. A. 9. 2 (the middle verb: this never takes double acc.), or ἀπό Mt. 20. 20 BD (v.l. παρ'), 1 Jo. 5. 15 8B (similar v.l.): ἐρωτῶν (ask a question) τονά τι Mt. 21. 24, Mc. 4. 10. (The following are not found with double acc.: άφαιρείν, -είσθαι, the person being introduced by ἀπό L. 16. 3, or placed in the gen. [ibid. D; L. 10. 42 etc.], as also in classical Greek: and ἀποστερεῖν [the thing is placed in the gen. in 1 Tim. 6. 5, but there is a v.l.]. Ποιείν τινά τι 'to do something with occurs in Mt. 27. 22 τί (accus. of the predicate) ποιήσω Ίησοῦν, cp. Herm. Sim. i. 4 τί ποιήσεις τον άγρον, A. 12. 18 τί δ Πέτρος έγενετο what was become of P.: Mc. 15. 12 is similar to the passage of Matthew, but D reads $\tau \hat{\omega} \beta \alpha \sigma \iota \lambda \epsilon \hat{\iota} = \text{what shall I } do to ?$ cp. supra 2; with the same meaning we have the construction τι τινί

Mt. 21. 40, L. 20. 15, A. 9. 13, Herm. Sim. v. 2. 2, ix. 11. 8: also A. 16. 28 μηδεν πράξης [in place of ποιήσης] σεαυτώ κακόν. In Attic the acc. must be used in all cases in this sense, supra 2, whereas ποιείν τινί τι 'to do something for anyone,' as in Mc. 7. 12, 10. 36, is also correct Attic Greek. Instead of ποιείν τί τινι we also have π. τι έν τινι or είς τινα, Mt. 17. 12 [om. έν &D al.], E. 21. 31, Jo. 15. 21 [υμιν AD2 al.]; cp. καλὸν ἔργον ἢργάσατο ἐν ἐμοί Mc. 14. 6, εἰς ἐμέ Mt. 26. 10 [Attic has έργ. with double acc.]; ουτως γένηται έν έμοί 1 C. 9. 15, cp. L. 21. 31 [Buttm. p. 130]). The double acc. is also found after verbs of putting on and putting off: ἐνδιδύσκειν, ἐκδιδ. τινά τι Mt. 27. 31, Mc. 15. 17, 20, L. 15. 22; hence we have also in the N.T. (not class.) $\pi \epsilon \rho \iota \beta \acute{a} \lambda \lambda \epsilon \iota \nu \tau \iota \nu \acute{a} \tau \iota L. 23$. II AD al. (om. $a \mathring{v} \tau \grave{o} \nu$ B al.), Jo. 19. 2 (but not with περιτιθέναι which takes τινί τι Mt. 27. 28, nor with περιβάλλειν when used in other connections. see L. 19. 43). Also with χρίων: H. 1. 9 O.T. τινα ἔλαιον, a Hebraic use (but in Ap. 3. 18 the acc. κολλύριον must certainly be taken in connection with ἀγοράσαι, not with ἐγχρίσαι). With causative verbs this use is more developed than in classical Greek: ποτίζειν τινὰ ποτήριον Mc. 9. 41, γάλα 1 C. 3. 2, 'to make to drink,' cp. Plat. Phaedr. 247 E (so also ψωμίζω in the LXX., 'to make to eat': in 1 C. 13. 3 with the acc. of the thing only, cp. Winer, § 32, note 4), φορτίζειν 'to make to carry' I. 11. 46, δρκίζειν and ένορκ. (strictly 'to make to swear by, Hdt. έξορκοῦν τινα τὸ Στυγὸς εδωρ 6. 74) 'to adjure. by 'Mc. 5. 7 etc., vide supra 1.—In addition there are the instances, few in number, where the acc. of the inner and of the outer object are found together: Jo. 17. 26 $\hat{\eta}$ $d\gamma d\pi \eta$ $\hat{\eta} \nu$ ($\hat{\eta}$ according to D) ηγάπησάς με, Ε. 2. 4 την άγ. ην ηγάπησεν ημας, L. 4. 35 μηδεν βλάψας αὐτόν, G. 5. 2 ὑμᾶς οὐδὲν ὡψελήσει, 4. 12, A. 25. 10, Mt. 27. 44, Mc. 6. 34 (supra).

5. A different class of double accusative is that where one acc. is the acc. of the predicate, the construction corresponding to that of intransitive and passive verbs with a double nom. This class is used after verbs of making (ποιείν αὐτὸν βασιλέα Jo. 6. 15 [many vll.], cp. sup. 4, δν εθηκεν κληρονόμον Η. 1. 2, τίς με κατέστησεν κριτήν L. 12. 14): having and taking (A. 13. 5 είχον Ἰωάνην ὑπηρέτην, Ja. 5. 10 ὑπόδειγμα λάβετε τοὺς προφήτας): designating, calling (Jo. 10. 35 ἐκείνους εἶπε θεούς, 15. 15, Μc. 10. 18 τί με λέγεις ἀγαθόν; L. 1. 59 ἐκάλουν αὐτὸ Ζαχαρίαν: in Hebraic style 1. 13, 31 καλέσεις τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ Ἰωάνην, 'Ιησοῦν, cp. the passive ἐκλήθη τὸ ὄν. α. Ίησοῦς 2. 21, Buttm. p. 1321): * confessing, ὁμολογεῖν αὐτὸν Χριστόν Jo. 9. 22 (with εἶναι D), I Jo. 4. 2 (acc. and inf. B), 2 Jo. 7: regarding, (Ph. 3. 7 ταῦτα ήγημαι ζημίαν, ibid. 8 with είναι introduced, which is elsewhere always wanting with ἡγεῖσθαι, whereas vice versa νομίζειν and ὑπολαμβάνειν do not appear with a double acc.; A. 20. 24 ποιοθμαι την ψυχην τιμίαν, but there is a v.l. in which $\pi o \iota o \hat{\nu} \mu a \iota$ is replaced by $\tilde{\epsilon} \chi \omega$, for which in this sense [= Lat. habere] cp. L. 14. 18 ἔχε με παρητημένον, Ph. 2. 29: έχειν with ωs Mt. 14. 5, 21. 26, like λογίζεσθαι ως 1 C. 4. 1, 2 C. 10. 2 (pass. R. 8. 36, vide infra), ἡγεῖσθαι ώς 2 Th. 3. 15, Clem.

a b v. App. p. 311.

Cor. ii. 5. 6, Herm. Vis. i. 1. 7): 1 proving (συνιστάναι G. 2. 18, but εαυτοὺς ὡς θεοῦ διάκονοι 2 C. 6. 4; on 2 C. 7. 11 see § 36, 2 note), (feigning, ὑποκρινομένους εαυτοὺς δικαίους L. 20. 20 D). Beside these double accusatives we occasionally find εἰς prefixed to the predicate, showing Hebrew influence (cp. § 33, 3), A. 13. 22 ἤγειρεν αὐτοῖς τὸν Δαυὶδ εἰς βασιλέα, 47 O.T., 7. 21; Mt. 21. 46 εἰς προφήτην (ὡς πρ. CD al.) αὐτὸν εἶχον (more frequent in LXX.; Clem. Cor. i. 42. 4 καθίστανον εἰς ἐπισκόπους); the inserted ὡς (other instances given above) may also be a Hebraism, cp. ἐλογίσθημεν ὡς R. 8. 36 O.T. (Hebr. $\frac{1}{7}$). One may refer to this class of double acc. L. 9. 14 κατακλίνατε αὐτοὺς κλισίας ἀνὰ πεντήκοντα, cp. Mc. 6. 39; again Mt. 13. 30 δεῖν αὐτὰ δεσμάς, supra 3; and the classical διαιρεῖν τι δύο μέρη, Kühner-Gerth ii. 3 323.

6. The passives of the verbs specified in 4 (with which verbs when used in the passive the person and not the thing usually becomes the subject) occasionally appear with the object of the thing: 2 Th. 2. 15 τὰς παραδόσεις ἃς ἐδιδάχθητε, 1 C. 12. 13 εν πνεθμα έποτίσθημεν (of course ενδεδυμένος, περιβεβλημένος also take this object, but they are middle and not passive); we further have (formed after the classical πείθειν τινά τι) πεπείσμεθα τὰ κρείσσονα H. 6. 9, and Ph. 3. 8 τὰ πάντα έξημιώθην, Mt. 16. 26 τὴν ψυχὴν αὐτοῦ ζημιωθη (cp. Mc. 8. 36, L. 9. 25), opposed to κερδαίνειν, and formed on the model of $\xi \eta \mu \iota \hat{\nu} \hat{\nu} \tau \iota \nu a \xi \eta \mu \iota \hat{a} \nu$, but with a further derivative sense of the verb=to lose.³ Since moreover the person who is expressed by the dative after the active verb may become the subject to the passive verb (cp. § 54, 3), such passives may also appear with the acc. of the thing: πεπίστευμαι τὸ εὐαγγέλιον G. 2. 7, οίκονομίαν πεπίστευμαι 1 C. 9. 17, R. 3. 2, την άλυσιν περίκειμαι Λ. 28. 20 (active περιτιθέναι τινί τι), H. 5. 2 (also L. 17. 2 according to d $\lambda i \theta$ ον μυλικὸν περιέκειτο: Herm. Vis. v. 1, Sim. vi. 2, 5). Finally we have (formed after δείν αὐτοῦ πόδας Mt. 22. 13) δεδεμένος τοὺς πόδας Jo. 11. 44, διεφθαρμένοι τον νοθν 1 Tim. 6. 5, βεραντισμένοι τας καρδίας, λελουμένοι τὸ σῶμα H. 10. 22 f., according to a general usage of the Greek language, which is employed with still greater freedom especially by St. Paul: κατηχούμενος τον λόγον G. 6. 6 'he who is instructed in the gospel, cp. A. 18. 25, 21. 24, L. 1. 4?, while with the active verb the person is the object, never the thing; πεπληρωμένοι καρπὸν δικαιοσύνης Ph. 1. 11, cp. Col. 1. 9, 'with the fruit' (a Hebraism, Exod. 31. 3 ἐνέπλησα αὐτὖν πνεῦμα σοφίας); τὴν αὐτὴν εἰκόνα μεταμορφούμεθα 2 C. 3. 18 'into the same image'; (on την αὐτην ἀντιμισθίαν πλατύνθητε ibid. 6. 13 cp. supra 4, and for τὸν αὐτὸν τρόπον infra 7; ἀναφανέντες τὴν Κύπρον A. 21. 3 is a wrong reading for ἀναφάναντες).

² Hdt. 7. 37 is wrongly adduced as a parallel: τὴν ψυχήν τινος (his son's) ζημιοῦσθαι (to lose as a punishment): the MSS. have τŷ ψυχŷ.

- 7. The accusative of refer T., since this function is mostly taken a very limited use in the N Mt. 27. 57 τοὖνομα 'by name' (class.; over by the dative, § 38, 6. 10 τὸν ἀριθμὸν ὡς πεντακισχίλιοι: H. elsewhere ὀνόματι): Ϳς τὰ πρὸς τὸν θεόν. But this same phrase 2. 17 πιστὸς ἀρχιερε 5. 17, together with the phrases R. 12. 18 τὸ ἐξ τὰ πρὸς τὸν θεόν R. 9. 5 τὸ κατὰ σάρκα and 16. 19 τὸ ἐφ' ὑμῶν ας α ὑμῶν εἰρηνεύοντες. 5, has already become an adverbial accusative, v.l., τὸ καθ' εἶς πτόμην τὰ πολλά (v.l. πολλάκις) R. 15. 22, τὸ πλεῖστον similar to ἐνεκ΄ς 1 C. 14. 27, τὸ πρότερον, τὸ πρῶτον cp. § 11, 5; in τὸ καθ' ἡμ΄ meaningless, cp. τὸ πρωί 5. 21 D, τὸ δειλινόν 'in the afterarticle i 1 D (infra 8); ατὸ λοιπόν and λοιπόν 'for the rest,' 'now,' 'al. ady' Mt. 26. 45 = Mc. 14. 41 (in both passages a v.l. without τὸ), A. 27. 20 (λ.), 2 C. 13. 11 (λ.), E. 6. 10 τὸ λ. (κ*AB τοῦ λοιποῦ henceforth,' see § 36, 13), and frequently in the Pauline Epp., also H. 10. 13 (also Attic); τὸ νῶν ἔχον Α. 24. 25 'for the present' (Lucian and others); τὸ τέλος 'finally' 1 P. 3. 8, τὴν ἀρχήν 'from the beginning,' 'at all' Jo. 8. 25. Again, the phrases ὧν τρόπον Mt. 23. 37 and passim, τὸν ὅμοιον τρόπον Jd. 7 come under the head of accusative of the inner object (besides which we have the dat. Ph. 1. 18 παντὶ τρόπφ, § 38, 3, and καθ' ὅν τρ. Α. 15. 11, 27. 25, cp. R. 3. 2, 2 Th. 2. 3).
- 8. Accusative of extension in space and time: L. 22. 41 $d\pi\epsilon\sigma\pi d\sigma\theta\eta$ $d\pi'$ $a \dot{v} \tau \hat{\omega} \nu \ \dot{\omega} \sigma \epsilon i \ \lambda i \theta o v \ \beta o \lambda \dot{\eta} \nu$, 2. 44, Jo. 6. 19, answering the question How far? where the acc. may be regarded as a kind of object of the thing; Jo. 2. 12 εμειναν οὐ πολλάς ἡμέρας, answering the question How long? (to be similarly explained, cp. the dat. § 38, 5); as to Mt. 20. 2 συμφωνείν έκ δηναρίου ('at a denarius') την ημέραν, 'a day,' 'per day,' vide § 36, 8. Further, νύκτα καὶ ἡμέραν 'day and night' Mc. 4. 27, L. 2. 37, A. 26. 7; τὰς ἡμέρας – τὰς νύκτας L. 21. 37 'during the days, the nights'; ἡμέραν ἐξ ἡμέρας 2 P. 2. 8 is classical. This accusative appears to go beyond its own department in the phrases $\tau \delta$ $\delta \epsilon \iota \lambda \iota \nu \delta \nu$, $\tau \delta$ $\pi \rho \omega i$ (see 7), where the question asked is When? (cp. μέσον ἡμέρας LXX. Dan Sus. 7); as it does moreover in its use with ωρα (occurring in classical Greek): Jo. 4. 52 έχθες ωραν εβδόμην, Ap. 3. 3 ποίαν ωραν, A. 10. 30 (and verse 3 with v.l. περί ώραν ένάτην as in verse 9), cp. Aesch. Eum. 159 ώραν οὐδενὸς κοινήν, Eurip. Bacch. 722 την τεταγμένην ώραν, Aristot. 'Αβ. § 35. THE GENITIVE.

- 1. By far the most extensive use of the genitive is that by which it defines a noun more closely after the manner of an adjective, and like an adjective either as attribute or predicate; in the latter case the genitive is said to be dependent on $\epsilon i \nu a \iota (\gamma i \nu \epsilon \sigma \theta a \iota \text{ etc.})$. The kind of relation which exists between the genitive and its noun can only be decided by the sense and context: in the N.T. this is often purely a matter of theological interpretation, which cannot form part of the teaching of a grammatical work. The place of the noun, which is defined by the genitive, may also be taken by a pronoun and more especially by the article. We select here only the points that are worthy of note.
- 2. Genitive of origin and membership.—As in the classical language, the genitive is used where a particular person is indicated by the mention of his father, Ίάκωβον τὸν τοῦ Ζεβεδαίου Mt. 4. 21 etc., a use in which the introduction of viós is perfectly admissible, Ἰωάνην τὸν Ζαχαρίου νίον L. 3. 2; in the case of the sons of Zebedee, if named together, vioi (almost) always appears, Mt. 26, 37, 27, 56, Mc. 10. 35, L. 5. 10, only in Jo. 21. 2 ABL al. read of 700 Z., while oi vioi Z. is read by NDE; where viós is omitted the introduction of one article, contrary to the usual classical practice, causes the insertion of the article with the other noun as well, thus $\Delta avi\delta$ τον του Ίκοσαί A. 13. 22 O.T., cp. § 46, 10 (but without an article Ἰούδαν Σίμωνος Ἰσκαριώτου Jo. 6. 71 etc., similarly in Greek style Σώπατρος Πύρρου Βεροιαίος A. 20. 4). Indication of the mother by her son's name: Mc. 15. 40 (cp. Mt. 27. 56) Μαρία ή Ἰακώβου τοῦ μικροῦ καὶ Ἰωσητος μήτηρ, whence in verse 47 M. ή Ἰωσητος, 15. 1 M. ή Ἰακώβου as in L. 24. 10 (the article with the gen. is in this case neglected except in Mt. 27. 56 $\dot{\eta}$ $\tau o \hat{v}$ 'Iak. $-\mu \dot{\eta} \tau \eta \rho$). Of the wife by her husband's name (this is also classical): Mt. 1. 6 της τοῦ Οὐρίου, Jo. 19. 25 Μαριὰμ ή τοῦ Κλωπᾶ. Whether in the case of the apostle called Ἰούδας Ἰακώβου L. 1. 16, A. 1. 13, νίός or in accordance with Jd. 1 άδελφός is to be supplied (the latter is grammatically admissible: cp. Τιμοκράτης ὁ Μητροδώρου sc. ἀδ. Alciphron Ep. ii. 2) is a question which need not be discussed here. Membership in a family (including a family of slaves): των Χλόης 1 C. 1. 11, τοὺς (sc. brethren, Christians) ἐκ τῶν (sc. slaves) ᾿Αριστοβούλου, Ναρκίσσου R. 16. 10 f. Yiós occurs in a metaphorical sense

¹ The v.l. in A. 7. 13 τῶν νἰῶν Ἑμμῶρ τοῦ Συχέμ (DH; al. ἐν Σ. or τοῦ ἐν Σ.) is explained by Gen. 33. 19 as Έ. πατρός Σ., which in any case is wrong.

- (a common Hebraism): 1 Th. 5. 5 νίοι φωτός έστε και νίοι ήμέρας; hence with omission of viós, the genitive being also used predicatively, οὐκ ἐσμὲν νυκτὸς οὐδὲ σκότους 1 Th. 5. 6, ἡμέρας ὄντες 8, cp. H. 10. 39 οὐκ ἐσμὲν ὑποστολης – ἀλλὰ πίστεως. Possession or discipleship: οί τοῦ Χριστοῦ 1 C. 15. 23; as predicate, A. 27. 36 τοῦ θεοῦ οδ εἰμι, R. 8. ο οδτος οὐκ ἔστιν αὐτοῦ (Χρ.), 1 C. 1. 12, 3. 4 ἐγὼ μέν εἰμι Παύλου etc., 6. 19 οὐκ ἐστὲ ἑαυτῶν ('do not belong to yourselves,' cp. 20), 3. 21 πάντα ὑμῶν ἐστι (= ὑμέτερα, cp. § 48, 7); L. 20. 14; A. 1. 7 οὐχ ὑμῶν ἐστι γνῶναι 'does not belong to you,' 'is not your concern,' 2 P. 1. 20 προφητεία ίδίας έπιλύσεως οὐ γίνεται; Η. 5. 14 τελείων έστὶν ή στερεὰ τροφή; Herm. Sim. viii. 7. 6 ή ζωὴ πάντων ἐστὶ τῶν – , cp. A. 10. 36 after the removal of the interpolated κύριος, A. 20. 3 (Thuc. 1. 113).—The use of $\epsilon \nu$, $\epsilon \ell s$ with the genitive of the house of anyone is not found in the New Testament, nor yet the phrases èv, είς Αϊδου (as in Clem. Cor. i. 4. 11), instead of which we have έν τώ αρη L. 16. 22, είς αρην Α. 2. 27 Ο.Τ. (αρου EP and some Mss. of the LXX.), 31 (abov ACDEP).
- 3. Objective genitive. Noteworthy instances are Mt. 24, 6 ἀκοαὶ πολέμων 'rumours of wars': A. 4. 9 εὐεργεσία ἀνθρώπου 'to a man': R. 10. 2 ζήλος θεοῦ 'concerning God' (Jo. 2. 17 O.T. ὁ ζ. τοῦ οἴκου σου): Jo. 7. 13, 20. 19 διὰ τὸν φόβον τῶν Ἰουδαίων 'fear of the Jews.' Further instances: Mt. 13. 18 την παραβολην τοῦ σπείροντος (cp. 36) about, of: 1 C. 1. 6 το μαρτύριον του Χριστού, 1. 18 ο λόγος ο του σταυρού, Mt. 4 23 etc. τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τῆς βασιλείας, Mc. 1. 1 τὸ εὐαγγ. 'Ιησοῦ Χρ.; phrases similar to the last are frequent in St. Paul (besides this use we have εὐαγγ. θεοῦ in R. 1. I and elsewhere, denoting the author, the meaning being there explained by $\pi \epsilon \rho i \tau o \hat{v}$ νίου αὐτου in verse 3; τὸ εὐαγγ. μου R. 2. 16, 16. 25, cp. 2 C. 4. 3, 2 Tim. 2. 8, denoting the preacher; and τὸ εὐαγγ. της ἀκροβυστίας G. 2. 7 = 'among,' 'to,' similar to the use of εὐαγγελίζεσθαί τινα; but $\epsilon \dot{v} \alpha \gamma \gamma$. Mathaiov etc. would be presumptuous and false, as if the individual evangelist had a special gospel proceeding from himself, therefore katà M. etc. is used, i.e. according to Matthew's presentation of it). Other objective genitives are πίστις Ἰησοῦ Χρ. R. 3. 22^d etc., for which we also have π. είς τὸν κύριον Ί. Χρ. Α. 20. 21 etc. and έν Χρ. Ί. 1 Tim. 3. 13 etc.: ὑπακοὴ τοῦ Χρ., τῆς πίστεως, τ. ἀληθείας 2 C. 10. 5, R. 1. 5, 1 P. 1. 22 etc., whereas $d\gamma d\pi \eta \tau o \hat{v} \theta \epsilon o \hat{v}$ can be both subjective and objective, but in $\delta \iota \kappa \alpha \iota \circ \sigma \circ \nu \eta \tau$. θ . and $\delta \iota \kappa$. $\tau \hat{\eta} s$ $\pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon \omega s$ the gen. indicates the author and the cause respectively, hence $\dot{\eta}$ in θ . $\delta i \kappa$. Ph. 3. 9, $\dot{\eta}$ is $\pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon \omega s$ δ . R. 9. 30, also $\delta i \dot{\alpha}$ $\pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon \omega s$ Ph. 3. 9. In R. 2. 7 $\hat{v}\pi o\mu o\nu \hat{\eta}$ $\tilde{\epsilon}\rho\gamma o\nu$ $\hat{\alpha}\gamma a\theta o\hat{\nu}$ 'endurance in' is also a kind of objective genitive; on the other hand 1 Th. 1. 3 της ὑπομονης $\tau \hat{\eta} s \stackrel{\epsilon}{\epsilon} \lambda \pi i \delta o s$ is parallel with the phrases $\tau o \hat{v} \stackrel{\epsilon}{\epsilon} \rho \gamma o v \tau \hat{\eta} s \pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon \omega s$ and $\tau o \hat{v}$ κόπου της αγάπης, and is rather to be regarded as subjective, expressing patient hope in conjunction with active faith (cp. G. 5. 6) and labouring love.
- 4. The genitive of the whole or partitive genitive has not altogether died out, although its place has been taken to a great extent by the periphrasis with $\hat{\epsilon}_{\nu}^{g}$ $(\hat{a}\pi\hat{o},\hat{\epsilon}\nu)$. Mt. 5. 29 f. $\hat{\epsilon}\nu$ $\tau\hat{\omega}\nu$ $\mu\epsilon\lambda\hat{\omega}\nu$ σov , 6. 29 a b c d c v. App. p. 311.

εν τούτων, 10. 42 ενα των μικρων τούτων etc.; but 10. 29, 18. 12 εν έξ αὐτῶν, 26. 21 εἶs ἐξ ὑμῶν etc.: in Mt. 6. 27, 7. 9, L. 11. 5, 12. 25 and elsewhere τ is $\dot{\epsilon}\xi$ $\dot{\nu}\mu\hat{\omega}\nu$; and, generally speaking, in the case of τ is the gen. appears more frequently with ¿ than without it (Mt. 22. 28 has $\tau i \nu o s \tau \hat{\omega} \nu \epsilon \pi \tau \hat{\alpha}$, but $\tau \hat{\omega} \nu \epsilon \pi \tau \hat{\alpha}$ appears not to be genuine: Mc. 12. 23 τίνος αὐτῶν, here also the gen. is wanting in Δck : L. 7. 42 τίς αὐτῶν, but αὐτ. is omitted by D etc.: 14. 5 τίνος ὑμῶν, D ἐξ ὑμῶν: 20. 33 τίνος αὐτῶν, but αὐτ. om. e ff,2 so that the only certain instances of the simple gen. remaining are A. 7. 52, H. 1. 5, 13). With TIS. however, the reverse is the case, the simple gen. preponderating (except in John); with $\tilde{\epsilon} \kappa a \sigma \tau o s$ it is found exclusively; but $\pi \hat{a} s \hat{\epsilon} \hat{\xi}$ \dot{v} μων L. 14. 33. This use of $\dot{\epsilon}\xi$ can hardly be called classical (although μόνος έξ ἀπάντων and similar phrases occur), still it is more classical than that of ἀπό in Mt. 27. 21 τίνα ἀπὸ τῶν δύο; athe use of èv also has classical precedent, Ja. 5. 13, 14, 19, 1 C. 15. 12 τις έν ύμιν, Α. 5. 34 τις έν τῷ συνεδρίω (D έκ τοῦ συνεδρίου); cp. on the periphrasis for the partitive gen. with verbs, § 36, 1. This gen. is used predicatively in ων ἐστιν Υμέναιος 1 Tim. 1. 20, A. 23. 6: with έκ Jo. 18. 17, L. 22. 58, 1 C. 12. 15 f. (Clem. Cor. ii. 14. 1, 18. 1). The following is noticeable: τὰ αὐτὰ τῶν παθημάτων 1 P. 5. 9 (strictly incorrect).—The employment of the partitive gen. or a periphrasis for it as subject or object of the sentence is peculiar: Jo. 16. 17 είπον ἐκ τῶν μαθητῶν αὐτοῦ (some of his disciples) πρὸς αλλήλους, 7. 40 έκ τοῦ ὅχλου ἀκούσαντες - ἔλεγον, παραγενομένων έκ $\tau \hat{\eta}$ s πόλεως L. 8. 35 D (some men of the town), A. 21. 16 συν $\hat{\eta}$ λθον δὲ καὶ (ἐκ add. Ε) τῶν μὰθητῶν ἀπὸ Καισαρείας,3 19. 33 ἐκ τοῦ ὅχλου (sc. τινές), Ap. 11. 9, L. 21. 16 θανατώσουσιν έξ υμών (sc. τινάς), 11. 49, Mt. 23. 34, Ap. 2. 10, 2 Jo. 4; it even takes the place of a dative in Jo. 3. 25 έγένετο ζήτησις έκ των μαθητών Ίωάνου μετά 'Ioνδαίον (-ων) 'on the part of some of the disciples,' cp. A. 15. 2.° This form of expression is due to Hebrew influence (אָב), although in isolated cases the genitive is also so used in Attic (Xenoph. Anab. 3, 5. 16: Hellen. 4, 2. 20).—To the class of partitive genitives belongs also the gen. of the country, added to define the particular place intended, and always with the article (§ 46, 11): Natapè θ $\tau \hat{\eta} s$ Γαλιλαίας Μt. 21. 11, Μc. 1. 9, Κανά της Γαλ. Jo. 2. 1, Ταρσὸς της Κιλικίας Α. 22. 3, with πόλις 21. 39, 16. 12 ήτις (Φίλιπποι) εστίν πρώτης (as should be read) μερίδος της Μακεδονίας πόλις. As a definition of time: (οψε σαββάτων Mt. 28. r, but not 'late on the Sabbath,' since the next clause and Mc. 16. I show that the meaning must be 'after the Sabbath' a), δìs τοῦ σαββάτου 'twice in the week L. 18. 12. A further instance may be noticed: L. 19. 8 τὰ ἡμίσεια (τὰ ημισυ AR[D]) τῶν ὑπαρχόντων with classical assimilation to the gen. instead τὸ ημισυ (Kühner-Gerth ii.3 279, ἡ ἡμίσεια τῆς γῆς):

elsewhere we have ημισυ καιρού Ap. 12. 14 (cp. 11. 9, 11 without a genitive), εως ημίσους της βασιλείας Mc. 6. 23, like τὸ δέκατον (sc. μέρος) της πόλεως Ap. 11. 13.

5. A nearer definition of any kind by means of quality, direction, aim etc. is expressed by the genitive in a long series of phrases. some of which obviously take their origin from Hebrew (in which language the adjective is but slightly developed): μισθοῦ τῆς ἀδικίας A. I. 18, μ. άδ. 2 P. 2. 15, δ οἰκονόμος της άδικίας L. 16. & τοῦ μαμωνα $\tau \hat{\eta}$ s $\vec{\alpha}$ δ. 9, $\vec{\delta}$ κρι $\tau \hat{\eta}$ s τ . $\vec{\alpha}$ δ. 18. $\vec{\delta} = \vec{\delta}$ $\vec{\alpha}$ δίκος (cp. 16. 11 $\vec{\epsilon} \nu$ $\tau \hat{\omega}$ $\vec{\alpha}$ δίκω μαμωνά): καρδία πονηρά ἀπιστίας Η. 3. 12, ῥήματα βλασφημίας Α. 6. 11 D with v.l. βλάσφημα, cp. Il. 5, 642 etc. (this construction occurs here only in the N.T., since πόλεως θυατείρων A. 16. 14 is the gen. of πόλις θυάτειρα, like πόλει Ἰόππη 11. 5; cp. also 2 C. 11. 32 την πόλιν Δαμασκηνών, Ap. 3. 12, 18. 10, 21, 21. 2, 10).—On the gen.

with adjectives and participles used substantivally see § 47, 1.— The gen. is used predicatively (supra 2 and 4), denoting quality, in Mc. 5. 42 $\tilde{\eta}\nu$ ἐτῶν δώδεκα, L. 2. 42 ὅτε ἐγένετο ἐτῶν δώδεκα (D is different), H. 12. 11 πᾶσα παιδεία οὖ δοκεῖ χαρᾶς εἶναι, ἀλλὰ λύπης.

6. As in classical Greek, there is nothing to prevent two genitives of different meaning from being connected with a single substantive: 2 C. 5. 1 ή ἐπίγειος ήμῶν οἰκία τοῦ σκήνους, possessive gen. and gen. of apposition, Ph. 2. 30 τὸ ὑμῶν (subjective) ὑστέρημα τῆς πρός με λειτουργίας (objective), Ap. 7. 17, 2 P. 3. 2 της των αποστόλων ύμων ('apostles sent to you') έντολης τοῦ κυρίου καὶ σωτήρος (closely with αποστ. 'sent from etc. to').2 In most cases, however, if several genitives stand together, one of them is dependent on the other, a practice through which writers, especially St. Paul, are occasionally brought to a really burdensome accumulation of words: 2 C. 4. 5 τὸν φωτισμὸν τοῦ εὖαγγελίου ('which proceeds from the gospel') της δόξης (content) τοῦ Χριστοῦ, \mathbf{E} . 1. 6 εἰς ἔπαινον δόξης (a single idea, cp. Ph. 1. 17 είς δόξαν καὶ επαινον) της χάριτος αὐτοῦ,3 4. 13 είς μέτρον ήλικίας τοῦ πληρώματος τοῦ Χριστοῦ, 1. 18, 19, Col. 2. 12, 1 Th. 1. 3 της ύπομονης της έλπίδος (supra 3) του κυρίου ήμων; 4 Ap. 14. 8 έκ τοῦ οἴνου τοῦ θυμοῦ (supra 5) τῆς πορνείας αὐτῆς, unless τοῦ θυμοῦ should be removed from this passage and from 18. 3 (with Griesbach) as an interpolation from 14. 10, 16. 19 τὸ ποτήριον τοῦ οἴνου τοῦ θυμοῦ τῆς ὀργῆς αὐτοῦ (αὐτοῦ om. 8), 19. 15 τὴν ληνὸν τοῦ οἴνου τοῦ $\theta v \mu o \hat{v} \tau \hat{\eta} s \ \dot{o} \rho \gamma \hat{\eta} s \ \tau o \hat{v} \ \theta \epsilon o \hat{v}$. The last genitive of the series is usually a possessive (Buttm. 136). In order that some clue may be left for the understanding of the construction, it is necessary (and also in conformity with Hebrew precedent) that the governing genitive should always stand before the dependent genitive, while in the case where two genitives are dependent on a single noun, one is placed before and the other after the noun, see the instances given above (Buttm. 135 f.). It has further been maintained (ibid. p. 294 f.), that in a case where a genitive without the article dependent on a preposition governs another genitive, the former must always occupy the first place: in the same way that a word in any case without an article usually, though not always (Mt. 13. 33 είς ἀλεύρου σάτα τρία) precedes the genitive which it governs. Exceptions however must be admitted in the former case as well; Mt. 24, 31

μετὰ σάλπιγγος φωνῆς μεγάλης, if the reading is correct, means 'with a loud trumpet-sound' (cp. H. 12. 19, Ap. 1. 10, 4. 1, 8. 13), and 2 C. 3. 18 ἀπὸ κυρίου πνεύματος 'from the spirit of the Lord,' cp. verse $17.^2$ Also βαπτισμῶν διδαχῆς H. 6. 2 (unless B is right in reading διδαχήν) can only mean 'teaching of baptisms.'

§ 36. CONTINUATION: GENITIVE WITH VERBS, ETC.

1. The genitive is used in Greek in connection with verbs in a series of instances where the partitive meaning is obvious. In the N.T. this partitive genitive with verbs is replaced, even more frequently than in the other cases mentioned (§ 35, 4), by a periphrasis with a preposition (or the use of another case). It is true that μεταλαμβάνειν 'to partake of' always has the gen. (A. 2. 46, 27. 33 f., 2 Tim. 2. 6, H. 6. 7, 12. 10; the verb has a different meaning in the combination καιρον μεταλαβών A. 24, 25 = Polyb. 2, 16, 25 = `toget [an opportunity] later'); so also μετέχειν in 1 C. 9. 12, 10. 21, H. 2. 14, 5. 13, 7. 13, though $\mu\epsilon\tau$. $\epsilon\kappa$ is found as well in 1 C. 10. 17, and just as these constructions with the gen. are limited to Luke, Paul, and Hebrews, so κοινωνείν τινος only appears in H. 2. 14, while Paul, Peter, and John say κοινωνείν τινι (using the dat. not only of the person as in classical Greek, but also of the thing as in R. 15. 27 τοῖς πνευματικοῖς αὐτῶν ἐκοινώνησαν τὰ ἔθνη, cp. 1 Tim. 5. 22, 1 P. 4. 13, 2 Jo. 11; R. 12. 13 holds an intermediate position), or else κοινωνείν τινι (person) έν τινι G. 6. 6, or είς λόγον δόσεως καί λήμψεως Ph. 4. 15. Μεταδιδόναι never has the genitive, but the accusative, if it is the whole which is imparted R. 1. 11, 1 Th. 2. 8 (the classical usage is analogous), elsewhere only the dat. of the person; μετείναι is unrepresented; ὁ ἔχων μέρος ἐν—(of the thing) occurs in Ap. 20. 6. But the greater number of the constructions which come under this head—to take of, to bring, eat, drink of etc.—have been lost to the genitive, and are expressed by έκ or ἀπό: L. 20. 10 ἀπὸ τοῦ καρποῦ δώσουσιν, Μc. 12. 2 ἵνα λά β η ἀπὸ τῶν καρπῶν (only in A. 27. 36 do we have προσελά β οντο $\tau \rho o \phi \hat{\eta}$ s [with many var. lect.], like $\gamma \epsilon \hat{\nu} \epsilon \sigma \theta \alpha \iota$, vide infra; beside which ibid. 33 μηδεν προσλαβόμενοι is correctly used to indicate not the whole but the part), Jo. 21. 10 ένέγκατε άπὸ τῶν ὀψαρίων, 1 C. 11. 28 έκ τοῦ ἄρτου ἐσθίετω, Jo. 4. 14 δς ἃν πίη ἐκ τοῦ ὕδατος (as well as έσθίειν τι, where the object consists of the whole, Mc. 1. 6 έσθίων άκρίδας καὶ μέλι ἄγριον, like Aristoph. Eq. 604 ήσθιον δὲ τοὺς παγούρους; 1 C. 8. 10 τὰ είδωλόθυτα ἐσθίειν, cp. 7, Ap. 2. 14, 20, i.e.

¹ Φωνη̂s is wanting in \aleph L etc., D al. have σ . καὶ φων. μεγ.; I have bracketed σ άλπ. as an interpolation from passages like Ap. 1. 10 (cp. 1 Th. 4. 16).

² The Vulgate has a domino spiritu (Marcion acc. to Tertull. read a domino spirituum = κυρίου πνευμάτων). There might also appear to be an irregular order of words in the reading given by Origen (in Matt. tom. xiv. 14) in 1 C. 2. 4: οὐκ ἐν πειθοῖ σοφίας λόγων, ἀλλ' ἐν ἀποδείξει πνεύματος δυνάμεως. But cp. with the last words πνεῦμα τῆς πίστεως 2 C. 4. 13, πν. σοφίας καὶ ἀποκαλύψεως E. l. 17 etc.

meat which comes from sacrifices; 1 C. 10. 18 οἱ ἐσθίοντες τὰς θυσίας, which they consume in common).¹ Of verbs of cognate meaning to these, χορτάζειν 'to satisfy' (vulgar word for κορεννύναι, see Athenaeus iii. 99 E) has the genitive Mc. 8. 4, the passive -άζεσθαι only has ἀπό, ἐκ L. 15. 16,² 16. 21, Ap. 19. 21, κορέννυσθαι (literary language) has the gen. A. 27. 38; γεύεσθαι has the gen. in γεύεσθαι θανάτου Mt. 16. 28 etc., H. 2. 9, τοῦ δείπνου L. 14. 24, μηδενὸς A. 23. 14, τῆς δωρεᾶς H. 6. 4: on the other hand the acc in Jo. 2. 9 τὸ ὕδωρ, H. 6. 5 θεοῦ ῥῆμα, not a classical but most probably a popular usage. The phrase ἐγώ σου ὀναίμην Philem. 20 (the word only occurs here)³ is derived from the literary language; ἀπολαύειν is unrepresented; φείδομαι always has the gen., but is limited to Luke (A. 20. 29), Paul (R. 8. 32 and passim) and 2 Peter (2. 4 f.).

2. Closely related to a partitive genitive is the gen. with verbs of touching and seizing. Of this we have the following N.T. instances: απτεσθαι Mt. 8. 4 and frequently in the Gospels (in John only in 20. 17 besides 1 Jo. 5. 18; in the Epistles besides the last passage quoted only in 1 C. 7. 4, 2 C. 6. 17 O.T.; never in Acts), καθάπτειν Α. 28. 3, θιγγάνειν (literary language) H. 11. 28, 12. 20; ἐπιλαμβάνεσθαι Μt. 14. 31, Mc. 8. 23, Luke passim, 1 Tim. 6. 12, 19, H. 2. 16, 8, 9 O.T., 'to lay hold on any one (anything)'; also with "the part expressed in the gen., Mc. 8. 23 ἐπιλαβόμενος της χειρὸς τοῦ τυφλού, 4 so that the correct construction is in all cases the gen.; 5 on the other hand, κρατεῖν 'to seize,' 'to hold' (Hellenistic) has the whole in the accus. as in Mt. 14. 3 κρατήσας τὸν Ἰωάνην, and the gen. is confined to the part which one seizes on, Mt. 9. 25 έκράτησε της χειρὸς (την χείρα D) αὐτης, Mc. 1. 31 (not D), 5. 41 (την χείρα D), L. 8. 54 (κρατείν τινά τινόs is not found except in Mc. 9. 27 according to A al., where BD read as in the other passages): in metaphorical sense, 'to hold fast to,' 'lay hold on,' with gen. (probably due to the use of κρατείν 'to get the mastery of' with gen. in the literary language) H. 4. 14, 6. 18. Luke also says πιάσας (vulgar word = $\lambda \alpha \beta \dot{\omega} \nu$) αὐτὸν τῆς χειρός A. 3. 7, like $\lambda \alpha \beta \dot{\omega} \nu$ Πολυξένην χερός Eurip. Hec. 523. In addition to these we have

 $^{^2}$ There is a v.l. in APQ al. γεμίσαι τὴν κοιλίαν αὐτοῦ ἀπό, cp. infra 4.

⁴ The reading of D $\lambda \alpha \beta \delta \mu \epsilon \nu \sigma \tau \gamma \nu \chi \epsilon \tilde{\iota} \rho \alpha \tau \sigma \tilde{\iota} \tau$, is neither in the style of classical (Plato Parmen, ad init. $\tau \hat{\eta} s \chi \epsilon \iota \rho \delta s$) nor N.T. Greek (which never has the middle $\lambda \alpha \mu \beta \acute{\alpha} \nu \epsilon \sigma \theta \alpha \iota$).

4 v. App. p. 312.

- 1 C. 11. 2 f. see § 34, 3); also μνημονεύειν for the most part, but the acc. in Mt. 16. 9 (D is different), Jo. 15. 20 \aleph (τ 0ν λόγον), D (τ 0ι λόγον) instead of τ 0ν λόγον (gen. in 16. 4 [om. \aleph ^{ca}D], 21), 1 Th. 2. 9, 2 Tim. 2. 8, Ap. 18. 5 (Herm. Vis. i. 3. 3, ii. 1. 3): with π ερὶ ('to make mention') H. 11. 22 (15 gen.): classical usage corresponds to this, both cases being used; ἀναμιμνήσκειν and -εσθαι take acc., Mc. 14. 72, 1 C. 4. 17, 2 C. 7. 15, H. 10. 32 (class. acc. and more often gen.); ὑπομιμνήσκειν and -εσθαι take acc. in Jo. 14. 26, 3 Jo. 10 (2 Tim. 2. 14 τ αῦτα ὑπομίμνησκε is different, thể acc. being that of the inner object), gen. in L. 22. 61, and π ερὶ 2 P. 1. 12. Έπιλανθάνεσθαι with gen. only occurs in H. 6. 10, 13. 2 (acc. \aleph *), 16; similarly ἐκλανθ. ibid. 12. 5; ἐπιλανθ. takes acc. in Ph. 3. 14 (as occasionally in classical Greek).
- 7. There are but few remaining instances of the genitive with verbs expressing emotion. The cause of the emotion (after ὀργίζεσθαι, θανμάζειν, ἐλεεῖν etc.) never stands in the gen.; the Hebraic verb σπλαγχνίζεσθαι=ἐλεεῖν (from σπλάγχνα=Φυμπ) probably only appears to be followed by the gen. of the person pitied in Mt. 18. 27 ¹ (elsewhere it takes ἐπί τινα οτ ἐπί τινι, περί τινος). 'Ανέχεσθαι 'to bear with,' however, takes the gen. throughout in the N.T. as elsewhere, ὑμῶν Mt. 17. 17 etc. (in class. Greek also the acc., esp. of the thing: and so in LXX.). Μέλει takes the gen. in 1 C. 9. 9, but DEFG 12. 4, Jo. 10. 13, 12. 6, 1 P. 5. 7 (not unclassical); in A. 18. 17 οὐδὲνπ τούτων τῷ Γαλλίωνι ἔμελεν the construction is probably personal as often in classical Greek (οὐδὲν being nominative and τούτων partitive). Still we have ἐπιμελεῖσθαί τινος L. 10. 34 f., 1 Tim. 3. 5; ἀμελεῖν τινος 1 Tim. 4. 14, H. 2. 3, 8. 9 O.T.; προνοεῖσθαι 1 Tim. 5. 8; μεριμνᾶν Mt. 6. 34 with ἑαντῆς κΒ etc., τὰ ἐαντῆς ΕΚ, perhaps ἑαντῆς should be read from the Lat. sibi (τὰ περὶ ὑμῶν Ph. 2. 20, ὑπέρ τινος 1 C. 12. 25).
- 8. The following verbs of ruling (excelling) take the genitive: άρχειν Mc. 10. 42, R. 15. 12 O.T., κυριεύειν L. 22. 25, R. 6. 9 etc., κατακυριεύειν Mt. 20. 25, Mc. 10. 42 etc. (for κατεξουσιάζειν ibid. vide inf. 10), αθθεντείν 1 Tim. 2. 12, ἡγεμονεύειν, τετραρχείν, ἀνθυπατεύειν L. 2. 2, 3. 1, A. 18. 12 (v.l.), катабичастейы Ja. 2. 6 № ВС al., but ύμαs is read by A like καταβραβεύειν τινά etc., § 34, 1; on κρατείν vide supra 2. But βασιλεύων no longer governs the genitive, except in Mt. 2. 22 της 'Ιουδαίας &B (the rest read ἐπὶ της 'I. as often in the LXX.), elsewhere $(\hat{\epsilon}\pi\hat{\iota} \ \tau\hat{\eta}s \ \gamma\hat{\eta}s \ Ap. 5. 10 = 'on earth')$ it takes $\hat{\epsilon}\pi\hat{\iota} \ \tau\iota\nu a$ L. 1. 33, 19. 14, 27, R. 5. 14, after Hebrew precedent (בַּלֶבֶּה עַלֵּב). On ἡττᾶσθαι see § 37, 4. Verbs denoting excellence: ὑπερβάλλειν τινός E. 3. 19 (so Plat. Gorg. 475 B, the usual classical construction is the acc. or absolute, as in N.T. 2 C. 3. 10, 9. 14), ὑπερέχειν τινός Ph. 2. 3, but $\tau \iota \nu \dot{\alpha}$ (also classical) 4. 7. Here also, therefore, we only find remnants of the old usage; especially is this the case with the gen. of the thing after verbs of accusing etc., of which the only instance which can be adduced is ἐγκαλεῖσθαι στάσεως A. 19. 4c, and this is contrary to Attic usage (ἐγκαλεῖν τινί τι, but τινί τινος in Plutarch Aristid. 10), elsewhere ἐγκ. and κρίνεσθαι (pass.) take περί τινος A. 23. 29, 6 etc. (Attic); for the dat. instead of gen. of the punishment see § 37, 2.—The gen. of price is still used with verbs of buying and selling, thus Mt. 10. 29 ἀσσαρίου πωλεῖται 26. 9, A. 5. 8 etc.; also συμφωνεῖν (to agree) δηναρίου Mt. 20. 13 (but ἐκ δην. τὴν ἡμέραν ibid. 2,¹ as in class. Greek, § 34, 8); we have a periphrasis for this gen. in ἀγοράζειν ἐκ Mt. 27. 7, κτᾶσθαι ἐκ A. 1. 18; see further L. 16. 9 (on the use of ἐν see § 41, 1); a kindred use is ἀξιοῦν (καταξεοῦν) τινος 2 Th. 1. 5, 11, 1 Tim. 5. 17, H. 3. 3, 10. 29; but 'to exchange for' is expressed by ἀλλάξαι τι ἐν R. 1. 23 (after the LXX. Ps. 105. 20), cp. 25 μεταλλάσσειν ἐν, 26 μεταλλ. εἰς (unclassical, although the gen. with μετ. is also absent from classical Greek; in Plat. Tim. 19 A μετ. εἰς means 'to bring over to another place').

9. Of verbs which contain the idea of separation, the following are found with the gen.: ἀπαλλοτριοῦν Ε. 2. 12, 4. 18, ἀποστερεῖσθαι 1 Tim. 6. 5, with v.l. ἀπεστραμμένων ἀπὸ (D^*), cp. 2 Tim. 4. 4, άστοχεῖν 1 Tim. 1. 6 (with περί τι 6. 21, 2 Tim. 2. 18), διαφέρειν 'to differ' Mt. 6. 26 etc., κωλύειν τινά τινος 'to hinder from' (Xenoph. Polyb.) A. 27. 43 (elsewhere κ. τινα, κ. τι, also after Hebrew example κωλύειν τι ἀπό τινος L. 6. 29, 'to refuse,' as in LXX. Gen. 23. 6), λείπεσθαι 'to lack' Ja. 1. 5, 2. 15 (ἐν μηδενί 1. 4 'in no respect'), cp. περισσεύειν τινός, supra 4, παύεσθαι 1 P. 4. 1 πέπαυται άμαρτίας (ibid. 3. 10 O.T. $\pi \alpha \dot{\nu} \epsilon \iota \nu \tau \iota \nu \dot{\alpha} \dot{\alpha} \pi \dot{\alpha}$; $\dot{\alpha} \nu \alpha \pi \alpha \dot{\nu} \epsilon \sigma \theta \alpha \iota \dot{\epsilon} \kappa$ as in class. Greek Ap. 14. 13, κατέπαυσεν [intrans.] ἀπὸ Η. 4. 4 Ο.Τ., 10) ἄρχεσθαί τινος does not occur. ὑστερεῖν 'to be inferior to ' (cp. ὕστερος) 2 C. 11. 5, 12. 11: 'to lack' L. 22. 35: in the same sense ὑστερείσθαι R. 3. 23 (with έν 1 C. 1. 7, cp. supra λείπεσθαι: ὑστερεῖν ἀπὸ 'to remain alienated from '= 'to lose' H. 12. 15 [LXX. Eccl. 6. 2], cp. ἀνυστέρητος ἀπδ Herm. Mand. ix. 4); ἀπέχεσθαι 'to abstain' A. 15. 29, 1 Tim. 4. 3, 1 P. 2. 11 (in A. 15. 20 the reading varies between the simple gen. and ἀπό; with ἀπὸ 1 Th. 4. 3, 5. 22): ἀπέχειν 'to be distant' L. 7. 6 D (v.l. with ἀπὸ, as in 24. 13 etc.); χρήζειν Mt. 6. 32, L. 11. 8 (ὅσων, ὅσον 8°DE al.), 12. 30, R. 16. 2, 2 C. 3. 1. To these may be added δείσθαί τινος 'to ask' Mt. 9. 38, Luke passim (for which $\pi \rho \dot{o}s$ τινα is used in A. 8. 24, cp. εὔχομαι $\pi \rho \dot{o}s$ 2 C. 13. 7, λέγω $\pi \rho \dot{o}s$), 2 C. 8. 4, G. 4. 12; προσδείσθαι 'to need' only in A. 17. 25. Quite peculiar is the use of the gen. in οὐ βραδύνει κύριος της ἐπαγγελίας 2 P. 3. 9, 'hesitates and refrains from accomplishing it.' But in other cases separation is expressed by ἀπό or ἐξ (classical Greek uses the simple gen. as well): with χωρίζειν, λύειν, λυτροῦν, έλευθεροῦν, ούεσθαι, σώζειν, καθαρίζειν, λούειν; with μεθιστάναι L. 16. 4 there are variant readings (ἐκ τῆs οἰκονομίας ×BD, LX with ἀπὸ, APR al. with the simple gen.).¹

10. The following compound verbs take the gen. on the strength of the preposition: ἐκπίπτειν in metaphorical sense (not in the literal) G. 5. 4, 2 P. 3. 17, the remaining instances are all compounds of κατά (with the meaning 'against' or 'down over'; on the other hand, with the meaning 'down,' they take the acc., § 34, 1): καταγελῶν Μt. 9. 24 (D* αὐτόν), Mc. 5. 40, L. 8. 53; καταγινώσκειν 1 Jo. 3. 20 f. (καταδικάζειν τινός is classical, in the N.T. it only takes the acc., Mt. 12. 7, also Ja. 5. 6); κατακανχῶσθαι 'to boast oneself against' R. 11. 18, Ja. 2. 13 (κατακρίνειν always takes the acc.; in Attic τινός); καταλαλεῖν Ja. 4. 11, 1 P. 2. 12 (Clem. Hom. xvi. 8, xix. 7 also has καταλέγειν τίνός 'to revile'); καταμαρτυρεῖν Μt. 26. 62 etc.; καταναρκῶν, a Pauline word, 'to be burdensome to' 2 C. 11. 8, 12. 13; καταστρηνιῶτ to wax wanton against' 1 Tim. 5. 11; καταφρονεῖν Μt. 6. 2 etc.; καταχεῖν 'to pour over' takes the gen. in Mc. 14. 3 accor καταχεῖν 'to pour over' takes the gen. in Mc. 14. 3 accor λετ to sBC al., other Mss. have κατά or ἐπί with gen.: in Mt. 26. λετ to sBC al., other Mss. have κατά or ἐπί with gen.: in Mt. 26. λετ to sBC al., other Mss. have κατά or ἐπί with gen.: in Mt. 26. λετ to sBC al., other Mss. have κατά or ἐπί with gen.: in Mt. 20, '25 = Mc. 10. 42; κατηγορεῖν passim.

11. The use of the gen. as the complement of adjectives and adverbs is also, as contrasted with classical usage, very limited. The following instance with classical usage, very influence. The following instances occur: κοινωνός, συγκοιν, τινος (gen. of the thing) 2 C. 1. 7, 1 P. 5.0, R. 11. 17 (also with the gen. of the person, 'the companion of the person,' the companion of the person, 'the companion of the person,' the person of the person,' the companion of the person,' the person of the person,' the person of the person,' the person of the person o of someone, H. 10. 33, also 1 C. 10. 18, 20; beside which we have κοινωνοὶ τῷ Σίμωνι L. 5. 10 [gen. D], cp. § 37, 3 and κοινωνεῖν, supra 1); [not κοινός τινος, nor ίδιος; Clem. Cor. i. 7. 7 has ἀλλότριοι τοῦ θεοῦ]; μέτοχος Η. 3. 1, 14, 6. 4, 12. 8 (= 'a companion of someone' 1. 9 O.T.; cp. E. 5. 7 ?); σύμμορφος της εἰκόνος R. 8. 29, i.e. 'a bearer of the image, cp. § 37, 6 for the dat. (the gen. is also rare in class. Gk.; Chrys. and Epiph. read in Mt. 5. 45 the gloss ὅμοιοι τοῦ πατρὸς ὑμῶν for νίοὶ); ἀκόλουθα τούτων Herm. Mand. viii. 4. 10

L. 10. 29, 36 and δ πλησίον σου Mt. 5. 43 etc.; έντός L. 17. 21, 1 έκτός 1 C. 6. 18 etc.; εξω Mt. 21. 39 etc. (ἔσω τῆς αὐλῆς Mc. 15. 16, v.l. [DP] ἔσω είς τὴν αὐλήν: the former text, however, means 'again into the palace [see verse 1] within,' and so the gen. is partitive: there are similar variants in 14. 54; 2 C. 4. 16 δ ἔσω $ημ\hat{ω}ν sc. ανθρωπος should be taken like the preceding δ έξω <math>ημ\hat{ω}ν$ α, in the sense of 'our' etc.); ἐπάνω Mt. 5. 14 etc., ὑπεράνω Ε. 4. 10, ὑποκάτω Mc. 6. 11 etc. (not ἄνω, κάτω); ξμπροσθεν Mt. 5. 16 etc., ὅπισθεν Mt. 15. 23, L. 23. 26, όπίσω Mt. 3. 11 etc.; πέραν Mt. 4. 25 etc.; [ἐπέκεινα Α. 7. 43] is a wrong reading]; in addition to these χωρίς μέχρι έως etc., see § 40, 6 ff. Prepositions.—The class of adj. in -ικός, formed from verbs and taking the gen., which is so large in Attic Greek (παρασκευαστικός τινος and the like, Kühner-Gerth ii. 3 p. 371) is almost entirely absent (the only ex. is H. 4. 12 κριτικός ἐνθυμήσεων). We occasionally find verbal adjectives in -τός (in the sense of a perf. part. pass.) taking the gen., as also indeed the perf. part. pass. in its ordinary form, still this is due to the participle becoming a sort of substantive. Like ἀπόστολος Ἰησοῦ (= ὄν ἀπέσταλκεν Ἰησοῦς) one may also say έκλεκτοὶ θεοῦ R. 8. 33, Mt. 24. 31 etc.; ἀγαπητοὶ θεοῦ R. 1. 7; cp. δ άγαπητός μου 16. 5 etc., οἱ άγαπητοὶ ἡμῶν A. 15. 25 (cp. Attie δ έρωμενός τινος); διδακτοὶ θεοῦ Jo. 6. 45 Ö.T., cp. 1 C. 2. 13 οὐκ ἐν διδακτοις άνθρωπίνης σοφίας λόγοις, άλλ' έν διδακτοις πνεύματος, where, if λόγοις be not spurious, διδακτός has kept its adjectival character (cp. Soph. El. 343 απαντα γάρ σοι τάμὰ νουθετήματα κείνης διδακτά, Odyss. ρ 386 κλητοί βροτών); εὐλογημένοι τοῦ πατρός Mt. 25, 34; γεννητοί γυναικών Mt. 11. 11, L. 7. 28 (LXX. Job 14. 1); in κλητοί 'Ιησοῦ, however, in R. 1. 6 the gen. is rather a gen. of the possessor, since the Person who gives the call is God rather than Jesus L. 2. 27.

12. The genitive of comparison with the comparative (and with what remains of the superlative, cp. § 11, 3 ff.) is found as in the classical language; and along with it (though this is much the rarer construction of the two, as it is in the earlier language)³ is used the analytical expression with $\mathring{\eta}$, particularly when the gen. could not well be employed or would not be sufficiently explicit (e.g. with an adj., $\phi\iota\lambda\dot{\eta}\delta\sigma\nuo\iota\,\mu\hat{a}\lambda\lambdao\nu\,\mathring{\eta}\,\phi\iota\lambda\acute{o}\theta\epsilono\iota\,2$ Tim. 3. 4, with a statement of time R. 13. 11, with an infinitive Mt. 19. 24, A. 20. 35 etc., with a gen. $\mathring{\nu}\mu\hat{\omega}\nu\,\mu\hat{a}\lambda\lambdao\nu\,\mathring{\eta}\,\tauo\hat{v}\,\theta\epsilono\hat{v}$ A. 4. 19, also with a dat. as in Mt. 10. 15,

² The gen. in δέσμος τοῦ Χριστοῦ Ε. 3. I (Paul has similar phrases elsewhere) is also equivalent to a gen. with a substantive, see on this phrase Winer § 30, 2, Buttm. p. 147 (E. 4. I has ὁ δέσμος $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ κυρί ω).

3 v. App. p. 329.

A. 5. 29); it is seldom found without some such occasion for it (Jo. 3. 19 ηγάπησαν μαλλον τὸ σκότος η τὸ φῶς, 4. 1 πλείονας μαθητὰς ποιεί η Ἰωάνης 1 Jo. 4. 4, 1 C. 14. 5). In addition to this periphrasis there is the periphrasis by means of a preposition: mapá τινα (cp. classical passages like Thuc. i. 23. 3, which however are not entirely similar, so that the prep. could not be replaced by η ; 2 but in modern Greek παρά or ἀπό is the regular means of expressing comparison) L. 3. 13 πλέον παρά τὸ διατεταγμένον (18. 14 μάλλον παρ' έκείνον D, without μ. BL, other MSS. have the corrupt reading ή γάρ έκείνος). Hebr. passim, 1. 4 διαφορώτερον παρ' αὐτούς, 3. 3, 9. 23, 11. 4, 12. 24, Herm. Vis. iii. 12. 1, Sim. ix. 18. 2 (= more than, without a comparative, § 43, 4); and ὑπέρ τινα (as in the case of παρά, classical Greek only shows the beginnings of this use), L. 16. 8 φρονιμώτεροι ὑπὲρ, Jo. 12. 43 μαλλον ὑπὲρ (ἤπερ ABD al. is corrupt) H. 4. 12, A. 20. 35 v.l. (Herm. Mand. v. 6 has ὑπέρ with the elative; with comparative in elative sense ὑπὲρ πᾶσαν ἀμαρτίαν ἀνομωτέρους Barn. 5. 9; also LXX. e.g. Judges 11. 25, see Winer). The word 'than' is omitted after πλείων and ελάσσων before numerical statements (in Attic πλείν έξακοσίους Aristoph. Av. 1251; Lobeck Phryn. 410 f.; Lat. plus quingentos): A. 4. 22 έτων πλειόνων τεσσεράκοντα, 23. 13, 21, 24. 11, 25. 6, 1 Tim. 5. 9 χήρα μη ἔλαττον ἐτῶν ἐξήκοντα; 4 also L. 9. 13 according to  οὐκ είσὶν ἡμῖν πλείονες (other readings are πλείον ἢ, πλέον ἢ, with stereotyped πλέον, cp. Kühner ii. 847 f.) ἄρτοι πέντε, Mt. 26. 53 πλείους (κ°AC al.; πλείω κ*BD) δώδεκα (κBDL; $\mathring{\eta}$ δ. AC al.) λεγιῶνας (κ°BD al.; -νων κ*AC al.) άγγέλων; instead of πλείων we also have ἐπάνω (vulgar) Mc. 14. 5 πραθηναι έπάνω δηναρίων τριακοσίων, 1 С. 15. 6 έπάνω πεντακοσίοις άδελφοῖς.— Instances of looser employment of the genitive: Mt. 5. 20 ἐἀν μὴ περισσεύση ή δικαιοσύνη υμών πλείον τών ... Φαρισαίων (= than that of the Ph., yours is more in comparison with the Ph.); Jo. 5. 36 έγω έχω την μαρτυρίαν μείζω τοῦ Ἰωάνου, where it is ambiguous whether the meaning is 'than John had,' or 'than that given by John': in the latter sense, however, $\mu\epsilon i \xi \omega \hat{\eta}$ (B al. read $\mu\epsilon i \xi \omega \nu$) $\tau o \hat{\nu}$ 'I. would be better. Περισσός, particularly now that περισσός and -ότερος have come to be used for $\pi\lambda\epsilon i\omega\nu$ (§ 11, 4), takes the gen.: Mt. 5. 37 $\tau\delta$ περισσον τούτων, Ε. 3. 20 ύπερεκπερισσού ων κ.τ.λ.: this, however, is also an old usage.—A stereotyped use of the neut. $\pi \acute{a}\nu \tau \omega \nu$ to intensify the superlative is commonly assumed in Mc. 12. 28 ποία ἐστὶν ἐντολὴ $\pi \rho \omega \tau \eta \pi \dot{\alpha} \nu \tau \omega \nu \ (\pi \alpha \sigma \dot{\omega} \nu \text{ is only read by M*al.}).^a$

13. Local and temporal genitive. There are a few remains of a local gen.: L. 5. 19 ποίας (sc. όδοῦ, 'by which way') εἰσενέγκωσιν,

³ For details see Schwab 84 ff.

^a v. App. p. 312.

19. 4 ἐκείνης (D εκεινη) ημελλεν διέρχεσθαι, which are incorrect, since the gen. in classical Greek denotes the whole area within which something goes on, just as the corresponding temporal gen, denotes the whole period of time within which something happens, 1 Of this temporal use the N.T. has the following examples: χειμώνος Mt. 24. 20 = Mc. 13. 18 'during the winter': $\eta \mu \epsilon \rho as$ Ap. 21. 25 'during the day,' in the day,' with v.l. ήμ. καὶ νυκτός, cp. Mc. 5. 5, L. 18. 7, A. 9. 24 etc. 'in the day as well as by night,' beside which we have νύκτα καὶ ἡμέραν 'all day and night long,' § 34, 8 (but Jo. 11. 9 ἐάν τις περιπατη ἐν τη ἡμέρα 'by day,' cp. § 38. 4; διὰ της ήμέρας 'in the course of this day,' L. 9. 37 D): νυκτός Mt. 2. 14 etc., της ν. L. 2. 8 ('in this night'), for which we have διὰ νυκτός A. 5. 10 (v.l. διὰ τ. ν.), 16. 9, 17. 10, 23. 31, like per noctem; τεσσεράκοντα ήμερων D* A. 1. 3 for δι' ήμ. τέσσ. of B etc. and with equivalent sense ('during' i.e. 'at intervals in that time,' see § 42, 1); ἡμέρας μέσης A. 26, 13, μέσης νυκτός Mt. 25, 6, μεσονυκτίου, άλεκτοροφωνίας Mc. 13. 35 (μεσονύκτιον BC al., cp. § 34, 8), ὄρθρου βαθέως L. 24. 1 (all these denoting a space of time, 'the middle part of the day' etc., not 'a moment of time'), τοῦ λοιποῦ (sc. χρόνου) G. 6. 17, E. 6. 10 κ*AB 'henceforth' (classical; a stereotyped phrase). With an adverb: δὶς τοῦ σαββάτου L. 18. 12 ('twice in the week'), ἄπαξ τοῦ ένιαυτοῦ H. 9. 7, as in classical Greek. (§ 35, 4).

§ 37. DATIVE.

1. In the use of the Greek dative a distinction must be made between the pure dative, which expresses the person more remotely concerned, the instrumental dative (and dative of accompaniment), and, thirdly, the local dative. Still this triple division cannot be applied with absolute clearness and certainty to all the existing usages. The functions of this case were in large measure, more so than those of the accusative and genitive, usurped by different prepositions, particularly $\hat{\epsilon}\nu$ and $\hat{\epsilon}$'s; connected with this and with the disappearance of the use of the dative after prepositions, is the subsequent loss of the dative in modern Greek and the substitution for it of $\hat{\epsilon}$'s with the accusative. In the N.T., however, the case is still very largely employed.

On the use of the dative as the necessary complement of the verb the following points may be noted. To give, to promise etc.: there is hardly any tendency to supplant the dat. (δεδομένον ἐν..., § 41, 2; Herm. Vis. i. 4. 8 εἰς τὸ θηρίον ἐμαυτὸν ἔδωκα; iii. 11. 3 παρεδώκατε ἐαυτοὺς εἰς τὰς ἀκηδίας is different, where εἰς expresses the result, as in the N.T., R. 1. 24 etc. [although the dat. is found beside εἰς in E. 4. 19]; παραδ. εἰς συνέδρια Mt. 10. 17 etc. is also justifiable). To do good etc., to be profitable, to injure: dat. and acc. see § 34, 1 and 4;

έν is also used in place of the dat., ibid. 4: συμφέρειν always takes the dat., Mt. 5. 29 etc. Το serve (δουλεύειν λατρεύειν διακονείν ὑπηρετείν) always takes the dat.; also δουλοῦν 'to make a servant' 1 C. 9. 10: on δουλοῦσθαι pass. vide infra 4; προσκυνεῖν etc. take dat. and acc. § 34, 1; προσκ. ἐνώπιόν τινος L. 4. 7, Ap. 15. 4 is Hebraic, § 40, 7; so also ἀρέσκειν (elsewhere with τινί, like ἀρκείν and the adjectives άρεστός, άρκετός, ίκανός etc.) ενώπιον τινος A. 6. 5, άρεστὸς ενώπ. τινος 1 Jo. 3. 22. To show, to reveal take dat. always (φαίνειν 'to give light' Ap. 21. 23 [with ἐν κ], ἐπιφαίνειν L. 1. 79), as also 'to seem' (δοκεῖν, φαίνεσθαι); on φανεροῦν έν and the like see § 41, 2. To say to is expressed, as in classical Greek, by τινί or πρός τινα: εξικέσθαι takes dat. A. 26. 29, and πρός τινα 2 C. 13. 7, προσεύχεσθαι dat. only, Mt. 6. 6. 1 C. 11. 13. To write, to announce take dat.; more striking and isolated cases of the dat. with verbs of speaking are: ἀπολογείσθαι τώ $\delta \eta \mu \omega$ A. 19. 33, so 2 C. 12. 19 (Lucian, Plut.) 'before or in the presence of anyone, ἀποτάσσεσθαι 'to say farewell' Mc. 6. 46 etc. (Hellenistic, Phryn. Lob. 23 f.); καυχᾶσθαι 'to boast of before' 2 C. 7. 14, 9. 2; δμολογείν τινι Η. 13. 15, τῷ ὀνόματι αὐτοῦ 'to praise,' like έξομολογείσθαι, ἀνθομολ., R. 14. 11 O.T., Mt. 11. 25, L. 2. 38, 10. 21 (so also αἰνεῖτε τῷ θεῷ Ap. 19. 5, like LXX. Jerem. 20. 13 etc., Buttm. 153 note); 'to confess before anyone,' 'to anyone' A. 24. 14, Mt. 7. 23 (= 'to promise' A. 7. 17, with v.l. ωμοσεν and επηγγείλατο D; Mt. 14.7; on $\delta\mu$ ol. $\epsilon\nu$ see $\S41,2$); ψεύδεσθαί $\tau\iota\nu\iota$ A. 5.4 (LXX.; ibid. 3 τινα 'to deceive,' as in classical Greek). To blame etc.: ἐπιτιμῶν, • έγκαλεῖν take dat. (ἐγκ. κατά τινος R. 8. 33), καταρᾶσθαι and μέμφεσθαι take the dat. as a doubtful v.l., \S 34, 2; ibid. on παραινεῖν εὐαγγελίζεσθαι; ἐπιτάσσειν προστάσσειν διαστέλλεσθαι etc. take dat.: also κελεύειν Ev. Petr. 47. 49, Herm. Sim. viii. 2. 8.—Πείθεσθαι, ύπακούειν, απιστείν, απειθείν take the usual dat.; but πεποιθέναι 'to trust in' besides the dat. (as in Ph. 1. 14) more often takes έν τινι, έπί τινι or τινα, είς τινα, and so πιστεύειν: with τινι passim, even in the sense 'to believe in,' as in A. 5. 14, 18. 8 τῷ κυρίω; with prep. 'to believe in': ἔν τινι only in Mc. 1. 15 πιστεύετε ἐν τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ, 1 έπί τινι 1 Tim. 1. 16, L. 24. 25 (πιστ. om. D), Mt. 27. 42 EF al. (κΒL ἐπ' αὐτόν, AD αὐτῷ), R. Θ. 33 al. Ο.Τ., ἐπί τινα Α. Θ. 42 etc., είς τινα, είς τὸ ὄνομά τινος etc, which is the commonest construction. Cp. Buttmann, p. 150 f.2—To be angry (also ἐμβριμᾶσθαι Mt. 9. 30 etc.; μετριοπαθείν τινι H. 5. 2; on μέμφεσθαι, § 34. 2), to envy take the usual dat.; also to thank, to owe etc. - The adjectives belonging to these verbs are subjoined: ωφέλιμος Tit. 3. 8 (σύμφορον or συμφέρον is used substantivally with a gen., 1 C. 7. 35, 10. 33; σωτήριος τινι Tit. 2 11), άρεστος άρκετος ίκανος vide supra; φανερός A. 7. 13, 1 Tim. 4. 15 (v.l. with έν), ἐμφανής Α. 10. 40, R. 10. 20 O.T., ὑπήκοος A. 7. 39, πιστὸς τῷ κυρίω A. 16. 15, cp. H. 3. 2

^{&#}x27; Jo. 3. 15 is different, where if $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ $a\dot{v}\tau\hat{\omega}$ (B) is correct it must be taken in connection with $\dot{\epsilon}\chi\eta$ $\dot{\xi}\omega\dot{\eta}\nu$.

^a v. App. p. 312.

- (1 P. 1. 21 εἰς θεόν AB, but \mathbf{R}° al. read πιστεύοντας; generally absolute), ἀπειθής A. 26. 19 etc. (ἄπιστος absolute), ἐναντίος Mc. 6. 48 etc. (with πρός τι A. 26. 9); to these may be added the substantive ὀφειλέτης εἰμί τινι R. 1. 14, 8. 12 (with gen. 15. 27 etc.).
- 2. The dative is used in a looser manner (as in classical Greek) with various verbs to denote the person whose interest is affected (dativus commodi et incommodi). Μαρτυρείν τινι 'for anyone' L. 4. 22 etc., also 'against anyone' Mt. 23. 31 μαρτυρείτε έαυτοίς. ['Ανα]πληρούται αὐτοῖς (D al. ἐπ' αὐτοῖς) ἡ προφητεία Mt. 13. 14, cp. L. 18. 31 (D has π ερὶ with gen.). "Εκρινα έμαυτῷ τοῦτο 2 C. 2. r 'for myself,' cp. Herm. Mand. xii. 4. 6 σεαυτῷ κέκρικας τοῦ μὴ δύνασθαι τὰς έντολὰς ταύτας φυλαχθηναι. Also μη μεριμνατε τη $\dot{\psi}$ υχη \dot{v} μων – τ $\dot{\phi}$ σώματι ύμων Mt. 6. 25 (L. 12. 22), 'for the life—for the body' (other constructions in § 36, 7); and most probably Ap. 8. 4 ταίς προσευχαίς, cp. 3 (Winer, § 31, 6). The peculiar Pauline employment of the dat. in the following passages is not quite the same as in the last instances: R. 6. 10 δ $\tilde{a}\pi\epsilon\hat{\theta}a\nu\epsilon\nu$, $\tau\hat{\eta}$ $\tilde{a}\mu a\rho\tau i q$ $\tilde{a}\pi\epsilon\hat{\theta}a\nu\epsilon\nu$, \tilde{b} $\delta\hat{\epsilon}$ $ξ\hat{η}$, $ξ\hat{η}$ $τ\hat{φ}$ $θε\hat{φ}$, then in verse 11 νεκρούς μεν $τ\hat{η}$ δμ., $ξ\hat{ω}ντας$ δε $au \hat{\psi} \theta \epsilon \hat{\psi}$, 14. 7 f. οὐδεὶς έαυτ $\hat{\psi}$ ξ $\hat{\eta}$, καὶ οὐδεὶς έαυτ $\hat{\psi}$ ἀποθνήσκει έάν τε γὰρ ζῶμεν, τῷ κυρίῳ ζῶμεν, ἐάν τε ἀποθνήσκωμεν, τῷ κ. ἀποθνήσκομεν, from which the conclusion is drawn that in every case τοῦ κυρίου ἐσμέν; cp. further 6. 2, 7. 4 ἐθανατώθητε τῷ νόμω - είς το γενέσθαι ύμᾶς έτερω κ.τ.λ., 2 C. 5. 15, G. 2. 19, 1 P. 2. 24; the dative therefore expresses the possessor, cp. the dat. with $\gamma i \nu \epsilon \sigma \theta \alpha i$ infra 3. Further instances: 2 C. 5. 13 εἴτε γὰρ ἐξέστημεν, θεῷ ('it concerns God alone'), εἴτε σωφρονοῦμεν, υμίν ('in your interest'): R. 14. 4 τω ίδιω κυρίω στήκει ή πίπτει, 6 δ φρονών την ήμεραν κυρίω φρονεί και ὁ έσθίων κυρίω έσθίει εύχαριστεί $\gamma \dot{\alpha} \rho \ \tau \hat{\omega} \ \theta \epsilon \hat{\omega} \ \kappa.\tau.\lambda. \ i.e.$ eating etc. is a matter in which God is concerned, which takes place for Him (for His honour). Cp. also the O.T. quotation ibid. 11 έμοι κάμψει πῶν γόνυ, with which may be connected the use of $\pi \rho o \sigma \kappa \nu \nu \epsilon \hat{\nu} \tau \nu \nu i$ (§ 34, 1). A peculiar use is that in Mc. 10. 33 κατακρινοῦσιν αὐτὸν θανάτ $(-ov D^*) = Mt. 20. 18$ (here read by CD al., είς θάνατον Ν, B omits the noun), according to Winer, § 31, 1 = 'to sentence to death,' cp. instances from late writers like Diod. Sic. in Lob. Phryn. 475, 2 P. 2. 6 (σταυρώ Clem. Hom. Epit. i. 145); it may be influenced by the analogy of θανάτω ζημιοῦν and the Latin capite damnare.
- 3. The dat. with εἶναι, γίνεσθαι (ὑπάρχειν in Acts and 2 P. 1. 8) denotes the possessor, so that it corresponds to 'to have' or 'get' with an altered construction: οὐκ ἢν αὐτοῖς τόπος 'they had no room' L. 2. 7, ἐγίνετο πάση ψυχŷ φόβος 'all experienced and continued to feel a fright' A. 2. 43, a common construction, as also in classical Greek, used where the possessor is previously known and the emphasis is laid not on him but on the thing which falls to his lot (on the other hand with a gen. αὕτη ἡ οἰκία Σωκράτους ἐστίν 'the house [which is previously known] belongs to Socrates,' cp. R. 14. 8 etc.); but we also have R. 7. 3 ἐὰν γένηται ἀνδρὶ ἑτέρφ, 4 εἰς τὸ γενέσθαι ὑμᾶς ἑτέρφ (a Hebraism, modelled on).

LXX. Lev. 22. 12 etc.), A. 2. 39 υμιν έστιν ή έπαγγελία, due no doubt to έπαγγέλλεσθαί τινί, L. 12. 20 α ήτοίμασας, τίνι έσται (sc. ήτοιμασμένα ?, but D has τίνος). Correctly in A. 21. 23 εἰσὶν ἡμῖν δώδεκα ανδρες 'we have here'; Mt. 19. 27 τί έσται ἡμίν. On the model of ἔστιν συνήθεια ύμιν Jo. 18. 39 we have also κατά τὸ εἰωθὸς αὐτῶ L. 4. 16 (αὐτῶ om. D), A. 17. 2 (ὁ Παῦλος D) ? 1 Of time: A. 24. 11 ού πλείους είσι μοι ἡμέραι δώδεκα ἀφ' ής. Also with the meaning 'to happen' Mt. 16. 22 οὐ μὴ ἔσται σοι τοῦτο, L. 1. 45, cp. the dat. with συμβαίνει Mc. 10. 32 etc., and with ellipse of the verb L. 1. 43 πόθεν μοι τοῦτο. The opposite meaning appears in $\tilde{\epsilon}\nu$ σοι λείπει L. 18. 22, Tit. 3. 12 (Polyb. 10, 18, 8), cp. the use with $\iota \sigma \tau \epsilon \rho \epsilon \hat{\iota} \nu$, a v.l. in Mc. 10. 21, § 34, 1.—The relation expressed is different, if ἐστί with the dat. only forms a part of the predicate: the idea of possession is then at any rate not in all cases apparent. A. 9. 15 σκεῦος ἐκλογῆς έστί μοι οδτος means 'I have in him' etc.; but 1 C. 1. 18 ὁ λόγος τοῦ σταυροῦ τοῖς μὲν ἀπολλυμένοις μωρία ἐστίν = 'is folly to them,' 'passes for folly with them, cp. 2. 14 f., Mt. 18, 17; also with the meaning 'it redounds to his 'etc., 1 C. 11. 14 f. ἀτιμία αὐτῷ ἐστι (= 'he gets dishonour therefrom'), whereas 14. 22 els $\sigma\eta\mu\hat{\epsilon}\hat{l}\sigma\nu$ $\epsilon\hat{l}\sigma\nu$ $\tau\hat{o}\hat{i}s$ $\kappa.\tau.\lambda$. means 'are there for,' 'serve for' (cp. Ja. 5. 3).—With adjectives: καλόν σοί ἐστιν 'is good for thee' Mt. 18. 8 etc. (='thou derivest profit therefrom'), A. 19. 31 οντες αὐτῷ φίλοι 'who had Paul for a friend' (φίλος in itself as a substantive regularly takes the gen.: οὐκ εί φίλος του Καίσαρος Jo. 19. 12; similarly έχθρός), ήσαν κοινωνοί τώ Σίμωνι L. 5. 10, 'S. had them for partners' (D ησαν δε κ. αὐτοῦ, cp. H. 10. 33). With an adverb: ὁσίως ... ὑμῖν ἐγενήθημεν 1 Th. 2. 10 (§ 76, 1); οὐαί μοί ἐστιν 1. C. 9. 16, elsewhere frequently οὐαί τινι without a verb, Mt. 11. 21 etc.: in the Apocalypse it takes an acc. in 8. 13 NB, 12. 12 NACP, cp. Latin vue me and mihi; Buttm. p. 134. -The following are equivalent to datives with elva: 1 C. 7 28 $\theta \lambda \hat{i} \psi \iota \nu \tau \hat{\eta} \sigma \alpha \rho \kappa \hat{i}$ ('for the flesh'; with $\hat{\epsilon} \nu D^*FG$) $\tilde{\epsilon} \xi \nu \nu \nu$; 2. C. 2. 13 οὐκ ἔσχηκα ἄνεσιν τῷ πνεύματί μου (with ellipse of the verb G. 5. 13); in conjunction with another dat. 2 C. 12. 7 εδόθη μοι σκόλοψ τή σαρκί; further instances occur with εύρίσκειν, Mt. 11. 29 εύρήσετε ἀνάπαυσιν ται̂ς ψυχαι̂ς ὑμῶν, R. 7. 10, 21, 2 C. 12. 20, Ap. 20. 11; with κινείν στάσεις A. 24. 5; with ἀγοράζειν ἀγρὸν είς ταφήν Mt. 27. 7 (as one might say ἔστιν ἐνταῦθα ταφὴ τοῖς ξένοις); with an adjective, μονογενής τη μητρί L. 7. 12 (cp. LXX. Win. § 31, 3).

4. Not far removed from the use of the dat. with $\epsilon l \nu a \iota$ is its use with the perfect passive = $\dot{\nu}\pi \dot{o}$ with a gen.: $\pi \dot{\epsilon}\pi \rho a \kappa \tau a \dot{\iota}$ $\mu o \iota$ $\tau o \dot{\nu} \tau o$ in N.T. L. 23. 15.2 The other N.T. instances, however, of the dat. with passive verbs are connected with the particular sense in which the verb is used. In classical Greek we have $\phi a \dot{\iota} \nu \epsilon a \dot{\iota} \nu \iota$ ito appear' corresponding to $\phi a \dot{\iota} \nu \epsilon \iota \nu \iota$ ito shine,' 'give light' (supra 1), and so in the N.T. in addition to φαίνεσθαι, φανεροῦσθαι we have also ὀπτάνεσθαί τινι (aor. ὀφθῆναι) 'to appear' with the same construction ($\ddot{o}\phi\theta\eta\tau i$ $\mu\sigma i$ is found already in Eurip. Bacch. 914; Hebr. אָל with כָּרָאָה or בֹ, Syr. with בווא with בווא את אווא את אווא אווא אווא אווא איל A. 1. 3 and passim, not to be explained as equivalent to ὀφθηναι ὑπό τινος (in A. 7. 26 ω θη αὐτοῖς is rather supervenit than apparuit). Cp. § 54, 4. So too $\theta \epsilon a \theta \hat{\eta} \nu a \tau \hat{\sigma} \hat{s} \hat{a} \nu \theta \rho \hat{\omega} \pi \hat{\sigma} \hat{s}$ Mt. 6. 1, 23. 5, and more frequently $\gamma \nu \omega \sigma \theta \hat{\eta} \nu a \hat{\tau}$ to become known, A. 9. 24 etc., § 54, 4 \(^1\) (but έγνωσται ὑτὸ αὐτοῦ 1 C. 8. 3, 'has been recognised by God,' cp. G. 4. 9), εὑρεθῆναι only in R. 10. 20 O.T. (there is a v.l with ἐν, but the Hebrew in Isaiah 65. r has $\stackrel{7}{\varsigma}$).² We have further γαμεῖσθαί τινι of the woman (as in Att.) 1 C. 7. 39 (but cp. § 24 γαμείν), μνηστεύεσθαί τινι Mt. 1. 18, and πείθεσθαι as in Attic; Ja. 3. 7 δαμάζεται καὶ δεδάμασται τη φύσει τη ανθρωπίνη is ambiguous (δαμήναί τινι is Homeric, but here the dat is rather instrumental), in 2 P. 2, 19 & τις ηττηται, τούτω καὶ δεδούλωται (δουλοῦν τινι) the relative most probably means 'whereby,' since ἡττῶν in Hellenistic Greek is an active verb and may form an ordinary passive. 3 On συνεφωνήθη A. 5. 9 vide infra 6, page 114, note 1.

² D has οὐδὲν ἄξιον βανάτου πεπραγμένον ἐστὶν ἐν αὐτῷ, c invenimus in illo. Perhaps the right reading is ἐστὶν ἐν αὐτῷ without πεπρ., cp. A. 25. 5.

- 5. To the dative expressing the weakest connection, the so-called ethic dative, may be referred Ap. 2. 5 (cp. 16) ἔρχομαί σοι, unless rather the dative, as in Mt. 21. 5 O.T. ἔρχεταί σοι, is an incorrect rendering of the Hebrew 72. Cp. Buttm. 155 f. Another Hebraism is ἀστείος τῷ θεῷ Α. 7. 20, like LXX. Jonah 3. 3 πόλις μεγάλη τῷ θεῷ (בֹאלֹדִים), i.e. 'very great,' whereas 2 P. 3. 14 ἄσπιλοι καὶ ἀμώμητοι αὐτῷ (God) εὐρεθῆναι probably rather contains the dat. denoting possession, cp. supra 3; ⁴ Barn. 8. 4 μεγάλοι τῷ θεῷ 'for God,' 'in God's sight.' Another case of assimilation to Hebrew is seen in the fact that the classical use of dat. μοι in addresses (ὧ τέκνον μοι, ὧ Πρώταρχέ μοι) has disappeared and its place been taken by the gen.: τέκνον μου 2 Tim. 2. 1, τέκνα μου G. 4. 19, τεκνία μου 1 Jo. 2. 1 (in 3. 18 as a v.l., AB al. read without $\mu o v$, which is the ordinary usage; with παιδία the pronoun never occurs), πάτερ ήμῶν Mt. 6. 9 (elsewhere πάτερ without pron., as the LXX. also translates the Hebr. Τος. Gen. 22. 7 etc.).
- 6. Dative of community.—This dative, which is related to the instrumental dat. (= dat. of accompaniment or association), is frequently found with akodouber (συνακ.; with συνέπεσθαι only in A. 20. 4. with επεσθαι nowhere), beside the Hebraic ἀκ. ὀπίσω τινός Mt. 10. 38, Mc. 8. 34 v.l. I, though we also have $\epsilon i s \tau \eta \nu \kappa \omega \mu \eta \nu L$. 24, 28; with $\epsilon \pi i$ 10. The verbs compounded with σύν which govern a dative are very numerous, such as $\sigma v \gamma \kappa a \theta \hat{\eta} \sigma \theta a A$. 26. 30 (with $\mu \epsilon \tau a$ in Mc. 14. 54, but D has $\kappa \alpha \theta \dot{\eta} \mu \epsilon \nu \sigma s$), $\sigma \nu \gamma \kappa \alpha \kappa \sigma \pi \alpha \theta \epsilon \hat{\nu} 2$ Tim. 1. 8, συγκακουχείσθαι Η. 11. 25, συγκατατίθεσθαι L. 23. 51, συναντιλαμβάνεσθαι R. 8. 26 (but with v.l. gen., § 36, 2), L. 10. 40 (D ἀντιλ. with gen.), ὁ λόγος οὐκ ἀφέλησεν ἐκείνους μὴ στιγκεκερασμένος τῆ πίστει (instrum.) τοῖς ἀκούσασιν (v.l. -ομένους ... ἀκουο θεῖσιν) Η. 4. 2 etc. (some few also take μετά as συλλαλείν in Mt. 17. 3, A. 25. 12, but dat. in Mc. 9. 4 etc., προς άλλήλους L. 4. 36; συμφωνείν μετά Mt. 20. 2, but dat. in 13 and elsewhere); 1 a peculiar and unclassical instance is συνέρχεσθαί τινι A. 1. 21 etc., 'to go with someone.'-Of adjectives the following deserve special mention: δμοιος (with gen.? § 36, 11), δ αὐτός (ξν καὶ τὸ αὐτό) only in 1 C. 11. 5; τσος Mt. 20. 12 etc. (for the dat. we have a periphrasis with ώς και in A. 11. 17; ὁ αὐτός with καθώς καὶ 1 Th. 2. 14, or with οίος Ph. 1. 30);3 of compounds with σύν we have σύμμορφός τινι Ph. 3. 21 (gen. of the thing possessed in R. 8. 29 της εἰκόνος, see § 36, 11; for classical parallels Matthiae Gr. 864), σύμφυτος τῷ δμοιώματι τοῦ θανάτου αὐτοῦ R. 6. 5;4 but the remaining compounds of σύν are made into substantives (like φίλος etc.) and take a gen.,

¹ There is a peculiar use in A. 5. 9 συνεφωνήθη ὑμῶν convenit inter vos; cp. a late author quoted by Stobaeus, Flor. 39, 32 συνεφώνησε τοῖς δήμοις, 'the communities agreed.'

² Besides expressing the similar person or thing, the dat. may also express the possessor of the similar thing (Homer κόμαι Χαρίτεσσιν ὁμαῖαι): Ap. 9. 10 ξχουσιν οὐρὰς ὁμοίας σκορπίοις, 13. 11; similarly τοῖς ἰσότιμον ἡμῖν πίστιν λαχοῦσιν 2 P. 1. 1, Buttm. p. 454.

³ In a quotation in R. 9. 29 we have ώς Γόμορρα αν ώμοιώθημεν.

7. A great number of verbs (and adjectives) compounded with other prepositions besides σύν govern the dative, while the sentence may also be completed by the use of a preposition; in general there is this distinction made (as occasionally in classical Greek and in Latin), that the preposition is used where the verb has its literal meaning, and the dative where it has a figurative sense. following compounds of εν regularly take a preposition: εμβαίνειν, έμβιβάζειν, έμβάλλειν, έμβάπτειν, έμπίπτειν; the following regularly take the dative: έγκαλεῖν (supra 1), έμμαίνεσθαι (A. 26. 11), έμπαίζειν. έντυγχάνειν ('to entreat'; with πρός in Herm. Sim. ii. 8), but we also have $\frac{\partial \mu}{\partial \lambda} = \frac{\partial sometimes the dat., sometimes a preposition: ἐγκεντρίζειν R. 11. 24 είς καλλιέλαιον, τη ιδία έλαία, εμμένειν with dat. in A. 14. 22, G. 3. 10 O.T. 8*B (with έν al. and LXX.), with έν H. 8. 9 O.T., έμπτύειν. Compounds of eis almost always take a prep. (εἰσέρχεσθαι εἰς etc.) "; with έπι cp. the following exx.: ἐπιβάλλειν ἐπὶ ἱματιφ (-ιον) Mt. 9. 16 L. 5. 36; similarly ἐπιβάλλειν τὰς χείρας takes ἐπί, except in A. 4. 3 where it has the dat. (D is different); ἐπιτιθέναι τὴν χειρά τινι and $\epsilon \pi i \tau \nu a$ occur: elsewhere the prep. preponderates where this verb is used in the literal sense, as in ἐπὶ τοὺς ωμους Mt. 23. 4 (Jo. 19 2 τῆ κεφαλή, but A has έπὶ τὴν κεφαλήν; L. 23. 26 αὐτῷ τὸν σταυρόν), and the dat. with the figurative sense, ὄνομα Mc. 3. 16 f., cp. ἐπικαλεῖν τινι ὄνομα (the classical ἐπονομάζειν is similarly used) Mt. 10. 25 B* and Buttm. p. 132, βάρος A. 15. 28, πληγάς 16. 23; ἐπιτίθεσθαι 'to lay hands on' 18. 10, with the idea of presenting 28. 101 (the prep. only occurs in Ap. 22. 18 έ \acute{a} ν τις έ π ι $\acute{\theta}$ $\hat{\eta}$ έ π ' aἐτά ['adds to'], έ π ι $\dot{\theta}$ ήσει $\dot{\delta}$ θέ $\dot{\delta}$ s έπ' αὐτ $\dot{\delta}$ ν τὰς πληγάς); έφίστασθαι takes dat. and έπί, etc. Compounds of παρά: παρατιθέναι τινί is used (not so much 'beside anyone' as 'for anyone'), and $\pi \alpha \rho \alpha \tau i \theta \epsilon \sigma \theta \alpha \iota$ 'to commend' takes the same construction; παρεδρεύειν (v.l. προσ.) τῷ θυσιαστηρίω (fig.) 1 C. 9. 13, and from this is derived the use with the adj. τὸ εὐπάρεδρον (v.l. εὐπρόσ.) τῷ κυρίφ 7. 35, which is more striking because this adj. takes the place of a substantive (Kühner-Gerth ii.3 426 f.); also with dat. παρέχειν, παριστάναι, παρίστασθαι (even in the literal sense e.g. A. 1. 10, 9. 39); παρείναι usually takes a prep. (πρὸς ὑμᾶς 2 C. 11. 8), · but the dat. where the verb is used metaphorically 2 P. 1. 9 (and 8 according to A); παραμένειν τινί (Deal. συμπ.) Ph. 1. 25 (also the adj. παράμονός τινι [dat. of thing] Herm. Sim. ix. 23. 3). With περί we have: περιτιθέναι with dat., περιβάλλειν L. 19. 43 (on περιβ. τινά τι

Mt. 6. 33 etc., H. 12. 19; προσέρχεσθαι regularly takes the dat. of the person, also θρόνω, ορει H. 4. 16, 12. 18, 22; the following also take the dat. προσέχειν (e.g. έαυτω), προσκαρτερείν, προσκλίνεσθαι (fig.); and with the literal sense προσπίπτειν (Mt. 7.251* etc.; only in Mc. 7. 25 προς τους πόδας αὐτού), προσφέρειν (πρὸς τὸν—Η. 5. 7, here plainly in figurative sense); προσκυλίειν λίθον τη θύρα Mt. 27. 60 (A has ἐπλ, so ἐπλ τὴν θ. Mc. 15. 46); προσφωνείν τινι Mt. 11. 16, A. 22. 2 (D omits αὐτοῖς) etc., or transitively with τινά 'to summon' L. 6. 13 (D ἐφώνησεν), A. 11. 2 D (L. 23. 20 D αὐτούς, 8B αὐτοῖς, absolute verb A al.). -With compounds of aut the dat is the prevailing construction (ἀνθίστασθαι, ἀντιλέγειν, ἀντικεῖσθαι, ἀντιπίπτειν etc.; rarely πρός τινα, as ἀνταγωνίζεσθαι πρὸς H. 12. 4), and the same holds good of compounds of ὑπό, with which prep. as with ἀντί the literal meaning becomes obliterated (ὑποτάσσειν τινί, only in quotations do we have ύπὸ τοὺς πόδας οι ὑποκάτω τῶν ποδῶν 1 C. 15. 27, Η. 2. 8; ὑποτίθεσθαι 1 Tim. 4. 6 'to advise'; ὑπάρχειν, ὑπακούειν); with ἀνά we have ἀνα- $\tau i\theta \epsilon \sigma \theta \alpha i \ (\pi \rho o \sigma a \nu a \tau.) \ \tau i \nu i$ 'to lay a case before someone' A. 25. 14 etc.—A substantive is also found with a dat. (cp. supra 6) in 2 C. 11. 28 ή ἐπίστασίς μοι ή καθ' ἡμέραν κ*BFG, but the text can hardly be correct (8°D al. µov, Latt. in me)

§ 38. CONTINUATION: INSTRUMENTAL AND TEMPORAL DATIVE.

1. The dative as the instrumental case is found in the N.T. as in classical Greek, but this use is considerably limited by the employment of the periphrasis with èv. The latter usage is by no means foreign to the Greek language (Kühner-Gerth ii.³ 464 f.); for the N.T. writers, however, it is the Hebrew → which has set the example of this construction,² and for this reason the frequency with which it occurs differs with the individual writers: in the second half of the Acts (13-28) the usage is rare and never a prominent feature,³ while

^{1 &#}x27;To add to the community' is expressed in A. 2. 47 by $\tau \hat{\eta}$ ἐκκλησία EP (D ἐν $\tau \hat{\eta}$ ἐ.), the other MSS. make the verb absolute as it is in 41 and in 5. 14; with the same meaning in 11. 24 we have $\tau \hat{\varphi}$ κυρί φ , which however B*, no doubt rightly, omits; 'to be gathered to his fathers' is expressed by $\pi \rho \delta s$ in 13. 36.

² In modern Greek, in which the dative is wanting, the instrumental case is expressed by $\mu\epsilon\tau\delta$ ($\mu\dot{\epsilon}$), this use of $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ having disappeared.

the reverse is the case in the Apocalypse.-Examples: with the sword, by the sword (to strike, to perish etc.) ἐν μαχαίρη οτ ῥομφαία Mt. 26. 52, L. 22. 49, Ap. 2. 16, 6. 8, 13. 10, 19. 21, εν φόνω μαχαίρης H. 11. 37, μαχαίρη without έν A. 12. 2, στόματι μαχαίρης L. 21. 24. Το season with salt: ἄλατι Col. 4. 6, ἀλίζειν πυρί (ἀλί) Mc. 9. 50 modelled on O.T., but ἐν τίνι άλισθήσεται τὸ άλας Mt. 5. 13, Mc. 9. 50, L. 14. 34. To consume with fire etc. is ἐν πυρί 1 in Ap. 14. 10, 16. 8, 17. 16 (without èv BBP), 18. 8 (for merely 'to burn with fire' even the Apocalypse uses $\pi \nu \rho i$ καίεσθαι, 8. 8, 21. 8), $\pi \nu \rho i$ in Mt. 3. 12, To baptize with ' is usually expressed by ἐν ὕδατι or έν πνεύματι; Luke however has ὕδατι in 3. 16 (with έν in D, in the same passage all MSS. have έν πνεύματι in the opposing clause), A. 1. 5 (but έν πνεύματι ibid.), 11. 16 (with έν πν.; but χρίειν πνεύματι 10. 38). With δικαιοῦν δικαιοῦσθαι the dat. is found as in R. 3. 28 πίστει, but also έν, έν νόμφ G. 5. 4, A. 13. 39, έν τῷ αἴματι τοῦ χρ R. 5. 9 ($\epsilon \kappa \pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon \omega s$ 5. 1 etc.). On the use of $\epsilon \nu$ to denote the personal agent, which cannot be expressed by the dat., see § 41, 1; on the Hebraic periphrases for the person with $\chi \epsilon i \rho$ and $\sigma \tau i \mu a \S 40$, 9. Μετρείν εν τινι and τινι are used for 'to measure by' Mt. 7. 2, Mc. 4. 24, 2 C. 10. 12^2 ($\epsilon \nu$), L. 6. 38 (dat.); also 'to measure with,' Ap. 11. 1, 21. 16 (ἐν) καλάμφ. The N.T. also has μεθύσκεσθαι οἴνφ (E. 5. 18, like LXX. Prov. 4. 17), not of vov the Attic construction; similarly πληροῦν τινι or (Ε. 6. 18) ἔν τινι, with anything (the dat. is occasionally used in class. Gk., in Eurip. Bacch. 18 with $\pi\lambda\eta\rho\eta_s$, in Herc. Fur. 372 and Aesch. Sept. 464 with πληροῦν), besides the gen. for which see § 36, 4; cp. also ὑπερπερισσεύομαι τῆ χαρά (ἐν τ. χ. Β) 2 C. 7. 4.

2. The instrumental dative is moreover used to denote the cause or occasion: R. 11. 20 $\tau \hat{\eta}$ ἀπιστία ἐξεκλάσθησαν, 'on account of their unbelief,' 30 ἠλεήθητε $\tau \hat{\eta}$ τούτων ἀπειθεία, 31 ἡπείθησαν $\tau \hat{\phi}$ ὕμετέρφ ἐλέει, 'because God wished to have mercy on you,'⁴ 4. 20 οὐ διεκρίθη $\tau \hat{\eta}$ ἀπιστία, ἀλλ' ἐνεδυναμώθη $\tau \hat{\eta}$ πίστει, 1 C. 8. 7 etc.; see also A. 15. 1 περιτέμνεσθαι $\tau \hat{\phi}$ ἔθει $\tau \hat{\phi}$ Μωϊσέως, 'after,' 'in accordance with' (the β text has a different and more ordinary expression); it also denotes the part, attribute etc., in respect of which anything takes place, 1 C. 14. 20 μ $\hat{\eta}$ παιδία γίνεσθε ταῖς φρεσίν, ἀλλὰ $\tau \hat{\eta}$ κακία νηπιάζετε, ταῖς δὲ φρεσὶν τέλειοι γίνεσθε, Ph. 2. γ σχήματι εὐρεθεὶς ὡς ἄνθρωπος, 3. 5 περιτομ $\hat{\eta}$ ὀκταήμερος, 'eight days old at circumcision,' 'circumcised on the eighth day', so φύσει 'by nature,' G. 2. 15 etc., $\tau \hat{\phi}$ γένει 'by extraction,' A. 4. 36 etc.; ἀπερίτμητοι $\tau \hat{\eta}$ καρδία A. 7. 51, ἀδύνατος τοῖς ποσίν 14. 8, ἐστερεοῦντο $\tau \hat{\eta}$ πίστει καὶ ἐπερίσσενον $\tau \hat{\phi}$ ἀριθμ $\hat{\phi}$ 16. 5,

² Here the phrase is $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ éauroîs 'by themselves,' where it is true that in 'classical Greek the dative could not stand: still no more could $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$, the phrase would be $\pi\rho$ òs éauroús.

ονόματι 'by name' (§ 33, 2), τω μήκει ποδων έκατόν Herm. Vis. iv. 1. 6,1 etc. etc. The usage of the N.T. language in this respect may be said to be constant, since the alternative use of the accusative which in the classical language is widely prevalent 2 is almost entirely unrepresented (cp. § 34, 7). The cause may, of course, be also expressed by means of a preposition (e.g. by έν in έν τούτω A. 24. 16, Jo. 16. 30 'on this account,' § 41, 1); this is especially the case with verbs expressing emotion (classical Greek uses the simple dat. and acc. as well): χαίρειν ἐπί τινι Mt. 18. 3 etc., ἐν τούτῷ L. 10. 20 (R. 12. 12 $\tau \hat{\eta} \in \lambda \pi i \delta i$ is different, not 'rejoicing over the hope,' but 'in virtue of hope,' in hope,' 2*) and so ἀγαλλιᾶσθαι, εὐφραίνεσθαι are used with έν or έπί; εὐδοκεῖν έν (είς 2 P. 1. 17, Mt. 12. 18 O.T. [έν D; acc. B], cp. H. 10. 6, 8 O.T., § 34, 1), which in cultured style is expressed by εὐαρεστεῖται τοιαύταις θυσίαις H. 13. 16 (Diodor. 3, 55. ο etc.); θαυμάζειν ἐπί τινι L. 4. 22 etc., περί τινος 2. 183 (on θ. τινά, τι see § 34, 1), so ἐκπλήσσεσθαι ἐπί τινι, but 1 P. 4. 12 μή ξενίζεσθε $\tau \hat{\eta}$ κ.τ.λ. (ibid. 4 with έν), καυχᾶσθαι έν or ἐπί (for the acc. § 34, 1), συλλυπεῖσθαι ἐπί Mc. 3. 5 (but after ὀργίζεσθαι Ap. 12. 17, μακροθυμεῖν Mt. 18. 26 etc., ἐπί [εἰς, πρός] is used with the person with whom one is angry or long-suffering).

3. This dative further expresses the accompanying circumstances. the manner and style of an action: 1 C. 10. 30 χάριτι μετέχω, 'with thanks, 11. 5 προσευχομένη ἀκατακαλύπτω τη κεφαλή (Herm. Sim. ix. 20. 3 γυμνοίς ποσίν, Vis. v. ι εἰσηλθεν ἀνηρ ... σχήματι ποιμενικώ). H. 6. 17 ἐμεσίτευσεν ὅρκω. An alternative for the dat. is μετά τινος: Mt. 26. 72 ήρνήσατο μεθ' όρκου (Xenoph. Cyr. ii. 3. 12 σὺν θεῶν ὅρκω λέγω), cp. H. 7. 20 f. οὐ χωρὶς δρκωμοσίας – μεθ' δρκ.; μετὰ βίας A. 5. 26, 24. 7 (class. βία, πρὸς βίαν), μετὰ φωνής μεγάλης L. 17. 15 (μετὰ σπουδής καὶ κραυγής πολλής Aeschin. 2. 10), etc. In Mc. 14. 65 ραπίσμασιν αὐτὸν ἔλαβον is quite a vulgarism, which at present can only be paralleled from a papyrus of the first century A.D. (an argument to Demosth. Midias), where we find (αὐτὸν) κονδύλοις ἔλαβεν.4 Accompanying (military) forces in classical Greek are expressed by the dat., in the N.T. by έν, έν δέκα χιλιάσιν άπανταν L. 14. 31, cp. Jd. 14, A. 7. 14 (also (εἰσ) έρχεσθαι έν αἵματι 'with' H. 9. 25, 1 Jo. 5. 6; ἐν ράβδω ἔλθω 1 C. 4. 21, 2 C. 10. 14 etc.); ἐν also denotes manner in ἐν τάχει, ἐν ἐκτενεία etc., see § 41, 1. We have παντὶ τρόπω, εἴτε προφάσει εἴτε ἀληθεία Ph. 1. 18 (ποίοις τρόποις Herm. Mand. xii. 3. 1), but elsewhere ον τρόπον etc., § 34, 7 (ἐν παντὶ τρ.,

 $^{^{1}}$ 2 C. 7. 11 συνεστήσατε έαυτοὺς άγνοὺς εἶναι (έν add. D<code>bEKLP</code>, cp. άγ. έν τ $\hat{\eta}$ σαρκὶ Clem. Cor. i. 38, 2) τ $\hat{\varphi}$ πράγματι is very harsh; perhaps εἶναι is a corruption of έν, cp. § 34, 5.

² The dative is employed in classical Greek if a contrast is made or is present to the mind of the writer, ϕ ίσει $-\nu$ όμω, λ όγω - ξργω; Xen. Mem. ii. 1. 31 τοῖς σώμας λ άδίνατοι - ταῖς ψυχαῖς ἀνόητοι; on the other hand in Anab. i. 4. 11 for πόλις θάψακος ὀνόματι, δνομα is correctly restored from the Mss. (cp. §§ 33, 2; 34, 7).

³ Ap. 13. 3 ἐθαύμασεν ὀπίσω τοῦ θηρίου is very strange, a pregnant construction for ἐθ. ἐπὶ τῷ θ. καὶ ἐπορεύθη ὀπ. αὐτοῦ, see W.-Gr.

with a v.l. [male] $\tau \delta \pi \phi$ 2 Th. 3. 16). A striking usage in the N.T. (and the LXX.) is that of the dat. όδφ etc. with πορεύεσθαι, περιπατείν, στοιχείν, in the N.T. in metaphorical sense, in the LXX. also in the literal, cp. Ja. 2. 25, L. 10. 31 B, Thuc. ii. 98. 1 ἐπορεύετο τῆ ὁδῷ ἣν αὐτὸς ἐποιήσατο: but in met. sense iii. 64. 4 ἄδικον ὁδὸν ἰόντων: A. 14. 16 πορεύεσθαι ταις δδοις αυτών, Jd. 11, R. 4. 12 στοιχείν τοις ίχνεσιν (Clem. Hom. x. 15 τῷ ὑμῶν στοιχεῖτε παραδείγματι); further developments are τοις έθεσιν περιπατείν Α. 21. 21, κώμοις και μέθαις R. 13. 13, πνένματι G. 5. 16, πορεύεσθαι τῷ φόβω τοῦ κυρίου A. 9. 31 (the acc. is found with the literal sense of the word in την δδον αὐτοῦ A. 8. 39; with the metaphorical sense we have πορ. ἐν Ι P 4. 3, περιπατεῖν έν 2 C. 4. 2 etc., κατὰ σάρκα R. 8. 4), Buttm. p. 160. Further (ibid 159 f.) verbal substantives used with their cognate verbs or with verbs of similar meaning stand in the dative—the usage is an imitation of the Hebrew infinitive absolute like מית נשרח and is consequently found already in the LXX.—whereas the analogous classical phrases such as γάμω γαμείν ('in true wedlock'), φυγή φεύγειν ('to flee with all speed') are only accidentally similar to these. The N.T instances are: (ἀκοῆ ἀκούειν Mt. 13. 14 etc. O.T.), ἐπιθιμία ἐπεθύμησα L. 22. 15. χαρ \hat{q} χαίρει Jo. 3. 29,2 ένυπνίοις ένυπνιάζεσθαι A. 2. 17 O.T., ἀπειλ \hat{q} (om. NABD al.) απειλησώμεθα 4, 17, παραγγελία παρηγγείλαμεν 5, 28, ἀναθέματι ἀνεθεματίσαμεν 23. 12, προσευχή προσηύξατο Ja. 5. 17; with which belong ὅρκψ ὅμοσεν Α. 2. 30, θανάτψ τελευτάτω Mc. 7. 10 O.T., cp. Herm. Sim. viii. 7. 3 (ἀποκτείναι ἐν θανάτω Ap. 2. 23; 6. 8 is a different use). Cp. on the similar constructions with the acc. § 34, 3; this dative of manner intensifies the verb in so far as it indicates that the action is to be understood as taking place in the fullest sense.

4. While there is no trace of a local dative in the N.T.³ (as is also the case on the whole in Attic prose), the analogous temporal dative, answering the question When?, is still fairly frequent: it may of course be further elucidated by the insertion, common also in Attic, of the preposition $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$. Since the dat. denotes the point of time, not the period of time, while $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ can have both these meanings, it is quite possible to express 'in the day,' 'in the night' by $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ ($\tau\hat{\eta}$) $\dot{\eta}\mu\dot{\epsilon}\rho q$, $\nu\nu\kappa\tau\dot{\iota}$, Jo. 11. 9, A. 18. 9, 1 Th. 5. 2, but the genitive must be used instead of the simple dat., § 36, 13 ($\tau\hat{\varphi}$ $\theta\dot{\epsilon}\rho\epsilon\iota$ in Herm. Sim. iv. 3 for 'in summer' is incorrect, ibid. 5 we have $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ τ . θ . $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa\epsilon\dot{\iota}\nu\varphi$); on the other hand in a statement about a definite day or a definite night, the simple dative is no less correct than the dat, with $\epsilon \nu$. In the N.T. we always have τŷ τρίτη ἡμέρα Mt. 16. 21 (D reads otherwise), 17. 23 (ditto), L. 9. 22 (ditto), 24. 7, 46; τη πρώτη ήμ. των ἀξύμων Mc. 14. 12, $\tau \hat{\eta}$ $\hat{\eta} \mu$. $\tau \hat{\eta}$ $\hat{\delta} \gamma \delta \hat{\delta} \eta$ A. 7. 8 (with $\hat{\epsilon} \nu$ L. 1. 59, but DL omit $\hat{\epsilon} \nu$), τακτη ήμ. 12. 21, ποία ήμ. (v.l. ωρα) Mt. 24. 42, η ήμ. L. 17. 29 f. Jo. 12. 48, with \acute{e}^{ν} 7. 37. 11. 24, with var. lect. 6. 39 f., 44, 54; so $\tau \hat{\eta}$ $\mu \iota \hat{q}$ $\sigma \alpha \beta \beta \acute{a} \tau \omega \nu$ Mc. 16. 2¹, 9, Jo. 20. 1; with $\acute{e}\nu$ A. 20. 7; with $\acute{e}\kappa \acute{e}\nu \eta$ and $\tau \alpha \acute{e}\tau \eta$ $\acute{e}\nu$ is usually inserted with $\tau \hat{\eta} \ \hat{\eta} \mu$, but Jo. 20. 19 has $\tau \hat{\eta} \ \hat{\eta} \mu$. $\hat{\epsilon} \kappa$; and the pronouns are used with νυκτί without ἐν in L. 12. 20, 17. 34, A. 12. 6, 27. 23; always τη ἐπιούση or ἐχομένη ήμ. (νυκτί), but confined to Acts, e.g. 7. 26, 21, 26; also $\tau \hat{\eta} \in \hat{\xi} \hat{\eta}$ s 21. I etc. (but with $\hat{\epsilon} \nu$ L. 7. II, where D omits έν and there is a strongly supported reading $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ τ $\hat{\varphi}$ $\dot{\epsilon}\xi\hat{\eta}s$; the readings vary in 9. 37), τ $\hat{\eta}$ $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\iota\phi\omega\sigma\kappaο\dot{\iota}\sigma\eta$ κ.τ.λ. L. 12. 12 etc. (έν also occurs with ἐκείνη Mt. 26. 55 etc., and as a v.l. in Jo. 4. 53); $\mu \hat{q}$ $\tilde{\omega}$. Ap. 8. 10, 16, 19, cp. on the alternative use of the acc. § 34, 8. The simple dat. is not used in the case of έτος, but έν (L. 3. 1); έτεσιν τεσσαράκοντα - ψκοδομήθη Jo. 2. 20 is a different use of the dative, for which we have also ἐν (om. κ) τρισὶν ἡμέραις in the same verse and in 19 (ἐν om. Β), answering the question In how long a time?, where in classical Greek $\epsilon \nu$ is the ordinary construction.² With names of feasts we have Mc. 6. 21 τοις γενεσίοις αὐτοῦ, Mt. 14. 63; frequently τοις σάββασιν, 'on the Sabbath,' Mt. 12. I etc., as well as έν τοῖς σ. L. 4. 31 al., also τῷ σαββάτω L. 6. 9, σαββάτω Mt. 24. 20 (ἐν σ. EF al., D σαββάτου § 36, 13), Jo. 5. 16 D, 7. 22 B (al. έν σ., as all MSS. read in 23 bis), τῷ ἐχομένω σ. Α. 13. 44 (ἐν σ. δευτεροπρώτω? L. 6. 1, $\epsilon \nu$ $\epsilon \tau \epsilon \rho \omega$ σ . 6. 6); κατά $\pi \hat{a} \nu$ $\sigma \hat{a} \beta \beta a \tau \rho \nu$ A. 13. 27 and elsewhere. Τη ἐορτη τοῦ πάσχα L. 2. 41 (with ἐν D); elsewhere ἐν τη ἑ. (κατὰ έορτήν 'every feast' Mt. 27. 15 etc.). Έτέραις γενεαίς Ε. 3. 5, ιδία γενεά A. 13. 36; with εν 14. 16. Καιροτε ιδίοις 1 Tim. 6. 15. (In $\tau \hat{\eta}$ θλίψει ὑπομένοντες R. 12. 12, 'in tribulation,' there is reason to suspect the text, cp. above, p. 118, note 2*).

² On the other hand we have Mt. 2. 10 ἐχάρησαν χαρὰν μεγάλην σφόδρα, with a closer defining of the noun, which also may be said to be the raison d'être of the added verbal substantive; such closer definition is, speaking generally, never found with the dat. in the N.T., though Hermas has Sim. ix. 18. 3 πονηρευομένους ποικίλαις πουηρίας, 1. 2 ἔσχυσας τημαίνων ωνίμους ποικίλαις πουηρίας, 1. 2 ἔσχυσας τημαίνων ποίω θανάτω ήμελλεν ἀποθυήρκειν should be compared 21. 19 σημαίνων ποίω θανάτω δοξάσει τὸν θεόν: it is evident that in the first passage the cognate verb is by no means obligatory, but might be replaced by another verb.

² Έν τρισίν ήμ. occurs also in Mt. 27. 40, διὰ τριῶν ήμ. in 26. 61, Mc. 14. 58.

³ In Mt. the Mss. are divided between γενεσίως δὲ γενομένως NBDL al., and γενεσίων δὲ γενομένων CK (cp. Mc. 6. 2) or ἀγομένων EG al.; the dative would represent an unusual combination of the absolute use of the participle and the temporal dative, and is best attributed to scribes who interpolated it from Mc.

5. An unclassical use is that of the dative to denote duration of time, instead of the accusative. But this use is only guaranteed for transitive verbs, and, in a few instances, for passives: whereas, in the case of intransitive verbs (also with a passive in Ap. 20. 3; and a transitive verb in Mc. 2. 19 οσον χρόνον, L. 13. 8 τοῦτο τὸ ἔτος, A. 13. 18 ώς τεσσερακονταετή χρόνον, ibid. 21), the accusative still remains: A. 8. 11 ίκανῷ χρόνῷ ἐξεστακέναι αὐτούς 'a long time,' L. 8. 29 πολλοῖς χρόνοις συνηρπάκει αὐτόν, R. 16. 25 χρ. αἰωνίοις σεσιγημένου (but ἀπεδήμησεν χρόνους ίκανούς L. 20. 9, and corresponding phrases occur elsewhere with intrans. verbs). In L. 8. 27 the readings are divided between χρόνω ίκ. and ἐκ (ἀπὸ) χρόνων ίκ. (οὐκ ένεδύσατο ιμάτιον), in Jo. 14. 9 between τοσούτω χρόνω (μεθ' ύμων είμι) NDLQ and τοσούτον χρ. AB al., as in A. 28, 12 between ημέραις τρισίν and ήμέρας τρεις (ἐπεμείναμεν). A further instance is ως ετεσιν τετρακοσίοις καὶ πεντήκοντα έδωκεν κριτάς A. 13, 20.1 'throughout 450 years' (ibid. 18, 21 the accusative, vide supra). The reason for the employment of the dative appears to be that the accusative was regarded as the direct object, and therefore the writer did not like to place another object beside it.2

§ 39. THE CASES WITH PREPOSITIONS. PREPOSITIONS WITH THE ACCUSATIVE.

1. The remaining ideas which complete the meaning of verbs and nouns are expressed not by a case alone, but with the help of a preposition: a practice which in the course of the history of the language became more and more adopted in opposition to the employment of the simple case. The N.T. still preserves the whole collection of the old prepositions proper of the Greek language, with the exception of $d\mu\phi\ell$, but along with these the employment of prepositions not strictly so called was further developed. Prepositions proper may be divided into: I. Those that take one case: l. with acc. $d\nu d$, ϵl s: 2. with gen. $d\nu \tau i$, $d\pi d$ o, ϵl e ϵk , $\pi \rho d$: 3. with dat. $\epsilon \nu$, $\sigma \delta \nu$. II. With two cases, i.e. with acc. and gen.: $\delta \iota d$, $\kappa \alpha \tau d$, $\mu \epsilon \tau d$, $\pi \epsilon \rho i$, $\delta \tau d \rho$ o. III. With three cases: $\epsilon \pi i$, $\tau a \rho d$, πρός. A simplification is seen in the fact that μετά, περί, ὑπό are relegated from Class III. to Class II., while avá (as already happens in classical prose) is relegated from II. (dat. and accus.) to I. (the loss being on the side of the dative); moreover $\pi \rho \dot{o}s$ is now not far from being confined to the construction of I. 1. Quasi-Prepositions all take the genitive, and are strictly adverbs or cases of a noun which received the character of prepositions only at a later period, but in N.T. times resemble the regular prepositions in that they

 $^{^2}$ In Josephus, however, there is no perceptible difference between the dative and accusative denoting duration of time, W. Schmidt de Jos. elocut. 382 f. (except that $\delta\iota\alpha\tau\rho\iota\beta\epsilon\iota\nu$ and $\mu\epsilon\nu\epsilon\iota\nu$ always take the accusative).*

- never or hardly ever stand without their case: $\tilde{\epsilon}\nu\epsilon\kappa\epsilon\nu$, $\chi\acute{a}\rho\iota\nu$ 'on account of,' $\chi\omega\rho\acute{i}$ s, $\check{a}\nu\epsilon\nu$, $\check{a}\tau\epsilon\rho$, $\pi\lambda\acute{\eta}\nu$ 'except,' $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\chi\rho\iota$, $\check{a}\chi\rho\iota$, $\check{\epsilon}\omega$ s 'unto' (these last are also conjunctions), $\check{\epsilon}\mu\pi\rho\sigma\sigma\theta\epsilon\nu$, $\check{\epsilon}\nu\acute{\omega}\pi\iota\sigma\nu$, $\check{\epsilon}\nu\alpha\nu\tau\acute{\iota}\sigma\nu$ etc. 'before,' $\check{c}\pi\acute{\iota}\sigma\omega$ 'behind,' $\check{\epsilon}\pi\acute{a}\nu\omega$, 'upon,' $\check{\nu}\pi\kappa\acute{a}\tau\omega$ 'beneath,' $\mu\epsilon\tau a\xi\acute{\nu}$ 'between.' Naturally no hard and fast line can be drawn between preposition and adverb in these cases.
- 2. Of prepositions with the accusative, ἀνά, which has already become rare in Attic prose, has well-nigh disappeared in the N.T. 'Ανὰ μέσον (with gen.) 'between' Mt. 13. 25 etc. (Polyb. etc., LXX.: modern Gr. ἀνάμεσα) = ἐν μέσφ (L. 8. 7 al.), cp. § 40, 8; ἀνὰ μέρος 'in turn' 1 C. 14. 27 (Polyb.); elsewhere it is distributive 'apiece,' ἄλαβον ἀνὰ δηνάριον Mt. 20. 9 etc., ἀνὰ πτέρνγας ἔξ Ap. 4. 8, or 'at the rate of,' Mc. 6. 40 κλισίαι ἀνὰ ἑκατόν A al. (as in L. 9. 14), but with κατὰ κΒD (κατὰ being an equivalent for ἀνὰ in all the above-mentioned uses); stereotyped as an adverb (like κατά, § 51, 5) Ap. 21. 21 ἀνὰ εἶς ἕκαστος τῶν πυλώνων καθ' εἶς (Herm. Sim. ix. 2. 3, see § 45, 3).
- 3. Els not only maintained its own place in the language, but also absorbed the kindred preposition $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$; many instances of this absorption appear already in the N.T., although, if we take the practice of the N.T. as a whole, $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ is considerably more than a match for $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\epsilon}s$. The classical position, namely that $\epsilon \nu$ with the dative answers the question 'where ?,' \(\epsilon\) with accusative the question 'whither ?.' had from early times been simplified in some dialects by $\dot{\epsilon}_{\nu}$ taking to itself (like the Latin in) both cases and both functions; but the popular Hellenistic language went in the other direction and reduced everything to is with accusative, representing 'where?' and 'whither?' From this intermixture, which meets us also in the LXX. and in Egyptian private records, no writer of narrative in the N.T. is free, with the exception of Matthew: not even Luke in the Acts, where on the contrary most of the examples are found; John has less of it than the others. Passages: Mc. 1. 9 ἐβαπτίσθη είς τον Ἰορδάνην (έν 1. 5, Mt. 3. 6), 1. 39 κηρύσσων είς τὰς συναγωγάς (έν ταις συναγωγαίς EF al.), 2. Ι είς οίκον έστιν AC al. But ἔστη εἰς τὸ μέσον Jo. 20. 19, 26 is classical (Xenophon Cyr. iv. 1. 1), cp. 21. 4 (v.l. ἐπὶ). On the other hand, the Epistles and—what is still more striking—the Apocalypse—show at least in the local signification a correct discrimination between εἰς and ἐν, except in (1 Jo. 5. 8, see above, and) 1 P. 5. 12 (a postscript to the letter written in the apostle's own hand) τὴν χόριν – εἰς ἢν στῆτε (ἑστήκατε ΚΤΡ), which certainly cannot mean 'put yourself into it,' but 'stand fast therein.' Εἰς for ἐν is frequent in Hermas, Vis. i. 2. 2 ἔχουσα βιβλίον εἰς τὰς χεῖρας, ii. 4. 3, Sim. i. 2 etc.; see also Clem. Cor. ii. 8. 2 (19. 4 ?), Clem. Hom. xii. 10. It thus appears that at that time this use of εἰς was still a provincialism, although even so the fact that several authors do not share in it is remarkable. On the reverse interchange, ἐν for εἰς, see § 41, 1.

4. Under the head of intermixture of els and ev may be also reckoned L. 1. 20 πληρωθήσονται είς τον καιρον αὐτῶν (correctly with έν Mt. 21. 41, 2 Th. 2. 6), whereas L. 13. 9 καν ποιήση καρπον είς το μέλλον has classical parallels (so és ὕστερον Hdt. 5. 74); correct are also A. 13. 42 είς τὸ μεταξὸ σάββατον, 2 C. 13. 2 είς τὸ πάλιν (cp. classical $\epsilon i \sigma \alpha \hat{v} \theta \iota s$; the remaining temporal uses of $\epsilon i s$ are still more completely in agreement with classical Greek.—A. 7. 53 έλάβετε τὸν νόμον είς διαταγάς άγγελων = έν διαταγαῖς (cp. Mt. 9. 34 and other passages).—After the Hebrew בּשׁלוֹם, Mc. 5. 34 and Lc. 7. 50, 8. 48 say υπαγε είς εἰρήνην (so also LXX. 1 Sam. 1. 17 etc.): but the sense seems to be better given by Ja. 2. 16 ὑπάγετε ἐν εἰρήνη (so D in both passages of Luke). In other instances the caprice of the writer in his choice of eis or ev is not surprising, since Hebrew had only the one preposition , and classical Greek had in most of these cases none at all. Thus πιστεύειν είς alternates with πιστ. έν (Mc. 1. 15) and $\pi \iota \sigma \tau$. $\epsilon \pi i$, in addition to which the correct classical π. τινί appears, § 37, 1; there is a corresponding interchange of prepositions with the subst. $\pi i \sigma \tau i s$ ($\dot{\eta} \in V X \rho$., $\dot{\eta} \in S X \rho$., beside the objective genitive), and with $\pi \epsilon \pi o i \theta \epsilon \nu \alpha \iota$, which also has the simple dative: see for this verb and for ἐλπίζειν § 37, 2; further, with ομνύναι (which in classical Greek takes accus., § 34, 1) in Mt. 5. 35 έν and είς are found side by side; with εὐδοκεῖν 'to have pleasure έν is frequent, είς occurs in Mt. 12. 18 O.T. (ον simply  B, εν φ D) and 2 P. 1. 17. The rendering of the Hebrew by is especially variable: τῷ σῷ ἀνόματι (instrumental dative) 4 Mt. 7. 22, εἰς ὄνομα

^{1&}quot;Υπαγε νίψαι εἰς τὴν κολυμβήθραν 9. 7 is supported by parallels from profane writers: *νίψαι however appears not to be genuine (Lachm.; on. A al., cp. 11).

²1 P. 3. 20 εls ην (κιβωτόν) δλίγοι διεσώθησαν is 'into which few escaped,' cp. 2 Tim. 4. 18 (LXX. Gen. 19. 19).

³ Similarly $\theta \alpha \rho \rho \hat{\omega} \epsilon \nu$ 'confide in '2 C. 7. 16: but ϵls 10. $\mathbf{1} = \theta \rho \alpha \sigma v s \epsilon l \mu$ 'toward you.'

With the verb 'to announce,' if the communication is made to several persons, either εἰς οτ ἐν is admissible in Attic Greek (εἰπεῖν εἰς τὸν δῆμον, ἐν τῷ δήμφ); so also in N.T. κηρύσσειν εἰς Μc. 13. 10 (ἐν D), 14. 9,² L. 24. 47, 1 Th. 2.ε9 (ὑμῖν ), ἐν 2 C. 1. 19, G. 2. 2, εὐαγγελίζεσθαι εἰς 1 P. 1. 25, ἐν G. 1. 16.

But in G. 3. 14 "να εἰς τὰ ἔθνη ἡ εὐλογία τοῦ 'Αβραὰμ γένηται the simple case would be the dative, cp. § 37, 3, or in classical Greek the genitive; cp. εγγίζειν είς for τινί, § 37, 6 (in modern Greek e's is the usual circumlocution for the lost dative, cp. ibid. 1).—Είς for ἐπί or πρός: Jo. 4. 5 ἔρχεται είς πόλιν κ.τ.λ. With numerals it is distributive 'at the rate of': Mc. 4. 8 είς τριάκοντα etc. (v.l. έν: wrong reading έν); cp. Hdt. i. 193 ἐπὶ διηκόσια in a similar sense.—Εἰς τέλος 1 Th. 2. 16 is 'finally' (LXX. 2 Chron. 12. 12 is rightly compared, but class. Gk. also has ές τελευτάν, Soph. O.C. 1224).

§ 40. PREPOSITIONS WITH THE GENITIVE.

- 1. 'Aντί is one of the prepositions that are dying out, being represented by some twenty instances in the whole N.T. 'Aνθ' ων 'for the reason that' = 'because' L. 1. 20, 19. 44, A. 12. 23, 2 Th. 2. 10, classical, also in LXX. 2 Kings 22. 17 = אַרָּאָרָא אָרָא אָרָא יִי 'for this' = 'therefore' L. 12. 3, ἀντὶ τούτου Ε. 5. 31 Ο.Τ. 'And has still maintained its place in modern Greek, while it has taken over the uses of $\dot{\epsilon}\xi$, which disappears; in the N.T. this mixture has already begun, although (with regard to the frequency with which either is employed) $\dot{\epsilon}\xi$ still holds its own fairly easily

HLP) $\tau\hat{\eta}s$ $\pi\delta\lambda\epsilon\omega s$ A. 16. 39, which means not 'to depart from the neighbourhood of the city' (where $\vec{a}\pi \vec{o}$ is right), but 'to go out of the city,' 13. 50, 'Mc.' 16, \vec{o} $\vec{a}\vec{\phi}$ ' $(\pi a \vec{o})$ C*DL) ης έξεβεβλήκει έπτα δαιμόνια, Η. 11. 15 ἀφ' ης (πατρίδος) έξέβησαν. However in most cases in a connection of this kind έξ and ἀπό are still correctly distinguished.—Also the partitive έξ, which itself is scarcely classical (§ 35, 4), is occasionally represented by the still more unclassical ἀπό, Mt. 27. 21 τίνα ἀπὸ τῶν δύο (= class. πότερον τούτοιν), and both are used promiscuously in place of the classical genitive in phrases like 'to eat of,' 'to take of,' etc., § 36, 1. Contrary to Attic usage is τινάς των ἀπὸ της ἐκκλησίαs A. 12. I 'those belonging to the community' (not those who came from the community), cp. 6. 9, 15. 5, whereas in A. 10. 45, 11. 2, Tit. 1. 10 we have οἱ ἐκ περιτομῆς correctly (οἱ ἐκ τῆς διατριβῆς ταύτης Aeschin. 1, 54); still• Hellenistic writers like Plutarch have similar phrases.¹ Again, $\dot{\epsilon}\xi$ would be the correct preposition to express extraction from a place; but N.T. has ην ο Φίλιππος ἀπὸ $B\eta\theta\sigma\alpha\ddot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}$ πόλεως $\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}\dot{\nu}$ Jo. 1. 44, cp. 45,2 Mt. 21. 11, A. 10. 38, and so always, unless as in L. 2. 4 (ἐκ πόλεως Ναζ.), $\pi \acute{o}\lambda \iota s$ is added as well; $\acute{a}\pi \acute{o}$ is also regularly used of a person's country except in John, A. 6. 9, 21. 27, 23. 34, 24. 18 (but in classical Greek, Isocr. 4. 82 etc. $\tau o v_s$ & $\tau \hat{\eta}_s$ 'A $\sigma(as)$.' See also Acts 2. 5. Material: $\check{\epsilon} v \delta v \mu \alpha \ \check{a} \pi \check{o} \ \tau \rho \iota \chi \hat{\omega} v$ Mt. 3. 4. 'After,' 'out of': έδυναμώθησαν ἀπὸ ἀσθενείας Η. 11. 34 (classical Greek has λευκὸν ημαρ είσιδείν έκ χείματος).

3. 'Aπό has supplanted ὑπό in the sense of 'on account of,' 'for' (of things which occasion or hinder some result by their magnitude): ἀπὸ τῆς λύπης κοιμωμένους L. 22. 45, Mt. 13. 44, 14. 26, A. 20. 9, 12. 14 ἀπὸ τῆς χαρᾶς οὐκ ἤνοιξεν, 22. 11, L. 19. 3, (24. 41), Jo. 21. 6, Herm. Vis. iii. 11. 2; cp. $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\xi}$ infra 4. Also $i\pi\delta$ with a passive verb or a verb of passive meaning is often replaced by $d\pi \delta$, although in this instance the MSS. commonly exhibit much diversity in their readings. A. 2. 22 ἀποδεδειγμένον ἀπὸ τοῦ θεοῦ, 4. 36 ἐπικληθεὶς Βαρναβας ἀπὸ (D ὑπὸ) τῶν ἀποστόλων, Mt. 16. 21 πολλὰ παθεῖν ἀπὸ (D $\dot{v}\pi\dot{o}$) $\tau\hat{\omega}\nu$ $\kappa.\tau.\lambda$. (in the parallel passage Mc. 8. 31 $\dot{a}\pi\dot{o}$ is only read by AX al., the rest have $\delta\pi\delta$: in L. 17. 25 $\delta\pi\delta$ is read by all).—'A $\pi\delta$ further encroaches upon the province of π apá with the genitive: \vec{a} κούειν \vec{a} πό \vec{A} . 9. 13, 1 Jo. 1. 5; μ ωνθάνειν \vec{a} πό \vec{G} . 3. 2, Col. 1. 7; παραλαμβάνειν ἀπό 1 C. 11. 23 (παρὰ DE, ἀπολαμβ. ἀπό followed by the same verb with $\pi a \rho a$ Herm. the classical language through the employment of $d\pi \delta$ (ξ): so regularly with έλευθερούν, λύειν, χωρίζειν etc., also with ὑστερείν (ibid.). Much more remarkable, however, is the $d\pi \delta$, which in imitation of the Hebrew בְּלְּפְבֵּי ,בִינְ = 'for,' is employed with verbs meaning 'to hide,' 'to be on one's guard,' 'to fear' (similarly in the LXX., Buttm. p. 278). See on κρύπτειν τι ἀπό τινος § 34, 4; φεύγειν, φυλάσσειν and -εσθαι, φοβεῖσθαι, αἰσχύνεσθαι ἀπό τινος § 34, 1; to which must be added προσέχειν έαυτῷ or still more abbreviated προσέχειν (sc. τὸν νοῦν 'to have a care for oneself' = 'to beware'), ἀπό τινος L. 12. 1, Mt. 7. 15 etc.; in a similar sense ὁρᾶν, βλέπειν ἀπό Mc. 8. 15, 12. 38. Τηρείν and διατηρείν, however, take $\epsilon \xi$ (equally unclassical): $\epsilon \xi$ ($\dot{\alpha} \phi$ D) ων διατηρούντες έαυτούς A. 15. 29, Jo. 17. 25, Ap. 3. 10. In these instances also the idea of separation or alienation is expressed by ἀπό, as it is in many expressions, especially in St. Paul, which cannot be directly paralleled from the classical language: R. 9. 3 ἀνάθεμα είναι ἀπὸ τοῦ Χρ., 2 C. 11. 3 μη φθαρή τὰ νοήματα ὑμῶν ἀπὸ της ἀπλότητος της έν Χρ., 2 Th. 2. 2, Col. 2. 20 ἀπεθάνετε ἀπὸ τῶν στοιχείων τοῦ κόσμου, similarly with καταργείσθαι R. 7. 6, G. 5. 4; also μετανοείν ἀπό in A. 8. 22, cp. H. 6. 1, έκ Ap. 2. 21 etc.; δικαιοθν, θεραπεύειν, λούειν άπό^a approach still more nearly to λύειν etc. 1 Cp. in Hermas and other writings: διαφθαρήναι ἀπό Sim. iv. 7, ἀποτυφλοῦσθαι ἀπό Mand. v. 2. 7, κολοβὸς ἀπό Sim. ix. 26. 8, κενὸς ἀπό Sim. ix. 19. 2, ἔρημος ἀπό Clem. - 6. Quasi-prepositions with genitive. 'For the sake of' is evenev. also είνεκεν § 6, 4, ένεκα A. 26. 21 (Attic, § 6, 1) in Paul's speech before Agrippa, also L. 6. 22 (-εν D al.), Mt. 19. 8 O.T. ×BLZ (LXX. -εν), A. 19. 32 ×AB, Mc. 13. 9 B. Not frequent (some 20 instances, including quotations); it denotes the cause or motive which is given for an action, so regularly ενεκεν έμου in the Gospels, elsewhere it is hardly distinguishable from διά with accus., see § 42, 1; its position (which in Attic is quite unrestricted) is always before the genitive except in the case of an interrogative (τίνος ένεκεν A. 19. 32) or a relative sentence (οὖ εἴνεκεν L. 4. 18 O.T.). Χάριν is still rarer (almost always placed after the word). - 'Except,' 'without,' is usually χωρίς; άνευ (also Attic) only appears in Mt. 10. 29, 1 P. 3. 1, 4. 9; atep (poetical: in prose not before imperial times) only in L. 22. 6, 35 (often in Hermas, e.g. Sim. v. 4. 5; Barn. 2. 6 C. but ανευ κ); πλήν (Attic) A. 8. 1, 15. 28, 27. 22, Mc. 12. 32, 'Jo.' 8. 10. The position of these words (as also of those that follow) is always before the case, except in one ex. οδ χωρίς H. 12. 4, § 80, 4; χ. as adverb (often in Attic) only appears in Jo. 20. 7.—'Unto' is axpu(s), μέχρι(s) as in Attic (on the s see § 5, 4), the former in Lc., Acts, Paul, Hebrews, Ap., Mt. 24. 38: the latter in Mt. 11. 23, 13. 30 (čws BD), 28. 15 (D έωs), Mc. 13. 30 (έωs D), and sporadically in Lc., Acts, Paul, Hebrews; both are also used as conjunctions (in an intermediate stage with the interposition of a relative, $\ddot{a}\chi\rho\iota$ o \hat{b} , μ . o \hat{b} ; Herm. Vis. iv. 1. 9 μ. ὅτε Ν*, μ. ὅτου Ν° as), see §§ 65, 10; 78, 3; εωs is also employed in this sense, originally a conjunction throughout (its use as a prep. appears in Hellenistic Gk. and the LXX.), Mt. 1. 17 ἀπο ᾿Αβραὰμ τως Δανίδ, τως τοῦ Χριστοῦ etc. (often in Mt., also in Mc., Lc., Acts, rare in Paul and James; in Hebr. only in quotations; John uses none of the three words); here also we have έως οῦ, εως ὅτον. Έως is moreover readily joined with an adverb: έως πότε, ἀπὸ ἄνωθεν έως κάτω, έως ἄρτι, έως σήμερον, on the other hand ἄχρι (μέχρι) τοῦ νῦν, τῆς σήμερον (although Thuc. 7. 83 has $\mu \dot{\epsilon} \chi \rho \iota \ \dot{o} \dot{\psi} \dot{\epsilon}$). It occasionally has the meaning 'within': A. 19. 26 D ξως Ἐφέσου, 23. 23 (β text) έως έκατόν. Herm. Mand. iv. 1. 5 ἄχρι της άγνοίας ούχ άμαρτάνει means 'as long as he does not know' $(\ddot{a}\chi\rho\iota\varsigma\ \ddot{a}\nu\ \dot{a}\gamma\nu\circ\hat{\eta}=\ddot{a}.\ \ddot{a}\nu\ \gamma\nu\hat{\omega}$ 'until').
- 'Before' (in local sense, rarely πρό, supra 5) is expressed by ξμπροσθεν, ἐναντίον (ἔναντι, κατέναντι, ἀπέναντι), ἐνώπιον (κατενώπιον). Of these expressions ἔμπροσθεν and ἐναντίον with the genitive are also classical, and in the case of ἐναντίον the construction with the genitive is also the predominant use of the word, whereas ἔμπροσθεν is more frequently adverbial; ἀπέναντι is Hellenistic (Polyb.);
 the following are unfamiliar to profane writers, but common in LXX. and N.T.: ἐνώπιον (ἐν-ώπ. before the eyes: occasionally in papyri,

The expressions serve as a rendering for the Hebrew בּעִינֵי, also for מָגֶד, and ἔμπρο- $\sigma\theta\epsilon\nu$ and $\epsilon\nu\alpha\nu\tau$ iov also frequently stand in the N.T. in places where classical Greek would express itself in a simpler manner. Mt. 7. 6 μὴ βάλητε τοὺς μαργαρίτας ὑμῶν ἔμπροσθεν τῷν χοίρων = class. μὴ προβάλητε τ. μ. τοῖς χοίροις. "Εμπροσθεν is also apparently used of time = $\pi \rho \dot{\phi}$ (so in class. Greek), in Jo. 1. 15, 30 (or of precedence = has obtained the precedence of me?); in adverbial sense only in L. 19. 4, 28, Ph. 3. 14, Ap. 4. 6; it is employed by wellnigh all writers (not Pet., James, Jude, Hebr.), most frequently by Mt. 'Εναντίον occurs in Mc. 2. 12 ACD (al. έμπρ.), L. 1. 8 8AC al. (ἔναντι BDE al.), 20. 26, 24. 19 (ἐνώπιον D), Α. 7. 10 (ἔναντι κ), 8. 32 O.T.; ἔναντι is further used in 8. 21 (ἐνώπιον ΕΗLΡ); κατέναντι ἀπέν. (where the readings often vary) Mt. 21. 2, 27. 24 etc., A. 3. 16, 17. 7, R. 3. 18 O.T., 4. 17 (adverb L. 19. 30); ἐνώπιον is frequent in Luke (in the first half of the Acts; in the second half it is only found in 19. 9, 19, 27. 35) and in the Apocalypse: in John only in 20. 30, 1 Jo. 3. 22, 3 Jo. 6: in Mt. and Mc. never (κατενώπ. in a few passages of Paul and in Jude).— 'Before' in the strictly local sense is generally expressed by $\xi \mu \pi \rho \rho \sigma \theta \epsilon \nu$ alone (the word has only this sense in the Apoc.): $\xi \mu \pi \rho$. $\tau \circ \hat{\nu} \beta \hat{\eta} \mu \alpha \tau \circ s$ A. 18. 17, $\tau \hat{\omega} \nu$ ποδών Ap. 19. 10 (Β $\epsilon \nu \omega \pi i \sigma \nu$), 22. 8 (A $\pi \rho \delta$), although the author of the Apoc. also says ενώπιον τοῦ θρόνου; similarly 'before anyone' is ἔμπροσθεν Jo. 3. 28, 10. 4 (ἐνώπιον L. 1. 76 κΒ); ἔμπρ. ἐναντίον ένώπιον express 'before anyone' = before the eyes of anyone, also pleasing in anyone's eyes = 'to anyone,' A. 6. 5 ηρεσεν ενώπιον τοῦ $\pi \lambda \dot{\eta} \theta \text{ovs} = \tau \hat{\varphi} \pi \lambda \dot{\eta} \theta \epsilon i$, 1 Jo. 3, 22 $\tau \hat{\alpha} \vec{\alpha} \rho \epsilon \sigma \tau \hat{\alpha} \vec{\epsilon} \nu \hat{\omega} \pi i \text{ov} \vec{\alpha} \vec{v} \tau \hat{\sigma} \hat{v}$; $\hat{\alpha} \mu \alpha \rho \tau \hat{\alpha} \nu \epsilon i \nu$ $\epsilon \nu \omega \pi$. $\tau \iota \nu \circ s = \epsilon i s$ $\tau \iota \nu \alpha$ L. 15. 18, 21 (1 Sam. 7. 6), or $\tau \iota \nu i$, LXX. Judges 11. 27, Buttm. p. 150; so a genitive or dative is often replaced by this circumlocution, Mt. 18. 24 οὐκ ἔστιν θέλημα ἔμ- $\pi\rho\sigma\theta\epsilon\nu$ $\tau\sigma\theta$ $\pi\alpha\tau\rho\sigma$ $\mu\sigma\nu$, where $\epsilon\mu\pi\rho$, might be omitted, 11. 26, L. 15. 10 χαρά γίνεται ένώπιον των άγγέλων = των άγγέλων or τοίς \vec{a} γγέλοις, 24. ΙΙ έφάνησαν ένώπιον αὐτῶν ώσεὶ λ $\hat{\eta}$ ρος = αὐτοῖς, etc. Similar is H. 4. 13 ἀφανής ἐνώπιον αὐτοῦ, 13. 21; but in the second half of the Acts it is only used = class. ἐναντίον. Κατέναντι, ἀπέναντι mean 'over against' = class. καταντικρύ, Mt. 21. 2, Mc. 12. 41 etc.; but are also commonly used = 'before' like ἐναντίον, ἐνώπιον, e.g. with τοῦ ὄχλου Mt. 27. 24; a peculiar usage is ἀπέναντι τῶν δογμάτων 'contrary to' A. 17. 7 (ἐναντία τοῖς δόγμασιν or τῶν δογμάτων in classical Greek).

8. The opposite of εμπροσθεν in the local sense is δπισθεν 'behind,' occurring with genitive only in Mt. 15. 23, Lc. 23. 26, rarely also as an adverb; on the other hand δπίσω (in the older language the 1 Εναντι occurs in inscriptions in translations of Roman senatus consulta, Viereck Sermo graecus Senat. Rom. (Gtg. 1888) p. 16, 66.

² Even here the β text perhaps had κατὰ Χίον, cp. 16. 7, 27. 7; at any rate the Ms. of the Vulg. preserved at Ossepp (in Bohemia), for my acquaintance with which I am indebted to Dr. Fr. Herklotz, reads here catachium.

opposite of πρόσω, for which Attic had πόρρω 'far off,' the latter form occurring occasionally in N.T.) is found fairly often, usually as a preposition, more rarely as an adverb. The prepositional use of οπίσω, which is foreign to profane writers, takes its origin from the LXX. (Hebr. ἐρχεσθαι ὀπίσω τινός 'to follow' (also ἀκολουθεῖν όπ. τιν., instead of the dative, see § 37, 6), ἀπέστησε λαὸν όπίσω αὐτοῦ A. 5. 37, cp. 20. 30; even θαυμάζειν όπίσω Ap. 13. 3 (§ 38, 2, note 2). Somewhat different is έρχεσθαι όπ. τ. Mt. 3. 11 etc., 'to come after (or behind) anyone,' in the Baptist's utterance about Christ.—The compounds, found already in Attic Greek, έπ-άνω 'above' and ὑπο-κάτω 'underneath' (used also in Attic with the genitive), have a weakened force in the N.T. = 'upon,' 'under': Mt. 5. 14 πόλις ἐπάνω ὄρους κειμένη = Att. ἐπ' ὅρους, L. 8. 16 ὑποκάτω κλίνης $\tau i\theta \eta \sigma i \nu = \text{Att.}$ ὑπὸ κλίνην; ἐπάνω only is used adverbially, and this word is also joined with numerals = 'more than,' without affecting the case, § 36, 12 (before an adverb Mt. 2. 9 ἐπάνω οδ ἢν τὸ παιδίον, but D here has τοῦ παιδίου).— 'Between' is expressed by μεταξύ (Att.) Mt. 18. 15 etc. (rare); this word is also used adverbially in Jo. 4. 31 $\epsilon \nu \tau \hat{\varphi} \mu =$ 'meanwhile,' but in the common language 1 = 'afterwards,' A. 13. 42. $\epsilon is \tau \delta \mu \epsilon \tau a \xi \hat{\nu} \sigma a \beta \beta a \tau o \nu$, cp. 23. 24 an addition of the β text, Barn. 13. 5, Clem. Cor. i. 44. 2. Beside $\mu\epsilon\tau\alpha\xi\dot{\nu}$ we have $\dot{\alpha}\dot{\nu}\dot{\alpha}$ $\mu\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\sigma\nu$, see § 39, 2: $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ $\mu\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\dot{\omega}$ ($\dot{\epsilon}\mu\mu\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\dot{\omega}$) with genitive 'among,' 'between,' Mt. 10. 16 (Β είς μέσον), L. 10. 3 (μέσον D, vide infra), 8. 7 (μέσον D), 21. 22 etc. = Hebrew and classical $\vec{\epsilon}\nu$ or $\vec{\epsilon}$ is, since 'where?' and 'whither?' are not distinguished in this instance (είς μέσον never occurs except as a var. lect. in Mt. 10. 16 vide supra, 14. 24 D for μέσον; but of course we have είς τὸ μέσον without a subsequent case). Other equivalents are μέσος adjective Jo. 1. 26, L. 22. 55 BL (v.l. ἐν μέσφ, μετ') or μέσον adverb (cp. modern Greek μέσα), Ph. 2. 15 τέκνα θεοῦ μέσον γενεας σκολιας, L. 10. 3 D, vide supra (adj. or adv. in Mt. 14. 24, L. 8. 7 D). To these must be added ἐκ μέσου with gen. = ਜ਼ੀਜ਼ Mt. 13. 49 etc. = class. ἐξ; διὰ μέσον with gen. (ਜ਼ੈਨੜ) L. 4. 30 διελθών διὰ μέσον $\alpha \dot{v} \tau \hat{\omega} v = \delta \iota \dot{\alpha}$, (see also § 42, 1).

9. To express a prepositional idea by a circumlocution, the substantives πρόσωπον, χείρ, στόμα are employed with the genitive, similarly to μέσον, in constructions modelled on the Hebrew. 'Απὸ προσώπου τίνος=ἀπό or παρά with gen. after verbs signifying 'to come' or 'to go,' A. 3. 19, 5. 41:=the N.T. ἀπό (supra 3) after 'to drive out,' 'to hide,' 'to fly ' A. 7. 45, Ap. 6. 16, 12. 14, 20. 11, = Τρὸ προσώπου Μt. 11. 10 O.T. (Τρὸ), so L. 1. 76 (κ ἐνώπιον), 9. 52, even (in A. 13. 24, a sermon of Paul) πρὸ προσώπου τῆς εἰσόδου αὐτοῦ 'before (in advance of) him.' Κατὰ πρόσωπον = coram is also a recognised usage in profane writers, and in this sense is correctly employed in A. 25. 16 (without a gen.); elsewhere as in 3. 13 κατὰ πρόσωπον Πιλάτον, L. 2. 31 κατὰ πρ. πάντων τῶν λαῶν it corresponds

Polyb. 8, 20. 8 ύπὸ τὰς τῶν ἐχθρῶν χ. πίπτιν; ὑποχείριος); for which is substituted $\dot{\epsilon}\nu \tau \hat{\eta} \chi$. $\delta \dot{\epsilon} \delta \omega \kappa \epsilon \nu$ ($\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ for $\dot{\epsilon} is$, § 41, 1) in Jo. 3. 35. 'Εν (σὺν ABCDE) χειρὶ ἀγγέλου Α. 7. 35 (cp. G. 3. 19) בְּיַד , 'through,' 'by means of.' Ἐκ χειρός τινος 'out of the power of anyone' (ΤΥΑ) L. 1. 71, A. 12. 11 ἐξείλατό με ἐκ χ. Ἡρώδου, cp. in classical Gk. Aesch. 3. 256 ἐκ τῶν χειρῶν ἐξελέσθαι τῶν Φιλίππου (here used as a stronger and more vivid expression), etc. Διὰ χειρός, διὰ τῶν χειρῶν = διά 'through,' 'by means of' Mc. 6. 2 and frequently in Acts (2. 23, 5. 12 etc.), of actions; διὰ στόματος, on the other hand, is used of speeches which God puts into the mouth of anyone, L. 1. 70, A. 1. 16 etc. Further, for λόγοι οἱ ἀπό τινος or τινος the fuller and more vivid οἱ ἐκπορευόμενοι ἐκ (διὰ) στόμ. τινος is used in Mt. 4. 4 O.T. = LXX. Deut. 8. 3, L. 4. 22 etc.; for ἀκούειν τινός we have ἀκ. ἐκ (ἀπὸ, διὰ) τοῦ στ. τινός L. 22. 71, A. 1. 4 D, E. 4. 29 etc.; cp. L. 11. 54 θηρεθσαί τι έκ τ. στ. αὐτοθ, a word from him; έπθ στόματος 'on the assertion of Mt. 18. 16, and many similar exx.; στόμα was moreover utilized in classical Greek to coin many expressions of this kind. 'Εκ στόματος can also mean 'out of the jaws,' 2 Tim. 4. 17. —On δδόν as preposition (rersus) Mt. 4. 15 see § 34, 8, note 1.

§ 41. PREPOSITIONS WITH THE DATIVE.

1. 'Ev is the commonest' o" all prepositions in the N.T., notwithstanding the fact that some writers (§ 39, 3) occasionally employ ϵis instead of it. (The reverse change, namely, the misuse of $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ for $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\epsilon}s$, can only be safely asserted to take place in a very few cases in the N.T. Thus ἐν μέσφ is used in answer to the question 'whither?', § 40, 8; compare also $\epsilon i\sigma\hat{\eta}\lambda\theta\epsilon$ διαλογισμός $\epsilon \nu$ α $\bar{\nu}\tau$ οῖς L. 9. 46 'came into them, 'into their hearts' [see next verse]: κατέβαινεν έν τη κολυμβήθρα in a spurious verse Jo. 5, 4 [Herm. Sim. i. 6 $d\pi \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \theta_{ij} \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\nu}$ $\tau \hat{\eta}$ πόλει σου, Clem. Hom. i. 7, xiv. 6]. But έξηλθεν ὁ λόγος έν $\tau \hat{\eta}$ 'Ιουδαία L. 7. 17 [cp. 1 Th. 1. 8] means 'was spread abroad in J.'; in Ap. 11. 11 εἰσηλθεν εν αὐτοῖς is only read by A, αὐτοῖς CP, εἰς αὐτούς B; classical authors can use έν with τιθέναι and ἱστάναι, and with this may be compared διδόναι ['to lay'] ἐν τŷ χειρί τινος Jo. 3. 35 [§ 40, 9; Clem. Cor. i. 55. 5 παρέδωκεν 'Ολοφέρνην έν χειρί θηλείας], or $\epsilon \nu \tau \hat{\eta} \kappa \alpha \rho \delta i \alpha$ 2 C. 1. 22, 8. 16; no conclusive evidence can be drawn from the metaphorical usage in L. 1. 17 έν φρονήσει δικαίων, with the meaning 'so that they have the wisdom'; καλεῖν ἐν εἰρήνη and similar phrases).—The use of ev receives its chief extension through the imitation of Hebrew constructions with 3. Under this head comes its instrumental employment, § 38, 1; also its use to indicate the personal agent: ἐν τῷ ἄρχοντι (through) τῶν δαιμονίων έκβάλλει τὰ δαιμόνια Μt. 12. 24 (9. 24), κρίνειν τὴν οἰκουμένην ἐν ανδρί A. 17. 31 (1 C. 6. 2). In the same way no doubt is to be explained its use to express the motive: A. 7. 29 ἔφυγεν Μωϋση̂ς ἐν τῷ λόγῳ τούτῳ 'on account of' (DE have another reading ἐφυγάδευσεν Μωϋσην έν 'with'): Mt. 6. 7 έν τη πολυλογία αὐτῶν εἰσακουσθήσονται: έν τούτφ 'on this account' A. 24. 16, Jo. 16. 30: έν φ 'since,' 'because' H. 2. 18, or 'on which account' 6. 17; to the same category belongs the use of $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ with verbs expressing emotion, e.g. χαίρειν, § 38, 2. Another instance of instrumental έν is Ap. 5. 9 ηγόρασας ἐν τῷ αἴματί σου, cp. A. 20. 28; this phrase ἐν τῷ αἴματί (τοῦ Χρ.) is found in various connections in St. Paul and other writers (R. 3. 25, 5. 9 etc.), where the very indefinite and colourless meaning of ev does not help to determine the sense more accurately. On èvôcôvµévos èv and similar phrases see § 34, 6, note 2; on èv of accompaniment (with 'army' etc.) § 38, 3. Of manner (vide ibid.): έν τάχει (class.) L. 18. 8 etc., κρίνειν έν δικαιοσύνη = δικαίως A. 17. 31, Ap. 19. 11, $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ $\pi \dot{\alpha}\sigma \eta$ $\dot{\alpha}\sigma \phi \alpha \lambda \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\alpha} = \dot{\alpha}\sigma \phi \alpha \lambda \dot{\epsilon}\sigma \tau \alpha \tau \alpha$ A. 5. 23, $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ $(\pi \dot{\alpha}\sigma \eta)$ παρρησία 'freely,' 'openly' etc. Again ἄνθρωπος έν πνεύματι \ddot{a} καθάρτω Mc. 1. 23, 5. 2 must mean 'with an unclean spirit' = $\ddot{\epsilon}$ χων πνεθμα ἀκάθ. (3. 30 etc.), although a passage like R. 8. 9 θμείς δὲ οὐκ έστε εν σαρκὶ ἀλλ' εν πνεύματι, εἴπερ πνεῦμα θεοῦ οἰκεῖ εν ὑμιν' εἰ δε τις $\pi \nu \epsilon \hat{v} \mu \alpha$ Χριστο \hat{v} οὐκ ἔχει κ.τ.λ. is calculated to show the constant fluctuation of the meanings of $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ and of the conceptions of the relation between man and spirit. Another phrase with an extremely indefinite meaning is $\dot{\epsilon}\nu \hat{X}\rho\iota\sigma\tau\hat{\varphi}$ ($\kappa\nu\rho\iota\hat{\varphi}$), which is attached again and again in the Pauline Epistles to very different ideas.

2. Occasionally $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ appears to stand for the ordinary dative proper. 1 C. 14. 11 ἔσομαι τῷ λαλοῦντι ('for the speaker') βάρβαρος, καὶ ὁ λαλων εν εμοι²βάρβαρος 'for me,' instead of εμοί, which Paul avoided because it might have been taken with λαλών. Cp. G. 1. 16 ἀποκαλύψαι τὸν υίδν αὐτοῦ ἐν ἐμοί 'to me' c('in me,' i.e. 'in my spirit' would be an unnatural phrase); in 2 C. 4. 3 έν τοῖς ἀπολλυμένοις ἐστὶ κεκαλυμμένον 'for' is a better rendering than 'among'; 2 C. 8. 1 την χάριν την δεδομένην έν ταις έκκλησίαις της Μακ., cp. A. 4. 12 where D omits the $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$; but 1 Jo. 4. 9 $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ τούτω $\dot{\epsilon}\phi\alpha\nu\epsilon\rho\dot{\omega}\theta\eta$ ή αγάπη τοῦ θεοῦ ἐν ἡμῖν means 'towards us,' and is like ποιεῖν ἔν τινι, γίνεσθαι ἔν τινι, where moreover either the dative or είς can stand, § 34, 4.— 'Eν has the meaning of 'in' or 'bu' with μανθάνειν 1 C. 4. 6, γινώσκειν L. 24. 35 etc. (likewise classical); but we also find γιν. ἐκ L. 6. 44 etc., κατὰ τί 1. 18. For 'to swear by ' ομνύναι έν see § 34, 1 (instead of the accus.); for ὁμολογεῖν ἔν τινι 'to profess allegiance to anyone' (a Syriac expression) Mt. 10. 32, L. 12. 8, for which an accus. or two accusatives may be used, see § 34, 5. Έν μυστηρίω λαλοῦμεν σοφίαν 1 C. 2. 7 = 'as a mystery' (so in classical Greek). On èv in temporal sense see § 38, 4.

² v. App. p. 330.

3. Σ \acute{v} in classical Attic is limited to the sense of 'including,' whereas 'with' is expressed by $\mu\epsilon\tau\dot{a}$; but the Ionic dialect and afterwards the Hellenistic language kept the old word $\sigma\acute{v}$ \dot{v} in addition to $\mu\epsilon\tau\dot{a}$, and it is consequently found in the N.T., although very unequally employed by the different authors, and only occurring with any frequency in Luke (Gospel and Acts) and Paul, while it is unrepresented in the Apocalypse and the Epistles of John, and almost unrepresented in his Gospel.\(^1\) There is scarcely anything noteworthy in the way in which it is employed. $\Sigma\grave{v}v$ $\pi\hat{a}\sigma\iota$ $\tauo\acute{v}\tauo\iota$ s is 'beside all this' (LXX., Josephus, see W.-Gr.) L. 24. 21. On $\ddot{a}\mu a$ and $\sigma\acute{v}v$ see § 37, 6.

§ 42. PREPOSITIONS WITH TWO CASES.

1. And with accusative, local 'through' (poetical) only in L.17. 11 διήρχετο διὰ μέσον (NBL, D omits διά, § 40, 8; A al. διὰ μέσου) Σαμαρείας καὶ Γαλιλαίας, an inadmissible reading; elsewhere 'on account of,' denoting not only motive and author, but also (what in classical Greek is expressed by ἔνεκα) aim, 2 so that the modern Greek meaning 'for' is already almost in existence: Mc. 2. 27 τὸ σάββατον διὰ τὸν ἄνθρωπον ἐγένετο καὶ οὐχ ὁ ἄνθρ. διὰ τὸ σάββατον, Jo. 11. 42, 12. 30, 1 C. 11. 9 etc.—With genitive 'through' of place, time, and agent as in classical Greek. The temporal διά also expresses an interval of time that has elapsed: δι' έτων πλειόνων 'after several years' A. 24. 17, G. 2. 1; and further (not classical) the period of time within which something takes place: A. 1. 3 δι' ἡμερῶν τεσσεράκοντα όπτανόμενος αὐτοῖς 'during forty days' (not continuously, but at intervals, as was already noticed by the Scholiast following Chrysostom), διὰ νυκτός per noctem 'at night' (class. νυκτός, νύκτωρ), A. 5. 19 etc.; L. 9. 37 D διὰ τῆς ἡμέρας 'in the course of the day.' Instead of the agent, the author may also be denoted by διά (as in Aeschylus Agam. 1486 διαί Διὸς παναιτίου πανεργέτα): R. 11. 36 έξ αὐτοῦ (source) καὶ δι' αὐτοῦ (the Creator) καὶ είς αὐτὸν τὰ πάντα, cp. H. 2. 10 δι' δν (God) τὰ πάντα καὶ δι' οδ τὰ π., 1 C. 1. 9, G. 1. 1 3 (but the use is different in 1 C. 8. 6 $\epsilon \tilde{i}s$ $\theta \epsilon \hat{o}s$ \tilde{o} $\pi \alpha \tau \eta \rho$, $\tilde{\epsilon} \tilde{\xi}$ $\tilde{o}\tilde{v}$ $\tau \tilde{a}$ $\pi \tilde{a} v \tau a$ $\kappa a \tilde{i}$ ήμεις είς αὐτόν, καὶ είς κύριος Ί. Χ., δι' οδ [ον Β] τὰ πάντα καὶ ήμεις δι' αὐτοῦ, cp. Jo. 1. 3; Mt. 1. 22 τὸ ἡηθὲν ὑπὸ κυρίου διὰ τοῦ προφήτου, etc.). -Indicating mode and manner, διὰ λόγου 'by way of speech,' 'orally' A. 15. 27; also the circumstances in which a man is placed in doing anything: R. 2. 27 ὁ διὰ γράμματος καὶ περιτομής παραβάτης νόμου, 'who has the written statute withal,' 14. 20 διὰ προσκόμματος ἐσθίειν

'with offence,' διὰ πολλῶν δακρύων 2 C. 2. 4: also undoubtedly δι' ἀσθενείας (not -ένειαν) εὐηγγελισάμην ὑμῖν G. 4. 13 'in sickness,' as the Vulgate per (not propter) infirmitatem.\(^1\)—In a peculiar use in an urgent petition = 'by' (Attic πρός τινος): R. 12. 1 παρακαλῶ ὑμᾶς διὰ τῶν οἰκτιρμῶν τοῦ θεοῦ, 15. 30, 1 C. 1. 10 and elsewhere in the Pauline Epp. (cp. κατά τινος infra 2); but R. 12. 3 λέγω διὰ τῆς χάριτος—is 'in virtue of' (15. 15 διὰ τῆν χάριν 'because of').

2. Katá with accusative occurs frequently and in various senses, but in general these agree with the classical uses. As the use of κατά with accus. as a circumlocution for a genitive occurs frequently in the Hellenistic language (ἡ κατὰ τὸν ηκίον πορεία 'the course of the sun'), so in the N.T. one may adduce: A. 18. 15 νόμου τοῦ καθ' ύμᾶς 'the law in force with you, your law,' cp. 26. 3, 17. 28, Ε. 1. 15 τὴν καθ' ὑμᾶς πίστιν, Α. 16. 39 D τὰ καθ' ὑμᾶς = τὸ ὑμέτερον πρᾶγμα, and R. 1. 15 τὸ κατ' ἐμὲ πρόθυμον = ἡ ἐμὴ προθυμία? (but it is better to take $\tau \delta \kappa \alpha \tau' \epsilon \mu \epsilon$ as quod in me est, and then read $\pi \rho \delta \theta \nu \mu o s$ with Lat. and Origen and supply εἰμί, § 30, 3; cp. τὸ κατὰ σάρκα 9. 5 and other phrases, § 34, 7).—The distributive κατά has become stereotyped as an adverb (cp. $dv\dot{a}$, § 39, 2) in $\kappa a\theta'$ ϵls , see § 51, 5.—In the headings to the Gospels κατὰ Ματθαΐον etc. the author of this particular form of the Gospel is denoted by κατά, cp. § 35, 3; with this is compared (W.-Gr.) ή παλαιὰ διαθήκη κατὰ τοὺς εβδομήκοντα, and 2 Macc. 2. 13 τοις ὑπομνηματισμοίς τοις κατά Νεεμίαν, which perhaps means 'which bear the name of N.'

With the genitive the instances are far less numerous; κατά τινος most often means 'against someone' in a hostile sense, and indeed in the Hellenistic language it also takes the place of Attic ἐπί τινα (ἐστιν and the like): Mt. 12. 30 ὁ μὴ ὢν μετ' ἐμοῦ κατ' ἐμοῦ ἐστιν (Demosth. 19. 339 έπὶ τὴν πόλιν ἐστίν, but Polyb. 10, 8. 5 κατὰ τῆς πόλεως ὑπελάμβανον εἶναι), whereas the Attic κατά 'against' is used after verbs of speaking, witnessing etc.—Rarely in local sense: κατὰ τοῦ κρημνοῦ Mt. 8. 32 etc. 'down from'; κατὰ κεφαλῆς ἔχων 1 C. 11. 4, opposed to ἀκατακαλύπτω τη κεφαλή ('hanging down over the head,' 'on the head'); 'throughout' A. 9. 31 καθ' ὅλης της Ἰονδαίας, 10. 37, L. 4. 14, 23. 5 (Hellenistic, Polyb. 3, 19. 7 διεσπάρησαν κατὰ τῆς νήσου), in this sense always with δλος and confined to Luke's Gospel and Acts (with accus. οἱ ὄντες κατὰ τὴν Ἰουδαίαν A. 11. 1, it means simply 'in') A peculiar use is ή κατά βάθους πτωχεία 2 C. 8. 2 'deep' or 'profound poverty' (Strabo 9, p. 419 ἄντρον κοίλον κατά βάθους, W.-Gr.).—For its use with ομνύναι, (ἐξ)ορκίζειν Mt. 26. 63, H. 6. 13, 16, see § 34, 1 (κατὰ τοῦ κυρίου ἠρώτησα 'entreated by the Lord' Herm. Vis. iii. 2. 3).

3. Meτά with accusative in local sense 'after,' 'behind' only occurs in H. 9. 3 μετὰ τὸ δεύτερον καταπέτασμα (answering to πρό, an unclassical use); elsewhere it always has temporal sense 'after.' Οὐ μετὰ πολλὰς ταύτας ἡμέρας Α. 1. 5 is 'not many days after to-day,' cp. πρό, § 40, 5.—Meτά with genitive has to itself (and not in common with σύν) the meaning of 'among,' 'amid,' μετὰ τῶν νεκρῶν L. 24. 5, μετὰ ἀνόμων ἐλογίσθη (Mc. 15. 28) L. 22. 37, O.T. (Hebr. πN , LXX, $\epsilon \nu$), as in classical poets; in the sense of 'with' it is interchanged with $\sigma \dot{\nu} \nu$, § 41, 3, but with this limitation that with expressions which imply mutual participation, such as πολεμείν, εἰρηνεύειν, συμφωνείν, φίλος, λαλείν (Mc. 6. 50 etc.) and others (§ 37, 6), μετά τινος and not σύν τινι is used in place of or by the side of the simple dative (Hebr. $\Box y$, class. dative or $\pi \rho \delta s$); it is likewise the only preposition used to express accompanying circumstances, μετὰ φόβου etc., § 3, 3 (class.), and in the sense of 'to' (Hebraic) in ποιείν έλεος μετά τινος L. 10. 37, cp. 1. 58 (Herm. Sim. v. 1. 1 even has περί πάντων ων ἐποίησε μετ' ἐμοῦ 'to me,' which differs from the use of the phrase in A. 14. 27 where $\mu\epsilon\tau\dot{a}=$ 'with'). On the whole the use of $\mu\epsilon\tau\dot{\alpha}$ far outweighs that of $\sigma\dot{\nu}\nu$ (the number of instances of the former word is nearly three times that of the latter), though in individual books σύν has equally strong or even stronger attestation (in Acts).

4. Περί with accusative (not very frequent) is used in local and temporal sense for 'about'; so οἱ περὶ αὐτόν Μc. 4. 10, L. 22. 49 = 'his disciples'; but οἱ περὶ Παῦλον A. 13. 13, as is the case with similar phrases in the literary language, includes Paul; we even have πρὸς τὰς περὶ Μάρθαν καὶ Μαρίαν Jo. 11. 19 A al. (as often in later writers) to denote Martha and Mary only, but the phrase can hardly be considered genuine; it has a further use, which is also classical, to denote the object of the action or of the pains expended (not the subject of speech or thought, which is περί τινος), with ἐπιθυμίαι Μc. 4. 19 (om. D), with περισπᾶσθαι, τυρβάζεσθαι L. 10. 40 f., with ἐργάται A. 19. 25. Paul, who only began to use περί τινα at the time of writing the Philippian epistle, uses it generally for 'concerning' (something like Plato's πονηρὸν περὶ τὸ σῶμα, 'injurious with regard to'): Ph. 2. 23 τὰ περὶ ἐμέ, 1 Tim. 1. 19 περὶ τὴν πίστιν ἐνανάγησαν, 6. 4, 21, 2 Tim. 2. 18, 3. 8, Tit. 2. 7 (τὰ περὶ τὸν πύργον Herm. Vis. iii. 3. 1).

Περί with genitive (extremely common) most often in such phrases as 'to speak,' 'know,' 'have a care' etc., 'concerning' or 'about'; at the beginning of a sentence or paragraph 'as concerning' 1 C. 7. 1 etc. (class.); also 'on account of' (class.) with κρίνεσθαι, ἐγκαλεῖν, εὐχαριστεῖν, ἐρωτᾶν (entreat), δεῖσθαι, προσεύχεσθαι, πρόφασιν (an excuse) ἔχειν, αἰνεῖν etc., in which cases it often passes over to the meaning of 'for' and becomes confused with ὑπέρ: Jo. 17. 9 οὐ περὶ τοῦ κόσμον ἐρωτῶ, ἀλλὰ περὶ ὧν δέδωκάς μοι. It is used as absolutely equivalent to ὑπέρ in Mt. 26. 28 τὸ περὶ (D ὑπὲρ) πολλῶν ἐκχυνόμενον (in Mc. 14. 24 περί is only read by A al.), 1 C. 1. 13 ἐστανρώθη περὶ ὑμῶν only BD* (al. ὑπὲρ), A. 26. 1 περὶ (κAC al.; ὑπὲρ BLP) σεαυτοῦ λέγειν, G. 1. 4 (ὑπὲρ κ°B), H. 5. 3 καθὼς περὶ ἑαυτοῦ, οὕτως καὶ περὶ τοῦ λαοῦ προσφέρειν περὶ (ὑπὲρ C°D° al. as in ver. 1) ἀμαρτιῶν, cp. 10. 6, 8 O.T., 18, 26, 13. 11, 1 P. 3. 18, Mc. 1. 44, L. 5. 14.

 $^{^1}$ Πρὸς τὴν Μ. καὶ Μ. κΒC*L al., similarly without τὴν D; ἴνα παραμυθήσωνται τὴν Μ. καὶ τὴν Μ. Syr. Sin.

With verbs expressing emotion: Mt. 9. 36 ἐσπλαγχνίσθη περὶ αὐτῶν (i.e. τῶν ὅχλων; elsewhere the verb has ἐπί τινα οτ ἐπί τινι, §§ 36, 7; 43, 1 and 3), Mt. 20. 24 and Mc. 10. 41 ἀγανακτεῖν περί τινος, 'concerning anyone' (classical Greek has περὶ τῶν πραχθέντων Plat. Ep. vii. 349 d), L. 2. 18 θανμάζειν περὶ ('concerning a thing'), all these constructions hardly classical; περὶ πάντων εὐοδοῦσθαι 'in every respect' 3 Jo. 2. Ποιῆσαι περὶ αὐτοῦ ('to do with him') L. 2. 27 also appears to be an incorrect phrase (περὶ αὐτόν would be better, vide supra, N.T. says αὐτῷ οτ ἐν αὐτῷ); λαγχάνειν ('to draw lots') περί τινος Jo. 19. 24 may be compared with the classical μάχεσθαι περί τινος.

5. 'Y $\pi \acute{e} \rho$ with accusative "(not frequent) 'above,' denotes superiority (no longer found in local sense); bence it is used with the comparative, § 36, 12; it is used adverbially in the Pauline epistles $\hat{\nu}\pi\hat{\epsilon}\rho$ λίαν (or ὑπερλίαν \S 4, 1 ; 28, 2) 2 C. 11. 5, 12. 11 ὑπὲρ ἐκ περισσοῦ or ύπερεκπ. 1 Th. 3. 10, Ε. 3. 20, similarly or ύπερ εκπερισσώς (BD*FG) 1 Th. 5. 13; or it stands by itself 2 C. 11. 23 διάκονοι Χριστοῦ είσιν; ὑπὲρ (to a higher degree) ἐγὼ (διάκ. Χρ. εἰμι), cp. the classical words ύπέρλαμπρος, ύπερεξακισχίλιοι ([Demosth.] 59. 89), whereas in the N.T. it is impossible in all cases to carry out the compounding of the two words into one.— Υπέρ with genitive 'for,' opposed to κατά Tivos Mc. 9. 40 etc., is much limited in its use by the substitution of $\pi\epsilon\rho i$ (supra 4), while the reverse change ($\lambda\epsilon\gamma\epsilon\iota\nu$ $\delta\pi\epsilon\rho$ 'to speak about') which is common in Attic and Hellenistic Greek (as also in the LXX.), is found more rarely and is almost confined to Paul: Jo. 1. 30 ύπερ οδ (περί οδ κ'A al.') είπον, 2 C. 8. 23 είτε ύπερ Τίτου ('as concerning,') 12. 8 ὑπὲρ τούτου παρεκάλεσα ('on this account,' 'on behalf of this,' cp. supra 4 $\pi\epsilon\rho$ i), 2 Th. 2. 1, καυχάσθαι ὑπέρ often in Paul, also φυσιοῦσθαι ὑπέρ, φρονεῖν ὑπέρ (in Ph. 1. 7 'to think upon,' in 4. 10 'to care for'). Also the object to be attained may be introduced by ὑπέρ, 2 C. 1. 6 ὑπὲρ τῆς ὑμῶν παρακλήσεως ('to'); so also Ph. 2. 13 $\hat{v}\pi\hat{\epsilon}\rho$ ($<o\hat{v}>?$) $\tau\hat{\eta}s$ εὐδοκίας (God's; C adds αὐτο \hat{v}) $\pi \acute{a} \nu \tau a \pi o \iota \epsilon \iota \tau \epsilon$ (the first words are not to be taken with the preceding clause).

6. 'Ym6 with accusative (not very frequent; in John only in 1. 49 of his Gospel, never in the Apocalypse 1) 'under,' answering the questions 'where?' and 'whither?' (the old local use of $\dot{v}\pi\dot{o}$ tivos and $\dot{v}\pi\dot{o}$ tivi has become merged in $\dot{v}\pi\dot{o}$ ti), is used in literal and metaphorical sense; in temporal sense only in A. 5. 21 $\dot{v}\pi\dot{o}$ $\dot{v}\partial\dot{v}\rho\theta\rho\rho\nu$, sub, circa (class.).2—'Ym6 with genitive 'by,' denoting the agent, is used with passive verbs and verbs of passive meaning like $\pi\lambda\eta\gamma\dot{a}s$ $\lambda\alpha\mu\beta\dot{a}\nu\epsilon\iota\nu$ 2 C. 11. 24;3 in some instances its place is taken by $\dot{a}\pi\dot{o}$, § 40, 3; see also $\dot{c}\iota\dot{d}$, supra 1.

 $^{^1\,\}mathrm{The}$ Apoc. has $\dot{\upsilon}\pi o\kappa \acute{a}\tau \omega$ (§ 40, 8) instead, which is also found in John's Gospel 1. 51.

² Herm. often uses $\dot{v}\pi\dot{o}$ $\chi\epsilon\hat{v}\rho a$ in a peculiar way 'continually,' Vis. iii. 10. 7, v. 5. 5, Mand. iv. 3. 6.

§ 43. PREPOSITIONS WITH THREE CASES.

1. 'Eπ' is the single preposition the use of which with all three cases is largely represented. The case, however, which it takes with far the most frequency is the accusative. This is used not only, as in classical Greek, in answer to the question Whither? (including such constructions as that with στηναι, where είς may take the place of ἐπί, § 39, 3), but also not infrequently as a substitute for genitive or dative, in answer to the question Where ?: Mt. 9. 2 (Mc. 2. 14, L. 5. 27) καθήμενος έπὶ τὸ τελώνιον, Mc. 4. 38 έπὶ τὸ προσκεφάλαιον (D ἐπὶ προσκεφαλαίου) καθεύδων, L. 2, 25 πνεθμα αγιον $\hat{\eta}\nu$ $\hat{\epsilon}\pi$ αὐτόν, cp. 40 (where D has $\hat{\epsilon}\nu$ αὐτ $\hat{\omega}$), Jo. 1. 32 $\hat{\epsilon}\mu\epsilon\iota\nu\epsilon\nu$ $\hat{\epsilon}\pi$ αὐτόν (33), A. 1. 15 ἐπὶ τὸ αὐτό 'together' (so fairly often in Acts, and occas. in Paul and elsewhere, used with \(\epsilon \)ival etc.; LXX. Joseph. 1*), 2 C. 3. 15 έπὶ τὴν καρδίαν αὐτῶν κεῖται, Α. 21. 35 ἐγένετο ἐπὶ τοὺς άναβαθμούς, cp. γίνεσθαι είς § 39, 3 (but έπί τινος L. 22. 40), Mt. 14. 25 περιπατών έπὶ τὴν θάλασσαν 8B al., gen. CD al., 26 gen. BCD al., acc. EFG al.; 28 f. all MSS. ἐπὶ τὰ ὕδατα; in Mc. 6. 48 f., Jo. 6. 19 the gen. is used, which in the passage of John some would understand as in 21. r in the sense of 'by the sea,' although we should not use such an expression, but 'on the shore.' Moreover with the metaphorical senses of $\epsilon \pi i$ the accusative is more widely prevalent than it strictly should be: not only do we have καθιστάναι δικαστην έφ' υμας (direction whither?) L. 12. 14, but also βασιλεύσει έπὶ τὸν οἶκον Ἰακώ β 1. 33 (Hebraic, ep. inf. 2, § 36, 8), έπὶ ὀλίγα ἢς πιστός, ἐπὶ πολλῶν σε καταστήσω Μτ. 25. 21, σπλαγχίζομαι ἐπὶ τὸν ὄχλον 15. 32, Mc. 8. 2, cp. Herm. Mand. iv. 3. 5. Sim. ix. 24. 2 (which in Attic must at least have been $\hat{\epsilon}\pi\hat{\iota}$ $\hat{\tau}\hat{\wp}$...), $\mu\hat{\gamma}$ κλαίετε $\hat{\epsilon}\pi'$ $\hat{\epsilon}\mu\hat{\epsilon}$ L. 23. 28, έλπίζειν, πιστεύειν¹, πίστις, πεποιθέναι έπί τινα or έπί τινι, § 37, 1 alternating with είς τινα (έν τινι), Mc. 9. 12 f. γέγραπται έπὶ τὸν νίὸν τοῦ ἀνθρώπου 'concerning' (Att. prefers ἐπί τινι). The following further instances may be noticed: A. 4. 22 ὁ ἄνθρωπος ἐφ' ον γεγόνει τὸ σημεῖον 'upon' (class. εἰς ον, Hdt. i. 114, or περὶ ον ; cp. also ἐπί τινος infra 2) : 10. 35 πεσὼν ἐπὶ τοὺς πόδας προσεκύνησεν, = Att. προσπεσὼν αὐτῷ (Jo. 11. 32 has πρὸς with v.l. εἰς, Mc. 5. 22 $\pi \rho \dot{\phi}$ s). In temporal senses: A. 3. \vec{i} έπὶ τὴν ώραν τῆς $\pi \rho \phi \sigma \epsilon v \chi \hat{\eta}$ s, 4. 5 (L. 10. 35) $\epsilon \pi i \tau \hat{\eta} \nu$ a $\tilde{\eta} \rho i \sigma \nu$, more frequently expressed by $\tau \hat{\eta}$ έπ-αύριον, denoting the coincidence of an action with a particular time, for which classical Greek uses είς (ἐσαύριον); it further denotes duration of time as in classical Greek: ἐφ' ἡμέρας πλείους Α. 13. 31

2. Έπί with genitive in the majority of cases means 'upon' (answering the question Where ?), as in $\epsilon \pi i \tau \hat{\eta} s \gamma \hat{\eta} s$, $\epsilon \pi i \kappa \lambda i \nu \eta s$, $\kappa \alpha \theta \hat{\eta} \mu \epsilon \nu o s \epsilon \pi i \tau o \hat{i} \tilde{i} \epsilon \eta i \tau o \hat{i} \tilde{i} \tau \pi o v$ etc., but also in answer to the question Whither ?, the reverse interchange of meanings taking place with $\epsilon \pi i$ with the accus. as was noticed above in 1: Mc. 4. 26

¹ Έπίστευσαν έπλ τὸν κύριον Α. 9. 42, 11. 17 etc. might be compared with έπέστρεψαν έπλ τὸν κ. 9. 35, 11. 21 etc. (direction whither), but we also have τοὺς πιστεύοντας έπλ σέ Α. 22. 19 etc., where this explanation is unsuitable.

βάλη τὸν σπόρον ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς, 9. 20 πεσὼν ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς (accus. in Mt. 10.29, 34), Mt. 26. 12 etc.; a further meaning is 'at' or 'by,' ἐπὶ τῆς όδοῦ Mt. 21. 19, α ἐπὶ τῆς θαλάσσης Jo. 21. 1 etc. (For the strengthened form ἐπάνω 'upon' see § 40, 8.) With persons it means 'before.' Μc. 13. 9 ἐπὶ ἡγεμόνων σταθήσεσθε, Α. 25. 9 κρίνεσθαι ἐπ' ἐμοῦ (ibid. 10 έπὶ τοῦ βήματος Καίσαρος έστως 'before,' but in 17 καθίσας $\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\pi}\hat{\iota}$ τ . β . 'upon'), Mt. 28. 14 with $\hat{a}\kappa o v \sigma \theta \hat{\eta}$ (BD $\hat{v}\pi \delta$), 1 Tim. 5. 19 $\hat{\epsilon}\pi\hat{\iota}$ μαρτύρων (ἐπὶ στόματος μαρτ. 2 C. 13. 1, Hebr. "Υζός"), cp. infra 3, 2 C. 7. 14 ἐπὶ Τίτου (v.l. πρὸς Τίτου). In metaphorical sense of 'over,' of authority and oversight (Attic), it is used not only with είναι, but also with καθιστάναι (supra 1), A. 8. 27, R. 9. 5, Mt. 24. 45 etc.; also with βασιλεύειν (cp. supra 1, § 36, 8) Mt. 2. 22 CD al. (8B have the simple genitive). 'To do to anyone,' 'to say of anyone': Jo. 6. 2 ά ἐποίει ἐπὶ τῶν ἀσθενούντων, G. 3. 16 οὐ λέγει ... ὡς ἐπὶ πολλῶν κ.τ.λ. (as in Plato Charm. 155 D, W.-Gr.); $\epsilon \pi'$ $\delta \lambda \eta \theta \epsilon i \alpha s$ 'in accordance with the truth' Mc. 12. 14 etc. (Demosth. 18. 17 etc.); frequently of contemporaneousness (classical) ἐπὶ ᾿Αβιάθαρ ἀρχιερέως Mc. 2. 26 (om. Dal.), Mt. 1. 11, H. 7. 11 and elsewhere; Paul uses $\epsilon \pi i \tau \hat{\omega} \nu \pi \rho o$ σευχῶν μου meaning 'in,' E. 1. 16 etc.; a Hebraistic use is ἐπ' ἐσχάτου τῶν ἡμερῶν Η. 1. 1, cp. 1 P. 1. 20, 2 P. 3. 3, Jude 18, and cp. § 47, 2.

3. Έπί with dative.—When the preposition has a local sense the genitive and accusative have the preponderance, and a sharp distinction between its use with those cases and with the dative cannot be drawn. Answering the question Where? we have ἐπὶ θύραις, ἐπὶ τή θύρα (classical) 'before the door' Mt. 24. 33, A. 5. 9 etc. (but in Ap. 3. 20 the accus.): ἐπὶ πίνακι 'upon' ('upon' in classical Greek is generally ἐπί τινος, Buttm. p. 289) Mt. 14. 8, 11, Mc. 6. 25, 28: in A. 27. 44 gen. and dat. are used interchangeably: ἐκαθέζετο ἐπὶ $\tau \hat{\eta}$ πηγ $\hat{\eta}$ Jo. 4. 6, cp. 5. 2, 'at' or 'by': ἐπὶ ταύτη $\tau \hat{\eta}$ πέτρα (acc. in D Euseb.) οἰκοδομήσω Mt. 16. 18 (in 7. 24 ff. all Mss. have acc.): with έπιβάλλειν ἐπικεῖσθαι ἐπιπίπτειν Mt. 9. 16, Jo. 11. 38 (without ἐπ' , cp. § 37, 7), A. 8. 16 (accus. D*, which is on the whole far the more frequent construction): $\dot{\epsilon}\phi'$ $i\pi\pi\omega$ Ap. 19. 14 (elsewhere always expressed by genit.). The dative also intervenes in the metaphorical sense 'to set over' (as in classical authors) Mt. 24. 47. Most frequently $\epsilon \pi i \tau i \nu i$ denotes the ground or reason, especially with verbs expressing emotion, such as θαυμάζειν, χαίρειν, λυπείσθαι, μετανοείν, see § 38, 2 (for the accus. supra 1); also with εὐχαριστεῖν, δοξάζειν τὸν θεόν, κρίνεσθαι (A. 26. 6); καλεῖν ἐπὶ 'to call after' L. 1. 59; ζην έπὶ Mt. 4. 4 O.T.; ἀρκεῖσθαι ἐπὶ 3 Jo. 10; ἐφ' ῷ 'for the reason that,' 'because' R. 5. 12, 2 C. 5. 4; under this head may be brought πεποιθέναι, πιστεύειν, έλπίζειν ἐπί τινι, § 37, 1 (beside ἐπί τινα, supra 1, and other constructions), παρρησιάζεσθαι έπὶ τῷ κυρίῳ A. 14. 3, unless the last instance is to be connected with the common $\hat{\epsilon}\pi\hat{\iota}$ (like $\hat{\epsilon}\nu$) $\tau\hat{\omega}$ *ονόματί τινος, § 39, 4.—Expressing addition to (classical): L. 3. 20, 16. 26 ἐπὶ (ἐν κΒL) πᾶσι τούτοις, cp. E. 6. 16 (ἐν κΒΡ), Col. 3. 14, H. 8. 1 (for which we have accus. in Ph. 2. 27 $\lambda \dot{\nu} \pi \eta \nu \stackrel{?}{\epsilon} \pi i \lambda \dot{\nu} \pi \eta \nu$). Expressing a condition (classical): $\epsilon \pi' \epsilon \lambda \pi \ell \delta \iota$ R. 8. 20, 1 C. 9. 10, Tit. 1. 2 (a different use in A. 2. 26 O.T., R. 4. 18, 5. 2, where it rather indicates the reason); ep. H. 8. 6, 9. 10, 15, 17; also καλείν ἐπ'

- έλενθερία G. 5. 13, οὐκ ἐπ' ἀκαθαρσία ἀλλ' ἐν ἁγιασμῶ 1 Th. 4. 7: denoting rather aim, ἐπ' ἔργοις ἀγαθοῖς E. 2. 10, cp. ἐψ' ῷ καὶ κατελήμφθην Ph. 3. 12 (4. 10 is similar, but the expression is hardly formed correctly; cp. infra); of result 2 Tim. 2. 14 (beside an ἐπί with accus., where however there is a var. lect.). 'At' or 'to anything'; 1 C. 14. 16, E. 4. 26, Ph. 1. 3, 2. 17, Î Th. 3. 7, H. 11. 4, Jo. 4. 27 ἐπὶ τούτῳ (better ἐν κ*D); H. 9. 26 ἐπὶ συντελεία τοῦ αἰῶνος; ἐψ' ῷ ἐψρονεῖτε 'whereon ye thought' Ph. 4. 10; with persons 'against' (cp. acc. supra 1) L. 12. 52 (beside an acc.), Ap. 10. 11, 'concerning' (cp. acc. supra 1) γεγραμμένα Jo. 12. 16 (D περὶ αὐτοῦ; om. be Nonn.), 'in the case of' A. 5. 35; ἐπὶ δυσὶ μάρτυσιν ἀποθιήσκει H. 10. 28 = Hebr. Τος supra 2 'ir two witnesses are there,' denoting condition or reason.
- 4. Παρά with accusative, mostly in local sense 'by,' 'beside,' is used indiscriminately to answer the questions Where? (strictly $\pi a \rho a$ τινι) and Whither? (a distinction which is already becoming lost in the classical language, through the encroachment of $\pi \alpha \rho \alpha$ with the accus.; in the N.T. the local παρά τινι has almost disappeared, vide infra 6). It is not, as it frequently is in classical Greek, joined with personal names (though παρὰ τοὺς πόδας τινός is common); πρός τινα takes its place, infra 7.—In metaphorical sense (classical) 'contrary to,' as opposed to κατά 'according to,' R. 1. 26, 11. 24 παρὰ φύσιν opposed to κατά φ.; κατά δύναμιν ... παρά δύν. ('beyond') 2 C. 8. 3 $(v.l. \ \upsilon \pi \epsilon \rho)$; 'other than' G. 1.8 f., also with allows 1 C. 3. 11 (class.); often 'more than,' both with a comparative, § 36, 12, and also without one: ἐλάτρευσαν τῆ κτίσει παρὰ τὸν κτίσαντα R. 1. 25, 12. 3, 14. 5, L. 13. 2, 4, Herm. Mand. x. 1. 2 (in classical Greek only 'in comparison with,' but this easily leads to the other usage). It denotes also (as in classical Greek) that in virtue of which something (is or) is not: 2 C. 11. 24 τεσσαράκοντα παρὰ μίαν, i.e. minus one, παρά τι 'almost' L. 5. 7 D, Herm. Sim. ix. 19. 3, οὐ παρὰ τοῦτο οὐκ ἔστιν ἐκ τοῦ σώματος 1 C. 12. 15 f. 'that is no reason for its not being' etc.— In Mt. and Mc. it is only found in local sense, in the Johannine writings (including the Apocalypse) and in the Catholic Epistles the use with accusative is entirely absent.
- 5. Παρά with genitive 'from the side of,' only with persons (so classical Greek), with verbs of coming, hearing, receiving etc. (ἀπδ sometimes incorrectly takes its place, § 40, 3); it is also rightly used in τοῖς λελαλημένοις παρὰ κυρίου L. 1. 45 (since God did not speak Himself, but the angel who was commissioned by Him, W.-Gr.); but in A. 22. 30 παρά is found with κατηγορεῖσθαι, but only in HLP, the other Mss. reading ὑπό. It occurs without a verb in Mc. 3. 21 οἱ παρ' αὐτοῦ 'His kinsfolk' (LXX. Dan. Sus. 33), but there are several variants (the phrase in classical Greek could only mean the persons sent out by someone): δαπανήσασα τὰ παρ' (παρ' om. D) ἑαυτῆς 5. 26 is good classical Greek; Lc. 10. 7, Ph. 4. 18 etc.
- 6. Hapá with dative is 'by,' 'beside,' answering the question Where ? and with the exception of Jo. 19. 25 $\pi a \rho \hat{\alpha} \tau \hat{\phi} \sigma \tau a v \rho \hat{\phi}$ is only used of persons (so preponderantly in classical Greek), and moreover not of immediate neighbourhood 1 (thus not καθῆσθαι παρά, but μετά Ap. 3. 21, σύν A. 8. 31, or πρός Mt. 26. 55 CD), but 'in the house of anyone' as in $\tilde{J}\upsilon$. 1. 40: "or 'amongst a people' as in Ap. 2. 13. The word is further used in a figurative sense: L. 1. 30 εδρες χάριν παρὰ τῷ θεῷ, Mt. δ 9. 26 δυνατὸν, ἀδύνατον παρά τινι, especially with the meaning 'in the opinien of anyone' (classical) R. 12. 16 (11. 25, where AB have ἐν) φρόνιμοι παρ' ἐαντοῖς, 1 C. 3. 19 μωρία παρὰ τῷ θεῷ; also A. 26... 8 ἄπιστον κρίνεται παρ' ὑμῖν (Mt. 21. 25 διελογίζοντο παρ' ἑαντοῖς, but ἐν BL al., as in 16. 8 etc.).—The dative is the rarest of the cases after παρά (on account of its clashing with πρός, vide 7), still nearly all writers use it.²

7. Hoos with accusative is abundantly used with verbs of coming, sending, bringing, saying etc. = 'to' (a person); often also with the verb 'to be' = 'with' or 'at,' taking the place of παρά τινι, Mt. 13. 56 πρὸς ἡμᾶς είσιν, 26. 18 πρὸς σὲ ποιῶ τὸ πάσχα, 26. 55 as a v.l., Mc. 6. 3° etc. (Herm. Mand. xi. 9 etc.); also for παρά τινα (cp. supra 4), εθαψαν πρὸς τὸν ἄνδρα αὐτῆς A. 5. 10, εἰσῆλθες πρὸς ἄνδρας 11. 3, i.e. 'into their house,' and therefore expressed in Attic by παρά. Also of places and things: Mt. 21. 1 προς (v.l. είς) τὸ ὄρος, Mc. 11. 1, L. 19. 29: πρὸς τὴν θύραν Mc. 1. 33, 2. 2, 11. 4 (L. 16. 20), answering the questions Whither? and Where? (in the latter case we have correctly $\pi\rho \delta s \tau \hat{\eta} \theta \nu \rho a$ Jo. 18. 16, $\pi\rho \delta \tau \hat{\omega} \nu \theta \nu \rho \hat{\omega} \nu$ A. 5. 23, $\vec{\epsilon} \pi \hat{\iota} \theta \nu \rho a \iota s$ Mt. 24. 33): Mc. 3. 7 πρὸς τὴν θάλασσαν (v.l. εἰς, cp. § 39, 5), 4 L. 12. 3 πρὸς τὸ οὖς λαλείν. As in classical Greek we also have θερμαίνεσθαι $\pi \rho \delta s$ το $\delta \phi \delta s$ ('turning towards') Mc. 14. 54 (L. 22. 56).—In temporal sense it is used of approximation (class.): πρὸς ἐσπέραν ἐστίν L. 24. 29 $(\pi \rho. \dot{\epsilon}. \kappa \dot{\epsilon} \kappa \lambda \iota \kappa \dot{\epsilon} \nu \dot{\eta} \dot{\eta} \mu \dot{\epsilon} \rho a D);$ and with the meaning 'for a certain time' (and no longer) πρὸς καιρόν, ὥραν, ὀλίγας ἡμέρας, τὸ παρόν,5 L. 8. 13, Jo. 5. 35, H. 12. 10 f. etc.—To express hostile and friendly relations, with μάχεσθαι, εἰρήνην ἔχειν, ἀσύμφωνος (Α. 28. 25), ηπιος etc.; relevance to, τi $\pi \rho \delta s$ $\dot{\eta} \mu \hat{a} s$; 'what is it to us?' § 44. SYNTAX OF THE ADJECTIVE.

1. The adjective may take over the functions of a substantive not only in the masculine and neuter, to denote persons and things (where these ordinary ideas readily suggest themselves), but also in the feminine: in this case there is a more or less obvious ellipse of some well-known substantive, which is sufficiently indicated by the feminine gender, the sense, and the context. The rule which applies to adjective holds good also for pronouns and participles, as also for adverbial (or prepositional) expressions with the article. following phrases γη must be understood: ή ξηρά (Xenoph., LXX.) Mt. 23. 15 (τὴν θάλασσαν καὶ τ. ξ.), H. 11. 29 (κAD*E with γῆs), ή π ερίχωρος (Plut.) Mt. 3. 5 etc., $\dot{\eta}$ ορεινή L. 1. 30 (or sc. χώρα), $\dot{\eta}$ έρημος; in έκ της ύπο τον ουρανον είς την ύπ' ουρ. L. 17. 24 it is better to supply μερίδος; in έξ έναντίας αὐτοῦ Mc. 15. 39 (D ἐκεῖ), Tit. 2. 8 (class.) the éllipse is quite obscure.—Ellipse of ἡμέρα: τŷ ἐπιούση Α. 16. 11, 20. 15, 21. 18 (with ἡμ. 7. 26), τŷ ἐχομένη, τŷ ἐτέρα 20. 16, L. 13. 33 $(\tau \hat{\eta} \epsilon \chi, \dot{\eta} \mu, A, 21, 26)$, elsewhere in Acts (and Luke's Gospel) $\tau \hat{\eta} \epsilon \xi \hat{\eta} s$; τη (ἐπ)αύριον occurs also in Mt. 27. 62 (Mc., Jo., Ja.); σήμερον καί αύριον καὶ τ $\hat{\eta}$ τρίτη L. 13. 32 (elsewhere $\tau \hat{\eta}$ τρ. $\hat{\eta}\mu$.); εἰς τὴν αὐριον... πρὸ μιᾶς Herm. A. 24. 11 (Col. 1. 6, 9), but in L. 7. 45 there can only be an ellipse of ωρας, as there is in $\dot{\epsilon} \xi a v \tau \hat{\eta} s$ 'immediately' (§ 4. 1); there is the same ellipse in ($\dot{\eta}$) $\pi \rho \omega i a$, όψία Mt., Mc., Jo., Herm. (not classical), (ή) τετράμηνος Jo. 4. 35, τρίμ. H. 11. 23, cp. ή τρίμηνος Hdt. ii. 124. 'Óδός is elided in L. 19. 4 έκείνης, 5. 19 ποίας (a stereotyped phrase; § 36, 13), εἰς εὐθείας L. 3. 5 O.T. one mind or voice ' (ἀπὸ μιᾶς ὑσπλαγίδος Aristoph. Lysistr. 1000); 1 κατὰ μόνας 'alone' (Thuc. i. 32. 5 etc.) Mc. 4. 10, L. 9. 18 (LXX.; Herm. Mand. xi. 8); frequently κατ' ἰδίαν, ἰδία 1 C. 12. 11, δημοσία 'openly' in publico (with a different meaning in Attic) A. 16. 37 etc. — Similar instances of ellipse are found also with the other genders: τῷ πνέοντι ες. ἀνέμφ Α. 27. 15 β text, πρόϊμον καὶ ὄψιμον ες. ὑετόν Ja. 5. 7 with the reading of (κ)Β, τὸ τρίτον, τέταρτον, δέκατον ες. μέρος Apoc. Mt. 11. 8, Ap. 18. 12, 16. — The opposite procedure to an ellipse takes place when Luke (according to classical precedent) inserts an ἀνήρ with a substantive denoting a person: ἀ. προφήτης L. 24. 19, φονεύς Α. 3. 14, ἀνδρὶ Ἰονδαίφ 10. 28, and in addresses ἄνδρες Γαλιλαῖοι, ᾿Αθηναῖοι, ἀδελφοί etc., Α. 1. 16 and elsewhere.

- 2. The use of an adjectival instead of an adverbial expression in the case of certain ideas that are annexed to the predicate is found in the N.T. as in the classical language, but rarely: the instances are mainly in Luke's writings. Δευτεραίοι ήλθομεν 'on the second day' A. 28. 13, cp. πεμπταιοί 20. 6 D for αχρι ήμερων πέντε of the other MSS. Γενόμεναι όρθριναὶ ἐπὶ τὸ μνημεῖον L. 24. 22 (ὀρθρινὸς ελήλυθας Herm. Sim. v. 1. 1). Αὐτομάτη ήνοίγη A. 12. 19, Mc. 4. 28. Έπιστη αἰφνίδιος L. 21. 34; also ἐκών, ἄκων, πρῶτος 'first of all' (R. 10. 19); ἀνάστηθι ὀρθός Α. 14. 10, τοῦτο ἀληθὲς εἴρηκας (ΝΕ $d\lambda \eta \theta \hat{\omega}_{S}^{2}$) Jo. 4. 18 (like Demosth. 7. 43 τοῦτό γ' $d\lambda \eta \theta \hat{\eta}$ [other MS. άληθες] λέγουσι). There is a certain amount of mixture of μόνος and the adverb movov, just as in the classical language the one use borders closely on the other: Mc. 6. 8 μηδεν εί μη ράβδον μόνον (μόνην D), A. 11. 19 μηδενὶ εἰ μὴ μόνον (μόνοις D) Ἰουδαίοις, 1 Jo. 5. 6 οὐκ ἐν τῷ ὕδατι μόνον (Β μόνφ). If the word 'alone' refers without any doubt to a verb (or else to a predicative idea like ἀκροαταί Ja. 1. 22, ἀργαί 1 Tim. 5. 13), then μόνον is the only possible expression; but it is also not contrary to Gk. idiom to say (H. 12. 26 O.T.) σείσω οὐ μόνον τὴν γῆν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὸν οὐρανόν 'I am not contented with earthshaking only,' 2 Tim. 4. 8 οὐ μόνον δὲ ἐμοί, ἀλλὰ καὶ πῶσιν (to limit the gift to one would be too little). For the reverse use of adverb for adj. see § 76, 1.

 $^{^{2}}$ Less classical is λέγω ὑμῶν ἀληθῶς L. 9. 27, 12. 44, 21. $3=a\mu\eta\nu$ (which D reads in 12. 44 and Cyprian in 21. 3.

³ Barnabas agrees with the N.T. use, e.g. 12. 2 ψηλότερος πάντων.

and $\epsilon \sigma \chi a \tau os$ are the only exceptions to this (§ 11, 5). Now whereas the superlative in classical Greek is used not only where there is a definite comparison made of several things, but often in what may be called an absolute sense, equivalent to our 'very,' while the classical comparative occasionally corresponds to an English positive (θᾶττον = 'quickly'), so the New Testament comparative may have an ambiguous meaning: Jo. 13. 27 δ ποιείς ποίησον τάχιον (Luther 'bald' [A.V. 'quickly']; but it may also mean 'as quickly as possible'; cp. 1 Tim. 3. 14, where there is a v.l. ἐν τάχει; in H. 13. 19 probably 'more quickly,' 23 έαν τάχιον ἔρχηται 'if he comes soon'; in A. 17. 15 we have ωs τάχιστα from the literary language, but D reads έν τάχει). Also ασσον, μαλλον, αμεινον etc., similarly νεώτερος or -ρον (καινότερον) can in the classical language be rendered in many cases by the positive (although we also use similar phrases such as 'come nearer,' 'it is better to ...'); in the N.T. cp. (besides πρεσβύτερος used as the designation of a Jewish or Christian official) A. 17. 21 λέγειν τι ή ακούειν καινότερον (Kühner ii. 2848), 2 whereas ἀσσον παρελέγοντο την Κρήτην 27. 13 (if θασσον be not the right reading) must mean 'as near as possible'; so in any case 24. 22 ἀκριβέστερον είδως = ἀκριβέστατα, 25. 10 κάλλιον ἐπιγινώσκεις = ἄριστα, and 2 Tim. 1. 18 should be similarly explained βέλτιον σὺ γινώσκεις (not 'thou knowest better than I,' which can certainly not be right). In A. 17. 22 ws δεισιδαιμονεστέρους ύμας θεωρώ, it is doubtful whether the comp. has its classical sense of 'unusually (too) god-fearing' or means 'very god-fearing'; but σπουδαιότερος 2 C. 8. 17 can only mean 'very zealous'; and frequently there is a corresponding use of the English comparative, the standard of comparison being readily supplied, 2 C. 7. 7 ωστε με μαλλον χαρήναι 'still more.' In Hermas, on the other hand, the elative sense is regularly expressed by the superlative, ἀγαθώτατος, σεμνότατος etc.. while in other cases he also uses comparative and superlative interchangeably (Mand. viii. 4. πάντων πονηρότατα needs correction); Sim. ix. 10. 7 is noticeable, ησαν δε ίλαρώτεραι, which appears to be used in elative sense, and therefore to need correction, but the Latin has hilares satis.—Οἱ πλείονες may mean 'the greater number,' as in 1 C. 15. 6 $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\xi}$ $\delta\nu$ of $\pi\lambda\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\epsilon}ovs$ $\mu\dot{\epsilon}vov\sigma\iota\nu$, 10. 5, but also 'others,' 'more,' 9. 19 ίνα τοὺς πλείονας κερδήσω? (τ. πλ. αὐτῶν Origen), 2 C. 2. 6, 4. 15, 9. 2, Ph. 1. 14 as opposed to the person or persons who have hitherto been considered; cp. $\tau a \hat{v} \tau a \epsilon i \pi \hat{\omega} \nu$ καὶ τὰ τούτων πλείονα Clem. Hom. Ep. ad Jac. 17 (so A. 2. 40 ετέροις τε λόγοις πλείοσιν?).\(^1—On the remnants of the superlative see § 11, 3 (especially for $\mu \hat{\alpha} \lambda \iota \sigma \tau a$ and $\mu \hat{\alpha} \lambda \lambda \delta \nu$); on the forms of expression to introduce the object compared (gen., η, παρά or $\hat{v} \pi \hat{\epsilon} \rho$) § 36, 12.

 $^{^2}$ Hermas, Vis. iii. 10. 3 λίαν πρεσβυτέρα, 5 ὅλη νεωτέρα 'very old,' 'quite youthful,' Sim. ix. 11. 5.

- 4. The positive may also be used with the meaning of a comparative (or superlative): this occasionally takes place in the classical language, but it is mainly due to the example of the Semitic language, which has no degrees of comparison at all. Οἱ πολλοί are the many as opposed to the few, i.e. the majority, in classical Greek and Mt. 24. 12, frequently in Mc. (Gregory-Tisch. 128) 6. 2 BL (v.l. without ob), 9. 26 ABL (same v.l.), cp. 12. 37 infra; in St. Paul τῶν πολλῶν 1 C. 10. 33 is opposed to ἐμαυτοῦ, and is therefore parallel to the same writer's use of oi mleioves elsewhere; $\pi\lambda\epsilon\hat{\iota}\sigma\tau$ os is also found in this sense: Mt. 21. 8 ὁ $\pi\lambda\epsilon\hat{\iota}\sigma\tau$ os ὄχλος $^2=$ ὁ πολύς ő. of Mc. 12. 37 (αἱ πλεῖσται δυνάμεις αὐτοῦ Mt. 11. 20 'his numerous miracles, cp. τὰ πολλὰ γράμματα A. 26. 24). A further example is (Buttm. p. 73) Mt. 22. 36 ποία ἐντολὴ μεγάλη ἐν τῷ νόμῳ 'the greatest,' cp. 5. 19. With the idea of comparison more clearly marked (by the addition of a gen.), we have τὰ ἄγια τῶν ἀγίων H. 9. 2 f. (LXX.), a use which is by no means unclassical (κακά κακών, Kühner-Gerth ii.³ 21). In the case where the comparison is introduced by $\hat{v}\pi\epsilon\rho$ or $\pi\alpha\rho\alpha$ § 36, 12), on the analogy of the Semitic construction, the adjective may be either positive or comparative: L. 13. 2 άμαρτωλοί παρὰ πάντας (where a comparative was wanting, cp. δεδικαιωμένος παρά 18. 14 BL; frequent in LXX., e.g. μέγας παρά, πραύς παρά Εχ. 18. 11, Num. 12. 3). The positive may however also be used with η: Mt. 18. 8 f, Mc. 9. 43, 45 καλόν ἐστιν ... $\ddot{\eta}$ (LXX. Gen. 49. 12 $\lambda \epsilon \nu \kappa o i \ \ddot{\eta}$); similarly where there is no adjective (and μάλλον is therefore to be supplied) L. 15. 7 χαρά $\ddot{\epsilon}$ σται ... $\ddot{\eta}$, 1 C. 14. 19 $\theta \dot{\epsilon}$ λω ... $\ddot{\eta}$, Lc. 17. 2 λυσιτελεί ... $\ddot{\eta}$, for which there are classical parallels.3
- 5. The comparative is heightened, as in classical Greek, by the addition of $\pi o \lambda \dot{\phi}$ or $\pi o \lambda \lambda \hat{\varphi}$: 2 C. 8. 22, Jo. 4. 41; occasionally too by the accumulation of several comparatives: Ph. 1. 23 $\pi o \lambda \lambda \hat{\varphi}$ $\gamma \dot{q} \rho \mu \hat{a} \lambda \lambda o \nu \kappa \rho \epsilon \hat{o} \sigma \sigma o \nu$ (Clem. Cor. i. 48. 6 $\dot{b} \sigma \phi$ δοκε $\hat{\epsilon}$ $\mu \hat{a} \lambda \lambda o \nu \mu \epsilon \dot{\ell} \dot{\omega} \nu \epsilon \dot{\nu} \nu a i$ is merely pleonastic, like Herm. Sim. ix. 28. 4 $\mu \hat{a} \lambda \lambda o \nu \dot{\epsilon} \nu \delta \dot{g} \dot{\sigma} \tau \epsilon \rho \omega t$ (- $\sigma \dot{\epsilon} \rho \omega s \nu \hat{\epsilon} \dot{\mu} \hat{a} \lambda \lambda o \nu \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\nu} \dot{\alpha} \dot{\nu} \gamma \mu \epsilon \nu \nu$). 4. The same accumulation appears in classical Greek, Schwab Syntax der Comparation iii. 59 ff. But in $\ddot{\eta} \dot{\delta} \omega \tau a \mu \hat{a} \lambda \lambda o \nu 2$ C. 12. 9 the words should not be taken together: the sense being 'Gladly (superl. with elative force, and a stereotyped phrase) will I rather glory in my weaknesses.'

- 1. The first day of the month or of the week is expressed in the LXX. and in the N.T. not by $\pi\rho\acute{\omega}\tau\eta$ but by $\mu\acute{a}$, whereas for the higher numbers the ordinal is used, $\delta\epsilon\upsilon\tau\acute{\epsilon}\rho a$ and so on: of course the day being a single day (in the case of $\delta\epsilon\upsilon\tau\acute{\epsilon}\rho a$ 'the second' etc.) does not admit of being expressed by a plural, while all other numbers but $\epsilon \acute{\iota}s$ must necessarily be plurals. Thus $\epsilon \acute{\iota}s$ $\mu\acute{a}\nu$ $\sigma a\beta\beta\acute{a}\tau\omega\nu$ 'on Sunday' Mt. 28. 1, $\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ $\mu\mu\acute{a}$ $\tau o\acute{\nu}$ $\mu\eta\nu\acute{o}s$ $\tau o\acute{\nu}$ $\delta\epsilon\upsilon\tau\acute{\epsilon}\rho\sigma\upsilon$ Num. 1. 1. This is not a classical, but undoubtedly a Hebrew idiom (Gesenius-Kautzsch, § 134, 4), with this difference that in Hebrew the later days of the month are also denoted by cardinal numbers. This N.T. usage (found also in A. 20. 7, 1 C. 16. 2, Mc. 16. 2) is violated in 'Mc.' 16. 9 $\pi\rho\acute{\omega}\tau\eta$ $\sigma a\beta\beta\acute{a}\tau\sigma\upsilon$, for which Eusebius however quotes $\tau \acute{\eta}$ $\mu\iota\acute{q}$.
- 2. Ets already begins now and again to pass from the sense of a numeral (one as opposed to several) into that of the indefinite article; the latter development, which has analogies in the German and Romance languages, appears completely carried out in modern The Hebrew 778, moreover, afforded a precedent to the N.T. writers. In Mt. 8. 19 προσελθών είς γραμματεύς, 26. 69 μία παιδίσκη, Ap. 8. 13 ηκουσα ένὸς ἀετοῦ etc., εἶς = the classical τ is; and similarly we find $\epsilon \hat{\iota}_s$ with the gen. (or $\hat{\epsilon}_s$): L. 15. 15 $\hat{\iota}_s$ $\hat{\iota}_$ Ap. 7. 13 $\epsilon \hat{l}s$ $\epsilon \hat{k}s$ ($\epsilon \hat{k}s$ om. 8) $\hat{\tau}\hat{\omega}\nu$ $\hat{\tau}\hat{\rho}\epsilon\sigma\hat{\beta}\nu\hat{\tau}\hat{\epsilon}\rho\omega\nu$; it is used in conjunction with $\tau \iota s$ (classical) $\epsilon \hat{l}s$ $\tau \iota s$ $\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\xi}$ $u\hat{\iota}\hat{\tau}\hat{\omega}\nu$ L. 22. 50, still in such a way that $\epsilon \hat{l}_s$ forms a contrast to the remaining body (Jo. 11. 49, a v.l. in Mc. 14. 47, 51). Eis is used in place of τ is without adjunct in Mt. 19. 16, Mc. 10. 17 (but L. 18. 18 has τις ἄρχων, with v.l. in β text τις). Attention should also be called to ὁ είς ... ὁ ετερος for ὁ μὲν (ἔτερος) ... ὁ δὲ (ἔτερος), Mt. 6. 24, L. 7. 41 τὸν ἕνα – τὸν ὁὲ ἔνα Barn. 7. 6. 17), εἶς ... καὶ εἶς ..., Mt. 27. 38, L. 18. 10 β text, while a has είς ... δ έτερος (Herm. Mand. vi. 2. 1; on the model of Heb. TON, e.g. in Ex. 17. 12), Mc. 4. 8, 20, cp. Mt. 13, 8. 23 (§ 46, 2) etc., just as class, writers repeatedly employ ϵis when dividing a multitude (or a duality) into its component parts, Aristot. Πολ. Αθην. 37. 1 δύο, $\tilde{\omega}$ ν ὁ μὲν είς – ὁ δὲ ἔτερος, Rhet. ii. 20, p. 1393 a 27 δύο, εν μὲν – εν δὲ, Hyperid. cont. Athenog. § 14 f. ὁ εἶς νόμος ... ἔτερος ν. κ.τ.λ., Xenoph. Cyrop. i. 2, 4 τέτταρα ... εν μεν ... εν δε ... άλλο ... άλλο; Demosth. xviii. 215 τρία ... εν μεν ... ετερον δε ... τρίτον δε, cp. Ap. 17. 10 ἐπτά ... οἱ πέντε ... ὁ εἶς ... ὁ ἄλλος. See § 46, 2. But the use of $\epsilon \hat{l}s$ $\tau \delta \nu$ $\epsilon \nu a$ for $\hat{a}\lambda\lambda\hat{\eta}\lambda \delta \nu s$ 1 Th. 5. It is Semitic (1 C. 4. 6 $\epsilon \hat{l}s$ $\hat{v}\pi\hat{\epsilon}\rho$ $\tau \delta \hat{v}$ $\hat{\epsilon}\nu\hat{\delta}s$ $\kappa a\tau\hat{a}$ $\tau \delta \hat{v}$ $\hat{\epsilon}\tau\hat{\epsilon}\rho \delta \nu$ is different: the sense being, every individual on behalf of the one against the other, fully expressed $\hat{\epsilon ls}$ $\hat{v}\pi\hat{\epsilon}\rho$ $\tau \delta \hat{v}$ $\hat{\epsilon}\nu$, κ , τ , $\hat{\epsilon}\tau$, $\kappa a\hat{\iota}$ $\tilde{\epsilon}\tau\hat{\epsilon}\rho \delta s$ $\hat{v}\pi$, τ , $\hat{\epsilon}\nu\hat{\delta}s$ [the opposite person to the previous $\hat{\epsilon}\nu\hat{\delta}s$] κ , τ , $\hat{\epsilon}\tau$, $\hat{\epsilon}\tau$.).

- 3. 'Ανὰ and κατὰ with a numeral have a distributive sense as in classical Greek: Μc. 6. 40 κατὰ (v.l. ἀνὰ as in L. 9. 14) ἐκατὸν καὶ κατὰ πεντήκοντα (Herm. Sim. ix. 2. 3 ἀνὰ δύο παρθένοι, ep. § 39, 2); besides this we have after the Semitic and more colloquial manner¹ (also found, however, in old Greek) δύο δύο Μc. 6. 7 (ἀνὰ δύο D as in L. 10. τ), just as for κατὰ συμπόσια, κ. πρασιάς Mc. 6. 39 f. has συμπόσια συμπόσια, πρασιαὶ πρασιαὶ, and in Mt. 13. 30 δεσμὰς δεσμάς (Epiph. Orig.) appears to be the right reading (Herm. Sim. viii. 2. 8 τάγματα τάγματα, 4. 2).² On ἀνὰ εἶς ἔκαστος, εἶς καθ' εῖς and the like, see § 51, 4.

§ 46. THE ARTICLE. I. '0, ή, τό, as pronoun; the article with independent substantives.

- 1. The article δ , $\dot{\eta}$, $\tau \dot{\epsilon}$, which had long since been developed out of the old demonstrative pronoun, retains on the whole in the N.T. all its former usages, and amongst them to a certain extent its use as a pronoun ('this one,' 'he'). There is here, however, a confusion (found also in other Hellenistic writings, and indeed in the classical period, Kühner ii.² 779 f.) between the forms of the $\ddot{a}\rho\theta\rho\rho\nu$ $\pi\rho\rho$ - $\tau a\kappa\tau\iota\kappa\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$, $\dot{\eta}$, $\tau \dot{\epsilon}$ and those of the $\ddot{a}\rho\theta\rho\rho\nu$ $\dot{\nu}\pi\sigma\tau a\kappa\tau\iota\kappa\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$, $\ddot{\eta}$, $\ddot{\epsilon}\nu$, since the latter are employed as demonstratives instead of relatives.
- 2. 'O pèv ò δè, 'the one the other.' This use is no longer very frequent in the N.T., and usually takes the form of δs μèν δs δè (neut. \mathring{o} μèν ... \mathring{o} δè, plur \mathring{a} μèν, \mathring{o} s μèν, \mathring{o} s μèν etc.); moreover the (Semitic) use of εἶs excroaches upon it, \S 45, 2, though the latter is not everywhere synonymous with it, and can form no plural. Thus \mathring{o} μèν \mathring{o} δè refers either to persons already familiar, the one the other, this one—that one, or is quite indefinite, one another; on the other hand it does not serve as a means of differentiating a number of persons or things when they are introduced for the first time; hence, whereas Luke can say (23. 33) τοὺς κακούργους, \mathring{o} ν μèν \mathring{o} ν δè, the phrase in Mt. 27. 38 is δύο λησταί, εἶs καὶ εἶs (class. εἶs μèν ε̃τερος δè), cp. \S 45, 2. Other instances of \mathring{o} s μèν \mathring{o} s δè: Mt. 13. 4 (\mathring{a} μèν \mathring{a} λλα δè [D \mathring{a} δè]; similar freedom as to the sequence in the clauses is freq. elsewhere, cp. Kühner-Gerth ii. 3585 note), 13. \mathring{s} , 16. 14, 21. 35, 22. 5 (\mathring{o} s NBC*L, \mathring{o} s D), 25. 15, 25. 67 (\mathring{o} i δè alone, 'but others'),

- 3. 'O & 'but he,' \(\hat{\gamma}\) &\(\hat{\gamma}\) of & (only in the nominative) used in continuing a narrative, are common in all historical writings (least often in St. John); the use of ὁ μèν οὖν 'he then,' without a δè strictly corresponding to the μèν, is confined to the Acts. 'Ο δè, ὁ μèν οὖν show a special tendency to take a participle after them, which gives rise occasionally to ambiguity. For instance, in A. 8. 4 οἱ μὲν οὖν διασπαρέντες means 'they therefore that were scattered,' since in order to separate of from διασπαρέντες it would be necessary for the subject referred to to have been mentioned just before, whereas here it is a long way off (verse 1); but in 1. 6 of $\mu \hat{\epsilon} \nu$ our $\sigma \nu \nu \epsilon \lambda \theta \acute{o} \nu \tau \epsilon s$ it is ambiguous whether the meaning is 'they therefore who were come together' or 'they therefore, when they were come together.' The demonstrative δ (5s) no longer appears in connection with other particles: there is no trace of καὶ ος, καὶ τόν in the continuation of a narrative, nor of τον καὶ τον 'such and such a one,' or πρὸ τοῦ 'formerly' etc.
- 4. 'O, $\dot{\eta}$, $\tau \dot{o}$ used as the article with appellatives has as in classical Greek a double import: it is either individual or generic, i.e. it either calls special attention to one definite individual out of a class, \dot{o} $\ddot{a}\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\sigma s=o\tilde{v}\tau\sigma s$ \dot{o} $\ddot{a}\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\sigma s$, or it contrasts the whole class as such with other classes, of $\ddot{a}\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\sigma o$ opposed to $\tau \dot{a}$ $\ddot{a}\lambda\lambda a$ $\dot{\xi}\hat{\varphi}a$ (or to \dot{o} $\theta\epsilon\dot{o}s$). The latter use is also derived from the demonstrative sense: 'these persons,' to wit 'men.' This sense of the article was known by grammarians in early times (Apollonius Dyscolus) as the 'anaphoric' sense, because there is a reference back $(\dot{a}\nu a\phi o\rho \dot{a})$ to something already familiar or supposed to be familiar: \dot{o} $\delta o\hat{v}\lambda\dot{o}s$ $\sigma o\hat{v}$ is 'your slave' (the particular slave whom you know I mean, or the one whom you have), but $\delta o\hat{v}\lambda\dot{o}s$ $\sigma o\nu$ is 'a slave of yours.' If therefore an individual who is not yet familiar is introduced for the first time, or if the whole class (though familiar) is not embraced, but only an undefined part of it, then no article need be used, as e.g. in the case of a predicate: for in $i\mu\epsilon\hat{\imath}s$ $\mu\acute{a}\rho\tau\nu\rho\epsilon s$ $\tau\acute{o}i\tau\omega\nu$ there is no $\emph{d}\nu a\phi o\rho\acute{a}$ to particular well-known witnesses, nor is the whole class embraced: this is the ordinary rule for expressing a predicate (exceptions are given in § 47, 3).

5. The use of the individual article, in cases where it is used at all, is generally speaking obligatory, at least according to classical usage it is so: the necessity for its use is not removed by the insertion of a demonstrative or a possessive: οῦτος ὁ ἄνθρωπος, ἡ ἐμὴ The generic article may be far more readily dispensed with, especially in the case where the genus is represented by only a single specimen. With natural objects: we have ὁ ἥλιος, ἡ σελήνη, but also ήλίου δὲ (τοῦ δὲ ἡ. D) ἀνατείλαντος Mt. 13. 6, L. 21, 5 ἔσονται σημεία εν ήλίω καὶ σελήνη καὶ ἄστροις, followed by a contrasted statement καὶ ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς 'here on earth': Α. 27. 20 μήτε δὲ ἡλίου μήτε ἄστρων ἐπιφαινόντων, 'neither sun nor stars shining,' 1 C. 15. 41 ἄλλη δόξα ήλίου, καὶ ἄλλη δόξα σελήνης, καὶ ἄλλη δόξα ἀστέρων, Αρ. 7. 2, 16. 12 ἀπὸ ἀνατολης ἡλίου, 22. 5 οὐκ ἔχουσιν χρείαν φωτὸς λύχνου καὶ φωτὸς ἡλίου (cp. 21. 23 with art.). In a certain number of these examples the omission or insertion of the article was obviously a matter of choice; but in A. 27. 20 the meaning appears to be intensified by the omission 'neither any sun,' and with 1 C. 15. 41 verse 39 must be compared, ἄλλη μὲν (σὰρξ) ἀνθρώπων, ἄλλη δὲ κτηνῶν etc., and the reason for the absence of the article might be in both passages that the reference is not so much to the species taken as a whole, or to the uniquely existing sun, as to the distinctive characteristic of the species or of the individual object in the respective passages. Cp. 2 C. 11. 26 κινδύνοις ἐκ γένους (my kindred, i.e. Jews), $\kappa \alpha i \ \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\xi} \ \dot{\epsilon} \theta \nu \hat{\omega} \nu$ (elsewhere usually $\tau \dot{\alpha} \ \ddot{\epsilon} \theta \nu \eta$, vide infra), $\kappa . \dot{\epsilon} \nu \theta \alpha \lambda \dot{\alpha} \sigma \sigma \eta$; the article would here be wrong. Further instances of the absence of the art. with θάλασσα: Mt. 4. 15 O.T. δδὸν θαλάσσης, A. 10. 6, 12 παρὰ θάλασσαν (after a preposition or a substantive equivalent to a prep., § 40, 9), L. 21. 25 ήχους θαλάσσης, Ja. 1. 6 κλύδωνι θαλάσσης, Jd. 13 κύματα ἄγρια θαλ. (part of the predicate, and also due to the distinctive character of the sea being the point of the comparison). With $\gamma \hat{\eta}$ 'earth' the cases of omission of the art. are mainly after a preposition (though even here the cases of insertion far preponderate): $\epsilon \pi i \gamma \hat{\eta} \hat{s}$ Mt. 28. 18 (with $\tau \hat{\eta} \hat{s}$ BD), L. 2. 14, 1 C. 8. 5, E. 3. 15, H. 12. 25, 8. 4 (in all these instances except the last in conjunction with έν ουρανοίς (-φ) or ἀπ' ουρανών or έν ὑψίστοις), $\vec{\epsilon}$ κ $\gamma \hat{\eta}$ s 1 C. 15. 47 (opposed to $\vec{\epsilon} \vec{\xi}$ οὐρ.), cp. also ἀπὸ ἄκρου $\gamma \hat{\eta}$ s $\vec{\epsilon} \omega$ s ακρου οὐρανοῦ Mc. 13. 27. Besides these we have A. 17. 24 οὐρανοῦ καὶ γῆς κύριος, 2 P. (3. 5 οὐρανοὶ ... καὶ γῆ 'a new heaven,' similarly 13), 3. 10 οὐρανοὶ (with οἱ ABC)... στοιχεία ... γη (with ή CP), cp. 12. Among these instances, in 1 C. 15. 47 the omission was no doubt obligatory, since $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa$ $\gamma \dot{\eta} s$ is 'earthy' (the essential property of earth is referred to). Οὐρανός (-οί) with a preposition frequently stands without an article (often there is a diversity of reading in the MSS.); the omission is obligatory in Mt. 21. 25 f. έξ οὐρανοῦ ... έξ ἀνθρώπων

- = 'of heavenly' or 'human origin'; so in Mc. 11. 30 f., L. 20. 4 f. Omission of art. where there is no prep. occurs in A. 3. 21, 17. 24 (for 2 P. 3. 5, 12 vide supra). Κόσμος: ἐν κόσμφ 1 C. 8. 4, 14. 10, Ph. 2. 15 etc. (v.l. in 2 P. 1. 4); of one world as opposed to another 2 P. 1. 5 (see above on $\gamma \hat{\eta}$); κόσμου forming part of the anarthrous predicate R. 4. 13, 11. 12, 20; the omission is regular in all writers in the formula ἀπὸ καταβολῆς (ἀρχῆς, κτίσεως) κόσμου Mt. 25. 34 etc., cp. ἀπ' ἀρχῆς κτίσεως Mc. 10. 6, 13. 19, 2 P. 3. 4; other instances 2 C. 5. 19, G. 6. 14.—The points of the compass, only found in connection with prepositions, never have the article: κατὰ μεσημβρίαν A. 8. 26, ἀπὸ ἀνατολῶν Mt. 2. 1, 8. 11 etc., ἀπὸ δυσμῶν L. 12. 54, ἀπὸ βορρᾶ καὶ νότου 13. 29 (so in other writers); also βασίλισσα νότου Mt. 12. 42 of more definite regions in the south, but ἐν τῆ ἀνατολŷ is used in the same sense in Mt. 2. 2, 9.
- 6. Another class of Being, unique of Its kind, is expressed by θεός, κύριος (= הורה, but also Christ), and these words come near being proper names; it is not surprising that the article is frequently dropped. This happens especially after a preposition $(a\pi \delta) \theta \epsilon o \hat{v}$ Jo. 3. 2, ἐν κυρίω passim), or when the word is in the genitive and dependent on an anarthrous noun (particularly a predicate), e.g. Mt. 27. 20 ὅτι θεοῦ εἰμι νίός, L. 3. 2 ἐγένετο ῥῆμα θεοῦ (subject), although we also have εἰ νίὸς εἶ τοῦ θεοῦ Mt. 4. 3, νίὲ τοῦ θεοῦ 8. 29, and the usage depends more on a natural tendency to assimilation and abbreviation than on any hard and fast rule. So also viè διαβόλου A. 13. 10 (διαβ. elsewhere takes an art., as does σατανας except in [Mc. 3. 23 'one Satan'] L. 22. 3). On Χριστός vide infra 10. —Under the head of the generic article must also be classed plurals like $\ddot{a}\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\omega\iota$, νεκροί, $\ddot{\epsilon}\theta\nu\eta$; here too it is especially after a preposition and in a few phrases besides that we occasionally have noticeable instances of the omission of the art.: Ek vekpôv eyep $\theta \hat{\eta}$ Mt. 17. 9, and so regularly (except in E. 5. 14 O.T., Col. 2. 12 BDEFG, 1 Th. 1. 10 [om. $\tau \hat{\omega} \nu$ ACK]), whereas we have $\hat{\eta} \gamma \hat{\epsilon} \rho \theta \eta$ and $\tau \hat{\omega} \nu$ v. Mt. 14. 2 etc.; ανάστασιν νεκρών A. 17. 32, 23. 6 etc.; in 1 C. 15. 15 f., 29, 32 the article could not stand, because it is the idea and not the complete number which is in question (verse 52 is different); 1 P. 4. 5 κρίναι ζωντας καὶ νεκρούς = all, whether dead or living, cp. 6.—Not infrequently εθνη, 'the heathen' is without an art.: after Hebr. בוֹיִם in A. 4. 25 O.T., R. 15. 12 O.T.; έξ έθνων A. 15. 14, G. 2. 15, έν ἔθνεσιν 1 Tim. 3. 16, σὺν ἔθ. A. 4. 27; in the gen. $\pi\lambda$ οῦτος ἐθνῶν, ἐθν. ἀπόστολος R. 11. 12 f. (predic.); also R. 3. 29 f. η Ἰουδαίων (as such) δ θεδς μόνον; οὐχὶ καὶ ἐθνῶν; ναὶ καὶ ἐθνῶν, εἴπερ εῖς ὁ θεός, δς δικαιώσει περιτομήν (as such, or in some individual instances not specified) έκ πίστεως καὶ ἀκροβυστίαν διὰ τῆς (anaphoric) πίστεως.

CEF al.) in Mt. 11. 16 etc.; ἀπ' ἀγορᾶς Mc. 7. 4 a formula; similarly έπὶ θύραις Mt. 24. 33; of time πρὸς ἐσπέραν L. 24. 29, εως ἐσπέρας Α. 28. 23, μεχρὶ μεσονυκτίου 20. 7 (κατὰ τὸ μεσ. 16. 25), διὰ νυκτὸς with v.l. δια της v. A. 5. 19, 16. 9 etc. (the art. denoting the particular night), πρὸ καιροῦ = πρὶν καιρὸν εἶναι Mt. 8. 29, ἐν καιρῷ = ὅταν καιρὸς $\hat{\eta}$ 24. 45, ἄχρι καιροῦ L. 4. 13, Α. 13. 11, πρὸς καιρόν L. 8. 13, κατὰ κ. Tim. 3. 1, Ja. 5. 3 (used along with ἐπ' ἐσχάτου or -ων τῶν ἡμερῶν, § 47, 2) come under the same class as $d\pi\delta$ $\pi\rho\omega\eta\eta$ $\eta\mu\epsilon\rho\alpha$ s A. 20. 18, Ph. 1. 5 (*ABP insert $\tau\eta$ s), $d\pi\delta$ έκτης ω ρας Mt. 27. 45, ω ως ω ρας $d\tau\eta$ s Mc. 15. 33 (cp. Herm. Vis. iii 1. 2, Sim. ix. 11. 7), τως τρίτου οὐρανοῦ 2 C. 12. 2, πρώτην φυλακήν καὶ δευτέραν A. 12. 10, πρώτης (the reading -τη of the MSS. is corrupt) μερίδος της Μακ. πόλις 16. 12, and are explained by a usage of the older language, according to which the art. may be omitted with ordinal numbers, Kühner ii. 551, and not merely in phrases like ἐσχάτη ὥρα ἐστίν 1 Jo. 2. 18. The usage of the language is however regulated with still greater precision: in statements about the hour the art. is used only either anaphorically as in Mt. 27. 45, cp. 45, or where there is an ellipse of ωρα as in Mt. 20. 6 (in 9 it is anaphoric), or where a further definition is introduced as in A. 3. 1 την ωραν της προσευχής την ένάτην; with ήμέρα, on the other hand, it is only absent in the case of more indefinite expressions, but is used with more definite statements, thus τη τρίτη ήμέρα always, and in Jo. 6. 39 ff. έν τη έσχάτη ήμέρα. -Θάνατος very frequently appears without an art., where German inserts one: ἔως θανάτου Μτ. 26. 38, ἔνοχος θανάτου, ἄξιον θανάτου, παραδιδόναι είς θάνατον, γεύεσθαι θανάτου; the art. is used either of the actual death of a definite person (1 C. 11. 26), or (but this is almost confined to John's Gospel, Paul, and Apoc.) of death in the abstract, cp. 8. inf., Jo. 5. 24 $\mu\epsilon\tau\alpha\beta\epsilon\beta\eta\kappa\epsilon\nu$ $\epsilon\kappa$ $\tau\hat{o}\hat{v}$ θ . $\epsilon\hat{i}s$ $\tau\hat{\eta}\nu$ ($\omega\hat{\eta}\nu$, or where death is half personified (Ap. 13. 3, 12), besides the case where assimilation to a noun in connection with it requires the article: $\tau \delta$ $\delta \pi \delta \kappa \rho \iota \mu a$ $\tau \delta \vartheta$ θ . 2 C. 1. 9 $(\eta \pi \lambda \eta \gamma \eta)$ $\tau \delta \vartheta$ θ . $\delta \vartheta \tau \delta \vartheta$ Ap. 13. 3, 12 is anaphoric).—Πνεθμα: τὸ ἄγιον πν. is used sometimes to a certain extent personally, and then with the article, sometimes for the godlike spirit moving in man, and then without an art., unless there is 'anaphora' as in A. 2. 4, 8, 18, cp. 17; in 10. 44 $\epsilon \pi \epsilon \pi \epsilon \sigma \epsilon \nu \tau \delta \pi \nu$. $\tau \delta \alpha \gamma$. $\epsilon \pi i \pi \alpha \nu \tau \alpha s$ there is a reference to the wellknown fact of the outpouring, but this instance also approximates to the first usage. Omission is also occasioned by the presence of a preposition or by assimilation: ἐν πν. ἀγίω, ἐν δυνάμει πνεύματος άγίου.—3 Jo. 6 ἐνώπιον ἐκκλησίας, 1 C. 14. 4 ἐκκλησίαν οἰκοδομεῖ scarcely need explanation ('a congregation'); in H. 12. 7 τίς γὰρ νίος, $\ddot{ο}ν$ οὐ παιδεύει πατήρ, we might expect to have $\dot{ο}$ π. 'his father,' as in 1 Tim. 2. 12 after γυναικί to have τοῦ ἀνδρός 'her husband' (so 1 C. 11. 3 κεφαλή γυναικός ὁ ἀνήρ; in E. 5. 23 the art. goes with γυναικὸς), but the relation is neglected ('whom a father does not chastise'; see also § 82, 2 note), cp. Herm. Sim. ix. 28. 4 ἵνα δοῦλος κύριον ἴδιον ἀρνήσηται. Πατήρ is used of God in Jo. 1. 14 δόξαν ὡς μονογενοῦς παρὰ πατρὸς (a kind of assimilation to μονογ.), also in the formula ἀπὸ θεοῦ πατρὸς ἡμῶν R. 1. μ etc.; πιστῷ κτίστη 1 P. 4. 19, with v.l. ὡς π. κτ., is at any rate agreeable to the sense. Σὺν γυναιξὲν A. 1. 14 is a regular formula, cp. 21. 5 σὲν γ. καὶ τέκνοις (classical Greek has the same phrase; so we say 'with women and children'); further, ἐπὶ πρόσωπον πίπτειν L. 5. 12 etc., κατὰ πρ. 2 C. 10. 7^1 ; ep. 9.

- 8. With abstract words the article is very frequently absent in Greek, where it is used in German; the more abstract the sense in which such a word is used, the less liable is it to take any article other than the generic. Hence in some passages the question is rather to account for the presence of the art. than for its absence; e.g. Col. 3. 5 πορνείαν ἀκαθαρσίαν πάθος ἐπιθυμίαν ... καὶ τὴν πλεονεξίαν, ητις ἐστὶν είδωλολατρία 'and that principal vice, covetousness' etc.; the additional clause $\eta \tau \iota s \kappa. \tau. \lambda$. entails the use of the article. 1 C. 14. 20 μη παιδία γίνεσθε ταις φρεσίν, άλλα τη κακία νηπιάζετε, τη κ. is due to ταις φρεσίν. Cp. further H. 1. 14 είς διακονίαν ἀποστελλόμενα διὰ τοὺς μέλλοντας κληρονομεῖν σωτηρίαν (2. 3, 5. 9, 6. 9, 9. 28, 11. 7; with art. only in 2. 10 τον άρχηγον της σωτηρίας αὐτῶν). In 1 C. 13. 13 νυνὶ δὲ μένει πίστις ἐλπὶς ἀγάπη ... μείζων δὲ τούτων ή ανάπη the art. is anaphoric (so also in the German; cp. verses 4 and 3, R. 13. 10 and 9; R. 12. 7 εἴτε διακονίαν, ἐν τῆ διακονία εἴτε ὁ διδάσκων, έν τη διδασκαλία etc.; but ibid. 9 ff. ή άγάπη άνυπόκριτος, τη φιλαδελφία φιλόστοργοι, τη τιμή άλληλους προηγούμενοι, τη σπουδή μή οκνηροί, because they are virtues assumed to be well known etc.). St. Paul is fond of omitting the art. with ἀμαρτία, νόμος, and occasionally with θάνατος (R. 6. 9, 8. 38, cp. supra 7), but the reason for his doing so is intelligible: R. 5. 13 ἄχρι γὰρ νόμου ἁμαρτία ἢν ἐν κόσμω ('before there was a law, there was sin'), άμαρτία δὲ οὐκ έλλογείται μὴ ὄντος νόμου, 6. 14 άμαρτία ('no sin,' cp. 8 θάνατος) ύμῶν οὐ κυριεύσει οὐ γάρ ἐστε ὑπὸ νόμον ('under any law') ἀλλὰ ὑπὸ χάριν, 3. 20 διὰ γὰρ νόμου ἐπίγνωσις ἁμαρτίας (a general statement). Εάρξ also inclines to an abstract sense (the natural state of man); hence we frequently have έν σαρκί and nearly always κατὰ σάρκα (τὴν is inserted as a v.l. in 2 C. 11. 18, and by nearly all MSS. in Jo. 8. 15).
- 9. Whereas hitherto no case has occurred where the classical usage of the article is opposed to the N.T. usage, such opposition appears in the case of a noun which governs a genitive, and which in Hebrew would therefore be in the construct state or would have a suffix attached to it, and in either case would be without an article; this Semitic usage has exercised a considerable influence on the Greek of the N.T. writers, especially where they make use of Semitic (i.e. Hebrew or Aramaic) originals. But as it was repugnant to the spirit of the Greek language, the article has in general only been omitted, where the whole clause was governed by a preposition (cp. supra 5-7), and the phrase has thus become a fixed formula: ἀπὸ (πρὸ) προσώπου τινός, διὰ χειρός τινος, διὰ στόματός τινος, ἀπὸ όφθαλμῶν σου L. 19. 42, ἐν ὀφθαλμοῖς ἡμῶν Mt. 21. 42 O.T. Cor. i. 2. 1), formulas which are all thoroughly Hebraic, § 40, 9; further instances are έν ήμέραις Ἡρώδου Mt. 2. 1, έν ήμέρα οργής Κ. 2. 5, Ph. 1. 6 ἄχρις ἡμέρας Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, cp. 10, 2. 16 (ἐν $\tau \hat{\eta}$ ήμ. $\tau o \hat{v}$ κυρίου 1 C. 5. 6, \hat{z} C. 5. 14, \hat{z} Th. 2. \hat{z} ; on the other hand the art. is omitted even with the nom., ἡμέρα κυρίου 1 Th. 5. 2 [ή add. AKL], 2 P. 3. 10 BC [with ή κAKLP]); είς οἶκον αὐτῶν Mc. 8. 3, cp. 26 (the use with the art. largely preponderates; L. 14. 1 είς οἶκόν [τον ο. A] τινος τῶν Φαρισ. [cp. A. 18. 7, 10. 32] is excusable: την κατ' οἶκον αὐτῶν ἐκκλησίαν R. 16. 5, Col. 4. 15, cp. Philem. 2, is a regular phrase and perhaps not a Hebraism); ἐκ κοιλίας μητρὸς (αὐτοῦ) Mt. 9. 12, L. 1. 15, A. 3. 2, 14. 8; ἐν βίβλω ζωῆς Ph. 4. 3 (but in Ap. with two articles), ἐν βίβλω λόγων Ἡσαΐου L. 3. 4, cp. 20. 42, A. 1. 20, 7. 42 (ἐν τῆ β. Μωϋσέως Mc. 12. 26), ἐν δακτύλω θεοῦ L. 11. 20, έν τῷ Βεελ(εβοὺλ ἄρχοντι τῶν δαιμονίων Mt. 12. 24 (and a v.l. in L. 11. 15), and many more. To these must be added phrases which contain a proper name in the genitive, where the omission of the art. is not dependent on the presence of a preposition: $\gamma \hat{\eta}$ 'Ισραήλ, Σοδόμων, Αἰγύπτου, Χαλδαίων etc., βασιλέως Αἰγύπτου A. 7. 10, είς πόλιν Δαυίδ L. 2. 4, cp. 11 ('the city of D.'), οἶκος Ἰσραήλ Mt. 10. 6 (23 D) etc., ἐξ οἴκου καὶ πατριᾶς Δαυίδ L. 2. 4 (but in L. 1. 33, H. 8. 8, 10 O.T., it takes the article as in the LXX.), $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\epsilon}$ έφημερίας 'Aβία L. 1. 5. It is not often that this omission of the art. goes beyond such instances as those mentioned, as it does in Mary's song of praise in L. 1. 46 ff.: ἐν βραχίονι αὐτοῦ, διανοία καρδίας αὐτῶν, Ἰσραηλ παιδὸς αὐτοῦ, and in that of Zacharias ibid. 68 ff.: ἐν οἴκφ Δ αυὶδ παιδὸς αὐτοῦ, έξ έχθρῶν ἡμῶν, διαθήκης άγίας αὐτοῦ, ὁδοὺς αὐτοῦ, διὰ σπλάγχνα έλέους θ εοῦ ἡμῶν etc., by which means an unusually strong Hebrew colouring is here produced.² Cp. 2, 32 (Simeon's song of praise), Ja. 1. 26, 5. 20.

10. In the case of proper names the final development of the language has been that in modern Greek, when used as proper names, they take the article; in classical Greek, on the other hand, as also in the Greek of the N.T., proper names as such take no article, but may take one in virtue of a reference (anaphora) to something preceding. Thus if Luke in A. 9. 1 says δ $\delta \epsilon \sum a \hat{v} \lambda o s \tilde{\epsilon} \tau i \epsilon \mu \pi \nu \epsilon \omega \nu \kappa.\tau.\lambda.$, his object in using the article is to remind the reader of what he has previously narrated about the man $(8.3 \sum a \hat{v} \lambda o s \delta \epsilon)$; we are then informed that he requested $\epsilon \pi \iota o \tau o \lambda a i \epsilon s \Delta a \mu a \sigma \kappa \delta \nu$, and further on in verse 3, that he drew nigh to $\tau \hat{\eta} \Delta a \mu a \sigma \kappa \hat{\varphi}$ (the place of his destination), the use of the article being much the same as in 20. 7 κλάσαι ἄρτον compared with 11 κλάσας τὸν ἄρτον. There is a subtle, and often untranslatable, nicety of language in this use of the article. But it is obvious that it depends in great measure on the caprice of the writer, whether in a case where frequent mention is made of the same person he chooses to express this reference to the preceding narrative or not: moreover the Mss. are frequently divided. If in Acts 1. 1 *AE al. (as opposed to BD) are right in reading & 'Invovs, then by this of the mind is carried back to the contents of the Gospel; but such a reminder was by no means necessary. Ingois, moreover, in the Evangelists takes the article as a rule, except where an appositional phrase with the art. is introduced; since obviously in that case either the article with the name or the phrase in apposition is superfluous. Hence Mt. 26. 69, 71 μετα Ί. τοῦ Γαλιλαίου (Ναζωραίου), 27. 17, 22 Ί. τὸν λεγόμενον Χριστόν, L. 2. 43 Ί. ὁ παι̂ς (2. 27 τὸ παιδίον Ίησοῦν) cp. A. 1. 14 Μαρία τη μητρί τοῦ Ί., etc. Aga not only at the first mention of Jesus at all, but also in the first appearance of the risen Lord, the use of the art, is excluded, since here too there cannot well be anaphora: Mt. 28. 9 (6 'I. DL al.), L. 24. 15 (6 'I. DNPX al.); in John's Gospel, however, while on the one hand the anaphoric article is rendered possible at this point by the context and is actually found there (20, 14 θεωρεί τον Ἰησοῦν $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\hat{\omega}\tau a$, after 12 $\tau\hat{o}$ $\sigma\hat{\omega}\mu a$ $\tau\hat{o}\hat{v}$ ' $I\eta\sigma\hat{o}\hat{v}$), on the other hand it is often omitted elsewhere (e.g. in 1. 50), as frequently happens in the other Evangelists in the case of other less distinguished names, such as 'Ιωάνης and Πέτρος. In the Epistles, on the contrary, and in the Apocalypse (and to some extent in the Acts) the article is as a rule omitted as entirely superfluous (somewhat in the same way as is done by the Greek orators in the name of the adversary in a lawsuit); exceptions are 2 C. 4. 10 f. (but D*FG omit the art.), E. 4. 21 (anaphora to αὐτῷ), 1 Jo. 4. 3 (anaphora to 2; but s has no art.). Χριστός is strictly an appellative, = the Messiah, and this is made apparent in the Gospels and Acts by the frequent insertion of the article; here again the Epistles for the most part (but not always) omit it,—A special case is that of indeclinable proper names, with which the article, without its proper force, has occasionally to serve to determine the case of the word: Mt. 1. 2 ff. 'Aβραάμ ἐγέννησεν τὸν Ἰσαάκ...τὸν Ἰακώβ etc. (the same form is also used in the case of declinable names, such as τον Ιούδαν and 6 του Οὐρίου, but probably not with names which have a clause in apposition, see also A. 7. 8, 13. 21. On oi $\tau \circ \hat{v}$ $Z \in \beta \in \delta a i \circ v$ see § 35, 2.

¹Cp. supra 7 ad fin. with note ¹; writers of pure Greek do not add a genitive to expressions of this kind.

²1 C. 2. 16 τίς γὰρ ἔγνω νοῦν κυρίου is a quotation, and so is 1 P. 3. 12 ὀφθαλμοὶ κυρίου, ὅτα αὐτοῦ; the LXX. abounds with instances of this kind. But in 1 Tim. 5. 10 ἀγίων πόδας, πόδας is due to assimilation to ἀγίων; in 1 C. 10. 21 τραπέζης κυρίου – τρ. δαιμονίων it is the character of the thing which is in question, cp. supra 5 (the one is a table of the Lord, the other a table of devils).

11. The preceding statements hold good equally for place-names as for personal names (the art. is anaphoric in A. 9. 3 vide supra, 9. $38 \tau \hat{\eta}$ 'Ióππη, 42 $\tau \hat{\eta}$ s 'Ióππηs, cp. 36); $\tau \hat{\eta}$ s 'Pώμηs 18. 2 is due to $\tau \hat{\eta}$ s 'Iταλίαs in the same verse; $\tau \hat{\eta} \nu$ 'Pώμην 28. 14 denotes Rome as the goal of the whole journey. Τρφάs also, although strictly subject to an article ('Αλεξάνδρεια $\hat{\eta}$ Τρφάs), only takes one in a peculiar way in 2 C. 2. 12 (without an art. in A. 16. 8, 20. 5). There is a peculiar use of the art. in the Acts in the statement of halting-places on a journey: 17. ι τὴν 'Αμφίπολιν καὶ τὴν 'Απολλωvíav (the places lying on the well-known road between Philippi and Thessalonica), 20. 13, 21. 1, 3, 23. 31, but in 20. 14 ff. there is no art. Ίερουσαλήμ, Ἱεροσόλυμα hardly ever take an art., Winer-Schm. § 18. 5 (it is anaphoric in Jo. 2. 23, 5. 2; besides these exx. we have 10. 22! [only in ABL], 11. 18, A. 5. 28). The case is different with names of countries, many of which being originally adj. (sc. $\gamma \hat{\eta}$, $\chi \omega \rho \alpha$) never occur without art.: ή Ἰονδαία¹, ή Γαλιλαία², ή Μεσοποταμία, ή Μυσία (Μύσιος adj.), ή Ἑλλάς A. 20. 2; for a different reason ή 'Aσία like ή Εὐρώπη (ή Λιβύη does not come under this head) takes the art. from early times, as one of the two divisions of the globe that are naturally opposed to each other, and keeps it even when it is used to denote the Roman province (in A. 2. 9 f. Μεσοποταμία, 'Aσία and η Λιβύη η κατὰ Κυρήνην are the only places with an article); only in A. 6. 9 do we find ἀπὸ Κιλικίας καὶ 'Aσ., and in 1 P. 1. I the names of all the countries are without the art. (but there there is no art. at all in the whole address: ἐκλεκτοῖς παρεπιδήμοις διασποράς Πόντου κ.τ.λ.). Also with other names of countries the article is found more frequently than it would be with names of towns: always with Ἰταλία, generally with ᾿Αχαΐα (without art. R. 15. 26, 2 C. 9. 2); Συρία, Κιλικία, Φρυγία, Άραβία are strictly adjectives, and therefore generally take the art., but A. 21. 3 $\epsilon is \Sigma$. Κιλ. 6. 9 (vide supra), 23. 34, Φρυγίαν καὶ Παμφυλίαν 2. 10, εἰς 'Apaßíav G. 1. 17. $\Pi \alpha \mu \phi \nu \lambda i \alpha$, although strictly on a par with the others (τὸ Παμφύλιον πέλαγος A. 27. 5 β text), yet in a majority of cases omits the art.; it has it in A. (27. 5 infra) 13. 13: εἰς Πέργην τῆς Παμφυλίας is a chorographical gen. of the whole, § 35, 4, which absolutely requires the article (A. 13. 14, 22. 3, 27. 5, cp. 16. 12, 21. 39). Aίγυπτος never takes the art. (except in a wrong reading of ABCD in A. 7. 11, and of BC in 7. 36).—River-names: δ Ἰορδάνης ποταμός Mc. 1. 5, elsewhere ὁ Ἰορδάνης (τὸν ποταμὸν τὸν Τίβεριν Herm. Vis. i. 1. 2; classical usage is the same); names of seas: δ 'Αδρίας A. 27. 27 as in classical Greek.4

12. The names of nations, where the nation as a whole is indicated, do not require the article any more than personal names require it, and it is therefore omitted in almost every instance where Υουδαῖοι are referred to in St. Paul's vindications of himself against the Jews, A. 26. 2, 3, 4, 7, 21, 25. 10 (as it is in the name of the opponent in speeches in an Athenian lawsuit, supra 10), the exception being 25. 8 τον νόμον των Ἰουδαίων, where τον ν. Ἰουδαίων could not well be used, while $\tau \partial \nu$ v. $\tau \partial \nu$ 'I. (the Attic phrase, see § 47, 7) was contrary to the predominant practice of the N.T. Also in the Pauline Epistles 'Ιουδαίοι takes no article, except in 1 C. 9. 20 έγενόμην τοις 'Ιουδαίοις ώς 'Ιουδαίος ('individual' article, those with whom I had to deal on each occasion; τοῖς ἀνόμοις etc. in the following clauses are similar); nor yet Ελληνες, although this comprehensive name, just because of its comprehensiveness (in opposition to βάρβαροι, cp. 11 on 'Aσία) in classical Greek regularly has the article 1; but the point with St. Paul is never the totality of the nation, but its distinctive peculiarity (cp. supra 5 on ηλιος etc.), consequently R. 1. 14 Έλλησίν τε καὶ βαρβάροις is not less classical than Demosth. viii. 67 πᾶσιν Έλλησι καὶ βαρβάροις (all, whether Greeks or barbarians), or σοφοῖς τε καὶ ἀνοήτοις which follows it in St. Paul, see § 47, 2. On the other hand in the narrative of the Evangelists (and to some extent in the Acts 2) the article is rarely omitted with Youdalor and other names of nations (Mt. 28. 15 παρά Ἰουδαίοις, D inserts τοις: 10. 5, L. 9. 52 είς πόλιν Σαμαριτῶν is easily explained: in Jo. 4. 9 the clause is spurious). An instance of a national name in the masc. sing. is δ Ίσραήλ; the art. is wanting in Hebraic phrases like $\gamma \hat{\eta}$ 'I., $\delta \lambda a \hat{\delta} s$ 'I. ($v \hat{\iota} o \hat{\iota}$ 'I.), but also not infrequently elsewhere.

² Exception L. 17. 11 μ éoor Samapelas kal Γ adidalas, where the omission with Σ . has produced the omission with Γ .

³This is not so much an enumeration of the persons addressed as a characterization of them, and the omission of the art. becomes intelligible by a comparison with 1 Tim. 1. 2 $\text{Timo}\theta \epsilon \omega \gamma \gamma \gamma \sigma \epsilon \omega = \delta s \epsilon \tilde{t} \gamma \gamma \eta \sigma \epsilon \omega \tau$. Cp. also Winer, § 18, 6, note 4; infra § 47, 6, note 1 on p. 159; see also § 47, 10.

§ 47. ARTICLE. II. The article with adjectives etc.; the article with connected parts of speech.

1. Every part of speech which is joined to a substantive as its attribute or in apposition to it—adjective, pronoun, participle, adverb, prepositional expression, the same case or the genitive of another substantive etc.—may in this connection, and without the substantive being actually expressed, be accompanied by the article, which in the case of the omission of the substantive often takes its place and indicates the substantive to be supplied: thus of $\tau \acute{o} \tau \epsilon sc.$ $\mathring{a}v\theta \rho \omega \pi o\iota$, where the omission of of is impossible. We deal with the latter case first, where the additional definition stands alone without the substantive.

² In this book we also find the correct classical phrases 'Αθηναῖοι πάντες 17. 21, cp. § 47, 9; πάντες Ἰουδαῖοι 26. 4 BC*E (ins. of NAC² al.).

where an individual is taken as a concrete instance of the genus: similarly with a substantive introduced $\delta d\gamma a\theta \delta s d\nu \theta \rho \omega \pi \sigma s$ Mt. 12. 35, L. 6. 45 (§ 32, 3): frequently with participles: the usage stands midway between the individual and the generic use. A third mode of using the art. may be illustrated by Ja. 2. 6 τὸν πτωχόν 'that beggar, where it is individual and anaphoric, referring to the instance in verse 2 (§ 32, 3). The masc. plur. can also be used in this last sense, but it is more frequently generic: οἱ πλούσιοι 'the rich,' οἱ ἄγιοι a name for Christians. The fem. sing. is used elliptically, $\dot{\eta}$ $\ddot{\epsilon}\rho\eta\mu$ os and the like, § 44, 1 (the art. is individual: $\dot{\eta}$ $\ddot{\epsilon}\rho\eta\mu$ os χώρα opposed to inhabited country). The neut. sing. is used with individual sense of a single definite thing or action, 2 C. 8. 14 O.T. τὸ πολύ and τὸ ὀλίγον, Philem. 14 τὸ ἀγαθόν σου 'thy good deed,' but more frequently with generic sense as in L. 6. 45 δ άγαθὸς ανθρωπος έκ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ θησαυροῦ τῆς καρδίας προφέρει τὸ ἀγαθόν (corresponding to δ $d\gamma$. $d\nu\theta\rho$, •vide supra), G. 6. 10 $\epsilon\rho\gamma\alpha\zeta\omega\mu\epsilon\theta\alpha$ $\tau\delta$ \dot{a} γaθόν, R. 13. 3 το \dot{a} γaθὸν ποίει, cp. just before τ $\hat{\phi}$ \dot{a} γaθ $\hat{\phi}$ $\ddot{\epsilon}$ ργ ϕ = τοῖs άγαθοῖς ἔργοις or ἀγαθοῖς ἔργ., as Mt. 12. 35 (the parallel passage to L. 6. 45) has $\tau \hat{\alpha}$ (om. B al.) $\hat{\alpha} \gamma \alpha \theta \hat{\alpha}$ and $\pi o \nu \eta \rho \hat{\alpha}$ (LU Δ ins. $\tau \hat{\alpha}$) in the corresponding clause, cp. also R. 3. 8 τὰ κακά – τὰ ἀγαθά. A peculiar usage of Paul (and Hebrews) is that of the neut. sing. adjective equivalent to an abstract noun, usually with a genitive: R. 2. 4 τὸ χρηστὸν τοῦ θεοῦ εἰς μετάνοιάν σε ἄγει, differing from χρηστότης (which precedes), since the adjective denotes this goodness in a concrete instance; 1 C. 1. 25 τὸ μωρὸν τοῦ θεοῦ σοφώτερον τῶν ἀνθρώπων ἐστίν (cp. μωρία 21, 23), this divine attribute which appears as foolishness; 2 C. 4. 17 το παραυτίκα έλαφρον της θλίψεως ημών (opposed to βάρος ibid.), 8. 8 το της υμετέρας αγάπης γνήσιον, Ph. 3. 8 δια το υπερέχον της γνώσεως Χριστοῦ (more concrete and vivid than \hat{v} περοχή), 4. 5 τδ έπιεικὲς ὑμῶν, R. (1. 18, 8. 3)¹, 9. 22, H. 6. 17, 7. 18, 1 $\overset{\circ}{\text{C}}$. 7. 35 τδ εὖσχημον καὶ εὐπάρεδρον τῷ κυρίψ (§ 37, 7) ἀπερισπάστως. As Deissmann points out (N. B. 86 ff. [= Bib. Studies 259 ff.]) τὸ δοκίμιον $v_{\mu}\hat{\omega}\nu$ της πίστεως Ja. 1. 3=1 P. 1. 7 also comes under this category, since δοκίμιος = δόκιμος is found in the papyri, whereas τὸ δοκιμείον (-ίμιον) elsewhere means only 'a means of testing.' This is the most classical idiom in the language of the N.T., and may be paralleled from the old heathen literature, from Thucydides in particular.²—The neuter singular is also occasionally used collectively to denote persons, τὸ ἔλαττον – τοῦ κρείττονος = οἱ ἐλάττονες – τῶν κρείττόνων, § 32, 1; a peculiar instance is τὸ δωδεκάφυλον ἡμῶν 'our 12 tribes' A. 26. 7 (Paul before Agrippa), cp. Clem. Cor. i. 55. 6 τὸ δ. τοῦ 'Ισραήλ (and with the same meaning 31. 4 τὸ δωδεκάσκηπτρον τ. 'I.). Elsewhere the reut. plur. is used of persons, 1 C. 1. 27 f. τὰ μωρὰ τοῦ κόσμου etc., § 32, 1; also of things with the genitive, τὰ κρυπτὰ τῶν ἀνθρώπων, τοῦ σκότους, τῆς καρδίας, τῆς αἰσχύνης R. 2. 16, 1 C. 4. 5, 14. 25, 2 C. 4. 2, τὰ ἀόρατα τοῦ θεοῦ R. 1. 20, a use analogous to that of the singular (vide supra), but referring to a plurality of phenomena. Other instances like τὰ ὁρατὰ καὶ ἀόρατα Col. 1. 16 (without a genitive) need only brief mention; τὰ καλά – τὰ σαπρά of fish caught in a net (what is good or bad) Mt. 13. 48. Neuters of this kind are not frequent in the Gospels.

- 2. With the different ways of employing the adjective that have been quoted, the article is sometimes essential, sometimes unnecessary. In R. 1. 14 as we have Ελλησιν τε και βαρβάροις (§ 46, 12), so also σοφοίς τε καὶ ἀνοήτοις: Mt. 23. 34 προφήτας καὶ σοφούς, 11. 25 = L. 10. 21 ἀπὸ σοφῶν καὶ συνετῶν ... νηπίοις, where the article would be as little in place as it would be if a substantive were employed (cp. § 46, 5 on 1 C. 15. 39), Mt. 5. 45 ἐπὶ πονηροὺς καὶ ἀγαθούς, 1 C. 1. 20 ποῦ σοφός ; ποῦ γραμματεύς ; occasionally too it is absent with neuter words, where its presence or omission appears to be more optional: Ja. 4. 17 καλὸν ποιεῖν ('some good'), Herm. x. 2. 3 πονηρόν ήργάσατο, but followed in 4 by τὸ πονηρόν anaphoric: 2 C. 8. 21 προνοούμενοι καλά οὐ μόνον ἐνώπιον κυρίου, άλλά καὶ ἐνώπιον άνθρώπων, in this passage the article would have broken the connection with what follows. It is not accidental that beside ἐν τῶ φανερώ (Mt. 6. 4 etc.) there is regularly found els φανερον έλθείν (because the latter refers to something not yet in existence), Mc. 4. 22, L 8. 17; usually too we have έν τῷ κρυπτῷ as in Mt. 6. 4, R. 2. 29, but in Jo. 7. 4, 10, 18. 20 έν κρυπτῷ (εἰς κρύπτην subst. L. 11. 33); the opposite to which in John is not $\dot{\epsilon}v \tau \hat{\varphi} \phi a v \epsilon \rho \hat{\varphi}$, but $(\dot{\epsilon}v) \pi a \rho \rho \eta \sigma i \varphi$ or φανερώς. Είς τὸ μέσον, έν τῷ μέσω, έκ τοῦ μέσου are used if no genitive follows; otherwise the article is dropped, not so much on account of the Hebraic usage (§ 46, 9), as because έν τῷ μέσφ ὑμῶν would be superfluously verbose in a common formula; classical Greek also leaves out the article. Instances of these phrases without a gen. and without an art. (frequent in class. Greek) are Mc. 14. 60 (ins. τò DM), L. 4. 35 only DΓΔ al., 'Jo.' 8. 3, 9, A. 4. 7 DEP, 2 Th. 2. 7. Cp. Mc. 13. 27 ἀπ' ἄκρου γῆς ἔως ἄκρου οὐρανοῦ, Mt. 24. 31, vide inf. 6, note 2; ἐπ' ἐσχάτου τῶν ἡμερῶν H. 1. 1, 2 P. 3. 3 (ἐσχάτων from (τὰ) ἔσχατα, as in Barn. 16. 5, Herm. Sim. ix. 12. 3), ἐπ' ἐσχάτου τῶν χρόνων 1 P. 1. 20 (τοῦ χρόνου κ, cp. Jd. 18), = באַחַרִית הַּיָּבְיִים LXX.; εως ἐσχάτου τῆς γῆς Α. 13. 47 Ο.Τ., 1. 8; but τὰ ἔσχατα τοῦ ἀνθρώπου ἐκείνου Mt. 12. 45 = L. 11. 26, opposed to τὰ πρῶτα. α
- 3. The participle, when it stands alone and does not refer to a noun or pronoun, takes the article in most cases. Thus it is often found even as predicate with the article, though this part of the "v. App. p. 315 sentence elsewhere generally omits the article. There are, however, frequent instances where even a subst. or adj. used predicatively takes the art.: Mc. 6. 3 οὐχ οὖτός ἐστιν ὁ τέκτων; (he who is known by this designation), Mt. 5. 13 ύμεις έστε τὸ άλας της γης, cp. 14, 6. 22 δ λύχνος του σώματός έστιν δ όφθαλμός (σου), 16. 16 συ εί δ χριστὸς ὁ νίὸς τοῦ θεοῦ, Με. 15. 2 σὰ εἶ ὁ βασιλεὺς τῶν Ἰονδαίων; α Jo. 1. 4, 8 etc., i.e. not one salt etc. as compared with another, but that which alone has or deserves this title; more striking are Jo. 3. 10 σὺ εἶ ὁ διδάσκαλος τοῦ Ἰσραήλ 'the (great) teacher,' 5. 35 έκείνος (John) ην ὁ λύχνος ὁ καιόμενος καὶ φαίνων, the light of which one speaks in proverbs; Mt. 24. 45 τίς ἄια ἀστὶν ὁ πιστὸς δοῦλος καὶ φρόνιμος; in connection with an anarthrous noun Jo. 8. 44 6τι ψεύστης έστὶν καὶ ὁ πατηρ αὐτοῦ (a passage which from early times was grossly misunderstood, as though $\delta \pi a \tau \eta \rho$ were a further subject, see Tischend.). So with an adjective Mt. 19. 17 είς ἐστιν $\dot{\phi}$ αγαθός, cp. supra 2 ad init. This use is very frequent with participles: Mt. 7. 15 έκεινά έστιν τὰ κοινούντα τὸν ἄνθρωπον, Jo. 5. 30 έκειναί είσιν αί μαρτυρούσαι περί έμου etc., in all which cases it is taken for granted that something which produces this or that result exists, and then this given category is applied to a definite subject. A periphrasis of the verbal idea by means of elvat is the only case where an art. could not stand, § 14, 2.—On the other hand a participle which stands alone is occasionally found, as in classical Greek, without the art. even when it is the subject of the sentence as in Mt. 2. 6 O.T. ήγούμενος, but in this case it must be regarded as a substantive (cp. Wilke-Grimm ήγεῖσται; other exx. in $\S 73, 3$).

4. Adverbs or prepositional expressions when used alone to denote persons or things require the article practically in all cases (πλισίον 'neighbour' is used as predicate without o in L. 10. 29, 36); in the same way the article is found governing the genitive, although all these modes of expression are not very frequent in the N.T. έκειθεν L. 16. 26, τὰ κάτω, τα ἄνω Jo. 8. 23, Col. 3. 1 f.; οἱ περὶ αἰτόν Mc. 4. 10, L. 22. 49; Πέτρος καὶ οἱ σὺν αὐτῷ L. 9. 32; with the gen. οἱ τοῦ Ζεβεδαίου Jo. 21. 2 (§ 35, 2), τὰ Καίσαρος and τὰ τοῦ θεοῦ L. 20. 35, οἱ τοῦ Χριστοῦ 1 C. 15. 23; more peculiar is Ja. 4. 14 $\tau \delta$ (A τa) $\tau \eta s$ a $\tilde{\eta} \rho i \rho \nu$ 'the things of the morrow,' 'what happens to-morrow'; 2 P. 2. 22 το της ἀληθοῦς παροιμίας 'the import of the proverb, τα της εἰρήνης R. 14. 19, 'that which makes for peace,' Especially noticeable are the adverbial accusatives (§ 34, 7) like τὸ κατ' ἐμέ 'so far as I am concerned,' R. 1. 15 (see § 42, 2; elsewhere τὰ κατ' ἐμέ appears as subject or object, Ph. 1. 12, Col. 4. 7), τὸ ἐξ τμῶν R. 12. 18, τὸ κατὰ σάρκα 9. 5, where the insertion of the article puts strong emphasis on the limitation, 'so far as the -material side is considered, τὸ καθ' ἡμέραν § 34, 7, in which case the art. may be equally well used or omitted, τὸ πρωί (ibid.) etc.— Quite peculiar is L. 17. 4 in D: ἐἀν ἐπτάκις άμαρτήση καὶ τὸ ἐπτάκις έπιστρέψη ('these 7 times,' cp. Syr. Sin., therefore anaphoric).

- 5. On the infinitive with the article see § 71. The neut. sing. of the article may be prefixed, in the same way as to the infin., to indirect interrogative sentences, but this usage is rarely represented except in the Lucan writings: R. 8. 26 $\tau \hat{o} \gamma \hat{a} \rho \tau \hat{i} \pi \rho o \sigma \epsilon v \hat{\xi} \hat{\omega} \mu \epsilon \theta a o \hat{i} \kappa$ $o \hat{i} \delta a \mu \epsilon v$, 1 Th. 4. 1 $\kappa a \theta \hat{\omega} s \pi a \rho \epsilon \lambda \hat{a} \beta \epsilon \tau \epsilon \pi a \rho^{i} \hat{\eta} \mu \hat{\omega} v \hat{\tau} \hat{o} \pi \hat{\omega} s$ ($\tilde{\omega} \pi \omega s$ without $\tau \hat{o}$ FG) $\delta \epsilon \hat{i} \hat{\nu} \mu \hat{a} s \kappa. \tau. \lambda$. (Herm. Sim. viii. 1. 4, Clem. Hom. i. 6); for Lucan instances see 1. 62, 19. 48, 9. 46 $(\epsilon \hat{i} \sigma \hat{\eta} \lambda \theta \epsilon v \delta \iota a \lambda o \gamma \iota \sigma \mu \delta s$, $\tilde{\alpha} v \epsilon \hat{i} \eta \kappa. \tau. \lambda$.), A. 4. 21, 22. 30. No apparent distinction in meaning is caused by using or omitting the article.—The art. $\tau \hat{o}$ is prefixed to quotations of words and sentences as in classical Greek: $\tau \hat{o} A \gamma \hat{a} \rho G$. 4. 25 (v.l.), $\tau \hat{o} a \nu \hat{e} \beta \eta E$. 4. 9, $\tau \hat{o} O v \hat{o} \phi o \nu \epsilon \hat{v} \sigma \epsilon i s \kappa. \tau. \lambda$., Mt. 19. 18 $(\tau \hat{o} o m. D M)$, $\hat{e} v \tau \hat{o} A \gamma a \pi \gamma \hat{o} \sigma \epsilon i s \kappa. \tau. \lambda$. G. 5. 14; cp. R. 13. 9, H. 12. 27.
- 6. The adjective (or participle) which is not independent, but is used as an attribute to a substantive, must, as in classical Greek, if the substantive has the article, participate in this art. by being placed in a middle position—ὁ ἀγαθὸς ανθρωπος: or, if placed after the substantive, it must take an article of its own— δ $a\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\sigma\sigma$ δ $dya\theta ds$; if it stands outside the article and the substantive without an article, then it is predicative. If it is placed between the art. and the subst. greater emphasis is laid on the adjective—δ αγαθὸς $\ddot{a}\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\sigma\sigma$ Mt. 12. 35: if it is placed after the subst. the emphasis falls on the substantive— $\epsilon is \tau \dot{\eta} \nu \gamma \dot{\eta} \nu \tau \dot{\eta} \nu \ \dot{\alpha} \gamma \alpha \theta \dot{\eta} \nu$ opposed to $\pi \dot{\epsilon} \tau \rho \alpha \nu$ etc. L. 8. 8. Examples of predicative use: Jo. 5. 35 έχω την μαρτυρίαν μείζω = $\dot{\eta}$ μ. $\dot{\eta}$ ν έχω μείζων έστίν, Mc. 8. 17, H. 7. 24, 1 C. 11. 5 ἀκατακαλύπτω τη κεφαλ $\hat{\eta}$ = ἀκατακάλυπτον ἔχουσα την κεφ. (§ 38, 3), A. 14. 10 εἶπεν μεγάλη τῆ φωνῆ (26. 24) = ἡ δὲ φ. ἢ εἶπεν μεγάλη $\hat{\eta}_{\nu}$ (also expressed without an art. by $\phi\omega\nu\hat{\eta}$ $\mu\epsilon\gamma\dot{a}\lambda\eta$, the adjective being placed after the noun, 8. 7 etc.). Under this head there comes also the partitive use of the adj., with $\mu \epsilon \sigma$ as in classical Greek, L 23. 45, Mt. 25. 6, A. 26. 13 (§ 36, 13), while for ακρος τὸ ακρον with the gen. and so elsewhere τὸ μέσον is used 1 (A. 27. 27 κατὰ μέσον της νυκτός, for which we have κατά τὸ μεσονύκτιον 16. 25, never as in classical Greek περί μέσας νύκτας: L. 16. 24 το άκρον τοῦ δακτύλου αὐτοῦ = τὸν δ. ἄκρον, H. 11. 21, Mc. 13. 27): besides $\mu \acute{\epsilon} \sigma o s$, this use in the N.T. is only found with $\pi \hat{a} s$ and $\tilde{o} \lambda o s$ (where they are contrasted with a part), vide infra 9.—In the case of an attributive adjective it may also happen that the subst. has no article, while the adjective (participle etc.) that follows it has one, since the definiteness is only introduced with the added clause by means of the article, and was not present before. See Kühner-Gerth ii. 3 1, 613 f.: L. 23. 49 γυναίκες αἱ συνακολουθοῦσαι women viz. those who etc., A. 7. $35^{\epsilon\nu}$ $\chi\epsilon\iota\rho$ $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda ov$ $\tau o\hat{v}$ $\dot{\phi}\theta\dot{\epsilon}\nu\tau os$ $\alpha\dot{v}\tau_q$ an angel viz. that one who etc.; this happens especially with a participle, which may be resolved into an equivalent relative sentence.

7. The rule which holds good for adjectives holds good in the classical language also for defining clauses with an adverb or preposition; to a certain degree also for attributive genitives: thus ό 'Αθηναίων δημος or ὁ δημος ὁ 'Αθηναίων, although ὁ πατήρ μου is obligatory and ὁ ἴππος τοῦ στρατηγοῦ is possible. In the N.T. genitives in a middle position are frequent, and still more so are genitives placed after the noun which they qualify, but without a repetition of the article: genitives in the later position with the article are not frequent: A. 15. 1 τῷ ἔθει τῷ Μωϋσέως (om. the 2nd τῷ DEHLP),2 1 C. 1. 18 ο λόγος ο του σταυρού, Tit. 2. 10 την διδασκαλίαν την του σωτήρος ήμῶν θ εοῦ. 4 Cp. § 46, 12. The partitive gen. must, as in classical Greek, stand outside the principal clause and without a repetition of the article: οἱ πρῶτοι τῶν Ἰουδαίων (A. 28. 17 is different, τοὺς ὄντας τῶν Ἰουδ, πρώτους). Where the defining clause is formed by a preposition, if the clause stands after the main clause, the article appears to be especially necessary for the sake of clearness (just as there are scarcely any instances of such a prepositional clause used as attribute to an anarthrous subst.: in 1 C. 12. 31 et 71 for έτι is read by D*F [Klostermann], whereby καθ' ὑπερβολην is separated from $\delta\delta\delta \nu$, sc. $(\eta\lambda o\hat{v}\tau\epsilon)$, and the omission of the article in classical authors is by no means sufficiently attested; in the N.T., on the other hand, a considerable number of instances of omission are commonly supposed to exist, apart from those cases where the subst. has additional defining clauses (infra 8), 1 C. 10. 18 βλέπετε τον Ίσραὴλ κατὰ σάρκα, 1 Th. 4. 16 οἱ νεκροὶ (οἱ add FG, cp. Lat. mortui qui in Chr. sunt) $\dot{\epsilon}v$ $X\rho\iota\sigma\tau\hat{\omega}$?, \dot{a} 2 C. 9. 13 $(\tau\hat{\eta})$ $\dot{a}\pi\lambda\dot{o}\tau\eta\tau\iota$ $\tau\hat{\eta}$ s $\kappa οινωνίαs$ \dot{b} $\dot{\epsilon}i$ s $\dot{a}\dot{v}\tau\dot{o}\dot{v}$ s (where, however, τŷ ὑποταγŷ της ὁμολογίας ὑμῶν [vide infra 8] εἰς τὸ κ.τ.λ. precedes, and ὑμῶν is also to be supplied with κοιν.), R. 6. 4 συνετάφημεν αὐτῷ διὰ τοῦ βαπτίσματος εἰς τὸν θάνατον (cp. 3 εἰς τὸν θ. αὐτοῦ ἐβαπτίσθημεν). This last instance (if our text is correct) appears conclusive; but in τὸν Ἰσραὴλ κατὰ σάρκα the repetition of the art. was quite impossible, as the sense is ὁ κατὰ σ. ὧν Ἰσρ. (Ἰσρ. is predicate); so with οἱ κατὰ σ. κύριοι Ε. 6. 5 v.l. οἱ κ. κατὰ σ., Col. 3. 22 id., τὰ ἔθνη ἐν σαρκί Ε. 2. 116; ὁ δέσμιος ἐν κυρίω 4. 1.

¹Buttmann is not to be followed in his assertion (p. 81) that the art. had sometimes to stand before the substantive as well; Winer, § 20, 4 is here correct. L. 5. 36 έπίβλημα τὸ ἀπὸ τοῦ καινοῦ is a wrong reading, which is only by error found in Lachmann. A. 15. 23 ἀδελφοῦς (this is the right reading, see the author's note on that passage), τοῦς κατὰ τὴν ᾿Αντιόχειαν is an address, see § 46, 11, note 3.

² Μωϋσέωs is found without an art. after the noun qualified in A. (13. 39), 15. 5, Mc. 12. 26, L. 2. 22, 24. 44 (Jo. 7. 23 ὁ νόμος ὁ Μ. Ν, like 6. 33 ὁ ἄρτος ὁ τοῦ θεοῦ ΝD), A. 28. 23, 2 C. 3. 7.

^{• 3} In the preceding verse (17) we have \dot{o} $\sigma \tau a u \rho \dot{o} \dot{s}$ $\tau o \hat{v}$ $X \rho \iota \sigma \tau o \hat{v}$; so that \dot{o} $\tau o \hat{v}$ $\sigma \tau$. appears to be a kind of anaphora.

⁴ Appositional clauses like Maρία ἡ τοῦ Ἰακώβου sc. μήτηρ do not come under this head.

τοῖς πλουσίοις ἐν τῷ νῦν αἰῶνι 1 Tim. 6. 17, ὁ πιστὸς ἐν ἐλαχίστφ L. 16. 10, in all which instances the closely connected predicative clause could not be severed by the insertion of the article. With a participle (R. 15. 31 τῶν ἀπειθούντων ἐν τῷ Ἰουδαίᾳ) it is quite obvious that the article is not repeated.

8. If a single substantive has several defining clauses it often becomes inconvenient and clumsy to insert all of these between the article and the substantive, and there is a tendency to divide them so that some stand before the substantive and some after it. this case the clauses placed after the substantive do not require the repetition of the article, which on the contrary is only repeated in a case where the particular defining clause is emphasized (or implies a contrast), or else if the meaning would be in any way ambiguous. Similarly the additional article can be dispensed with if the substantive is immediately followed by a genitive, which does not require the article (supra 7), and this again is followed by a further defining clause with a preposition: Ε. 3. 4 την σύνεσίν μου έν τώ μυστηρίω του Χρ. (την έν would contrast this particular σύνεσις of Paul with another), i G. 1. 13 την έμην αναστροφήν ποτε έν τῷ Ἰουδαϊσμῷ." Exx. of repeated article: 1 Th. 1. 8 η $\pi i \sigma \tau i s$ $\psi \mu \hat{\omega} \nu \eta \hat{\eta} \pi \rho \hat{\omega} s \tau \hat{\omega} \nu \theta \hat{\epsilon} \hat{\delta} \nu$ έξελήλυθεν (to prevent ambiguity), 2 C. 9. 3 (ditto), R. 7. 5 (ditto), 8. 39 (emphasis). An adjective (or participle) following a genitive must take the art.: ὁ νίος μου ὁ ἀγαπητός Mt. 3. 17; cp. 2 C. 6. 7, H. 13. 20, E. 6. 16 (τà om. BD*FG); if there is no art. it is a predicate: Tit. 2. 11 ἐπεφάνη ή χάρις του θεου (ή add. C° al.) σωτήριος πᾶσιν ἀνθρώποις. The presence of a numeral between the art, and the noun never renders a subsequent article dispensable: Ja. 1. 1 ταις δώδεκα φυλαις ταις έν – Jo. 6. 13, Ap. 21. 9 (since the numeral is nothing more than a nearer definition of the plural): on the other hand an adjective (or participle) in this position can exempt a subsequent adj. from the article: 1 P. 1. 18 της ματαίας ύμων ἀναστροφης πατροπαραδότου (but πατρ. άναστ. is read by C Clem. Orig.), 1 C. 10. 3 τὸ αὐτὸ βρῶμα πνευματικόν? (Ν°DEFG al., but πν. stands before βρ. in *AB al.), G. 1. 4 τοῦ ἐνεστῶτος αἰῶνος πονηροῦ (*DEFG al.; του ai. τοῦ ἐν. π. *AB a harsher reading; so Herm. Mand. x. 3. 2 τὸ $\pi \nu \epsilon \hat{v} \mu \alpha \tau \delta \delta o \theta \epsilon \nu \tau \hat{\omega} \dot{\alpha} \nu \theta \rho \dot{\omega} \pi \omega \dot{\nu} \delta a \rho \dot{\omega} \nu$, cp. Kühner ii.² 532; no offence is caused by ὁ πιστὸς δοῦλος καὶ φρόνιμος Mt. 24. 45, where καὶ carries over the article; on the other hand in Ap. 2. 12 την ρομφαίαν την δίστομον την όξειαν the repetition is necessary, as in H. 11. 12 ή ἄμμος ή παρὰ τὸ χείλος τῆς θαλάσσης ή ἀναρίθμητος. The repetition of the art. before the subst. is rare (more frequent in class. Greek): L. 1. 70 των άγίων των ἀπ' αἰωνος ... προφητών only AC al. (cp. A. 3. 21), 1 P. 4. 14 τὸ τῆς δόξης καὶ τὸ τοῦ θεοῦ πνεῦμα; but ὁ ἄλλος, οί λοιποί, if not followed immediately by a noun but by a defining clause, require to be followed by an article, as in classical Greek: Jo. 19, 32 τοῦ ἄλλου τοῦ συσταυρωθέντος, Ap. 2. 24 τοῖς λοιποῖς τοῖς έν θυατείροις (since ἄλλ. and λ. do not unite with other defining clauses to form a single phrase).

9. On outos, ekeivos, autos 'self' with the article when used with a subst. see \$\ 49, 4; 48, 10. Toloros is occasionally preceded by the art. (when referring to individuals or embracing a class): Mt. 19. 14 τῶν τοιούτων (referring to the previous τὰ παιδία); but this rarely happens when a subst. follows, 2 C. 12. 3, Mc. 9. 37 ABDL (τοιούτους before τοὺς in Jo. 4. 23 is predicative). Τὸ τηλικοῦτο κῆτος Herm. Vis. iv. 1. 9. "Εκαστος is never followed by the art. (Attic usage is different); with δλος and πας (cp. supra 6; απας is only found in Luke with any frequency) the relations are more complicated. Thus, with πάντες 'all' the subst., to which it belongs, as one which must be understood in its entirety, is naturally defined by the (generic) article, although πάντες in itself does not require the art. any more than ovtos does; hence $\pi \acute{a} \nu \tau \epsilon s$ Aθηναίοι as in Attic A. 17. 21, because names of peoples do not need the art., cp. 26. 4, § 46, 12, note 2; also in (Luke and) Paul πάντες ἄνθρωποι A. 22. 15, R. 5. 12, 18, 12. 17, 18 etc. (Herm. Mand. iii. 3), often in the weakened sense of 'all the world,' 'everybody'; cp. for Attic usage Kühner ii. 2 545 2 (πάντες ἄγγελοι Η. 1. 6 Ο.Τ.). It is just this weakening of meaning which is the cause of the omission; the words do not denote any totality as such, but the meaning approximates to that of $\pi \hat{a}s$ 'every' (vide infra), as in $\pi \hat{a}\sigma i\nu \, \hat{a}\gamma a\theta o\hat{i}s$ (1. 6. 6, 1 P. 2. 1 πάσας καταλαλιάς (πᾶσαν καταλαλιάν ), πᾶσιν ύστερουμένοις Herm. Mand. ii. 4. But in 2 P. 3. 16 πάσαις ταις (τ. om. ABC) ἐπιστολαίς, Ε. 3. 8 πάντων τῶν ἀγίων (τῶν ins. P. only), the art. according to classical usage can by no means be omitted; a similar violation of classical usage is seen in L. 4. 20 πάντων έν τη συναγωγή ('those who were in the syn.'), cp. 25.3 'Αμφότεροι like $\pi \acute{a}\nu \tau \epsilon_s$ also takes the art., but only in L. 5. 7 (elsewhere used without a subst.). Has 'whole' in Attic is only used of definite individual ideas, δλος 'whole' also of indefinite ideas, and so in Jo. 7. 23 δλον ανθρωπον 'a whole man,' A. 11. 26 ένιαυτὸν ὅλον, also perhaps L. 5. 5 δι' ὅλης νυκτὸς 'a whole night' (v.l. with $\tau \hat{\eta}$ s); the latter word is also used with anarthrous city-names, A. 21. 31 ὅλη Ἰερουσαλήμ like πῶσα (om. D) Ίεροσόλυμα Mt. 2. 3 (§ 46, 11); elsewhere it always takes the article. Has before an anarthrous subst. means 'every' (not every individual like «καστος, but any you please): Mt. 3. 10 παν δένδρον, 19. 3 κατά πάσαν αἰτίαν, etc.; πάσα δικαιοσύνη = παν ο αν ή δίκαιον (W.-Gr.) Mt. 3. 15; it is also equivalent to summus (W.-Gr.): μετὰ πάσης παρρησίας Α. 4, 20; πάση συνειδήσει άγαθη Α. 23, 1 (in every respect). The distinction between $\pi \hat{a}s$ with and without the art, appears in 2 C. 1. 4 (W.-Gr.): ὁ παρακαλῶν ἡμᾶς ἐπὶ πάση τῆ θλίψει ἡμῶν (that which actually exists in its totality), εἰς τὸ δύνασθαι ήμας παρακαλείν τους έν πάση θλ. (any which may arise); so also A. 12. 11 πάσης της προσδοκίας τοῦ λαοῦ τῶ· Ἰουδαίων (the whole expectation actually entertained); 1 C. 13. 2 πᾶσαν τὴν γνῶσιν and π , τ , $\pi i \sigma \tau i \nu$ (all that there is in its entirety). But in imitation of Hebrew we have παs Ίσραήλ R. 11. 26, the whole of I., παs οἶκος 'Ισρ. Α. 2. 36 (ἐξ ὅλης καρδίας αὐτῶν Herm. Sim. vii. 4), cp. § 46, 9; similar but not incorrect is $\pi \hat{a} \sigma a \sigma \hat{a} \rho \xi$ 'all flesh,' 'everything fleshly'='all men' (בָּלְ־בָּשָׂר) Mt. 24. 22, L. 3. 6, R. 3. 20, 1 C. 1. 29 (never otherwise), cp. sup. $\pi \acute{a} \nu \tau \epsilon s \ \ddot{a} \nu \theta \rho \omega \pi \sigma i$; with a negative as in In other cases $\pi \hat{a}s$ δ and $\pi \hat{a}s$ must be carefully distinguished: Ph. 1. 3 $\epsilon \pi i \pi \alpha \sigma \eta \tau \hat{\eta} \mu \nu \epsilon i \alpha$ 'the whole' (or omit $\tau \hat{\eta}$ with DE), R. S. 22 $\pi \hat{\alpha} \sigma \alpha \hat{\eta}$ κτώτις 'the whole creation,' πῶτα κτ. 'every created thing' 1 P. 2. 13, Col. 1. 23 (with τŷ 8°I)° al.), 15 πρωτότοκος πάσης κτίσεως. ^aA very frequent use is that of $\pi \hat{a}s$ δ with a participle (§ 73, 3) cp. the partic. with art. without παs e.g. δ κλέπτων 'he who stole hitherto' E. 4. 28; without an art. Mt. 13. 19 παντὸς ἀκούοντος, L. 11. 4; so always if a subst. is interposed, Mt. 3. 10 παν δένδρον μὴ ποιοῦν κ.τ.λ.—'Ο πας, οί πάντες contrast the whole or the totality with the part, A. 19. 7 ήσαν οἱ πάντες ἄνδρες ('on the whole,' 'together') ὡσεὶ δώδεκα (c). class. examples, e.g. Thuc. 1. 60), 27. 37, G. 5. 14 δ $\pi \hat{a}_s$ $v \delta \mu o s$ $\delta v \hat{b} \hat{v} \hat{c}$ λόγω $\pi \epsilon \pi \lambda \eta \rho \omega \tau a \iota$ (opposed to the individual laws), A. 20. 18 τον πάντα χρόνον (ἀπὸ πρώτης ήμέρας has preceded); frequently in Paul we have of $\pi \dot{a} \nu \tau \epsilon_{S}$ without a subst, 1 C.9. 22 (a comprehensive term for the individual persons named in verses 20 ff.; also in 19 $\pi \hat{a}\sigma i\nu$ has preceded), 10. 17, R. 11. 32, E. 4. 13, 2 C. 5. 10 τοὺς πάντας ἡμᾶς (not only he, of whom he had previously spoken), somewhat differently in 15 of πάντες 'they all' (ὑπὲρ πάντων has preceded), cp. Ph. 2. 21; similarly τὰ πάντα in 1 C. 12. 6 (opposed to the individual thing), 19, R. 8. 32, 11. 36 (the universe), 1 C. 15 27 f. (similarly, and with reference to πάντα preceding), etc.; also A. 17. 25 (Mc. 4. 11 v.l.). A peculiar use is 1 Tim. 1. 16 $\tau \eta \nu$ $\ddot{a}\pi a \sigma a \nu$ $(\pi a \sigma a \nu)$ $\mu \alpha \kappa \rho o \theta \nu \mu \dot{a} \alpha \nu$ 'the utmost (cp. supra) long-suffering which He has,' cp. Herm. Sim. ix. 24. 3 την ἀπλότητα αὐτῶν καὶ πᾶσαν νηπιότητα. Like οἱ πάντες, τὰ πάντα we also have οἱ ἀμφότεροι, τὰ ἀμφότερα Ε. 2. 14, 16, 18 (Α. 23. 8, but here there is no contrast to the individual things, so that $\dot{a}\mu\phi\dot{o}\tau\epsilon\rho a$ ταῦτα would be more correct); τοὺς δύο Ε. 2. 15 utrumque, because οί ἀμφότεροι 16, 18 had to be used to express utrique.

¹ The instances besides those in Luke are Mt. 6. 32, 24. 39 (πάντας D), 28. 11 (ἄπαντα A), Mc. 8. 25 (D πάντα), 11. 32 v.l., 'Mc.' 16. 15 (om. D), G. 3. 28 \aleph AB³, E. 6. 13 (all Mss.), Ja. 3. 2. The Attic distinction, that πας stands after a vowel, ἄπας after a consonant (Diels Gött. Gel. Anz. 1894, 298 ff.), cannot be made in all cases even in Luke, cp. 1. 3 ἄνωθεν πασων, although ἄπας is generally found after a consonant.

² So Dem. 8. 5, 42.

 $^{^3}$ The words $\dot{\epsilon}\nu~\tau\bar{\eta}~\sigma\nu\nu\alpha\gamma.$ are probably spurious, as they vary much in their position in different MSS.

10. A phrase in apposition with a proper name takes the article, if a well-known person has to be distinguished from another person of the same name, as Ἰωάνης ὁ βαπτιστής, Φίλιππος ὁ εὖαγγελιστής A. 21. 8, ὁ βασιλεὺς Ἡρφδης (v.l. Ἡ. ὁ β.) 12. 1, ᾿Αγρίππας ὁ β. 25. 13; in that case the proper name itself must generally stand without the art., § 46, 10 (hence the reading in A. 12. 12 τῆς [ΝΑΒD] Μαρίας τῆς μητρός is incorrect, cp. ibid. 25 D*); on the other hand we have Σίμωνι βυρσεῖ 10. 6, Μνάσωνί τινι Κυπρίφ 21. 16, Μαναὴν Ἡρώδου τοῦ τετραάρχου σύντροφος 13. I (ibid. the MSS. except D* wrongly read Λούκιος ὁ Κυρηναίος); the necessity for the person to be well known does not hold in the case of δ (ἐπι)καλού μενος with a surname following, or the equivalent ὁ καὶ, or again where a man is denoted by the name of his father or other relation by an art. and gen. (with or without viós etc.), § 35, 2. On Φαραώ βασιλέως Αἰγύπτου Α. 7. 10 see § 46, 9.—In the case of the anarthrous $\theta \epsilon \delta s$ (§ 46, 6) the article may be dispensed with in a clause in apposition with it, but only in more formal and ceremonious language, as in the opening of an epistle, R. 1. 7 ἀπὸ θεοί πατρὸς ἡμῶν καὶ κυρίου Ί, Χρ., 1 Th. 1. Ι έν θεῷ πατρὶ καὶ κυρίω Ί. Χρ., 1 Tim. 1. Ι ἀπόστολος ... κατ' ἐπιταγὴν θεοῦ σωτῆρος ἡμῶν (cp. § 46, 11, note 3); similarly κύριος (§ 46, 6) is used in apposition to Ίησ. Χρ., though not often except in an opening clause (Ph. 3. 20).—In δ ἀντίδικος ύμων διάβολος 1 P. 5. 8 ἀντίδ, is treated as an adjective; Jo. 8. 44 ύμεις έκ τοῦ πατρὸς τοῦ διαβόλου ἐστέ must mean 'you are descended from your father (cp. 38) the devil,' but the words have been taken in former (and unfortunately also in more modern) times to mean 'of the father of the devil,' which is actually the correct grammatical meaning: since πατρός if predicative ('the devil is your father') should not have the art. (cf. supra 6). To avoid coming into conflict either with grammar or with reason, it is advisable, following K and Origen, to remove $\tau \circ \hat{v} = \pi \alpha \tau \rho \delta s$ here (cp. the sequel), or better still $\hat{\epsilon} \kappa$ $\tau \circ \hat{v} \pi \alpha \tau \rho \delta s$, with Syr. Sin. (Chrys.), cp. for the gen. § 35, 2. Mt. 12. 24 see § 46, 9.

11. Where several substantives are connected by Kol the article may be carried over from the first of them to the one or more substantives that follow, especially if they are of the same gender and number as the first, but occasionally too where the gender is different: Col. 2. 22 κατὰ τὰ ἐντάλματα καὶ διδασκαλίας τῶν ἀνθρώπων. L. 14. 23 είς τὰς όδοὺς καὶ φραγμούς, 1. 6, Mc. 12. 33 v.l. (Winer, Inversely there are a number of instances where with the same gender and number the repetition of the article is necessary or more appropriate: A. 26. 30 ὁ βασιλεὺς καὶ ὁ ἡγεμών (different persons), 1 C. 3. 8 ὁ φυτεύων καὶ ὁ ποτίζων εν είσιν (ditto), Jo. 19. ὁ οί άρχιερείς καὶ οἱ ὑπηρέται (whereas ἀρχ. with πρεσβύτεροι or γραμματείς may dispense with a repetition of the art., Mt. 16. 21 etc.), μεταξὺ τοῦ θυσιαστηρίου καὶ τοῦ οἴκου L. 11. 51 (Mt. 23. 35). Also in the case of $\tau \in \kappa a \hat{i}$ repetition generally takes place, though in A. 14. 6 we have τῶν ἐθνῶν τε καὶ (τῶν add. D) Ἰουδαίων. There is frequently a variety of readings, but the alteration in the sense is for the most part unimportant. The article appears to be dropped, not unnaturally, between two clauses in apposition connected by καὶ, in Tit. 2. 13 (την) επιφάνειαν της δόξης του μεγάλου θεού καὶ σωτήρος ήμων Ί. Χρ., cp. 2 P. 1. I (but shere reads κυρίου for θεού, probably rightly, cp. 11, 2. 20, 3. 2, 18); however in Titus loc. cit. σωτήρος ήμ. Ί. Χρ. may be taken by itself and separated from the preceding, in which case cp. for the loss of the art. supra 10; Winer, § 19, 5, note 1.

SYNTAX OF THE PRONOUNS.

348. PERSONAL, REFLEXIVE, AND POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

- 1. The nominatives of the personal pronouns— $\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\dot{\omega}$, $\sigma\dot{v}$, $\dot{\eta}\mu\epsilon\hat{\iota}s$, $\dot{\nu}\mu\epsilon\hat{\iota}s$ -are, as in classical Greek, not employed except for emphasis or contrast. Jo. 4. 10 σὺ ἀν ητησας αὐτόν (not, vice versâ, I thee), Α. 4. 7 έν ποία δυνάμει εποιήσατε τοῦτο ὑμεις; (people like you, this miracle), Jo. 5. 44 πως δύνασθε ύμεις πιστευσαι (persons like you), 39 υμείς δοκείτε έν αυταίς ζωήν αιώνιον έχειν (you yourselves), 38 ον ἀπέστειλεν έκεινος, τούτω ὑμεις οὐ πιστεύετε (ἐκείνος - ὑμεις contrasted), 1. 30 ὑπὲρ οδ ἐγὼ εἶπον (I myself), 42 σὰ εἶ Σίμων..., σὰ κληθήση $K\eta\phi\hat{a}s$ (cp. 49, this particular person as opposed to others), E. 5. 32 το μυστήριον τοῦτο μέγα ἐστίν ἐγὼ δὲ λέγω εἰς Χριστον καὶ εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν (subject and speaker contrasted).—As an equivalent for the third person in the N.T., especially in Luke (Mt., Mc.; also LXX.), aὐτόs is used = 'he' with emphasis (besides ὁ in ὁ δέ, ὁ μὲν οῦν, § 46, 3)1, L. 2. 28 (the parents bring in the child Jesus) καὶ αὐτὸς (Simeon) ἐδέξατο αὐτὸ κ.τ.λ. (in Simeon's own narration of the event it would run καὶ ἐγὼ ἐδεξάμην), 1. 22, 2. 50 (καὶ αὐτοὶ), 9. 36 (ditto), 11. 14 (καὶ αὐτὸ), L. 24. 21 ἢλπίζομεν ὅτι αὐτός ἐστιν ὁ μέλλων λυτροῦσθαι τὸν Ἰσραήλ (here too ἐγώ would be used if the story were told in the first person), Mc. 14. 44 ον αν φιλήσω, αὐτός ἐστιν (he is the man), A. 3. 10 ἐπεγίνωσκον δὲ αὐτόν, ὅτι αὐτὸς (BDEP οδτος, cp. Jo. 9. 8 f.) ην δ ... καθήμενος (1st pers. ὅτι ἐγὰ ημην, cp. Jo. 9. 9), cp. Herm. Mand. vi. 2. 5 γίνωσκε ὅτι αὐτός ἐστιν ἐν σοί: Mt. 12. 50 (cp. with οδτος Mc. 3. 35), 5. 4 ff. Also αὐτὸς δέ, Mc. 5. 40 (ὁ δὲ A), L. 4. 30, 8. 37 etc. (even where the name is added, Mt. 3. 4 αὐτὸς δὲ ὁ [ὁ om. D] Ἰωάνης, 'but he, John'; Mc. 6. 17 αὐτὸς γὰρ ο [o om. D] 'Hρ.); the feminine of aυτοs is not so used: αυτη should be written in L. 2. 37, 7. 12, 8. 42 καὶ αὖτη (καὶ αὐτὸς is also a wrong reading in 8. 41 BD, and in 19. 2 where D reads οὖτος without καὶ). Classical Greek employs sometimes οὖτος, sometimes čκείνος (or δ), § 49, 2 and 3; in modern Greek αὐτός has become a demonstrative pronoun and dropped the meaning of 'self' (for which o ious is used). Of the oblique cases, the gentive alone is used with emphasis in this way (class. ἐκείνου etc.): L. 24. 31 αὐτῶν δὲ διηνοίχθησαν οἱ ὀφθαλμοί, Mt. 5. 3, 10, cp. infra 7 (Herm. Sim. v. 7. 3 αὐτοῦ γάρ ἐστιν πᾶσα ἐξουσία, νιιί. 7. 1 ἄκουε καὶ περὶ αὐτῶν).
- 2. A prominent feature in the Greek of the N.T. (and still more in that of the LXX.) is the extraordinary frequency of the oblique cases of the personal pronouns used without emphasis. The reason for this is the dependence of the language on Semitic speech, where a b c d e f y h v. App. p. 316.

these pronouns are easily and conveniently attached as suffixes to substantival and verbal forms, and are therefore everywhere employed, where the full expression of the thought requires them. The case is different with classical Greek, which has separate words for them, of which some indeed are enclitic, but those for the 3rd person and for the plural are dissyllables, and therefore it expresses these words only so far as they are essential to the lucidity of the sense, while in other cases it leaves them to be The tendency of the N.T., then, is to express the understood. pronoun in each case with every verb which is joined with other verbs in a sentence, and not, according to the classical method, to write it once and leave it to be supplied in the other instances; again, the possessive genitives μου, σου, αὐτοῦ etc. are used with a quite peculiar and tiresome frequency, being employed, to take a special instance, with reference to the subject of the sentence, in which connection the simple pronoun cannot possibly stand in classical Greek, but the reflexive is used instead, vide infra 6. no rule can be laid down, the practice depends on the pleasure of the writer, and superfluous pronouns are often omitted by the better MSS. As in classical Greek 'my father' may be expressed at the option of the writer by $\delta \pi \alpha \tau \eta \rho \mu o v$ ($\delta \epsilon \mu \delta s \pi$.) or $\delta \pi \alpha \tau \eta \rho$, so also in John's Gospel Christ speaks of God as ὁ πατήρ μου, and more often as ὁ πατήρ, 8. 38 ἐγὼ ἃ ἐόρακα παρὰ τῷ πατρὶ (μου add. *D al.) λαλώ, καὶ ὑμεῖς οὖν ἃ ήκούσατε παρὰ τοῦ πατρὸς (so without ύμων BLT) ποιείτε: Mt. 27. 24 ἀπενίψατο τὰς χείρας. The pronoun is omitted in other cases or connections: A. 16. 15 παρεκάλεσεν (sc. ήμας) λέγουσα (without ήμιν), 19 ἐπιλαβόμενοι τὸν Παῦλον καὶ τὸν Σιλαν εἴλκυσαν κ.τ.λ. (instead of ἐπιλαβ. τοῦ Π. ... εἴλκ. αὐτούς). On the other hand we have 22. 17 έγένετό μοι ὑποστρέψαντι-προσευχομένου μου -γενέσθαι με (§ 74, 5), 7. 21 εκτεθέντος δε αὐτοῦ, ἀνείλατο αὐτὸν—καὶ έξεθρέψατο αὐτόν b (vide ibid.; also for combinations such as Mt. 6. 3 σοῦ ποιοῦντος ... μὴ γνώτω ἡ ἀριστερά σου, Mt. 8. 1, v.l. ἐξελθόντι αὐτῷ ... ἠκολούθησαν αὐτῷ). On the acc, and inf. instead of the inf. see § 72, 2 and 3; on $\alpha \tilde{v} \tau o \tilde{v}$ etc. after the relative § 50, 4.

- 4. There is a wide-spread tendency among Greek writers, when they speak of themselves, to say justs instead of eyo. The same meaning is often attributed to many instances of the 1st pers. plur. in St. Paul: in his letters, however, there are usually several persons from whom, as is shown in the opening clause, the letter proceeds, and where this is not the case (Pastoral Epp.; Romans, Ephesians), no such plurals are found: cp. e.g. Col. 1. 3 εὐχαριστοῦμεν with Ε. 1. 15 κἀγω ... οὐ παύομαι εὐχαριστῶν. In R. 1. 5 δι' οῦ ἐλάβομεν χάριν καὶ ἀποστολὴν $\kappa.\tau.\lambda$. while the language clearly applies to Paul himself ($d\pi o\sigma\tau$.), vet the words are not limited to him (χάριν), but the persons addressed, and indeed all Christians (cp. just before, 4 του κυρίου ήμῶν), are fellow-partakers in the χάρις; so that ἔλαβον χάριν would not have been suitable. The author of the Epistle to the Hebrews. however (an epistle, moreover, which has no introduction at all with the name of the writer), appears really to use the plur, and sing. without distinction, 5. 11, 6. 1, 3, 9, 11 etc., 13. 18 f. (plur. - sing.), 22 f. $(\epsilon \pi \epsilon \sigma \tau \epsilon i \lambda a, \dot{\eta} \mu \hat{\omega} \nu)$: and even in those Pauline Epistles, which are indited in the name of several persons, it is not always possible appropriately to refer the plural to these different persons, e.g. in 2 C. 10. 11 ff. Similarly in 1 John 1. 4 γράφομεν is apparently identical in meaning with $\gamma\rho\dot{\alpha}\phi\omega$ (2. 1 and elsewhere).—Quite different is such a plural as we meet with in Mc. 4. 30 πως ωμοιωσωμεν την βασιλείαν του θεού, where in a way that is not unknown to us the audience are represented as taking part in the deliberation."
- 6. The pronoun of the 3rd person αὐτοῦ etc. is very frequently used with a disregard to formal agreement, where there is no noun of the same gender and number to which it may refer. The occurrence of the name of a place is sufficient ground for denoting the inhabitants of it by αὐτῶν: A. 8. 5 Φίλιππος κατελθών είς τὴν πόλιν τῆς Σαμαρείας έκήρυσσεν αὐτοῖς τὸν χριστόν, 16. 10, 20. 2, 2 C. 2. 12 f., G. 2. 2 etc.; in the same way $\kappa \acute{o}\sigma \mu os \dots a \acute{v}\tau o \iota s$ ibid. 2 C. 5. 19, $\pi \hat{a}\nu \dots a \acute{v}\tau o \hat{\iota} s$ ($\kappa^* a \acute{v}\tau \hat{\phi}$) Jo. 17. 2, see § 32, 1 (class. usage is similar). Further we have L. 23. 50 f. βουλευτής ... αὐτῶν, i.e. the members of the high council (the reference being understood from the preceding narrative); R. 2. 26 car h άκροβυστία τὰ δικαιώματα τοῦ νόμου φυλάσση, i.e. ὁ ἀκροβυστίαν ἔχων, and therefore followed by $\alpha \vec{v} \tau \circ \vec{v}$; 1 P. 3. 14 $\tau \circ \vec{v} = \phi \circ \beta \circ \vec{v} = \alpha \vec{v} \tau \cdot \vec{w} \vec{v}$, the persecutors, who are understood from the sense and context, E. 5. 12 $\dot{v}\pi'$ α $\dot{v}\tau\dot{\omega}\nu$, those who belong to the σκότος of verse 11, etc. To these must be added instances of constructio ad sensum (§ 31, 4) such as Mc. 5. 41 κρατήσας της χειρός του παιδίου λέγει αὐτή, and on the other hand cases where the subject referred to is obvious without further explanation, as in Jo. 20. 15 αὐτόν, 1 Jo. 2. 12 αὐτοῦ. 1 Cp. Buttmann, p. 92 f., Winer, § 22, 3. The relative pronoun is sometimes used in a similar way: G. 4. 19 τεκνία μου, οθς, Jo. 6. 9 παιδάριον, δς (v.l. δ), Ph. 2. 15 γενεάς σκολιάς, έν οίς; also A. 15. 36 κατά πάσαν πόλιν, έν αίς, 2 P. 3. 1 δευτέραν ήδη έπιστολήν, έν αίς (i.e. ταίς δυσίν έπιστ.) etc.
 - 7. The reflexive pronouns— ἐμαυτοῦ, σεαυτοῦ, ἑαυτοῦ, with plural

¹ In Jo. 8. 44 (ὁ πατήρ) αὐτοῦ (§ 47, 3) must be referred through ψεύστης to ὅταν λαλῆ τὸ ψεῦδος, if the text is correct. A common interpretation is to take 'and his father' as part of the subject (there is an interpolated reading ώς καὶ, 'as also'), see above § 47, 10.

α ὁ ν. App. p. 316-317.

for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd persons ξαυτῶν (§ 13, 1) 1—have in the N.T. been to some extent displaced by the simple personal pronoun; but a more noticeable fact is that they have had no share at all in the extended use which the personal pronouns acquired (supra 2). When the pronoun is employed as a direct complement to the verb, referring back to the subject, no other than the reflexive form is found in all (or nearly all) authors; but if the pronoun is governed by a preposition, there are at least in Matthew numerous instances of the simple pronoun being used; finally, if a substantive governing the pronoun is interposed, and the pronoun has no emphasis at all (so that classical writers would omit it altogether, supra 2), then the reflexive form is never employed. Thus, in proportion as the number and the independent character of the words interposed between the pronoun and the subject becomes greater, the rarer becomes the use of the reflexive. (For instances of this in classical writers, Kühner ii.2 489, 494.) Direct complement: Mt. 6. 19 f. θησαυρίζετε ύμιν θησαυρούς (instead of ξαυτοῖς). After a preposition: Mt. 5. 29 f., 18. 8 f. βάλε ἀπὸ σοῦ, 6. 2 μὴ σαλπίσης ἔμπροσθέν σου, 11. 29 ἄρατέ τον ζυγόν μου έφ' ύμας, 13. 13 παράλαβε μετά σού BDI (σεαυτού κΚLM). The simple form is still more frequent where two pronouns are connected: 18. 15 - ἔλεγξον ... μεταξύ σοῦ καὶ αὐτοῦ, 17. 27 δὸς ἀντὶ ἐμοῦ (In Semitic speech, where the reflexive is expressed by a periphrasis with vizz3, there can be no question of this kind of expression in these cases.) Yet even Mt. has εἶπον ἐν ἑαυτοῖς (9. 3, 21), μερισθείσα καθ' έαυτης (12. 25), 15. 30 ἔχοντες μεθ' έαυτων, etc.—In the case of a possessive genitive attached to a substantive, the MS, evidence is often conflicting, not however in the case of έμαυτοῦ or σεαυτοῦ, but only with ξαυτοῦ. The only instance with έμαυτοῦ is 1 C. 10. 33 τὸ έμαυτοῦ συμφέρον (of σεαυτοῦ there is no example); then with $\epsilon \alpha v \tau \hat{\omega} v = 2 \text{nd}$ pers. we have H. 10. 25 $\tau \hat{\eta} v$ $\epsilon \pi i \sigma v \nu a \gamma \omega \gamma \dot{\eta} \nu \epsilon a v \tau \hat{\omega} \nu$, with $\epsilon a v \tau o \hat{v}$, $-\hat{\eta} s$, $-\hat{\omega} \nu$ between the art. and the noun (infra 8) we have Mc. 8. 35 v.l., L. 11. 21 τὴν ἐαυτοῦ αὐλήν (D. τ. α. αὐτοῦ), 13. 34 τὴν ξαντῆς νοσσιὰν (τὰ νοσσία αὐτῆς D), 14. 26 (ξαντοῦ stands after the noun in &B), 33 (αὐτοῦ D al.), also 16. 8 ἐἰς τὴν γενεὰν τὴν ἑαντῶν ; frequent in the Pauline Epp., e.g. R. 4. 19, 5. 8, 16. 4, 18. On the other hand, the simple pronoun is also used e.g. in A. 28. 19 τοῦ ἔθνους μου, ibid. β text την ψυγήν μου, G. 1. 14 μου bis, 16 τὸν νίὸν αὐτοῦ, etc.; on ἐμός σός, vide infra 7.—Other instances of reflexives: Mt. 12. 45 πονηρότερα ἑαντοῦ (DE* αντου), Mc. 5. 26 τὰ παρ' ἑαντῆς (αὐτῆς ABL), L. 24. 27 τὰ περὶ ἑαντοῦ (αὐτοῦ DEL al.); on the other hand, Ph. 2. 23 ἀφίδω τὰ περὶ ἐμέ, R. 1. 15 τὸ κατ' ἐμὲ πρόθυμος sc. εἰμί (§ 42, 2). A loose but intelligible use is 1 C. 10. 29 λέγω οὐχὶ τὴν ἑαντοῦ.—The mode of strengthening the reflexive by means of αὐτός, frequent in Attic, appears in a few instances (from the literary language): 2 C. 10. 12 αὖτοὶ ἐν ἑαντοῖς ἑαντοὺς μετροῦντες, 1. 9, A. 5. 36 D κατελύθη αὐτὸς δὶ' ἑαντοῦ (αντου D); but in Jo. 9. 21 the pronouns must not be connected: αὐτὸς (he himself) περὶ ἑαντοῦ λαλήσει (cp. R. 8. 23).—On ἑαντῶν for ἀλλήλων, vide infra 10.

¹ The corresponding use of ἐαυτοῦ for (ἐμαυτοῦ or) σεαυτοῦ, which is far from being established for classical prose, rests even in the N.T. on doubtful authority: Jo. 18. 34 ἀφ' ἐαυτοῦ σὸ τοῦτο λέγεις, but ἀπὸ σεαυτοῦ κΒC*L: R. 13. 9 = G. 5. 14 O.T. ὡς ἐαυτοῦ read by FGLP and FGLN*P in the respective passages; cp. Herm. Vis. iv. 1. 5 ἡρξάμην λέγειν ἐν ἐαυτῷ (κ* as; ἐμαυτ. κ°), Sim. ii. 1 τἱ σὺ ἐν ἐαυτῷ ζητεῖς (κ is wanting), ix. 2. 5: Clem. Hom. xiv. 10, xvii. 18 for ἐμαυτοῦ. Buttm. 99. On ὑμῶν αὐτῶν 1 C. 5. 13 vide infra 10.

8. The possessives έμός, σός, ἡμέτερος, ὑμέτερος are employed in classical Greek to represent the emphasized genitives $\epsilon\mu\omega\hat{v}$, $\sigma\omega\hat{v}$ etc., whereas if there is no emphasis on the pronoun possession is denoted by the genitives μου, σου, ήμων, ὑμων; the position of the latter, as of the corresponding αὐτοῦ, -η̂s, -ῶν cf the 3rd pers., if the subst. takes the article, is after the substantive (and the article is not repeated), or even before the article, as in Mt. 8. 8 ίνα μου ὑπὸ τὴν στέγην, 1 Th. 3. 10 ίδειν ύμων το πρόσωπον, 13 στηρίξαι ύμων τὰς καρδίαs, or lastly, if the subst. has an attribute before it, the position of the pronoun is after the attribute: 2 C. 4. 16 $\delta = \xi \omega = \eta \mu \hat{\omega} v = \alpha \nu \theta \rho \omega \pi \sigma s$, Mt. 27. 60 έν τῷ καινῷ αὐτοῦ μνημείφ, 1 P. 1. 3, 2. 9, 5. 10 etc. (Buttmann, p. 101). On the other hand, the possessives take the position of the attributes, as in classical Greek is the case with emphasized genitives like έμαυτοῦ, σεαυτοῦ, έαυτοῦ, τούτου, ἐκείνου $(=hi\bar{s})$. noticeable point in the N.T. is that while έμοῦ and σοῦ are not used as possessives (except in connection with another gen., R. 16. 13 αὐτοῦ καὶ ἐμοῦ, 1. 12), the emphatic ὑμῶν (in the Pauline Epp., Buttmann 102) undoubtedly is so used (in the position of the attribute; cp. Soph. Oed. R. 1458 ή μεν ήμων μοίρα), and hence it happens that the words ημέτερος and υμέτερος are by no means represented in all the N.T. writings (there are not ten instances of each, none at all e.g. in Mt., Mc.): 1 C. 16. 18 τὸ ἐμὸν πνεθμα καὶ τὸ ὑμῶν, 2 C. 1. 6 ὑπὲρ τῆς ύμων παρακλήσεως (object. gen., which however may equally well be expressed by the possessive : R. 11. 31 τῷ ὑμετέρῳ ἐλέει, T. C. 11. 24 τὴν ἐμῆν ἀνάμνησιν, W. § 22, 7, cp. for class. exx. Kühner ii. 486, note 11), 2 C. 9. 2 τὸ ὑμῶν (v.l. ἐξ ὑμ.) ξῆλος, 1 C. 16. 17 τὸ ὑμῶν (ὑμέτερον BCD al.) ὑστέρημα, 1 Th. 3. 7, Člem. Hom. x. 15 τῷ ὑμῶν (reflex.) παραδείγματι. Still the possessive is also found in another position in ήμων γάρ τὸ πολίτευμα Ph. 3. 20 (stronger emphasis, for which τὸ $\gamma \alpha \rho \dot{\eta} \mu$. $\pi o \lambda$. was not sufficient), and there are similar exceptions in the case of reflexive genitives: την ἐπισυναγωγην ἑαυτών Η. 10. 25 (i.e. ὑμῶν αὐτῶν), A. 21. 11 δήσας ἐαυτοῦ τοὺς πόδας (there is a wrong reading αὐτοῦ, which would refer to Paul), G. 6. 4 τὸ ἔργον ἐαυτοῦ, ibid. 8 είς την σάρκα έαυτοῦ (αὐτοῦ D*FG, cp. the v.l. in E. 4. 16, Mt. 21. 8, 23. 37; Herm. Vis. iii. 11. 3 ἐαυτῶν [2nd pers.] τὰς μερίμνας, Sim. iv. 5 τον κύριον έαυτων [3rd pers.], v. 4. 3; in general, according to what has been said above [see 6] αὐτοῦ deserves the preference). Emphatic acros = his is found in the position of the attribute: Tit. 3. 5 κατὰ τὸ αὐτοῦ ἔλεος (opposed to preceding ἡμεῖς; τὸ ἔλ. αὐτοῦ

- D*EFG), Η. 2. 4 κατὰ τὴν αὐτοῦ θέλησιν, R. 11. 11 τῷ αὐτῶν παραπτώματι ή σωτηρία τοις έθνεσιν 3. 24, 1 Th. 2. 19, Ja. 1. 18 (v.l. έαυτοῦ); cp. supra 1 (in R. 3. 25 έν τω αὐτοῦ αἴματι the gen, is from αὐτός 'self'). Tor this classical Greek uses έκείνου (which may even have reflexive force, Kühner ii.2 559, 12); the latter appears in the correct position (that of the attribute), in Jo. 5. 47, 2 C. 8. 9, 14, 2 Tim. 2. 26 etc. (exception R. 6. 21 το τέλος έκείνων); cp. with τούτου etc., R. 11. 30, 2 P. 1. 15 (but contrary to rule are A. 13. 23 τούτον ὁ θεὸς άπὸ τοῦ σπέρματος, ep. on Ph. 3. 20 above; Ap. 18. 15 οἱ ἔμποροι τούτων; H. 13. 11).— Εμός is very frequent in John, not very frequent in the remaining writers (o's besides its use in Gospels and Acts occurs only three times in Paul); έμός (like σός) is also used reflexively for ἐμαυτοῦ (σεαυτοῦ), Philem. 19, Mt. 7. 3 (3 Jo. 4), Herm. Sim. i. 11 τὸ σὸν ἔργον ἐργάζου (also occasionally in class. Greek, Kühner ii.² 494a). The possessives are also used predicatively (without an art.): Mt. 20. 23 = Mc. 10. 40 οὐκ ἔστιν ἐμὸν τοῦτο δοῦναι (for which we have in the plur. ὑμῶν ἀστιν 1 C. 3. 21 f., cp. supra § 35, 2); with a subst. inserted ἐμὸν βρῶμά ἐστιν ἵνα κ.τ.λ. Jo. 4. 34, 13. 35; under other circumstances also the art. may be dropped: Ph. 3. 9 μη $\ddot{\epsilon}\chi\omega\nu$ $\dot{\epsilon}\mu\eta\nu$ δικαιοσύνην ('a righteousness of my own') την έκ νόμου (cp. § 47, 6), as with ίδιος, infra 9, and with ξαιτοῦ L. 19. 13 δέκα δούλους ξαυτοῦ ('of his').
- 9. A common possessive pronoun is "Slos, which in classical Greek is opposed to κοινός or δημόσιος, while in modern Greek the new possessive δ έδικός μου, σου etc. has been fully developed (with the N.T. use agree also the LXX., Philo, Josephus, Plutarch etc., W. Schmidt Jos. elocut. 369). It is opposed to κοινός A. 4. 32 (H. 7. 27); or means 'peculiar,' 'corresponding to the particular condition, of a person or thing, 1 C. 3. 8, 7. 7 etc. (class.); but generally means simply 'own, = ξαυτοῦ etc. (like class. οἰκείος): Jo. l. 11 εἰς τὰ ἴδια ἦλθεν, καὶ οἱ ἴδιοι αὐτὸν οὐ παρέλαβον, 42 εὐρίσκει τον άδελφον τον ίδιον Σίμωνα, Mt. 22. 5 είς τον ίδιον άγρόν (without emphasis = $\epsilon i s$ τ . \vec{a} . $\vec{a} \vec{v} \tau o \hat{v}$), 25. 14; with v.l. $\epsilon \vec{a} \vec{v} \tau o \hat{v}$ \vec{L} . 2. 3. It is joined with the gen. αὐτοῦ etc. (a use which in itself is classical) in Mc. 15. 20 (v.l. without αὐτοῦ, D also omits ἴδια) A. 1. 19, 24. 23, Tit. 1. 12, 2 P. 3. 3, 16. Κατ' ἰδίαν is frequent = class. καθ' ϵαυτόν 'by Himself,' Mt. 14. 13 etc.; ἰδία ἐκάστω 1 C. 12. 11 is classical.—It is not surprising that the article is occasionally dropped, cp. supra 8 ad fin. (1 C. 15. 38, a v.l. inserts τό; Tit. 1. 12); in Tit. 2. 9 δούλους δεσπόταις ίδίοις ὑποτάσσεσθαι there is a kind of assimilation to the anarthrous δούλους (somewhat as in H. 12. 7, § 46, 7); 2 P. 2. 16 ἔλεγξιν ίδίας παρανομίας is due to Hebrew usage like παρ. αὐτοῦ (§ 46, 9).—On the periphrasis for the possess. gen. with κατά see § 42, 2.

reciprocal ἀλλήλων in 1 C. 6. 7, Col. 3. 13, 16, etc., and often in conjunction with it for the sake of variety: L. 23. 12 ἀλλήλων ... $\pi\rho$ ès ἐαυτούς with v.l. in κΒLΤ $\pi\rho$ ès αὐτούς, a use of the simple pronoun which here appears to be inadmissible. The individual persons are kept separate in ἄλλος $\pi\rho$ ès ἄλλον Α. 2. 12 = $\pi\rho$ ès ἀλλήλους; cp. εἶς τὸν ἕνα for ἀλλήλους (Semitic) § 45, 2.

11. Aðrós 'self' has its classical usages (usually followed by an article, which however does not belong to $a\mathring{v}\tau\acute{o}s$, and is therefore sometimes omitted, as in $a\mathring{v}\tau \`{o}s$ 'I $\eta\sigma o\mathring{v}s$ Jo. 2. 24, according to § 46, 10); it is naturally found also in connection with the personal pronoun, where it is to be sharply distinguished from the reflexive: $\grave{\epsilon} \not{\xi} \mathring{v}\mu \^{o}v \ a\mathring{v}\tau \^{o}v \ A$. 20. 30, like $a\mathring{v}\tau \^{o}s \ \grave{\epsilon}\gamma \acute{o}$, $a\mathring{v}\tau \^{o}i \ \mathring{v}\mu \epsilon \^{i}s$ (in the 3rd pers. it is of course not repeated: $\~{i}va \ a\mathring{v}\tau \^{o}v \ \xi \ \mathring{v}\lambda o\mathring{v}\tau \epsilon \ G$. 4. 17, 'the men themselves'); even in 1 C. 5. 13 $\ifloot \epsilon \ifloot \epsilon \i$

§ 49. DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS.

- 1. The demonstrative pronouns of the N.T. are: $\hat{o}\hat{v}\tau o$, $\hat{\epsilon}\kappa \epsilon \hat{i}\nu o$, and $\hat{a}\hat{v}\tau o$, which is beginning to be so used, see § 48, 1, remnants of \hat{o} , $\hat{\eta}$, τo , § 46, 1-3, remnants also of δo , § 12, 2, which is not even used correctly in all cases ($\tau a o$ $\hat{\delta} o$ $\hat{\epsilon} o$ $\hat{\epsilon} o$ introduce some information is correct in A. 21. 11, Ap. 2. 1 etc.), just because it belonged to the language of literature and not to the living language: L. 10. 39 $\kappa a \hat{\epsilon} o$ $\hat{\tau} o$ $\hat{\delta} o$ \hat
- 2. The uses of οὖτος and ἐκεῖνος are, on the whole, clearly distinguished. Οὖτος refers to persons or things actually present: Mt. 3. 17 οὖτός ἐστιν ὁ νίος μου etc.; to persons or things mentioned, = one who continues to be the subject of conversation, as e.g. in Mt. 3. 3 οὖτος (John, verse 1 f.) γάρ ἐστιν ὁ ῥηθεὶς κ.τ.λ., especially used after a preliminary description of a person to introduce what has to be narrated of him, Mt. 27. 57 f. ἄνθρωπος πλούσιος ἀπὸ ᾿Αριμαθαίας ... οὧτος προσελθὼν κ.τ.λ., L. 23. 50 ff., Ja. 3. 2, 4. 47, A. 1. 18 οὖτος μὲν οὖν κ.τ.λ., etc.; somewhat different is καὶ οὖτος in Luke in the continuation of a description, L. 2. 25 f. καὶ ἰδοὺ ἄνθρωπος ἢν ... ϟ ὄνομα Συμεών, καὶ ὁ ἄ. οὖτος δίκαιος κ.τ.λ., cp. 17, 7. 12, 8. 41 (with a wrong reading αὐτὸς, see § 48, 1), 19. 2 (the same v.l.; only D has οὖτος); cp. also καὶ τῆδε (sup. 1), 10. 39. Slight ambiguities (where several substantives precede) must be cleared up by the sense: A. 8. 26 αὕτη ἐστὶν ἔρημος, referring to ἡ ὁδός, not to Γάζα; L. 16. 1 ἄνθρωπός τις ην πλούσιος ος είχεν οίκονόμον, καὶ οθτος (referring to οἰκ.) διεβλήθη αὐτῷ (to ἄνθ. πλ.). It very commonly stands in the apodosis, referring back to the protasis: Mt. 10. 22 ὁ δὲ ὑπομείνας εἰς τέλος, οθτος σωθήσεται, R. 7. 15 οὐ γὰρ δ θέλω [, τοθτο] πράσσω, ἀλλ' δ μισώ, τούτο ποιώ; but τούτο is also found in the preceding principal clause, as a preliminary to a subordinate clause with ori, wa etc.; 1 Tim. 1. 9 είδως τοῦτο, ὅτι κ.τ.λ., 1 Jo. 2. 3 έν τούτω γινώσκομεν..., έὰν κ.τ.λ.; also before an infinitive or substantive, 2 C. 2. 1 έκρινα έμαυτῷ τοῦτο, τὸ μὴ πάλιν ... έλθεῖν, 2 C. 13. 9 τοῦτο καὶ εὐχόμεθα, την ὑμῶν κατάρτισιν. St. Paul frequently also has αὐτὸ τοῦτο, just this (and nothing else), R. 9. 17 O.T., 13. 6, Ph. 1. 6 $\pi \epsilon \pi o i \theta \hat{\omega} s$ $a \hat{v} \tau \hat{o} \tau o \hat{v} \tau o$ (with reference to their endurance already emphasized in verse 5), also 2 P. 1. 5; an adverbial use (like τi) is $\tau o \hat{v} \tau o$ $a \hat{v} \tau o$ just for this reason 2 C. 2. 3, § 34, 7. Another adverbial use is τοῦτο μὲν... τοῦτο δὲ on the one hand... on the other hand, both ... and H. 10. 33 (Attic; literary language). We further have καὶ τοῦτο idque 'and indeed' 1 C. 6. 6. (κ. ταῦτα CDb), 8 (ταῦτα L), R. 13. 11, E. 2. 8 (Att. καὶ ταῦτα, Kühner ii. 791); on καὶ ταῦτα with part. 'although' H. 11. 12 etc. see § 74, 2.—Οῦτος appears to be often used in a contemptuous way (like Latin iste) of a person who is present: L. 15. 30 δ νίος σου οθτος, 18. 11 οθτος δ τελώνης, Α. 17. 18.—On οὐ μετὰ πολλὰς ταύτας ἡμέρας Α. 1. 5 see § 42, 3.

3. The much rarer word excives (most frequent, comparatively speaking, in St. John) may be used to denote persons who are absent, and are regarded in that light: ὑμεῖς – ἐκεῖνοι are opposed in Mt. 13. 11, Jo. 5. 39, A. 3. 13, 2 Č. 8. 14, $\eta \mu \epsilon \hat{i} s$ ($\epsilon \gamma \omega$) – $\epsilon \kappa$. in Jo. 3. 28, 30, 1 C. 9. 25, 10. 11, 15. 11; of course the conversation must have turned on the persons indicated, to make the pronoun intelligible at all.² It is never used in the N.T. in connection with, or in opposition to, οὖτος (Buttm. p. 91); but see Herm. Mand. iii. 5 ἐκείνα (the past) - ταῦτα (the present). Frequently in the N.T. ἐκείνη ἡ ἡμέρα is used of the last day, Mt. 7. 22, 2 Th. 1. 10. But it is especially used in narrative (even imaginary narrative) about something that has been previously mentioned, and that which is connected therewith. When thus used, it is distinguished from οὖτος, which refers to something which is still under immediate Thus confusion between the two pronouns is not consideration. Mt. 3. 1 εν δε ταις ημέραις εκείναις in the transition often possible. to a fresh narrative, cp. Mc. 1. 9, 8. 1, L. 2. 1; but Luke also uses ταύταις in this phrase, 1. 39, 6. 12 (D ἐκείναις), A. 1. 15, 6. 1 (v.l.

 $^{^{1}}$ 2 P. 1. 5 καὶ αὐτὸ δὲ τοῦτο (v.l. κ. α. τοῦτο δὲ) σπουδὴν πᾶσαν παρεισενέγκαντες might be a corruption of κατ' αὐτὸ δὲ τοῦτο.

² It is used contemptuously or invidiously of an absent person in Jo. 9. 28, cp. οῦτος, sup. 2; in A. 5. 28 D has τοῦ ἄνθρ. ἐκείνου for τ. ἀ. τούτου of the other MSS. (the latter is due to ἐπὶ τῷ ὀνόματι τούτω in the same verse).

Mand. vii. 5, etc.; even with reference to the speaker in Jo. 9. 37. It is not often followed by the word or clause referred to: Mt. 24. 43 ἐκεῖνο (that other thing, see 42) δὲ γινώσκετε ὅτι (R. 14. 15 ἐκεῖνον ... ὑπὲρ οῦ opposed to σ), Jo. 13. 26 he, cp. supra. Its meaning is also weakened to he' ('they') in Jo. 10. 6 ταύτην την παροιμίαν εἶπεν αὐτοις ὁ Ἰησ., έκεινοι δὲ (for which οἱ δέ, αὐτοὶ δὲ are synonyms, $$ 46, 3; 48, 1; but  here has simply καὶ οὐκ) and so frequently in John in unbroken connection with the first mention, 9. 9, 11, 25, 36; similarly 'Mc.' 16. 10 ff.²

§ 50. RELATIVE AND INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

1. The relative of definite reference 8s (by the ancients called $3\rho\theta\rho\rho\nu$ $\dot{v}\pi o\tau a\kappa\tau\iota\kappa \acute{o}\nu$, \$ 46, 1) and that of indefinite reference $8\sigma\tau\iota s$ are no longer regularly distinguished in the N.T.; and with this is connected the fact that the latter is almost entirely limited to the nominative (\$ 13, 3), although in this case it is used by nearly all writers (least of all by John). A similar case is that of ooos, which, except in Hebrews, is used only in the nominative and accusative. Mt. uses ootis correctly in general statements, 5. 39, 41, 10. 33 etc., but also ős 10. 14, 23. 16, 18; esp. πâς ὅστις 7. 24, 10. 32, 19. 29; but πâs ős occurs in L. 14. 33, A. 2. 21 O.T., G. 3. 10 O.T., παντὶ & L. 12. 48; Mt. also uses this phrase where a subst. is inserted, 12. 36 παν βήμα άργον δ, 15. 13 πασα φυτεία ην (πασα ψυχη ητις A. 3. 23 O.T.). "Ootis is also correctly used in connection with a subst. of indefinite reference: Mt. 7. 15 των ψευδοπροφητών οἵτινες (description follows), 24 ἀνδρὶ φρονίμω ὅστις etc. (but Lc. uses δs: 6. 48 ἀνθρώπω δs, 49 οἰκίαν ή): and to denote a definite person in a case where the relative sentence expresses the general quality, Jo. 8. 53 'Αβραάμ, οστις ἀπέθανεν (who was a man who died), A. 7. 53 οἴτινες ἐλάβετε κ.τ.λ. (people who); but these limits are often exceeded esp. by Luke, and οἴτινες, ήτις are used = οἴ, ή: Πέτρον καὶ Ἰωάνην, οἵτινες Α. 8. 15, τὴν πύλην ήτις 12. 10, πόλιν Δαυίδ, ητις L. 2. 4 (particularly where a participle follows, and the meaning of oi, η would not have been clear, A. 8. 15, 17. 10 οἴτινες παραγενόμενοι); Ap. 12. 13 την γυναίκα ήτις έτεκεν τον άρσενα. This use of ootis for os is very old in Ionic Greek, Kühner Gr. ii.2 906 (Herod. ii. 99 πόλιν ήτις νῦν Μέμφις καλείται). In the Pauline Epistles this use cannot be established, since in R. 16. 3 ff. 5 and οστις are alternately used, according as a mere statement of fact is made (ős), or a characteristic is given (7 οἴτινές εἰσιν ἐπίσημοι ἐν τοῖς ἀποστόλοις, οἴ καὶ πρὸ ἐμοῦ γέγοναν ἐν Χριστῷ); also in G. 4. 24, 26 ἥτις = ἡ τοιαύτη, ep. 1 C. 3. 17, Ph. 1. 28, 1 Tim. 3. 15.—As an instance of os for ours one may further note orders (or) ... os (for σστις) ού, § 75, 6.—δσπερ has been given up, § 13, 3.

2. The ἄρθρον ὑποτακτικόν, ös. ή, ö justifies this appellation chiefly in the fact that, like the article (α. προτακτικόν) which follows a substantive and introduces a further definition, its case is assimilated to that of the substantive, even though in conformity with the relative sentence it should have had another case, which is generally the accusative (Attraction or Assimilation of the relative).1 this peculiarity of Greek the N.T. (like the LXX.) is entirely in agreement with the classical language. Exceptions occur (as in classical Greek, Thuc. ii. 70. 5) where the relative clause is more sharply divided from the rest of the sentence (through the insertion of other defining words with the noun and through the importance of the contents of the relative sentence): H. 8. 2 της σκηνης της άληθινης, ην ἔπηξεν ὁ κύριος, οὐκ ἄνθρωπος; but in other passages there is always a v.l., Mc. 13. 19 ἀπ' ἀρχῆς κτίσεως, ἣν (ῆς AC² al., om. ἣν ϵ κτ. δ θ . D) ϵ κτισεν δ θ ε δ s, Jo. 2. 22 and 4. 50 τ $\hat{\phi}$ λόγ ψ δ ν ($\hat{\psi}$ $A\Delta X$ al., DΔ al.), 4. 5 χωρίου δ (οδ C*D al.), 7. 39 (οδ κDG al.), Ap. 1. 20 $(\mathring{\omega}\nu B)$; Tit. 3. 5 οὐκ ἐξ ἔργων τῶν ἐν δικαιοσύνη, ἃ (ὧν $\mathring{\mathbb{C}}^bD^c$ al.) ἐποιήσαμεν ἡμεῖς is an instance of the case above-mentioned of separation through the insertion of defining words. (On A. 8. 32 f. see the author's commentary on that passage.) On the other hand it is not only the so-called accusative of the inner object (§ 34, 3) which is capable of assimilation (Ε. 4. 1 της κλήσεως ης εκλήθητε, A. 24. 21, 26. 16, Jd. 15), but occasionally the dative is assimilated as well: A. 1. 22 ἄχρι της ἡμέρας ης ἀνελήμφθη (cp. L. 1. 20 D. LXX. Lev. 23. 15, Bar. 1. 15), R. 4. 17 κατέναντι οδ ἐπίστευσεν θεοῦ, i.e. κ. $\tau \circ \hat{v} \theta$. $\delta \epsilon \pi$. (see below on the attraction of the substantive into the relative clause). In addition to this, the preposition which should be repeated before the relative may be omitted (class.): A. 1. 21 έν παντί χρόνω (εc. έν) ώ, 13. 2 είς το έργον (εc. είς) δ, 39 άπο πάντων $(sc. \dot{a}\phi')$ $\delta \nu$, Herm. Sim. ix. 7. 3 $\mu\epsilon\tau\dot{a}$ $\pi\dot{a}\nu\tau\omega\nu$ $(sc. \mu\epsilon\theta')$ $\delta\nu$ (but in the case of a sharper division of the relative clause, the preposition is repeated: A. 7. 4 είς την γην ταύτην, είς ην, 20. 18 άπο πρώτης ήμερας, $d\hat{\phi}'$ $\hat{\eta}_{S}$, Jo. 4. 53 ($\hat{\epsilon}_{V}$) $\hat{\epsilon}_{K}\hat{\epsilon}_{V}\hat{\eta}_{T}$ that the Greek relative includes our demonstrative 'he' or 'that': it is therefore used by assimilation in the case which would belong to the demonstrative: L. 9. 36 οὐδὲν $\eth \nu = \tau ούτων ~ \mathring{a}$, Jo. 7. 31 $\pi \lambda \epsilon i ον ~ \mathring{a} \nu ~ (do.)$, 17. 9 $\pi \epsilon \rho i ~ \mathring{a} \nu = \pi \epsilon \rho i ~ \tau ούτων ~ o\mathring{v}$ ς; also $\mathring{a} \nu \mathring{a} \nu ~ \mathring{a} \nu = \mathring{a} \nu \tau i ~ \tau ούτων ~ o\mathring{v}$ ς. $\ddot{ο}$ τι, $\dot{\epsilon}$ φ' $\dot{\phi}$ = $\dot{\epsilon}$ πὶ τούτω $\ddot{ο}$ τι, διότι = διὰ τοῦτο $\ddot{ο}$ τι; cp. adverbs of place § 76, 4. More noticeable is the occasional attraction of the noun into the relative clause, in which case the article belonging to the noun, being incompatible with the $d\rho\theta\rho$. $i\pi o\tau$., must be left out, while the noun itself is now assimilated to the case of the relative; of course even where there is no assimilation of the relative, a similar attraction of the noun into the relative clause, with the case of the relative, may take place (so in classical Greek, Kühner ii.² 922: e.q. & $d\nu\delta\rho i$ $\pi d\nu\tau\epsilon s$ $\epsilon \delta \nu o i$ $\eta \sigma a \nu$, $d\pi \epsilon \theta a \nu \epsilon \nu$). But the noun is not placed immediately after the relative, except in the case of ημέρα: L. 1. 20 ἄχρι ης ημέρας γένηται ταθτα, = ἄ. της ήμ. (ἐν) $\hat{\eta}$ cp. supra, A. 1. 1, Mt. 24. 38 (same phrase). 1a On the other hand: L. 19. 37 πασῶν ὧν εἶδον δυνάμεων, 3. 19 περὶ πάντων ὧν ἐποίησεν πονηρῶν ὁ 'Ηρώδης (τῶν πον. ὧν 🛚*), cp. A. 25. 18², and with no assimilation of the relative: L. 24. 1 φέρουσαι ἃ ἡτοίμασαν ἀρώματα, Jo. 6. 14 ἃ έποίησεν σημείον. The way in which the following exx, should be resolved is ambiguous: L. 1. 4 περὶ ὧν κατηχήθης λόγων, = either $\pi \epsilon \rho i \tau \hat{\omega} \nu \lambda$, oùs or $\tau \hat{\omega} \nu \lambda \delta \gamma \omega \nu \pi \epsilon \rho i \hat{\omega} \nu$ (in view of passages like A. 18. 25, 20. 24, 25. 26 the first is probably correct); R. 6. 17 ύπηκούσατε είς ον παρεδόθητε τύπον διδαχής, probably τῷ τύπω είς ον; with omission of a preposition A. 21. 16 (but not D) αγοντες παρ' δ $\xi \epsilon \nu \iota \sigma \theta \hat{\omega} \mu \epsilon \nu \ M \nu \dot{\alpha} \sigma \omega \nu \iota = \pi \rho \delta s \ M \nu \dot{\alpha} \sigma \omega \nu a, \ \ddot{\nu} a \ \dot{\xi} \dot{\epsilon} \nu. \ \pi a \rho' \ a \dot{\nu} \tau \hat{\omega} \ (\S 55, 8).$

3. If the noun is not attracted into the relative clause but stands in front of it, it is still occasionally assimilated to the case of the relative, a practice of which instances appear in classical authors (attractio inversa, Kühner ii.² 918, 4): ${}^{b}1$ C. 10. 16 $\tau \delta \nu$ $\alpha \rho \tau \sigma \nu$ $\delta \nu$ $\kappa \lambda \hat{\omega} \mu \epsilon \nu$, $o \hat{\nu} \chi \hat{\nu}$ $\kappa \omega \nu \omega \nu \hat{\nu} \alpha$... $\delta \sigma \tau \hat{\nu} \nu$; A. 10. 36 $\tau \delta \nu$ $\lambda \omega \nu \omega \nu \hat{\nu} \omega$... $\delta \sigma \tau \hat{\nu} \nu$

- 4. One piece of careless writing, which was specially suggested by Semitic usage (Hebr. אָשֶׁר כֹּל ; Aramaic has similar expressions with), though it is not quite unknown to the classical language², is the pleonastic use of the personal pronoun after the relative. Mc. 7. 25 γυνή, ής είχεν το θυγάτριον αὐτής (a. om. ΝD) πνεθμα ἀκάθαρτον, 1. 7 = L. 3. 16 οδ ... αὐτοῦ, Ap. 7. 2 οἶς ἐδόθη αὐτοῖς, 9, 3. 8, 13. 8, 20. 8° Clem. Cor. i. 21. 9 οδ ή πνοή αὐτοῦ (frequent in LXX., Winer, § 22, 4); with these exx. the following are quite in keeping: Ap. 12. 6, 14 ὅπου ... ἐκεῖ (ΔΨ), 17. 9 ὅπου ... ἐπ' αὐτῶν, Mc. 13. 19 οἴα οὐ γεγονεν τοιαύτη, 9. 3 οΐα ... ουτως, Αρ. 16. 18 οΐος οὐκ ἐγένετο ... τηλικοῦτος σεισμός οὖτω μέγας: in G. 3. 1 έν υμίν after οἷς is merely a v.l.; but in 2. 10 δ καὶ ἐσπούδασα αὐτὸ τοῦτο ποιῆσαι there is a reason for the expression, since αὐτὸ in this sense ('just') cannot be joined to the relative, and therefore required to be supplemented by τοῦτο.3—Another quite different negligent usage, which is also unobjectionable in the classical language, is the linking on of a further subordinate clause to a relative clause by means of $\kappa \alpha \lambda \dots$ αὐτοῦ: 1 C. 8. 6 ἐξ οδ τὰ πάντα καὶ ἡμεῖς εἰς αὐτόν (a second ex. in the same verse), Ap. 17. 2, 2 P. 2. 3 (Kühner ii.² 936).
- 5. Relatives and interrogatives become confused in Greek as in other languages. The relatives in particular, and as is only natural the indefinite δστις especially (but also őς, where it can conveniently be so used), are frequently employed in the classical language in indirect questions (beside the interrogatives), a usage which, however, is wanting in the N.T. (in A. 9. 6 the reading of *ABC ὅτι for τί must be rejected in view of the general practice elsewhere); ὁποῖος alone is employed as an indirect interrogative: 1 C. 3. 13, G. 2. 6 (ὁποῖοί ποτε), 1 Th. 1. 9, Ja. 1. 24 (elsewhere expressed by ποῖος), ^b cp. ὅπως L. 24. 20. The reverse use of the interrogative τίς instead of the relative δστις is Alexandrian (and dialectical), °as e.g. in a saying of Ptolemy Euergetes ap. Athen. x. 438 fin. τίνι ἡ τύχη δίδωσι, λαβέτω. ⁴ In the N.T. we have A. 13. 25 τίνα με ὑπονοείτε είναι, οὐκ εἰμὶ ἐγώ, ⁵ cp. Mc. 14. 36 οὐ τί ἐγὼ θέλω, ἀλλὰ τί σύ (οὐχ ὃ ἀλλ' ὁ D), L. 17. 8 ἐτοίμασον τί δειπνήσω, Ja. 3. 13 τίς σοφὸς καὶ έπιστήμων έν ὑμιν, δειξάτω (or τίς ... ὑμιν; an interrogative sentence). The employment of sorts or even of is in a direct question is quite incredible, except that ", to appears to be used as an abbreviation for τί ὅ,τι 'why': Μc. 9. 11 ἐπηρώτων αὐτὸν λέγοντες ὅ,τι λέγουσιν οἱ γραμματείς κ.τ.λ., 28 έπηρώτων αὐτόν ὅ,τι ἡμείς οὐκ ἡδυνήθημεν έκβαλείν αὐτό; (διατί ΑDΚΠ), 2. 16 (τί ὅτι AC al., διατί ΝD); cp. LXX. 1 Chron. 17. 6 ő, דו = בּקרוֹ But Jo. 8. 25 την άρχην ό,τι καὶ λαλῶ ὑμῖν; means according to classical usage (a meaning, it is true, which cannot be paralleled from the N.T.): you ask, why (so in classical Greek A says τίς ἐστιν; to which B replies ὅστις; ες. ἐρωτῶς vou ask who he is?) do I speak to you at all? $(\tau \dot{\eta} \nu \, \dot{\alpha} \rho \chi \dot{\eta} \nu = \delta \lambda \omega_s)$. The passage could also be interpreted, '(do you reproach me) that (οτι) I speak etc.? Cp. for the direct question Clem. Hom. vi. 11 τί καὶ την άρχην διαλέγομαι; xix. 6 έπεὶ τί καὶ την άρχην (ητεί; and for the preceding question of the Jews σὺ τίς εἶ R. 9. 20, Arrian Diss. Epict. ii. 1. 22 σv $\delta v \tau is \epsilon i$; i.e. how comes it that you wish to play this part? In Mt. 26. 50 έταιρε έφ' ο πάρει, έταιρε must be a corruption either of $\alpha i \rho \epsilon$ or $\epsilon \tau \alpha i \rho \epsilon$ $\alpha i \rho \epsilon$: 'take what thou art come to fetch' (D has $\epsilon \tau \alpha i \rho \epsilon$ after $\pi \alpha i \rho \epsilon \iota$); at any rate Chrys, had an imperative in his text (see the present writer's edition).2

6. It has already been remarked in § 13, 5 that the interrogative τίς (both in direct and indirect questions, supra 5) is also used for πότερος 'which of two?': Mt. 21. 31 τίς ἐκ τῶν δύο, 9. 5, I. 7. 42 etc. A stereotyped phrase is $\pi \acute{o} \tau \epsilon \rho o \nu \dots \ddot{\eta}$ atrum ... an in indirect double questions, but found only in Jo. 7. 17 (Herm. Sim. ix. 28. 4). is for the most part used substantivally; beside the adjectival τίς (τίς βασιλεύς L. 14. 31, τί σημείον Jo. 2. 18, τίς μετοχή etc. 2 C. 0. 14 ff.) ποιοs is also used with little distinction from it, as also in classical Greek—nowhere, however, in inquiries after persons, but in such phrases as έν ποία έξουσία, ποίφ ὀνόματι (Α. 4. 7), ποία ώρα, ἐκ ποίας έπαρχίας (A. 23. 34), διὰ ποίου νόμου (R. 3. 27), ποίφ σώματι (the pron. having its strict sense, how constituted) 1 C. 15. 35, cp. Ja. 4. 14 ποία γὰρ ἡ (ἡ om. B) ζωὴ ὑμῶν (how miserably constituted; on the other hand it is not elsewhere found with an article, τ is being used in that case: Mc. 6. 2 τίς ή σοφία, whence coming, A. 10. 21 τίς ή αἰτία, 17. 19 etc.); with an adj. τί is always used: τί ἀγαθόν, κακόν, περισσόν. The two words are united tautologically (for emphasis) in είς τίνα η ποιον καιρόν 1 P. 1. 11; there is a diversity of reading in Mc. 4. 30 έν τίνι (ποία AC2D al.) παραβολή; the two are used interchangeably in A. 7. 49 ποίον οίκον .. η τίς τόπος. In L. 24. 19 ποία stands by itself, referring to 18 τὰ γενόμενα. Beside ποῖος we have also the later ποταπός (old form ποδαπός, of what country by birth, like άλλοδαπός, ἡμεδαπός; for $\pi o \tau = \pi o \hat{i} o s$ Lob. Phryn. 56), the latter being used of persons as well as things: ποταπός ἐστιν οδτος, δς κ.τ.λ. Mt. 8. 27 (= τίς ἄρα Mc. 4. 41, L. 8. 25), τίς καὶ ποταπή ή γυνή L. 7. 39, 2 P. 3. 11; of things Mc. 13. 1, L. 1. 29, 1 Jo. 3. 1 (how constituted, also how great or mighty; like moîai = tives in Herm. Mand. viii. 3 ποταπαί είσιν αί πονηρίαι).

¹² v. App. p. 331.

7. The neuter τί is used as predicate to ταῦτα (as in class. Greek, Krüger Gr. § 61, 8, 2) in τί (αν) είη ταθτα L. 15. 26 (τί θέλει τοθτο είναι D), A. 17. 20 DEHL (v.l. τίνα), Herm. Vis. iv. 3. 1; it is necessary in Jo. 6. 9 άλλὰ ταῦτα τί ἀστιν (of what use are they) είς τοσούτους; further we have ανδρες, τί ταῦτα ποιείτε A. 14. 15, as in Demosth. 55. 5 Τεισία, τί ταθτα ποιείς (what are you doing there?), cp. with a singular demonstr. pron. L. 16. 2 τί τοῦτο ἀκούω $\pi \epsilon \rho i \sigma o \hat{v}$; $(\tau i \text{ predic.})^{1}$ In the passage of Acts τi might also be understood in its very common meaning of 'why?' Greek) in τίς τί ἄρη Mc. 15. 24, τίς τί διεπραγματεύσατο (what each man had etc., but BDL read τί διεπραγματεύσαντο), L. 19. 15 (Herm. Vis. iii. 8. 6, Mand. vi. 1. 1).

§ 51. INDEFINITE PRONOUNS; PRONOMINAL WORDS.

1. Tis, τi, as in classical Greek, is both substantival and adjectival; when used in the latter way, its position is unrestricted, so that it may even stand before its substantive, so long as there is another word in front of it, καί τις ἀνήρ Α. 3. 2, ἵνα τι μεταδῶ χάρισμα R. 1. 11; τινès stands at the beginning of the sentence in contrasts: τινès (μὲν) ... τ. δὲ 1 Tim. 5. 24, Ph. 1. 15 (Demosth. 9. 56), and even where there is no contrasted clause: τινès δὲ Α. 17. 18, 19. 31, Jo. 7. 44 etc. (Demosth. 18. 44).—Special usages: Ja. 1. 18 ἀπαρχήν τινα τῶν αὐτοῦ κτισμάτων, softening the metaphorical expression ('so to speak,' 'a kind of first fruits'); with numbers in classical Greek it has the effect of making them indefinite, 'about,' but in Λ . 23. 23 (cp. Herm. Vis. i. 4. 3) we have $\tau\iota\nu$ as δύο 'a certain pair' (to which corresponds είs $\tau\iota$ s L. 22. 50, Jo. 11. 49; cp. § 45, 2); with an adj. (freq. in class. Gk.) φοβερά $\tau\iota$ s ἐκδοχή H.·l0. 27, it has an intensifying force like quidam, Kühner-Gerth ii. 3663 (ὑπερηφανία πολλή $\tau\iota$ s, Herm. Mand. vi. 2.5); but in Λ . 8. 9 εἶναί $\tau\iota$ να ἑαντὸν μέγαν, μέγαν appears to be an interpolation, and $\tau\iota$ να to be used emphatically, a person of importance, cp. 5. 35, Kühner-Gerth 664 note 1; so εἶναί $\tau\iota$ 'to be something important' G. 2. 6 (δοκούντων εἶναί $\tau\iota$, = Plat. Gorg. 472 Λ , Gercke), 6. 3.—Τις is used for 'each' in Herm. Sim. viii. 2. 5 καθὸς ἄξιός ἐστί $\tau\iota$ s κατοικεῖν, cp. 4. 2 (Λ . 15. 2 according to the Syriac).—On $\tau\iota$ s to be supplied with a partitive word see § 35, 4.

- 2. 'No one,' 'nobody' is or $\mu\eta\delta\epsilon$ or $\mu\eta\delta\epsilon$ (on $-\theta\epsilon$), see § 6, 7 fin.; οὐθέτερος Clem. Hom. xix. 12); in addition to these we have the Hebraic ov $(\mu \dot{\eta}) \dots \pi \hat{a}s$, where the verb becomes closely attached to the \vec{ov} (or $\mu \hat{\eta}$): Mt. 24. 22 $\vec{ov}\kappa$ $\vec{a}v$ $\vec{\epsilon}\sigma\omega\theta\eta$ $\pi\hat{a}\sigma\alpha$ $\sigma\alpha\rho\xi$, like Hebr. 🕁 ... 🕉, R. 3. 20 (cp. Ps. 142. 2), L. 1. 37 οὐκ ἀδυνατήσει παρὰ τῷ θεῷ πῶν ρημα (= nothing), Ap. (7. 16, 9. 4) 21. 27, A. 10. 14 οὐδέποτε ἔφαγον πᾶν κοινόν (on the other hand οὖ πᾶς with no words intevening = 'not everyone,' as in class. Greek, Mt. 7. 21, 1 C. 15. 39); $\pi \hat{a}s$... ov (also Hebraic من (also Hebraic من أله has the same meaning, but is less harsh than the other, Ap. 18, 22, 22, 3, E. 4, 29, 5, 5, 2 P. 1, 20, 1 Jo. 2. 21, 3. 15; this use is excusable, where a positive clause with ἀλλά follows, containing the principal point of the sentence, Jo. 3. 16 wa πᾶς ὁ πιστεύων μὴ ἀπόληται, ἀλλὰ ἔχη κ.τ.λ., 6. 39, or where such a clause is clearly to be supplied as in 12. 46. Εἶς ... οἰ is stronger than οὐδείς, Mt. 10. 29 εν ... οὐ πεσείται, 5. 18, L. 11. 46 etc., as in Demosth. 30. 33 ή γυνή μίαν ήμέραν οὐκ ἐχήρευσεν (Krüger, § 24, 2, 2); the same is true of the divided ovor ets A. 4. 32, Mt. 27. 14, Mc. 5. 37 D, Jo. 1. 3 (D οὐδέν), 3. 27 B, R. 3. 10 O.T. (οὐ ... οὐδὲ εἶs, cp. § 75. 6; ibid. 12 O.T. οὐκ ἔστιν ἔως ἐνός, Buttm. p. 106, 1).
- 3. The generalizing relatives $\delta \sigma \tau \iota \sigma \sigma \nu \nu$, $\delta \sigma \tau \iota s$ $\delta \eta \sigma \sigma \tau \epsilon$ etc. do not appear either as relatives or (with a verb to be supplied) as indefinite pronouns ('someone or other'); $\sigma \iota \phi \delta \eta \sigma \sigma \sigma \sigma \nu \nu$ with v.l. $\delta \delta \eta \sigma \sigma \tau \epsilon$ (relat.) is found in an interpolated passage 'Jo.' 5. 4.4 In A. 19. 26 after $\Pi a \nu \lambda \sigma \nu$ D adds $\tau \iota s \tau \sigma \tau \epsilon$, which should be corrected to $\tau \iota s \sigma \tau \epsilon \epsilon = L$ at. nescio quis; so Clem. Hom. v. 27 $\tau \iota s \sigma \tau \epsilon \epsilon$ 'Iov $\delta a \iota \sigma \sigma \epsilon$ 'some Jew or other,' $\tau \iota \sigma \tau \epsilon \epsilon$ 'something' (modern Greek uses $\tau \iota \sigma \tau \epsilon \sigma \tau \epsilon$ 'something' or 'nothing') xi. 28, xvii. 8 ($\tau \iota s \sigma \tau \iota s \sigma \iota s \sigma \tau \iota s \sigma \iota s \sigma \tau \iota s$
- 4. On the derived correlatives οἷος, ὄσος, τοιοῦτος, τοσοῦτος etc. (§ 12, 4) the following points may be noticed. In exclamations (direct or indirect; originally indirect, 'see how,' 'I marvel how') the forms οἶος, ὅσος, ἡλίκος should strictly be used, as in classical Greek, because some definite thing before one is indicated (so that $\delta\pi$ o \hat{i} os etc. are excluded); but here too we sometimes have the interrogative forms as in indirect questions: Mc. 15. 4 ἴδε πόσα κ.τ.λ., Mt. 27. 13 (Β* ὅσα), A. 21. 20, 2 C. 7. 11 (direct), ἴδετε πηλίκοις $\kappa.\tau.\lambda$. G. 6. 11, H. 7. 14; but of is correctly used in 1 Th. 1. 5, 2 Tim. 3. 11 (in L. 9. 55 D is right with $\pi o i o v$), $i^a c p$. $\pi \hat{\omega} s$, § 76, 3.— In correlative clauses we have τοιούτους ... ὁποῖος A. 26. 29 (qualiscunque); τοσούτω... ὅσω H. l. 4; but as ὅσοι = π άντες οί, it has frequently to be followed by οὖτοι, as in R. 8. 14; peculiar is τὸν αὐτὸν ... οἷον Ph. 1. 30.—On ὁ τοιοῦτος see § 47, 9; it is weakened into a more indefinite term for obtos in 2 C. 12. 2, 3, 5, 1 C. 5. 5, 2 C. 2. 6 f.—R. 9. 6 οὖχ οὖον δὲ ὅτι ἐκπέπτωκεν is to be explained (according to Lob. Phryn. 372, Buttm. 319) as for οὐ δήπου ἐκπεπτ.. cp. οὐγ ὅτι, § 81.—With H. 10. 37 O.T. ἔτι μικρὸν ὅσον ὅσον (cp. LXX. Is. 26. 20) and L. 5. 3 D επαναγαγείν δσον δσον (for ολίγον of the other Mss.) i.e. a trifle, compare Aristoph. Vesp. 213.

- 5. 'Each' ἔκαστος (without the art. § 47, 9; ibid. for the distinction between it and $\pi\hat{a}_S$; for $\tau\iota_S$ 'each' supra 1) is intensified as $\epsilon\hat{\iota}_S$ ἔκαστος; it is added to a plural subject without affecting the construction (class.), Winer § 58, 4; Jo. 16. 32 etc. In addition to ἕκαστος there has been developed out of the distributive κατά (or ἀνά, § 45, 3) the peculiar and grossly incorrect καθ' (ἀνὰ) εἶs, since καθ' ἔκα ἔκαστον became stereotyped as καθένα ἔκ., and this called forth a corresponding nominative; so in modern Greek 'each' is καθένας. Still there are not many instances as yet in the N.T. of this vulgarism, and the amalgamation of the two words into one has not yet been carried out: Mc. 14. 19 εἶs κατὰ (καθ' AD al.) εἶs (C εἶs ἕκαστος), 'Jo.' 8. 9 εἶs καθ' εἶs, R. 12. 5 τὸ (v.l. ὁ) δὲ καθ' εἶs severally, with reference to each individual, Ap. 21. 21 ἀνὰ εἶs ἕκαστος. (Herm. Sim. ix. 3. 4, 6. 3 κατὰ ἕνα = ἕκαστον, forming the whole object.)
- 6. "Ετερος and άλλος. "Ετερος is beside ἀμφότεροι the single surviving dual pronominal word, § 13, 5; in modern Greek it likewise has disappeared, and even in the N.T. instances of its use cannot be quoted from all writers (never in Mc. [16. 12 is spurious], the Apocalypse, or Peter, never in John except in 19. 37, used principally by Lc. and to some extent by Mt. and Paul). Moreover, the way in which it is employed is no longer always correct: Mt. 16. 14 οἱ μὲν ... ἄλλοι δὲ ... ἔτεροι δὲ (in the last two clauses Mc. 8. 28, L. 9. 19 have ἄλλοι twice; ἔτεροι could have stood correctly in the second clause = a second section), L. 8. 6 ff. καὶ ἔτερον three times (D ἄλλο, as in Mt. 13. 5 ff., Mc. 4. 5 ff.), 9. 59, 61, 1 C. 12. 9 f. (ῷ μὲν ... ἄλλφ δὲ ... ἐτέρφ—then four times ἄλλφ δὲ ... ἐτέρον. πολλοῦς Mt. 15. 30 (cp. L. 3. 18, R. 8. 39, 13. 4, 1 Tim. 1. 10) may be paralleled from Attic writers (Dem. 18. 208, 219, 19. 297): others, different from those named (the latter being conceived of as a unit); but no Attic author ever said ταις έτέραις πόλεσιν, 'the remaining cities' L. 443, for ò etepos is restricted to a definite division into two parts; hence Mt. 10. 23 is also incorrect, έν τῆ πόλει ταύτη ... εἰς τὴν έτέραν (κB; ἄλλην CE rell., where the article is still more unusual: no doubt 'the next city' is what is meant); similarly L. 19. 20 ο ετερος i.e. the third (but A al. om. δ). Ph. 2. 4 τὰ τῶν (add. D*FG) έτέρων opposed to τὰ ἐαυτῶν is correct, cp. 1 C. 10. 24 al.—In the case of allows the most striking encroachment on the province of ετερος is that ὁ ἄλλος is written where there is only a division into two parts (isolated exx. in Att.: Eur. I. T. 962 f. θάτερον – τὸ δ' άλλο; Plat. Leg. 629 D, but probably corrupt): Mt. 5. 39 (L. 6. 29) στρέψον αὐτῷ καὶ τὴν ἄλλην (σιαγόνα), 12. 13, Jo. 18. 16, 19. 32, 20. 3 f. etc.; with αλλος ἐστὶν ὁ μαρτυρῶν Jo. 5. 32 (opposed to ἐγώ) we may compare Aesch. Suppl. 230 f. κάκει δικάζει ... Ζείνς ἄλλος, and Mt. 25. 16 etc. ἄλλα πέντε τάλαντα finds complete illustration in classical authors (Plato Leg. v. 745 A ἄλλο τοσοῦτον μέρος)."—Still more pleonastic is the use of ἔτεροι (like ἄλλοι in class. Greek, Kühner-Gerth ii. 3 275, note 1) in L. 23. 32 καὶ ἔτεροι δύο κακοῦργοι = two others besides Him, malefactors; on the other hand, αλλος is absent in many places where we insert 'other': A. 5. 29 Πέτρος καὶ οί (ες. ἄλλοι) ἀπόστολοι; cp. 2. 14 Π. σὰν τοῖς (ες. λοιποῖς) ἔνδεκα; in class. Gk. Έκτορι καὶ Τρώσσσι Hom. Il. 17. 291.— Άλλοι άλλο (τι) are united with the meaning 'one one thing—one another' (class.) in A. 19. 32. 21. 34.2

SYNTAX OF THE VERB.

§ 52. THE VOICES OF THE VERB.

The system of three voices of the verb—active (transitive), passive (intransitive), and middle (i.e. transitive with reference to the subject)—remains on the whole the same in the N.T. as in the classical language. In the former, as in the latter, it frequently happens in the case of individual verbs that by a certain arbitrariness of the language this or that voice becomes the established and recognized form for a particular meaning, to the exclusion of another voice, which might perhaps appear more appropriate to this meaning. It is therefore a difficult matter to arrive at any general conception for each of the voices, which when applied to particular cases is not bound at once to become subject to limitation or even contradiction. The active does not in all cases denote an action, but may equally well denote a state, or even being affected in some way or other—ideas which would be more appropriately expressed by the passive. $Xai\rho\omega$

means 'I rejoice,' but the opposite is λυποῦμαι; accordingly in the aorist $\dot{\epsilon}_{\chi}\dot{\alpha}\rho\eta\nu$ we actually have the passive form as in $\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\nu\pi\eta\theta\eta\nu$. θαυμάζω, 'I am astonished' (wonder), the active voice is at most only correct with the meaning 'to see with astonishment'; it has a middle future θαυμάσομαι, cp θεώμαι θεάσομαι; but the verb of similar meaning ἄγαμαι has ἡγάσθην and accordingly (as a verb expressing emotion) is passive, and the later language creates the corresponding forms θαυμάζομαι Jepon., and aor. έθαυμάσθην, § 20, 1. We may therefore assert that the active voice is quite unlimited in the meanings which may be attached to it, except where a passive (or middle) voice exists beside it, as in τύπτω - τύπτομαι. It must further be added that certain verbal forms unite an active formation with a passive (intransitive) meaning, particularly the 1st and 2nd agrists passive in $-\theta \eta \nu$, $-\eta \nu$, and frequently perfects in -a, $-\kappa a$ ($a\pi \delta \lambda \omega \lambda a$, $\epsilon \sigma \tau \eta \kappa a$). On the other hand, the middle can be only imperfectly differentiated from the passive, with which in the forms of the tenses, with the exception of agrist and future, it entirely coincides. We may adhere to the rule of giving the name of middle only to those forms which share the transitive meaning of the active, as ισταμαι ἐστησάμην beside ἴστημι ἔστησα; but if no active form exists, or if the meaning of the active form does not correspond to that of the passive or middle, then it is difficult to distinguish between the two lastmentioned voices. 'Αποκρίνομαι, 'answer,' is a deponent verb when it has this meaning; since it is transitive, in classical Greek it takes the forms ἀπεκρινάμην, ἀποκρινοῦμαι; the later language, however, regardless of the meaning which elsewhere attaches to agrists in -θην, regularly uses ἀπεκρίθην, ἀποκριθήσομαι. θανμάσομαι from θαυμάζω should be called middle, since it is transitive, and the classical language possesses the additional form θαυμασθήσομαι with a passive meaning; the same applies to τέξομαι from τίκτω and many other such futures; but ἀποθανοῦμαι from ἀποθνήσκω, θρέξομαι from τρέχω (δραμοθμαι from ἔδραμον), being intransitive, and having no additional future forms, must certainly be classed as passives in the same category with the later θαυμασθήσομαι, if the conception of the passive is extended, as it must be, so that it becomes equivalent It is, in fact, quite a rare occurrence for the to intransitive. language to draw a distinction between intransitive and passive, such as in Attic is drawn between ἔστην 'placed myself' and ἐστάθην 'was placed, or between στήσομαι 'shall place myself' and σταθήσομαι 'shall be placed.' In the language of poetry and in the later language this distinction hardly exists at all: there $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\dot{\alpha}\theta\eta\nu$ is equivalent to ἔστην and φαάνθην to ἐφάνην (while in Attic ἐφάνην means 'appeared,' ἐφάνθην 'was informed against' [juridical term]).

§ 53. ACTIVE VOICE.

1. Some active verbs, which were originally transitive, subsequently developed an additional intransitive (or reflexive) meaning.

 $^{^1}$ 'Εθαυμάσθην Ap. 13. 3, θαυμασθήσονται 17. 8 have ceased to be used transitively.

"Ayw 'lead,' besides the stereotyped phrase $d\gamma\epsilon$ (=class.), is also used intransitively in ἄγωμεν 'let us go' Mt. 26. 46 etc.; and still more frequently in composition: thus we have $\hat{v}\pi\acute{a}\gamma\omega$, a vulgar word for 'to go,' esp. common in the forms $\tilde{v}\pi\alpha\gamma\epsilon$, $-\epsilon\tau\epsilon$, but also found in other forms of the present stem, e.g. ὑπάγει Jo. 3. 8 (the word is most frequent in this writer), but never in other tenses, cp. § 24 (the word is previously used in classical Greek, $\psi\pi\dot{\alpha}\gamma\epsilon\theta'$ $\psi\mu\epsilon\hat{\iota}s$ $\tau\hat{\eta}s$ $\delta\delta\hat{\iota}s$ Aristoph. Ran. 174, ὑπάγοιμι τἆρ' ἄν Av. 1017, but with a more clearly defined meaning); παράγειν 'to pass by', Mt. 20. 30, Mc. 15. 21 etc. (cp. Polyb. v. 18, 4): met. 'to disappear' 1 C. 7. 31, for which 1 Jo. 2. 8, 17 uses παράγεται; περιάγειν Mt. 4. 23, A. 13. 11 etc. 'to go about,' with accus. of the district traversed, cp. § 34, 1 (not so in class. Greek 2). Also προάγειν besides the meaning 'to bring before' acquires that of 'to go before anyone (τινα)' (in class. Greek we have Plat. Phaed. 90 A σοῦ προάγοντος ἐγὼ ἐφεσπόμην, but this is different from the N.T. use; the common phrase is προηγείσθαί τινι. which like $\dot{\eta}\gamma\epsilon\hat{\imath}\sigma\theta\alpha\imath$ is never so used in the N.T.), Mt. 2. 9 and passim°; but $\dot{\alpha}\nu\dot{\alpha}\gamma\epsilon\sigma\theta\alpha\imath$ $\dot{\alpha}\nu\dot{\gamma}\chi\theta\eta\nu$. Báller 'to rush' A. 27. 14 (the use can hardly be paralleled, but cp. $\dot{\rho}(\pi\tau\epsilon\iota\nu)$; $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\iota\beta$. 'to rush upon' (as already in class. Greek) Mc. 4. 37; ibid. 14. 72 the phrase ἐπιβαλων ἔκλαιεν is obscure (it is explained by ἀρξάμενος; I) has ηρέατο κλαίειν; cp. A. 11. 4 ἀρξάμενος εξετίθετο).—Βρέχειν trans. means 'to water'; intrans. and impers. (§ 30, 4) it stands for class. υειν (which nowhere appears) as in modern Greek; we also have $\xi \beta \rho \epsilon \xi \epsilon \pi \hat{v} \rho \kappa \alpha \hat{v} \theta \epsilon \hat{v} \nu L.$ 17. 29, after Gen. 19. 24, where κύριος is inserted as the subject. "Exer 'to be in such and such circumstances' as in class. Greek; similarly $i\pi\epsilon\rho\epsilon\chi\epsilon\nu\nu$ 'to excel' (also trans. 'to surpass' Ph. 4. 7); ἀπέχειν 'to be distant' (with accus. of the distance); ἐνέχειν τινί 'to have designs upon someone,' 'to hate,' 'persecute,' Mc. 6. 19, L. 11. 53, ε ἐπέχειν 'to observe anything' L. 14. 7 etc. (class.), also 'to stay,' 'tarry' A. 19. 22 (ditto); προσέχειν 'to take heed,' 'to listen to anyone' (never with the original supplement τον νοῦν, which is often inserted in Attic): also with and without έαυτῷ = cavere (Mt. 6. 1, L. 17. 2 etc.).3—'Ανακάμπτειν 'to turn round,' 'come back' as in Attic.—Khivery' to decline' of the day L. 9. 12, 24. 29 (similarly in Polyb.); ἐκκλίνειν 'to turn aside' R. 16. 17 etc. (class.).— Ρίπτειν: ἀπορίψαντας is intrans. in A. 27. 43 (so ρίπτ. in poetry and late writers). - Στρέφων: the simple verb is intrans. in A. 7. 42? as is often the case with its compounds with $\epsilon \pi \iota$, $\alpha \pi \iota$, άνα-, ὑπο-, A. 3. 19 etc., not without classical precedent; ὑποστρέ- $\phi \epsilon \sigma \theta a \iota$ is never found (in class. Greek it is used as well as $-\epsilon \iota \iota \nu$);

² Demosth. 42. 5 περιαγαγών (to lead about) τὴν ἐσχατιάν; also in Cebes Tab. 6 περιάγονται is the reading now adopted.

¹The explanation that it means discedere arises from Mt. 9. 27 παράγοντι ζκεῖθεν, where however ἐκ. should be removed according to the Lewis Syriac, as it should be also in 9. 9 with N*L Chrys.

ἐπιστρέφειν 'to turn round,' 'be converted' (for which we have -εστράφητε in 1 P. 2. 25, but C reads -έψατε), so esp. frequent in this sense in Polybius: pass. 'to turn oneself round,' look round' (Att.); ἀναστρ. 'to turn round,' often used transitively as well (it appears intransitively in Attic as a military expression): pass. 'to live,' 'sojourn' (Att.); ἀποστρ. is intr. in A. 3. 26 (for which Att. generally has the pass.), more often trans.; pass. with $\tau\iota\nu$ ά 'to turn away from,' 'avoid' (Att.).—Cp. ἐγείρειν, καθίζειν in § 24; and further, technical expressions like αἴρειν (sc. τὴν ναῦν ἀπὸ τῆς γῆς) 'to set sail' A. 27. 13.

- 2. The intransitive employment of δύειν and φύειν is based upon an old variation in the usage of these words, see § 24; that of αθξάνειν upon the usage of the Hellenistic language, ibid., as also that of καταπαύειν H. 4. 10 (see LXX. Ex. 31. 18 etc.; cp. an unknown comedian in Diod. Sic. 12. 14 εὐημερῶν κατάπαυσον). Beside the deponent εὐαγγελίζεσθαι (Att.) there is also found the form - ζειν in Ap. 10. 7, 14. 6 (elsewhere the Ap. also uses - $(\epsilon\sigma\theta\alpha\iota)$, as occasionally in the LXX., 1 Sam. 31. 9 (Dio Cass. 61. 13). The new words θριαμβεύειν and μαθητεύειν in other writers are intrans. (to celebrate a triumph, to be a disciple—corresponding to the ordinary meaning of the termination $-\epsilon \hat{v} \epsilon i \nu$), in the N.T. they are in (nearly) all cases transitive, to lead in triumph, to make disciples, see § 34, 1.— 'Αναφάναντες την Κύπρον Α. 21. 3 (there is a wrong reading -έντες) means 'made it visible to ourselves,' viz. by approaching it; it must have been a nautical expression, as ἀποκρύπτειν (Lat. abscondere) is used to express the opposite meaning.a
- 3. Active for middle.—If emphasis is laid on the reference to the subject, then the middle is never employed, but the active with a reflexive pronoun takes its place: ἀπέκτεινεν ἐαυτόν (on the other hand $\partial \pi \eta \gamma \xi \alpha \tau \sigma$ is used, because $\partial \pi \alpha \gamma \chi \epsilon \iota \nu \tau \iota \nu \alpha$, i.e. someone else, is unusual, the reflexive action being in this instance far the commoner of the two). So we say 'he killed himself' [tödtete sich selbst]. Elsewhere the reflexive reference which is suggested by the context remains unexpressed, as in the case of (κατα-)δουλοῦν (which Attic also uses beside -οῦσθαι): 2 C. 11. 20 εἴ τις ὑμᾶς καταδουλοί, cp. G. 2. 4 (so too ἀναφάναντες, supra 2). Inversely, the reflexive may be expressed twice over, by the middle and by a pronoun; διεμερίσαντο ξαυτοῖς Jo. 19. 24 O.T., cp. A. 7. 21 (as in Attic). With the following verbs the use of the active instead of the middle is contrary to Attic usage: (πειράζειν for πειρασθαι, see § 24); εύρίσκειν 'to obtain' the usual form, except in H. 9, 12 (Attic uses the middle, poets have the act. as well); καθηψεν της χειρός αὐτοῦ Α. 28. 3 instead of καθήψατο which C reads (but τόξου καθάψαι is also cited by Pollux i. 164); λύσον τὸ ὑπόδημα τῶν ποδῶν σου Α. 7. 33 Ο.Τ. (LXX. λῦσαι). For παρέχειν see § 55, 1. Ποιείν is used (with μονην Jo. 14. 23 only in AEGH al.) (with ὁδόν Mc. 2. 23, BGH have όδοποιείν), with την έκδίκησιν L. 18. 7 f., τὸ ἔλεος μετ' αὐτοῦ a Hebraic phrase (Gen. 24. 12) L. 10. 37, 1. 72, with ἐνέδραν Α. 25. 3 ε κοπετόν 8. 2 (-σαντο ΕΗΡ), κρίσιν Jo. 5. 27, Jude 15, πόλεμον Αp. 11. 7 etc., συμβούλιον Mc. 3. 6 (BL εδίδουν), 15. 1 (v.l. ετοιμάσαντες), (with συνωμοσίαν A. 23. 13 only in HP), with συστροφήν ibid. 12; in all a v. App. p. 318.

which cases the active is incorrect because the ποιοῦντες are at the same time the very persons who carry out the action which is expressed by the verbal substantive. We also have elsewhere in the N.T. ποιεῦσθαι λόγον, ἀναβολήν, πορείαν, σπουδήν etc. Σπάσασθαι τὴν μάχαιραν is correctly written in Mc. 14. 447, A. 16. 27, but in Mt. 26. 51 we have ἀπέσπασεν τ. μ. αὐτοῦ, in which case Attic Greek must certainly have omitted the αὐτοῦ and expressed the reflexive force by means of the middle; similarly in 26. 65 διέρρηξεν τὰ ἱμάτια αὐτοῦ, but in this case the use of the active is also classical (Aesch. Pers. 199 πέπλους ῥήγνυσιν, cp. 1030).

§ 54. PASSIVE VOICE.

3. As in Attic, a passive verb may have a person for its subject even in a case where in the active this person is expressed by the genitive or dative; the accusative of the thing remains the same with the passive as with the active verb. The N.T. instances cannot indeed be directly illustrated from the classical language, but they are perfectly analogous to the classical instances. They are διακονήθηναι Mc. 10. 45 (διακονεῖν τινι); ἐγκαλεῖσθαι to be accused (ἐγκαλεῖν τινι) A. 19. 40 etc.; εὐαρεστεῖσθαι (act. with τινί) H. 13. 16 (Diod. Sic.); κατεγνωσμένος G. 2. 11 (act. τινός), so Diod. Sic.; κατηγορεῖσθαι (act. τινός) with acc. of the thing Mt. 27. 12, A. 22. 30, 25. 16; μαρτυρεῖσθαι (act. τινί) to have a (good) testimonial (late writers) A. 6. 3 etc., 1 Tim. 5. 10, H. 7. 8 etc. (but in 3 Jo. 12 Δημητρίφ μεμαρτύρηται);

πιστεύεσθαί τι 'to have something entrusted to one' (πιστεύειν τινί τι) R. 3. 2 etc. (Polyb.): also (without an object) 'to find credit,' 1 Tim. 3. 16 ἐπιστεύθη (Χριστὸς) ἐν κόσμφ (act. τινί οτ εἴς τινα), cp. 2 Th. 1. 10 (so previously in Attic); χρηματίζεσθαι 'to receive instructions' (from GoΦ; act. τινί) Mt. 2. 12 etc.: only in L. 2. 26 do we have ἢν αὐτῷ κεχρηματισμένον (D κεχρηματισμένον ἢν).—Quite distinct from this is the use of the passive with a thing for its subject: 2 C. 1. 11 ἴνα τὸ χάρισμα εὐχαριστηθŷ (εὐχαριστεῦν τι Herm. Sim. vii. 5; in the N.T. the act. takes ἐπί, περί etc.), and its use where an infinitive or a ὅτι clause may be regarded as the subject, ἐπιτρέπεταί σοι ... λέγειν Α. 26. 1, 1 C. 14. 34, as also the impersonal passive, § 30, 4.

- 4. The passives of ὁρᾶν, γιγνώσκειν, εὐρίσκειν have a certain independent position as compared with their actives, since they assume a purely intransitive meaning, and are followed by the dative of the person concerned, instead of making use of ὑπό, see § 37, 4. A frequent instance is ὀφθῆναί τινι (an old use), apparere, supervenire, with the new present ἀπτάνομαι A. 1. 3 (§ 24). Γνωσθῆναι 'to become known' A. 9. 24 etc., cp. γιγνώσκεσθαί τινι 'to be known,' in Eur. Cycl. 567, Xenoph. Cyr. vii. 1. 44; but 'to be recognized' is expressed by the pass. with ὑπό in 1 C. 8. 3. Εὐρεθῆναι in R. 10. 20 O.T. (v.l. with ἐν) is used along with ἐμφανῆ γενέσθαι (on 2 P. 3. 14, see § 37, 5). Θεαθῆναι is used like ὀφθ. in Mt. 6. 1, 23. 5; φαίνεσθαί τινι dates from the earliest stage of the language.
- 5. The passive must occasionally be rendered by 'to let oneself' be etc. 'Aδικεῖσθε 1 C. 6, 7 'let yourselves be wronged' (in the sense of allowing it to take place), so in the same verse ἀποστερεῖσθε. Βαπτίζεσθαι 'to let oneself be baptized' (aor. ἐβαπτίσθην, but see § 55, 2). Cp. ἀγνίζεσθαι A. 21. 24, 26, ἀπογράφεσθαι L. 2. 1, γαμίζεσθαι (§ 24), δογματίζεσθαι 'to let precepts be made for one' Col. 2. 20, περιτέμνεσθαι passim. On the other hand, 'to let' in the sense of occasioning some result is expressed by the middle voice, § 55, 2.

§ 55. MIDDLE VOICE.

1. As the active is used in place of the middle, so the middle often stands for the active which would naturally be expected. 'Αμύνεσθαι 'to assist' the Attic ἀμύνειν in A. 7. 24 (the word occurs here only). For ἀπειλεῖσθαι see § 24. 'Απεκδυσάμενος τὰς ἀρχάς is found in Col. 2. 15, whereas in Attic ἀποδύσασθαι is 'to undress oneself.' Ἡρμοσάμην ὑμᾶς ἀνδρί 2 C. 11. 2 'betrothed' is for ἤρμοσα (the word here only). ('Ἐνεργεῖσθαι is wrongly quoted in this connection: in the following passages R. 7. 5, 2 C. 1. 6, 4. 12, G. 5. 6, E. 3. 20, Col. 1. 29, 1 Th. 2. 13, 2 Th. 2. 7, Ja. 5. 16 it is everywhere intransitive, and never applied to God, of whom the active is used; the fact that the active appears in Mt. 14. 2, Mc. 6. 14 with δυνάμεις as subject, causes ἐνεργεῖν to appear equivalent to ἐνεργεῖνθαι)." (The middle ἐκλέγεσθαι is always found, meaning 'to choose out for oneself,' and it is only in A. 6. 5, 15. 22, 25 that it is not a v. App. p. 318.

absolutely necessary mentally to supply 'for oneself'). ('E $\pi\iota$ - $\delta\epsilon$ iknu $\sigma\theta$ ai A. 9. 39 [elsewhere N.T. has the act.] may mean 'to display on their own persons.') Καταλαμβάνεσθαι 'to perceive' A. 4. 13 etc. (Att. -ειν, but Dionys. Hal. also has the middle)." Παρατηρείσθαι L. 14. 1 al. (used as well as -τηρείν; the simple verb only takes the active form). Πληροῦσθαι Ε. 1. 23 'to fill' is equivalent to the act. in 4. 10. Προβλέπεσθαι Η. 11. 40 is modelled on προοράσθαι (βλέπειν for ὁρᾶν § 24); περιβλέπεσθαι is the invariable form of the verb (Polyb.; Attic uses the act.). Τίθεσθαι (ἐν φυλακŷ and similar phrases, 'to put in prison' A. 4. 3 etc. are in accordance with classical usage, καταθησόμενος είς τὸ οἴκημα Demosth. 56, 4); but the middle is also used with the meaning 'to appoint as' or 'to,' άποστόλοις 1 C. 12. 28, εἰς ὀργήν 1 Th. δ. 9 = Att. ποιῆσαι, καταστήσαι, Ionic θείναι (Η. 1. 2 ον έθηκεν κληρονόμον).—Συγκαλείν and $-\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$ ('to call to oneself') are everywhere correctly distinguished, if συγκαλείται is read instead of συγκαλεί with DF in L. 15. 6 and with ADEG al. in verse 9.—Between αἰτεῖν and αἰτεῖσθαι old grammarians draw the distinction, that a man who asks for something to be given him, intending to give it back again, αἰτεῖται; but aiτεισθαι is applied generally to requests in business transactions, and this is its regular use in the N.T. Mt. 27. 20, 58, Mc. 15 (6), 8, 43, L. 23. 23, 25, 52, A. 3. 14, 9. 2, 12. 20, 13. 28, 25. 3, 15; the active is the usual form for requests from God, but the middle is used in A. 7. 46,2 and there is an arbitrary interchange of mid. and act. in Ja. 4. 2 f., 1 Jo. 5. 14 f. etc.; the request of a beggar, a son etc. is naturally αἰτεῖν, A. 3. 2, Mt. 7. 9 f. (cp. A. 16. 29, 1 C. 1. 22). 'Απαιτείν, παραιτείσθαι are the Attic forms; έξητήσατο L. 22. 31 (Attic uses both -είν and -είσθαι).—Παρεχόμενος σεαυτόν τύπον Tit. 2. 7 is contrary to classical usage (παρέχων), but Col. 4. 1 την ἰσότητα τοῖς δούλοις παρέχεσθε is not (C reads -ετε), nor is παρέξη L. 7. 4, but the active is certainly unclassical in παρείχον φιλανθρωπίαν A. 28. 2, έργασίαν 16. 16 (-έτο C; in 19. 24 A*DE read -χε, -χετο is the usual reading: the passage appears to be corrupt), although Homer uses φιλότητα παρασχείν.—On the whole the conclusion arrived at must be that the New Testament writers were perfectly capable of preserving the distinction between the active and middle.

2. The middle must occasionally be rendered by 'to let oneself,' cp. § 54, 5 for the pass., in the sense of occasioning some result, not of allowing something to take place. Κείρασθαι, ξύρασθαι 1 C. 11. 6; ὅφελον καὶ ἀποκόψονται G. 5. 12 'have themselves castrated,' as in Deut. 23. 1, whereas περιτέμνεσθαι is treated as a passive (let in the sense of allow). 'Εβαπτισάμην in Α. 22. 16 βάπτισαι καὶ ἀπόλουσαι (1 C. 6. 11 ἀπελούσασθε) may be explained in the sense of 'occa-

In Mc. 6. 22 althorou (N - σai), 23 althors, 24 althorouga, 25 hthroato (D $\epsilon l\pi \epsilon \dot{\nu}$), there is a nice distinction, since the daughter of Herodias, after the king's declaration, stands in a kind of business relation towards him. Cp. Mt. 20. 20, 22, Mc. 10. 35, 38.

² A. 13. 21 ἢτήσαντο βασιλέα, καl ἔδωκεν αὐτοῖς ὁ θεὸς κ.τ.λ. probably does not come under this head. Cp. 1 Sam. 8. 5. a b c v. App. p. 319.

sioning'; but in 1 C. 10. 2 - $i\sigma a\nu \tau o$ of BKLP appears to be wrong and $-i\sigma\theta\eta\sigma a\nu$ to be the only right reading, whereas in L. 11. 38 $\hat{\epsilon}\beta a\pi\tau i\sigma\theta\eta$ in the quite different sense of 'washed his hands' is wrong (min. 700 correctly $\hat{\epsilon}\beta a\pi\tau i\sigma a\tau o$).

§ 56. THE TENSES. PRESENT TENSE.

- 1. It was shown in a previous discussion in § 14, 1 that every tense has generally speaking a double function to perform, at least in the indicative: it expresses at once an action (continuance, completion, continuance in completion), and a time-relation (present, past, future), and the latter absolutely, i.e. with reference to the stand-point of the speaker or narrator, not relatively, i.e. with reference to something else which occurs in the speech or narrative. In the case of the future, however, the function of defining action has disappeared from the Greek of the N.T., and the moods of this tense (including the infinitive and participle) were originally formed to denote a relative time-relation (with reference to the principal action of the sentence), and only in so far as they were necessary for this purpose: hence it happens that a future conjunctive 1 and The moods, with the exception just imperative never existed. mentioned, are not used to express the time-relation but only the character of the action.
- 2. The present denotes therefore an action (1) as viewed in its duration (its progress), (2) as taking place in present time. In the latter case the present may be regarded as a point of time, with the addition of the time immediately preceding and succeeding it, as in γράφω 'I am writing (now),' or again the time included on either side of the present moment may be extended more and more, until it finally embraces all time, as in δ $\theta \epsilon \delta s$ $\epsilon \sigma \tau \iota \nu$. Again, the idea of repetition may be added to, or substituted for, that of duration, so that what in itself is not continuous, is yet in virtue of its repetition viewed as in a certain measure continuous: this is more clearly seen in the case of past time: ἔβαλεν 'he struck,' ἔβαλλεν 'he struck repeatedly or continuously.' A distinction between the present strictly so called, denoting something which really takes place at the present moment, and the wider use, can only be made by means of a periphrasis, τυγχάνω ων (this however is not found in the N.T., § 73, 4).
- 3. Since the opposite to duration is completion (expressed by the aorist), the present may be used with sufficient clearness to denote, as such, an action which has not yet reached completion, where we have recourse to the auxiliary verb 'will.' Jo. 10. 32 διὰ ποῖον αὐτῶν ἔργον ἐμὲ λιθάζετε ('will ye stone me?'): G. 5. 4 οἴτινες ἐν νόμω δικαιοῦσθε 'would be justified': Jo. 13. 6 νίπτεις. The imperfect more often has this (conative) meaning.

¹ It is true that instances of it are found in the MSS. of the N.T., e.g. 1 C. 13. 3 καυθήσωμαι CK.

- 4. Since in the case of actions viewed as completed, there exists for obvious reasons no form to express present time (as it were a present of the acrist), the present tense must also in certain cases take over this function as well (acristic present, Burton, N.T. Moods and Tenses p. 9). If Peter in A. 9. 34 says to Aeneas $i\hat{\alpha}\tau\alpha i$ $\sigma\epsilon$ 'I $\eta\sigma\sigma\hat{\omega}$'s $X\rho\iota\sigma\tau\hat{\omega}$ s, the meaning is not, 'He is engaged in healing thee,' but 'He completes the cure at this moment, as I herewith announce to thee': under the same category comes $\pi\alpha\rho\alpha\gamma\gamma\hat{\epsilon}\lambda\lambda\omega$ $\sigma\omega$ $\epsilon.\tau.\lambda$. in A. 16. 18 (the expulsion of a demon), where in a similar way an action is denoted from the stand-point of the actor and speaker as being completed in the present, which the narrator from his own point of view would have expressed by the acrist as completed in the past, $\pi\alpha\rho\hat{\eta}\gamma\gamma\epsilon\iota\lambda\epsilon\nu$. With this belongs $d\sigma\pi\hat{d}\xi\epsilon\tau\alpha\iota$ 'sends greeting': to which the corresponding term is always $d\sigma\pi\hat{d}\sigma\alpha\sigma\theta\epsilon$ 'greet.'
- 5. The present also habitually takes an aoristic meaning, where an interchange of times takes place, and it is used in lively, realistic narrative as the historic present. This usage is frequent, as it is in classical authors, in the New Testament writers of narrative, except in Luke's writings, where we seldom meet with it. Jo. 1. 29 τη ἐπαύριον βλέπει ... καὶ λέγει ...; 35 τῆ ἐπαύριον πάλιν εἰστήκει (pluperf. = impf. is retained) ... 36 καὶ ... λέγει ...; 43 τῆ ἐπαύριον $\mathring{\eta}\theta$ έλησεν έξελ θ εῖν (according to Chrys. έξ $\mathring{\eta}\lambda\theta$ εν) ... καὶ εξρίσκει; thus the tendency appears to be for the circumstances or what may generally be described as incidentals to be denoted by past tenses, and the principal actions (which take place under the circumstances described2) by the present, while the final results are again expressed by the aorist, because there realistic narrative would be unnatural: 39 ηλθαι οὖν καὶ εἶδαν ... καὶ ... ἔμειναν. Even apart from narrative the present is used in a similar way: ibid. 15 Ίωάνης μαρτυρεί περὶ αὐτοῦ καὶ κέκραγεν (Attic = κράζει).a

6. "Ηκω, as is well known, has a perfect meaning (L. 15. 27 etc.); (πάρεισιν 'are come hither' A. 17. 6 is a present used for the perfect of another verb [Burton, p. 10], as ἀπέχω is used for ἀπείληφα in Mt. 6. 2). Further ἀκούω is 'I hear' in the sense of 'I have heard' (L. 9. 9, 1 C. 11. 18, 2 Th. 3. 11, as in classical Greek; an equivalent for it would be λέγεται, where the use of the present is no more remarkable than in ἀκούεται 1 C. 5. 1). 'Αδικῶ in A. 25. 11 beside ἄξιον θανάτου πέπραχά τι (and following οὐδὲν ἠδίκηκα in verse 10)' means 'I am guilty,' 'am a criminal' as in Attic (this use occurs here only; in Mt. 20. 13 the word has the ordinary meaning of the

¹ Burton quotes in this connection (besides A. 26. I ἐπιτρέπεται etc.) ἀφίενται σου αί ἁμαρτίαι Mc. 2. 5, Mt. 9. 2 etc., and rightly, at least if this reading is to be trusted (cp. § 23, 7).

³ Thus it appears that the perfect remains where there is a reference to particular trespasses; the present is only used of the general result.

^a v. App. p. 319.

- pres.); also $\delta \nu \iota \kappa \hat{\omega} \nu$ in Ap. 2. 7 etc. may remind one of the Attic use of $\nu \iota \kappa \hat{\omega}$ for 'I am a conqueror,' while $\pi \rho \acute{a} \sigma \sigma \epsilon \iota$ in A. 26. 31 refers to Paul's whole manner of life and his Christianity in particular. Throughout these remarks we are concerned only with the special usage of individual• verbs, and not with the general syntactical employment of the present.
- 7. Presents such as those in L. 15. 29 τοσαῦτα ἔτη δουλεύω σοι (cp. 13. 7 ἰδοὺ τρία ἔτη ἀφ' οδ ἔρχομαι, Jo. 8. 58 εἰμί, 15. 27 ἐστέ, and many others) are by no means used for perfects: on the contrary, no other form was possible, because the continuance or the recurrence of the action in the present had to be included in the expression.
- 8. Present for future.—The classical language is also acquainted with a (lively and imaginative) present for future in the case of prophecies (e.g. in an oracle in Herodot. vii. 140 f.), and this present -a sort of counterpart to the historic present-is very frequent in the predictions of the N.T. It is not attached to any definite verbs, and it is purely by accident that ἔρχομαι appears with special frequency in this sense: Jo. 14. 3 έαν ετοιμάσω τόπον υμίν, πάλιν έρχομαι καὶ παραλήμψομαι ὑμᾶς; aso esp. ὁ ἐρχόμενος 'He who is to come' (the Messiah) Mt. 11. 3, cp. 11. 14 'Ηλίας ὁ μέλλων ἔρχεσθαι, 17. 11 'Ηλ. έρχεται. But we find equally well: Mc. 9. 31 ὁ νίδς τοῦ ἀνθρώπον παραδίδοται (= μέλλει παραδίδοσθαι Mt. 17. 22)..., καὶ ἀποκτενοῦσιναὐτόν, Mt. 27. 63 μετὰ τρεῖς ἡμέρας ἐγείρομαι: Herm. Vis. ii. 2. 4 The present is also used without any idea of prophecy, if the matter is mentioned as something that is certain to take place, so that $\mu \in \lambda \lambda \in (\tilde{\epsilon} \rho \chi \in \sigma \theta a)$ could have been used: e.g. in Jo. 4. 35 έτι τετράμηνός έστι καὶ ὁ θερισμὸς έρχεται, Mt. 24. 43 ποία φυλακή ὁ κλέπτης ἔρχεται, and repeatedly in έως ἔρχομαι (-εται), see § 65, 10; in other cases ελεύσομαι is necessary, Mt. 24. 5, Mc. 12. 9, 13. 6 etc. But verbs of going and coming when used in the present also have the meaning of being in course of going (or coming), in which case the arrival at the goal still lies in the future: Jo. 3. 8 πόθεν ερχεται η ποῦ ὑπάγει, almost = is about to go, 8. 14 πόθεν ηλθον καὶ ποῦ ὑπάγω ... πόθεν ἔρχομαι ἢ ποῦ ὑπ.; so ποῦ ὑπάγω -ειs in Jo. 14. 4 f., πορεύομαι ibid. 2, 12, A. 20. 22: ἀναβαίνομεν Mt. 20. 18, Jo. 20. 17 (but in Jo. 7. 8 οὐκ ἀναβαίνω εἰς τὴν ἐορτὴν ταύτην the present is used for future).
- 9. Present used to express relative time (cp. 1).—It is a well-known fact that when the speech of another person is directly repeated the tenses refer to the points of time of the speech itself, and that in the classical language the form of oratio obliqua is frequently assimilated in this respect to that of direct speech. In the N.T. the use of oratio obliqua is certainly not favoured, and that of oratio recta predominates; but it is noteworthy that subordinate sentences after verbs of perception and belief are assimilated to oratio recta, and the tenses therefore have a relative meaning. Thus Mt. 2. 22 ἀκούσας ὅτι ᾿Αρχέλαος βασιλεύει: Jo. 6. 24 είδεν ὁ ὅχλος ὅτι Ἰησοῦς οὐκ ἔστιν ἐκεῖ. This practice also appears in the classical language, but not as a general rule, whereas in the N.T. the rule is so far established that the imperfect in such sentences must in most cases be rendered by the pluperfect, since it refers to an earlier time than that spoken of, § 57, 6. Still we have Jo. 16. 19 έγνω ὅτι ἤθελον (v.l. ἤμελλον) αὐτὸν ἐρωτᾶν, with which cp. the instances of pluperf. for the usual perf. in § 59, 6; 18. 32 ἤμελλεν after σημαίνων, cp. § 61, 2 (A. 22. 2 ἀκούσαντες ὅτι προσεφώνει, but the better reading is προσφωνεῖ DEH). The aorist however may be used: Mc. 12. 12 ἔγνωσαν ὅτι εἶπεν (Mt. 21. 45 has ὅτι λέγει = ἔλεγε). See also the Future, § 61, 2.

§ 57. IMPERFECT AND AORIST INDICATIVE.

- 1. The distinction between continuous and completed action is most sharply marked in the case of the imperfect and acrist indicative, and moreover this distinction is observed with the same accuracy in the N.T. as in classical Greek.
- 2. Repetition, as such, is regarded as continuous action, and expressed by the imperfect (cp. § 56, 2), as also is action left uncompleted (Imperf. de conatu, cp. § 56, 3). Exx.: (a) A. 2. 45 τὰ κτήματα ἐπίπρασκον καὶ διεμέριζον αὐτὰ πᾶσιν; this frequently happened, although it is not stated that it took place or was carried into effect in every case (aorist), cp. 4. 34, 18. 8, Mc. 12. 41; (b) A. 7. 26 συνήλλασσεν αὐτοὺς εἰς εἰρήνην, 'sought to reconcile,' 26. 11 ἢνάγκαζον βλατφημεῖν, where however the imperf. also expresses repetition (like ἐδίωκον ibid.), L. 1. 59 ἐκάλουν αὐτὸ Ζαχαρίαν 'wished to call him Z.,' Mt 3. 14 διεκώλυεν 'wished or tried to prevent Him' (A. 27. 41 ἐλύετο 'began to be broken up').
- 3. The action is further regarded as continuous if the manner of it is vividly portrayed. Η. ΊΙ. 17 πίστει προσενήνοχεν 'Αβραὰμ τὸν Ίσαάκ ..., καὶ τὸν μονογενη προσέ ρερεν κ.τ.λ., a supplementary characterization of the peculiar feature of this instance. A. 5. 26 Tyev αὐτοὺς οὐ μετὰ βίας, cp. 27 ἀγαγόντες δὲ (conclusion of the act) αὐτοὺς έστησαν; 41 έπορεύοντο χαίροντες από προσώπου τοῦ συνεδρίου (it was here unnecessary to denote the conclusion of the act); 15. 3 διήρχοντο ... ἐκδιηγούμενοι τὴν ἐπιστροφὴν τῶν ἐθνῶν, καὶ ἐποίουν (everywhere) χαρὰν μεγάλην ... (conclusion given in 4 παραγενόμενοι δέ); 15. 41 is similar; on the other hand, we have in 16. 6 $\delta i \hat{\eta} \lambda \theta o \nu \delta \hat{\epsilon} \tau \hat{\eta} \nu \Phi \rho \nu \gamma i \alpha \nu$ (where there is no description). See also 21. 3 ἐπλέομεν είς Συρίαν, καὶ κατήλθομεν είς Τύρον, where (as in 18. 22, 21. 15) the description consists in the statement of the direction (είς ...); cp. 21. 30 είλκον έξω του ίερου, και εὐθέως ἐκλείσθησαν αι θύραι (i.e. after the first action had been completed, so that there is an indirect indication of its completion), whereas in 14. 19 the reading ἔσυραν (instead of ἔσυρον) έξω της πόλεως is preferable, as otherwise the completion of the act, which certainly was carried out, would be in no way indicated. Occasionally, however, we do find an imperfect contrasted with a subsequent verb denoting completion, where the descriptive clause has not previously been expressed: 21. 20 ἐδόξαζον τον θεόν, εἶπόν τε ('they glorified God for a long time and in various ways, till finally ^a v. App. p. 319.

4. There are certain verbs in Attic, which in virtue of their special meaning to some extent prefer the form of incompleted action: that is to say, the action in question finds its true end and aim in the act of another person, without which it remains incomplete and without result, and the imperfect is used according as this fact requires to be noticed. To this category belong κελεύειν, άξιοῦν, παρακελεύεσθαι, έρωταν, πέμπειν, ἀποστέλλειν and many others. the N.T. κελεύειν like προστάττειν and παραγγέλλειν always denotes an authoritative command, the accomplishment of which is understood as a matter of course: hence we have ἐκέλευσεν (as in Attic in this instance) like $\pi\rho\sigma\sigma\epsilon\tau\alpha\xi\epsilon\nu$, $\pi\alpha\rho\eta\gamma\gamma\epsilon\iota\lambda\epsilon\nu$; likewise always $\epsilon\pi\epsilon\mu\psi\epsilon\nu$, $\vec{a}\pi\epsilon\sigma\tau\epsilon\iota\lambda\epsilon\nu$; on the other hand, $\eta\rho\omega\tau\alpha$ ($\epsilon\pi\eta\rho$.), with the meanings 'questioned' and 'besought,' is found as well as $\eta \rho \omega \tau \eta \sigma \epsilon \nu$ ($\epsilon \pi \eta \rho$.), and παρεκάλει (for Att. παρεκελεύετο, which does not appear) as well as παρεκάλεσεν (παρήνει A. 27. 9, literary language, ηξίου 15. 38, ditto), but used in such a way that the choice of the one tense or the other on each occasion can generally be satisfactorily accounted for. Thus in A. 10. 48 ἠρώτησαν is necessary, because the fulfilment of the request which did take place is only indicated by means of this aorist, 23. 18 is similar, whereas ήρώτα 'besought' in 3. 3 is used quite in the manner above indicated; 'asking a question' is generally expressed by ηρώτησεν (as it is in Attic or by ήρετο), but in Mc. 8. 5 by ηρώτα, 23 ἐπηρώτα, 29 ditto (which might also be employed in other places where the aorist is found, e.g. 9. 16); παρεκάλεσαν Mt. 8. 34 of the Gergesenes who besought Jesus to depart (L. 8. 37 has ηρώτησαν and Mc. 5. 17 ηρξαντο παρακαλείν, but D παρεκάλουν), where the fulfilment of the request necessarily followed; Mt. 18. 32 ἀφηκά σοι, ἐπειδη παρεκάλεσάς με (the mere request was sufficient), 26. 53 παρακαλέσαι τον πατέρα (ditto), A. 8. 31 παρεκάλεσεν ἀναβάντα καθίσαι (the fulfilment is not mentioned as self-evident); on the other hand παρεκάλει appears in A. 27. 33, L. 8. 41 etc.² In Jo. 4. 52 ἐπύθετο is incorrectly used, and the correct form ἐπυνθάνετο has weak attestation (in 13. 24 πυθέσθαι [which should strictly be $\pi \nu \nu \theta \acute{a} \nu \epsilon \sigma \theta a \iota$] is only read by AD al., while other MSS. have a quite different reading). On the other hand $\hat{\epsilon}\pi\nu\nu\theta\acute{a}\nu\epsilon$ is found correctly in Mt. 2. 4, L. 15. 26, 18. 36, A. 4. 7, 10. 18 (BC $\hat{\epsilon}\pi\acute{\nu}\thetao\nu\tau$ o), 21. 33, 23. 19 f.—(Another instance of the aorist in John's Gospel, $\hat{a}\pi\mathring{\eta}\lambda\theta\epsilon\nu$ $\hat{\epsilon}is$ $\hat{\tau}\mathring{\eta}\nu$ $\hat{\Gamma}^a\lambda\iota\lambda\acute{a}i\alpha\nu$ 4. 3, is at least remarkable, since the aorist denotes the journey as completed, whereas in verses 4 ff. we have an account of what happened on the way, and the arrival in Galilee is not reached till verse 45. With this may be compared A. 28. 14 $\mathring{\eta}\lambda\theta a\mu\epsilon\nu$, cp. 15, 16.)—With verbs of requesting is associated $\pi\rho\sigma\sigma\kappa\nu\nu\epsilon\dot{\nu}\nu$, which when it has this meaning is used as regularly in the imperfect (Mt. 8. 2, 9. 18, 15. 25 N*BDM), as it is in the aorist with the meaning of 'to do homage' (Mt. 2. 11, 14. 33 etc.).

- 5. For the interchange of $\tilde{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\gamma\epsilon\nu$ (- $o\nu$) and $\tilde{\epsilon}\iota\pi\epsilon\nu$ (- $a\nu$, - $o\nu$) the following rules may be laid down. The individual utterance of an individual person is principally denoted by the agrist; on the other hand, the utterances of an indefinite number of persons are regularly expressed by the imperfect, which may also be thought to look forward to the conclusion given by the speech of the leading person, which is subsequently appended: A. 2. 13 with which cp. 14.1 "Ελεγεν is sometimes used before speeches of greater length, as in L. 6. 20 before the Sermon on the Mount, after a series of descriptive clauses in the imperf. in verses 18 and 19 (Mt. 5, 2 introduces this Sermon with the words εδίδασκεν λέγων); again there is a tendency to link on additional remarks to the preceding narrative by means of καὶ ἔλεγεν or ἔλ. δέ, Mc. 4. 21, 24, 26, 30, 7. 9, 20, L. 5. 36, 6. 5, 9. 23 and passim, while in other passages $\epsilon i \pi \epsilon \nu$ is used, L. 6. 39, 15. 11 etc. The words introduced by this verb may always be looked at in two ways: they may be viewed as a sentence which has been delivered or a speech that is being delivered, and so Thucydides introduces his speeches sometimes with ἔλεγεν, sometimes with $\tilde{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\tilde{\xi}\epsilon$. Cp. also the use of $\lambda\epsilon\gamma\omega\nu$ (not $\epsilon i\pi\omega\nu$), so frequently added to another verbum dicendi.
- 6. The imperfect in statements after verbs of perception (and believing) is generally relative in so far as it refers to a time previous to the time of perception, and must consequently be rendered by the pluperfect; synchronism (of the thing perceived and the perception of it) is similarly expressed by the present, § 56, 9. It is evident that the imperfect here still preserves its sense of continuous action. Mc. 11. 32 εἶχον τὸν Ἰωάνην ὅτι προφήτης ἦν, had been; A. 3. 10 ἐπεγίνωσκον ὅτι ἦν ὁ καθήμενος; 15. 3 ἢδεσαν τὸν πατέρα αὐτοῦ (who was dead) ὅτι Ἕλλην ὑπῆρχεν; Jo. 5. 13 οὐκ ἢδει τίς ἦν (D for ἐστιν), had been; 6. 22 ἰδὼν (v.l. εἶδον, better εἰδὼs with e) ὅτι οὐκ ἦν. In 9. 8 οἱ θεωροῦντες αὐτὸν τὸ πρότερον (τὸ πρότ. is wanting in 1 Syr. Lewis. Chrys.) ὅτι προσαίτης ἦν, the word θεωρεῖν itself refers back to the same previous time to which the dependent clause refers; as this time remains unexpressed in the participle, it had to be expressed in the dependent clause by the imperfect.—For exceptions, see § 56, 9.ª

 $^{^{1}}$ Jo. 11. 37 τινès δὲ έξ αὐτῶν εἶπον (after ἐλεγον οἱ Ἰονδαῖοι 36 ; AKII also have ἐλεγον in 37). a v. App. p. 319.

- 7. The aorist, which denotes completion, may also express the entering upon a state or condition, when it is known as the 'ingressive aorist'; strictly speaking, verbs of this class contain in themselves an inchoative meaning besides that denoting the state: the former meaning becomes prominent in the aorist, and the latter mainly in the present (the former meaning also, though rarely, appears in the present, as in $\gamma\eta\rho\acute{a}\sigma\kappa\omega$ 'become old' beside $\gamma\eta\rho\acute{a}\omega$ 'be old': in Latin these inceptive presents are wide-spread). Thus $\acute{e}\sigma\acute{i}\gamma\eta\sigma\epsilon\nu$ A. 15. 12 'became silent,' $\acute{e}\pi\tau\acute{\omega}\chi\epsilon\nu\sigma\epsilon\nu$ 2 C. 8. 9 'became poor,' R. 14. 9 (Ap. 13. 14, 20. 4) $\acute{e}\acute{c}\eta\sigma\epsilon\nu$ 'became alive.'
- 8. An action which the use of the agrist shows to have been completed (to have taken place), need not by any means have been a momentary action, but may have actually extended, and even be expressly stated to have extended, over any length of time, provided that it is only the completion and the conclusion of it which is emphasized, this being just the force of the agrist. $E\beta i\omega \pi \sigma \lambda \lambda \dot{\alpha} \ddot{\epsilon} \tau \eta$, but then he died. "E $\tau\eta$ δύο $\tilde{\eta}\rho\xi\epsilon$, but then he was deposed. It is different with κακῶς ἔζη (where the manner of life is emphasized: the conclusion is left out of consideration); and $\delta \iota \kappa a i \omega_s \tilde{\eta} \rho \chi \epsilon$ ($\delta \iota \kappa$. $\hat{\eta} \rho \xi \epsilon$ would be in most cases ingressive, 'he came by his office honestly'). The same explanation applies to A. 28. 30 ἔμεινεν διετίαν όλην έν ιδίω μισθώματι (but then this condition of things came to an end), 14. 3 ίκανὸν χρόνον διέτριψαν (until the end of their stay, narrated in verses 5 and 6, the length of which is summarily indicated in verse 3), 18. 11 ἐκάθισεν (Paul 'sat' i.e. stayed in Corinth) ένιαυτὸν καὶ μῆνας ἔξ (until his departure). In all these cases the only reason for the agrist is to be found in the added note of the length of the stay, which necessarily suggests the end of the particular state of things; Luke even says (A. 11. 26) ἐγένετο αὐτοὺς ένιαυτον όλον συναχθηναι έν τη έκκλησία, although συνάγεσθαι ('to assemble themselves') is certainly no continuous action, but only something repeated at regular intervals. But repeated actions, if summed up and limited to a certain number of times, may also be expressed by an agrist, as in τρὶς ἐραβδίσθην 2 C. 11. 25, and this tense may likewise be used where the separate actions of different persons are comprehended in a single word, πάντες γὰρ ἐκ τοῦ περισσεύοντος αὐτοῖς ἔβαλον Mc. 12. 44, since in a comprehensive statement of this kind the idea of the individual actions which succeed each other becomes lost (previously in 41 we have πολλοί πλούσιοι ἔβαλλον $\pi o \lambda \lambda \alpha \dot{\alpha}$. If the agrist of a verb like $\mu \dot{\epsilon} \nu \epsilon \iota \nu$ is used without any statement of the duration of time, then it denotes merely the fact that the stay took place, as opposed to departure: Jo. 7. 9 $\tilde{\epsilon}\mu\epsilon\iota\nu\epsilon\nu$ $\hat{\epsilon}\nu$ $\tau\hat{\eta}$ Γαλιλαία = οὐκ ἀνέβη εἰς Ἱεροσόλυμα, $\bar{1}$ 0. 40 ἔμεινεν ἐκεῖ 'He settled down there,' without (for the present) returning to Judaea (Β ἔμενεν).
- 9. The meaning of past time, which generally attaches itself to the acrist, is lost in the case of the so-called gnomic acrist, which case is expressed by the present, if no definite aim or end for the action is in prospect, or if the manner or character of the action is taken into account, or again if the thing demanded (in the case of a prohibition, the thing forbidden) is already in existence. (a) Mt. 26. 38 = Mc. 14. 34 $\mu\epsilon$ iva $\tau\epsilon$ $\delta\delta\epsilon^a$ καὶ γρηγυρε $\hat{\tau}$ ϵ $\mu\epsilon\tau'$ $\hat{\epsilon}\mu$ ο $\hat{\nu}$, L. 22. 40, 46 προσεύχεσθε μη είσελθείν είς πειρασμόν. Frequently we have $\sqrt[n]{\pi} \alpha \gamma \epsilon$, or $\pi \circ \rho \epsilon \psi \circ v$, which indeed are often found even where the aim or end is stated: A. 22. 10 αναστάς πορεύου ('go forth') είς Δαμασκόν ('as far as D.'), κάκει κ.τ.λ, cp. 8. 26, 10. 20; Mt. 25. 9 πορεύεσθε πρὸς τοὺς πωλοῦντας (in this and that direction, where you may find a seller) καὶ ἀγοράσατε (aim) ξαυταῖς, cp. 25. 41 (where one should place a comma after κατηραμένοι); L. 5. 24 πορεύου είς τὸν οἶκόν σου (expressing rather direction than aim; whether he reaches his house or not, is beside the question), Jo. 20. 17. On the other hand, we have $\pi o \rho \epsilon \psi \theta \eta \tau \iota$ in Mt. 8. $q = \hat{L}$. 7. 8 ($\pi o \rho \epsilon \psi o \nu$ in LDX; a general's command to his soldiers; the goal or end is omitted through abbreviation), 1 A. 9. 11, 28. 26 O.T. (b) 1 P. 4. 15 μή τις ψμών πασχέτω ώς φονεύς κ.τ.λ.; 1 C. 7. 36 εἰ δέ τις ἀσχημονεῖν ... νομίζει ..., δ θέλει ποιείτω· οὐχ ἀμαρτάνει· γαμείτωσαν, cp. in the contrasted case in 37 τηρείν, and 38 ο γαμίζων ... καλώς ποιεί και ο μη γαμίζων κρείσσον ποιήσει. In this passage the quality of the proceedings is in question: unseemly or seemly—sinful or not sinful—good, better. (c) L. 8. 52 έκλαιον ... ὁ δὲ εἶπεν· μη κλαίετε, Jo. 20. 17 μή μου ἄπτου (a thing which has therefore already taken place or been attempted). Frequently $\mu \hat{\eta}$ $\phi \circ \beta \circ \hat{v}$, $\phi \circ \beta \in \hat{v} = \theta \in A$. 5. 10, 8. 50, Mc. 5. 36, 6. 50 etc. (Mt. 1. 20 $\mu \eta$ $\phi o \beta \eta \theta \hat{\eta} \hat{s} \pi \alpha \rho \alpha \lambda \alpha \beta \hat{\epsilon \nu}$ is different, 'do not abstain from fear'); Ja. 1. 7 μη οἰέσθω (cp. Jo. 5. 45 μη δοκείτε; but in 2 C. 11. 16 we have $\mu\eta'$ τ' is $\mu\epsilon$ $\delta\delta\xi\eta$, where the opinion certainly cannot yet have been entertained; cp. Mt. 3. 9, 5. 17, 10. 34 'do not let the thought arise').2—' $A\sigma\pi\acute{a}\sigma\alpha\sigma\theta\epsilon$ is the form always used in greetings (even in 3 Jo. 15 according to x)d; the agrist is found in all the petitions of the Lord's Prayer, partly to express the desire for complete fulfilment, partly with reference to the particular occasion of the petition and the requirement for the time being; only in L. 11. 3 do we have τον ἄρτον ... δίδου (*D wrongly read δδs as in Mt.) ήμεν τὸ καθ' ἡμέραν (D σήμερον as in Mt.).

3. Present and agrist infinitive.—In the infinitive the distinction between the two forms is on the whole easy to comprehend. Θέλειν is generally followed by the agrist infinitive, as is the corresponding

^{1*} v. App. p. 332.

² A special instance is $\phi\ell\rho\epsilon$, $\phi\ell\rho\epsilon\tau\epsilon$ 'bring' (the pres. imperat. is always found with the simple verb, except in Jo. 21. 10 $\epsilon\nu\epsilon'\gamma\kappa\alpha\tau\epsilon$), which as in classical Greek is used for the acrist as well, there being no acrist derived from this stem. But in the compound verb a distinction was made: Mt. 8. 4 προσένεγκε τὸ δῶρον (injunction as to what ought to be done), 5. 24 διαλλάγηθι... καὶ τότε πρόσφερε τὸ δῶρον σου (injunction as to the manner and circumstances in which it may be done; 'then mayest thou bring').

Attic word $\beta_0 \psi \lambda \epsilon \sigma \theta a \iota$, and naturally so, as the wish usually looks on to the fulfilment; exceptions such as θέλω είναι, τί θέλετε πάλιν ακούειν (D -οῦσαι) Jo. 9. 27 ('to hear the same thing perpetually'), are easily explained. In the same way the agrist inf. is the predominant form after δίνασθαι, δυνατός, κελεύειν etc. (ἐκελευον βαβδίζειν A. 16. 22 expresses duration, cp. § 57, 4, note 1). Medlew, on the other hand, in the N.T. as in classical Greek only rarely takes the aorist inf.: (A. 12. 6 AB), R. 8. 16 and G. 3. 23 μέλλουσαν ἀποκαλυφθήναι (but ἀποκαλύπτεσθαι 1 P. 5. 1), Ap. 3. 2, 16, 12. 4, where the agrist is obviously correctly employed, while the present if used in this connection goes beyond the proper sphere of that tense. In classical Greek the most frequent construction of μέλλειν is that with the future inf., which in the active and middle voices usually has a neutral meaning so far as the kind of action is concerned; but since the vulgar language abandoned this form of expression ($\mu \hat{\epsilon} \lambda \lambda \epsilon \iota \nu$ with a fut, inf. occurs only in the Acts, see § 61, 3), it allowed the present inf. to be used with the same range as the fut. inf. had previously possessed: μέλλει παραδίδισθαι Mt. 17. 22, for which we have also merely παραδίδοται, see § 56, 8. — Έλπίζειν in the N.T. takes the agrist inf. (instead of the fut.), correctly so far as the action is concerned; cp. § 61, 3. Elsewhere too the infinitives keep their proper force: R. 14. 21 καλον το μη φαγείν κρέα μηδε πιείν οίνον μηδε έν δ δ άδελφός σου προσκόπτει means, 'it is a good thing at times not to eat meat, if offence is given thereby,' and the passage is not to be understood of continual abstinence.

4. Present and agrist participle.—A participle used in connection with a finite verb generally at first sight appears to denote relative time, namely, the agrist participle to denote a past event, and the present participle a simultaneous event, especially as the future participle (like the fut. infin. and optat.) does really express something relatively future. Actually, however, the agrist participle contains no more than the idea of completion; if therefore the participle is followed by a finite verb, the sequence of events usually is, that the first-mentioned action was accomplished when the latter took place, just as the same sequence of events is expressed, if instead of a participle and a finite verb two finite verbs connected by καί are employed. This temporal relation, however, is not necessarily implied in either case: the phrase προσευξάμενοι είπαν Α. 1. $24 = \pi \rho o \sigma \epsilon v \xi a \nu \tau \sigma$ καὶ $\epsilon i \pi a \nu = \pi \rho \sigma \sigma \epsilon v \xi a \nu \tau \sigma$ $\epsilon i \pi \sigma \nu \tau \epsilon s$ (cp. Mc. 14. 39) denotes not merely simultaneous, but identical actions. If the participle stands in the second place, as in Mt. 27. 4 ημαρτον παραδούς αξμα άθωον, or Mc. 1. 31 ήγειρεν αὐτὴν κρατήσας τῆς χειρός, it may happen, as in the second of these instances, that the true sequence of time is not expressed, though in reality it is self-evident. spite of this the reading of the majority of the MSS. in Acts 25. 13 is not Greek, 'Αγρίππας καὶ Βερνίκη κατηλθον είς Καισάρειαν ἀσπασάμενοι τον Φήστον (since the participle always, as such, expresses an accompanying circumstance, which in this passage, where the arrival is being narrated, cannot yet be regarded as concluded): the other reading ἀσπασόμενοι is the correct one. On the other hand, the present participle is occasionally used after the main verb, since the future participle is so rarely found (see § 61, 4), to denote an action which at least in its complete fulfilment is subsequent to the action of the main verb: A. 18. 23 έξηλθεν (from Antioch) διερχόμενος την Γαλατικήν χώραν (i.e. καὶ διήρχετο), 14. 21 f. ὑπέστρεψαν εἰς τήν Λύστραν ... ἐπιστηρίζοντες τὰς ψυχὰς τῶν μαθητῶν: 21. 2 εῦρόντες πλοιον διαπερῶν εἰς Φοινίκην, 3 ἐκείσε τὸ πλοιον ην ἀποφορτιζόμενον τὸν γόμον. In these last two passages the pres. part. clearly takes the place of $\mu \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \lambda \omega \nu$ with the inf., e.g. $\ddot{\epsilon} \mu \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \lambda \dot{\epsilon} \nu$ $\dot{a} \pi o \phi o \rho \tau i \dot{\xi} \dot{\epsilon} \sigma \theta a \iota$, so that they are to be compared with $\delta \epsilon \rho \chi \delta \mu \epsilon vos = \delta \mu \epsilon \lambda \lambda \omega \nu \epsilon \rho \chi \epsilon \sigma \theta \alpha \iota$ and $\pi \alpha \rho \alpha$ δίδοται = μ έλλει παραδίδοσθαι § 56, 8; in the first two passages the participle is tacked on as it were to a finite verb instead of a second finite verb, to denote a subsequent action which in view of the actors' designs and preparations is regarded as already beginning to take place. In the following passages the fut. part. could have been used: A. 15. 27 ἀπεστάλκαμεν ἀπαγγέλλοντας (but cp. Thucyd. vii. 26. 9 ἔπεμψαν ἀγγέλλοντας Kühner ii. 121 f.), 21. 16 συνηλθον ... άγοντες.—The present participle when it stands before the main verb may denote something that is already past: Ε. 4. 28 ὁ κλέπτων (he who stole hitherto) μηκέτι κλεπτέτω, Ap. 20. 10 ὁ πλανῶν = ὃς ἐπλάνα; also Mt. 27. 40 δ καταλύων ... καὶ οἰκοδομῶν = ος κατέλυες κ.τ.λ. ('wouldest destroy'), since it is obvious that the pres. part. like the pres. indic. may have a conative force (Mt. 23. 13 τους εἶσερχομένους).

§ 59. THE PERFECT.

- 1. The perfect (as also the pluperfect) unites in itself as it were present and agrist, since it expresses the continuance of completed action: before the form καθέστακα for 'I have placed' arose, this meaning was expressed by ἔχω (pres.) καταστήσας (aor.),2 and a perfect like πεπληρώκατε in Acts 5. 28 may be resolved into έπληρώσατε καὶ νῦν πλήρης ἐστί. In the N.T. this form of the verb is still constantly employed, and in a manner corresponding almost entirely to its classical uses: although at a subsequent period the popular language abandoned the old perfect, and let these forms, while they still continued in existence, do duty for the agrist.
- 2. The present meaning so entirely preponderates with certain verbs (as in classical Greek), that the aoristic meaning disappears altogether: e.g. in κέκραγεν Jo. 1. 15 a word borrowed from the literary language in place of the Hellenistic κράζει, cp. § 56, 5; ἔστηκα (cp. 3), πέποιθα, μέμνημαι (μιμνήσκομαι is almost unrepresented, only in H. 2. 6, 13. 3)¹; also τέθνηκα 'I am dead,' ἤλπικα εἴς τινα Jo. 5. 45 etc. 'I have set my hope upon,'=I hope, but a stronger form than ἐλπίζω, because the continuance of the hope which has been formed is expressed by the perfect; similarly πέπεισμαι 'I am convinced' R. 8. 38 etc.; ἥγημαι 'I believe' or 'reckon' (class.) A. 26. 2 in Paul's speech before Agrippa (but in Ph. 3. 7 with its ordinary meaning 'I have reckoned').

¹ The use of the aor. in John 11. 2 is noteworthy, ην δε Μαριὰμ ἡ ἀλείψασα τὸν κύριον μύρφ, which is explained 'who as is well known (cp. Mt. 26. 13) did (or, has done) this, although this story belongs to a later time and is told at a later point in the narrative, 12. I ff.; but the verse is certainly an interpolation. Mt. 10. 4 Ἰούδας ὁ καὶ παραδούς αὐτόν is different, = ὅς καὶ παρέδωκεν αὐτόν Mc. 3. 19.

3. Inversely, the aoristic meaning of the perfect may be brought into prominence and the other be made subordinate, without affecting the correctness of the employment of this tense. This happens in 2 Tim. 4. 7 τον καλον άγωνα ήγωνισμαι, τον δρόμον τετέλεκα, την πίστιν τετήρηκα, viz. up till now, and the existing result inferred from this is stated in verse 8: λοιπὸν ἀπόκειταί μοι ὁ τῆς δικαιοσύνης στέφανος. In the well-known phrase ἃ γέγραφα γέγραφα the first perfect has more of an aoristic, the second more of a present meaning. In the following passages the agrist and perfect are clearly distinguished: "A. 21. 28 Ελληνας είσηγαγεν είς το ίερον και κεκοίνωκεν τὸν ἄγιον τόπον, the introduction of these persons that took place has produced a lasting effect of pollution; 1 C. 15. 3 f. ὅτι Χριστὸς $\overset{1}{a}$ πέθανεν ... καὶ ὅτι ἐτάφη καὶ ὅτι ἐγήγερται τ $\hat{\eta}$ ἡμέρα τ $\hat{\eta}$ τρίτ η ; A. 22. 15 έση μάρτυς ... δν εώρακας καὶ ήκουσας, the fact that Paul has seen the Lord is that which permanently gives him his consecration as an Apostle (hence Paul himself says in 1 C. 9. 1 οὐκ ϵἰμὶ $d\pi \dot{o}\sigma \tau o \lambda o s$; $o \dot{v} \chi i \dot{l} \gamma \sigma o \hat{v} \nu \dots \dot{s} \dot{\omega} \rho \alpha \kappa \alpha$;), whereas the hearing (verses 7 ff.) is far less essential.2 Only it must be borne in mind that the perfect is not used in all cases where it might have been used, i.e. where there is an actually existing result at the present time: the agrist has extended its province at the expense of the perfect, and here there is certainly a distinction between the language of the New Testament and the classical language. Thus Mt. 23. 2 ἐπὶ τῆς Μωϋσέως καθέδρας ἐκάθισαν οἱ γραμματεῖς, though they still sit thereon: cp. H. 1. 3, 8. 1, 10. 12 for ἐκάθισεν: κεκάθικεν only appears in 12. 2³; Mc. 3. 21 ἔλεγον ὅτι ἐξέστη (he is beside himself), where D* has έξέσταται; 2 C. 5. 13 έξέστημεν opposed to σωφρονοῦμεν; έστηκα had acquired too much of a present sense to be able to lend itself still to a true perfect meaning, and it is for this reason that 'He is risen' is never expressed by $d\nu \epsilon \sigma \tau \eta \kappa \epsilon \nu$ (but by $\eta \gamma \epsilon \rho \theta \eta$, which is another instance of aorist for perfect, and ἐγήγερται Mc. 6. 14, Paul in 1 C. 15. passim, 2 Tim. 2. 8). Cp. § 57, 9 (even classical Greek has some similar instances of the agrist for perfect, as α v. App. p. 320.

in the saying of Euripides: τίς οδδεν εἰ τὸ ξῆν μέν ἐστι κατθανεῖν [=τεθνάναι], τὸ κατθανεῖν δὲ ξῆν κάτω νομίζεται ;).

- 4. The use of the perfect instead of the agrist, in consequence of the popular intermixture of the two tenses (1 ide supra 1), appears undoubtedly in the Apocalypse: 5. 7 ηλθε καὶ εἴληφε, cp. 8. 5, 7. 14 εὔρηκα (Β εἶπον), cp. 19. 3: in forms, therefore, in which the reduplication is not clearly marked. The following perfects have an equally certain agristic sense: Herm. Vis. i. 1. ι πέπρακεν, iii. 1. 2 $\delta \pi \tau \alpha \iota$ κ (as $\mathring{\omega} \phi \theta \eta$), Clem. Hom. ii. 53 ἐγήγερται, Gospel of Peter 23 δεδώκασιν, cp. 31. Instances in the Pauline Epistles: 2 C. 2. 13 ἔσχηκα in historical narrative, whereas 7. 5 ἔσχηκεν (B al. ἔσχεν) and l. 9 ἐσχήκαμεν may be explained as true perfects; άπέσταλκα in 12. 17 does not seem right, coming as it does in the middle of nothing but agrists (ἔπεμψα is read by DE, ἀπέστειλα by some cursives): the same perfect appears in A. 7. 35 τοῦτον (Moses) ὁ θεὸς ἄρχοντα ἀπέσταλκε, most probably a wrong reading for ἀπέστειλεν of CHP al. Also in 2 C. 11. 25 νυχθήμερον έν τῷ βυθῷ $\pi \epsilon \pi o i \eta \kappa a$ stands in connection with a rists only and without an adequate reason for the perfect. But H. 11. 28 πίστει πεποίηκεν τὸ πάσχα is explained by the abiding institution, cp. verse 3 (ἐγκεκαίνισται 9. 18), while 17 προσενήνοχεν 'Αβραὰμ τὸν 'Ισαάκ can indeed only be understood as referring to the abiding example offered to us. Lastly, γέγονεν is used for έγένετο in Mt. (and Apoc. Pet. 11; Burton, p. 43) in (17. 2 according to Chrys. and) 25. 6 (B has έγένετο). (In 1. 22=21. 4 the perfect could be accounted for, although John uses έγένετο in an analogous passage, 19. 36: cp Lightfoot, A fresh revision of the N.T., p. 100 f.; there is still greater reason for γέγονεν in Mt. 26. 56.)
- 5. In general statements or imaginary examples the perfect is only rarely used, as also in Attic it is rare in these cases. In Mt. 13. 46 πέπρακεν (ἐπώλησεν D) πάντα καὶ ἢγόρασεν αὐτόν the suspicion of an incorrect confusion with the aorist is obvious (no aorist from πιπράσκω existed), cp. Herm. Vis. i. 1. 1, supra 4; the same applies to Ja. 1. 24 κατενόησεν καὶ ἀπελήλυθεν καὶ εἰθέως ἐπελάθετο. But passages like 1 Jo. 2. 5 δs ἀν τηρŷ ... τετελείωται, Ja. 2. 10 ιστις τηρήση ... γέγονεν (cp. 11), R. 14. 23 etc. are perfectly correct and in accordance with classical usage (Aristoph. Lys. 545 ὁ μὲν ἣκων γάρ, κᾶν ἢ πολιός, ταχὺ ... γεγάμηκεν).
- 6. The perfect is used relatively, instead of the pluperfect, in the same way as the present is used for the imperfect after verbs of perception (cp. § 56, 9): Mc. 5. 33 εἰδυῖα ὁ γέγονεν αὐτῆ, Lc. 20. 19 D ἔγνωσαν ὅτι εἴρηκεν (al. εἶπεν = Mc. 12. 12); similarly after a verb expressing emotion in A. 10. 45 ἐξέστησαν ὅτι ἐκκέχυται. So also in L. 9. 36 we have οὐδενὶ ἀπήγγειλαν οὐδεν ῶν ἑωράκασιν (D ἐθεάσαντο), on the analogy of the equivalent phrase οὐδενὶ ἀπήγγ. ὅτι ταῦτα ἐωράκασιν. Still we have Mc. 15. 10 ἐγίνωσκεν ὅτι παραδεδώκεισαν (but DHS read παρέδωκαν as in Mt. 27. 18, AE al. παρεδώκεισαν), A. 19. 32 οὖκ ἤδεισαν τίνος ἔνεκεν συνεληλύθεισαν.
- On the moods of the perfect it may be noticed that the imperative, apart from ἔρρωσο ἔρρωσο ἔ (formulas in A. 15. 29, 23. 30, but not in all the MSS.) and the periphrasis with $\epsilon i\mu$ (§ 62, 1), only appears in the vigorous prohibition $\pi \epsilon \phi i\mu \omega \sigma \sigma$ Mc. 4. 39 (cp. $\tau \epsilon \theta \nu \alpha \theta \iota$ in Homer).

§ 60. PLUPERFECT.

- 2. The usages of the pluperfect, which vary with the particular verb and the context, correspond to those of the perfect; the aoristic meaning preponderates, e.g. in A. 4. 22 δ $\tilde{a}\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\sigma_{S}$ $\hat{\epsilon}\phi'$ $\delta\nu$ $\gamma\epsilon\gamma\delta\nu\epsilon\iota$ $\tau\delta$ $\sigma\eta\mu\epsilon\hat{\epsilon}o\nu$, although the other meaning is present as well, and generally speaking an encroachment of the pluperfect into the province of the aorist can by no means take place.—A. 9. 21 $\delta\delta\epsilon$ $\epsilon\dot{\epsilon}s$ $\tau\sigma\hat{\nu}\tau\sigma$ $\epsilon\lambda\eta\lambda\dot{\nu}\theta\epsilon\iota$ (i.e. Paul to Damascus, the words are spoken by the Jews) is explained by the fact that this intention of the Apostle had now come to an end, and therefore the perfect was no longer admissible.

§ 61. FUTURE.

- 1. The future, as was remarked above (§ 56, 1), is the one tense which does not express action but simply a time-relation, so that completed and continuous action are not differentiated. The synthetic future has become extinct in modern Greek; in the N.T. it is still largely used in the indicative, and is not limited to any considerable extent either by periphrasis (§ 62, 1, 2, 4) or by the use of the present (§ 56, 8). On the modal functions of the future indicative see §§ 64, 65; it is occasionally used in a gnomic sense (as in classical Greek), to express what may be expected to take place under certain circumstances, as in R. 5. 7 $\mu \delta \lambda \iota s i \pi \epsilon \rho \delta \iota \kappa a \iota o \nu \tau \iota s i \sigma \delta a \nu \epsilon i \tau a$, cp. 7. 3 $\chi \rho \eta \mu a \tau i \sigma \epsilon \iota \epsilon a \nu \gamma \epsilon \nu \eta \tau a \iota$: so the first of these passages is an abbreviated form of $\epsilon a \nu \delta \iota \kappa a \iota o s \gamma \delta \iota \kappa a \iota o s$.

- possible, and the only difference in the classical language is that classical Greek uses the future infinitive, which regularly has a relative meaning, after νομίζειν, instead of ὅτι with the indicative.

 —In Jo. 21. 19 σημαίνων ποίφ θανάτφ δοξάσει τὸν θεόν = ημελλεν δοξάζειν, see 18. 32; class. Greek would have the same (or δοξάσοι).
- 3. The future infinitive, which like the participle and the optative of the future, expresses the time-notion relatively with reference to the principal action, has disappeared from the popular language, and is found only in the Acts and the Epistle to the Hebrews: lafter μέλλειν in A. 11. 28, 23. 30, 24. 15, 27. 10, after ἐλπίζειν 26. 7 B (the other MSS. have the aorist), after ὀμνύναι H. 3. 18. After μέλλειν the place of the fut. inf. is taken by the pres. inf., cp. § 58, 3, rarely by the aor. inf.; after ἐλπίζειν², προκαταγγέλλειν (A. 3. 18), ὀμνύναι (2. 30), προσδοκᾶν (3. 3), ὁμολογεῖν 'to promise' (Mt. 14. 7), the aorist infinitive is used, which preserves the nature of the action correctly, but surrenders the expression of the time-relation.
- 4. The future participle, used as the complement of the principal verb (to express the aim or object) is likewise rare and almost limited to the Acts: 8. 27 ἐληλύθει προσκυνήσων, 22. 5, 24. 17, H. 13. 17 ἀγρυπνοῦσιν ὡς λόγον ἀποδώσοντες; Mt. 27. 49 ἔρχεται σώσων, but  has σῶσαι, D καὶ σώσει. Its place is frequently taken by the pres. part., cp. § 58, 4; elsewhere by the infinitive (1 C. 16. 3), a relative sentence (ibid. 4. 17) or some other phrase (Viteau § 288). Scarcely more widely extended is the use of the fut. part. in a more independent position (cp. § 62, 4): 1 C. 15. 37 τὸ σῶμα τὸ γενησόμενον (also probably R. 8. 34 ὁ κατακρινῶν), A. 20. 22 τὰ συναντήσοντα, 2 P. 2. 13 κομιούμενοι μισθὸν ἀδικίας (almost certainly corrupt; BP read ἀδικούμενοι), τίς ὁ κακώσων ὑμᾶς (= ὑς κακώσει) 1 P. 3. 13, τὸ ἐσόμενον L. 22. 49, ὁ παραδώσων Jo. 6. 64, but there D reads παραδιδούς, * μέλλων παραδιδόναι, as in 12. 4, while Nonnus omits the whole clause καὶ τίς κ.τ.λ., H. 3. 5 τῶν λαληθησομένων (a unique instance of the fut. part. pass.).

§ 62. PERIPHRASTIC CONJUGATION.

1. The classical language had already made use of εἰμί with the perfect participle as a periphrasis for the perfect, pluperfect, and future perfect, active and passive, which under certain circumstances was necessary, but the usage was extended far beyond the cases where that necessity existed. In the N.T. the cases where periphrasis is necessary include the future perfect and the perfect conjunctive (or optative), excluding of course οἶδα εἶδῶ; in other cases it is practically indifferent, whether one writes ἐπεγέγραπτο (A. 17. 23) or ἦν γεγραμμένον (Jo. 19. 19 f.), γέγραπται (very frequent) or γεγραμμένον ἐστί (Jo. 6. 31, 20. 30; in the next verse 31 we have ταῦτα δὲ γέγραπται); cp. Herm. Sim. ix. 4. 1 ὑποδεδύκεισαν - ὑποδεδυκυίαι ήσαν. (Periphrasis in the active is less common, as in A. 21. 29 ήσαν προεωρακότες.) Even where the agristic meaning of the perfect (§ 59, 3) predominates, periphrasis may be introduced: ov γάρ ἐστιν ἐν γωνία πεπραγμένον τοῦτο (A. 26. 26). It occasionally serves to produce a more forcible and rhetorical expression: A. 25. 10 (κ*Β) έστως ἐπὶ τοῦ βήματος Καίσαρός εἰμι, which is better than ἔστηκα $\epsilon \pi i \dots$ or $\epsilon \pi i \tau o \hat{v} \dots \epsilon \sigma \tau \eta \kappa a$. An example of the pluperfect is L. 2. 26 ην αὐτῷ κεχρηματισμένον; fut. perf. L. 12. 52 ἔσονται διαμεμερισμένοι, H. 2. 12 έσομαι πεποιθώς Ο.Τ.; conjunct. Jo. 16. 24 η πεπληρωμένη; imperat. L. 12. 35 ἔστωσαν περιεζωσμέναι; even the participle itself is written periphrastically in E. 4. 18. Col. 1. 21 οντες (-as) απηλλοτριωμένοι (-ovs), here clearly to express still more forcibly the idea of persistence in the new condition of things (in the passage of Colossians καὶ έχθρούς is appended; cp. Aristoph. Ran. 721 οδσιν οὐ κεκιβδηλευμένοις, ἀλλὰ καλλίστοις κ.τ.λ.). A cognate instance is $\tilde{\eta}\nu$ κείμενος L. 23. 53, = $\tau \epsilon \theta \epsilon \iota \mu \dot{\epsilon} v \sigma s$ (§ 23, 6).

2. $E i \mu i^{-1}$ is further used to a large extent in the N.T. in connection with the present participle to form a periphrasis for the imperfect $(\tilde{\eta}\nu)$, the future $(\tilde{\epsilon}\sigma\circ\mu\alpha\iota)$, rarely the present indic. $(\epsilon i\mu i)$, and occasion. ally the present infinitive and imperative ($\epsilon l \nu a \iota$, $l \sigma \theta \iota$); this use is indeed especially frequent in the narrative style of Mark and Luke, in whose writings the periphrasis mentioned in the previous paragraph (1) also finds the greatest number of instances (Buttmann p. 268). Many examples of this periphrasis may be quoted as parallels from the class. language (Kühner-Gerth ii. 3 38 ff., note 3,) and it may be argued that this method of expression is analogous to that mentioned in 1, and that at least in the case of the future it offered the advantage of distinguishing continuous from momentary action; still, in view of the absence of an analogous development in the Hellenistic language, one cannot fail to recognize, especially in the case of the imperfect, the influence of Aramaic (W. Schmid Atticismus iii. 113 f.), since that language made an extensive use of periphrases of this kind.2 One cannot adduce in this connection instances such as R. 3. 12 O.T. οὐκ ἔστιν ('there is no-one') ποιῶν χρηστότητα, A. 21. 23 είσιν ἄνδρες ('there are persons here') εὐχὴν ἔχοντες ('who have a vow'); L. 2. 8 is also different, καὶ ποιμένες ήσαν ... ἀγρανλοῦντες καὶ φυλάσσοντες, since the existence of these shepherds had first to be noticed, and then their occupation (cp. A. 19. 14, 24). But even after deducting all the examples, where the imperfect of the principal verb could not have been used or would not have had the ¹ Not $i\pi i\rho \chi \omega$, which only occurs in A. 8. 16, 19. 36 in connection with a perfect participle.

 $[\]hat{\tau}$ In the case of the following writings—Mt., Mc., Luke's Gospel, and the first half of the Acts—this is no doubt due to their being direct translations from Aramaic originals. In John's Gospel in most passages (1. 9, 28, 2. 6, 3. 23) $\hat{\eta}\nu$ has a certain independence of its own (1. 28 $\delta \pi \sigma v \hat{\eta}\nu - \beta a \pi \tau i \zeta \omega \nu$, 'where he stayed and baptized'); $\hat{\eta}\nu \kappa \alpha \kappa \delta \nu \pi \sigma \iota \hat{\omega}\nu$ in 18. 30 seems to be a wrong reading for $\hat{\eta}\nu \kappa \alpha \kappa \delta \sigma \sigma \iota \hat{\omega}\nu$. In Mt. cp. 7. 29, 19. 22 etc.—In St. Paul, G. 1. 22 f. $\hat{\eta}\mu \eta \nu \hat{\alpha}\gamma \nu \sigma \iota \hat{\nu}\nu \hat{\omega}\nu \hat{\nu}\nu \hat{\omega}\nu \hat{\nu}\nu \hat{\omega}\nu \hat{\nu}\nu same meaning, the number of instances even in the Acts is considerably large: e.g. 1. 10 ἀτενίζοντες ήσαν, 13 ήσαν καταμένοντες, 14 ήσαν προσκαρτεροῦντες, 2. 2 ήσαν καθήμενοι etc. A periphrastic future appears in 6. 4 D ἐσόμεθα προσκαρτεροῦντες. (But from chapter 13 of the Acts onwards the only further instances are: 16. 12 ήμεν ἐν τŷ πόλει διατρίβοντες, cp. 14. 7, note 2 on p. 203: 18. 7 ἡ οἰκία ἡν συι ομοροῦσα [an easily intelligible use]: 21. 3 ἦν ἀποφορτιζόμενον, see § 58, 4, ἀπεφορτίζετο could not well have been used: 22. 19 ἤμην ψυλακίζων¹).

Instances of the pres. indic. being written periphrastically: 2 C. 9. 12 ή διακονία οὐ μόνον ἐστὶν προσαναπληροῦσα ..., ἀλλὰ καὶ περισσεύουσα; G. 4. 24, Col. 2. 23², Ja. 1. 17, 3. 15, Herm. Vis. i. 2. 4 ἔστιν μὲν οὖν ... ή τοιαύτη βουλὴ ... ἐπιφέρουσα a periphrasis for the sake of emphasis, somewhat like Demosth. 20. 18 ἔστι δὲ ... εχον; Mt. 27. 33 is corrupt (λεγόμενος om. 8° D); the phrase ὅ ἐστιν ('means') μεθερμηνενόμενον does not come under this head. periphrases of the impersonal verbs must be given a place to themselves, since they are not only common in Hellenistic Greek (Schmid Atticism. iii. 114), but are also found previously in Attic (ἐστὶ προσῆκον Dem. 3. 24): Α. 19. 36 δέον ἐστίν (cp. 1 P. 1. 6 δέον $[\epsilon \sigma \tau i]$; Clem. Cor. i. 34. 2): $\epsilon \xi \delta \nu$ (sc. $\epsilon \sigma \tau i$) A. 2. 29, 2 C. 12. 4.— Infinitive: L. 9. 18 = 11. 1 έν τῷ είναι αὐτὸν προσευχόμενον. Imperative: Mt. 5. 25 ἴσθι εὐνοῶν (the verb is not elsewhere used in the N.T.), L. 19. 17 ἴσθι ἐξουσίαν ἔχων: Clem. Hom. Ep. ad Jac. 3 εἶ ἴσθι εἰδώς. Of the periphrastic conjunctive there is no instance.— Future expressing continuance: Mt. 10. 22 ἔσεσθε μισούμενοι, Mc. 13. 25 οἱ ἀστέρες ἔσονται πίπτοντες, L. 5. 10 ἀνθρώπους ἔση ζωγρῶν, 1 C. 14. 11 ἔσεσθε είς ἀέρα λαλοῦντες, Herm. Mand. v. 2. 8 ἔση εύρισκόμενος, Sim. ix. 13. 2 ἔση φορῶν; in these instances the reason for using the periphrasis can be recognized (cp. the periphrastic fut. perf.), see Buttmann p. 266 f.

- 3. Γίνομαι is also occasionally employed in an analogous way to denote the beginning of a state. 2 C. 6. 14 μη γίνεσθε έτεροξυγοῦντες ἀπίστοις ('do not give yourselves up to it'), Col. 1. 18, H. 5. 12, Ap. 3. 2, 16. 10, Mc. 9. 3 (7): the different tenses of γίνομαι are joined with the pres. or perf. participle.—The combination of εἶναι with the aorist participle, which is not unknown to the language of classical poetry, is only found in L. 23. 19 BLT ὅστις η̂ν...βληθεὶς (βλ. om. , the other Mss. have βεβλημένος) ἐν τŷ φυλακŷ, where the reading is therefore quite untrustworthy.³
- 4. Another way of expressing imminence, besides the future, is by $\mu \epsilon \lambda \lambda \omega$ with the infinitive, a periphrasis with which the classical language is acquainted and which offers this advantage, that it presents a mode of indicating imminence in past time, e.g. L. 7. 2 ημελλε τελευτῶν and passim; also a conjunctive can be formed in this way, Mc. 13. 4 ὅταν μέλλη συντελεῖσθαι; and it serves to replace the fut inf. and the fut part which are going out of use, and periphrasis is therefore generally employed in these cases, e.g. μέλλειν πίμπρασθαι Α. 28. 6, ὁ τοῦτο μέλλων πράσσειν L. 22. 36. In the case of a participle, however, the periphrastic form is of wider application than the simple form, since the latter (as a relative indication of time) can never be employed in the genitive absolute, and nowhere at all except where it is definitely connected with a finite verb: periphrasis is therefore necessary in A. 18. 14 μέλλοντος ἀνοίγειν gen. abs., 20. 3 γενομένης ἐπιβουλῆς αὐτῷ μέλλοντι ἀνάγεσθαι, Jo. 12. 4 Ἰούδας, ὁ μέλλων αὐτὸν πυραδιδόναι (but in 6. 64 τίς ἐστιν ὁ παραδώσων ABC al., cp. § 61, 4).

 $^{^2}$ " Ατινά ἐστιν λόγον μὲν ἔχοντα σοφίας, cp. Demosth. 31. 11 οὐδὲ λόγον τὸ πρᾶγμ' ἔχον ἐστί and other similar passages with ἔχων (Rehdantz Ind. Demosth. ii. Partic.).

³ In the Gospel of Peter 23 θεασάμενος $\tilde{\eta}\nu$, 51 $\tilde{\eta}\nu$ τεθείς, this combination is due to a confusion between perfect and a rist; cp. 23 δεδώκασι for έδωκαν. Clem. Cor. ii. 17. 7 must be emended to ἔσονται δύξαν <δι>δόντες. $_{\alpha V}$ App. p. 320.

§ 63. THE MOODS. INDICATIVE OF UNREALITY (AND REPETITION).

- 1. With regard to the use of the moods the distinction between the language of the New Testament and the classical language is considerably greater than it is with regard to the tenses, if only for the reason that the optative which was disappearing (§ 14, 1) had to be replaced.
- 2. The indicative in Greek, besides its primary function of making assertions about real or actual events (to which in all languages is attached its use in negative or interrogative sentences), has the further function of denoting unreality as such, by means of the tenses expressive of past time (since the form of the verb which is used to express that which no longer exists acquires the general notion of non-existence). The indicative, however, is not used in this way in the principal clause without the addition of the particle $a\nu$, which differentiates such sentences from unqualified assertions about past time, whereas in the accompanying conditional and subordinate clauses, and in the kindred clauses expressing a wish, the indicative is used alone.
- 3. In the N.T. the indicative has not only kept the whole of this sphere of its use, but has also enlarged it at the expense of the optative. In the first place in hypothetical sentences, where unreality is expressed, the indicative is used both in the protasis and the apodosis; in the latter the insertion of αν is not obligatory. Jo. 15. 24 εἰ τὰ ἔργα μὴ ἐποίησα ἐν αὐτοῖς..., ἁμαρτίαν οὐκ εἴχοσαν, cp. 19. 11 (where A etc. have the wrong reading ἔχεις for εἶχες of B etc.), 8. 39, G. 4. 15 (ἄν is added by κ°D°EKLP); on the other hand ἄν is inserted in Jo. 18. 30 εἰ μὴ ἢν..., οὐκ"ἄν σοι παρεδώκαμεν, and this is the case in the majority of instances. The position of ἄν is as near the beginning of the sentence as possible: οὐκ ᾶν passim,

- οἱ ὑπηρέται ἄν οἱ ἐμοὶ ἢγωνίζοντο (Jo. 18. 36).¹ The tense (imperf. or aor.; pluperf. in 1 Jo. 2. 19) keeps the ordinary meaning of its action; the imperfect in other connections is ambiguous (in the passage above quoted ἢγωνίζ. ἄν is 'would have fought,' which was meant to be regarded as a continuous or incomplete action, since accomplishment and result were uncertain).
- 4. The imperfect indicative without av is used in classical Greek for expressions of necessity, obligation, duty, possibility etc., when one requires to indicate the fact that in reality the opposite is taking place or has taken place: while the present indicative asserts something about present time, as it always does, and accordingly an appeal is contained in such presents as χρή, προσήκει etc. In the former case we employ the conjunctive, it should or could be so, or where the possibility of anything happening is past, it should or could have been-a distinction which cannot be made in Greek; the indicative is logically correct, since even in the case of the verb 'should' the obligation was already an actual one in past time (cp. Latin). The N.T. keeps this usage of the imperfect, but uses it further to denote what in classical Greek is expressed by the present indicative: A. 22. 22 οὐ γὰρ καθῆκεν αὐτὸν ζῆν (καθῆκον D^2 , cp. $ 62, 2), they are asking for him to be put to death: Col. 3. 18 ws ἀνῆκεν 'as is seemly': Ε. 5. 4 α οὐκ ἀνῆκεν (v.l. τὰ οὐκ ἀνήκοντα).2 Elsewhere the imperfect is used correctly: ἔδει in Mt. 23. 23 ταῦτα ἔδει ποιῆσαι, κἀκεῖνα μὴ ἀφείναι, a frequent form of this verb (also used of course where it is merely the past necessity which is stated, οὐχὶ ταῦτα ἔδει [' was bound '] παθεῖν τὧν Χριστόν Ι. 24. 26) : ὤφειλον in 2 C. 12. τι έγω γαρ ἄφειλον ὑφ' ὑμων συνίστασθαι, but differently used in 1 C. 5. 10 έπεὶ ιδφείλετε έκ τοῦ κόσμου έξελθεῖν 'must have otherwise,' where in classical Greek the insertion of av is at least admissible, as it is in H. 9. 26 ἐπεὶ ἔδει αὐτὸν πολλάκις παθεῖν: with δύνασθαι in Mt. 26. 9 ἐδύνατο τοῦτο πραθήναι πολλοῦ: with an impersonal expression with είναι, καλὸν ἢν εί οὐκ ἐγεννήθη Mt. 26. 24 (καλόν ἐστι 18. 8 is different; cp. 2 P. 2. 213).
- 5. The indicative when used to denote an impracticable wish in Attic is introduced by $\epsilon i \theta \epsilon$ or $\epsilon i \gamma \alpha \rho$, but it is more inclined to use the analytical expression $\epsilon i \theta \epsilon$ ($\epsilon i \gamma \alpha \rho$) $\delta \phi \epsilon \lambda o \nu$ (with infinitive). From the latter phrase, through the omission of the introductory particle and through the auxiliary verb becoming stereotyped, there has been formed in the Hellenistic language the word ωφελε (Callimachus) or $\mathring{\omega}\phi\epsilon\lambda$ ον $\mathring{\omega}\phi\epsilon\lambda$ ον used as a particle to introduce a wish with the indic.¹: οφελον is the form which it takes in the N.T., where the particle is even used (§ 66, 1) with the future to introduce a practicable wish. 1 C. 4. 8 ὄφελον ($D^{e}EL$ ὄφ.) έβασιλεύσατε, 2 C. 11. 1 ὄφελον (ὄφ. DeFGKL) ἀνείχεσθέ μου, Ap. 3. 15 (ἄφ. BP).—But if the idea of wishing is expressed by a particular verb, then a distinction is drawn in Attic between βουλοίμην ἄν (a practicable wish, modestly expressed) and $\dot{\epsilon}\beta o\nu\lambda \dot{\delta}\mu\eta\nu$ $\ddot{a}\nu$ (impracticable), whereas in the N.T. both these meanings are combined in ¿βουλόμην or the more popular word ήθελον (without αν). Thus A. 25. 22 έβ. ακοῦσαι (perfectly practicable), R. 9. 3 ηθχόμην ἀνάθεμα είναι (hardly conceived of as practicable), G. 4. 20 ήθελον (modus irrealis, or imperfect of unreality), Philem. 13 ἐβουλόμην ('would have liked,' cp. 14). So also Herm. Vis. iii. 8. $\tilde{6}$, 11. 4, Clem. Hom. i. 9 $\tilde{\eta}\theta\epsilon\lambda\sigma\nu = \beta\sigma\nu\lambda\sigma(\mu\eta\nu)$ $\tilde{a}\nu$. The classical optative is only found in A. 26. 29 (8°AB) & Ealphy av, see § 66, 2.

² The Attic προσήκει does not appear in the N.T.; nor χρή except in Ja. 3. 10, nor ξξεστι (for which έξόν is used, sc. έστι, § 62, 2) έξην, nor the verbal adj. in -τέος with ην etc.

[&]quot;The Attic use of the (aorist) indicative to denote what nearly happened (δλίγου ἐδέησα with infin., δλίγου ἐπελαθόμην) is unattested in the N.T.

- 6. The indicative of unreality in final clauses, which are dependent on another indicative of this class, is not found in the N.T.; on the contrary such clauses take the conjunctive, Jo. 18. 36 οἱ ὑπηρέται ἀν οἱ ἐμοὶ ἡγωνίζοντο, ἵνα μὴ παραδοθῶ [τοῖs Ἰονδαίοιs] (τοῖs Ἰονδ. is contrary to sense and is omitted by Chrys.), 1 C. 4. 8.
- 7. While the classical language expresses indefinite repetition in past time in principal clauses by av with the imperfect or agrist indicative, and in subordinate clauses by the optative, in the N.T. the former method of expression has been transferred to subordinate clauses in place of the optative², while there is no instance of its use in principal clauses. The av, which in this case is never dropped $(\epsilon \acute{a}\nu)$ may be used, see § 26, 4), is placed as in other subordinate clauses as close as possible to the particle or the relative. Mc. 6. 56 όπου έὰν (ἄν) εἰσεπορεύετο ..., ἐν ταῖς ἀγοραῖς ἐτίθεσαν τοὺς ἀσθενοῦντας: 15. 6 D ον αν ητούντο, the correct reading, cp. § 13, 3: A. 2. 45, 4. 35 $(\kappa \alpha \theta \delta \tau i)$, 1°C. 12. 2 (&s). The agrist is by no means excluded (cp. for a classical instance in a principal clause Dem. 18, 219 $\delta \mu \hat{\epsilon} \nu$ γράφων οὐκ ἂν ἐπρέσβευσεν), and so we have in Mc. 6. 56b καὶ ὅσοι αν ήψαντο (NBD; ήπτοντο AN al.) αὐτοῦ ἐσψίοντο, LXX. Is. 55. 11 οσα \ddot{a}_{ν} ηθέλησα, Herm. Sim. ix. 4. 5 ὅταν ἐτέθησαν, 17. 33, Barn. 12. 2 οπόταν καθείλεν. Even particles compounded with αν, such as σταν, take part in this construction with the indicative: Mc. 3. 11 τα πνεύματα, ὅταν αὐτὸν ἐθεώρουν, προσέπιπτον, Μc. 11. 19 ὅταν (ὅτε ΑD al.) οψε εγένετο, εξεπορεύετο εξω της πόλεως, where this particle also denotes custom, cp. L. 21. 37.

¹So LXX., Arrian Diss. Epict. (where $\delta\phi\epsilon\lambda o\nu$ is read by cod. S in ii. 18. 15), etc., Sophocles Lexicon $\delta\phi\epsilon\lambda\lambda\omega$.

² So also Lucian D. Mort. 9. 2 ὄντινα ἃν προσέβλεψα.

§ 64. CONTUNCTIVE AND FUTURE (OR PRESENT) INDICA-TIVE IN PRINCIPAL CLAUSES.

- 1. The conjunctive has apparently the primary meaning of something which should (or ought to) take place, and consequently its proper use is to express the will of the speaker, though in a less definite manner than the imperative, with which mood the conjunctive has close affinities. But the conjunctive, and especially the agrist conjunctive, also has close affinities with the future indicative. Not only has it to a large extent the greatest similarity of form (λίσω is the form of the 1st sing. both of the aor. conj. and the fut. ind., λίση is the form of the 2nd sing, of the same tenses in the middle), but in its manner of employment it comes into the closest contact with that tense from the earliest times (Homer). The future does not assert what is about to happen merely in point of time, but frequently also what is about to happen in the intention of the speaker: βούλομαι $\lambda \dot{\epsilon} \gamma \epsilon \iota \nu$ gives the same meaning analytically, which $\lambda \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\epsilon} \omega$ gives syn-The conjunctive, on the other hand, actually has a much wider range of employment than is contained in the primary meaning above-mentioned, and expresses that which under certain circumstances may be the outcome of the present position of affairs: from this it is at once apparent that it refers in great measure to the future, while past time lies outside its compass. In the final development of the language the future has been supplanted by $\theta \acute{\epsilon} \lambda \omega$ "iva (for which modern Greek uses $\theta \dot{a}$) with the present or agrist conjunctive (so that action is differentiated in future time as well as in past time); the N.T., however, is still a long way removed from this state of things, whereas the mixture of the fut. ind. and aor. conj. has, in comparison with the classical language, made considerable progress.
- 2. The conjunctive supplements the imperative (as in Latin and other languages) in the 1st. pers. plur., where there is no distinction from the classical language; this also happens, but in a somewhat different way, in the 1st pers. sing., since an invitation is there made to the other person to let the speaker do something; in classical Greek this conjunctive is introduced by aye and $\phi \in \rho \in$, also by $\delta \in \rho \circ \rho$. in the N.T. by αφες (whence ας in modern Greek) and δεθρο (plural δεῦτε): Μτ. 7. 4 ἄφες ἐκβάλω τὸ κάρφος, Α. 7. 34 Ο.Τ. δεῦρο ἀποστείλω σε (Eurip. Bacch. 341 δεθρό σου στέψω κάρα), cp. Ap. 17. 1, 21. 9. The same words may also precede the 1st pers. plur. conj. and $(\delta \epsilon \hat{v} \tau \epsilon)$ at any rate) the 2nd pers. imp.: δεῦτε ἀποκτείνωμεν Mc. 12. 7, δεῦτε ίδετε Mt. 28. 6; ἄφες ἶδωμεν Mt. 27. 49 (where the singular form has become stereotyped, as happens with αγε, φέρε etc.), Mc. 15. 36 NDV $(a\phi\epsilon\tau\epsilon \text{ ABC etc.}) = \text{our 'let us see.'}$ Again the conj. necessarily takes the place of the imperative in the 2nd person of the aorist after $\mu\dot{\eta}$, as in classical Greek, and may do so also in the 3rd person (not frequently; classical Greek also uses conj. or imp.): $\mu\dot{\eta}$ τis $a\dot{v}\dot{\tau}\dot{v}\dot{v}$ $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\xi}ov\theta\epsilon\dot{v}\dot{\eta}\sigma\eta$ 1 C. 16. 1. cp. 2 C. 11. 16, 2 Th. 2. 3. In the N.T. such clauses are often preceded (Mt. 8. 4 al., Mc. 1. 44, 1 Th. 5. 15) by $\ddot{\nu}\rho\alpha$, $\delta\rho\hat{u}\tau\epsilon$, $\beta\lambda\dot{\epsilon}\pi\epsilon\tau\epsilon$, as well as $\ddot{a}\phi\epsilon s$ etc., which do not affect the construction, see § 79, 4.—On $\mu\dot{\eta}$ expressing apprehension in independent clauses see § 65, 3 ad fin.

- 3. The future indicative takes the place of the imperative in the legal language of the O.T. (not a classical use) both in positive and negative commands (the negative being ov), but the N.T. language apart from O.T. quotations does not appear to have been materially affected by this use. Mt. 5. 43 O.T. αγαπήσεις τον πλησίον σου, but in the law of Christ in 44 ἀγαπᾶτε; ibid. 21 O.T. ον φονεύσεις etc., but the future is nowhere used in this chapter in independent precepts of Christ, since even 48 ἔσεσθε (γίνεσθε Chrys.) τέλειοι is modelled on Deut. 18. 13. Elsewhere however there are some isolated instances of the future (2nd and 3rd persons): 6. 5 οὐκ ἔσεσθε, 21. 3 ἐάν τις \dot{v} μ \hat{v} ν $\dot{\epsilon}$ iπη τι, $\dot{\epsilon}$ ρ $\hat{\epsilon}$ iτ $\dot{\epsilon}$, $= \dot{\epsilon}$ iπατ $\dot{\epsilon}$ in Mc. 11. 3, Mt. 20. 26 (cp. Mc. 9. 35) οὐχ οὕτως $\dot{\epsilon}$ σται $\dot{\epsilon}$ ν \dot{v} μ \hat{i} ν, and then $\dot{\epsilon}$ σται occurs twice again in 26 f. with v.l. $\epsilon \sigma \tau \omega$ (Clem. Cor. i. 60. 2 $\kappa \alpha \theta \alpha \rho \epsilon \hat{i}_s$). this is connected the reverse use of the imperative for future in Mt. 10. 13 (ἐλθάτω ἡ εἰρήνη ὑμῶν ἐπ' αὐτήν [but ἔσται D] ... ἐπιστρα- $\phi \dot{\eta} \tau \omega$), where the future is more natural and is actually found in L. 10. 6. On ὄφελον with the fut. ind. (in a clause expressing a wish) see § 66, 1.
- 4. A further substitute for the imperative is afforded by $\tilde{v}va$ with the conjunctive (used independently; cp. French que, class. $\tilde{o}\pi\omega s$ with fut.), E. 5. 33 (after $\tilde{a}\gamma a\pi \tilde{a}\tau\omega$) $\tilde{\eta}$ $\delta \tilde{\epsilon} \gamma vv\tilde{\eta}$ $\tilde{v}va$ $\phi o\beta \tilde{\eta}\tau a\iota$ $\tau \tilde{v}v$ $\tilde{a}v\delta \rho a$, cp. 2 C. 8. 7, Mc. 5. 23 (see on $\tilde{v}va$ § 69, 1). This may be extended by $\theta \epsilon \lambda \omega$: Mc. 6. 25 $\theta \epsilon \lambda \omega$ $\tilde{v}va$ $\delta \hat{\phi}s$ ($\delta \delta s$ Mt. 14. 8). Another substitute is a question in the fut. with $o\tilde{v}$ (as frequently in classical Greek), A. 13. 10 $o\tilde{v}$ $\pi a\tilde{v}\sigma \eta$ $\delta \iota a\sigma \tau \rho \epsilon \phi \omega v$, though in this passage the imperative meaning is not quite clear, and perhaps a reproach is rather intended.
- 5. The most definite form of a negative assertion about the future is that with οὐ μή, which also appears in classical Greek and is there connected with both the future indicative and the conjunctive. Although the N.T. has this double construction of οὐ μή, still the only certain instance of its taking the future is Mt. 16. 22 οὐ μὴ ἔσται σοι τοῦτο, whereas in the other cases not only is there a strong similarity between the form of aor. and fut., but there is also a variety of readings, while in numerous passages the conjunctive is by its peculiar form established beyond a doubt as the correct reading. Mt. 15. 5 οὐ μὴ τιμήσει τὸν πατέρα, but τιμήση is read by E*FGK al. (a quotation of a saying of the Rabbis, 'need not honour'; in the LXX. οὐ μή is also prohibitive as in Gen. 3. 1), 26. 35 οὐ μή σε ἀπαρνήσομαι (-σωμαι AEGK al.), Mc. 14. 31 ditto (-σωμαι «EFGK al.), Ap. 9. 6 οὐ μὴ εὐρήσουσιν (εὕρωσιν AP). (But Hermas has in Mand. ix. 5 οὐδὲν οὐ μὴ λήψη, Sim. i. 5 οὐ μὴ παραδεχθήση.) On the other hand the conj. is used e.g. in Ap. 2. 11 οὐ μὴ ἀδικηθῆ, L. 12. 59 οὐ μὴ ἐξέλθης, 13. 35 οὐ μὴ ἔδητε με. The conj. is always that of the aorist, whereas classical Greek also uses the pres. conj. The same form is occasionally used interrogatively to denote an affirmation (the relation between the two uses being therefore the same as between "οὐ πράξω." and "οὐ πράξω;"): Jo. 18. 11 οὐ μὴ πίω αὐτό; L. 18. 7, Ap. 15. 4 τίς οὐ μὴ φοβηθῆ; (the classical οὐ μὴ λαλήσεις; – 'you will certainly not' – 'do not venture to' etc.).

6. In questions of doubt and deliberation, as to what ought to take place, classical Greek uses the conjunctive or (more rarely) the fut. ind., as in Eurip. Ion 758 εἴπωμεν; ἢ σιγῶμεν; ἢ τί δράσομεν; generally in the 1st person, rarely in the 3rd. The question is equivalent to $\chi\rho\dot{\eta}$: it may be introduced by $\beta \circ \dot{\nu} \lambda \epsilon \iota - \epsilon \sigma \theta \epsilon$ (without a conjunction): it is negatived by $\mu \dot{\eta}$. The N.T. in this case practically uses only the conjunctive (the fut. is a v.l. in e.g. A. 2. 37, 4. 16; on Ph. 1. 22 see § 65, 1), which is frequently introduced by $\theta \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \epsilon i s$ - $\epsilon \tau \dot{\epsilon}$ ($\beta o \dot{\nu} \lambda \epsilon \sigma \theta \dot{\epsilon}$), and in addition to the 1st person the 2nd and 1st persons are occasionally used, where there is more of a future meaning: L. 23. 31 εν τῷ ξηρῷ τί γένηται (γενήσεται D; 'what will happen then ?'), Mt. 23. 33 πῶς φύγητε, 'how will (or can) you escape?', 26. 54, 'R. 10. 14 f. πῶς οὖν ἐπικαλέσωνται (-σονται KLP) ... $\pi\hat{\omega}_{S}$ δè $\pi_{i}\sigma_{T}$ εύσωσιν (v.l. -σουσιν) ... $\pi\hat{\omega}_{S}$ δè ἀκούσωσιν ($\mathbf{R}^{c}\mathbf{A}^{2}\mathbf{B}$; -σουσιν L. -σονται *D al.) ... $\pi \hat{\omega}$ ς δὲ κηρύξωσιν (the v.l. -ουσιν is hardly attested), 'how will they' or 'can they': Hermas, Sim. v. 7. 3 $\pi \hat{\omega}$ s $\sigma\omega\theta\hat{\eta}$ δ $d\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\sigma$ os. In these instances classical Greek must have used the future, which we have in L. 16. 11 f. τίς πιστεύσει; ... τίς δώσει; cp. 11. 11, Mt. 16. 26 τί δώσει = Mc. 8. 37 τί δοῦ (δώσει ACD al.). peculiar instance is L. 11. 5 τίς ἐξ ὑμῶν ἔξει φίλον, καὶ πορεύσεται ... καὶ εἴπη (ἐρεῖ AD al.) ... 7 κἀκεῖνος εἴπη (ἔρεῖ D), where the thought is awkwardly expressed (§ 77, 6; Viteau p. 10), and would have been more appropriately rendered by the conditional form of sentence $(\dot{\epsilon}\dot{a}\nu \phi i\lambda os \pi o \rho \epsilon \nu \theta \hat{\eta})$ etc.), and then the future would be in its right place in the apodosis. Cp. ibid. 11 t. The fut. is used in the 1st pers. in R. 3. 5, 4. 1 etc. τί ἐροῦμεν; (cp. Plato, Crito 50 B), which at least approximates to a deliberative sense; and this is decidedly the sense of L. 22. 49 εἰ (direct question, § 77, 2) πατάξομεν ἐν μαχαίρη; (-ωμεν GH al.).—Question introduced by θέλεις etc.: Mt. 13. 28 θέλεις συλλέξωμεν; Jo. 18. 39 βούλεσθε ἀπολύσω;—The question may be put analytically by the insertion of $\delta \epsilon \hat{i}$ ($\chi \rho \dot{\eta}$ being unusual in the N.T.), τi $\mu \epsilon \delta \epsilon i \pi \sigma \iota \epsilon i \nu$ A. 16. 30, or of $\delta i \nu \alpha \sigma \theta \alpha \iota$ for the other sense of the future or conjunctive, Mt. 12. 34 $\pi \hat{\omega}_s$ δύνασθε λαλείν (Viteau p. 32).—The pres. indic. is used very rarely in a deliberative sense in place of the fut. ind. (§ 56, 8): Jo. 11. 47 (Herm. Sim. ix. 9. 1) τί ποιοθμέν; for which there are parallels in colloquial Latin.¹

¹ In 1 Jo. 3. 17 μενεῖ should be written for μένει.—Plato, Symp. 214 Λ πῶς ποιοῦμεν is not quite a similar case; it is not deliberative like τί ποιῶμεν ibid. B, but the present contains a gentle rebuke.

§ 65. CONJUNCTIVE AND FUTURE (OR PRESENT) INDICATIVE IN SUBORDINATE CLAUSES.

- 1. Indirect interrogative sentences, like direct, take the deliberative conjunctive, Mt. 6. 25 $\mu \dot{\eta}$ $\mu \epsilon \rho \iota \mu \nu \hat{\alpha} \tau \epsilon \tau i \phi \dot{\alpha} \gamma \eta \tau \epsilon$: and here again the sphere of the conjunctive is extended somewhat beyond its classical limits, as in L. 12. 36 προσδεχομένοις τον κύριον, πότε άναλύση (-σει GKX al.), cp. Ph. 3. 12 with εί 'whether' διώκω εί καταλάβω (cp. inf. 6): elsewhere this ϵi is followed by the fut. ind. Mc. 11. 13 D gives the reading ἰδεῖν ἐάν [cp. inf. 4] τι ἐστιν ἐν αὐτη.) In the region of past time, where the classical language according to rule employs the optative, the N.T. in this as in other cases retains the conjunctive (though not always in St. Luke, see § 66, 3): A. 4. 21 μηδεν ευρίσκοντες το πως κολάσωνται αυτούς. The use of the fut. ind. (also possible in class. Greek) in deliberative sense is hardly attested by Ph. 1. 22 τί αἰρήσομαι οὐ γνωρίζω, where the better punctuation is τί αἰρήσομαι; (cp. § 77, 6; B has αἰρήσωμαι).
- 2. Final clauses introduced by ίνα, ὅπως, μή have very largely extended the range of their use in the N.T in consequence of the infinitive being expressed by a periphrasis with $i\nu a$; we are here only concerned with the mood, which is in no way influenced by the character of "va, whether it be a true final particle or not. mood in the N.T. is generally the conjunctive, without regard to the right which the optative formerly possessed of expressing purpose from a past point of view, or from that of some person introduced by the narrator¹; to a rather less extent the future indicative is also introduced, and just where in classical Greek it is not found, namely after $\tilde{\nu}\alpha$ and final $\mu\dot{\eta}$, whereas the Attic use of $\tilde{\sigma}\pi\omega s$ and $\tilde{\sigma}\pi\omega s$ $\mu\dot{\eta}$ in connection with the fut. ind. (after verbs of deliberating, striving, taking care) is not found in the N.T. With verbs of this class the particles used throughout the N.T. are "va and for negative "va $\mu\eta$ or $\mu \dot{\eta}$: $\ddot{o}\pi \omega s$ in so far as it appears at all (never in the Apoc., only once in St. John's Gospel,² and not often in St. Paul), is limited to a purely final meaning and to its use in connection with verbs of asking $(\pi \alpha \rho \alpha \kappa \alpha \lambda \epsilon \hat{\nu} \text{ etc.})$. "Omes has further lost, with the exception of some few passages in Luke and a quotation from the LXX., the av which is often appended to it in Attic Creek; this particle was never even in Attic annexed to $i\nu a$ and $\mu \dot{\eta}$. On $\mu \dot{\eta}$ ($\mu \dot{\eta} \pi o \tau \epsilon$) expressing apprehension, vide inf. 3.—The fut. ind. after "va occurs most frequently in the Apocalypse: 22. 14 ΐνα ἔσται...καὶ εἰσέλθωσιν (thus the two forms are regarded as equivalent), 3. 9 "να ήξουσιν (-ωσι B) καὶ προσκυνήσουσιν (-σωσιν B) ... καὶ γνῶσιν (κ reads γνώση ² The passage is 11. 57, where $\delta \pi \omega_s$ is evidently used for the sake of variety, since a "va has occurred immediately before; the same reason applies to its use in St. Paul in 1 C. 1. 29, 2 C. 8. 14, 2 Th. 1. 12 (but not in 2 C. 8. 11, G. 1. 4, Philem. 6: "Iva ... "Iva occurs in G. 4. 5, 1 C. 4. 6).

not well), 8. 3 δώσει (-η BP), similarly in 13. 16 (written Δως). from which the wrong reading δωσι(ν) arose). See also 6. 4, 11, 9. 4, 5, 20, 13. 12, 14. 13. In St. Paul we hate: 1 C. 9. 15 "να τις (οιδείς is wrong) κενώσει, 18 ίνα θήσω, 13. 3 πραδω ίνα καυθήσομαι (the readings -σωμαι CK, καυχήσωμαι &AB are wrong), G. 2. 4 καταδουλώσουσιν (NAB*CDE), Phil. 2. 11. Also probably 1 Th. 5. 10 ΐνα ζήσομεν (A; D*E have ζωμεν; the agrist ζήσωμεν of setc. would mean 'come to life again' as in R. 14. 9): in this passage "iv is also omitted from an intervening clause, ΐνα εἴτε γρηγορωμεν εἴτε καθεύδωμεν κ.τ.λ., cp. Ph. 1. 27 ΐνα εἴτε ἀκούω (conj.). Other passages are: 1 P. 3. 1 κερδηθήσονται, Jo. 17. 2 δώσει (-) κ ACG al., δώσω κ*, ἔχη D), L. 14. 10 έρει with v.l. in AD al εἴπη, 20. 10 δώσουσιν with v.l. in CD al. δωσιν. With μή: Col 2 8 βλέπετε μη ... ἔσται, Η. 3. 12 βλέπετε μήποτε... ἔσται. A special instance is that where a conj.after "va (or $\mu \dot{\eta}$) is succeeded by a fut. linked on to the conj. by a καὶ to denote a further result: A. 21. 24 ΐνα ξυρήσωνται (-ονται *B*D2E al.) ..., καὶ γνώσονται, for which καὶ γνῶσιν was at any rate possible, the same arrangement is used elsewhere in the N.T., and moreover in cases where the second verb should, strictly speaking, have been subordinated to the final particle; there appears therefore to be a kind of Hebraism underlying this construction, as in the LXX. this habit of writing the second verb in the future is very widely extended (Viteau, p. 81 f.). Eph. 6. 3 O.T. ίνα ... γένηται καὶ έση, Jo. 15. 8 ΐνα καρπὸν... φέρητε καὶ γενήσεσθε (γένησθε BDL al.) έμοὶ μαθηταί, L. 22. 30 (with many vv.ll.), 12. 58 (μήποτε), Mt. 5. 25 (ditto), Mc. 5. 23 (according to A), Mt. 13. 15 = Jo. 12. 40 = A. 28. 27 O.T. (Is. 6. 10 μήποτε or ἵνα μή), Barn. 4. 3 ἵνα ταχύνη καὶ ήξει (8 for $-\xi \eta$), Herm. Mand. vi. 2. 10, Sim. ix. 7. 6, 28. 5. There is the same construction after an independent conj., ἀγοράσωμεν καὶ δώσομεν Mc. 6. 37 AL Δ (- $\omega\mu\epsilon\nu$ ×BD, al. $\delta\omega\mu\epsilon\nu$); and in Hermas after an imperat., Vis. i. 1. 3 λάβε καὶ ἀποδώσεις μοι, Mand. ii. 1 ἄκακος γίνου καὶ ἔση ώς (esto Lat.) — Όπως ἄν occurs in L. 2. 35, A. 3. 19, 15. 17 O.T. (Amos 9. 12, our text has no $a\nu$); also in a quotation in R. 3. 4 = Ps. 51. 6.—The present indic. after "va is of course simply due to corruption of the text 1

3. Mή after words expressing apprehension (φοβούμαι etc.) is not final, but is akin to the $\mu \dot{\gamma}$ which expresses apprehension in inde pendent sentences such as μη ἀγροικότερον η 'it is perhaps too rude' Still from one point of view this $\mu \eta$ does border on the meaning of final $\mu \dot{\eta}$, since an apprehension of something eventually happening has for its immediate result the purpose of avoiding this thing. In the N.T. this $\mu\dot{\eta}$ of apprehension is usually strengthened by ποτε or $\pi \omega_s$: $\mu \dot{\eta} \pi \sigma \tau \epsilon$, $\mu \dot{\eta} \pi \omega_s$. On the other hand the idea of negation in the $\mu\dot{\eta}$ is so far weakened, that it is used to introduce something which is surmised, where there is no idea of warding it off: accordingly in Hellenistic Greek $\mu \dot{\eta} \pi o \tau \epsilon$ in a principal clause means 'perhaps,' in a dependent clause 'if perchance,' 'if possibly':

¹ Jo. 5. 20 NL, G. 6. 12 ACF al., Tit. 2. 4 N*AF al. etc. But φυσιοῦσθε 1 C. 6 and ζηλοῦτε G. 4. 17 are conjunctives, see § 22, 3.

(I. 3. 15 an indirect question), 2 Tim. 2. 25 $\mu\eta\pi\sigma\tau\epsilon$ $\delta\hat{\varphi}^1$ $\alpha\hat{v}\tau\hat{\sigma}\hat{\iota}\hat{\varsigma}$ δ $\theta \epsilon \delta s \kappa.\tau.\lambda$. If the thing (surmised or) feared is something negative, then the formation (a) in classical Greek) is μη οὐ: Mt. 25. 9 μήποτε οὖκ ἀρκέση ΝΑLΣ, for which BCD al. have the not impossible reading μ. οὐ μὴ ἀρκ. (ἀρκέσει Ď). The classical construction, if the apprehension has reference to something which is still dependent on the will, is always the conjunctive: if it refers to something which has already taken place or generally to something independent of the will, any tense of the indicative may also be used (the indicative is always used in reference to a past event). In the N.T. the phrase φοβούμαι μή is found only in Luke and Paul (Hebrews): A. 23. 10 ϕ οβηθεὶς (HLP εὐλαβηθεὶς) μὴ διασπασθῆ, cp. 27. 17, 29, 2 C. 11. 3 $(\mu \dot{\eta} \pi \omega s)$, 12. 20 (ditto), G. 4. 11 (ditto), H. 4. 1 here $\mu \dot{\eta} \pi \omega \tau \epsilon \delta \omega \kappa \hat{\eta}$, in G. 4. 11, with reference to something which has taken place, it takes the perf. indic. (κεκοπίακα), elsewhere the aor. conj.; clearly this construction φοβούμαι μή was a literary and not a popular one (Viteau, p. 83). There is a greater frequency of dependent clauses with μήποτε (μήπως), which are attached to any verb, to express the accompanying feeling of apprehension by which the action related is influenced, the construction varying as before: G. 2. 2 ἀνεθέμην αὐτοῖς τὸ εὐαγγέλιον ..., μήπως εἰς κενὸν τρέχω (conj.) ἢ ἔδραμον, 1 Th. 3. 5 ἔπεμψα είς τὸ γνῶναι τὴν πίστιν ὑμῶν, μήπως ἐπείρασεν ὑμᾶς ὁ σατανᾶς καὶ εἰς κενὸν γένηται (the issue feared) ὁ κόπος ἡμῶν (L. 3, 15 with optat., see \S 66, 3). There is a transition to final $\mu \dot{\eta}$ in L. 14. 8 f. μη κατακλιθης..., μήποτε... $\mathring{\eta}$ κεκλημένος 2 (ήξει 2)..., καὶ έρει (cp. supra 2). As in the last passage D has the fut. = conj., so we find this tense occasionally elsewhere: Mc. 14. 2 μήποτε ἔσται (Mt. 7. 6 v.l.), Herm. Sim. ix. 28. 7, Mand. x. 2. 5 (ἐντείξεται should be read for -ηται); cp. βλέπετε μή (μήποτε) έσται Col. 2. 8, H. 3. 12, final (supra 2).—Independent clauses with #4 and the conj. usually have an imperative meaning, § 64, 2; under this head comes 1 Th. 5. 15 όρᾶτε μήτις ἀποδοῖ, ἀλλὰ ... διώκετε (on ὁρᾶτε before the imperat. and conj. see §§ 64, 2; 79, 4). An exception to this is Mt. 25. ο μήποτε οὐκ ἀρκέση, vide supra.

4. Of conditional sentences the four following forms exist in classical Greek: (1) ϵi with indicative, denoting something which is simply regarded as actual; (2) $\dot{\epsilon} a \nu$ with conjunctive, to express that which from the given stand-point of present time, the time in question being either general or a special occasion, I wish to denote as under certain circumstances actual or liable to happen; (3) $\dot{\epsilon} i$ with optative, if I wish to represent anything as generally possible, without regard to the general or actual situation at the moment (hence also used with reference to a position of affairs in past time); (4) $\dot{\epsilon} i$ with imperfect, aorist, or pluperfect indicative, to denote that the actual state of things is the opposite to the case supposed, vide supra § 63, 2 and 3. The distinction between (1) and (2) is very slight in the case of ϵi with the fut. indic., since ϵai with the aor. conj. also generally refers to the future— $\epsilon \hat{\alpha} \nu \pi \epsilon \sigma \eta = si \ ceciderit$; the indicative, however, expresses a more definite expectation.—In the N.T. (3) is hardly represented (see § 66, 4); (1) and (2) have come into still closer contact, as is seen especially in the fact that ear may also be joined with the indicative. We note at the outset that the dissyllabic form of this particle is the regular one (cp. ξαυτοῦ, where Attic has both ἐαυτοῦ and αὐτοῦ), whereas inversely the form ἐάν for ἄν is frequently employed in relative sentences (inf. 7), § 26, 4. Still 'and if,' 'even if, may be καν: Mt. 21. 21 (D καὶ ... ἐὰν), L. 13. 9 (καὶ ἐὰν D) etc. (see § 5, 2). Externally then the prominent distinction between (1) and (2) is that the negative used with ϵi is ov, while with ἐάν it is (as in all Attic conditional sentences) μή, see § 75, 3. But the internal distinction between the two forms has not been quite lost. It is only modern Greek which denotes every 'if' by av; in the N.T. ϵi with the indicative is obligatory for all suppositions referring to what has already taken place: Mc. 3. 26 & 6 σατανᾶς ἀνέστη ἐφ' ἐαυτόν (which according to the speech of Christ's opponent must already have taken place), contrast ibid. 24 in an imaginary instance, έὰν βασιλεία έφ' ξαυτὴν μερισθη. The same distinction holds good where the two forms occur in even closer connection, as in Jo. 13. 17 εἰ ταῦτα οἴδατε (present reality), μακάριοί έστε έὰν ποιῆτε αὐτά (future), or 1 C. 7. 36 εἰ δέ τις ἀσχημονεῖν ἐπὶ τὴν παρθένον αὐτοῦ νομίζει (reality), ἐὰν $\tilde{\eta}$ ὑπέρακμος (future), i.e. the indicative is used where a supposition is made with regard to something now actually existing, and the only irregularity is that this present indicative is occasionally preceded by $\epsilon \acute{a} \nu$ instead of $\epsilon \acute{i}$: 1 Jo. 5. 15 $\hat{\epsilon}\hat{a}\nu$ oĭδαμεν (the reading of \aleph^c ἴδωμεν is not good), 16 1 Th. 3. 7 ἐὰν ὑμεῖς στήκετε (-ητε κ*DE), whereas before the imperf. and aor. indic. the N.T. like classical Greek always uses $\epsilon i.^2$ (Inversely in 1 Th. 5. 10 εἴτε ... εἴτε takes the conjunctive, in a clause inserted in the middle of a final sentence, vide supra 2.) Ei with the pres. indic. is used with reference to present reality also inc G. 1. 9 (8 is different); on the other hand $\epsilon d\nu$ with pres. conj. is very rarely so used, A. 5. 38 $\hat{\epsilon}\hat{a}\nu$ $\hat{\eta}$ $\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\xi}$ $\hat{a}\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\omega\nu$ $\hat{\eta}$ $\beta o \nu \lambda \hat{\eta}$ $\alpha \tilde{\nu}\tau \eta$ $\kappa.\tau.\lambda$. followed in 39 by εί δὲ ἐκ θεοῦ ἐστιν, where we should no doubt understand the meaning to be: 'If perchance it should be-but if, as these persons maintain, it really is' etc. That in fact is very often the meaning of this ϵi : 'if really' (as is maintained), or even 'if accordingly' (as follows from what has been said): in the latter case it approximates to the meaning of ἐπεί. Εί ταῦτα ποιεῖς ('really'), φανέρωσον σεαυτόν τῷ κόσμω Jo. 7. 4. Εἰ τὸν χόρτον ... ὁ θεὸς οἵτως αμφιέννυσιν ('accordingly,' see verses 28 f.), πόσω μαλλον ύμας Mt. 6. 30. Έάν, on the other hand, when referring to an actually existing state of things, makes the supposition indefinite: 1 C. 4. 15 ἐὰν γὰρ μυρίους παιδαγωγοὺς ἔχητε ('even if you should have'), Jo. 5. 31 ἐὰν ἐγὼ μαρτυρῶ ('if perchance'; one might also treat μαρτυρῶ as an indic., vide supra) περὶ ἐμαυτοῦ, ἡ μαρτυρία μου οἰκ ἐστιν ἀληθής.¹ On the other hand, with reference to things which may or may not happen at any time, ἐάν with the pres. conj. is the regular construction, though indeed in the N.T. εἰ with the indic. is also found used in this way: Mt. 5. 29 εἰ ὁ ὀφθαλμός σου σκανδαλίζει σε, cp. 30, 18. 8 f. (but ἐὰν σκανδαλίζη Mc. 9. 43, 45, 47), L. 6. 32 εἰ ἀγαπᾶτε, but in 33 ἐὰν ἀγαθοποιῆτε (Mt. 5. 46 ἐὰν ἀγαπήσητε). Quite incorrect is Mc. 9. 42 καλόν ἐστιν σὐτῷ μᾶλλον εἰ περίκειται ... καὶ βέβληται (D is correct with περιέκειτο ... ἐβλήθη), = L. 17. 2 (περιέκειτο - ἔρ(ρ)ιπτο D). Ἐάν with the pres. conj. in other cases refers to the future: ἐὰν θέλης, δύνασαι² Mt. 8. 2 etc., ἐάν με δέη Mc. 14. 31, 1 Jo. 2. 3 ἐὰν τηρῶμεν (ψυλάξωμεν κ*), cp. 1 ἵνα μὴ ἁμάρτητε and ἐάν τις ἁμάρτη.

² This perf. conj. also occurs in Jo. 17. 19, 23, 1 C. 1. 10, 2 C. 1. 9, and is in all cases easily intelligible.

- 5. (Continuation: 4 with future, 44v with aor. conj. and fut.) The connection of ϵi with the fut indic is quite rare in the N.T., but keeps fairly well its meaning of a definite supposition: Mt. 26, 33 = Mc. 14. 20 εί (καὶ) πάντες σκανδαλισθήσονται (i.e. as you have just now said; cp. supra 4); 2 Tim. 2. 12 εἰ ἀρνησόμεθα parallel with εἰ συναπεθάνομεν ... εἰ ὑπομένομεν κ.τ.λ.; 1 P. 2. 20 twice εἰ ὑπομενεῖτε, preceded by εί ὑποφέρει τις 19: in this case ἐὰν ὑποφέρη and ἐὰν υπομείνητε might at least be thought to be equally possible. In L. 11. 8 εὶ καὶ οὐ δώσει is incorrect for ἐὰν καὶ μὴ δῷ; cp. the intermixture of fut. and aor. conj. ibid. 5 ff. The fut. is correct in 1 C. 9. 11 $\theta \epsilon \rho i \sigma o \mu \epsilon \nu$ (- $\sigma \omega \mu \epsilon \nu$ CDE al.) and 3. 14 f. $\epsilon i \mu \epsilon \nu \epsilon i \dots \epsilon i \kappa a \tau a \kappa a i j \sigma \epsilon \tau a i, of$ a definite point of future time, the day of judgment (Ap. 13. 10 v.l.). A marked Hebraism is the use of ϵi in oaths and asseverations = that not (Hebr. ΔΝ): Mc. 8. 12 εἰ δοθήσεται, H. 3. 11, 4. 3 O.T. -For ἐάν with fut. indic. there is no quite certain instance: see Mt. 18. 19 ἐὰν συμφωνήσουσιν (-ωσιν FGKM al.), a general statement: L. 19. 40 έὰν σιωπήσουσιν NAB al., σιγήσουσιν D, σιωπήσωσιν ΓΛ al., of something impending at the present moment; A. 8. 31 ἐὰν μή τις ύδηγήσει με NB*CE (ditto); Ap. 2. 22 NA (ditto, but in 5 έαν μή μετανοήσης). Cp. Herm. Mand. v. 1. 2 καν κση (as pr. man. ης), iv. 3. 7 έὰν μηκέτι προσθήσω, Vis. i. 3. 2 v.l. The bulk of the instances exhibit the aor. conj. both in general statements and in those referring to what is now impending: cp. for the latter case Mt. 21, 25 $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{a}\nu$ $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{l}\pi\omega\mu\epsilon\nu$, Jo. 16. 7 $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{a}\nu$ $\mu\dot{\eta}$ $\dot{a}\pi\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\theta\omega$... $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{a}\nu$ $\delta\dot{\epsilon}$ π opev $\theta\dot{\omega}$. It is further used (in the province of the optative, see § 66, 4) with reference to what was impending in a past state of things: ἐὰν εὖρη A. 9. 2.
- 6. Concessive sentences introduced by $\epsilon i \kappa a i$ or $\epsilon a \nu \kappa a \nu$ 'even if' call for no special remarks, especially as there is no real distinction between them and conditional sentences. $\kappa a \nu$ unites in itself the meanings of 'and 'if' (purely conditional), 'if only,' if even' (etsi, and so becoming concessive); cp. § 78, 7.1 But et is used in a special sense to express the expectation attending an action, Lat. si (forte) (classical Greek uses εί and εάν thus): it is st engthened by ἄρα or apays and becomes equivalent to the si in an indirect question, with which this et was regarded as identical, and is also extended by the addition of $\pi\omega$ s (only found after ϵi and $\mu \dot{\eta}$ in the N.T.): A. 27. 12, R. 1. 10, 11. 14, Ph. 3. 11. This & may therefore govern the conjunctive, Ph. 3. 12 διώκω εἰ καταλάβω, cp. supra 1 and (for the kindred μή, μήποτε 'whether perchance') 3, or the fut. indic. A. 8. 22 εἰ ἄρα ἀφεθήσεται. We may further note εἰ μή (class.), εἰ μή τι, ἐκτὸς εί μή 'except if,' 'except,' 'except that.' Of these εἰ μή is generally not followed by a verb; for this we have έαν μη (without a verb) in Mc. 4. 22 &B, cp. § 77, 13, G. 2. 16 (also uncommon in Attic Greek); εἰ μή τι ἄν^{1*} (ἄν om. B^a) ἐκ συμφώνου 'except perhaps by agreement' 1 C. 7. 5; $\epsilon i \mu \dot{\eta}$ is used with a verb in (1 C. 7. 17 $\epsilon i \mu \dot{\eta} = \pi \lambda \dot{\eta} \nu$, § 77, 13] ... $\pi \epsilon \rho \iota \pi \alpha \tau \epsilon i \tau \omega$, 'yet'), G. 1. 7 $\epsilon i \mu \dot{\eta} \tau \iota \nu \epsilon s \epsilon i \sigma i \nu = \pi \lambda \dot{\eta} \nu \ddot{\sigma} \tau i$ (A. 20. 23) τ. ε. 'except that,' 2 C. 13. 5 εἰ μή τι ἀδόκιμοί ἐστε 'it must then be the case that,' Mc. 6. 5, and with a conj. in L. 9. 13 εἰ μή τι πορευθέντες ἡμεῖς ἀγοράσωμεν (all uncials), 'unless perhaps we buy'2; ἐκτὸς εἰ μή takes the aor. indic. in 1 C. 15. 2, the conj. in 14. 5 έκτος εἰ μὴ διερμηνεύη (v.l. -ων D*), and stands without a verb in 1 Tim. 5. 19. In these connections therefore ϵi and $\epsilon \acute{a} \nu$ are interchanged, and the latter is generally replaced by the former; similarly in the elliptical phrase $\epsilon i \delta \epsilon \mu \dot{\eta} (\gamma \epsilon)$ 'otherwise' ϵi often stands where έάν would be used if the sentence were written in full. while ἐὰν δὲ μή does not appear at all (so Attic). Apart from these special combinations (and apart from εἴτε ... εἴτε after ἴνα, supra 2) εἰ with the conj. is not found (the reading in Ap. 11. 5 καὶ εἰ ... θελήση is quite uncertain; perhaps we should write καν from the KAIH of **).

7. Relative sentences take the conjunctive in two ways: (1) with $\mathring{a}\nu$ in the kind of hypothetical sentence such as $\mathring{o}\sigma\tau\iota s$ $\mathring{a}\nu$ $\theta \acute{e}\lambda \eta = \mathring{e}\acute{a}\nu$ $\tau\iota s$ $\theta \acute{e}\lambda \eta$, (2) without $\mathring{a}\nu$, the relative having a final sense, where this construction supplants, though not entirely, the Attic future indicative. The place of $\mathring{a}\nu$ is according to the popular manner of the time taken by $\mathring{e}\acute{a}\nu$, the MSS. of course showing very great uncertainty about the reading 4 ; the position of the particle is as in Attic immediately after the relative, unless perhaps $\delta \acute{e}$ or $\gamma \acute{a}\rho$ is interposed. The negative with the conjunctive is always $\mu \acute{\eta}$, with the indicative it is usually $o \acute{\nu}$, even in cases where $\mu \acute{\eta}$ is used in Attic, cp. § 75, 3

(similarly ϵi ov, supra 4). Now in constructions with a relative sentence, which might be replaced by hypothetical clauses, no statement is made about anything concrete and actual, but only a general statement or supposition; consequently os (or ootis, § 50, 1) av, corresponding to ear, appears to be the regular phrase. So L. 8. 18 ος γαρ αν (αν γαρ κΒLΧ) έχη, δοθήσεται αντώ, και ος αν μή έχη, και ο έχει (no longer hypothetical, the supposition having already been made in δς dv $\mu \dot{\eta}$ $\tilde{\epsilon} \chi \eta$) $d\rho \theta \dot{\eta} \sigma \epsilon \tau a \iota d\pi^{\dagger}$ $a \dot{v} \tau o \hat{v}$. But the same saving takes the form in Mt. (13. 12) and Mc. (4. 25) of δs (ὅστις) γὰρ ἔχει (αν έχη in Mc. AE2G al., αν έχει DE*F al.) ... ος οὐκ έχει (E*G al. οὐκ ἔχη). The indicative, which also appears in classical Greek, in such sentences expresses the definite assumption that such persons This assumption occasionally arises directly from the circumstances: L. 9. 50 (= Mc. 9. 40) \hat{o}_S yap ovk $\tilde{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\iota$ $\kappa\alpha\theta'$ $\tilde{\nu}\mu\hat{\omega}\nu$, $\tilde{\nu}\pi\hat{\epsilon}\rho$ $\tilde{\nu}\mu\hat{\omega}\nu$ έστιν, cp. 49.—The same relation exists between the agr. conj. and the fut. ind. as between the pres. conj. and pres. ind., and the distinction here also frequently appears to be obliterated: Mt. 18, 4 (ὅστις ταπεινώσει ἐαυτόν, whereas in 23. 12 with the same sense the future tense may be purposely used with reference to the future of the disciples), 5. 39 (the reading of $B \dot{\rho} \alpha \pi i \zeta \epsilon \iota$ is not good), 41, 10. 32 οστις δμολογήσει answering to 33 οστις δ' αν αρνήσηται (and cp. L. 12. 8). Of course the fut may also be equivalent to the pres. with $d\nu$, and the latter be equivalent to the fut. (continuous action): L. 17. 31 δς ἔσται ἐπὶ τοῦ δώματος. The fut. ind. is equally admissible after δ_s $\tilde{a}\nu$ as it is after $\epsilon \tilde{a}\nu$, but there is a lack of certain instances of this construction: Mc. 8. 35 ἀπολέσει κBCD² al. (-ση AL al.), L. 17. 33 do. NAL al. (-ση BDE al.), 12. 8 ὁμολογήσει AB*DR al., A. 7. 7 O.T. ACD, Barn. 11. 8 δ έαν έξελεύσεται κC1: while the present indic. ὅπου ἀν ὑπάγει Ap. 14. 4 only rests on the authority of AC and must certainly be rejected. The possibility of av being omitted with οστις is maintained, but in no case are all the MSS in agreement: Mt. 10. 33 (om. αν BL), Ja 2 10 οστις ... τηρήση (κBC, σει AKLP), πταίση δὲ ἐν ἐνί (NABC, σει KLP); ὅσοι without ἄν is found twice in Herm. Sim. viii. 11. 3.4

8. (Continuation).—Relative sentences with a final meaning occasionally show instances of the fut. in the N.T. as in Attic: Mc. 1. 2 = Mt. 11. 10, L. 7. 27 ἀποστέλλω τὸν ἄγγελόν μον ..., δς κατασκευάσει (O.T. Malachi 3. 1, but our LXX. has a different text), 1 C. 4. 17 (but we also say śwho shall'), but elsewhere the conj. is used, which must be explained by assimilation to sentences with ἴνα, which are elsewhere found with the same meaning. Mc. 14. 14 = L. 22. 11 ποῦ ἐστὶν τὸ κατάλυμα ὅπου φάγω (D in Mc. has φάγομαι), = ἴνα φάγω ε. Α. 21. 16 ἄγοντες παρ' ῷ ξενισθῶμεν Μνάσωνι, = πρὸς Μνάσωνα ἴνα ξω ε. απορ' αἰτῷ. On the other hand we have ἵνα in 2 C. 12. 7 ἐδόθη μοι σκόλοψ ... ἄγγελος σατανᾶ, ἵνα με κολαφίζη (Viteau p. 134 f.).—Akin to these are the relative sentences which denote a kind of consequence resulting from some particular quality or state, and which in Latin take the conjunctive like final relative sentences. In this case we have the fut. in L. 7. 4 ἄξιός ἐστιν ῷ παρέξη (mid.) τοῦτο, cp. Lat. dignus qui with conj.; on the other hand ἴνα is ased in Jo. 1. 27 ἄξιος ἴνα λύσω (equivalent to ἴκανὸς λῦσαι Mc. 1. 7 etæ: classical Greek takes the inf. after ἄξιος as well).—In οὖκ ἔχω ὃ παραθήσω L. 11. 6 the future is classical, but ὅ is not, as ὅ, τι must have been used (§ 50, 1); in ἔχειν τι ὃ προσενέγκη H. 8. 3 (cp. Clem. Cor. i. 38. 2 ἔδωκεν δι' οδ προσαναπληρωθŷ) the fut. would be used in classical Greek, cp. Phil. 2. 20 οὐδένα ἔχω ... ὅστις μεριμνήσει. Here again the infinitive would be possible, ἔχει τι προσενέγκαι, and that in the N.T. might be replaced by ἵνα, Jo. 5. 7, see § 69, 4.

9. Temporal sentences introduced by ὅτε, ὅταν (ὁπότε only in L. 6. 3 AEH al., ὅτε NBCD al.), (ἐπεί only in L. 7. 1 with v.l. ἐπειδή; elsewhere $\epsilon \pi \epsilon i$ is causal in the N.T.), δs etc. (see § 78, 3), are generally only a special class of relative sentences, and exhibit the same constructions. "O $\tau\epsilon$ is found very frequently with the agrist indicative, but according to circumstances also takes the imperfect, perfect (1 C. 13. 11 ὅτε γέγονα, but B has ἐγενόμην), present (H. 9. 17), and future. The last tense usually occurs in phrases like ἔρχεται ὥρα ὅτε προσκυνήσετε Jo. 4. 21, cp. 23, 5. 25, 28, 16. 25, L. 17. 22 (ὅτε ἐπιθυμήσετε, D τοῦ ἐπιθυμῆσαι ὑμᾶς), 2 Tim. 4. 3, which are closely related to relative phrases such as οὐδέν ἐστιν κεκαλυμμένον δ οὐκ ἀποκαλυφθήσεται (Mt. 10. 26), (and therefore in the former as in the latter instances the place of the fut. may be taken by the infin., and that again may be replaced by ίνα with conj., Jo. 16. 2 ἔρχεται ώρα ίνα $\delta\delta\xi\eta$). Hence in accordance with what was said in 8 the conj. (without αν) may also take the place of this fut.: L. 13. 35 ξως ήξει ὅτε (the time when) $\epsilon i\pi \eta \tau \epsilon$ (so AD etc.; there is a v.l. $\epsilon \omega s a \nu \epsilon i\pi \eta \tau \epsilon$, agreeing with Mt. 23. 39). Elsewhere $\delta \tau \epsilon$ does not appear with the conj.; a further instance of its use with the fut. is R. 2. 16 εν ημέρα ὅτε κρινεῖ (v.l. ἐν η ἡμ. κρινεί: Marcion apparently had neither of these readings. but with asyndeton ἀπολογουμένων. κρινεί κ.τ.λ.: this brings the passage into order, whereas in other places orav with the conj. is used in this way: Mt. 9. 15 έλεύσονται ημέραι ὅταν ἀπαρθη, cp. Mc. 2. 20, for which Luke uses the more awkward, but more correct construction (5. 35) ἐλεύσονται ἡμέραι, καὶ (§ 77, 6) ὅταν ἀπαρθ \hat{y} ..., τότε νηστεύσουσιν (καὶ om. pproxC. al.). The use of ὅταν is more justifiable in Mt. 26. 29 (Mc. 14. 25) έως της ημέρας ἐκείνης ὅταν πίνω, since the phrase is a periphrasis for Attic $\pi\rho i\nu \, a\nu$.—" $O\tau a\nu$ with the indicative denotes in the first place indefinite frequency in past time, see § 63, 7 : secondly it is used quite incorrectly in Ap. 8. 1 ὅταν ἢνοιξε AC (ὅτε »P, and so this author writes elsewhere, 6. 1, 3 etc.; in modern Greek orav is 'when' as av is 'if'); besides this it corresponds to έάν with the indic. (supra 4) in L. 13, 28 ὅταν ὄψεσθε Β*DX (-ησθε ABcorr. al., ίδητε κ), Mc. 11. 25 όταν στήκετε (cp. εάν στήκετε 1 Th. 3. 7, but there there is a reason for it [see above 4], which in the passage from St. Mark is not the case) ACD al. $(-\eta \tau \epsilon \text{ BG al.}, \sigma \tau \hat{\eta} \tau \epsilon \aleph)$; elsewhere its use is insufficiently attested (L. 11. 2 προσεύχεσθε ACH al.; Jo. 7. 27 ε χεται κΗΧ al.; the evidence for ἀκούετε Mc. 13. 7 is quite insufficient) Cp. Clem. Cor. ii. 12. 1 ὅταν ἔσται (quotation), 17. 6, Barn. 15. 5 κ.

10. (Continuation).—Temporal particles and compound expressions with the meaning 'until' ('while'), $\tilde{\epsilon}\omega s$, $\tilde{\epsilon}\omega s$ oû ($\tilde{\delta}\tau ov$), $\hat{\epsilon}\nu$ $\tilde{\psi}$, $\tilde{a}\chi\rho\iota(s)$, $\tilde{a}\chi\rho\iota s$ oû, $\mu\dot{\epsilon}\chi\rho\iota(s)$, $\mu\dot{\epsilon}\chi\rho\iota s$ oû (§ 78, 3) take the indicative in the regular way (the fut. ind. is rare, it is a v.l. in L. 13. 35 [see 9]; the present is used instead in ἔως ἔρχομαι Jo. 21. 22, 1 Tim. 4. 13 'until I come' [§ 56, 8] = ἐν ῷ ἔρχομαι Ι΄. 19. 13,1 cp. Mc. 6. 45 κΒL ἔως αὐτὸς ἀπολύει, v.l. ἀπολύση -σει, D αὐτὸς δὲ ἀπολύει ; but here it may also mean 'while'). But where they take the conjunctive, εως frequently, and $\tilde{\epsilon}\omega s$ of $(\tilde{o}\tau o v)$, $\tilde{a}\chi \rho \iota s$ $(o\tilde{v})$, $\mu \dot{\epsilon}\chi \rho \iota s$ of probably always omit the $\tilde{a}v$: Mc. 13. 30 μέχρις οδ (μ. ὅτον Β, μέχρι κ, ἕως οδ D) ταθτα πάντα γένηται, 1 C. 11. 26 ἄχρι οδ (ἄν add. κ D° al.) ἔλθη, Ε. 4. 13 μέχρι καταντήσωμεν, L. 21. 24 ἄχρι οδ (οδ om. A al.) πληρωθώσιν, L. 17. 8 εως (αν add. AK al.) φάγω, Mc. 14. 32 έως προσεύξωμαι (Ď al. -ομαι), 2 Th. 2. 7 (εως αν FG); αν is used in Mt. 5. 26 εως αν αποδώς and in all other passages (Ap. 2. 25 $d\chi\rho\iota$ of $d\nu$ $\eta\xi\omega$; the fut occurs without $d\nu$ in 17. 17, but B reads τελεσθῶσιν as in 15. 8, 20. 3, 5). We even have ἄχρι ἡς ἡμέρας γένηται L. 1. 20. The reason for this usage of the language, which may be traced back a long way (Herodotus, Thucydides and others 2), is probably to be found in the fact that these sentences have a certain affinity with final sentences; sentences with $\pi \rho i \nu$ have this same affinity, in which the omission of $d\nu$ is specially frequent in classical authors, but in the N.T. these have been considerably supplanted by clauses formed with $\tilde{\epsilon}\omega_s$ etc. $(\pi\rho i\nu)$ with the conj. appears in L. 2. 26 $\pi\rho i\nu$ $\ddot{\eta}$ [$\ddot{\eta}$ om. B] $\ddot{a}\nu$ [$\ddot{a}\nu$ om. AD al.] $\ddot{\iota}\delta\eta$, but κ^* here also has $\ddot{\epsilon}\omega$ s $\ddot{a}\nu$ $\ddot{\iota}\delta\eta$: 22. 34 $\pi\rho i\nu$ $\ddot{\eta}$ $\dot{a}\pi a\rho\nu\dot{\eta}\sigma\eta$ AF al., but $\ddot{\epsilon}\omega$ s is read by BL, εως οῦ K al., εως ότου D; with the optative A. 25. 16. see § 66, 5).

§ 66. REMAINS OF THE OPTATIVE.

1. The optative in principal sentences to denote a practicable (see § 63, 5) wish has not yet gone out of use in the N.T.³ (the negative is μή). Μὴ γένοιτο occurs in L. 20. 16 and frequently in Paul (to express strong aversion, LXX. has the same phrase, Hebr. Τζίζη). 1 Th. 5. 23 ἀγιάσαι: Philem. 20 ἐγώ σου ὀναίμην: Mc. 11. 14 μηκέτι

¹ Viteau, p. 129 f. explains the passages in Lc. and Jo. as meaning 'while I go' or 'withdraw myself,' though this explanation cannot be applied to the passage in 1 Tim. All other explanations than that given above are completely discredited by its use in Hermas Sim. v. 2. 2, ix. 10. 5, 6, 11. 1 ἐὰν δὲ μὴ ἐλθη, μενεῖς μεθ' ἡμῶν ἄδε ἔως ἔρχεται until he comes (which is a certainty, § 56, 8). One must therefore also attribute to ἐν ῷ L. 19. 13 with the same present the meaning of 'until,' = ἐs ὅ.

² Kruger, § 54, 17, 3 (dialekt. Synt. 54, 17, 5 and 9).

- μηδεὶς φάγοι. But there is a strong inclination to use the imperative instead of the optative, not only in requests, where the imperative has a legitimate place in classical Greek as weigh, but also in imprecations, where it takes the place of the classical optative: ἀνάθεμα ἔστω G. 1. 6 f., cp. 1 C. 16. 22.¹ The single instance of the pres. opt. is A. 8. 20 τὸ ἀργύριον σου είη εἰς ἀπωλείαν. The Attic phrases εἰ γάρ, εἴθε to introduce a wish (§ 63, 5) are not found; ὄφελον (vide ibid.) is used with a fut. ind. to express a practicable wish in G. 5. 12 ὄφελον καὶ ἀποκόψονται οἱ ἀναστατοῦντες ὑμᾶς, 'would that they would at once castrate themselves.'
- 3. The optative of indirect speech (in subordinate clauses), answering to the indicative or conjunctive of direct speech, cannot be expected to occur with any frequency in the N.T., on account of the decided preference which the language in general shows for direct expression. Luke alone uses the optative occasionally, and even he never has it after ore and ws, and not often in indirect questions proper (L. 22, 23) τ is $\tilde{a}\rho a \epsilon \tilde{n}_{\eta}$, 8. 9 τ is $\epsilon \tilde{n}_{\eta}$ ($\epsilon \tilde{n}_{\eta}$ om. L $\Xi \Gamma$); most of the following instances contain av and therefore answer to the potential mood of the direct question (supra 2)²: L. 1. 29 $\pi o \tau a \pi \delta s \stackrel{?}{a} \nu$ (add. D) $\epsilon i \eta$, 62 $\tau i \stackrel{?}{a} \nu \theta \epsilon \lambda o \iota$ καλείσθαι, 6. 11, 8. 9 τίς εἴη, LΞΓ without εἴη, 9. 46, 15. 26 (ἄν. om. κΑΓ al.; D τί θέλει τοῦτο είναι), 18. 32 (ἀν om. κΑΒΡ al.), 22. 23 τίς (ἀρα) ein all uncials (only cursives have ἐστίν or ην), Acts (2. 12 τί θέλει τοῦτο εἶναι a direct question; Ε ἄν θέλοι, \aleph θέλοι, readings which in an indirect question are inadmissible after λέγοντες), 5. 24 τί αν γένοιτο τοῦτο, 10. 17. Besides this the optative of indirect speech is found sporadically after ϵi 'whether' (§ 65, 1 and 6) in A. 17. 27 $\xi \eta \tau \epsilon \hat{\imath} \nu \tau \delta \nu$ θεόν, εί ἄραγε ψηλαφήσειαν αὐτὸν καὶ ευροιεν, cp. 27 12, 39, and after μήποτε 'whether perhaps' in L. 3. 15 μήποτε είη infra 4, and lastly in a dependent statement of time in indirect speech, A. 25. 16 vide infra 5.
- 4. While no example of the optative is found in final sentences (on E. 1. 17 see § 65, 2, note 1: 3, note 1), there are some few instances of it in hypothetical sentences. A. 24. 19 οὖς ἔδει ... κατηγορεῖν, εἴ τι ἔχοιεν προς ἐμέ, which would certainly be more correctly expressed by εἴ τι ἔχουσι οτ ἐάν τι ἔχωσι: 20. 16 ἔσπευδεν γάρ, εἰ δυνατὸν εἴη αὐτῷ, ... γενέσθαι εἰς Ἰερουσαλήμ (indirect; besides εἰ may very naturally be understood as meaning 'whether,' cp. 27. 12, 39, supra 3): 1 $\dot{\Gamma}$. 3. 14 εἰ καὶ πάσχοιτε διὰ δικαιοσύνην, μακάριοι, 17 κρεῖττον ἀγαθοποιοῦντας, εἰ θέλοι τὸ θέλημα τοῦ θεοῦ, πάσχειν ἡ κακοποιοῦντας, 'if perchance' as in Attic (literary language). Besides these we have the formula εἰ τύχοι in St. Paul, 1 $\dot{\Gamma}$. 14. 10, 15. 37.

5. In (relative and) temporal sentences there is no further instance besides A. 25. 16 (Festus's words): $\mathring{a}\pi\epsilon\kappa\rho(\theta\eta\nu)$ $\mathring{o}\tau\iota$ $\mathring{o}\mathring{v}\kappa$ $\mathring{e}\sigma\tau\iota\nu$ $\mathring{e}\theta\circ$ s $\chi a\rho(\mathring{\xi}\epsilon\sigma\theta a\iota\ldots, \pi\rho)\nu$ $\mathring{\eta}$ \mathring{o} $\kappa a\tau\eta\gamma o\rhoo\acute{\nu}\mu\epsilon\nu os$ $\mathring{\epsilon}\chi o\iota\ldots\lambda \mathring{a}\beta o\iota$ $\tau\epsilon$, where the opt. is rightly used in indirect speech for the conj. of direct speech.

§ 67. IMPERATIVE.

- 1. The imperative in the N.T. keeps for the most part within the same limits as in the classical language; as in that language it by no means expresses simply a command, but also a request or a concession (Mc. 8. 32 ὑπάγετε, 2 C. 12. 6 ἔστω δέ). In the last case the imperative sentence may be equivalent to a concessive sentence: Jo. 2. 19 λύσατε τὸν ναὸν τοῦτον, καὶ ἐν τρισὶν ἡμέραις ἐγερῶ αὐτόν, = ἐὰν καὶ λύσητε; cp. in classical Greek Soph. Ant. 1168 ff. πλούτει τε γὰρ κατ οἶκον ... ἐὰν δ΄ ἀπŷ τούτων τὸ χαίρειν, τἄλλ' ἐγὼ καπνοῦ σκιᾶς οὐκ ἄν πριαίμην (Kühner-Gerth ii.³ 236). On the encroachment of the imperative into the province of the optative see § 66, 1.
- 2. The imperative is frequently replaced by the conjunctive, see \S 64, 2, by $\text{$\tilde{\nu}$}$ or $\theta \in \lambda \omega$ $\text{$\tilde{\nu}$}$ with conj., ibid. 4, or by the fut. indic., ibid. 3; cp. Viteau p. 37. On the substitution of the infinitive for it see \S 69, 1.

1. The infinitive is another of those forms which the language at a later period gave up, in favour of a periphrasis with wa (mod. Greek vá) and the conjunctive, a construction which has already been largely developed in the N.T. But the infinitive is still abundantly used beside it by all writers, so that it depends on the discretion of the writer on each separate occasion whether he employs the synthetic or the analytical expression, though the latter is not in all cases open to use. The beginnings of this development may be traced not only in the earlier Hellenistic Greek, but also previously to that in classical Greek, the only difference being that in the classical language the particle used in the periphrasis is not "va but όπως, e.g. πειρασθαι όπως σωζώμεθα (Xenoph.) = πειρασθαι σώζεσθαι, whereas later ὅπως retired more into the background (§ 65, 2) and finally disappeared. Cp. also the use of ut in Latin which is so frequently interchangeable with the infinitive. ^a v. App. p. 321.

- 2. From early times there existed in Greek a second analytical expression for the infinitive, namely 871 (ws) with the indicative. with which cp. the Latin use of quod or quia (late Latin says dico vobis quia unus vestrum me traditurus est). The line of demarcation between the old $\delta \tau \iota$, which of course reappears in the N.T., and the new $\delta \iota \iota$ is that the former has an indicative sense, the latter a conjunctive (or imperative) sense, while the infinitive is the ὄνομα ῥήματος (as Apollonius calls it) with a neutral meaning between the two others. To express actual facts, therefore, particularly those which belong to past time, on alone can correctly be used in the periphrasis; on the other hand things which may be regarded as a contemplated result or one likely to occur, are expressed to a wide extent by "va. The intervening province, viz. that which still belongs exclusively to the infinitive, is not a large one in the N.T.: under this head, for instance, comes the rule that δύνασθαι and μέλλειν are joined exclusively with the infinitive.
- 3. As the ὄνομα ῥήματος the infinitive is capable of taking the neuter of the article, and this may be declined, and the cases of the infinitive so formed may be dependent on different prepositions. In this way the sphere of the infinitive has been very largely extended, so that it can also represent temporal and causal sentences. The N.T. retains this usage, and in particular employs the genitive with τοῦ in the most lavish way.

1. The use of the infinitive in a principal sentence in place of a finite verb, with imperative sense and with the subject in the nominative¹, is extremely old and found with special frequency in Homer, while in Attic it becomes less prominent. On the other hand the later classical language (especially in legal phraseology) uses the accusative and infinitive in this sense, or the simple infinitive with no subject expressed ($\lambda \acute{\epsilon} \gamma \epsilon \iota \nu$ 'one must say '= $\lambda \epsilon \kappa \tau \acute{\epsilon} o \nu$), in which case the ideas accessory to the subject appear in the accusative.² At the same time Attic uses $6\pi\omega_s$ with the fut. indic. with imperative In the N.T. we find in a few passages "va with the conj. used in a similar way, see § 64, 4: and the infinitive which is equivalent to it twice in St. Paul, R. 12. 15 χαίρειν μετὰ χαιρόντων, κλαίειν μετὰ κλαιόντων, Ph. 3. 16 πλην είς δ έφθάσαμεν, τῷ αὐτῷ στοιχε $\hat{\iota}\nu$. Where the subject has to be expressed Paul uses $\hat{\iota}\nu\alpha:\hat{\eta}$ δ $\hat{\epsilon}$ γυνη ἴνα φοβηται τὸν ἄνδρα Ε. 5. 33. It is very easy here to supply a governing verb (a verbum dicendi or $\chi \rho \dot{\eta}$, $\delta \epsilon \hat{\imath}$), as it is with the (accusative and) infinitive; the infinitive χαίρειν to express a wish in epistolary style is clearly elliptical, A. 15. 23, 23. 26.

- 2. Of equal antiquity with the last usage is the use of the infinitive to express aim or object, which in Homer has a much wider range than in Attic writers, who for the most part only employ it after verbs containing the idea of to give, appoint, present, send etc. This infinitive, which is equivalent to a final sentence, has again become widely prevalent in the N.T.: Mt. 5. 17 οὐκ ἦλθον καταλῦσαι, άλλὰ πληρωσαί; 4. Ι ὁ Ἰησοῦς ἀνήχθη εἰς τὴν ἔρημον ὑπὸ τοῦ πνεύματος, πειρασθηνα ύπο του διαβόλου; L. 18. 10 ανέβησαν προσεύξασθαι; Α. 10. 33 πάρεσμεν ακούσαι. (Attic would here use the future participle which in the N.T. is almost unused, § 61, 4.) Of course this infinitive is also found with διδόναι, ἀποστέλλειν etc. as in Attic: Mc. 3. 14 αποστέλλη κηρύσσειν (Α. 5. 21 απέστειλαν $\dot{a}_{\chi}\theta\hat{\eta}\nu a\iota \ a\dot{v}\tau o\dot{v}s$ is different, the construction being passive, and the acc. and inf. being therefore used; cp. inf. 8), Mt. 25. 35 ἐδώκατέ μοι φαγείν. Beside the inf. ίνα also appears again: Mt. 27. 26 παρέδωκεν $\ddot{\nu}$ α σταυρωθ $\hat{\eta}$ (= Mc. 15. 15, Jo. 19. 16), though in the case of a specially close connection of the two verbs in certain definite phrases the infinitive does not admit of being replaced by $\tilde{i}va$: thus $\pi \alpha \rho \alpha$ διδόναι φυλάσσειν Α. 12. 4, 16. 4, διδόναι (αιτείν) φαγείν, πιείν passim, while on the other hand where the connection is not so close and the subordinate clause is of greater length, iva is the natural construction: though here the infin. may also be used, as in A. 20. 28 ύμας τὸ πνεθμα τὸ ἄγιον ἔθετο ἐπισκόπους, ποιμαίνειν τὴν ἐκκλησίαν $\kappa.\tau.\lambda.$, 1. 24 f. $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\xi}\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\xi}\dot{\omega}$... $\lambda\alpha\beta\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\iota}\nu$ $\kappa.\tau.\lambda$. Moreover with regard to the use of "va there is here and in all cases where the infinitive is in question a distinction between the different writers: John, Matthew, and Mark employ it very freely, Luke much more rarely, especially in the Acts, a work which has very few instances of the employment of this particle in an unclassical way; also in James, Peter, and the Epistle to the Hebrews it only appears as a strictly final particle. A third construction with $\pi \alpha \rho \alpha \delta \iota \delta \delta i \alpha \iota$ etc. is $\epsilon i s \tau \delta$ with the infinitive, see § 71, 5; the participle, which is also so used in the N.T., offers another alternative construction, § 74, 2, and aim or object of any kind is very frequently denoted by means of του with the infinitive, § 71, 3.
- 3. Akin to the infinitive of aim is the infinitive of result, yet so far distinguished from it, that if the result is declared to be actual, $\tilde{\iota}\nu\alpha$ according to what has been said has, or at least should have, no place (vide infra). The particle used to introduce this infinitive is $\tilde{\omega}\sigma\tau\epsilon$ as in classical Greek; the alternative use of the simple $\tilde{\omega}s$ is no more certainly established for the N.T. than it is for ordinary Attic.\(^1\Omega\sigma\tau\epsilon\) is also used in the N.T. (as in classical Greek) to introduce independent sentences, when it takes the indicative, imperative, or hortatory conjunctive (meaning 'therefore'). But where the sentence is really dependent, the indicative, which is possible according to classical usage, is not good N.T. Greek, since even in G. 2. 13 there is at any rate a v.l. with the inf., while in Jo. b. 16 the correct reading in place of $\omega\sigma\tau\epsilon$ is $\sigma\tau\iota$, which is doubly attested by Chrys. (in many passages) and Nonnus, § 78, 6. The infinitive, therefore, is used (class.), the subject being usually added in the accusative, unless it can be obviously supplied from what has preceded (cp. § 72). Consequently the construction with the infinitive has a wider range than in Attic; in a sentence sike A. 15, 37 ἐγένετο παροξυσμός, ώστε ἀποχωρισθηναι αὐτοὺς ἀπ' ἀλλήλων, an Attic writer would rather have used the indicative, both because there was no close connection between the clauses and also on account of the importance attaching to the result. But ωστε is by no means used (either in the N.T. or in Attic) to introduce merely the actual or the possible result, but may also introduce the contemplated result, and so the boundary-line which separates these sentences from sentences of design almost disappears. In L. 20. 20 ἵνα ἐπιλάβωνται αὐτοῦ λόγου, ὥστε παραδοῦναι αὐτὸν τη ἀρχη τοῦ ἡγεμόνος means 'so that they might be able'='in order that they might be able,' and the v.l. είς τὸ for ιστε (AΓ al., cp. supra 2) is quite in accordance with the sense. Cp. further L. 4. 29 ωστε ('in order to,' v.l. είς τὸ AC al.) κατακρημνίσαι αὐτόν, 9. 52 ώστε ('in order to'; κΒ ώς, see note 1 on p. 223) έτοιμάσαι αὐτῶ, Mt. 27. 1 συμβούλιον ἔλαβον ὥστε θανατῶσαι αὐτόν (D correctly explaining the meaning gives ίνα θανατώσουσιν αὐτ.).2—The inf. without ωστε (also with its subject in the accusative) is used in a similar way to express result: A. 5. 3 διὰ τί ἐπλήρωσεν ὁ σατανᾶς τὴν καρδίαν σου, ψεύσασθαί σε κ.τ.λ., Αρ 5. 5 ενίκησεν δ λέων ... ἀνοίξαι (Β ὁ ἀνοίγων) κ.τ.λ., 16. 9 οὐ μετενόησαν δοῦναι αὐτῷ δόξαν, Η. 6. 10 οὐ γὰρ ἄδικος ὁ θεός, (sc. ώστε) ἐπιλαθέσθαι. The inf. is still more freely used in L. 1. 54 (the Magnificat, probably more correctly attributed [Harnack] to Elisabeth than to Mary) ἀντελάβετο Ἰσραήλ παιδὸς αὐτοῦ, μνησθηναι ἐλέους κ.τ.λ., and in 72 (the Benedictus) ποιήσαι $\tilde{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon$ os $\kappa.\tau.\lambda$. (the clauses are joined together quite incoherently: this clause is parallel with the accusative of a noun in the preceding verse 7 ι σωτηρίαν έξ έχθρων κ.τ.λ.); cp. 78 f. (inf. after $\epsilon \pi \epsilon \sigma \kappa \epsilon \psi \alpha \tau \sigma$).— Then again this infinitive of result may be replaced (as elsewhere in late writers 3) by "va instead of the classical ωστε: 1 Jo. 1. 9 πιστός έστιν καὶ δίκαιος, ἵνα ἀφη τὰς ἁμαρτίας (cp. supra H. 6. 10), Ap. 9. 20 (cp. supra 16. 9) οὐδὲ μετενόησαν, ἵνα μὴ προσκυνήσουσιν, 13. 13 ποιεί σημεία μεγάλα, ΐνα καὶ πῦρ ποιῆ καταβαίνειν (cp. a similar phrase with ωστε in Mt. 24. 24), (Jo. 9. 2 τίς ημαρτεν ..., <math>ινα τυφλὸς γεννηθη, 'so that: 'a better reading, however, is ὅτι ... ἐγεννήθη, § 78, 6), L. 9. 45

^{1&}quot;Ωστε (έφ' $\mathring{\psi}$ τε) 'on condition that 'does not appear in the N.T. (for which ἵνα is used in G. 2. 9): nor yet ὥστε after a comparative with ή (νεώτερος ἡ ὥστε εἰδέναι), Burton p. 150. On ἵνα in Mc. 4. 22 see § 65, 9 note.

² Here belongs also A. 20. 24, see note l on last page, 'in order to fulfil,' if "ωστε $τελει\^ωσαι$ is the correct reading. Cp. for "ωστε in Josephus W. Schmidt de Fl. Jos. elocut. (1893) p. 418 ff.

ην παρακεκαλυμμένον ἀπ' αὐτῶν, ἴνα μὴ αἴσθωνται αὐτό, 2 C. 1. 17, 1 Th. 5. 4: Herm. Yim. vii. 2, ix. 1. 10. Cp. Arrian Diss. Epiet. ii. 2. 16 οὕτω μωρὸς ἦν, ἴνα μὴ ἴδη. In these instances the correct limits for the use of ἵνα are already exceeded; cp. Lat. ut. (In other passages one can quite well regard ἵνα as final, e.g. in the phrase ἕνα πληρωθη̂ 'in order to carry out God's determinate counsel.')—The so-called infinitive absolute after ὡς, which is fairly frequent in Attic, only appears in ὡς ἔπος εἶπεῖν 'so to say' H. 7. 9 (literary language).

4. With the infinitive of design or result are included the wellknown constructions of the infinitive with verbs meaning to wish, strive, avoid, ask, summon, make, leave, allow, hinder, be able, have power etc., with which in classical Greek ιστε is often prefixed to An alternative Attic construction with a certain the infinitive. number of these verbs is that with $6\pi\omega_s$, though it is by no means used to the same extent in which Latin ut is used after verbs of this kind; at a later time "va stepped into the place of " $\pi \omega s$ and obtained a more and more extended use, so that in the N.T. with a great number of these verbs "va begins to be interchangeable with the inf., and even (especially in writers other than Luke, Paul, and the author of Hebrews) to supplant it. The subject of the inf. is often either necessarily (as with $\delta i \nu a \mu a \iota$) or in most cases (as with $\theta \epsilon \lambda \omega$) identical with that of the principal verb, elsewhere it coincides with the object of the principal verb ($\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\omega}$) or with the dative which follows it $(\pi\rho\sigma\sigma\tau\dot{\alpha}\sigma\sigma\omega)$; if it requires to be expressly stated, it stands in the accusative. Θέλω usually takes the (acc. and) inf.: "να in Mt. 7. 12. 1 C. 14. 5 (θέλω ύμας λαλείν ..., μαλλον δὲ ἵνα προφητεύητε) and elsewhere.—Βούλομαι (as a word belonging to cultured speech) only takes the (acc. and) inf., so τολμῶ takes inf. (ἀρνοῦμαι Η. 11. 24; also δοκῶ in μη δόξητε λέγειν Mt. 3. o 'do not let it occur to you to say': see also 1 C. 11. 16: εδοξέ μοι in Luke e.g. I. 1. 3).—Βουλεύομαι inf. and ίνα, Jo. 11. 53 (v.l. συνεβουλ.), 12. 10 (in class. Greek inf. and ὅπως); similarly συμβουλεύομαι ίνα Mt. 26. 4: συμβουλεύειν τινί 'to advise, with inf. Ap. 3. 18.— Όρίζω inf. A. 11. 29.— Συντίθεμαι inf. and ενα, Jo. 9. 22; προτίθεμαι inf. R. 1. 13.— Έπιθυμῶ, ἐπιποθῶ only take the inf. (or acc. and inf. H. 6. 11); but we have η /αλλιάσατο "ίνα ίδη Jo. 8. 56, where the meaning can only be 'to long with ecstasy,' 'to rejoice that he should see, cp. the use of $\tau \circ \hat{v}$ and the inf. (§ 71, 3) in Herm. Vis. iii. 8. 7 περιχαρής έγενόμην τοῦ ίδειν, 10. 6. Ζητῶ (ἐπιζητ.) takes inf.: "va in 1 C. 4. 2, 14. 12.—Znha ('to strive zealously') takes ίνα in 1 C. 14. 1.—Σπουδάζω only the (acc. and) inf. (σπεύδω acc. and inf. in Herm. Sim. ix. 3. 2; ήγωνίζοντο ΐνα Jo. 18. 36, φιλοτιμείσθαι takes inf. in Paul).—Πειράζω 'to try' takes inf. (the Attic πειρωμαι also takes ὅπως¹).—'Επιχειρω (only in Lc.) also takes inf.: and so ασκῶ, only in A. 24. 16.—Βλέπετε ίνα ('see to it that': Att. ὁρᾶτε όπως) occurs in 1 C. 16. 10.—Αἰσχύνομαι (ἐπαισχ.), φοβοῦμαι 'to be ashamed' or 'afraid to do something,' only the inf. (L. 16. 3 etc.); so οκνω A. 9. 38.—Φυλάσσομαι ίνα μη 2. P. 3. 17 (Attic has μή and ὅπως μή).—Δέομαι 'to request' takes ἴνα in L. 9. 40/ 21. 36, 22. 32, ὅπως in Mt. 9. 38, L. 10. 2, A. 8. 24, elsewhere the inf. (Attic uses inf. and ὅπωs).—'Ερωτῶ ἴνα ('request') occurs in Mc. 7. 26 etc., ὅπωs in L. 7. 3, 11. 37, A. 23. 20, elsewhere it takes inf. (and acc. of the object of έρ.); so ἐπερωτῶ Mt. 16. 1.—Παρακαλῶ 'to be seech,' 'exhort' similarly takes wa in Mt. 14. 36 etc., ὅπως in Mt. 8. 34 (Β "va), A. 25. 2 (cp. Att. παρακελεύομαι with inf. and "πως).--Altouman takes (acc. and) inf. L. 23. 23, A. 3. 14, 7. 46, 13, 28, Jo. 4. 9, E. 3. 13: "iνα Col. 1. 9 (καὶ αἰτούμενοι om. B); in classical Greek it also takes ὅπως.—Προσεύχομαι ἵνα Mc. 14. 35 etc. (ὅπως A. 8. 15, inf. L. 22. 40; cp. τοῦ with inf. Ja. 5. 17); εὔχομαι (a more literary word) takes (acc. and) inf. A. 26. 29 etc.—'Aξιω 'to ask' (Luke, literary language) only takes (acc. and) inf. A. 15. 38, 28. 22 (in class. Greek also ὅπως; τνα in a forged document in Demosth. 18. 155); in the sense of 'to count worthy' it also takes the inf. (cp. αξιος, infra 5) L. 7. 7; καταξιῶ A. 5. 41.—Παραινῶ acc. of the object and inf. (only in A. 27, 22, a literary word).—Κελεύω only takes the (acc. and) inf. (being used only by Mt. and Lc.); similarly rácow A. 15. 2, διατάσσω (-σομαι mid.), προστάσσω (rare), ἐπιτάσσω (rare); ἀναμιμνήσκω 2 Tim. 1. 6, ἀπειλοθμαι mid. A. 4. 17, νεύω A. 24. 10; παραγγέλλω also takes ΐνα Mc. 6. 8 (ἀπαγγέλλω ΐνα Mt. 28. 10); so διαμαρτύρομαι ΐνα 1 Tim. 5. 21; ἐντέλλομαι ἵνα Mc. 13. 34; κηρύσσω ίνα Mc. 6. 12; διαστέλλομαι ίνα Mt. 16. 20 (v.l. ἐπετίμησεν), Mc. 7. 36 etc.; ἐπιτιμῶ ἴνα Mt. 20. 31 (with the two last verbs there is no instance of the inf.; in class. Greek verbs of this class except κελεύω show a decided tendency to take ὅπως).—Χρηματίζομαι pass. 'receive a divine command' takes the inf. Mt. 2. 12, A. 10. 22 (in L. 2. 26 the inf. expresses an assertion).—'Εξορκίζω ίνα occurs in Mt. 26. 63 (δρκίζω or ένορκ, with acc. and inf. in 1 Th. 5. 27).—Λέγω frequently takes "va, as well as the (acc. and) inf. when it expresses a command (ἴνα is used in this way in Ap. 14. 13); similarly γράφω, e.g. γέγραπται ίνα Mc. 9. 12 (12. 19), and ἀποστέλλω ίνα Å. 16. 36, cp. supra 2.—Πείθω ίνα Mt. 27. 20, elsewhere it takes acc. of the object and inf.—Ποιῶ ἴνα is used in Jo. 11. 37, Col. 4. 16, Ap. 3. 9 ποιήσω αὐτοὺς ἴνα ήξουσιν, cp. 13. 12, 15 f. (in 15 ἴνα is wanting in *B); ἴνα has more of a final sense in Mc. 3. 14, cp. ἔθηκα ἴνα Jo. 15. 16 (ποιῶ Tura with inf. occurs in L. 5. 34 etc.; classical Greek has also occasionally ποιείν ὅπως 'to cause that'); ποιείν with acc. and inf. occurs in Mc. 1. 17 (Mt. 4. 19 double acc.), L. 5. 34 etc.; διδόναι (a Hebrew usage) is similarly used in A. 10. 40, 14. 3, 2. 27 O.T.—'Αγγαρεύω ἵνα Mt. 27. 32 (no instance of the inf.; οστις σε άγγαρεύσει [D -ρεύει] μίλιον εν Mt. 5. 41).—'Εω τινα only takes inf.; the commoner ἀφίημι 'let' also takes ἴνα, Mc. 11. 16; καταλείπω τινά takes the inf. L. 10. 40 (not so much an inf. of aim as of result, cp. Hom. Il. P. 151.— Ἐπιτρέπω τινί only takes the inf.; similarly κωλύω τινά (with this the verb Attic $\mu \ddot{\eta}$ is not annexed to the simple inf., \S 71, 3; 75, 4).—'To be able, 'to understand' etc. only take the inf.: δύναμαι (δυνατώ Paul), ισχύω (κατισχύω L. 21. 36 κΒ al., v.l. καταξιωθήτε; έξισχ. Ε. 3. 18), έχω Mt. 18. 25 (in the N.T. it also has the meaning 'to have to,' 'be obliged to, L. 12. 50 βάπτισμα έχω βαπτισθηναι, cp. Clem. Hom. i. 17, xii. 8), οίδα Μζ. 7. 11 etc., γινώσκω 'Mt.' 16. 3; further μανθάνω 1 Tim. 5. 4 etc., παβεύομαι pass. 1. 20; προμελετῶ L. 21. 14, διδάσκω 11. Ι (παραλαμβάνω Mc. 7. 4), δεικνύω A. 10. 28, ὑποδεικνύω Mt. 3. 7. -The inf. is likewise used with ὀφείλω, μέλλω, είωθα, φιλῶ Mt. 6. 5 (23. 6 f.), apyonal (never with the participle in N.T., cp. § 73, 4)1, προστίθεμαι (a Hebraism, יוֹסִים with \$ and inf.) 'continue to do,' 'repeat' L. 20. 11, A. 12. 3 (LXX. also uses the active), κινδυνεύω A. 19. 27, 40, προσποιοῦμαι L. 24. 28, ἐπιλανθάνομαι 'forget to do' Mt. 16. 5 = Mc. 8. 14 (also in Attic), and its opposite προσέχειν (not so used in Att.) Mt. 6. 1 (with "va Barn. 16. 8). The construction with the inf. is very widely extended in individual instances, and used with far greater freedom than in Attic. Thus we have διαβλέψεις ἐκβαλείν Mt. 7. 5, L. 6. 42; δοκιμάζω 'approve,' οὐ δοκ. 'disdain' 1 Th. 2. 4, R. 1. 28 (in Att. with inf. of opinion), εὐδοκῶ Col. 1. 19 with (acc. and) inf. (Polyb. i. 8. 4), overed. with inf. 1 C. 7. 12 (acc. and inf. in Herm. Sim. v. 2. 11, "va ibid. 8). H. 11. 5 ούχ εαυτον εδόξασεν γενηθηναι άρχιερεα, like άξιουν. Α. 25. 21 τοῦ Παύλου ἐπικαλεσαμένου τηρηθήναι αὐτόν, like verbs of asking (the β text reads differently). Α. 15. 14 ἐπεσκέψατο λαβεῖν, cp. \dot{L} . 1. 25 ἐπεῖδεν ἀφελεῖν. Α. 14. 15 εὐαγγελιζόμενοι ὑμᾶς ἐπιστρέφειν (\dot{D} is different, using ὅπως), 17. 21 είς οὐδὲν ἔτερον ηὐκαίρουν ἢ λέγειν τι ... καινότερον (there is no need to supply είς τὸ before the inf., since εὐκαιρεῖν takes the inf. in Lucian Amor. 33). R. 1. 10 εὐοδωθήσομαι $\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\theta\epsilon\hat{\imath}\nu$, like δύναμαι. 1 Th. 2. 2 (E. 6. 20) παρρησιάζομαι (like τολμῶ). Με. 5. 32 περιεβλέπετο ἰδεῖν, 14. 8 προέλαβεν μυρίσαι (cp. the Attic use of $\phi\theta$ άνω with partic. or inf., προφθάση βαλεῖν Clem. Cor. ii. 8. 2). Α. 16. 10 προσκέκληται ήμας εὐαγγελίσασθαι αὐτούς. Η. 11. 8 ὑπήκουσεν έξελθεῖν. Τίτ. 3. 8 φροντίζωσιν προΐστασθαι. L. 12. 45 χρονίζει ἔρχεσθαι. We have the same construction with longer phrases: τιθέναι (τίθεσθαι) έν τῆ καρδία (τῷ πνεύματι) 'to resolve, 'to think of' (a Hebraism) L. 21. 14, A. 19. 21, η διήνοιξεν τὴν καρδίαν (a Hebraism) προσέχειν A. 16. 14 (cp. the same phrase with του and inf. in L. 24. 45); the following take ἴνα, βουλή ἐγένετο A. 27. 42, θέλημά ἐστιν Mt. 15. 14 etc.: ἐγένετο δρμή A. 14. 5 takes the inf.; cp. L. 2. 1, Jo. 13. 2, 34, A. 17. 15, E. 3. 8 etc.

5. A similar relation between the infinitive and ἴνα exists in the case of a series of impersonal expressions, whether they consist of a simple verb or combinations of ἐστίν with an adj., such as δεῖ, συμφέρει, ἔξεστι, ἐγένετο, δυνατόν ἐστιν, ἀρεστόν ἐστιν: also in the case of combinations of ἐστίν with a substantive such as ωρα ἐστίν, καιρός ἐστιν, and in the case of adjectives like δυνατός ἄξιος ἱκανός ἔτοιμος used as predicates (with ἐστί) or as attributes. The infinitive might here be said to express the direction or goal. Equivalent to these are combinations like ἐξουσίαν ἔχω, χρείαν ἔχω etc. In Attic ὅπως is excluded with expressions of this kind, ὥστε is not entirely excluded (ἔστιν ὥστε 'it is possible that' Sophocles); in the N.T. ἵνα may be used in all cases, except where a fact is stated to have taken place, as in the common phrase eyévero (cp. § 72, 5) and its classical equivalent συνέβη (only in A. 21. 35), or where the close connection of the word with the inf. has become quite established, as with $\delta \epsilon \hat{\iota}^1$ and έξεστι (with the latter cp. έλευθέρα έστιν γαμηθήναι 1 C. 7. 39). Συμφέρει ίνα occurs in Mt. 5. 29 f., 18. 6 etc., besides (acc. and) inf. 'Αρκετον (sc. έστιν) ϊνα γένηται Mt. 10. 25 (differing from άρκουσιν ϊνα Jo. 6. 7, where the result is stated, = $\omega \sigma \tau \epsilon$); on the other hand the inf. is used in 1 P. 4. 3 αρκετός έστιν ὁ παρεληλυθώς χρόνος ... κατειρ-Δυνατόν έστι (A. 2. 24 with acc. and inf.) and δυνατός έστι (somewhat more frequent) only take the inf. like δύναμαι. Οὐκ εἰμὶ iκανδς ίνα is used in Mt. 8. 8, elsewhere the inf.2; οὐκ εἰμὶ ἄξιος ἵνα Jo. 1. 27 (often with inf.; with $\tau \circ \hat{v}$ and inf. 1 C. 16. 4, see § 71, 3; with a relative sentence L. 7. 4, § 65, 8). Συνήθειά ἐστιν ἵνα Jo. 18. 39; ἔρχεται (ή) ἄρα ἴνα Jo. 12. 23, 13. 1, 16. 2, 32 (acc. and inf. as in Attic in R. 13. 11; (δ) καιρὸς [sc. ἐστι] τοῦ ἄρξασθαι τὸ κρίμα 1 P. 4. 17; cp. § 71, 3³; elsewhere these words take ὅτε οτ ἐν ŷ, έσται κ. ὅτε ... ἀνέξονται 2 Tim. 4. 3, ἔρχεται ὅρα ἐν ŷ ... ἀκούσουσιν Jo. 5. 25, where the prediction is more definite, whereas "va or the inf. states the tendency or drift of the impending event). Χρείαν ἔχω ἴνα Jo. 2. 25, 16. 30, 1 Jo. 2. 27; elsewhere it takes inf., Mt. 3. 14 etc., Jo. 13. 10 (with $\nu i \psi \alpha \sigma \theta a i$, the two verbs having the same subject, while in the "να passages a new subject is introduced 4). Έξουσίαν «χω takes inf. H. 13. 10, Ap. 11. 6; ἐδόθη ἐξουσία inf. ibid. 13. 5 (with ωστε Mt. 10. I, vide sup. 3); δότε την έξουσίαν ταύτην ίνα Λ. 8. With ίνα must also be quoted 1 C. 4. 3 έμοὶ εἰς ελάχιστόν έστιν With ἐμὸν βρῶμά ἐστιν ἵνα Jo. 4. 34 cp. the passages quoted below in 6. "Ανθρωπον οὐκ ἔχω ἵνα βάλη με Jo. 5. 7, instead of δς βαλεί or the Attic τον βαλοῦντα, cp. § 65, 8.—Again τνα is used after a comparative with $\ddot{\eta}$: L. 17. \dot{z} λυσιτελεί αιτ $\dot{\varphi}$ εί περίκειται ... $\dot{\eta}$ ίνα σκανδαλίση, 1 С. 9. 15 καλόν μοι μαλλον αποθανείν, ή το καύχημά μου ίνα τις κενώσει (BD* have the bad reading οὐδεὶς for ἴνα τις).—The infinitive is freely used in some special phrases such as in G. 5. 3 όφειλέτης έστιν (= όφείλει) ποιήσαι, Η. 4. Ι καταλειπομένης έπαγγελίας ϵ ίσελ θ είν (cp. ἀπολείπεται, ἀπόκειται with inf. in 4. 6, 9. 27): a classical use is 5. 11 λόγος δυστρμήνευτος λέγειν (like λευκὸς ἰδείν etc.; elsewhere not used in N.T.); another very classical use occurs in H. 9. 5 οὐκ έστιν νῦν λέγειν (Viteau p. 251). A peculiar use of the inf. is δ έχων ѽτα ἀκούειν ἀκουέτω Mc. 4. 9, L. 14. 35 and elsewhere (to hear, δυνάμενα ἀκούειν), cp. ὧτα τοῦ μὴ ἀκούειν R. 11. 8 such ears that they cannot hear, § 71, 3.

- 6. Closely related to some of the expressions quoted under 4 and 5 is the explanatory (accusative and) infinitive, preceded by a demonstrative; the demonstrative may also be omitted without rendering the construction with the infinitive thereby impossible. "Iva may here also take the place of the infinitive. Ja. 1. 27 θρησκεία καθαρά ... αι τη ἐστίν, ἐπισκέπτεσθαι ὀρφανούς, Α. 15. 28 μηδεν πλέον ύμιν έπιτίθεσθαι βάρος πλην τούτων των έπάναγκες, ἀπέχεσθαι κ.τ.λ., 1 Th. 4. 3 τοῦτο γέρ ἐστιν τὸ θέλημα τοῦ θεοῦ, ὁ ἀγιασμὸς ὑμῶν, ἀπέχεσθαι ὑμᾶς κ.τ.λ., Ε. 3. 8 (cp. without a demonstr. and with ἴνα 1 C. 16. 12). With ίνα: L. 1. 43 καὶ πόθεν μοι τοῦτο, ίνα ἔλθη ἡ μήτηρ τοῦ κυρίου μου προς έμέ (here somewhat irregular, as the clause introduced by ίνα is already a fact), Jo. 15. 8 ἐν τούτω ἐδοξάσθη δ πατήρ μου, ίνα καρπὸν πολὺν φέρητε, = ἐν τῷ φέρειν ὑμᾶς (conception and wish, not actual fact), 1 Jo. 5. 3 αυτη γάρ έστιν ή ἀγάπη του θεού, ΐνα τὰς ἐντολὰς αὐτοῦ τηρώμεν. It is specially frequent in John, see further 6. 39, 17. 3, 1 Jo. 3. 11, 23, 4. 21, 2 Jo. 6 (without a demonstr. Jo. 4. 34, supra 5); akin to this use are 1 Jo. 3. 1 (ποταπήν \dot{a} γάπην ... ἵνα), 1 °C. 9. 18 (τίς μου ἐστὶν ὁ μισθός; ἕνα). A further noteworthy instance is Jo. 15. 13 μείζονα ταύτης ἀγάπην οὐδεὶς ἔχει, $\ddot{\nu}$ $\dot{\nu}$ pexegetical phrase consists of facts, John uses not "να but "τι (§ 70. 3): 1 Jo. 3. 16 έν τούτω έγνωκαμεν την αγάπην, ὅτι ἐκείνος ... την $\psi v \gamma \hat{\eta} \nu \alpha \hat{v} \tau o \hat{v} \tilde{\epsilon} \theta \eta \kappa \epsilon \nu$, or again if the fact is only supposed to take place, έάν or όταν is used: 1 Jo. 2. 3 έν τούτω γινώσκομεν ότι ..., έαν τηρώμεν, 5. 2 έν τ. γ. ὅτι ..., ὅταν ἀγαπώμεν.
- 7. The infinitive with $\pi \rho i \nu$ (or $\pi \rho i \nu \eta$ which is not such good Attic) belongs, generally speaking, to this series of infinitives, which correspond to a conjunctive and not to an indicative: although wa cannot be introduced in this case, and the conjunctive, where it is used, is sharply distinguished from the infinitive, viz. the conjunctive stands after a negative principal sentence, the infin. after a positive sentence (as in Att.). Mt. 1. 18 πρὶν η συνελθεῖν αὐτούς, εὐρέθη κ.τ.λ.. 26. (34, see below note 2), $75 \pi \rho i \nu$ (η is added by A in ver. 75; L. 22. 61 η add. B; Mc. 14. 30 η om. ND, 72 no MSS. have η) αλέκτορα φωνήσαι τρὶς ἀπαρνήση με, Jo. 4. 49, 8. 58, 214. 29, A. 2. 20 O.T., 7. 2 (never in the Epistles). In a similar way to this $\pi\rho i\nu$, $\pi\rho\delta$ $\tau\circ\hat{\nu}$ with the inf. may also be used, e.g. in Mt. 6. 8, L. 2. 21, G. 2. 12, 3. 23, especially in the case of a fact which is regarded as really taking place at a subsequent time, though $\pi\rho i\nu$ is not excluded in this case, A. 7. 2, Jo. 8. 58 (so in Attic). Πρίν with the conj. (or optat. of indirect speech, see § 66, 5) after a negative principal sentence is found only in Luke, see § 65, 10.
 - 8. With regard to the voice of the verb, it is noticeable that after
- ¹ The conj. (without $\alpha \nu$) is used after a positive principal sentence, and therefore incorrectly, in Herm. Sim. v. 7. 3.

² D and the Latin have πρὶν ᾿Αβραὰμ without the inf. γενέσθαι, so that πρὶν is used as a preposition (with the gen.), like ἔως with the gen., § 40, 6. Cp. Stephanus πρίν (πρὶν ἄρας Pindar. verbs of commanding the inf. pass. is used instead of the inf. act. in a manner that is more characteristic of Latin than of classical Greek, if it is necessary to state that something is to be done to a person, without mentioning the agent. 1 Mt. 18. 25 ἐκέλευσεν αὐτὸν πραθῆναι. 14. 19 (see below), A. 23. 3 κελεύεις με τύπτεσθαι, and so frequently with κελεύειν in Mt. and Lc. (who alone use this verb, supra 4). On the other hand we have A. 23. 10 ἐκέλευσε τὸ στράτευμα ἀρπάσαι αὐτόν (16. 22 ἐκέλευον ῥαβδίζειν is contrary to the above rule). A. 5. 21 ἀπόστειλαν ἀχθῆναι αὐτούς, 22. 24 εἴπας μάστιξιν ἀνετάζεσθαι αὐτόν, Mc. 6. 27 ἐπέταξεν ἐνεχθῆναι (κΒCΔ ἐνέγκαι) τὴν κεφαλὴν αὐτοῦ (but in 6. 39 ἐπέταξεν αὐτοῖς ἀνακλίναι πάντας; παθε ἀνακλιθῆναι κβ* etc., from Mt. 14. 19, where the persons who carry out the command are not mentioned), A. 24. 23 (διαταξάμενος), L. 8. 55 (διέταξεν), L. 19.15 (εἶπεν), A. 25. 21 (ἐπικαλεσαμένου), 1 Th. 5. 27 ([ἐν]ορκίζω), A. 13. 28 (ἢτήσαντο, cp. Clem. Cor. i. 55. 4).

§ 70. INFINITIVE AND PERIPHRASIS WITH δτι.

- 1. The complement of verbs of (perceiving), believing, (showing), saying, in respect of the purport of the idea or communication in question, is in classical Greek rendered to a great extent by the infinitive, the subject of which, if identical with that of the governing verb, is not expressed, while in other cases it is placed in the accusative. The participle is an alternative construction for the infinitive, see § 73, 5; in addition to these constructions, the complement of verbs of perceiving, showing, saying (not of verbs of believing) is often formed by means of an indirect question, and a development of this use is the construction with $\delta \tau \iota$ (strictly $\delta \tau \iota$ an indirect interrogative particle), which is allowable with these same verbs (and therefore not with verbs of believing). Lastly, as a less definitely 3 analytical expression, δs with a finite verb is also in use with verbs of saying, hearing etc.
- 2. In the N.T. the infinitive has not indeed gone out of use in connection with these verbs, but it has taken quite a subcripte place, while the prevailing construction is that with direct question is kept within its proper limits: $\hat{\omega}$ exclusively in Luke and Paul and preserves mor proper meaning of 'how,' though it is already b able with $\pi\hat{\omega}$ s, which in late Greek assume meaning of $\delta \tau \iota$. The unclassical combination $\delta s \delta \tau \iota$ (= this $\delta \tau \iota$ ²) occurs apparently three times in Paul. -Again, in the N.T. the use, which is so largely developed in classical Greek, of the indirect form of speech with the (acc. and) infinitive, is almost entirely wanting; it may be said that Luke is the only writer who uses it at any length, and even he very quickly passes over into the direct form, see A. 25. 4 f., 1. 4.—Details: verbs of perceiving (recognizing and knowing) with the ace, and inf. 'Ακούειν Jo. 12, 18, 1 C. 11, 18 (i.e. to receive a communication [so in classical Greek]; elsewhere it takes the participle and more commonly $\ddot{o}_{\tau i}$). (Θεωρείν and βλέπειν take οτι Mc. 16. 4 etc.; not the inf., but part., § 73, 5.) Γινώσκειν takes acc. and inf. in H. 10. 34 (in classical Greek only with the meaning 'to pass judgment,' which may also be adopted in this passage); the prevailing construction is ότι, cp. Participles § 73, 5. Είδέναι in L. 4. 41, 1 P. 5. 9 (Clem. Cor. i. 43. 6, 62. 3) takes acc. and inf. (as occasionally in class. Greek), elsewhere the partic. and usually ὅτι (ώs), which is also the usual construction with ἐπίστασθαι. Καταλαμβάνεσθαι 'to recognize,' 'find' (post-classical; cp. Att. -νειν) takes acc. and inf. in A. 25. 25; elsewhere ὅτι (4. 13, 10. 34).—To believe etc. contrary to Attic usage very largely take ὅτι: δοκεῖν 'to think' takes (acc. and) inf. in L. 8. 18, 24. 37, A. 12. 9, Jo. 5. 39, 16. 2, 2 C. 11. 16 etc., ότι in Mt. 6. 7 etc. (so almost always except in Lc. and Paul; in Mc. 6. 49 the text is doubtful); but δοκείν 'to seem' only takes inf. (Lc., Paul, Hebrews; Herm. Sim. ix. 5, 1 έδόκει μοι impers. with acc. and inf.), similarly ἔδοξέ μοι 'it seemed good to me' (only in Lc., literary language, § 69, 4). Έλπίζων takes inf. in L. 6. 34, R. 15. 24 and elsewhere in Lc. and Paul (the fut. inf. in A. 26. 7 B, elsewhere the aorist, § 61, 3), and in 2 Jo. 12, 3 Jo. 14; ὅτι in A. 24. 26, 2 C. 1. 13 and elsewhere in Lc. and Paul. εχειν τινὰ ὅτι 'to reckon' (Lat. habere, a Latinism, cp. § 34, 5) Mc. 11. 32 (D η δεισαν). 'Hyeroθαι takes acc. and inf. in Ph. 3. 8 (for the double acc. § 34, 5). Kpiver, 'to decide that something is,' takes acc, and inf. in A. 16. 15, τοῦτο ὅτι in 2 C. 5. 15; 'to decide that something should be' ('to choose,' 'conclude') takes inf. in A. 15. 19, 1 C. 2. 2. acc. and inf. in A. 25. 25 (τοῦ with inf. in 27. 1; this construction like ἔδοξέ μοι belongs to the same category as βούλεσθαι, κελεύειν etc., § 69, 4). Λογίζεσθαι, 'to decide,' takes (acc. and) inf. in R. 3. 28, 14. 14, 2 C. 11. 5, Ph. 3. 13; ὅτι in R. 8. 18, Jo. 11. 50, H. 11. 19 (in John and Hebr. 'to reflect,' 'say to oneself,' as in 2 C. 10. 11; with this meaning ὅτι is not unclassical). Noce acc. and inf. H. 11. 3; ὅτι Mt. 15. 17 etc. (both unclassical). Noulletv takes (acc. and) inf. in L. 2. 44 and elsewhere in Lc. and Paul (ἐνόμιζον solebant with inf. A. 16. 13?); or in Mt. 5. 17 etc., A. 21. 29 (the acc. and inf.

Hῶs (Hatzidakis Einl. in d. ngr. Gramm. 19) occurs in Mt. 12. 4 after ἀναγινώσκειν, Mc. 12. 41 with ἐθεώρει, L. 14. 7 with ἐπέχων, A. Il. 13 ἀπήγγελλεν, l Th. 1 9. Barn. 14. 6, Clem. would have been ambiguous). Oterbal (acc. and) inf. Jo. 21. 25 (last verse of the Gospel), Ph. 1. 17; ὅτι Ja. 1. 7. Πεθεσθαι (acc. and) inf. L. 20. 6, A. 26. 26 (apparently with ὅτι H. 13. 18; there is a better v.l. πεποίθαμει, see § 58, 2); similarly the (acc. and) inf. is used with πεποίθεναι R. 2. 19, 2 C. 10. 7; ὅτι in R. 8. 38 etc.; Ph. 2. 24 etc. Πιστεύειν takes inf. in A. 15. 11, R. 14. 2; ὅτι passim. Προσδοκᾶν takes (acc. and) inf. A. 3. 5 (aor. inf.), 28. 6 (with μέλλειν πίμπρασθαι). Ύποκρίνεσθαι acc. and inf. L. 20. 20. Ύπολαμβάνειν takes ὅτι in L. 7. 43 (this is also classical, Plato Apol. 35 A). Ύπονοεῖν acc. and inf. A. 13. 25, 27. 27. On the whole, therefore, the use of the infinitive with verbs of believing is, with some doubtful exceptions, limited to Lc. and Paul (Hebrews), being a 'remnant of the literary language (Viteau, p. 52).

3. Verbs of saying, showing etc. take ὅτι with a finite verb to a very large extent, as do also the equivalent expressions such as μάρτυρα έπικαλούμαι τὸν θεόν 2 C. 1. 23, αὕτη ἐστὶν ἡ μαρτυρία 1 Jo. 5. 11, έστὶν αὕτη ή ἀγγελία 1 Jo. 1. 5, ἵνα πληρωθ \hat{y} ὁ λόγος Jo. 15. 25, ανέβη φάσις A. 21. 31, έν ονόματι Mc. 9. 41 ('for the reason that, 'on the ground that'); further, adjectives like δηλον (sc. ἐστί) take this construction. Special mention may be made of φάναι ὅτι 1 C. 10. 19, 15. 50 (with acc. and inf. in R. 3. 8), whereas in classical Greek this verb hardly ever takes $o_{\tau \iota}$ (any more than it takes an indirect question). Λαλών ὅτι is rare, H. 11. 18, this verb never takes acc. and inf.; the commoner construction is ἐλάλησεν λέγων like $\tilde{\epsilon}$ κρα $\tilde{\xi}$ $\epsilon \nu$ λ ϵ γω ν , \tilde{a} π ϵ κρ $i\theta$ η λ ϵ γω ν etc., the usual phrase formed on the model of the Hebrew (יְדַבֶּר בֻּאבוֹר), cp. $\S74$, 3. $K\rho \acute{a} (\epsilon \iota \nu, (\mathring{a} \pi o) \phi \theta \acute{e} \gamma$ γεσθαι, φωνείν never take ότι or acc. and inf., άποκρίνεσθαι only in Lc. (20. 7 with inf., A. 25. 4 acc. and inf., 25. 16 οτι), βοαν only in A. 25. 24 takes the inf. 'Ομνύειν ὅτι occurs in Mt. 26. 74, Ap. 10. 6 (unclassical; it takes the aor. inf. in A. 2. 30, the fut. inf. as in class. Greek in H. 3. 18); ὅτι is also used with other expressions of asseveration such as ἔστιν ἀλήθεια τοῦ Χριστοῦ ἐν ἐμοί, ὅτι 2 C. 11. 10, cp. (Clem. Cor. i. 58. 2), G. 1. 20, R. 14. 11, 2 C. 1. 23 (vide supra). The use of the (acc. and) inf., as compared with that of out, is seldom found in writers other than Lc. and Paul: λέγειν takes acc. and inf. in Mt. 16. 13, 15, 22. 23 = Mc. 8. 27, 29, 12. 18, Jo. 12. 29 etc., κατακρίνειν in Mc. 14. 64, ἐπιμαρτυρεῖν in 1 P. 5. 12, ἐπαγγέλλεσθαι takes the inf. in Mc. 14. 11, A. 7. 5; in Lc. and Paul the following verbs also take this construction, απαγγέλλειν Α. 12. 14, προκαταγγέλλειν 3. 18, απαρνείσθαι L. 22. 34, διισχυρίζεσθαι A. 12. 15, μαρτυρείν 10. 43, προαιτιάσθαι R. 3. 9, σημαίνειν A. 11. 28, χρηματίζειν to predict L. 2. 26; while the ότι used with παραγγέλλειν to command in 2 Th. 3. 10 is a ότι recitativum (infra 4).—Verbs of showing (which may be regarded as the causatives of verbs of perceiving) in Attic Greek, in cases where ότι is not used, generally express the complement by means of the perticiple (δεικνύναι, δηλοῦν, also φανερός εἰμι etc.; occasionally also ἀπαγγέλλειν and the like). In the N.T. we find ἐπιδεικνύναι A. 18. 28 and δηλοῦν H. 9. 8 with acc. and inf. (which is not contrary to Attic usage), 1 ὑποδεικνύναι A. 20. 35 and φανεροῦσθαι pass. 2 C. 3. 3, 1 Jo. 2. 19 with ὅτι (φανεροῦν takes acc. and inf. in Barn. 5. 9); so δῆλον (πρόδηλον) ὅτι 1 C. 15. 27, G. 3. 11, H. 7. 14; instances of the use of the participle are entirely wanting.

- 4. By far the most ordinary form of the complement of verbs of saying is that of direct speech, which may be introduced by $\tilde{\sigma}\tau_{\ell}$ (the so-called $\tilde{\sigma}\tau_{\ell}$ recitativum), for which see § 79, 12. An indirect statement after verbs of perceiving and believing is also assimilated to the direct statement so far as the tense is concerned, see §§ 56, 9; 57, 6; 59, 6; 60, 2. "O τ_{ℓ} is used quite irregularly with the acc. and inf. after $\theta\epsilon\omega\rho\hat{\omega}$ in A. 27. 10; in A. 14. 22 we can more readily tolerate $\kappa\hat{a}$ $\tilde{o}\tau_{\ell}$ (equivalent to $\lambda\epsilon\gamma o\nu\tau\epsilon_{5}$ $\tilde{o}\tau_{\ell}$) with a finite verb following $\pi a\rho\alpha\kappa\lambda\epsilon\hat{\iota}\nu$ with an infinitive.
- 5. The very common use in the classical language of $\check{a}\nu$ with the infinitive (= $\check{a}\nu$ with indic. or optat. of direct speech) is entirely absent from the N.T. ($\check{\omega}\sigma\check{a}\nu$ with the inf. is not connected with this use, § 78, 1).

§ 71. INFINITIVE WITH THE ARTICLE.

- 1. The article with an infinitive strictly has the same (anaphoric) meaning which it has with a noun; but there is this difference between the two, that the infinitive takes no declension forms, and consequently the article has to be used, especially in all instances where the case of the infinitive requires expression, without regard to its proper meaning and merely to make the sense intelligible. The use of the infinitive accompanied by the article in all four cases, and also in dependence on the different prepositions, became more and more extended in Greek; consequently the N.T. shows a great abundance of usages of this kind, although most of them are not widely attested, and can be but very slightly illustrated outside the writings which were influenced by the literary language, namely those of Luke and Paul (James). See Viteau, p. 173. The rarest of these usages is the addition to the infinitive of an attribute in the same case (which even in classical Greek is only possible with a pronoun): the only N.T. instance is H. 2. 15 διὰ παντὸς τοῦ ζῆν.
- 2. The nominative of the infinitive with the article, as also the accusative used independently of a preposition, are found sporadically in Mt. and Mc., somewhat more frequently in Paul, and practically nowhere in the remaining writers; they are generally used in such a way that the anaphoric meaning of the article, with reference to something previously mentioned or otherwise well known, is more or less clearly marked. Mt. 15. 20 $\tau \delta$ $d\nu (\pi \tau \sigma is \chi \epsilon \rho \sigma i \nu)$ $\phi a \gamma \epsilon i \nu$ subj.

The force of the article is not so clear in 2 C. 9. 1 περισσόν έστι τὸ γράφειν, cp. Demosth. 2. 3 τὸ διεξιέναι ... οὐχὶ καλῶς ἔχειν ἡγοῦμαι (the article denotes something obvious, which might take place), Herm. Vis. iv. 2. 6 αἰρετώτερον ἢν αὐτοῖς τὸ μὴ γεννηθῆναι. But its use is still more lax with μή in 2 C. 10. 2 δέομαι τὸ μὴ παρών θαρρήσαι², R. 14. 13, 21, 2 C. 2. 1, and quite superfluous in 1 Th. 3. 3 τὸ (om. *ABĎ al.) μηδένα σαίνεσθαι, 4. 6 τὸ μὴ ὑπερβαίνειν (whereas there is no art. in verses 3 f. with $d\pi \epsilon \chi \epsilon \sigma \theta a \iota$ and $\epsilon i \delta \epsilon \nu a \iota$); this $\tau \delta \mu \dot{\eta}$ (like $\tau o \hat{\nu} \mu \dot{\eta}$, infra 3) is equivalent to a "va clause, and is found to a certain extent similarly used in classical writers after a verb of hindering (κατέχειν τὸ μη δακρύειν Plato, Phaedo 117 c), while δέομαι τὸ θαρρήσαι without a $\mu\eta$ would clearly be impossible even in Paul.³

3. The genitive of the infinitive, not dependent on a preposition. has an extensive range in Paul and still more in Luke: it is found to a limited degree in Matthew and Mark, but is wholly, or almost wholly, absent from the other writers. According to classical usage it may either be dependent on a noun or verb which governs a genitive, or it is employed (from Thucvdides onwards, but not very frequently) to denote aim or object (being equivalent to a final sentence or an inf. with ἔνεκα). Both uses occur in the N.T., but the manner of employing this inf. has been extended beyond these limits, very much in the same way that the use of τνα has been extended. It is found after nouns such as χρόνος, καιρός, ἐξουσία, έλπίς, χρεία: L. 1. 57, 2. 6, 1 P. 4. 17, L. 10. 19, 22. 6, A. $\overline{2}$ 7. 20, 1 C. 9. 10, R. 15. 23, H. 5. 12; in these cases the inf. without the art. and the periphrasis with "va may also be used, § 69, 5, without altering the meaning (whereas in Attic a $\tau \circ \hat{v}$ of this kind ordinarily keeps its proper force), and passages like L. 2. 21 ἐπλησθησαν ήμέραι ὀκτώ τοῦ περιτεμείν αὐτόν show a very loose connection between the inf. and the substantive (almost = ωστε περιτεμείν, ίνα

² In A. 4. 18 παρήγγειλαν τὸ (om. \aleph^* B) καθόλου μὴ φθέγγεσθαι the article, if correctly read, should be joined with καθόλου, cp. § 34, 7, Diod. Sic. 1. 77.

³ A parallel from the LXX. is quoted (Viteau, p. 164), viz. 2 Esdr. 6. 8 τὸ μὴ καταργηθῆναι, 'that it may not be hindered.'

περιτέμωσιν). Cp, further R. 8. 12 οφειλέται ... τοῦ κατὰ σάρκα ζην, R. 1. 24 ἀκαθαρσίαν, τοῦ ἀτιμάζεσθαι, = ὅστε ἀτ.; the connection with the subst, is quite lost in 1 C. 10. 13 την ἔκβασιν, τοῦ δύνασθαι ύπενεγκείν, R. 11. 8 Ο.Τ. οφθαλμούς του μη βλέπειν και ώτα του μη ακούειν, 'such eyes that they' etc. (ibid. 10 O.T. σκοτισθήτωσαν οί $\mathring{o}\phi\theta$. $\mathring{\tau}o\mathring{\hat{v}}$ $\mathring{\mu}\mathring{\eta}$ $\mathring{\beta}\lambda$.). Also A. 1 $\mathring{4}$. 9 $\mathring{o}\tau\iota$ $\mathring{\epsilon}\chi\epsilon\iota$ $\pi \acute{\iota}\sigma\tau\iota\nu$ $\tau o\mathring{\hat{v}}$ $\sigma\omega\theta\mathring{\eta}\nu a\iota$, the faith necessary to salvation, $=\pi$. $\omega \sigma \tau \epsilon \sigma \omega \theta \hat{\eta} \nu \alpha i$; Ph. 3. 21 $\tau \hat{\eta} \nu \epsilon \nu \epsilon \rho \gamma \epsilon i \alpha \nu \tau o \hat{\nu}$ δύνασθαι (the force whereby He is able), ή προθυμία του θέλειν 2 C. 8. 11 the zeal to will, which makes one willing. With adjectives we have ἄξιον τοῦ πορεύεσθαι 1 C. 16. 4 as in classical Greek; the instances with verbs, which in classical Greek govern the genitive, are equally few, έξαπορηθηναι τοῦ ζην 2 C. 1. 8 (ἀπορείν τινος; also έξαπορείσθαι τινος Dionys. Hal.), έλαχεν τοῦ θυμιασαι L. 1. 9 (LXX. has the same use in 1 Sam. 14. 47; but in classical Greek in spite of $\lambda \alpha \gamma \chi \acute{a} \nu \epsilon i \nu \tau i \nu \acute{o} s$ this verb only takes the simple inf., and the $\tau o \hat{\nu}$ with the inf. corresponds rather to its free use in the examples given The construction of $\tau \circ \hat{\nu} \mu \dot{\eta}$ and the inf. with verbs of hindering, ceasing etc. (Lc., but also in the LXX.) has classical precedent, e.g. Xen. Anab. iii. 5. 11 πας ασκός δύο ανδρας έξει τοῦ μή καταδῦναι; but the usage is carried further, and τοῦ μή clearly has the meaning 'so that not': L. 4. 42 (κατέχειν), 24. 16 (κρατεῖσθαι), A. 10. 47 (κωλύειν), 14. 18 (καταπαύειν), 20. 20, 27 (ὑποστέλλεσθαί; D incorrectly omits the μή), also L. 17. 1 ἀνένδεκτόν ἐστι τοῦ μὴ ... (cp. from the O.T. 1 P. 3. 10 παύειν, R. 11. 10 σκοτισθηναι, vide supra¹). Paul however has this inf. without $\mu \eta$, so that its dependence on the principal verb is clear, R. 15. 22 ένεκοπτόμην τοῦ έλθεῖν. τὸ μή, supra 2.—A final (or consecutive) sense is the commonest sense in which του and του μή are used in the N.T.: Mt. 13. 3 έξηλθεν ὁ σπείρων τοῦ σπείρειν, 2. 13 ζητείν τοῦ ἀπολέσαι, 21. 32 μετεμελήθητε τοῦ πιστεῦσαι (so as to), 3. 13, 11. 1, 24. 45 (om. τοῦ D), H. 10. 7 (O.T.), 11. 5. The simple inf. has already acquired this final sense; there is a tendency to add the $\tau \circ \hat{v}$ to the second of two infinitives of this kind for the sake of clearness: L. 1. 76 f., 78 f., 2. 22, 24, A. 26. 18. The τοῦ is then used in other cases as well, being attached in numerous instances at any rate in Luke (especially in the Acts; occasionally in James) to infinitives of any kind whatever after the example of the LXX.2: it is found after έγένετο A. 10. 25 (not in D, but this MS. has it in 2. 1), ἐκρίθη 27. 1, cp. έγένετο γνώμης του 20. 3 (ἀνέβη ἐπὶ τὴν καρδίαν Herm. Vis. iii. 7. 2), έπιστείλαι 15. 20, παρακαλείν 21. 12, έντέλλεσθαι L. 4. 10 Ο.Τ. (Ps. 90. 11), προσεύχεσθαι Ja 5. 17, κατανεύειν L. 5. 7, στηρίζειν τὸ πρόσωπον 9. 51, συντίθεσθαι Α. 23. 20, ποιείν 3. 12, ετοιμος 23. 15 (Herm. Sim. viii. 4. 2). The only infinitive which cannot take the $\tau \circ \hat{v}$ is one which may be resolved into a $\delta \tau \iota$ clause: it is the possibility of substituting wa or wote for it which forms the limitation to

- its use.¹ It is especially frequent in an explanatory clause loosely appended to the main sentence: L. 24. 25 βραδεῖς τ \hat{p} καρδίq, τοῦ πιστεῦσαι (in believing; τοῦ π. om. D), cp. βραδ. εἶς τὸ infra 4, A. 7. 19 ἐκάκωσεν τοὺς πατέρας, τοῦ ποιεῖν² (so as to make, in that he made, =ποιῶν or καὶ ἐποίει), L. 1. 73, R. 6. 6, 7. 3, Ph. 3. 10 (R. 1. 24, 1 C. 10. 13, vide supra). A quite peculiar instance is Ap. 12. 7 ἐγένετο πόλεμος ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ, ὁ Μιχαηλ καὶ οἱ ἄγγελοι αὐτοῦ τοῦ (τοῦ om. 8B) πολεμῆσαι μετὰ τοῦ δράκοντος.²
- 4. The dative of the inf. without a preposition is found only once in Paul to denote reason: 2 C. 2. 13 οὖκ ἔσχηκα ἄνεσιν τῷ πνεύματί μου, τῷ μὴ εὖρεῖν με Τίτον (LP τὸ μὴ, κ*C² τοῦ μὴ, both readings impossible; but DE perhaps correctly have ἐν τῷ μὴ, cp. inf. 6).
- 5. Prepositions with the accusative of the infinitive. denotes aim or result (= ἴνα or ὥστε): Mt. 20. 19 παραδώσουσιν εἰς τὸ ἐμπαίξαι, cp. 26. 2, 27. 31, Mc. 14. 55 (ἴνα θανατώσουσιν D), L. 5. 17 (D reads differently), A. 7. 19, Ja. 1. 18, 3. 3 (v.l. $\pi \rho \delta s$), 1 P. 3. 7, 4. 2; very frequent in Paul (and Hebrews), R. 1. 11, 20, 3. 26, 4. 11 bis, 16, 18 etc., also used very loosely as in 2 C. 8. 6 cis τὸ παρακαλέσαι 'to such an extent that we exhorted'; further notable instances are 1 Th. 3. 10 δεόμενοι εἰς τὸ ἰδεῖν, = ἵνα ἴδωμεν, § 69, 4: τὴν ἐπιθυμίαν ἔχων εἰς τὸ ἀναλῦσαι Ph. 1. 23 (DEFG omit eis, which gives an impossible construction). (This use of eis is nowhere found in the Johannine writings; on the other hand it is found in the First Epistle of Clement, e.g. in 65. 1 where it is parallel with ὅπως.) It is used in another way in Ja. 1. 19 ταχὺς εἰς τὸ ἀκοῦσαι, $β_{ραδὺς}$ εἰς τὸ λαλῆσαι, $β_{ραδὺς}$ εἰς ὀργήν, the inf. being treated as equivalent to a substantive (Herm. Mand. i. 1 ὁ ποιήσας ἐκ τοῦ μὴ ὄντος είς τὸ είναι τὰ πάντα, like ποιείν είς ὕψος Clem. Cor. i. 59. 3).—Aim (or result) is likewise denoted by $\pi \rho \delta s \tau \delta$, which however is nowhere very frequent: Mt. 5. 28 ὁ βλέπων γυναίκα πρὸς τὸ ἐπιθυμῆσαι αὐτῆς, 6. προς το θεαθηναι αὐτοῖς, 13. 30, 23. 5, 26. 12, Mc. 13. 22,L. 18. 1 (πρὸς τὸ δείν προσεύχεσθαι, with reference to), A. 3. 10 ×B (rell. eis), 2 C. 3. 13, Eph. 6. 11 (DEFG eis), 1 Th 2. 9, 2 Th. 3. 8.— Διὰ τὸ to denote the reason is frequent in Luke: 2. 4, 8. 6 etc., A. 4. 2, 8. 11 etc.; also in Mt. 13. 5, 6, 24. 12, Mc. 4. 5, 6, 5. 4 (D is different), (in Jo. 2. 24 διὰ τὸ αὐτὸν γινώσκειν πάντας is certainly not genuine: the words are omitted by the Lewis Syriac and Nonnus, and, apart from πρὸ τοῦ [infra 6], Jo. has no ex. of inf. after prep. and article³), Ja. 4. 2, Ph. 1. 7 (the solitary instance in Paul), H. 7. 23 f., 10. 2.—Merà 7ò is used in statements of time: Mt. 26. 32, Mc. 1. 14, 14, 28 [16, 19], L. 12, 5, 22, 20, A. 1, 3, 7, 4, 10, 41, 15. 13, 19. 21, 20. 1, 1 C. 11. 25, H. 10. 15. 26.—The accus. of the inf. is nowhere found with ἐπί, κατά, παρά.

² There is an exact parallel in the LXX., l Kings 17. 20 σὐ κεκάκωκας τοῦ θανατώσαι τὸν νίὸν αὐτῆς.

^a v. App. p. 322.

- 6. Prepositions with the genitive of the infinitive. 'Aντὶ τοῦ 'instead of' Ja. 4. 15. Διὰ παντὸς τοῦ ζῆν H. 2. 15 'all through life,' cp. supra 1 ad fin. 'Έκ τοῦ ἔχειν 2 C. 8. 11, probably = καθὸ ἀν ἔχη of verse 12 (pro facultatibus, Grimm). "Ενεκεν τοῦ φανερωθῆναι 2 C. 7. 12 (formed on the model of the preceding ἔνεκεν τοῦ ἀδικήσαντος κ.τ.λ.; otherwise ἔνεκεν would be superfluous). "Εως τοῦ ἐλθεῖν Α. 8. 40 (post-classical, in the LXX. Gen. 24. 33, Viteau); the Attic use of μέχρι (ἄχρι) τοῦ with the inf. does not occur. Πρὸ τοῦ Mt. 6. 8, L. 2. 21, 22. 15, A. 23. 15, Jo. 1. 49, 13. 19, 17. 5, G. 2. 12, 3. 23. The gen. of the inf. is nowhere found with ἀπό, μετά, περί, ὑπέρ, nor yet with ἄνευ, χωρίς, χάριν etc.
- 7. The preposition $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ is used with the dative of the infinitive, generally in a temporal sense = 'while': Mt. 13. 4 ἐν τῷ σπείρειν $\alpha \dot{v} \tau \dot{o} v$, = the classical $\sigma \pi \epsilon i \rho o v \tau \sigma s$ $\alpha \dot{v} \tau \sigma \hat{v}$ (since Attic writers do not use έν τῷ in this way, as Hebrew writers certainly use 3, Gesen.-Kautzsch § 114, 2), 13. 25, 27. 12. Mc. 4. 4, L. 1. 8, 2. 6, 43, 5. 1 etc. (ἐγένετο ἐν τῷ is specially frequent, e.g. 1. 8, 2. 6), A. 2. 1, 9. 3, 19. 1 (ἐγέν. ἐν $\tau \hat{\varphi}$), R. 3. 4 O.T., 15. 13 (om. DEFG, the clause is probably due to dittography of είς το περισσεύειν), G. 4. 18. This phrase generally takes the present infinitive, in Luke however it also takes the agrist inf., in which case the rendering of it is usually altered from 'while' to 'after that' (so that it stands for the agrist participle or $\delta\tau\epsilon$ with the aorist): L. 2. 27 $\vec{\epsilon} \nu \tau \hat{\phi} \epsilon \vec{\iota} \sigma \alpha \gamma \alpha \gamma \epsilon \hat{\iota} \nu = \epsilon \vec{\iota} \sigma \alpha \gamma \alpha \gamma \delta \nu \tau \omega \nu$ or $\delta \tau \epsilon \epsilon \vec{\iota} \sigma \dot{\eta} \gamma \alpha \gamma \delta \nu$, (3. 21 èv $\tau \hat{\varphi}$ $\beta a \pi \tau \iota \sigma \theta \hat{\eta} v a \iota = \ddot{\sigma} \tau \epsilon \dot{\epsilon} \beta a \pi \tau \iota \sigma \theta \eta d \ddot{\sigma} a \tau a \tau \dot{\sigma} v \lambda a \dot{\sigma} v \kappa a \dot{\sigma} d \eta d \dot{\sigma} v \dot{\sigma} d \dot{\sigma} v \dot{\sigma} \dot{\sigma} d \dot{\sigma} v \dot{\sigma} \dot{\sigma} d \dot{\sigma} d \dot{\sigma} \dot{$ $\beta a\pi \tau \iota \sigma \theta \acute{\epsilon} \nu \tau \sigma s$, the two things are represented as simultaneous events), 8. 40 (ὑποστρέφειν ΝΒ), 9. 34 (simultaneous events), 36, 11. 37, 14. 1, 19. 15, 24. 30, A. 11. 15. Also H. 2. 8 ἐν τῷ ὑποτάξαι, where again simultaneousness is expressed, 'in that' or 'by the fact that,' = ὑποτάξας; a similar meaning is expressed in 8. 13 by έν τῷ λέγειν 'in that he says,' 'by saying'; further instances of a meaning that is not purely temporal are Mc. 6. 48 βασανιζομένους έν τῷ έλαίνειν, in rowing: L. 1. 21 $\partial \theta a \psi \mu a \phi v \partial \psi \tau \phi$, when and that he tarried: A. 3. 26 $\epsilon v \tau \hat{\omega} \, d\pi o \sigma \tau \rho \epsilon \phi \epsilon v$, in that he turned = by turning; so 4. 30 (Herm. Vis. i. 1. 8).—The articular infinitive is never found with ἐπί or $\pi \rho \delta s$.

§ 72. CASES WITH THE INFINITIVE. NOMINATIVE AND ACCUSATIVE WITH THE INFINITIVE.

1. The classical language has but few exceptions to the rule that the subject of the infinitive, if identical with the subject of the main verb, is not expressed, but is supplied from the main verb in the nominative (§ 70, 1); the exceptions are occasioned by the necessity for laying greater emphasis on the subject, or by assimilation to an additional contrasted subject, which must necessarily be expressed by the accusative. On the other hand, the interposition of a preposition governing the infinitive produces no alteration of the rule. nor again the insertion of $\delta \epsilon \hat{i} \nu$, $\chi \hat{\rho} \hat{\eta} \nu a \iota$ (of which insertion there are no instances in the N.T. if we except A. 26. 9 in Paul's speech before Agrippa). The same rule applies to the N.T.; the subject of the infinitive which has already been given in or together with the main verb, in the majority of cases is not repeated with the infinitive: and if the infinitive is accompanied by a nominal predicate or an appositional phrase agreeing with its subject, the latter is nowhere and the former is not always a reason for altering the construction, in other words the appositional phrase must and the predicate may, as in classical Greek, be expressed in the nominative. 2 C. 10. 2 δέομαι τὸ μή παρών (apposition) θαρρήσαι, R. 9. 3 ηὐχόμην ἀνάθεμα (predic.) είναι αὐτὸς ἐγώ, (Jo. 7. 4 where according to BD the acc. αὐτὸ should be read for αὐτὸς), aR. 1. 22 φάσκοντες είναι σοφοί, Η. 11. 4 εμαρτυρήθη είναι δίκαιος (in Ph. 4. 11 ἔμαθον αὐτάρκης ἔἶναι the nom. is necessary, since the acc. and inf. is out of place with $\mu \alpha \nu \theta \acute{\alpha} \nu \epsilon \iota \nu$ which in meaning is related to the verb 'to be able'). Instances of omission of subject, where there is no apposition or predicate: L. 24. 23 λέγουσαι έωρακέναι, Ja. 2. 14, 1 Jo. 2. 6, 9, Tit. 1. 16 (with λέγειν and ὁμολογεῖν; it is superfluous to quote instances with θ έλειν, (ητεῖν etc.).

2. There are however not a few instances where, particularly if a nominal predicate is introduced, the infinitive (in a way that is familiar in Latin writers) keeps the reflexive pronoun in the accusative as its subject, and then the predicate is made to agree with this. A. 5. 36 θευδας λέγων είναι τινα έαυτόν, 8. 9, L. 23. 3, Ap. 2. 9 and 3. 9 των λεγόντων Ίουδαίους είναι έαυτούς (in 2. 2 most Mss. omit είναι), L. 20. 20 ύποκρινομένους έαυτους δικαίους είναι (είναι om. D), R 2. 19 πέποιθας σεαυτὸν όδηγὸν είναι, 6. 11 λογίζεσθε έαυτοὺς είναι νεκρούς. According to the usage of the classical language there would in all these cases be no sufficient reason for the insertion of the reflexive; after λεγόντων in Ap. 2. 9 Ἰουδαίων would have had to be used, but this assimilation is certainly not in the manner of the N.T., vide infra 6; in 1 C. 7. 11 συνεστήσατε ('you have proved') έαυτοὺς άγνοὺς είναι, classical Greek would have said ὑμᾶς αὐτοὺς ὄντας, see § 70, 3. The only instances of the reflexive being used where there is no nominal predicate are: Ph. 3. 13 έγω έμαυτον ουπω λογίζομαι κατειληφέναι, Η. 10. 34 γινώσκοντες έχειν ξαυτούς κρείσσονα ύπαρξιν (cp. § 70, 2), Clem. Cor. i. 39. $_{\rm I}$ έαυτοὺς \hat{eta} ουλόμενοι ἐπαίρεσ θ αι, = class. αὐτοὶ, Herm. Sim. vi. 3. 5, A. 25. 21 τοῦ Παύλου ἐπικαλεσαμένου τηρείσθαι αὐτόν (cp. § 69, 4): this last is the only instance (besides the reading of CD in L. 20. 7 μη είδεναι αὐτούς) where the pronoun is not reflexive (cp. E. 4. 22 vuas, but the whole construction of that sentence is far from clear). In A. 25. 4 the reflexive is kept where there is a contrasted clause as often in classical Greek: $\tau \eta$ -

- 3. More remarkable are the instances where an infinitive dependent on a preposition, though its subject is identical with that of the main verb, nevertheless has an accusative, and moreover an accusative of the simple personal pronoun (not reflexive), attached to it as its subject. This insertion of the pronoun is a very favourite construction, if the clause with the inf. and prep. holds an independent position within the sentence. Thus it is found after $\mu\epsilon\tau\dot{\alpha}$ $\tau\dot{\delta}$ in Mt. $\hat{2}$ 6. 32 = Mc. 14. 28 μετὰ τὸ ἐγερθῆναί με προάξω, A. 1. 3 παρέστησεν έαυτον ζώντα μετά το παθείν αὐτόν (19. 21 μετά το γενέσθαι, but D adds $\mu\epsilon$, Herm. Vis. ii. 1. 3, Mand. iv. 1. 7, Sim. viii. 2. 5, 6. 1). After $\delta\iota\dot{a}$ τὸ: L. 2. 4 ἀνέβη...διὰ τὸ εἶναι αὐτὸν, 19, 11, (Jo. 2. 24 διὰ τὸ αὐτὸν γινώσκειν not genuine, § 71, 5), Ja. 4. 2 οὐκ ἔχετε διὰ τὸ μὴ αἰτεῖσθαι ὑμᾶς, H. 7. 24. "Εως τοῦ ἐλθεῖν αὐτὸν Α. 8. 40. Πρὸ τοῦ L. 22. 15. Ἐν τῷ κατηγορείσθαι αὐτὸν οὐδὲν ἀπεκρίνετο Mt. 27. 12, cp. L. 9. 34, 10. 35, A. 4. 30, R. 3. 4 O.T., Clem. Cor. i. 10. 1. With the simple dative of the inf. 2 C. 2. 13. This accus. is not found in the N.T. in expressions denoting aim by means of $\epsilon is \tau \delta$ and $\pi \rho \delta s \tau \delta$ (though it occurs with είς in Clem. Cor. i. 34. 7); nor is it found in all cases with μετά etc. That the reflexive pronoun is not used is natural in view of the independent character of the clause with the infinitive and preposition. (The acc. is found after ωστε in Clem. Cor. i. 11. 2, 46. 7, Herm. Sim. ix. 6. 3, 12. 2; after $\tau \circ \hat{v}$ in Clem. Cor. i. 25. 2; after $\pi \rho i \nu$ in Herm. Sim. ix. 16. 3.)
- 4. A certain scarcity of the use of the nominative with the infinitive is seen in the fact that the personal construction with the passive voice such as $\lambda \acute{\epsilon} \gamma \rho \mu a \iota \acute{\epsilon} \iota \alpha \iota$ is by no means common in the N.T. writers (for H. 11. 4 $\acute{\epsilon} \mu a \rho \tau \nu \rho \dot{\eta} \theta \eta$ $\acute{\epsilon} \iota \nu a \iota$ vide sup. 1; cp. $X \rho \iota \sigma \tau \delta s \kappa \eta \rho \dot{\nu} \sigma \sigma \epsilon \tau a \iota \delta \tau \iota$ 1 C. 15. 12, $\delta \dot{\rho} \eta \theta \epsilon \dot{\nu} s$ Mt. 3. 3, $\dot{\eta} \kappa o \dot{\nu} \sigma \theta \eta$ $\ddot{\sigma} \tau \iota$ used personally Mc. 2. 1?, $\dot{\phi} a \iota \epsilon \rho o \dot{\tau} \sigma \theta \iota$ $\dot{\sigma} \tau \iota$ 2 C. 3. 3, 1 Jo. 2. 19, $\dot{\phi} a \iota \epsilon \rho o \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\sigma} \sigma \nu \tau a \iota \sigma \iota$ Herm. Sim. iv. 4). The personal construction is used more frequently with the inf. denoting something which ought to take place $(\delta \epsilon \delta o \kappa \iota \mu \dot{a} \sigma \mu \epsilon \theta a \pi \iota \sigma \tau \epsilon \nu \theta \dot{\eta} \nu a \iota$ 1 Th. 2. 4; $\chi \rho \eta \mu a \tau \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\epsilon} \sigma \theta a \iota \dot{\epsilon} \theta 0$, 4; the latter verb is also found with the nom. and inf. of assertion in L. 2. 26 according to the reading of D), and with adjectives (§ 69, 5) such as $\delta \nu \nu a \tau \delta s$, $\dot{\epsilon} \kappa a \nu \dot{\sigma} s$ (but $\dot{a} \rho \kappa \epsilon \tau \dot{\sigma} s$ in 1 P. 4. 3 does not affect the inf. which has a subject of its own); so too we have $\dot{\epsilon} \delta o \dot{\epsilon} a \dot{\epsilon} \mu a \nu \tau \dot{\phi} \delta \epsilon \dot{\iota} \nu \pi \rho \dot{\sigma} \dot{\epsilon} a \iota$ A. 26. 9, as well as $\dot{\epsilon} \delta o \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\epsilon} \mu \sigma \iota$ L. 1. 3 etc.

(i.e. ὑμᾶς), R. 13. 5 ἀνάγκη ὑποτάσσεσθαι (but see § 30, 3 with note 4 on p. 73; DE etc. read διδ ὑποτάσσεσθε); or again if the subject of the inf. has already been mentioned in another case with the main verb, as in Ι. 2. 26 ην αὐτῶ κεχρηματισμένον μη ἰδείν (i.e. αὐτὸν) θάνατον, or if it may readily be supplied from a phrase in apposition with the subject, as in 1 P. 2. 11 άγαπητοί, παρακαλώ (i.e. ύμας) ώς παροίκους ... ἀπέχεσθαι, cp. ibid. 15, Viteau, p. 149 f. The following, therefore, are the cases where the acc. and inf. is allowable: -with verbs of perceiving, recognizing, believing, asserting, showing, § 70, 1-3, where the object of this verb and the subject of the inf. is generally not identical with the subject of the principal verb: with verbs of making and allowing, also with some verbs of commanding and bidding such as κελεύειν, where the two things are never identical: with verbs of willing, where they usually are identical (and the simple inf. is therefore the usual construction), of desiring etc.: again with impersonal expressions like δεί, ενδέχεται, ανάγκη, δυνατόν, αρεστόν (έστι), ωρα (εστίν) etc., also έγένετο, συνέβη; with a certain number of these last expressions the subject of the infinitive is already expressed in the dative outside the range of the infinitive clause, while in the case of others there is a tendency to leave it unexpressed, either because it may readily be supplied as has been stated above, or in general statements because of its indefiniteness. To these instances must be added the inf. with a preposition and the article, and the inf. with $\pi\rho\dot{i}\nu$, $\tau\dot{o}$, $\tau\dot{o}\hat{v}$, $\sigma\sigma\tau\epsilon$, if the subject is here expressed and not left to be supplied. Some details may be noticed. With verbs of perceiving, knowing etc. (also making) frequently, as in classical Greek, the accusative is present, while the infinitive is replaced by $\delta\tau\iota$ (or $\tilde{\iota}\nu\alpha$ respectively) with a finite verb: A. 16. 3 ήδεισαν τον πατέρα αὐτοῦ ὅτι Ἔλλην ύπηρχεν, 3. 10, 4. 13, Mc. 11. 32, G. 5. 21, Ap. 3. 9 ποιήσω αὐτοὺς ίνα ήξουσιν; cp. supra 4 for the nom. with a personal construction with $5\pi i$, and $\hat{1}$ C. $\hat{9}$. 15, \S 69, 5; the accus. may also be followed by an indirect question, as in Jo. 7. 27 etc. We may further note the ordinary passive construction with verbs of commanding, see § 69, 8; the verb léveur belongs to this category, which when used to express a command, though it may take the dative of the person addressed with a simple infinitive (corresponding to an imperative of direct speech) as in Mt. 5. 34, 39, L. 12. 13, yet is also found with the acc. and inf : A. 21. 21 λέγων (om. D) μή περιτέμνειν αὐτοὺς τὰ τέκνα, 22. 24 (pass.), L. 19. 15 (do.), where the ambiguity as to whether command or assertion is intended must be cleared up by the context. The dative with the inf. is also found after διατάσσειν (-εσθαι) A. 24. 23, ἐπιτάσσειν (Mc. 6. 39 etc.; also τάσσειν Α. 22. 10), παραγγέλλειν, έντέλλεσθαι, also έπιτρέπειν, after impersonal and adjectival or substantival expressions like συμφέρει, ἔθος ἐστί, ἀθέμιτον, αἰσχρόν, καλών έστι etc. (cp. Dative § 37, 3); to which may be added συνεφωνήθη ύμιν πειράσαι A. 5. 9, § 37, 6, p. 114 note 1. But the acc. and inf. is not excluded from being used with these words, being found not only with a passive construction as in A. 10. 48 προσέταξεν αὐτοὺς βαπτισθήναι, Mc. 6. 27 ἐπέταξεν ἐνεχθήναι (BC have ἐνέγκαι which is less in accordance with N.T. idiom) την κεφαλήν, but also with an active (ἔταξαν ἀναβαίνειν Παῦλον Α. 15. 2), and even where the person addressed is identical with the subject of the inf., 1 Tim. 6. 13 f. παραγγέλλω ... τηρησαί σε. Also with συμφέρει and πρέπει there is nothing to prevent the inf. from having a subject of its own, as distinct from the person interested: Jo. 18. 14 συμφέρει ένα ἄνθρωπον ἀποθανείν, 1 C. 11. 13; it is more remarkable that with καλόν ἐστι 'it is good' the interested person may be expressed by the accusative with an inf.: Mt. 17. 4 = Mc. 9. 5, L. 9. 33 καλόν ἐστιν ἡμᾶς δδε είναι, where however the accusative may be justified, the phrase being equivalent to 'I am pleased that we are here': Mc. 9. 45 καλόν ἐστίν $\sigma \epsilon \epsilon i \sigma \epsilon \lambda \theta \epsilon \hat{\imath} \nu \epsilon \hat{\imath} \epsilon r \hat{\eta} \nu \zeta \omega \hat{\eta} \nu \chi \omega \lambda \delta \nu$ (cp. 43, 47, where the Mss. are more divided between $\sigma \omega$ and $\sigma \epsilon$; $\sigma \omega$ is used in Mt. 18. 8 f.). So too we have R. 13. 11 $\omega \rho a \dot{\eta} \mu \hat{a} \hat{s} \dot{\epsilon} \gamma \epsilon \rho \theta \hat{\eta} \nu a \iota$, where $\dot{\eta} \mu \hat{\iota} \nu$ would be equally good: L. 6. 4 ους ουκ έξεστιν φαγείν εί μη μόνους τους ίερεις (D has the dat. as in Mt. 12. 4; in Mc. 2. 26 BL have the acc., ACD etc. the dat.): L. 20. 22 έξεστιν ήμῶς ... δοῦναι ΝΒΙ (ήμῶν ACD al.). Ἐγένετο frequently takes acc. and inf.; with the dat. it means 'it befell him that he' etc. A. 20. 16, G. 6. 14; but the acc. and inf. may also be used after a dative, A. 22. 6 έγένετό μοι ... περιαστράψαι φως, even where the accusative refers to the same person as the dative, 22. 17 έγένετό μοι ... γενέσθαι με (a very clumsy sentence). On the indicative after έγένετο see § 79, 4. The person addressed is expressed by the genitive after δέομαι 'request'; if the subject of the inf. is the petitioner,1 then we have the nom. and inf., L. 8. 38, 2 C. 10. 2: if the person petitioned, the simple inf. is likewise used, L. 9. 38, A. 26. 3. The verbs of cognate meaning with the last take the accus. of the person addressed, namely έρωτῶ, παρακαλῶ, αἰτοῦμαι, also ἀξιῶ, παραινῶ; here therefore we have a case of acc. and inf., but the infinitive has a greater independence than it has in the strict cases of acc. and inf., and may accordingly in spite of the accusative which has preceded take a further accusative as its subject (especially where a passive construction is used): A. 13. 28 ἢτήσαντο Πιλᾶτον αναιρεθηναι αὐτόν, 1 Th. 5. 27 δρκίζω ύμας αναγνωσθηναι την έπιστολήν (here the choice of the passive is not without a reason, whereas in Acts loc. cit. D has τοῦτον μὲν σταυρώσαι). (Α. 21. 12 παρεκαλοῦμεν... τοῦ μὴ ἀναβαίνειν αὐτόν.)

6. Since the subject of the inf. generally stands or is thought of as standing in the accusative, it is natural that appositional clauses and predicates of this subject also take the accusative case, not only where the subject itself has or would have this case if it were expressed, but also where it has already been used with the principal verb in the genitive or dative. The classical language has the choice of saving συμβουλεύω σοι προθύμω είναι or πρόθυμον είναι; in the case of a genitive δέομαί σου προθύμου είναι is given the preference (an adj.), but προστάτην γενέσθαι (a subst.; Kühner, Gr. ii. 590 f.): appositional clauses formed by means of a participle are freely expressed by the dat. (or acc.), but not by the gen., the accusative being used instead. In the N.T. there is no instance of a predicate being expressed by gen. or dat.; appositional clauses are also for the most part placed in the accusative, as in L. 1. 73 f. τοῦ δοῦναι ἡμῖν ... ρυσθέντας λατρεύειν, Η. 2. 10, A. 15. 22, 25 (in 25 ABL have εκλεξαμένοις) etc.; the dat is only found in the following passages, 2 P. 2. 21 κρείσσον ήν αὐτοίς μη ἐπεγνωκέναι ... η ἐπιγνοῦσιν ἐπιστρέψαι (where however the participle belongs rather to κρείσσον ην αὐτοίς than to the inf., as it decidedly does in A. 16. 21, where Pωμαίοις οὖσιν goes with ἔξεστιν ἡμῖν; so in L. 1. 3), L. 9. 59 ἐπίτρεψόν μοι πρώτον ἀπελθόντι (but D has -τα, ΑΚΠ ἀπελθεῖν καὶ) θάψαι τὸν πατέρα μου, Α. 27. 3 ἐπέτρεψεν (sc. τῷ Παύλω) πρὸς τοὺς φίλους πορευθέντι (ΝΑΒ; -τα ΗLΡ) ἐπιμελείας τυχείν.

§ 73. PARTICIPLE. (I.) PARTICIPLE AS ATTRIBUTE— REPRESENTING A SUBSTANTIVE—AS PREDICATE.

- 1. The participles—which are declinable nouns belonging to the verb, used to express not action or being acted upon, like the infinitive, but the actor or the person acted on—have not as yet in the N.T. forfeited much of that profusion with which they appear in the classical language, since their only loss is that the future participles are less widely used (§ 61, 4); the further development of the language into modern popular Greek certainly very largely reduced the number of these verbal forms, and left none of them remaining except the (pres. and perf.) participles passive and an indeclinable gerund in place of the pres. part. act. The usages of the participle in the N.T. are also on the whole the same as in the classical language, though with certain limitations, especially with regard to the frequency with which some of them are employed.
- 2. Participle as attribute (or in apposition) with or without an article, equivalent to a relative sentence. Mt. 25. 34 την ήτοιμασμένην ὑμῖν βασιλείαν, = τ. β. ἡ ὑμῖν ἡτοίμασται: Mc. 3. 22 οἱ γραμματεῖς οἱ ἀπὸ Ἱεροσολύμων καταβάντες: L. 6. 48 ὅμοιός ἐστιν ἀνθρώπφ οἰκοδομοῦντι οἰκίαν, cp. Mt. 7. 24 ἀνδρὶ ὅστις ϣκοδόμησεν αὐτοῦ τὴν οἰκίαν: Mc. 5. 25 γυνὴ οὖσα ἐν ῥύσει αἴματος κ.τ.λ. (the participles continue for a long way; cp. L. 8. 43, where the first part. is succeeded by a relative sentence. Frequently we have ὁ λεγόμενος, καλούμενος (in Lc. also ἐπικαλ., of surnames. A. 10. 18, cp. δς ἐπικαλεῖται 5. 32) followed by a proper name, the art. with the participle being placed after the generic word or the original name: ὅρους τοῦ καλουμένου ἐλαιῶν Α. 1. 12, Ἰησοῦς ὁ λεγόμενος Χριστός Mt 1. 16¹ (we never find such expressions as in Thuc. ii. 29. 3 της Φωκίδος νῦν καλουμένης γης, or in iv. 8. 6 ή νησος ή Σφακτηρία καλουμένη). A point to be noticed is the separation of the participle from the word or words which further define its meaning: aR. 8. 18 την μέλλουσαν δόξαν ἀποκαλυφθηναι, G. 3. 23, 1 C. 12. 22 τὰ δοκοῦντα μέλη ... ὑπάρχειν, 2 P. 3. 2, A. 13. 1 έν 'Αντιοχεία κατὰ τὴν οὖσαν ἐκκλησίαν, 14. 13 τοῦ ὄντος Διὸς πρὸ πόλεως according to the reading of D (see Ramsay, Church in Roman Empire, p. 51 f.), 28° 17. Participles as a rule do not show a tendency to dispense with the article, even where the preceding substantive has none; in that case (cp. § 47, 6) the added clause containing the article often gives a supplementary definition or a reference to some well-known fact: 1 P. 1. 7 χρυσίου τοῦ ἀπολλυμένου, L. 7. 32 παιδίοις τοῖς ἐν ἀγορῷ καθημένοις, Jo. 12. 12 ὅχλος πολὺς (ὁ ὄχλος πολύς BL; perhaps πολύς should be omitted, so Nonnus) δ έλθων είς την έορτην, Α. 4. 12 οὐδε γαρ ονομά έστιν ετερον το δεδομένον. In these last and in similar passages (Mc. 14. 41, A. 11. 21, where DE al. omit the art., Jd. 4, 2 Jo. 7) the presence of the article is remarkable, not because it would be better omitted—for that must have obscured the attributive character of the clause—but because according to Attic custom this attributive character should rather have been expressed by a relative sentence. The same use of the art. is found with τινές without a substantive: L. 18. 9 τινάς τούς πεποιθότας έφ' έαυτοίς, G. 1. 7 εί μή τινές είσιν οἱ ταράσσοντες ἡμᾶς, Col. 2. 8; the definite article here has no force, and we may compare in Isocrates είσί τινες οι μέγα φρονούσιν (10. 1), ε. τ. οι ... έχουσι (15. 46). These constructions have therefore been caused by the fact that a relative sentence and a participle with the article have become synonymous.2—The participle with article is found, as in classical Greek, with a personal pronoun, Ja. 4. 12 σὺ τίς εἶ ὁ κρίνων (ôs κρίνεις KL), 1 C. 8. 10 σε (om. B al.) τον έχοντα, R. 9. 20, Jo. 1. 12 etc.; also where the pronoun must be supplied from the verb, H. 4. 3 εἰσερχόμεθα ... οἱ πιστεύσαντες, 6. 18; it is especially frequent with an imperative, Mt. 7. 23, 27. 40 (also οὐαὶ ὑμῖν, οἱ ἐμπεπλησμένοι $= 0^{\circ} \epsilon \mu \pi \epsilon \pi \lambda \eta \sigma \theta \epsilon$ L. 6. 25, though in 24 we have oval $\psi \mu \hat{\nu} \nu \tau \hat{\nu} \hat{\nu}$ πλουσίοις; Α. 13. 16 ἄνδρες Ίσραηλίται καὶ [sc. ὑμεῖς] οἱ φοβούμενοι $\tau \partial \nu \theta \epsilon \delta \nu$, 2. 14; § 33, 4).

3. The participle when used without a substantive (or pronoun) and in place of one, as a rule takes the article as it does in classical Greek: ὁ παραδιδούς με Μt. 26. 46 (cp. 48; Ἰούδας ὁ παρ. αὐτόν 25), ὁ κλέπτων 'he who has stolen hitherto' E. 4. 28 etc. so also when used as a predicate (cp. § 47, 3), Jo. 8. 28 ἐγω εἰμι ὁ μαρτυρῶν, 6. 63 etc. Where it is used with a general application as in E. 4. 28 loc. cit. πᾶς may be inserted: πᾶςι τοῖς κατοικοῦσιν Α. 1. 19; πᾶς ὁ omitted according to Attic usage, but may stand according to the usage of the N.T.: cp. the further instances given of this in the text. The reading $\tau \delta$ λεγόμενον (and the insertion of $\dot{\eta}$) may be due to κολνμβήθρα being taken as a dative.

όργιζόμενος Mt. 5. 25, cp. 28, 7. 8 etc., L. 6. 30, 47 etc., A. 10. 43, 13. 39 (πâs ὁ not elsewhere in Acts), R. 1. 16, 2. 1 etc., though in other cases the article cannot be used with $\pi \hat{a}s$ 'everyone,' § 47, 9. Cp. Soph. Aj. 152 πâs ὁ κλύων, Demosth. 23. 97 πâs ὁ θέμενος (Krüger, Gr. 50, 4, 1: 11, 11). The article is omitted in Mt. 13. 19 παντὸς ἀκούοντος, L. 11. 4 παντὶ ὀφείλοντι (LX insert art.; D reads quite differently), 2 Th. 2. 4, Ap. 22. 15; and in all cases where a substantive is introduced as in Mt. 12. 25 (here again participle with art, is equivalent to a relative sentence, cp. πα̂s οστις Mt. 7. 24 with the part. in 26). Instances without $\pi \hat{a}s$ where the art. is omitted (occasionally found in class. Gk., Kühner-Gerth ii. 3 608 f.): ἡγούμενος Mt. 2. 6 O.T. (see § 47, 3), φωνή βοῶντος Mc. 1. 3 Ο.Τ., ἔχεις ἐκεῖ κρατούντας Ap. 2. 14, οὐκ ἔστιν συνίων κ.τ.λ. R. 3. 11 f. O.T. (according to (A)BG, other Mss. insert art., in LXX. Ps. 13. 1 f. most Mss. omit it), 'one who' or 'persons who,' though with οἰκ ἔστιν, ἔχω and similar words the article is not ordinarily omitted in Attic.— Neuter participle, sing. and plur.: Mt. 1. 20 τὸ ἐν αὐτῆ γεννηθέν, 2. 15 and passim τὸ ἡηθέν, L. 2. 27 τὸ εἰθισμένον (ἔθος D) τοῦ νόμου (cp. § 47, 1), 3. 13 τὸ διατεταγμένον ὑμῖν, 4. 16 κατὰ τὸ εἰωθὸς αὐτῷ, 8. 56 το γεγονός, 9. 7 τὰ γενόμενα, Jo. 16. 13 τὰ ἐρχόμενα, 1 C. 1. 28 τὰ έξουθενημένα, τὰ μὴ ὄντα, τὰ ὄντα, 10. 27 πῶν τὸ παρατιθέμενον, 14. 7, 9 το αὐλούμενον etc., 2 C. 3. 10 f. το δεδοξασμένον, το καταργούμενον etc., Η. 12. 10 κατά τὸ δοκοῦν αὐτοῖς, ἐπὶ τὸ συμφέρον, 12. 11 προς το παρόν etc. On the whole, as compared with the classical language, the use of the neuter is not a very frequent one: like the masculine participle it sometimes has reference to some individual thing, sometimes it generalizes; τὸ συμφέρου has also (as in Attic) become a regular substantive, if it is the correct reading, and not σύμφορον, in 1 C. 7. 35, 10. 33 τὸ ὑμῶν αὐτῶν (ἐμαυτοῦ) συμφέρον (8° al.).—In one or two passages we also find the rare future participle used with the article without a substantive: L. 22. 49 τδ έσόμενον (τὸ γενόμ. D; other MSS. omit these words altogether from the text), etc., see § 61, 1.

4. The participle stands as part of the predicate in the first place in the periphrastic forms of the verb, § 62: viz. in the perfect (and fut. perf.) as in classical Greek, also according to Aramaic manner in the imperfect and future, the boundary-line between this use of the participle and its use as a clause in apposition being not very clearly drawn, ibid. 2. The finite verb used with it is είναι or γίνεσθαι (ibid. 3). This predicative participle is further used as the complement of a series of verbs which express a qualified form of the verb 'to be' (to be continually, to be secretly etc.), and which by themselves give a quite incomplete sense; still this use of the part. as the complement of another verb has very much gone out in the N.T. and is mainly found only in Luke and Paul (Hebrews). Υπάρχειν (strictly 'to be beforehand," 'to be already' so and so, though in the N.T. and elsewhere in the later language its meaning is weakened to that of cival; nowhere in the N.T. has it the sense of 'to take the lead in an action') takes a participle in A. 8. 16, 19. 36, Ja. 2. 15 γυμνοί υπάρχωσιν καὶ λειπόμενοι (ὧσιν add. ALP) της ... τροφης; προϋπάρχειν

(which obviously contains the meaning of 'before'; a classical word) takes a part. in L. 23. 12 (I) is different): but the part. is independent in A. 8. 9 προϋπηρχεν έν τη πόλει, μαγεύων κ.τ.λ. (cp. the text of D). If the complement of this and of similar verbs is formed by an adjective or a preposition with a noun, then we should be inserted; but this participle is usually omitted with this verb and the other verbs belonging to this class, cp. infra; Phrynichus 277 notes φίλος σοι τυγχάνω without ών as a Hellenistic construction (though instances of it are not wanting in Attic).—This verb τυγχάνω 'to be by accident' never takes a part. in N.T.; διατελεῖν 'to continue' takes an adj. without ων in A. 27. 33, for which we have ἐπιμένειν (cp. διαμένω λέγων Demosth. 8. 71 1) in 'Jo.' 8. 7 ἐπέμενον ἐρωτῶντες, A. 12. 16, Clem. Cor. ii. 10. 5, and as in Attic οὐ διέλιπεν καταφιλοῦσα L. 7. 45, cp. A. 20. 27 D, Herm. Vis. i. 3. 2, iv. 3. 6, Mand. ix. 8. "Apx coolar in Attic takes a participle, if the initial action is contrasted with the lasting or final action, elsewhere the inf., which is used in all cases in the N.T.; however there is no passage where the part. would have had to be used according to the Attic rule. Παύεσθαι takes a part. in L. 5. 4, A. 5. 42, 6. 13 etc., E. 1. 16, Col. 1. 9, H. 10. 2 (where it has a part. pass. οὐκ ἄν ἐπαύσαντο προσφερόμεναι); for which we have the unclassical τελείν in Mt. 11. 1 ετέλεσεν διατάσσων (cp. D in Luke 7. 1).—Λανθάνων only takes a part. in H. 13. 2 έλαθον (sc. έαυτους) ξενίσαντες (literary language); φαίνεσθαι in Mt. 6. 18 οπως μη φανής τοις ανθρώποις νηστείων, where however νηστεύων is an addition to the subject as in verse 17 συ δε νηστ. ἄλειψαι, and $\phi av\hat{\eta}s \tau$. $av\theta \rho$. is an independent clause as in verse 5 (we nowhere have φαίνομαι or φανερός είμι, δηλός είμι with a part. in the Attic manner = 'it is evident that'; on φανεροῦσθαι ὅτι see § 70, 3).—With verbs meaning 'to cease' or 'not to desist' may be reckoned ἐγκακεῖν which takes a part. in G. 6. 9, 2 Th. 3. 13; the Attic words κάμνειν, άπαγορεύειν 'to fail,' ἀνέχεσθαι, καρτερείν, ὑπομένειν do not appear with a participle. Προέφθασεν αὐτὸν λέγων Mt. 17. 25 agrees with classical usage (the simple verb has almost lost the meaning of 'before'); it takes the inf. in Clem. Cor. ii. 8. 2, see § 69, 4.—Other expressions denoting action qualified in some way or other take a part.: καλώς ποιείν as in Attic, καλώς ἐποίησας παραγενόμενος Α. 10. 33, cp. Ph. 4. 14, 2 P. 1. 19, 3 Jo. 6; for which we find incorrectly $\epsilon \vartheta$ $\pi \rho \acute{a} \sigma \sigma \epsilon \iota \nu$ in A. 15. 29? To this category belongs also $\tau \iota$ $\pi o \iota \epsilon \iota \iota \tau \epsilon$ λύοντες Mc. 11. 5, cp. A. 21. 13; and again ημαρτον παραδούς Mt. 27. 4.— $O''_{\chi} \epsilon \sigma \theta a \iota$ and the like are never found with a participle.

5. A further category of verbs which take a participle as their complement consists of those which denote emotion, such as $\chi \alpha i \rho \epsilon \iota \nu$, $\delta \rho \gamma \iota \zeta \epsilon \sigma \theta \alpha \iota$, $\alpha i \sigma \chi \dot{\nu} \nu \epsilon \sigma \theta \alpha \iota$ and the like; this usage, however, has almost disappeared in the N.T. A. 16. 34 ἢγαλλιᾶτο πεπιστευκώς is an undoubted instance of it; but Jo. 20. 20 ἐχάρησαν ἰδόντες² undoubtedly means 'when they saw Him' (the participle being an additional independent statement), as in Ph. 2. 28 ἵνα ἰδόντες αὐτὸν χαρῆτε, Mt.

[&]quot; v. App. p. 322.

2. 10. Another instance is 2 P. 2. 20 δόξας οὐ τρέμουσιν βλασφημοῦντες 'do not shudder at reviling'; but in 1 C. 14. 18 εὐχαριστῶ... λαλών is a wrong reading (of KL; correctly λαλώ).—The use of the participle as a complement has been better preserved in the case of verbs of perceiving and apprehending; in classical Greek the part. stands in the nominative, if the perception refers to the subject, e.g. όρω ήμαρτηκώς, in the accusative (or genitive) if it refers to the object, whereas in the N.T. except with passive verbs the nominative is no longer found referring to the subject (οτι is used instead in Mc. 5. 29, 1 Jo. 3. 14). With verbs meaning to see ($\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\omega$, $\theta\epsilon\omega\rho\hat{\omega}$, $[\delta\rho\hat{\omega}]$, $\epsilon\hat{t}\delta\sigma\nu$, $\epsilon\theta\epsilon\alpha\sigma\hat{u}\mu\nu$, $\epsilon\delta\rho\alpha\kappa\alpha$, $\tau\epsilon\theta\epsilon\hat{u}\mu\alpha$, $\delta\psi\sigma\mu\alpha$) we have Mt. 24. 36 οψονται τον υίον τοῦ ἀνθρ. ἐρχόμενον, cp. 15. 31, Mc. 5. 31, Jo. 1. 32, 38 etc.; with οντα A. 8. 23, 17. 16; with an ellipse of this participle (cp. supra 4; also found in classical Greek, Krüger, Gr. § 56, 7, 4) Jo. 1. 51 είδον σε υποκάτω της συκης, Mt. 25. 38 f. είδομέν σε ξένον, ασθενή (ασθενουντα BD), cp. 45, A. 17. 22 ώς δεισιδαιμονεστέρους ύμας $\theta \epsilon \omega \rho \hat{\omega}$. (These verbs also take $\delta \tau \iota$, § 70, 2.) Occasionally with the verb 'to see' as with other verbs of this kind the participle is rather more distinct from the object and presents an additional clause. while object and verb together give a fairly complete idea: Mt. 22. 11 είδεν έκει ανθρωπον οικ ένδεδυμένον κ.τ.λ., = ος ουκ ένεδέδυτο, Mc. 11. 13 ιδών συκην ἀπὸ μακρόθεν ἔχουσαν φύλλα, 'which had leaves.'— 'Aκούων with a part. is no longer frequent; alternative constructions, if the substance of the thing heard is stated, are the acc. and inf. and especially ὅτι, § 70, 2; it takes the acc. and part. in L. 4. 23 ὅσα $\mathring{\eta}$ κούσαμεν γενόμενα, A. 7. 12, 3 Jo. 4, 2 Th. 3. 11,2 and incorrectly instead of the gen. in A. 9. 4, 26. 14, vide infra. The construction with a gen. and part. is also not frequent apart from the Acts: Mc. 12. 28 ἀκούσας αὐτῶν συζητούντων, 14. 58, L. 18. 36 ὅχλου διαπορευομένου, Jo. 1. 37, A. 2. 6, 6. 11 etc.; in 22. 7 and 11. 7 ήκουσα φωνής λεγούσης μοι, for which in 9. 4, 26. 14 we have φωνήν λέγουσαν (in 26. 14 E has the gen.), although φωνή refers to the speaker and not to the thing spoken. Cp. § 36, 5.—Γινώσκειν has this construction in L. 8. 46 έγνων δύναμιν έξεληλυθυΐαν ἀπ' έμοῦ, A. 19. 35, H. 13. 23; but ἐπιγιν. Mc. 5. 30 (cp. L. loc. cit.) takes an object with an attributive participle, ἐπιγνοὺς τὴν ἐξ αὐτοῦ δύν. έξελθούσαν.—Είδέναι is so used only in 2 C. 12. 2 οίδα ... άρπαγέντα τὸν τοιοῦτον (it takes an adj. without ὄντα in Mc. 6. 20 εἰδως αὐτὸν ἄνδρα δίκαιον, where D inserts εἶναι); elsewhere it has the inf. and most frequently ότι, § 70, 2.— Επίστασθαι in A. 24. 10 όντα σε κριτήν έπιστάμενος, cp. 26. 3 where BEH omit έπιστ.—Εύρίσκειν commonly takes this construction (also classical, Thuc. ii. 6. 3), Mt. 12. 44 εύρισκει (sc. τὸν οἶκον, which D inserts) σχολάζοντα, 24, 46 ὃν ... εὐρήσει

ποιοῦντα οὕτως, etc. (occasionally as with the verb 'to see,' the part. is more distinct from the object, A. 9. 2 τινάς εξρη της όδου δντας 'who were'); the pass, εὐρίσκεσθαι is used with the nom, of the part. (= Attic φαίνεσθαί, Viteau), ευρέθη έν γαστρι έχουσα Mt. 1. 18.— Δοκιμάζειν in 2 C. 8, 22 ον εδοκιμάσαμεν ('have proved') σπουδαίον όντα (used in another way it takes the inf., § 69, 4).—Instances of this construction are wanting with συνιέναι, 1αίσθάνεσθαι, μεμνησθαι and others; μανθάνειν (class. μανθάνω διαβεβλημένος 'that I am slandered') only appears to take it in 1 Tim. 5. 13 αμα δε καὶ ἀργαὶ $\mu \alpha \nu \theta \dot{\alpha} \nu \sigma \nu \sigma \nu \tau \epsilon \rho \iota \epsilon \rho \chi \dot{\alpha} \mu \epsilon \nu \alpha \iota$, where $\pi \epsilon \rho \iota \epsilon \rho \chi$. is in any case an additional statement, while appai is the predicate, with the omission (through corruption of the text) of είναι (μανθ. takes the inf. ibid. 4, Ph. 4. II, Tit. 3. 14).—Verbs of opining strictly take an inf. or a double accusative (§ 34, 5); but in the latter case the acc. of the predicate may be a participle, ἔχε με παρητημένον L. 14. 18, ἀλλήλους ήγούμενοι υπερέχοντας Ph. 2. 3. The participle with ωs may also in classical Greek be used with verbs of this class (Hdt. ii. 1 ως δούλους πατρωΐους ἐόντας ἐνόμιζε), as it is in 2 C. 10. 2 τοὺς λογιζομένους ήμᾶς ώς κατά σάρκα περιπατοῦντας, but we may equally well have εύρεθείς ώς ἄνθρωπος Ph. 2. 8, ώς $\epsilon \chi \theta \rho \delta \nu \eta \gamma \epsilon i \sigma \theta \epsilon 2$ Th. 3. 15, so that one sees that in the first passage the participle possesses no peculiar function of its own. Cp. § 74, 6.— Ομολογείν takes a double accusative in Jo. 9. 22 (D inserts είναι) and R. 10. 9 εάν ὁμολογήσης κύριον Ἰησοῦν 'confessest J. as Lord'; accordingly we have also in 1 Jo. 4. 2 'Ino. Χρ. έν σαρκὶ ἐληλυθότα, unless B is more correct in reading ἐληλυθέναι: cp. 3 with the reading of * I. κύριον έν σ. έληλυθότα, and 2 Jo. 7.— Verbs of showing are never found with a participle, § 70, 3.

§ 74. PARTICIPLE. (II.) AS AN ADDITIONAL CLAUSE IN THE SENTENCE.

- 1. The participle is found still more abundantly used as an additional clause in the sentence, either referring to a noun (or pronoun) employed in the same sentence and in agreement with it (the conjunctive participle), or used independently and then usually placed together with the noun, which is its subject, in the genitive (the participle absolute). In both cases there is no nearer definition inherent in the participle as such, of the relation in which it stands to the remaining assertions of the sentence; but such a definition may be given by prefixing a particle and in a definite way by the tense of the participle (the future). The same purpose may be fulfilled by the writer, if he pleases, in other ways, with greater definiteness though at the same time with greater prolixity: namely, by a prepositional expression, by a conditional, causal, or temporal sentence etc., and lastly by the use of several co-ordinated principal verbs.
- The conjunctive participle.—1 Tim. 1. 13 ἀγνοῶν ἐποίησα, cp.
 A. 3. 17 κατὰ ἄγνοιαν ἐπράξατε, per inscitiam: Mt. 6. 27 (L. 12. 25)
 τίς μεριμνῶν δύναται προσθείναι κ.τ.λ., 'by taking thought,' or = ἐὰν καὶ

μεριμνα. We may note the occasional omission of the part. ων: L. 4. 1 Ίησους δε πλήρης πνεύματος άγίου υπέστρεψεν, cp. Â. 6. 8 a quite similar phrase: H. 7. 2, A. 19. 37 οὔτε ἱεροσύλους οὔτε βλασφημοῦντας (cp. Kühner ii. 659), where the part is concessive or adversative: as in Mt. 7. 11 εἰ ὑμεῖς πονηροὶ ὄντες οἴδατε κ.τ.λ., 'although you are evil' (cp. L. 11, 13). To denote this sense more clearly classical Greek avails itself of the particle καίπερ, which is rare in the N.T.: Ph. 3. 4 καίπερ έγω ἔχων πεποίθησιν κ.τ.λ., H. 5. 8, 7. 5, 12. 17: 2 P. 1. 12 (Herm. Sim. viii 6. 4, 11. 1); it also uses καὶ ταῦτα, which in the N.T. appears in H. 11. 12; a less classical use is καίτοι with a part., likewise only found in H. 4. 3 (before a participle absolute), and a still less classical word is καίτοιγε (in classical Greek the ye is detached and affixed to the word emphasized), which however is only found with a finite verb, and therefore with a sort of paratactical construction: Jo. 4. 2 (καίτοι C), A. 14. 17 (καίτοι R°ABC*); in A. 17. 27 καίγε 'indeed appears to be the better reading (καίτοιγε κ, καίτοι AE), here a participle follows. Cp. § 77, 4 and 14. -Conditional participle: L. 9. 25 τι ωφελείται ανθρωπος κερδήσας τον κόσμον ὅλον, = Mt. 16. 26 ἐὰν κερδήση. Causal: Mt. 1. 19 Ἰωσὴ ϕ ..., δίκαιος ών καὶ μὴ θέλων αύτην δειγματίσαι, έβουλήθη κ.τ.λ., = ὅτι δίκαιος ην, or διὰ τὸ δίκαιος είναι, or (in class. Greek) ἄτε (οίον, οία) δ. ών, particles which are no longer found in the N.T. Final participle: the classical use of the fut. part. in this sense in the N.T. apart from Lc. (A. 8. 27 έληλύθει προσκυνήσων, 22. 5. 24. 17, also 25. 13 according to the correct reading ἀσπασόμενοι, § 58, 4) occurs only in Mt. 27. 49 (ἔρχεται σώσων: but  has σῶσαι, Ď καὶ σώσει). More commonly this function is performed by the pres. part., § 58, 4, as in L. 7. 6 ἔπεμψεν φίλους ὁ έκαντοντάρχης λέγων αὐτῷ, unless (Viteau, p. 186) another construction with kindred meaning is introduced, such as in Mt. 11. 2 πέμψας εἶπεν, 1 C. 4. 17 ἔπεμψα Τιμόθεον, δς αναμνήσει, or the infinitive, which is the commonest construction of all, § 69, 2.—Then the most frequent use of this participle is to state the manner in which an action takes place, its antecedents and its accompaniments, in which case it would sometimes be possible to use a temporal sentence in its place, and sometimes not, viz. if the statement is of too little importance to warrant the latter construction. For instance, in Mc. 1. 7 οδ οὐκ εἰμὶ ἰκανὸς κύψας λῦσαι τὸν ἰμάντα, no one would have said ἐπειδὰν κύψω; nor again in A. 21. 32 ος παραλαβών στρατιώτας κατέδραμεν έπ' αὐτόν would anyone have used such a phrase as ἐπειδὴ παρέλαβεν, since the part. in this passage (as λαβών often does in class. Greek) corresponds to our 'with' and admits of no analysis (see also Jo. 18. 3, which Viteau compares with Mt. 26. 47, where we have μετ' αὐτοῦ; Mt 25. 1). Similarly φέρων = 'with' in Jo. 19. 39; Exw, which is also very common in class. Greek, occurs in L. 2. 42 in D, besides in Mt. 15. 30 with the addition of $\mu \epsilon \theta^r$ ξαυτών (άγων occurs nowhere). While therefore these classical phrases with the exception of λαβών are disappearing, λαβών is also used in another way together with other descriptive participles, which according to Hebrew precedent become purely pleonastic (Viteau, p. 191): Mt. 13. 31 κόκκω σινάπεως, δν λαβών ἄνθρωπος ἔσπειρεν, and again in 33 ζύμη ἣν λαβοῦσα γυνὴ ἐνέκρυψεν, 14. 19 λαβὼν τοὺς ἄρτους εὐλόγησεν, 21. 35, 39 etc.; so also ἀναστάς (after the Hebr. [37]) L. 15. 18 ἀναστὰς πορεύσομαι, ibid. 20, A. 5. 17, 8. 27 etc.; Mt. 13. 46 ἀπελθὼν πέπρακεν (cp. 25. 18, 25), πορευθές 25. 16 (both verbs representing the Hebr. [37]), cp. infra 3.—The classical use of ἀρχόμενος 'at the beginning,' τελευτῶν 'in conclusion,' is not found; but we find as in class. Greek ἀρξάμενοι ἀπὸ Ἰερουσαλήμ L. 24. 47, ἀ. ἀπὸ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων 'Jo.' 8. 9 'beginning with,' with which in the passage of 'Jo.' we have in the ordinary text (D is different) the unclassical addition of ἕως τῶν ἐσχάτων, as also in A. 1. 22 ἀρξάμενος ἀπὸ τοῦ βαπτίσματος Ἰωάνου ἄχρι (ἕως BD) κ.τ.λ. (L. 23. 5, Mt. 20. 8). ᾿Αρξάμενος is used pleonastically in A. 11. 4 ἀρξάμενος Πέτρος ἐξετίθετο αὐτοῖς καθεξῆς, with a certain reference to καθεξῆς and occasioned by that word; cp. on ἤρξατο with inf. § 69, 4 note 1, on p. 227.—With προσθεὶς εἶπεν 'said further L. 19. 11, cp. προστίθεσθαι with the inf. (a Hebraism) § 69, 4.

3. Conjunctive participle and co-ordination.—The pleonastic use of $\lambda \alpha \beta \epsilon \hat{i} \nu$ etc. (supra 2) does not necessarily require the participle, and the finite verb (with καί) may also be employed in this way—a construction which exactly corresponds to the Hebrew exemplar, and which in Greek would only be regarded as intolerable when continued at some length. In the LXX. we have Gen. 32. 22 ἀναστὰς δὲ τὴν νύκτα ἐκείνην, ἔλαβε τὰς δύο γυναίκας... καὶ διέβη ..., (23) καὶ ἔλαβεν αὐτοὺς καὶ διέβη κ.τ.λ., which for the most part agrees word for word with the Hebrew, except that a perfect agreement would have also required καὶ ἀνέστη ... καὶ ἔλαβεν at the beginning, which was felt to be intolerable even by this translator. The N.T. writers have also in the case of this particular verb usually preferred the participle; co-ordination is only rarely found as in A. 8. 26 ἀνάστηθι καὶ πορεύου (here also D has ἀναστὰς πορεύθητι; the MSS. often give ἀνάστα without καὶ with asyndeton, A. 9. 11 B, 10. 13 Vulgate, 20 D* Vulg., so in 11. 7; cp. § 79, 4); L. 22. 17 λάβετε τουτο και δισμερίσατε. the introduction to a speech we find already in Hebrew שביל used with a finite verb such as 'asked' or 'answered': the Greek equivalent for this is λέγων, numerous instances of which appear in the N.T. after ἀποκρίνεσθαι, λαλείν, κράζειν, παρακαλείν etc. Hebrew the word 'answered' is also succeeded by [LXX. καὶ] (LXX. καὶ $\epsilon l \pi \epsilon \nu$), and the same construction occurs in the N.T. e.g. Jo. 20. 28 άπεκρίθη θωμᾶς καὶ εἶπεν, 14. 23, 18. 30 (so almost always in John's Gospel, unless $d\pi \epsilon \kappa \rho$ is used without an additional word), L. 17. 20; beside which we have ἀπεκρίθη λέγων Mc. 15. 9 (D ἀποκριθεὶς λέγει), A. 15. 13 (not in D), ἀπεκρίθησαν λέγουσαι Mt. 25. 9, cp. 37, 44 f. (Jo. 12. 23), and by far the most predominant formula except in John ἀποκριθεὶς εἶπεν (twice in the second half of the Acts 19. 15 [not in D], 25. 9). We never find ἀποκρινόμενος είπεν, any more than we find ἀπεκρίθη εἰπών, since the answer is reported as a fact, and therefore in the agrist, while the verb of saying which is joined with it in the participle gives the manner of the answer, and must therefore be a present participle. John (and Paul) have also the following combinations: Jo. 1. 25 καὶ ἠρώτησαν αὐτὸν καὶ εἶπον αὐτῷ ? (text doubtful), Mt. 15. 23 ηρώτων λέγοντες, and so John himself has ηρώτησαν λέγ. 4. 31, 9. 2 [om. λεγ. D al.] etc., 9. 28 έλοιδόρησαν αὐτὸν καὶ εἶπαν, 12. 44 εκραξεν και είπεν (D εκραζε και ελεγεν), cp. D in L. 8. 28 (but Mt. 8. 29 has ἔκραξαν λέγοντες, so 14. 30 etc.; κράξας λέγει Mc. 5. 7 [εἶπε D], κράξας ἔλεγε 9. 24 [λέγει a better reading in D]; ἐκραύγασαν [v.l. ἔκραζον] λέγ. Jo. 19. 12 [without λέγ.  al.], 18. 40 [without λέγ. bce Chrys.]); Jo. 13. 21 έμαρτύρησε καὶ εἶπε (A. 13. 22 εἶπεν μαρτυρήσας; Jo. 1. 32 έμαρτύρησεν λέγων, but without λέγ. e); R. 10. 20 αποτολμά καὶ λέγει; Jo. 18. 25 ήρνήσατο καὶ εἶπε, Mt. 26. 70 etc. ήρν. λέγων, but A. 7. 35 ον ηρνήσαντο εἰπόντες. The tense in the last instance εἰπόντες is occasioned by the fact that ήρν. is not here a verbum dicendi; accordingly we find the same tense elsewhere. Jo. 11. 28 εφώνησεν την άδελφην (called) είπουσα (with the words). = καὶ εἶπεν 18. 33; Α. 22. 24 ἐκέλευσεν εἶσάγεσθαὶ ... εἴπας, 21. 14ήσυχάσαμεν είπόντες, L. 5. 13 ήψατο είπών, 22. 8 ἀπέστειλεν είπών (Mt. inversely has $\pi \epsilon \mu \psi a = \epsilon i \pi \epsilon \nu$ 'sent with the words'; 11. 3 $\pi \epsilon \mu \psi a = \delta \iota a$ $\tau \hat{\omega} \nu \, \mu \alpha \theta \eta \tau \hat{\omega} \nu \, \epsilon \hat{i} \pi \epsilon \nu$ is rather different 'he bade them say'). By the use of the agrist participle nothing is stated with regard to the sequence of time (cp. § 58, 4), any more than it is by the use of the equivalent co-ordination with καὶ: L. 15. 23 φαγόντες εὐφρανθωμεν, = D $\phi \dot{\alpha} \gamma \omega \mu \epsilon \nu \kappa \alpha \hat{i} \epsilon \hat{\nu} \dot{\phi} \rho$. With the finite verb $\epsilon \hat{i} \pi \epsilon \nu$ we do indeed occasionally find λέγων (L. 12. 16, 20. 2; see § 24 s v. λέγειν), but other participles, which express something more than merely saying, are always agrist participles as in the instances quoted hitherto: παρρησιασάμενοι ε. A. 13. 46, προσευξάμενοι ε. 1. 24, since the two verbs, which denote one and the same action, are assimilated to each other. Between two participles of this kind a connecting copula is inserted : κράζοντες καὶ λέγοντες Mt. 9. 27, ἀποταξάμενος καὶ εἰπών A. 18. 21 (the β text is different), Paul rather harshly has χαίρων καὶ βλέπων Col. 2. 5 meaning 'since I see'; where no such close homogeneity exists between them, the participles may follow each other with asyndeton, and often are bound to do so: A. 18. 23 έξηλθεν, διερχόμενος την Γαλατικήν χώραν, στηρίζων τους μαθητάς, = εξηλθεν καὶ διήρχετο (§ 58, 4) στηρίζων (the latter part, being subordinated as the sense requires): 19. 16 έφαλόμενος ὁ ἄνθρωπος ἐπ' αὐτοὺς ..., κατακυριεύσας ἀμφοτέρων ἴσχυσεν κατ' αὐτῶν, = ἐφήλετο καὶ κ.τ.λ., whereas the reading καὶ κατακ. (HLP) connects κατακυριεύειν with έφαλέσθαι in a way that is not so good; in 18 22 κατελθων είς Καισάρειαν, άναβάς καὶ άσπασάμενος τους μαθητάς, κατέβη είς 'Αντιοχειαν a second καὶ before <math> αναβὰs would be possible but ugly: the sentence may be resolved into <math>κατῆλθεν εἰς Κ., αναβὰs δὲ καὶ κ.τ.λ. These instances of accumulation of participles, which are not uncommon in the Acts (as distinguished from the simpler manner of the Gospels¹), are never devoid of a certain amount of stylistic refinement, which is absent from the instances of accumulation in the epistolary style of St. Paul, which consist rather of a mere stringing together of words.

- 4. A thoroughly un-Greek usage, though common in the LXX., is the addition to a finite verb of the participle belonging to that verb, in imitation of the infinitive which is so constantly introduced in Hebrew, and which in other cases is rendered in more correct Greek by the dative of the verbal substantive, § 38, 3. The N.T. only has this part. in O.T. quotations: Mt. 13. 14 $\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\nu\tau\epsilon$ $\beta\lambda\epsilon\psi\epsilon\tau\epsilon$, A. 7. 34 $\delta\delta\nu$ $\epsilon\delta\delta\nu$, H. 6. 14.
- 5. Participle absolute.—Of the absolute participal constructions the classical language makes the most abundant use of the genitive absolute: the use of the accusative absolute is in its way as regular. but is not found very frequently: the nominative absolute (as in Hdt. vii. 157 άλης γινομένη ή Ελλάς, χείρ μεγάλη συνάγεται) is antiquated and was never a common construction. The N.T. has only preserved the use of the genitive in this way; since the so-called instances of the nom. absolute to be found there are really no construction at all, but its opposite, i.e. anacoluthon (see \S 79, 7). Now the use of the gen. abs. in the regular classical language is limited to the case where the noun or pronoun to which the participle refers does not appear as the subject or have any other function in the sentence; in all other cases the conjunctive participle must be used. The New Testament writers on the other hand—in the same way in which they are inclined to detach the infinitive from the structure of the sentence, and to give it a subject of its own in the accusative, even where this is already the main subject of the sentence (§ 72, 2 and 3)—show a similar tendency to give a greater independence to participial additional clauses, and adopt the absolute construction in numerous instances, even where classical writers would never have admitted it as a special license.2 Mt. 9. 18 ταῦτα αὐτοῦ λαλοῦντος αὐτοῖς, ἰδοὺ ἄρχων ... προσεκύνει αὐτῷ; cp. 10 (where it is more excusable), 18. 24, 24. 3, 26. 6, 27. 17, in all which cases the noun which is the subject of the participle appears in the dative in the main sentence (in 5. I αὐτῷ is omitted in B; in 8. I according to *KL al. we should read καταβάντι δὲ αὐτῷ ... ήκολούθησαν αὐτῷ, likewise grossly incorrect, cp. inf.; a similar v.l. appears ibid. 5, 28, 21. 23, but in 8. 28  gives a correct construction reading ἐλθόντων αὐτῶν); so also Mc. 13. I, L. 12. 36, 14. 29 (D gives a different and correct constr.), 17. 12 (BL om. αὐτῷ; D is quite different), 22. 10, Jo. 4. 51 (many vll.), A. 4. 1 (D om. αὐτοῖς). Again we have in Mt. 18. 25 μη έχοντος αὐτοῦ ἀποδοῦναι, ἐκέλευσεν αὐτὸν πραθηναι (the accusative following); so Mc. 5. 18, 9. 28 (v.l. είσελθόντα αὐτὸν ... ἐπηρώτων αὐτόν), 10. 17, 11. 27 (πρὸς αὐτὸν), 13. 3, L. 9. 42, 15. 20, 18. 40, 22. 53 (ἐπ' ἐμέ), Jo. 8. 30 (εἰς αὐτόν), Α. 19. 30 (αὐτὸν οπ. D), 21. 17 (the β text is different), 25. 7, 28. 17 (πρὸς αὐτοὺς), 2 C. 12. 21 (v.l. $\epsilon \lambda \theta \acute{o} \nu \tau a \mu \epsilon$, and without the second $\mu \epsilon$). If the accusative is dependent on a preposition, and the participle precedes the accusative, it is of course impossible to make it into a conjunctive participle.—If the word in question follows in the genitive, the result is the same incorrect pleonasm of the pronoun as is seen in the case of the dative in the example quoted above from Mt. 8. 1 with the reading of *: Mt. 6. 3 σοῦ ποιοῦντος έλεημοσύνην μὴ γνώτω ἡ ἀριστερά σου (Herm. Sim. ix. 14. 3 κατεφθαρμένων ήμων ... την ζωήν ήμων), cp. 5. 1 if αὐτώ is omitted (with B, vide supra). The instance which intrinsically is the harshest, and at the same time the least common, is that where the word in question is afterwards used as the subject, as in Mt. 1. 18 μνηστευθείσης της μητρός αὐτοῦ Μαρίας τῷ Ἰωσήφ, πρὶν ἢ συνελθεῖν αὐτοὺς ϵ ὑρ ϵ θη, an anacoluthon which after all is tolerable, and for which classical parallels may be found (Kühner ii. 666); but A. 22. 17 is an extremely clumsy sentence, έγένετο δέ μοι ὑποστρέψαντι είς Ίερουσ., [καὶ] προσευχομένου μου έν τῷ ἱερῷ, γενέσθαι με ἐν ἐκστάσει (kai should apparently be removed, because if it is kept the connection of the dat. and gen. remains inexplicable). Cp. also L. 8. 35 D; Herm. Vis. i. 1. 3 πορευομένου μου είς Κούμας καὶ δοξάζοντος (ἐδόξαζον as) ..., περιπατῶν ἀφύπνωσα. The gen. abs. stands after the subject in H 8. 9 O.T., cp. Viteau, p. 210 (the meaning is in the day in I took'); it has the same position after the dative in 2 C. μὴ σκοπούντων ἡμῶν (but D*FG read with an ar σκοποῦντες, perhaps rightly), Herm. Vis. iii. 1. 5 φρίκτ μόνου μου ὄντος. —The omission of the noun or pron' with the part., if it can be readily supplied, is allo as in the classical language: Mt. 17. 14 BZ (C etc. (with many variants), L. 12. 36 ἐλθόντος καὶ κρ ζητούντων (ibid. 10 with ἡμῶν inserted as a v. instance of the omission of a noun with the participle c where the participle is impersonal; this is a case for the ϵ_{*} of the accusative absolute, έξον, ὑπάρχον, προστεταγμένον etc., rollowed by an infinitive. But in the N.T. εξόν is only used as a predicate with an ellipse of εστί, A. 2. 29, 2 C. 12. 4 (οὐκ εξόντος appears in papyri, Pap. Oxyrh. ii. p. 263), and even Luke is so far from employing a passive part. in this way that he prefers a construct arising out of nom. with inf. in A. 23. 30 μηνυθείσης δέ μοι ἐπιβουλής είς τὸν ἄνδρα $\ddot{\epsilon}\sigma\epsilon\sigma\theta a\iota$, instead of saying $\mu\eta\nu\nu\theta\dot{\epsilon}\nu\ \dot{\epsilon}\pi\iota\beta o\nu\lambda\dot{\eta}\nu\ \ddot{\epsilon}\sigma$. (Buttm. 273). solitary remaining instance, rather obscured, of the acc. abs. is τυχόν

On the same usage in the LXX. see Viteau, p. 199 f. (e.g. Gen. 18. 1, Ex. 5. 20).

6. Particles used with a participle.—It has already been noticed above in 2 that the particular relation in which the additional participial clause (whether absolute or conjunctive) stands to the principal sentence may be rendered perceptible by the insertion of a particle $(\kappa\alpha i\pi\epsilon\rho, \kappa\alpha i \tau\alpha i\tau\alpha, \kappa\alpha i\tau\alpha i)$. This usage is but slightly represented in the N.T.; since even of the temporal use of $\tilde{a}\mu a$ to denote simultaneousness or immediate sequence $(\tau\rho i\beta\omega\nu \ \tilde{a}\mu a \ \tilde{\epsilon}\phi\eta$ 'while rubbing') it contains no real instance (A. 24. 26 $\tilde{a}\mu a \kappa\alpha i \ \lambda \pi i \omega\nu$ is 'withal in the expectation, 27. 40 αμα ἀνέντες 'while they at the same time also,' Col. 4. 3 προσευχόμενοι αμα καὶ περὶ ἡμῶν, 'at the same time for us also'; cp. αμα δέ καὶ with imperat. in Philem. 22). A more frequent particle with a participle is the simple $\dot{\omega}s$ ($\omega\sigma\pi\epsilon\rho$ in A. 2. 2, denoting comparison; ωσεὶ 'as though' R. 6. 13); however the participle is for the most part used with ws (as with work in the passage of Romans) in just the same way as a noun of any kind may be used with these particles, cp. §§ 34, 5 and 78, 1, and of constructions which may really be reckoned as special participial constructions with \(\odots \), many are entirely or almost entirely wanting in the N.T. Thus we never find $\dot{\omega}_s$ with the acc. abs. ($\dot{\omega}_s$ $\tau o \dot{\nu}_s$ $\theta \epsilon o \dot{\nu}_s$ $\kappa \dot{\alpha} \lambda \lambda \iota \sigma \tau a$ είδότας 'in the belief that'); and again ώς with a future participle occurs only in H. 13. 17 αγρυπνοῦσιν ὡς λόγον ἀποδώσοντες 'as persons who' (add Mc. 11. 13 ώς εύρήσων Origen, minusc. 700, afq, cp. Lat. quasi paraturi L. 9. 52 for ωστε έτοιμάσαι, κB also have ως). In all these instances os with a participle gives a reason on the part of the actor or The use of this construction without an acc. abs. and with a participle other than the future is more common: L. 16. 1 and 23. 14 'on the assertion that,' 'on the plea of,' so also in A. 23. 15, 20, 27. 30 (here with προφάσει prefixed); see also A. 3. 12 ήμεν τι ἀτενίζετε, ώς πεποιηκόσιν as though we had, 1 C. 7. 25 γνώμην δίδωμι ως ήλεημένος, 'as one who,' in the conviction that I am one'; 2 C. 5. 20 (gen. abs.), H. 12. 27; A. 20. 13 (β text) ώς μέλλων ... 'since he said that'; in the negative we have ουχ ώς 'not as if' A. 28. 19, 2 Jo. 5. We also find abbreviated expressions where the participle is dropped: Col. 3. 23 δ έὰν ποιῆτε, ἐκ ψυχῆς ἐργάζεσθε, ὡς τῷ κυρίψ (sc. ἐργαζόμενοι αὐτό) καὶ οὐκ ἀνθρώποις, 1 C. 9. 26, 2 C. 2. 17, Ε. 6. 7, 1 P. 4. 11, R. 13. 13 ώς έν ήμέρα = ώς ήμέρας οισης, 2 Th. 2. 2 δι' έπιστολης, ώς δι' ήμων, sc. γεγραμμένης, or rather = ως ήμων γεγραφότων αὐτήν, G. 3. 16 etc. Classical Greek has similar phrases.—"Av with the participle has quite gone out of use, as it has with the infinitive.—Where a participial clause is placed first, the principal clause which follows may be introduced by a ούτως referring back to the previous clause; but this classical usage is found only in the Acts: 20. 11 ὁμιλήσας ..., ούτως έξηλθεν, 27. 10.

§ 75. THE NEGATIVES.

- 1. The distinction between the two negatives, the objective of and the subjective μή, in classical Greek is to some extent rather complicated; on the other hand in the κοινή of the N.T. all instances may practically be brought under the single rule, that of negatives the indicative, μή the other moods, including the infinitive and participle.
- 2. In principal clauses with the indicative of is used; the prohibitive future makes no exception to the rule: ού φονεύσεις Mt. 5. 21

¹'Ωs ἄν with a gen. abs. in Barn. 6. 11 is different; cp. the modern Greek $(\dot{\omega})\sigma \dot{\alpha}\nu$ 'as,' Hatzidakis Einl. in d. ngr. Gr. 217; infra § 78, 1.

O.T. (§ 64, 3). But in an interrogative sentence both or and $\mu\eta$ are employed (as in classical Greek): οὐ (or οὐ μή, § 64, 5) if an affirmative answer is expected, μή if a negative; so in L. 6. 39 μήτι δύναται τυφλὸς τυφλὸν δδηγείν ('is it possible that...?' Ans. Certainly not), οὐχὶ ἀμφότεροι εἰς βόθυνον ἐμπεσοῦνται (Ans. Yes, certainly). Ο΄f course the negative used depends on the answer expected and not on the actual answer given: thus in Mt. 26. 25 Judas asks like the other Apostles (22) $\mu \dot{\eta} \tau \iota \dot{\epsilon} \gamma \dot{\omega} \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\iota} \mu \iota$, $\dot{\rho} \alpha \beta \beta \dot{\iota}$ ('it surely is not I?'), and receives the answer $\sigma \hat{v}$ $\epsilon \hat{i}\pi as.^2$ (In L. 17. 9, according to AD al., the answer of the first speaker is appended with the words οὐ δοκῶ.) Μήτι instead of $\mu\dot{\eta}$ is a very favourite form in questions of this kind, just as ory takes the place of ou in those which expect a positive answer; but the simple forms are also used. In questions introduced by $\mu \dot{\eta}$ the verb itself may also be negatived, as in classical Greek, of course with ov: this produces $\mu \dot{\eta} \dots \dot{\sigma} \dot{v}$ (and an affirmative answer is naturally now expected): R. 10. 17 μη οὐκ ηκουσαν can it be that they have not heard it?' (Ans. Certainly they have), 1 C. 11. 22 al. (only in the Pauline Epp.).— $M\dot{\eta}\tau\iota$ is further found in the elliptical $\mu \dot{\eta} \tau i \gamma \epsilon 1 \text{ C. 6. } 3 = \pi \acute{o} \sigma \omega \gamma \epsilon \mu \hat{a} \lambda \lambda o \nu \text{ 'much more'} (\mu \dot{\eta} \tau i \gamma \epsilon \delta \dot{\eta} \tau o \hat{i} s \theta \epsilon o \hat{i} s$ Demosth. 2. 23).

3. Subordinate clauses with the indicative.—The chief point to notice here is that & with the indicative (supposed reality) takes the negative of in direct contradistinction to the classical language, as it even does in one instance where the indicative denotes something contrary to fact: Mt. 26. 24 = Mc. 14. 21 καλὸν $\hat{\eta}$ ν αὐτ $\hat{\varphi}$, εἰ οὐκ (si non) έγεννήθη ὁ ἄνθρωπος ἐκεῖνος. Elsewhere however these suppositions contrary to fact take $\mu \dot{\eta}$: Jo. 15. 22 εἰ $\mu \dot{\eta}$ ηλθον ..., ἀμαρτίαν οὐκ $\epsilon i \chi o \sigma a \nu$, 24, 9. 33, 18. 30, 19. 11, Mt. 24. 22 = Mc. 13. 20, Å. 26. 32, R. 7. 7, no distinction being made as to whether $\epsilon i \mu \dot{\eta}$ means 'apart from the case where '(nisi) or 'supposing the case that not' (si non, as in Jo. 15. 22, 24). Moreover in other cases where the meaning is $nisi \epsilon i \mu \acute{\eta}$ is used (cp. Kühner ii. 744), viz. either where, as generally happens, no verb follows the particle, as in Mt. 5. 13 είς οὐδὲν εί μη $\beta \lambda \eta \theta \hat{\eta} \nu \alpha i$ (and in $\epsilon i \delta \hat{\epsilon} \mu \dot{\eta} \gamma \epsilon$, § 77, 4), or where a verb is used, which is generally in the pres. indic., as in εί μή τινές είσιν G. 1. 7, cp. § 65, 6. But in all other cases we find ϵi ov (even in L. 11. 8 ϵi $\kappa a i$ οὐ δώσει for ἐὰν καὶ μὴ δῷ, § 65, 5); an abnormal instance is 1 Tim. 6. 3 εἴ τις ἐτεροδιδασκαλεῖ καὶ μὴ προσέχεται κ.τ.λ. (literary language; $\epsilon i \dots o i$ appears in 3. 5, 5. 8), and another is the additional clause in D in L. 6. 4 $\epsilon i \delta \hat{\epsilon} \mu \hat{\eta}$ of δas .—Similar to this is the use of $o \hat{\epsilon}$ in relative sentences with the indicative; exceptions are (1 Jo. 4. 3 $\delta \mu \dot{\eta}$ δμολογεί a wrong reading for δ λύει), Tit. 1. 11 διδάσκοντες ἃ μὴ δεί, 2 P. 1. 9 & μη πάρεστιν ταθτα, τυφλός έστιν (literary language; there is no question here of definite persons or things, Kühner ii.² 745). In affirmations introduced by ὅτι (or ώs), also in temporal and causal sentences with the indic., the use of oὐ is a matter of course; H. 9. 17 $\hat{\epsilon}\pi\epsilon\hat{\iota}$ μήποτε (or μὴ τότε) ἰσχύει, ὅτε ζῷ ὁ διαθέμενοs is an interrogative sentence (Theophylact), and the only exception to this rule which appears to be established is Jo. 3. 18 ὁ μὴ πιστεύων ἤδη κέκριται, ὅτι μὴ πεπίστευκεν εἰς τὸ ὄνομα κ.τ.λ., unless indeed the late form ὅτι μή should be taken as an indication of the spuriousness of the subordinate clause which is omitted by Chrys. and is very tautological. (1 Jo. 5. 10, however, is similar, but here ὅτι οὐ is used).1—After μήπως or μὴ expressing apprehension, if the verb itself is negatived, an οὐ must be inserted before the conjunctive: Mt. 25. 9 μήποτε οὐκ ἀρκέση (cp. the v.l. in the same passage, infra 6); φοβοῦμαι μὴ ... οὐ 2 C. 12. 20.

- 4. The infinitive.—M $\dot{\eta}$ is used throughout, since in H. 7. 11 it is not the inf. but only the idea κατὰ τὴν τάξιν 'Ααρών which is negatived (cp. in class. Greek Lys. 13. 62 $\epsilon i \mu \hat{\epsilon} \nu \circ \hat{\nu} \pi \circ \lambda \lambda \circ \hat{\iota} = \hat{\iota} \lambda \hat{\iota} \gamma \circ \hat{\iota} \hat{\jmath} \sigma \alpha \hat{\iota}$ Kuhner ii. 2.747 f.). We may particularly note the use of μή according to classical precedent (Kühner 761 f.) in certain instances after verbs containing a negative idea (a pleonastic use according to our way of thinking): L. 20. 27 οἱ ἀντιλέγοντες (AP al.; *BCDL read λέγοντες as in Mt. and Mc.) ἀνάστασιν μη είναι (ἀντιλέγειν here only takes an inf.), 22. 34 έως τρίς ἀπαρνήση μη είδεναι με (με ἀπ. είδ. *BLT; ἀπαρν. not elsewhere with an inf.), cp. 1 Jo. 2. 22 δ ἀρνούμενος ὅτι Ἰησ. οὐκ ἔστιν ὁ Χριστός (as in Demosth. 9. 54 ἀρν. ὡς οὖκ εἰσὶ τοιοῦτοι), Η. 12. 19 παρητήσαντο μὴ (om. κ*P) προστεθῆναι, G. 5. 7 τίς ὑμᾶς ένεκοψεν ἀληθεία μη πείθεσθαι; (ἐγκόπτεσθαι takes τοῦ ἐλθεῖν in R. 15. 22, cp. Kühner 768 c.). But in H. 11. 24 we have ηρνήσατο ('scorned') λέγεσθαι; and κωλύειν is regularly used without a subsequent $\mu \dot{\eta}$, a construction which is also admissible in classical Greek, Kühner 767 f.; see however § 71, 2 and 3.
- 5. The participle.—Here the tendency of the later language to use $\mu\dot{\eta}$ is noticeable even in writers like Plutarch; the Attic language on the other hand lays down rules as to the particular negative required according to the meaning of the participle in individual cases. Hardly any exceptions to the N.T. usage occur in Mt. and John: Mt. 22. II $\epsilon^{\dagger}\delta\epsilon\nu$ $\delta^{\dagger}\nu\rho\rho\omega\pi\sigma\nu$ oùk $\epsilon^{\dagger}\nu\delta\epsilon\delta\nu\mu\epsilon\nu\nu$ $\epsilon^{\dagger}\nu\delta\nu\mu\alpha$ $\gamma\delta\mu\nu\nu$, = δ^{\dagger} oùk $\epsilon^{\dagger}\nu\delta\epsilon\delta\nu\nu$ (Attic Greek would therefore have où; but C³D have $\mu\dot{\eta}$ perhaps correctly, cp. 12), Jo. 10. 12 δ $\mu\omega\sigma\theta\omega\tau\delta$ kai oùk $\delta^{\dagger}\nu$ $\pi \sigma\iota\mu\dot{\eta}\nu$ (no definite person is referred to, therefore Attic would use $\mu\dot{\eta}$): in this passage où is no doubt a Hebraism, since in the case of a participle with the article the LXX. render δ^{\dagger} by où, as in G. 4. 27 O.T. $\dot{\eta}$ où $\tau(\kappa\tau\sigma\upsilon\sigma\alpha$ $\kappa.\tau.\lambda$, R. 9. 25 (Viteau, p. 217 f.). There are more exceptions in Luke: 6. 42 $a\dot{\upsilon}\tau\delta$ s... où $\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\omega\nu$ (D is different), A. 7. 5 oùk $\dot{\delta}\nu\tau\sigma$ $a\dot{\upsilon}\tau\dot{\phi}$ $\tau\epsilon\kappa\nu\sigma$, 26. 22 où $\delta\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa\tau\delta$ s $\lambda\epsilon\gamma\omega\nu$, 28. 17 où $\delta\dot{\epsilon}\nu$... $\pi\sigma\iota\dot{\eta}\sigma\alpha$ s (all correct Attic Greek). Où χ $\dot{\delta}$ $\tau\nu\chi\omega\nu$ 'no ordinary $\dot{\rho}$ erson' explains itself (it is the single idea in $\tau\nu\chi\omega\nu$ which is negatived, supra 4)

A. 19. 11, 28. 2; there is a different reason for où in 28. 19 (1 Th. 2. 4) οὐχ ὡς ἔχων κ.τ.λ. ('I have not done this as one who' etc.). Instances of οὐ in Paul (Hebrews and Peter): (R. 9. 25 O.T. [vide supra] τὸν οὐ λαὸν κ.τ.λ. after the Hebrew, = τὸν οὐκ ὄντα λ. in class. Greek; cp. 1 P. 2. 10), 2 C. 4. 8 f. θλιβόμενοι ἀλλ' οὐ στενοχωρούμενοι κ.τ.λ. (here again it is the single idea in στενοχ. which is negatived), Ph. 3. 3 καὶ οὐκ ἐν σαρκὶ πεποιθότες, Col. 2. 19 καὶ οὐ κρατῶν κ.τ.λ. (elsewhere καὶ μή is used, as in L. 1. 2΄ο ἔση στωπῶν καὶ μὴ δυνάμενος λαλῆσαι)¹: H. 11. 1 πραγμάτων οὐ βλεπομένων (= Att. ὧν ἄν τις μὴ ὁρῷ), 35 οὐ προσδεξάμενοι (correctly): 1 P. 1. 8 ὃν οἰκ ἰδόντες ἀγαπᾶτε correctly, but the writer continues with εἰς δν ἄρτι μὴ ὁρῶντες πιστεύοντες δὲ, where it is artificial to wish to draw a distinction between the two negatives. With ὡς (with which Attic prefers to use οὖ, Kühner 755) we have 1 C. 9. 26 ὡς οὐκ ἀδήλως ... ὡς οὖκ ἀέρα δέρων, cp. Col. 3. 23 (§ 74, 6).

6. Combined negatives.—For $\mu \dot{\eta}$ ov vide supra 2 and 3; for ov $\mu \dot{\eta}$

(frequently used) see § 64, 5, with the conj. or fut. indic.; once we find as a v.l. μήποτε οὐ μη Mt. 25. 9 BCD al., vide supra 3 ad fin.— The only examples of $o\dot{v} \dots o\dot{v}$, $o\dot{v} \dots \mu\dot{\eta}$ neutralizing each other are 1 C. 12. 15 οὐ παρὰ τοῦτο οὐκ ἔστιν ἐκ τοῦ σώματος (cp. μή ... μή in L. 14. 29 D, ίνα μήποτε ... μη ἰσχύση), A. 4. 20 οὐ δυνάμεθα ... μη λαλείν (classical usage corresponds), apart from the instances where the second negative stands in a subordinate clause, viz. οίδεὶς – ος (class. $\delta \sigma \tau is$) or (but here we do not find the classical practice of directly connecting ovo eis with, and assimilating it to, the relative, Kühner 919, 5) Mt. 10. 26, L. 12. 2, ov ... os ov Mt. 24. 2 al.; the same meaning is expressed by giving an interrogative form to the principal clause and omitting the first negative (Buttmann 305), tis έστιν ... ôs où A. 19. 35.—The classical combination of negatives où $(\mu\dot{\eta})$... ovo $\delta\epsilon$ is $(\mu\eta\delta\epsilon)$ and the like, to intensify the negation, is not excessively frequent: the instances are Mc. 15. 4 οίκ ἀποκρίνη οίδέν; ς οὐκέτι οἰδὲν ἀπεκρίθη, L. 10. 19 οὐδὲν .. οὐ μὴ (not in D), 23. 53 οὐκ ην οὐδέπω οὐδεὶς, Α. 8. 39 οὐκ ... οὐκέτι, Mc. 11. 14 μηκέτι ... μηδεὶς, etc.

7. Form and position of the negative.—The strengthened form $\text{où}\chi$, besides being used in questions (supra 2), is also specially frequent where the negative is independent = 'no,' L. 1. 60, où χ , $\lambda \dot{\epsilon} \gamma \omega \dot{\nu} \mu \hat{\iota} \nu$ 12. 51, 13. 3, 5 (the opposite to which is $\nu a \iota$ [Attic never has $\nu a \iota \chi \dot{\iota}$], $\lambda \dot{\epsilon} \gamma \omega \dot{\nu} \mu \hat{\iota} \nu$ 7. 26; où λ . $\dot{\nu} \mu \hat{\iota} \nu$ would not have been quite clear, though or also appears elsewhere for 'no,' Mt. 13. 29 etc., and in a strengthened form où or like $\nu a \iota \nu a \iota$, 2 C. 1. 17²); the longer

(οὐδέποτέ μοι οὐδεὶς Herm. Mand. iii. 3); on the other hand we find (contrary to the classical rule, Kühner 758, but cp. 760, 4) οὐχ άρπάσει τις Jo. 10. 28, οὐ ... ὑπό τινος 1 C. 6. 12, οὐδὲ τὸν πατέρα τις επιγινώσκει Mt. 11. 27, 12. 19, οὖτε ... τις A. 28. 21, οὐ δυνήση ἔτι οἰκονομεῖν L. 16. 2, οὐ ... ποτέ 2 P. 1. 21.

² Hence, apparently, the wrong reading in Mt. 5. 37 ξστω δὲ ὁ λόγος ὑμῶν ναὶ ναὶ, οὐ οῦ, instead of the correct and widely attested ξστω δὲ ὑμῶν τὸ ναὶ ναὶ, καὶ τὸ οὐ οῦ, see my edition and cp. Ja. 5. 12 ἢτω δὲ ὑμῶν τὸ ναὶ ναὶ, καὶ τὸ οὐ οῦ.

form of the negative is also occasionally used elsewhere, Jo. 13. 10 f. ούχὶ πάντες, 14. 22, 1 C. 10. 29, πῶς οὐχὶ R. 8. 32, οὐχὶ μᾶλλον 1 C. 5. 2, 6. 7, 2 C. 3. 8.—The position of the negative is as a matter of course before the thing to be negatived, especially therefore does it stand before the verb; frequently negative and verb coalesce into a single idea, as in οὐκ ἐω̂ (or the more colloquial οὐκ ἀφίω) 'prevent,' A. 19. 30 etc. A separation of the negative from the verb may cause ambiguity, as in A. 7. 48 άλλ' ούχ ὁ ΰψιστος ἐν χειροποιήτοις κατοικεί (as if the writer's intention was to state that someone else dwelt therein); (Ja. 3. 1 μη πολλοί διδάσκαλοι γίνεσθε, but see § 28. 5); hence the tendency is to place it immediately before the verb, ένδς οὐκ ἔστιν G. 3. 20. A difficulty is caused by οὐ πάντως R. 3. 9, 1 C. 5. 10, which looks like a partial negation (a general negation being expressed by πάντως οὐκ ἢν θέλημα 1 C. 16. 12), but at any rate in R. 3. 9 the meaning must be 'by no means.' But not only D*GP Syr., but also Origen and Chrys. here simply omit or $\pi \acute{a} \nu \tau \omega s$, so that we can neglect this passage. In the other passage the meaning appears to be rather 'not altogether' (Winer, § 61, 5, cp. Clem. Hom. iv. 8, xix. 9, xx. 5). The meaning of the passage 1 C. 15, 51 is also uncertain on critical grounds: πάντες (μεν) οὐ κοιμηθησόμεθα, πάντες δὲ ἀλλαγησόμεθα the reading of B al. gives a quite unsatisfactory sense (unless πάντες οὐ is taken as = οὖ πάντες, as it is at any rate used in Herm. Sim. viii. 6. 2 πάντες οὐ μετενόησαν 'not all'), but there are several other readings supported by the authority of Mss. and Fathers, see Tischendorf.—The order of words in H. 11. 3 is correct in classical Greek, είς τὸ μὴ ἐκ φαινομένων (= ἐκ μὴ φ.) τὸ βλεπόμενον γεγονέναι (2 Macc. 7. 28 ότι οὐκ εξ ὅντων ἐποίησεν αὐτὰ ὁ θεός), since participles and adjectives used in connection with a preposition have a tendency to take any adverbial words which are in apposition with them before the preposition, as in οὐ μετὰ πολλὰς A. 1. 5, L. 15. 13 D (al. μετ' οὐ πολλαs, as in A. 27. 14 μετ' οὐ πολύ), Demosth. 18. 133 οὖκ ἐν δέοντι 'unseasonably' (like ώς εἰς ἐλάχιστα, οὕτω μέχρι πόρρω and many others).

§ 76. OTHER ADVERBS.

1. Adverb as predicate.—Adverbs like έγγύς and πόρρω may, as in the classical language, be joined with εἶναι as predicates, or be used as predicates with an ellipse of εἶναι, e.g. ὁ κύριος ἐγγύς Ph. 4. 5, no less than prepositions with their cases which are so abundantly used in this way, e.g. ἦν ἐν τῷ πόλει. The use of οὕτως as a predicate is less classical: Mt. 1. 18 ἡ γένεσις οὕτως ἦν (for τοιαύτη ἦν or οὕτως ἔσχεν), 19. 10 εἶ οὕτως ἐστὶν ἡ αἶτία τοῦ ἀνθρώπου κ.τ.λ., R. 4. 18 O.T., 1 P. 2. 15 (although ἔσσεται οὕτως, i.e. ὡς λέγεις, and ἔστι. οὕτως in an answer are also classical constructions); besides this use we have οὕτως ἔχει in A. 7. 1 etc. Another predicative use of οὕτως occurs in R. 9. 20 τί με ἐποίησας οὕτως, = τοιοῦτον. The phrase τὸ εἶναι ζσα (an adverbial neut. plur.) θεῷ Ph. 2. 6 is in agreement with an old usage

 $^{^1}$ The best text appears to be τὶ οὖν προκατέχομεν; πάντως ἦτιασάμεθα Ἰουδαίους κ.τ.λ. a v. App. p. 323.

- of the language, cp. Thuc. iii. 14 ἴσα καὶ ἱκέται ἐσμέν, Winer, § 27, 3. With γίνεσθαι (with which verb the use of an adverb is in itself quite unobjectionable) we have 1 Th. 2. 10 ὡς ὁσίως καὶ δικαίως καὶ ἀμέμπτως ὑμῖν τοῖς πιστεύουσιν ἐγενήθημεν (beside 2. 7 ἐγενήθημεν ήπιοι) ' we have behaved'; cp. A. 20. 18 πῶς ... ἐγενόμην (D ποταπῶς ἦν).
- 2. There is a tendency in Greek to express certain adverbial ideas by particular verbs: thus 'secretly' or 'unconsciously' is expressed by λανθάνειν with a participle, § 73, 4 (H. 13. 2; elsewhere the adverb λάθρα is used as also in class. Greek, Mt. 1. 19 etc.), 'continuously,' 'further,' 'incessantly' by διατελείν, ἐπιμένειν, οὐ διαλείπειν, vide ibid.; cp. with an infinitive φιλοῦσι προσεύχεσθαι 'gladly' (Mt. 6. 5, Winer, § 54, 4), and (with an imitation of Hebrew) προσέθετο πέμψαι L. 20. 11 f. (not in D) = πάλιν ἔπεμψεν in Mc. 12. 4, although (according to A. 12. 3 προσέθετο συλλαβεῖν καὶ Πέτρον) it must rather be rendered 'he proceeded to' (Hebr. ২ ২ ২ with an inf.); the same meaning is elsewhere given by the participle of προστιθέναι, προσθεῖς εἶπεν L. 19. 11, like προσθεῖσα ἔτεκεν LXX. Gen. 38. 5 'further.'
- 4. Instances of attraction with adverbs of place, as for instance in class. Greek we have ὁ ἐκείθεν πόλεμος (for ὁ ἐκεί ὢν) δεῦρο ήξει (Demosth. 1. 15; Buttm. p. 323), cannot be quoted from the N.T., except the passage L. 16. 26 μηδ' οἱ ἐκεῖθεν (οἱ before ἐκ. is omitted by \aleph^*BD) $\pi\rho\dot{\delta}s$ $\dot{\nu}\mu\hat{a}s$ $\delta\iota a\pi\epsilon\rho\hat{\omega}\sigma\iota\nu$, where however we might supply $\theta\dot{\epsilon}\lambda o\nu\tau\dot{\epsilon}s$ διαβηναι from the preceding clause. Still we find a corresponding use of έξ instead of έν: L. 11. 13 ὁ πατήρ ὁ έξ οὐρανοῦ δώσει πνεῦμα άγιον (ὁ before ἐξ om. ΝLX), Mt. 24. 17 μη καταβάτω άρα τὰ (D ἀραί $\tau_i = \text{Mc. } 13.$ 15) έκ της οίκίας αὐτοῦ, Col. 4. 16 την έκ Λαοδικείας $(\epsilon \pi \iota \sigma \tau \circ \lambda \hat{\eta} \nu)$ " νa $\kappa a \hat{\nu} \hat{\nu} \mu \epsilon \hat{\imath} \hat{\imath} \hat{\imath} \nu a \gamma \nu \hat{\imath} \sigma \tau \epsilon$, the letter which you will find (But in Ph. 4. 22 οἱ ἐκ τῆς Καίσαρος οἰκίας membership is there. denoted by ξ , as also in of $\xi \kappa$ $\pi \epsilon \rho i \tau o \mu \hat{\eta}$ R. 4. 12, cp. § 40, 2; ἀσπάζοναι ύμας οἱ ἀπὸ τῆς Ἰταλίας Η. 13. 24 is ambiguous and obscure, as the place where the letter was written is unknown.)— An attraction, corresponding to that of the relative (§ 50, 2), is found in the case of an adverb in Mt. 25. 24, 26 συνάγων $\ddot{\theta}$ εν (= $\dot{\epsilon}$ κε $\dot{\epsilon}$ θεν ο \dot{v}) οὐ διεσκόρπισας.

§ 77. PARTICLES (CONJUNCTIONS).

- 1. One part of the functions of the particles (including the conjunctions) is that they serve to give greater prominence to the modal character of the sentence, as is the case with the particle $\tilde{a}v$ and the interrogative particles, but their more usual function is to express the mutual relations existing between the sentences and the clauses which compose them: membership of a single series, antithesis, relation between cause and effect, or between condition and result etc. The number of particles employed in the N.T. is considerably less than the number employed in the classical language, see § 26, 2; still in spite of this it appears excessively large in comparison with the poverty displayed by the Semitic languages in this department.
- 2. On the particle av, cp. §§ 63; 65, 4-10; 66, 2 (70, 5; 74, 6).— Direct interrogative sentences, which are not introduced by an interrogative pronoun or adverb, but expect the answer 'yes' or 'no,' do not require a distinguishing particle any more than in classical Greek, since the tone in which they are uttered is a sufficient indication of their character, though it is true that when they are transmitted to writing the general sense of their context is the only thing which distinguishes them, and this in certain circumstances may be ambiguous (§ 4, 6; instances of this are Jo. 16. 31, 1 C. 1. 13, Viteau p. 23, 50). If an affirmative answer is to be intimated, this character of the sentence is marked by the insertion of ov, if a negative answer, by the insertion of $\mu \dot{\eta} (\mu \dot{\eta} \tau \iota)$; and this is a case where a question is distinguished as such by an external symbol, since the use of $\mu \dot{\eta}$ with an indicative where the particle is in no way dependent can certainly not be found except in an interrogative sentence, cp. § 75, 2. Double questions with the distinguishing particles $\pi \acute{o} \tau \epsilon \rho o \nu \dots \ddot{\eta}$ occur nowhere in the N.T. in direct speech (in indirect speech only in John 7. 17; also Barn. 19. 5); more often the first member of the sentence is left without a distinguishing particle, as in G. 1. 10 ἄρτι γὰρ ἀνθρώπους $\pi \epsilon i \theta \omega \dot{\eta} \tau \dot{\rho} \nu \theta \epsilon \dot{\rho} \nu$; (the simple interrogative $\dot{\eta} = an$ 'or' occurs in Mt. 20. 15, 26. 53, 2 C. 11. 7, where FG have $\hat{\eta}$ $\mu\hat{\eta}$ 'or perhaps,' a combination of particles not elsewhere attested). Still there are certain interrogative particles, of which may be mentioned in the first place apa or apá ye; this, it is true, can only be distinguished from the inferential $d\rho a$ ($\gamma \epsilon$) by the prosody, and it is moreover quite rare and only represented in Luke and Paul (therefore a literary word): L. 18. 8 άρα ευρήσει την πίστιν έπὶ της γης; Α. 8. 30 άρά γε γινώσκεις α άναγινώσκεις; G. 2. 17 άρα Χριστός άμαρτίας διάκονος; μή γένοιτο (this phrase μή γ. in the Pauline Epp. is always an answer to a question, § 66, 1: therefore apa cannot be read here; still åρα in this passage has the meaning of 'therefore' which ἄρα elsewhere has, § 78, 5). We have a kindred use of αρα (as in classical Greek) after τίς in Mt. 18. Ι τίς ἄρα μείζων ἐστὶν κ.τ.λ., L. 1. 66 etc. (in indirect speech in 22. 23): after ϵi (indirect and direct) in Mc. 11. 13, A. 7. 1, 8. 22 (εἰ ἄραγε 17. 27); after μήτι in 2 C. 1. 17; it

- denotes astonishment in A. 21. 38 οὐκ ἄρα σὺ εἶ ὁ Αἰγύπτιος; ('not then'), while in other cases it corresponds to our 'well' or 'then'; τίς ἄρα in Mt. 19. 25, 27 is inferential, 'now,' 'then,' cp. supra on G. 2. 17. Again the et of indirect questions (§ 65, 1, cp. 6) may also be attached to a direct question: Mt. 12. 10 ἐπηρώτησαν αὐτὸν λέγοντες Εἰ ἔξεστιν τοῖς σάββασιν θεραπεῦσαι; 19. 3 λέγοντες Εἰ ... (it introduces similar words in indirect speech in Mc. 10. 2, Viteau p. 22, 1), A. 1. 6, 7. 1 etc. (most frequently in Luke, Win. § 57, 2); the usage is unclassical, but is also found in the LXX. (Gen. 17. 17 etc., Winer loc. cit.).¹ The alternative use of the interrogative $\hat{\eta}$, like the use of the same word affirmatively, is entirely wanting.
- 3. Sentences which denote assurance, both direct and indirect (in the latter case the infinitive is used), are in classical Greek introduced by $\hat{\eta} \mu \hat{\eta} \nu$, which in the Hellenistic and Roman period is sometimes written in the form of ϵl (accent?) $\mu \eta \nu^2$; so in the LXX. and in a quotation from it in H. 6. 14 εἶ μὴν εὐλογῶν εὐλογήσω σε (ἢ KL*). Another corroborative word is the particle vai = 'yea,' to which the opposite is οὐ οὐχί 'nay,' § 75, 7. Naí is also used in the emphatic repetition of something already stated, 'yes indeed,' L. 12. 5 ναί, λ έγω $\dot{\nu}\mu\hat{\nu}\nu$, τ ο $\hat{\nu}$ τον ϕ οβήθητε, 11. 51, Ap. 1. 7, 14. 13, 16. 7; also in a repeated request Mt. 15. 27, Ph. 4. 3, Philem. 20 (it is a favourite word in classical Greek in formulas of asseveration and adjuration, e.g. ναὶ πρὸς τῶν γονάτων Aristoph. Pax 1113). Naí is not the only form for expressing an affirmative answer, the statement made may also be repeated and endorsed (as in classical Greek): Mc. 14. 61 f. $\sigma \hat{v}$ $\epsilon \hat{i}$...; ... $\epsilon \gamma \hat{\omega}$ $\epsilon \hat{i} \mu i$, cp. A. 22. 27 where the β text has $\epsilon i \mu i$ for $\nu a i$ of the a text; further we have the abbreviated έγω κύριε sc. ὑπάγω (which D inserts) Mt. 21. 30; another formula is σὺ λέγεις (εἶπας) Mt. 27. 11, 26. 25, Mc. 15. 2, L. 23. 3, i.e. 'vou say so yourself, not 1' (§ 48, 1), which always to some extent implies that one would not have made this particular statement spontaneously if the question had not been asked; in Jo. 18. 37 we have σè λέγεις, ὅτι (not 'that,' but 'since,' 'for,' § 78, 6) βασιλεύς είμι, which is similar to L. 22. 70 ύμεις λέγετε, ὅτι ἐγώ είμι.—A certain extenuation, and at the same time a corroboration, of a proposition made is contained in the word δήπου 'surely,' 'certainly' (an appeal to the knowledge possessed by the readers as well): it is only found in H. 2. 16 (a classical and literary word).
- 4. The particle γε which serves to emphasize a word (known by the old grammarians as the σύνδεσμος παραπληρωματικός) in the N.T. is almost confined to its use in connection with other conjunctions, in which case it often really sinks into being a mere unmeaning appendage. Thus we have ἆρά γε, ἄρα γε (supra 2; § 78, 5), καίτοιγε, μενοῦνγε § 77, 14; frequently εἰ δὲ μή γε with an ellipse of the verb, 'otherwise' (classical), Mt. 6. 1, 9. 17 (B omits γε), L. 5. 36 etc., 2 C. 11. 16 (on the other hand Mc., Jo., and Ap. have this phrase without γε), μήτιγε § 75, 2. Still γε keeps its proper meaning in ¹It is probably a Hebraism (Viteau), being another rendering (besides $\mu\eta$) of the Hebrew η .

² Blass Ausspr. 33³ n. 77; so also Berl. Aegypt. Urk. 543.

- άλλά γε ὑμῖν εἰμι 1 C. 9. 2 'yet at least I am so to you,' which class. Greek would express by separating the particles άλλ' ὑμῖν γε (and the particles are somewhat differently used in L. 24. 21 ἀλλά γε καὶ σὺν πᾶσιν τούτοις 'but indeed'); also in καί γε ἐπὶ τοὺς δούλους A. 2. 18 O.T. (Herm. Mand. viii. 5 καί γε πολλά) 'and also' (or 'and indeed'), where again class. Greek would separate the particles καὶ ἐπί γε, as St. l'aul does in 1 C. 4. 8 καὶ ὄφελόν γε ἐβασιλεύσατε 'and I would also that ye did ...' (D*FG omit γε)¹; and in εἴ γε si quidem (R. 5. 6 v.l.) 2 C. 5. 3, E. 3. 2, 4. 21, Col. 1. 23 (classical). It appears without another conjunction in L. 11. 8 διά γε τὴν ἀναίδειαν αὐτοῖ, cp. 18. 5, R. 8. 32 ὅς γε qui quidem 'One who,' Herm. Vis. i. 1. 8 ἁμαρτία γὲ ἐστι ('indeed it is'), καὶ μεγάλη.
- 5. Particles which connect sentences or clauses with one another or place them in a certain relation to each other, fall into two classes, namely those which indicate that the clauses possess an equal position in the structure of the sentence (co-ordinating particles), and those which subordinate and give a dependent character to the clauses introduced by them (subordinating particles). The former are of the most diverse origin, the latter are for the most part derived from a relative stem. They may be divided according to their meaning as follows: (only co-ordinating)—(1) copulative, (2) disjunctive, (3) adversative; (only subordinating)—(4) comparative, (5) hypothetical, (6) temporal, (7) final, (8) conjunctions used in assertions and in indirect questions; (partly co-ordinating, partly subordinating)—(9) consecutive, (10) causal, (11) concessive conjunctions.
- 6. The copulative conjunctions in use in the N.T. are $\kappa \alpha i$, $\tau \epsilon$, ov $\tau \epsilon$ μήτε, οὐδέ μηδέ. In the case of καί a distinction is made between its strictly copulative meaning ('and') and its adjunctive meaning ('also'). The excessive and uniform use of kai to string sentences together and combine them makes the narrative style, especially in Mark, but also in Luke as e.g. in A. 13. 17 ff., in many ways unpleasant and of too commonplace a character, cp. § 79, 1: whereas elsewhere in Luke as well as in John the alternative use of the particles $\tau \epsilon$, $\delta \dot{\epsilon}$, $o \delta v$, and of asyndeton gives a greater variety to the style, apart from the fact that these writers also employ a sub-ordinating or participial construction. Kai may be used even where a contrast actually exists: Mc. 12. 12 καὶ έξήτουν αὐτὸν κρατήσαι, καὶ ἐφοβήθησαν τὸν ὅχλον, cp. L. 20. 19 (but \hat{D} in Luke reads ἐφοβ. δè), Jo. 1. 5. It frequently = 'and yet' (καὶ ὅμως, ὅμως δè are not in use): Mt. 6. 26 οὐ σπείρουσιν ..., και ὁ πατηρ ὑμῶν ὁ οὐράνιος τρέφει αὐτά, 10. 29, Jo. 1. 10, 3. 11, 32 etc. (with a negative in Mt. 11. 17, A. 12. 19 etc., where this meaning is less striking), and hence the mutual relation of the several clauses is often very vaguely stated, and must be helped out with some difficulty by the interpretation which is put upon the passage, e.g. in Jo. 7. 28 κάμε οίδατε και οίδατε πόθεν εἰμί (as you say), καὶ ἀπ' ἐμαυτοῦ οὐκ ἐλήλυθα, ἀλλ' κ.τ.λ., i.e. 'and yet in reality I did not 'etc., = classical καὶ μὴν, καίτοι, or with a participle καὶ ταῦτα ἀπ' ἐμ. οὐκ ἐληλυθότα. A different use is that of the so-called consecutive καί, in English 'and so' or 'so': Mt. 5. 15 άλλ' έπὶ τὴν λυχνίαν (τιθέασιν), καὶ λάμπει κ.τ.λ. (= ωστε λάμπειν; in L. 8. 16 = 11. 33 expressed by $\tilde{v}va$), H. 3. 19 καὶ βλέπομεν 'and so we see, δρωμεν οὖν; this use is specially found after imperatives, Mt. 8. 8 είπε λόγω, καὶ (so) ἰαθήσεται, cp. L. 7. 7 where BL give a closer connection to the clauses by reading καὶ ἰαθήτω: Ja. 4. 7 άντίστητε τῷ διαβόλω, καὶ φεύξεται ἀφ' ὑμῶν (= φεύξεται γὰρ, εὐθὺς $\gamma \dot{a} \rho \phi$.); still we have a similar classical use, $\theta \dot{\epsilon} \sigma \theta \dot{\epsilon} \ldots \kappa a \dot{\epsilon} \ldots o \ddot{\epsilon} \sigma \epsilon \iota$ Soph. O.C. 1410 ff., πείθου λέγοντι, κούχ άμαρτήση ποτέ El. 1207, Kühner ii.² 792, 5. On kai with a future following sentences of design with a conjunctive, to denote an ulterior result, see § 65, 2; cp. also Mt. 26. 53, H. 12. 9; further L. 11. 5 τίς ἐξ ὑμῶν ἔξει φίλον, καλ πορεύσεται πρὸς αὐτὸν ... καλ εἴπη αὐτῷ—κάκεῖνος ... εἴπη (\S 64, 6), instead of subordinating the clauses by means of $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\alpha}\nu$ or a gen. abs., just as the first καί might also have been avoided by writing ἔχων φίλον. Co-ordination in place of subordination occurs in statements of time: Mc. 15. 25 καὶ ἢν ὥρα τρίτη καὶ ('when' or 'that') ἐσταύρωσαν αὐτόν (the crucifixion has already been narrated in 24), unless D is right in reading καὶ ἐφύλασσον αὐτόν (in favour of which Tisch. compares Mt. 27. 36); this passage and L. 23. 44 καὶ ην ηδη ώρα έκτη, καὶ σκότος έγένετο may be paralleled from classical Greek (Plat. Sympos. 220 c, Win. § 53, 3); still even Luke has the unclassical use ηξουσιν ημέραι ... και ('when') L. 19. 43: Mt. 26. 45, H. 8. 8 O.T. The use of καὶ with a finite verb after καὶ έγένετο, έγένετο δέ, instead of the accusative and infinitive which is likewise found (§ 65, 5), is an imitation of Hebrew: L. 19. 15 καὶ έγενετο εν τῷ ἐπανελθεῖν αὐτὸν ... καὶ (om. syr. latt.) εἶπεν, 9. 28 έγ. δὲ μετά τους λόγους τούτους, ώσει ήμέραι όκτώ (§ 33, 2) και (om. BH latt. syr.) ... $d\nu \in \beta \eta$, cp. A. 5. 7 (here all MSS. read $\kappa a i$), although in constructions of this kind the kai is more often omitted: Mc. 4. 4 καὶ ἐγένετο ἐν τῷ σπείρειν, ὁ μὲν ἔπεσεν κ.τ.λ., Mt. 7. 28 etc.; the έγένετο which is purely pleonastic owes its origin solely to a disinclination to begin a sentence with a statement of time (§ 80, 1). Another Hebraistic use of καί is to begin an apodosis¹: L. 2. 21 καὶ ὅτε ἐπλήσθησαν ..., καὶ (om. D) ἐκλήθη κ.τ.λ., 7. 12 ὡς δὲ ἤγγισεν ... καὶ ἰδοὺ ἐξεκομίζετο κ.τ.λ., where the reading of D shows that this use is scarcely different from the use with έγένετο, viz. έγένετο δε ώς ήγγιζεν ..., έξεκομίζετο, cp. also A. 1. 10 (καὶ ἰδοὺ), 10. 17 (καὶ ἰδ. CD al., AB omit καὶ), Ap. 3. 20 after a sentence beginning with ἐὰν (AP omit καί). But the case is different with 2 C. 2. 2 εἰ γὰρ ἐγὼ λυπῶ ὑμᾶς, καὶ τίς ὁ εὐφραίνων με, i.e. 'who then,' as Winer correctly explains it, comparing Mc. 10. 26 καὶ τίς δύναται σωθήναι, Jo. 9. 36, 14. 22 N al. (a classical use, Xenoph. Cyr. v. 4. 13 etc., Kühner ii.2 791 f.); many exx. in Clem. Hom. ii. 43 f.; Ph. 1. 22 should

- 7. Kal meaning 'and indeed' (epexegetic καί as Winer calls it, cp. Kühner 791) appears in Jo. 1. 16 καὶ χάριν ἀντὶ χάριτος, 1 C. 3. 5, 15. 38 καὶ ἐκάστω; with a demonstrative it gives emphasis, καὶ τούτον έσταυρωμένον 1 C. 2. 2, καὶ τούτο idque R. 13. 11, 1 C. 6. 6, 8 (in 8 there is a v.l. καὶ ταῦτα, as in H. 11. 12 and in class. Greek, Kühner ibid.). With A. 16. 15 ώς δὲ έβαπτίσθη, καὶ ὁ οἶκος αὐτης ('and likewise,' 'together with'; so 18. 2) cp. Aristoph. Ran. 697 f. οι μεθ' ὑμῶν πολλὰ δὴ χοί πατέρες ἐναυμάχησαν. It is used after πολύs before a second adjective, pleonastically according to our usage (a classical and literary use), in A. 25. 7 πολλά καὶ βαρέα αἰτιώματα (Tit. 1. 10?). It is not used as in class. Gk. after ὁ αὐτός, ὁμοίως and the like (Kühner-Gerth 413 note 11).—For Kal 'also' in and after sentences of comparison vide infra § 78, 1; it = 'even' in Mt. 5. 46 etc., and before a comparative in 11. 9, but in H. 8. 6 ὄσω καὶ $\kappa \rho \epsilon (\tau \tau \sigma \nu \sigma s \kappa, \tau, \lambda)$, the $\kappa \alpha i$ is the same as that in comparative sentences; there is a tendency to use it after διό, διὰ τοῦτο to introduce the result, L. 1. 35, 11. 49. On καὶ γὰρ see § 78, 6; a kindred use to this (καί occupying another position) is seen in H. 7. 26 τοιοῦτος γάρ ήμιν καὶ ἔπρέπεν ἀρχιερεύς. Ιη μετὰ καὶ Κλήμεντος Ph. 4. 3 it is pleonastic, cp. Clem. Cor. i. 65. Ι σὺν καὶ Φουρτυνάτω. Ο Οn καὶ ... δὲ 'even as much as'), cp. R. 8. 24, L. 13. 7, Kühner 798.
- 8. Te by no means appears in all writings of the N.T., and would not be represented to any very great extent at all but for the Acts, in which book alone there are more than twice as many instances of it as occur in the rest of the N.T. together (the instances are equally distributed over all parts of the Acts; next to the Acts the greatest number of instances occur in Hebrews and Romans; there are only eight instances in Luke's Gospel²). The use of the simple $\tau\epsilon$ (for $\tau\epsilon$... $\kappa a i$, $\tau\epsilon$ $\kappa a i$, $\tau\epsilon$... $\tau\epsilon$ vide infra 9) is also foreign for the most part to cultured Atticists, while the higher style of poetry uses it abundantly. In the N.T. $\tau\epsilon$ is not often used to connect single ideas (this use in classical Greek is almost confined to poetry, Kühner ii. 786), as in H. 6. 5 $\theta\epsilon o i i \eta \mu a \delta v v i \mu \epsilon i \pi \epsilon \mu \epsilon \lambda \lambda \lambda v \tau o s a i \delta v v o s$, 1, 1 C. 4. 21, cp. further infra 9; in the connection of sentences it denotes a closer connection and affinity between them: A. 2. 40 $\epsilon \tau \epsilon \rho o i \tau \epsilon$ ($\delta \epsilon male$ D) $\lambda \delta \gamma o i \tau \delta i \kappa v \delta i \epsilon \mu a \rho \tau i \gamma v \tau i v$

καρδίαν, εἶπόν τε ('and so they said'), 27. 4 f. ὑπεπλεύσαμεν τὴν Κύπρον... τό τε πέλαγος τὸ κατὰ τὴν Κιλικίαν... διαπλεύσαντες κ.τ.λ. (in pursuance of the course adopted).¹

9. We find the following correlative combinations (meaning 'as well ... as also') και ... και ..., τε ... και (τε και), τε ... τε. (which in classical Greek is more frequent in poetry than in prose, though in prose it is commoner than a simple $\tau \epsilon$, Kühner ii. 2788). besides its use in οὖτε ... οὖτε etc. (inf. I0) occurs in εἶτε ... εἶτε, see § 78, 2; also in ἐάν τε ... ἐάν τε R. 14. 8 bis; but otherwise only in A. 26. 16 ων τε είδες ων τε οφθήσομαί σοι; the combined phrases are in this way placed side by side (often = even as ... so ...). Τε ... καί affords a closer connection than the simple καί: in Attic Greek it is generally avoided if $\kappa a i$ would immediately follow $\tau \epsilon$, since in this case $\tau \epsilon$ might appear to have no point; in the N.T. however it is found in this case as well, Mt. 22. 10 πονηρούς τε καὶ ἀγαθούς, A. 1. 1 ποιείν τε καὶ διδάσκειν, 2. 9 f., 4. 27, R. 1. 12 ὑμῶν τε καὶ ἐμοῦ, 3. 9 Ίουδαίους τε καὶ Ελληνας, etc. The connection of Ἰουδαΐοι and "Ελληνες is almost always made by means of τε καὶ or τε ... καί: A. 14. I (18. 4 ἔπειθέν τε Ί. και Ελληνας, for an obvious reason), 19. 10 (without $\tau \in D$), 17 (om. $\tau \in DE$), 20. 21, R. 1. 16 ($\tau \in DE$), 2. 9, 10. 12 (without τε DE), 1 C. 1. 24 (τε om. FG); but in 10. 32 we have ἀπρόσκοποι καὶ Ἰουδαίοις γίνεσθε καὶ Έλλησιν καὶ τ_{ij} ἐκκλησία τοῦ θεοῦ, where the distinction of the different nationalities is kept, whereas in the other passages with $\tau \in Aai$ the difference is rather removed. For kal ... kal cp. Mt. 10. 28 kal (not in all MSS.) ψυχὴν καὶ σῶμα, which however may mean 'even soul and body' (as is still more clearly the meaning in 8. 27 = Mc. 4. 41 = L. 8. 25 καὶ δ άνεμος καὶ ἡ θάλασσα ὑπακούουσιν αὐτῷ), L. 5. 36 καὶ τὸ καινὸν σχίσει, καὶ τῷ παλαιῷ οὐ συμφωνήσει κ.τ.λ. ('on the one hand ...on the other,' so that there is a double injury); the use is somewhat more frequent in John, ἵνα καὶ ὁ σπείρων ὁμοῦ χαίρη καὶ ὁ θερίζων 4. 36, where the two clauses are sharply distinguished: 7. 28 (supra 6), 11. 48 (in these two passages the particles have a less definite meaning), 12. 28, 15. 24 νθν δε καὶ έωράκασιν καὶ ('and yet') μεμισήκασιν καὶ έμε καὶ τὸν πατέρα μου (Who appear to them to be different Persons). Paul uses a double καὶ in R. 14. 9 bis, 1 C. 1. 22 etc.; a peculiar instance is Ph. 4. 12 olda καὶ ταπεινούσθαι, οίδα καὶ περισσεύειν, where καί even in the first clause has rather the meaning of 'also.'-In longer enumerations $\tau \in (...)$ kai may be followed by a further $\tau \in$, as in Α. 9. 15 έθνων τε (τε om. HLP) καὶ βασιλέων υξών τε Ἰσραήλ, 26. 10, Clem. Cor. i. 20. 3 (on the other hand in L. 22. 66 το πρεσβυτέριον τοῦ λαοῦ, ἀρχιερεῖς τε καὶ γραμματεῖς the last words are an explanatory apposition, since otherwise the article must have been used [D καὶ άρχ. καὶ γρ.]); but in H. 6. 2 τε ... τε ... καὶ (ἀναστάσεως and κρίματος being closely connected by καί), and in 11. 32 ... τε καί ... καί ... τε καί ... καί (an enumeration of names, where however the first three conjunctions are wanting in A, in this passage the $\tau\epsilon$ must be taken as a connective particle and not as correlative to καί (similarly in A. 13. 1, 1 C. 1. 30), whereas in the long enumerations in A. 1. 13 and 2. 9 ff. couples are formed by means of τε καί or a simple kal, and the relation between the several couples is one of asyndeton (cp. Mt. 10. 3 f., 24. 38, R. 1. 14, 1 Tim. 1. 9, Clem. Cor. i. 3. 2, 35. 5, Herm. Mand. xii. 3. 1; in L. 6. 14 ff. there is a v.l. in RBD al. [opposed to A al.] with a continuous use of καὶ, as in the reading of all the MSS. in Mc. 3. 16 ff.).—Position of the correlative $au\epsilon$: where a preposition precedes which is common to the connected ideas, the $\tau\epsilon$ is notwithstanding placed immediately after this preposition, A. 25. 23 σύν τε χιλιάρχοις καὶ ἀνδράσιν, 28. 23, 10. 39 (a v.l. repeats the $\epsilon \nu$), as also in classical Greek (Win. § 61, 6); on the other hand we have τῶν ἐθνῶν τε καὶ Ἰουδαίων Α. 14, 5 (τῶν ἐ. καὶ $\tau \hat{\omega} \nu$ D).

10. The use of correlative negative clauses with οὅτε ... οὅτε οτ μήτε ... μήτε respectively, and of οὐδὲ or μηδὲ respectively as a connecting particle after negative sentences (and of kal où, kal un after positive sentences) remains the same as in classical Greek. Therefore od ..., οὖτε ... οὖτε is 'not ... neither ... nor,' Mt. 12. 32 etc.; cp. L. 9. 3 μηδὲν ..., $\mu \dot{\eta} \tau \epsilon ... \mu \dot{\eta} \tau \epsilon \kappa. \tau. \lambda$. with Mt. 10. 9 f. (Winer). In 1 C. 6. 9 f. a very long enumeration which begins with $o\ddot{v}\tau\epsilon \dots o\ddot{v}\tau\epsilon$ etc. finally veers round to asyndeton with $o\vec{v}$... $o\vec{v}$ (once also in Mt. 10. 10 $\mu\hat{\eta}$ is interposed between several cases of $\mu\eta\delta\dot{\epsilon}$). Of course it often happens, as in profane writers, that $o \ddot{v} \tau \epsilon - o \dot{v} \delta \dot{\epsilon}$, $\mu \dot{\eta} \tau \epsilon - \mu \eta \delta \dot{\epsilon}$ are confused in the MSS., as is also the case with $\delta \epsilon$ and $\tau \epsilon$ (supra 8). If οὐδέ or μηδέ stands at the beginning of the whole sentence, or after an ov or $\mu\eta$ within the same clause of the sentence, it then means 'not even,' 'not so much as ': Mc. 8. 26 μηδε (μη 🛪) είς την κώμην $\epsilon i \sigma \epsilon \lambda \theta \eta s$ (with many vv.ll.; the sense requires $\epsilon i \pi \eta s$ in place of εἰσέλθης), Mt. 6. 15 etc., Mc. 3. 20 ώστε μη δύνασθαι αὐτοὺς μηδὲ (male μήτε ×CDE al.) ἄρτον φαγεῖν.² The positive term corresponding to this οὐδὲ is καὶ 'even,' as the positive equivalent for οὐ ..., οὐδὲ etc. is a series of words strung together by $\kappa a i$, but the equivalent for $o i \tau \epsilon$... o \vec{v} $\tau \epsilon$ is $\kappa a \hat{i}$... $\kappa a \hat{i}$, or $\tau \epsilon$... $\kappa a \hat{i}$ ($\tau \epsilon$): hence the reading in Mc. 14. 68 οὖτε οἶδα οὖτε ἐπίσταμαι of BDL appears to be inadmissible, since the two perfectly synonymous words could not be connected by καί ... $\kappa \alpha i$, $\tau \epsilon \kappa \alpha i$, and therefore the right reading is that of AKM $o \dot{v} \kappa ...$ οὐδὲ (CE al. read οὖκ ... οὖτε, which seems to be the origin of the

² The sequence $o\breve{v}\tau\epsilon \dots o\breve{v}\tau\epsilon \dots o\breve{v}\tau\epsilon \dots o\breve{v}\delta\epsilon$ ('nor at all,' as though a single of or οὐδαμοῦ had preceded) is perfectly admissible, A. 24. 12 f., Buttm. 315 note. But we also find μη ... μηδέ (ΝΑΒCΕ μήτε) ... μήτε A. 23.8, where two ideas are connected and the second is subdivided, cp. for class. exx. Kühner ii.2 829 c; accordingly in G. 1. 12 οὐδὲ γὰρ ('since not even') ... παρέλαβον οὅτε ἐδιδάχθην (Bal.) would be possible, though οὐδὲ ἐδ. is better attested and is more regular.

- 12. The adversative particles most in use are $\delta \epsilon$ and $\delta \lambda \lambda \delta$, the former of which has its correlative in $\mu \epsilon \nu$, while the latter usually refers to a preceding negative ('but on the contrary'). This reference, however, may also be expressed, though not so strongly, by $\delta \epsilon$: A. 12. 9 où $\eta \delta \epsilon \epsilon$... $\delta \delta \delta \kappa \epsilon \iota \delta \epsilon$ ('but rather'), 14, H. 4. 13, 6. 12 etc. A distinction must also be made between contradiction $(\delta \lambda \lambda \delta)$ and antithesis $(\delta \epsilon)$: H. 2. 8 où $\delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta \delta \epsilon \nu \delta$

"Ομως apart from the instance quoted occurs only again in 1 C. 14. 7, G. 3. 15, where it is used in a peculiar way: ομως τὰ ἄψυχα φωνήν διδόντα ..., ἐάν διαστολήν φθόγγου μή δῷ, πῶς γνωσθήσεται κ.τ.λ., and ομως ανθρώπου κεκυρωμένην διαθήκην οίδεις $d\theta \epsilon \tau \epsilon \hat{i}$; the latter passage is explained (Fritzsche) as a substitution for καίπερ ἀνθρ., ὅμως οι δεὶς ἀθ. 'if it be only a man's will, yet,' somewhat like Xenoph. Cyrop. v. 1. 26 σύν σοὶ ὅμως καὶ ἐν τῆ πολεμία οντες θαρροθμεν, Kühner p. 645; but as in both passages a comparison is introduced by it, and as ούτωs also follows in the passage of 1 Cor., it appears to be rather an instance of the old word $\delta\mu\hat{\omega}s$ 'in like manner' being brought into play, which should accordingly be rendered simply by 'also' or 'likewise.' 2-Kaito in classical Greek means 'and yet,' and rarely takes a participle with the meaning 'although,' cp. § 74, 2; in the N.T. it introduces a parenthesis in Jo. 4. 2 καίτοιγε (§ 77, 4) 'Ιησοῦς αὐτὸς οὖκ ἐβάπτιζεν κ.τ.λ. (= 'although He did not baptize'), and has a more independent character in A. 14. 17, though here also it may be rendered 'although' (on A. 17. 27 see § 74, 2; for καίτοι with a participle H. 4. 3).— Και μήν 'and yet' (class.) does not occur in the N.T.; but Hermas uses it in Mand. iv. 1.

8, v. 1. 7, with an intensifying force in an answer, somewhat like immo (class., Kühner ii.² 690.—Mèv oũv in classical Greek is specially used in answers with heightening or corrective force, and is always so placed that the μ èv here as in other cases has another word before it; but in the N.T. μ ενοῦν οτ μ ενοῦν γε with the same meaning stands at the beginning of a sentence: L. 11. 28 μ ενοῦν (ins. γε B³CD al.) μ ακάριοι οἱ κ.τ.λ. ('rather'), R. 9. 20 (γε is omitted by B only), 10. 18 μ ενοῦνγε (μ ενοῦνγε om. FG); we also find ἀλλὰ μ ενοῦν(γε) in Ph. 3. 8, vide supra 13. Cp. Phryn. Lob. 342. But the classical position of the word is seen in 1 C. 6. 4 β ιωτικὰ μ ὲν οῦν κριτήρια κ.τ.λ., cp. 7 (οὖν om. \aleph D).

1. The comparative particles which are followed by a subordinate clause are ώs and ωσπερ, also frequently in nearly all writers καθώς, a Hellenistic word, see Phrynicus p. 425 Lob., who strongly disapproves of it and requires instead καθά (only in Mt. 27. 10 O.T. and L. 1. 2 according to D and Euseb., certainly the right reading, see p. 49 on παρέδοσαν) or καθό (which is found in R. S. 26, 2 C. S. 12, 1 P. 4. 13); the equally Attic form καθάπερ occurs only in Paul and Hebrews. The uses of is are manifold, and some of them, as being too well known and commonplace, need not be discussed at all in this grammar. The correlative terms are ώs (ὥσπερ, καθώς, καθάπερ) -ούτως or ούτως καί; or the term corresponding to ώς may be simply καὶ, as in Mt. 6. 10, or again και may be attached to ώs and may even stand in both portions of the comparison, as in R. 1. 13 "va τινα καρπόν σχῶ καὶ ἐν ὑμῖν, καθώς καὶ ἐν τοῖς λοιποῖς ἔθνεσιν, Μt. 18. 33 etc. (as in class. Greek, Kühner p. 799, 2).—When used to introduce a sentence $\dot{\omega}$ s and more particularly $\kappa a \theta \dot{\omega}$ s may also to some extent denote a reason: R. 1. 28 καθώς οὐκ ἐδοκίμασαν τὸν θεὸν ἔχειν ἐν έπιγνώσει, παρέδωκεν αὐτοὺς ὁ θεὸς κ.τ.λ. ('even as'= 'since,' quandoquidem), 1 C. 1. 6, 5. 7, E. 1. 4, Ph. 1. 7 (Mt. 6. 12 ως καὶ ἡμεῖς αφήκαμεν, = L. 11. 4 καὶ γὰρ αὐτοὶ ἀφίομεν), cp. ώς with a partic. § 74, 6.—A parable is introduced by ωs in Mc. 13. 34, by ωσπερ γαρ (γàρ om. D) in 25. 14, though no corresponding term follows, and there is also no close connection with the preceding words, cp. 81, 2. -Before ideas the place of ws is taken by work (especially in the Gospels and Acts, also in Herm. Sim. vi. 2. 5, ix. 11. 5), with much variety of reading in the MSS.; this particle is also used before numerical ideas = 'about,' Mt. 14. 21 (D &s), Jo. 4. 6 (&s has preponderant evidence) etc. (classical); ώσπερεί (in comparisons) only occurs in 1 C. 15. 8 (ωσπερ D*) and as a v.l. in 4. 13; ωσάν (ως αν) only in 2 C. 10. 9 ωσαν ('as it were') ἐκφοβεῖν, cp. § 70, 5. A very wide use is made of ws in connection with a predicate, whether in the nominative, Mt. 22. 30 ώς ἄγγελοι θεοῦ εἰσιν, 18. 3 ἐὰν μὴ γένησθε ὡς τὰ παιδία, 1 C. 7. 7 ἐὰν μείνωσιν ὡς κάγώ, or in the accusative, L. 15. 19 ποίησόν με ὡς ἔνα τῶν μισθίων σου, especially with the verbs λογίζεσθαι, ήγεισθαι etc., § 34, 5 (all unclassical uses; but in the LXX. we have in Gen. 3. 5 $\epsilon \sigma \epsilon \sigma \theta \epsilon$ $\delta s \theta \epsilon o i$, = class. $i \sigma \delta \theta \epsilon o i$, or $i \sigma a \kappa a i$ θεοὶ according to Thuc. iii. 14, cp. [§ 76, 1] εἶναι ἴσα θεῷ Ph. 2. 6). With τὴν ἴσην ὡς καὶ ἡμῖν A. 11. 17 cp. classical exx. in Kühner 361, note 18. Πορεύεσθαι ὡς (ἔως κΑΒΕ) ἐπὶ τὴν θάλασσαν A. 17. 14 is a Hellenistic usage, ὡς ἐπὶ = versus in Polyb. i. 29. 1 etc., see Wetstein ad loc.; ὡς τάχιστα ibid. 15 is classical (literary language; § 44, 3). On ὡς with a partic. and in abbreviated sentences see § 74, 6. On exclamatory ὡς § 76, 3; ὡς (ὡς ὅτι) in assertions § 70, 2; on temporal ὡς infra 3; with an Infinitive § 69, 3.

2. The hypothetical particles are et and ear, see § 65, 4 and 5; Paul (and 1 Pet. 2. 3, but *AB read ei) also uses etter 'if on the other hand, R. 3. 30 (v.l. $\epsilon \pi \epsilon i \pi \epsilon \rho$), 8. 9, 17, 2 Th. 1. 6, referring to an alternative condition (or fact); ἐάνπερ is similarly used in H. 3 (6 v.l.) 14, 6. 3; but the particle is differently used in 1 C. 8. 5 καὶ γὰρ $\epsilon i\pi\epsilon\rho$ $\epsilon i\sigma i\nu$ $\lambda\epsilon\gamma\delta\mu\epsilon\nu$ ou $\theta\epsilon$ où ..., $d\lambda\lambda'$ $\dot{\gamma}\mu\dot{\imath}\nu$ $\epsilon\dot{\imath}$ s $\dot{\delta}$ $\theta\epsilon\dot{\delta}$ s, where it has a concessive sense, 'however true it may be that,' as in Homer (Kühner 991, note 2)1. Eige is similarly used, but makes a more definite assumption (G. Hermann), § 77, 4. The correlative terms in use are εἴτε ... εἴτε (ἐἀν τε ... ἐάν τε R. 14. 8 twice), only found in Paul and 1 Peter, either with a finite verb, as in 1 C. 10. 31 εἴτε οὖν ἐσθίετε είτε πίνετε είτε τι ποιείτε, πάντα είς δόξαν θεού ποιείτε, 'whether it be that ... or that,' or still more frequently without a verb by abbreviation (classical, Kühner 839), ibid. 3. 21 f. πάντα γὰρ ὑμῶν ἐστιν, εἴτε $\Pi a \hat{v} \lambda o s \epsilon \tilde{l} \tau \epsilon A \pi o \lambda \lambda \hat{\omega} s \epsilon \tilde{l} \tau \epsilon K \eta \phi \hat{a} s$, where perhaps no definite verb can be supplied, but the meaning is 'whether one mentions,' whether it be,' 'whether one is concerned with' 2; similarly 13. 8 εἴτε δὲ προψητείαι, καταργηθήσονται, είτε γλώσσαι, παίσονται, είτε κ.τ.λ., and R. 12. 6 ff. ἔχοντες δὲ χαρίσματα ... εἴτε προφητείαν (sc. ἔχοντες), κατὰ την ...: είτε διακονίαν, έν ...: είτε ὁ διδάσκων, έν τη διδασκαλία είτε ὁ π αρακαλῶν, ϵ ν κ.τ.λ. The meaning of ϵ ἴτ ϵ ... ϵ ἴτ ϵ in such passages approximates very closely to that of καί ... καί, and the construction is also of the same character as that with καί; the passage R. 12. 7 like other cases of enumeration (R. 2. 17-20; § 79, 3) concludes with an asyndeton, δ μεταδιδούς έν άπλότητι κ.τ.λ.—Further correlative terms are et uèv ... et &e, as in A. 18. 14 f.; here we may note the thoroughly classical suppression of the first apodosis in L. 13. 9 καν μεν ποιήση καρπόν (sc. it is well)· εἰ δὲ μήγε, ἐκκόψεις αὐτήν (cp. Kühner 986). On ϵi δ ϵ $\mu \eta$, ϵi δ ϵ $\mu \eta \tau \epsilon$ (the second protasis being abbreviated) see § 77, 4; on ϵi ($\epsilon a \nu$) $\mu \dot{\eta}$ ($\tau \iota$) 'except,' 'except that' see \$\ 65, 6 \cdot 75, 3. In imitation of Hebrew εί is used after formulas of swearing (= Hebr. Δκ). Mc. 8. 12 ἀμὴν λέγω ὑμῖν, εἰ ('there shall not') δοθήσεται τῆ γενεὰ ταῦτη σημείον (cp. Mt. 16. 4 a principal sentence with $o\vec{v}$), H. 3. 11 = 4. 3 O.T.; there is a corresponding use of $\epsilon i \mu \eta'$ will certainly in R. 14. 11 O.T. according to D*FG, v.l. $\ddot{\sigma}\tau \iota$ as in LXX. Is. 45. 23 (but the LXX. in the same verse uses $\epsilon i \mu \eta'$ similarly, only not immediately before $\dot{\epsilon}\mu o\hat{\iota} \kappa \dot{a}\mu \psi \epsilon \iota$ etc.).—On concessive $\epsilon i \kappa a \hat{\iota}$, $\dot{\epsilon} \dot{a}\nu \kappa a \hat{\iota}$ etc. see § 65, 6; on ϵi in indirect and direct questions, and its use to express expectation (also expressed by $\epsilon i \pi \omega s$, si forte) see § 65, 1 and 6; 77, 2.

- 3. The temporal particles, used to denote time when, are ὅτε, ὅταν, όπότε; ἐπάν Mt. 2. 8 (ὅταν D), L. 11. 22 (ἐὰν D), 34 (ὅταν D) (ἐπειδή is generally causal, as is $\epsilon \pi \epsilon \iota \delta \dot{\eta} \pi \epsilon \rho$; $\epsilon \pi \epsilon \iota \delta \dot{\eta}$ in temporal sense only occurs in L. 7. I with vv.ll. ἐπεί, ὅτε), and exceptionally in Paul ἡνίκα (a literary word, but also found in LXX. e.g. Exod. 1. 10, Deut. 7. 12: Paul takes it from LXX., see Ex. 34. 34) 2 C. 3. 15 f. (a particle which strictly refers to a period of an hour or a year, but is already in Attic used interchangeably with $6\pi\epsilon$). Another equally rare word is δπότε, if it is correctly read in L. 6. 3 δπότε (ὅτε ΝΒCDL al., as in Mt., Mc.) ἐπείνασεν. In addition to these we find ώs not unfrequently used in the narrative of Luke (Gospel and Acts) and John: L. 1. 23 ώς ἐπλήσθησαν αι ἡμέραι, Jo. 2. 9 ώς δὲ ἐγεύσατο ὁ ἀρχιτρίκλινος κ.τ.λ. (classical; LXX. especially 1 Macc., Wilke-Grimm); in Paul we have R. 15. 24 ως αν πορεύωμαι είς την Σπανίαν 'in my approaching journey to Spain, 1 C. 11. 34 ws $\partial \nu \in \lambda \theta \omega$ when I come (shall come), Ph. 2. 23 ώς αν ἀφίδω—a use of ώς αν which finds only distant parallels in classical Greek1; it takes the pres. indic. in G. 6. 10 ώς καιρὸν ἔχομεν (male -ωμεν ×B*) cum, 'now while' (Clem. Cor. ii. 8. 1, 9. 7), and in L. 12. 58 ώς γὰρ ὑπάγεις ... ἐπ' ἄρχοντα, ἐν τῆ ὁδῷ (Mt. 5. 25 is differently expressed, using έως ὅτου; in Lc. έως ὑπάγεις would be tautological beside $\dot{\epsilon} \nu \tau \hat{\eta} \delta \delta \hat{\varphi}$).—Time during which is expressed, as in classical Greek, by ἔως (with a present), Jo. 9. 4 ἕως ἡμέρα ἐστίν, cp. 12. 35 f., where in 35 ABD al., and in 36 the same MSS. with N, read ώs, which after the instances of ώs that have been quoted is not impossible, though the meaning 'as long as' appears more correct at least in verse 35²; see also Mc. 6. 45, Jo. 21. 22, 1 Tim. 4. 13, § 65, Elsewhere for 'as long as' we have wws otov Mt. 5. 25 (as was has become a preposition, § 40, 6), or $a\chi\rho\iota s$ of H. 3. 13, A. 27. 33, or έν ψ Mc. 2. 19, L. 5. 34, Jo. 5. 7. The same expressions together with $\tilde{\epsilon}\omega s$ o \tilde{v} , $\tilde{a}\chi\rho\iota$, $\mu\tilde{\epsilon}\chi\rho\iota$, $\mu\tilde{\epsilon}\chi\rho\iota$ o \tilde{v} when used with the aor. conj. (or fut indic.) mean 'until,' § 65, 9 and 10.—'Before' is πρίν, πρίν η, usually with an infinitive; also $\pi\rho\delta$ $\tau\sigma\hat{\nu}$ with an infin., ibid.
- 4. For the final particles eva, $\delta\pi\omega s$, $\mu\eta$ see § 65, 2; on the extended use of eva, § 69; on $\mu\eta$, $\mu\eta\pi\omega s$, $\mu\eta\pi\sigma \epsilon$ after $\phi o\beta\epsilon i\sigma\theta a\iota$ etc. § 65, 3.— For assertions with $\delta\tau\iota$ (δs , $\pi\delta s$), § 70; for indirect questions with $\epsilon\iota$ ($\pi\delta\tau\epsilon\rho o\nu$... η Jo. 7. 17), § 77, 2.
- 5. The consecutive subordinating particles are $\omega \sigma \tau \epsilon$, see § 69, 3, and $\varepsilon \nu a$, ibid.—With a co-ordinate construction $\delta \nu$ is particularly frequent, being one of the commonest of the particles in the N.T., and fairly represented in all writings, though a far larger use is made of it in narrative than in epistolary style, and the greatest of all in John's Gospel (whereas in the Johannine Epistles it only occurs in 3 Jo. 8 [being interpolated in 1 Jo. 2, 24, 4, 19]). Of course it does not always imply a strictly causal connection, but may be used in a looser way of a temporal connection, and therefore to resume or continue the narrative. Luke is accustomed in the Acts, if the narrative sentence begins with a noun or pronoun (or a participle with the article), to emphasize the ov by the addition of $\mu \hat{\epsilon} \nu$, which need not be succeeded by a contrasted clause with $\delta \hat{\epsilon}$: 1. 6 of $\mu \hat{\epsilon} \nu$ ov συνελθόντες κ.τ.λ., 18 οδτος μεν οδν κ.τ.λ., 2. 41 οί μεν οδν αποδεξάμενοι, 9. 31 αἱ μὲν οὖν ἐκκλησίαι etc.; this combination of particles is used sometimes to state what further took place, sometimes to summarize the events which have been previously narrated, before passing on to something new (cp. for the class. use Kühner 711); the same use occurs in Luke's Gospel 3, 18 πολλά μέν οὖν καὶ ἕτερα παρακαλῶν εὐηγγελίζετο τὸν λαόν (the only instance of μὲν οὖν in that Gospel). The simple ov is used after a participle in A. 10. 23 (15. 2 v.l.), 16. 11, 25. 17 (cp. 26. 22 etc.); in Luke's Gospel only in 23. 16 = 22; D has it also in 5. 7. Ov is used after parenthetical remarks to indicate a recurrence to the original subject in Jo. 4, 45, 6, 24, 1 C. 8. 4, 11. 20 (also classical, but the classical δè οὖν to indicate this recurrence is unrepresented). The interrogative οὐκοῦν 'therefore,' 'then' (Kühner 715 f.) occurs only in Jo. 18. 37 οὐκοῦν βασιλεὺς εί σύ; ^a On μὲν οὖν, μενοῦν see § 77. 14.—Another consecutive particle is ἀρα 'therefore,' 'consequently,' especially frequent in Paul, who sometimes makes it, as in classical Greek, the second word in the sentence, R. 7. 21 ευρίσκω ἄρα, sometimes contrary to classical usage the first, as in R. 10. 17 ἄρα (FG ἄ. οὖν) ἡ πιστις ἐξ ἀκοῆς, 1 C. 15. 18, 2 C. 7. 12 etc. (H. 4. 9); we also find the strengthened form ἄρα οὖν R. 5. 18, 7. 3, 25, 8. 12, 9. 16, 18 etc., G. 6. 10, E. 2. 19 (om. oliv FG), 1 Th. 5. 6, 2 Th. 2. 15. It is strengthened by $\gamma \epsilon$ and given the first position in the sentence in Mt. 7. 20, 17. 26, A. 11. 18 EHLP, where other Mss. have apa as in L. 11. 48 (for which Mt. 23. 31 uses ωστε with indic.). Also in an apodosis after a protasis with $\vec{\epsilon i}$, the simple $\vec{a}\rho\alpha$ is always used and is always the first word: Mt. 12. 28 = L. 11. 20, 2 C. 5. 14 according to N°C* al. (most MSS. omit εί, but it would easily be dropped before είς), G. 2. 21 (ibid. 18 interrogatively, therefore åρα § 77, 2), 3. 25, H. 12. 8. On ἐπεὶ ἄρα in Paul cp. inf. 6; on apa, apa in interrogative sentences § 77, 2.— Another quite rare particle is Tolyapoûv (classical), 1 Th. 4. 8, H. 12. 1, placed at the beginning of a sentence; and rolvov is not much commoner, standing as the second word (as in class. Greek) in L. 20. 25 ACP al., as the first word (unclassical) in BL, and omitted in D (as it is in Mc. 12. 17; Mt. 22. 21 has ow); as second word also in 1 C. 9. 26 (in Ja. 2. 24 it is spurious), as first word in H. 13. 13 (Clem. Cor. i. 15, 1).—Another particle of kindred meaning is 84, which is found (though rarely) according to classical usage in sentences containing a request, 1 C. 6. 20 δοξάσατε δή ('therefore') τὸν θεὸν κ.τ.λ. (but  and some Latin witnesses omit δή and present an asyndeton); in L. 2. 15, A. 13. 2, 15. 36 at the beginning of a speech ('come now'); a quite different and thoroughly classical use of it occurs in Mt. 13. 23 δs δη καρποφορεῖ 'who is just the man who' (for δs δη D has τότε, the Vulgate and others et).—Lastly we have the consecutive particle διό, i.e. δι' δ, and therefore strictly used to introduce a subordinate relative sentence, but its subordinating character is forgotten, Mt. 27. 8, L. 1. 35 (A* wrongly has διότι, which is often confused with διό): in the latter passage we have the combination, also a flavourite one in classical Greek, 1 διδ καὶ, and the corresponding διὸ οὐδὲ in 7. 7; it is frequent in the Acts and Epistles; we also have διόπερ 1 C. 8. 13, 10. 14 (in 14. 13 most Mss. read διὸ). "Όθεν is similarly used in Mt. 14. 7, A. 26. 19, and often in Hebrews, e.g. 2. 17, 3. 1, denoting a reason like our 'hence.'2

6. The principal causal subordinating particle is ὅτι 'because,' for which Luke and Paul (H., Ja., 1 P.) also use διότι (classical). the subordination both with $\delta \tau_i$ and $\delta_i \delta \tau_i$ is often a very loose one (cp. διό, $\ddot{\theta}$ εν, supra 5), so that it must be translated 'for': 1 C. 1. 25 $\ddot{\theta}$ τι τὸ μωρὸν τοῦ θεοῦ σοφώτερον τῶν ἀνθρώπων ἐστίν κ.τ.λ., 4. 0, 10, 17 2 C. 4. 6, 7. 8, 14, with διότι R. 1. 19, 21, 3. 20, 8. 7 (ὅτι ϶϶) etc.* Akin to the use of $\delta \tau \iota = \delta \iota \delta \tau \iota$ is that of $\epsilon \pi \epsilon \iota$, which in the N.T. is regularly a causal particle: R. 3. 6 ἐπεὶ ('for') πῶς κρινεῖ ὁ θεὸς τὸν κόσμον, where as in other passages it has the additional meaning of 'if otherwise' (class, Xen. Cyr. ii. 2. 31 etc.), which it has in assertions in R. 11. 6 ἐπεὶ ἡ χάρις οὐκέτι γίνεται χάρις, 22 ἐπεὶ καὶ σὺ ἐκκοπήση. Έπειδή, which is likewise a causal particle (supra 3), has not this additional meaning, though like on it implies a loose subordination: 1 C. 14. 16 (B $\epsilon \pi \epsilon \hat{\imath}$), 1. 22 (FG $\epsilon \pi \epsilon \hat{\imath}$). Έπειδήπερ occurs only in L. 1. I 'inasmuch as already,' referring to a fact already well known, cp. $\epsilon i\pi\epsilon\rho$ supra 2.—On $\epsilon \phi$ ' $\tilde{\phi}$ cp. supra § 43, 3; on $\kappa a\theta \dot{\omega}$ s supra 1. Καθότι (only in Luke) strictly means 'according as,' 'just as,' and is so used in A. 2. 45, 4. 35; but in Hellenistic Greek it passes over to the meaning of διότι: L. 1. 7 καθότι ην ή Έλισαβέτ στείρα, 19. 9, A. 17. 31 (διότι HLP).—The co-ordinating particle is γάρ, one of the commonest of the particles (least often, in comparison with the rest of the N.T., in John, especially in his Epistles; there are also not many instances of it in the Apocalypse). Its usages agree with the classical usages; it is also frequently found in questions, where we use 'then,' Mt. 27. 23 τί γὰρ κακὸν ἐποίησεν; 'what evil then has he done?', A. 8. 31 $\pi \hat{\omega}_s \gamma \hat{\alpha} \rho \stackrel{\dot{\alpha}}{\alpha} \nu \stackrel{\dot{\alpha}}{\delta} \nu \nu \alpha i \mu \eta \nu$; giving the reason for a denial or refusal which is left unexpressed, or for a reproach (whether expressed or not) as in Mt. 9. 5 τί γάρ ἐστιν εὐκοπώτερον κ.τ.λ., 23. 17 μωροί καὶ τυφλοί, τίς γὰρ κ.τ.λ., A. 19. 35 etc., unless it should be rendered literall / by 'for who,' as in L. 22. 27. In answers it corroborates a statement about which a question has been raised (Kühner ii. 724), 'yes in truth,' 'indeed,' as in 1 C. 9. 10 η δι' ημας πάντως λέγει; (an oratorical question) δι' ήμας γαρ έγράφη, 1 Th. 2. 20 (and it is similarly used where a statement is repeated, R. 15. 26 f. ηὐδόκησαν γὰρ ηὐδόκησαν γάρ, καὶ κ.τ.λ.); there is a somewhat different use after an indignant question in A. 16. 37 of οὐ γάρ, non profecto (classical; see the author's note on the passage), and a different use again in Jo. 9. 30 in the retort of the man born blind, ἐν τούτω γὰρ (οὖν D) τὸ θαυμαστόν ἐστιν, ὅτι κ.τ.λ., which is equivalent to an interrogative (vide supra) οὐ γὰρ ἐν τούτω κ.τ.λ.—Kal γὰρ is 'for also,' so that there is no closer connection between the two particles $(= \epsilon \pi \epsilon \iota \delta \hat{\eta})$ καὶ); the well-known use of καὶ γὰρ for etenim (Kühner 855), where καί quite loses its force, is sometimes traced in passages like 1 C. 5. 7, 11. 9, 12. 13 (where ούτως καὶ ὁ Χρ. precedes); but in reality καί keeps its meaning of 'also' in these places, though it refers not to a single idea, but to the whole sentence. (Kat $\gamma \dot{u} \rho = etenim$ seems, however, really to occur in H. 5. 12, 12, 29 and in L. 22, 37 [D omits γ άρ], cp. Jo. 12. 39 D καὶ γὰρ instead of ὅτι.) Οὐδὲ γὰρ is similarly used in R. 8. 7 (but in Jo. 8. 42, where D reads οὐ γὰρ, it rather = neque enim, corresponding to a positive etenim; according to Chrys. and the Lewis Syr. καὶ ἀπ' ἐμ. οὐκ κ.τ.λ.). In τε γὰρ R. 7. 7 τε has nothing whatever to do with $\gamma \acute{a}\rho$: if $\tau \epsilon$ and $\gamma \acute{a}\rho$ are genuine ($\tau \epsilon$ is omitted by FG and the Latin Mss.), one must suppose it to be an instance of anacoluthon.

7. The concessive subordinating particles are $\epsilon i \kappa \alpha i$, $\epsilon \hat{\alpha} \nu \kappa \kappa \alpha i$, § 65, 6; also $\kappa \hat{\alpha} \nu \nu$ meaning 'even if,' Mt. 21. 21, 26. 35, Jo. 8. 14, 10. 38; on the other hand $\kappa \alpha i \epsilon i$ is only found, where the reading is certain, in the sense of 'and if' (Mc. 14. 27 $\epsilon i \kappa \alpha i \kappa BC$ al., $\kappa \alpha i \hat{\epsilon} \alpha \nu$ or $\kappa \hat{\alpha} \nu$ D, $\kappa \alpha i \hat{\epsilon} i$ A al.; 2 C. 13. 4 $\kappa \alpha i \gamma \hat{\alpha} \rho \epsilon i \kappa^{\alpha} A$ al., which is more correct than $\kappa \alpha i \gamma \hat{\alpha} \rho$ without ϵi as read by BD*F al.; Origen reads $\epsilon i \gamma \hat{\alpha} \rho \kappa \alpha i$, see Tisch.). On $\kappa \alpha i \pi \epsilon \rho$, $\kappa \alpha i \tau \sigma i$ with a participle, and $\kappa \alpha i \tau \sigma i (\gamma \epsilon)$ with a finite verb see § 74, 2. $\kappa \alpha i \tau \sigma i$ takes alternately a hypotactical or a paratactical construction, vide ibid., as it alternately has an adversative or a concessive meaning, § 77, 14.—On the use of $\delta \mu \omega s$ corresponding to classical $\kappa \alpha i \pi \epsilon \rho$ vide ibid.

§ 79. CONNECTION OF SENTENCES.

1. We find the methods of connecting sentences in Greek already divided in Aristotle's terminology² into two opposite classes, namely the continuous or running style (εἰρομένη) and the compact (κατεστραμμένη) of periodic style (ἐν περιόδοις). In the latter the whole discourse is subdivided into units consisting of coherent and well-balanced members; in the former the subsequent section is always loosely appended to the section preceding it, and there is never a definite conclusion within view of the reader. The periodic style is characteristic of artistically developed prose, the continuous style is that which we find in the oldest, and still quite unsophisticated, prose, and on the whole is that which characterizes the N.T. narrative, agreeing as it does with the manner of the Semitic models on which that narrative is based. To the idea which is given the first place and which is complete in itself there is appended a second and similar idea, the connecting link being in most cases $\kappa a i = \text{Hebrew} \ \bar{\gamma}$, then follows a third, and so on in an unending series: this tedious character of uniformity is an especially noticeable feature of the narrative of Mark, but is also not wanting in the Gospels of Matthew, Luke and John. Another class of continuous style is that where the opening sentence is developed by appending to it a participle, or a clause introduced by $\delta \tau \iota$, or a relative sentence, or in some similar way, since in this case also there is no end or termination in view; this manner of writing, which is freely employed by Paul in large portions of the Epistles to the Ephesians and Colossians, is indeed still more tedious and presents still greater obscurity than the simple linking together of sentences by means of $\kappa a i$.

 $^{^1}$ On 2 C. 13. 4 vide inf. 7. The classical use also appears in Herm. Sim. ix. 8. 2 καὶ γὰρ (etenim) καὶ ('also') οὖτοι κ.τ.λ.

2. Besides the connection of clauses by means of a conjunction, a relative, a subordinate participle etc., there is further the unconnected or paratactical construction (known as asyndeton); this is on the whole repugnant to the spirit of the Greek language, both with regard to sentences and the members which compose them, as also with regard to parallel portions of a single clause, and accordingly in the N.T. also is only used to a limited extent. Those sentences are not to be regarded as strict cases of asyndeton, where the new sentence begins with a demonstrative pronoun or a demonstrative adverb, referring back to something which has preceded: A. 16. 3 τοῦτον (Timothy) ἢθέλησεν ὁ Παῦλος σὺν αὐτῷ ἐξελθεῖν, Jo. 5. 6 τοῦτον ἰδων κ.τ.λ. (ibid. 21. 21 AX al., but *BCD have τοῦτον οὖν)," the person having been previously introduced and described; a quite parallel instance may be quoted e.g. from Demosth. 21. 58 Σαννίων ἔστιν δήπου τις ... οδτος ἀστρατείας ήλω ... τοῦτον μετὰ κ.τ.λ. unclassical use, on the other hand, is that of $\tau \acute{o} \tau \epsilon$ as a connecting particle, which is particularly characteristic of Matthew, though also occurring in Luke (esp. in the Acts), to introduce something which was subsequent in point of time, not something which happened at a definite point of time: Mt. 2. 7 τότε Ἡρψόης κ.τ.λ., 16, 17, 3. 5, 13, 15, 4. 1, 5, 10, 11 etc., L. 14. 21 (D καὶ), 21. 10 τότε ἔλεγεν αὐτοῖς (om. D), 24. 45, A. 1. 12, 4. 8 etc. (esp. frequent in D, e.g. 2. 14, 37); John uses the combination $\tau \acute{o} \tau \epsilon$ o \mathring{v} , 11. 14 (o \mathring{v} om. A Syr.), 19. 1, 16, 20, 8, $\tau \acute{o} \tau \epsilon$ in that case having a fuller meaning 'at this time' (as opposed to pre-Other circumstantial formulas with similar meaning, vious time). which can hardly be interpreted in their literal sense, are: Mt. 11. 25, 12. \vec{i} ἐν ἐκείν \vec{i} τ \vec{i} καιρ \vec{i} (14. \vec{i} , where \vec{D} has ἐν ἐκ. δὲ), ἐν ἐκείν \vec{i} τ \hat{j} ώρα Mt. 18. 7 (ἐψ ἐκ. δὲ BM), ἐν ἐκείναις (δὲ add. D) ταις ἡμέραις Mc. 8. 1 (ἐν δὲ ταις ἡμ. ἐκ. Mt. 3. 1, but DE al. om. δὲ); ἐν αὐτῆ (δὲ add. D) τη ωρα L. 10. 21 (7. 21 v.l. εν εκείνη τ. ω.; with δε AD al.). 'Απδ τότε may also be noticed in Mt. 4. 17 (with γαρ in D), 16. 21, L. 16. 16 (καὶ ἀ. τ. Mt. 26. 16). Μετὰ τοῦτο (ταῦτα) without a conjunction is frequent in Jo., 2. 12, 3. 22, 5. 1, 14, 6. 1 etc. (in 19. 38 μετά δè τ., but δè is omitted by EGK al.), and the Apocalypse (4. 1, 7. 9, 18. 1, 19. 1, 20. 3, with καὶ 7. 1 [καὶ om. AC], 15. 5); see also A. 18. 1 according to *AB (v.l. μετὰ δὲ ταῦτα), and the reading of nearly all Greek MSS. in L. 10. 1, 18. 4.—In the case of ἔπειτα and εἶτα Attic Greek is not fond of inserting a δὲ (Krüger Gr. § 69, 24), and the N.T. usage is the same, L. 16. 7, Jo. 11. 7, Mc. 4. 17 etc. (Ja. 4. 14 ἔπ. καὶ *ABK, ἔπ. δὲ καὶ only LP). The N.T. also uses ἔτι without a conjunction: L. 8. 49 ἔτι αὐτοῦ λαλοῦντος, A. 10. 44, Mc. 5. 35, Mt. 17. 5, 12. 46 (with δὲ CE al.), cp. 26. 47 (where Latin MSS. omit the conj., and there are var. lect. καὶ ἔτι and ἔτι δὲ).

3. Asyndeton between individual words or ideas is quite a natural occurrence for the sake of convenience in lengthy enumerations, but here there is a tendency at any rate to connect the words in pairs to avoid ambiguity, see § 77, 9, until at last even this becomes tedious to the writer, 1 Tim. 1.9, 10; still, if the ideas are not strictly summed up, but merely enumerated, the use of asyndeton may be an actual necessity. • Thus we have in 1 P. 4. 3 πεπορευμένους έν ἀσελγείαις, έπιθυμίαις, οἰνοφλυγίαις, κώμοις, πότοις καὶ ἀθεμίτοις εἰδωλολατρίαις (with the last word the adjective necessitates the insertion of $\kappa a \hat{i}$); the use of καί in this passage would lay too great a charge against individual persons. 2 Tim. 3. 2 ἔσονται οἱ ἄνθρωποι φίλαυτοι, φιλάργυροι, άλαζόνες, ὑπερήφανοι, βλάσφημοι κ.τ.λ. (but the same men do not possess all these faults). If the particle is used in enumerations of this kind, the construction is known as polysyndeton, a figure of speech which may be used just as well as asyndeton for a rhetorical purpose, only in a different way: polysyndeton by evidently summing up the different ideas produces an impression of greatness and fulness, asyndeton, by breaking up the separate ideas and introducing them one after the other in a jerky manner, gives an impression of vivacity and Still neither asyndeton nor polysyndeton is used with excitement. a rhetorical effect in every case where they occur: L. 18. 29 (= Mt. 19. 29, Mc. 10. 29) οὐδείς ἐστιν ὃς ἀφῆκεν οἰκίαν ἢ γυναῖκα ἢ ἀδελφοὺς κ.τ.λ. cannot well be otherwise expressed; also L. 14. 21 τοὺς πτωχοὺς καὶ ἀναπείρους καὶ τυφλοὺς καὶ χωλοὺς εἰσάγαγε ὧδε is a simple and straightforward expression, no less than Jo. 5. 3 πλ $\hat{\eta}$ θος τῶν ἀσθενούντων, τυφλών χωλών ξηρών (in the latter passage καί would be superfluous, in Lc it is not so because the different persons are summed up). Where there are only two ideas N.T. (like classical) Greek is not fond of asyndeton, except where opposites are connected, as in 2 Tim. 4. 2 έπίστηθι εὐκαίρως ἀκαίρως, cp. ἄνω κάτω, nolens volens, Kühner 865 d, Win. § 58, $7^{1,c}$ But polysyndeton is used with a really rhetorical effect in R. 9. 4 $\tilde{\omega}\nu$ ή νίοθεσία καὶ ή δόξα καὶ αὶ διαθήκαι καὶ ή νομοθεσία καὶ ή λατρεία καὶ αι ἐπαγγελίαι (cp. 2. 17 ff.), or in Ap. 5. 12 λαβείν την δύναμιν καὶ πλοῦτον καὶ σοφίαν καὶ Ισχύν καὶ τιμὴν καὶ δόξαν καὶ εὐλογίαν; just as asyndeton is used in 1 C. 3. 12 εί τις εποικοδομεί επί τον θεμέλιον χρυσίον, άργυρον, λίθους τιμίους,

4. If the connected ideas are finite verbs, this leads us at once to asyndeton between sentences; but there are certain imperatives which deserve a separate mention. Mt. 5. 24 υπαγε πρώτον διαλλάγηθι. 8. 4 etc. (18. 15 ὕπαγε ἔλεγξον »BD, a v.l. inserts καὶ; similarly Mc. 6. 38; but in Ap. 16. 1 all uncials have kai), co. the classical use of αγε and ιθι (N.T. does not use ερχου thus, but has ε. και ιδε Jo. 1. 47. 11. 34, Ap. 6. 1, 3, 5, 7 [in Ap. there is a correct v.l., omitting kal ίδε]); ἔγειρε ἆρον Mc. 2. 11 (in 9 most MSS. insert καί), but in L. 6. 8 only A has $\tilde{\epsilon}\gamma$. $\sigma\tau\hat{\eta}\theta\iota$, and there is preponderant evidence for $\kappa\alpha\hat{\iota}$, in Mt. 9. 6 C al. read έγερθείς άρον, B reads as in Mc., D έγειρε καί \hat{a} ρον: we further have $\hat{\epsilon}$ γείρεσθε \hat{a} γωμεν in Mt. 26. 46 = Mc. 14. 42; also ἀνάστα is so used at least as a v.l. of D* in A. 11. 7 ἀνάστα Πέτρε θυσον, § 74, 3. Further we have ὅρα ὁρᾶτε, βλέπετε = cave(te) (cp. \S 64, 2), Mt. 9. 30 δράτε μηδείς γινωσκέτω, 24. 6 δράτε μη θροείσθε (Buttm. p. 209), and accordingly $\delta\rho\hat{a}\tau\epsilon$ ($\beta\lambda$.) $\mu\hat{\eta}$ with conjunctive in Mt., Mc., Lc. is also apparently to be regarded as an instance of asyndeton, Mt. 24. 4 $\beta \lambda \epsilon \pi \epsilon \tau \epsilon \mu \dot{\eta} \tau \iota s \dot{\nu} \mu \dot{a} s \pi \lambda a \nu \dot{\eta} \sigma \eta$, although in passages like Col. 2. 8 $\beta \lambda$. $\mu \dot{\eta} \tau \iota s \dot{\epsilon} \sigma \tau a \iota$, A. 13. 40, H. 12. 25 the $\mu \dot{\eta}$ subordinates the following clause no less than it does in $\beta \lambda \epsilon \pi \epsilon \tau \omega \mu \eta$ $\pi \epsilon \sigma \eta$ 1 C. 10. 12. On $\alpha \phi \epsilon_s$ with conj. see § 64, 2. Not far removed from these instances is σιώπα πεφίμωσο Mc. 4. 39 (σ. καὶ φιμώθητι D). The corresponding use of asyndeton with indicatives is limited to έγένετο with a finite verb, § 77, 6, and to the asyndeton after τοῦτο in an explanation of the preceding clause (classical, Kühner ii.² 864) L. 3. 20 προσέθηκε καὶ τοῦτο ἐπὶ πῶσιν, κατέκλεισε κ.τ.λ. (BD al.); a peculiar instance is 1 C. 4. 9 δοκῶ γὰρ (ὅτι add. \aleph^c D° al.) ὁ θεὸς ἀπέδειξεν, which should be compared with the insertion of δοκείτε and μαρτυρώ inf. 7. Again, where we have to do with really distinct clauses and sentences, a distinction must be drawn between narrative style on the one hand, and didactic and homiletic (or conversational) style on the other. In narrative the connecting link is generally retained, at least by Mt., Mc. and Lc., for John certainly shows a remarkable difference from them in this respect: thus in 1. 23 $\xi \phi \eta$, 26 ἀπεκρίθη, 29 τη ἐπαύριον βλέπει, similarly in 35, 37 ηκουσαν (καὶ ηκ. κ ABC al.), 38 στραφεὶς (with δὲ κ ABC al.), 40 λέγει, 40 ην (A al. ην δè), 41 ευρίσκει, 2 ηγαγεν (καὶ ηγ. AX al.) and εμβλέψας αὐτῷ etc., beside which he uses the connecting particles οὖν, δέ, καί, ο These instances of asyndeton give the impression of ease, not so much of vividness or hurry on the part of the narrator. (Hermas has similar instances, e.g. Vis. iii. 10. 2 ἀποκριθεῖσά μοι λέγει, ο $\dot{\alpha}$ ποκριθείς $\dot{\alpha}$ υτ $\hat{\eta}$ λέγω – $\dot{\alpha}$ π. μοι λέγει, and again in 10, so that he uses asyndeton just in these formulas of narrated dialogue, where most of John's instances occur, and like John he is fond of using it with the historic present, Winer § 60, 1; he also uses it with $\mu\epsilon\tau\dot{a}$ $\pi\delta\lambda\lambda\dot{a}$ $\ddot{\epsilon}\tau\eta$, μ. χρόνον τινά etc., Vis. i. 1. I ff., cp. supra 2 ad fin.) —In the didactic style of the Gospels asyndeton is very commonly found between the individual precepts and utterances, e.g. almost throughout the whole passage Mt. 5. 3-17, and not only where there is no connection of thought, but also in spite of such connection: ibid. 17 $\mu\eta$ νομίσητε ὅτι ἢλθον καταλῦσαι ... οἰκ ἢλθον καταλῦσαι κ.τ.λ. (instead of οἰ γὰρ), L. 6. 27 ἀγαπᾶτε τοὺς ..., καλῶς ποιεῖτε τοῖς ..., προσεύχεσθε περὶ (29) τῷ τύπτοντι ..., καὶ ἀπὸ κ.τ.λ. (from this point onwards there is more connection). John also frequently employs it: 3. 6 τὸ γεγεννημένον ..., 7 $\mu\eta$ θαυμάσης ..., 8 τὸ πνεῦμα κ.τ.λ. Here too the asyndeton is used with no rhetorical purpose, although it perhaps gives greater solemnity and weight to the discourse. The style of the exhortations and precepts in the Epistles is similar. But in the Epistles, especially the Pauline Epistles, we also find many instances, some of them brilliant instances, of rhetorical asyndeton, see § 82.

- 5. New sections in doctrinal writings of some length usually have, as in classical works, some link to connect them with the preceding section, and this is at any rate essentially requisite in a work that lays claim to careful execution. On the other hand, the epistolary style is apt to make use of asyndeton, when a further subject is started, and there are moreover numerous instances in Paul and other writers where such a fresh start is made (ἐξ ἀποστάσεως, i.e. 'with a break'), quite apart from the Epistle of James, which has the appearance of being a collection of aphorisms, and the first Epistle of John which is hardly less loosely put together. In the Epistle to the Romans there are connecting links till we reach 8. 16 αὐτὸ τὸ πνεῦμα συμμαρτυρεῖ κ.τ.λ., where one may very well speak of a figure of έξ ἀποστάσεως; the thought is so directly the outcome of the feeling (as also in 10. 1). The absence of a connecting link at the beginning of the second main section of the letter (9. 1), which is so distinct from the preceding section, may be surprising, but a mere conjunction would here be quite inadequate to produce a connection. In 1 Corinthians the έξ ἀποστάσεως construction is profusely and effectively employed; but new subjects are also sometimes introduced without a conjunction, as in 5. 9, 6. 1, 12, but in 7. 1, 25, 8. 1, 12. 1, 16. 1 we have $\pi \epsilon \rho i$ &, in 15. 1 γνωρίζω δέ, etc. In the Epistle to the Hebrews the connection of sections is regularly preserved, except in the hortatory sections which are not connected with one another.
- 6. The other class of construction, the compact or periodic, has never been entirely wanting in any form of Greek literature; it is found for instance where the first-mentioned part of the thought defines the time of what follows, and this statement of time is not given in a few words (such as ἐν ἐκείναις ταῖς ἡμέραις), but at such length that a pause is required after it; thus we have a clause standing first which though it stands by itself gives a broken and incomplete meaning, and must therefore be succeeded by a second clause to complete the sense. This style is also found where the first part of the sentence is a condition etc., or where the subject of the sentence which is placed at the beginning is expanded by means of attributive words into a separate clause; there is a weaker, but still a true, connection of clauses, where two members of an antithesis, or a disjunction, or a parallelism, are set side by side, and the link between the first member and the second is expressed by a particle such as $\mu \dot{\epsilon} \nu$, $\ddot{\eta}$, $\tau \dot{\epsilon}$ or $\kappa \alpha \dot{\iota}$. Even a particle is not absolutely necessary to produce connection, so that we may even speak of periods where asyndeton is used, as in 1 C. 7. 27 δέδεσαι γυναικί μη ξήτει λύσιν λέλυσαι ἀπὸ γυναικός μὴ ζήτει γυναῖκα, = εἰ μὲν δέδεσαι... εί δὲ λέλυσαι, cp. § 82, 8. We, it is true, are accustomed only to speak of a periodic style, where the number of clauses which combine to form a single unit and which only receive their full meaning from the last of them is far in excess of two, and we consequently fail to discover a periodic style in the N.T., since as a matter of fact there are not many sentences of this kind to be found in it. We have indeed the preface to Luke's Gospel, L. 1. 1-4 ἐπειδήπερ πολλοὶ ἐπεχείρησαν | ἀνατάξασθαι διήγησιν περί των πεπληροφορημένων έν ήμιν πραγμάτων | καθὰ (sic D) παρέδοσαν ήμιν οἱ ἀπ' ἀρχῆς αὐτόπται καὶ ὑπηρέται γενόμενοι τοῦ λόγου έδοξε κάμοὶ παρηκολουθηκότι ἄνωθεν πᾶσιν ἀκριβώς καθεξής σοι γράψαι κράτιστε Θεόφιλε | ίνα επιγνώς περί ων κατηχήθης λόγων την ἀσφάλειαν, where, if the sentence is divided as above, and regard is had to the appropriate length of the clauses, erring neither on the side of excessive length or brevity, a beautiful relation is seen to exist between the protasis with its three clauses and the apodosis κάμοὶ, and ἀνατ. διήγησιν by γράψαι, and the καθὰ clause by ἵνα $\epsilon \pi i \gamma \nu \hat{\omega}_{S} \kappa. \tau. \lambda$., we see that the last clause, which is appended to a sentence already complete, is at least demanded by the correspondence which prevails throughout the whole passage. writer, however, in the rest of his Gospel has by no means taken the trouble to construct artistic periods, and his second work, the Acts, does not even open with a tolerably well-constructed sentence; the only similar period to be found besides in that author occurs at the beginning of the Apostolic letter, A. 15. 24 ff. artificially-constructed sentence at the beginning of the Epistle to the Hebrews is of a different character. Πολυμερώς καὶ πολυτρόπως πάλαι ὁ θεὸς λαλήσας τοις πατράσιν ἐν τοις προφήταις | ἐπ' ἐσχάτου τῶν ἡμερῶν τούτων ἐλάλησεν ἡμῖν ἐν νίῷ (this according to ancient ideas is a complete period with two clauses or members, to which some looser clauses are then directly appended): ον ἔθηκεν κληρονόμον πάντων $|\delta i'$ οῦ καὶ τοὺς αἰῶνας ἐποίησεν (with a rhetorical anaphoric use of the relative with asyndeton, § 82, 5; as in the subsequent passage) ος ων απαύγασμα της δόξης καὶ χαρακτήρ της ύποστάσεως αὐτοῦ | φέρων τέ τὰ πάντα τῷ ῥήματι τῆς δυνάμεως αὐτοῦ | δι' ξαυτοῦ καθαρισμὸν ποιησάμενος των άμαρτιων ήμων 1 | εκάθισεν εν δεξιά της μεγαλωσύνης εν ύψηλοίς (a period with four clauses) | τοσούτω κρείττων γενόμενος των άγγελων | όσφ διαφορώτερον παρ' αὐτοὺς κεκληρονόμηκεν ὄνομα (an appended period consisting of two clauses connected by τοσούτω... ὄσω). The rest of the Epistle is composed in a similarly fluent and beautiful rhetorical style, and the whole work must, especially with regard to the composition of words and sentences, be reckoned as a piece of artistic prose, cp.§ 82, 2, 3. Paul, on the other hand, generally does not take the trouble which is required for so careful a style, and hence it happens that in spite of all his eloquence artistic periods are not to be looked for in his writings, while harsh parentheses and anacolutha abound.

7. In the case of a parenthesis the direct course of a sentence is interrupted by a subordinate idea being inserted into the middle of it. We also freely make use of parentheses in writing, but prevent the irregularity of the construction from interfering with the intelligibility of the passage by enclosing the interruption within brackets or dashes, unless indeed we throw the clause, which might be a parenthesis, into a foot-note. The need of a parenthesis usually arises from the fact that some idea or thought which occurs in the sentence necessitates a pause, such for instance as the introduction of a foreign word which requires explanation. In that case a sentence, which should strictly be closely joined together, is divided in two; this is done either in such a way that the whole construction still preserves its unity, as in Mt. 27. 33 είς ... Γολγοθά, ο έστιν Κρανίου $\tau \circ \pi \circ s^1$, or else the insertion entirely destroys the structure of the sentence (anacoluthon), or again after the insertion, which is expressed as an independent clause, the writer returns to the original construction. In this last case we have a parenthesis. An instance of it is Mt. 24. 15 f. ὅταν ἴδητε τὸ βδέλυγμα ... (ὁ ἀναγινώσκων νοείτω), τότε οἱ κ.τ.λ. Or again an accessory but indispensable thought cannot be brought into line with the construction which has already been begun, and is thrown into the sentence just as it arises, e.g. in A. 12. 3 προσέθετο συλλαβείν και Πέτρον-ήσαν δε αί ημέραι των αζύμων—δν και πιάσας έθετο είς φυλακήν, where it would have been possible to bind the sentence more closely together by saying περί αὐτὰς τὰς ἡμέρας τὰς τῶν ἀζύμων καὶ Πέτρον συλλαβων είς φυλακην έθετο; but that would be the artistic style, not the style of the New Testament. Cp. 1. 15, 4. 13, (§ 77, 12). The parenthesis in A. 5. 14 $\mu \hat{a} \lambda \lambda \delta \nu \delta \hat{\epsilon} \pi \rho \delta \sigma \epsilon \tau i \theta \epsilon \nu \tau \delta \kappa \tau \lambda$. is harsh; it is true that the sentence runs smoothly on from 13, but the return to the main sentence after the parenthesis is awkwardly executed; the clause $\omega_{\sigma\tau\epsilon}$ καὶ είς τὰς πλατείας κ.τ.λ. in reality expresses a result not of verse 14 but of 13, though it looks as if the former were the case. But many of the worst instances of this sort occur in the Pauline Epistles. the thread of St. Paul's thought, when considered as a whole and in larger sections, includes many lengthy digressions (Win. § 62, 4), it is not to be wondered at that in smaller matters also the connection of clauses suffers in the same way. A parallel passage to A. 5. 14 is

- R. 1. 13 ὅτι πολλάκις προεθέμην ἐλθεῖν πρὸς ὑμᾶς, καὶ ἐκωλύθην ἄχρι τοῦ δεῦρο, ἴνα τινὰ καρπὸν σχῶ καὶ ἐν ὑμῖν, where the ἴνα clause is to be joined with $\pi\rho o\epsilon\theta \dot{\epsilon}\mu\eta\nu$. As here there is a lacuna in the thought between the words $\delta \epsilon \hat{v} \rho o$ and $\tilde{v} a$, so there appears to be in 2. 15 f. between $\vec{\alpha}\pi o\lambda o\gamma o\nu\mu\acute{\epsilon}\nu\omega\nu$ and $\vec{\epsilon}\nu$ $\hat{\eta}$ $\hat{\eta}\mu\acute{\epsilon}\rho q$, so that perhaps we should assume that in the latter passage there is a parenthesis; but it is not till a long way back in the sentence that one reaches a point, to which $\vec{\epsilon} \nu \ \hat{y} \ \kappa.\tau.\lambda$. may be logically joined, and it is the present writer's conviction that, instead of trying to explain the inexplicable, one must follow the guidance of Marcion, 1 and simply remove $\hat{\epsilon} \nu \hat{\eta}$ ήμέρα or ἐν ἡμ. $\mathring{\eta}$ (A) or ἐν ἡμ. ὅτε (\aleph D etc.), thus producing an asyndeton:—η και ἀπολογουμένων, κρινεί ὁ θεὸς τὰ κρυπτὰ τῶν $d\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\omega\nu$ (the things to which the κατηγορείν and $d\pi o\lambda o\gamma \epsilon i\sigma\theta a\iota$ refer). But these details are matters for the editor and commentator to discuss as they severally arise. Another grammatical point to note is that, as in class. Gk., a finite verb is occasionally inserted in the middle of the construction (which there would be no point in isolating from the rest of the sentence by marks of parenthesis, and to do so might even give a wrong meaning): L. 13. 24 πολλοί, λέγω ὑμίν, ζητήσουσιν κ.τ.λ. ('I tell you'), 2 C. 8. 3 ὅτι κατὰ δύναμιν, μαρτυρῶ, καὶ παρὰ δύναμιν κ.τ.λ., Η. 10. 29 πόσφ δοκείτε χείρονος άξιωθήσεται τιμωρίας (Herm. Sim. ix. 28. 8 τί δοκεῖτε ποιήσει), in all which passages it would be very easy to work the word into the construction: classical writers however have the same construction in numerous passages with olda, $\delta \rho \hat{a}s$, olmai etc., Kühner ii. 873 f. (Aristoph. Ach. 12 $\pi \hat{\omega}s$ τοῦτ' ἔσεισέ μου δοκεῖς τὴν καρδίαν;). Το this category belong the Pauline phrases κατὰ ἄνθρωπον λέγω R. 3. 5, ἐν ἀφροσύνη λέγω 2 C. 11. 21, ως τέκνοις λέγω 6. 13, which are epidiorthoses and prodiorthoses expressed in the concisest way. But the insertion of φασίν, $\ddot{\epsilon}\phi\eta$ etc. does not come under this head, as this is only a case of displacement in the position of the word in the sentence: 2 C. 10. 10 ὅτι αί έπιστολαὶ μέν φασιν βαρείαι (= ὅτι φασίν· "Αἱ μὲν" κ.τ.λ.), Mt. 14. 8, A. 23. 35 etc. Also proper names and temporal statements placed in the nominative in defiance of the construction (§ 33, 2) are not parenthetical, because they form an essential part of the main thought, and occur in their right place in the sentence.
- 8. Anacoluthon is due to a failure in carrying out the originally intended structure of the sentence; since the continuation and sequence do not correspond with what has gone before. In artistic prose instances of anacoluthon must generally be reckoned as blemishes, although they are not entirely wanting even in the prose of Isocrates; on the other hand its occurrence in writings where there is an imitation of a natural conversational tone, as in the cases where Plato has it, is quite justified, and it may therefore be considered justifiable in epistolary style as well, so long as it does not interfere with the understanding of the passage, though this limitation certainly seems not unfrequently to be transgressed by St. Paul.

Of the very various forms of anacoluthon I give the first place to a peculiar instance, which appears in the simplest periods, consisting of two members or clauses (sup. 6). Mt. 12. 36 παν ρημα αργον ο λαλήσουσιν οἱ ἄνθρωποι | ἀποδώσουσιν περλ αὐτοῦ λόγον, 7. 24, 10. 32,* Jo. 6. 39,117. 2, L. 12. 48, 2 C. 12. 17 μή τινα ων ἀπέσταλκα πρὸς ὑμᾶς | δι' αὐτοῦ έπλεονέκτησα ψμας; In these instances, formed on a Hebr. model, the two halves of the sentence had to be placed in opposition to each other, with a pause between them and a reference in the second half back to the first, and a certain weightiness is given to the style by treating each part of the sentence independently, instead of writing for instance ύσα αν βήματα άργα λαλήσωσιν, πέρὶ πάντων (τούτων) αποδώσουσιν λόγον. In the passage from St. Paul τινα is obviously occasioned by ἀπέσταλκα; with this is compared 1 Jo. 2. 27 καὶ ὑμεῖς τὸ χρίσμα ὁ έλάβετε ἀπ' αὐτοῦ | μένει ἐν ὑμῖν, where the pronoun occurs in both members, and in the first is to be taken with $\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\dot{\alpha}\beta\epsilon\tau\epsilon$, whereas the passage might have run without anacoluthon καὶ ἐν ὑμῶν τὸ χρ. ὁ ἐλ. ά. α. μένει. A similar case occurs ibid. 24 ύμεις δ ηκούσατε άπ' άρχης $|\vec{\epsilon}v|\hat{v}\mu\hat{\iota}v|$ $\mu\epsilon v\dot{\epsilon}\tau\omega^2$ ($\mu\epsilon v\epsilon\iota$ or $\mu\epsilon v\dot{\epsilon}\tau\omega$ by itself was not sufficient to make a clause, and the contrast between beginning and continuance required to be sharply expressed). Other instances of anacoluthon of this or a kindred sort are: A. 7. 40 δ Μωϊσής οδτος, δς ..., οὐκ οἴδαμεν τί ἐγένετο αὐτῷ (O.T. Ex. 32. 1),3 Jo. 7. 38 ὁ πιστεύων εἰς ἐμέ ... ποταμοί εκ της κοιλίας αὐτοῦ ρείσουσιν κ.τ.λ.4, Μc. 9. 20 καὶ ἰδων αὐτόν, τὸ πνεῦμα συνεσπάραξεν αὐτόν (instead of συνεσπαράχθη ὑπὸ τοῦ πν.), Α. 19. 34 ἐπιγνόντες δὲ ὅτι Ἰουδαῖός ἐστιν, φωνὴ ἐγένετο μία ἐκ πάντων (instead of $\epsilon \beta$ όησαν όμοῦ πάντες, which would not conveniently suit the following words). A very awkward instance occurs in Ap. 2. 26 and 3. 12, 21 ὁ νικῶν, δώσω αὖτῷ; on the other hand in 2. 7, 17 we have τῷ νικῶντι, δώσω αὐτῷ, cp. 6. 4, Mt. 4. 16 O.T., 5. 40 (the pronoun referring back to the preceding clause, § 48, 2). Herm. Mand. iv. 5 is like an instance of nominative absolute of the old sort (§ 74, 5), ἀμφότερα τὰ πνεύματα ἐπὶ τὸ αὐτὸ κατοικοῦντα, ἀσύμφορόν έστιν ... έκείνω έν ῷ κατοικοῦσιν.

9. Another kind of anacoluthon is found in sentences of greater length, where the interruption of the original construction by intervening sentences causes that construction to be forgotten, so that in the mind of the writer another is substituted for it. Thus A. 24. 6

^{*} v. App. p. 333.

(in the speech of Tertullus, which is transmitted by Luke with greater negligence than any other), εύρόντες γάρ τον ἄνδρα τοῦτον λοιμόν ..., δς καὶ ..., δν καὶ ἐκρατήσαμεν κ.τ.λ.; this δν καὶ, which is occasioned by ôs kai preceding, should have been dropped, in order to make the period run correctly, whereas the writer here continues as though he had begun with ευρομεν. The narrative portions of the N.T. do not contain many anacolutha of this kind: the passage Jo. 6. 22-24 has been transmitted with too much variation in the MSS, for us to be able clearly to recognize the hand of the author; according to the usual reading the $\tau \hat{\eta}$ $\epsilon \pi \alpha \hat{\nu} \rho \omega \nu$ $\delta \delta \chi \lambda \delta s$ at the beginning is taken up again in 24 with ore our elder & oxxos, in a manner that is not unknown in classical writers, where there would be no question of forgetfulness; cp. 1 Jo. 1. 1-3. But the Pauline Epistles (though not all to the same extent, as the care with which they were written varied considerably) contain numerous and more flagrant instances. Ιη G. 2. 6 ἀπὸ δὲ τῶν δοκούντων είναι τι ... ὁποιοί ποτε ἦσαν, οὐδέν μοι διαφέρει πρόσωπον θεως άνθρώπου οὐ λαμβάνει ... έμοὶ γὰρ οἱ δοκοῦντες οὐδὲν προσανέθεντο, instead of ἐμοὶ οὐδὲν προσανετέθη, the author may either have forgotten his opening clause or else considered it convenient to repeat it in a new form. At all events the passage is easily understood1; but just before in 4 διὰ δὲ τοὺς παρεισάκτους ψευδαδέλφους ... ols (οὐδὲ) πρὸς ώραν εἴξαμεν κ.τ.λ., it is by no means easy to say what was the drift of St. Paul's thought in the opening clause, unless, as the present writer in fact believes, the ofs (which is omitted in D* and Irenaeus) is spurious.² In many cases defective transmission or criticism of the text is certainly to blame: in R. 2. 17 ff. an obvious remedy is by adopting the reading ide for ei de (which can hardly be called a variant: $\bullet | \Delta E - | \Delta E$, \bar{i} de $- \bar{i}$ de) to change what appears to be a protasis without a correct apodosis into a principal clause. 3 b But in 1 Tim. 1. 3 ff. the construction which began with καθώς παρεκάλεσά σε κ.τ.λ. through innumerable insertions and appended clauses is unmistakably reduced to utter confusion.

10. Frequent instances of anacoluthon are occasioned in St. Paul by the free use of the participle, which he is fond of using, and sometimes in a long series of clauses, instead of a finite verb. Thus 2 C. 7. 5 οὐδεμίαν ἔσχηκεν ἄνεσιν ἡ σὰρξ ἡμῶν, ἀλλ' ἐν παντὶ θλιβόμενοι ἔξωθεν μάχαι, ἔσωθεν φόβοι, where one may no doubt supply ἐσμέν in the first clause as εἰσίν in the second, though this does not do away with the harshness and the want of accurate sequence in the passage. Similarly in 5. 12 οὖ ... συνιστάνομεν ..., ἀλλ' ἀφορμὴν διδόντες (εc. γράφομεν ταῦτα). So ibid. 8. 18 ff. συνεπέμψαμεν δὲ τὸν ἀδελφὸν ..., οδ

¹Belser (die Selbstvertheidigung des. P. im Gal. br., Freiburg im Br. 1896, p. 69) says with regard to the attempt (of Spitta and others) to give a uniform construction to this sentence: 'A philologist, who with a sane mind proceeds to expound the verse, cannot οὐδὲ πρὸς ὥραν be in doubt as to the perverseness of the undertaking.'

² In any case in R. 16. 27 $\dot{\phi}$ should be removed (with B), not only because of the anacoluthon, but especially in order to give $\delta i\dot{\alpha}$ I. $X\rho$. its proper connection.

ό ἔπαινος...διὰ πασῶν τῶν ἐκκλησιῶν, οὐ μόνον δέ, ἀλλὰ καὶ χειροτονηθεὶς (instead of εχειροτονήθη) ὑπὸ τῶν ἐκκλησιῶν συνέκδημος ἡμῶν σὺν τῷ χάριτι τη διακονουμένη ὑφ' ἡμῶν, στελλόμενοι τοῦτο, μή τις ἡμῶς μωμήσηται κ.τ.λ., where στελλ. is closely connected not so much with συνεπέμψαμεν (i.e. sent with Timothy), as with συνέκδημος ήμων etc., so that it is an undoubted case of anacoluthon, the participle stand-In E. 5. 21 there is no direct anacoluthon, ing for στελλόμεθα γάρ. but ὑποτασσόμενοι has not the same closer connection with the last finite verb $\pi\lambda\eta\rho\circ\hat{v}\sigma\theta\epsilon$ 18, which $\lambda\alpha\lambda\circ\hat{v}\nu\tau\epsilon$ s etc. 19, and $\epsilon\hat{v}\chi\alpha\rho\iota\sigma\tau\circ\hat{v}\nu\tau\epsilon$ s 20 have; the style is the same as in R. 12. off, where in the exhortations (after the style has already been entirely broken up in 6 ff., cp. § 78, 2) participles (or adjectives) are appended to each other in an unending series, with no possibility of bringing them into any construction. Thus in the opening verse 9 ή ἀγάπη ἀνυπόκριτος interrupts the remarks about what the Romans should be, individually (8) or collectively; after the interruption, however, he continues with ἀποστυγοῦντες ... φιλόστοργοι etc. up to διώκοντες 13; then in 14 f. there is a fresh interruption of clauses in the imperative or infinitive; in 16 we again have participles poorourtes etc. and again an imperative $\gamma'i\nu\epsilon\sigma\theta'\epsilon$, in 17 ff. there is a continuation of the series of participles; it looks as though St. Paul regarded the descriptive participle (whether $\epsilon \sigma \tau \epsilon$ is mentally supplied or not) as completely equivalent to the imperative. Cp. further E. 4. 20 παρακαλῶ ὑμᾶς περιπατήσαι ... ε νεχόμενοι άλλήλων ... σπουδάζοντες (cp. 2 P. 3. 3), 3. 18, Col. 3. 16 f. δ λόγος ἐνοικείτω... διδάσκοντες κ.τ λ., where the participle follows upon imperatives and is equivalent to them as in Rom. loc. cit.; but there is a similar anacoluthon in 2 C. 9. 11 πλουτιζόμενοι after an assertion in the future tense, in 13 $\delta o \xi a (o \nu \tau \epsilon s \kappa \tau. \lambda)$. there is an extension of the preceding $\delta\iota\dot{\alpha}$ πολλών $\epsilon\dot{v}\chi\alpha\rho\iota\sigma\tau\iota\dot{\omega}v$ $\tau\dot{\varphi}$ $\theta\epsilon\dot{\varphi}$ (the subject of the part. being the recipients of the benefit), cp. 1. 7; participles are used without anacoluthon, but in a very long series in 2 C. 6. 3-10. The constant element in all these instances is the nominative of the participle, which is therefore essentially connected with this free use Cp. $\lambda \tilde{\epsilon}_{\gamma\omega\nu}$, $\lambda \tilde{\epsilon}_{\gamma o\nu \tau \epsilon s} \lesssim 30$, 6. The reverse use is occasionally found, namely the use of a finite verb in place of a participle. Col. 1. 26 τὸ μυστήριον το αποκεκρυμμένον ..., νυνί δε έφανερώθη (Ď φανερωθέν); 2 Jo. 2 την μένουσαν εν ήμιν, και μεθ' ήμων εσται, Jo. 15. 5 δ μένων εν εμοί, κάγω (sc. μένω) ἐν αὐτῷ, οὖτος φέρει καρπόν, Mt. 13. 22 f., L. 8. 12, 14, 2 C. 6. 9; • Ap. 1. 5, 2. 2, 8, 3. 7, 9; it is less harsh in 1 C. 7. 37 ος έστηκεν ... μὴ ἔχων ... έξουσίαν δὲ ἔχει, cp. Jo. 5. 44 (with v.l. ζητοῦντες regular), 1. 32; supra § 77, 6. Parallels may undoubtedly be quoted from classical writers for this use, as also for the free use of appended participles in the nominative, Kühner ii.2 661 ff.; it is the frequency, harshness, and awkwardness of its use in the N.T. which makes the difference; since anacoluth.. such as A. 15. 22 f. $\mathring{\epsilon}\delta_0\mathring{\epsilon}\epsilon\nu$ τοῦς ἀποστόλοις (= the Apostles determined)... $\pi \acute{\epsilon}\mu \acute{\psi}\alpha\iota$..., γράψαντες might be equally well written by a classical author, as Thuc. iii. 36. 2 writes έδοξεν αὐτοῖς ... ἀποκτείναι, ἐπικαλοῦν. s.1

- 11. On the absence of a particle corresponding to the particle μέν, which strictly requires a δέ corresponding to it, see § 77, 12. A unique case of anacoluthon occurs in A. 27. 10 $\theta \epsilon \omega \rho \hat{\omega} \ \tilde{\sigma} \tau \iota \dots \mu \epsilon \lambda \lambda \epsilon \iota \nu \ (\S 70, 4)$, where the on was required to prevent ambiguity, and the infinitive is due to forgetfulness (supra 8), cp. Xenoph. Hell. ii. 2. 2 etc., Winer § 44, 8, note 2. To a relative clause there is sometimes appended a further clause with a co-ordinating particle (such as καί), in which the relative cannot be supplied in the same form as in the first clause (classical, Kühner 936 f.): Tit. 1. 2 f. ζωης, ην ἐπηγγείλατο ..., ἐφανέρωσεν δε νυν τον λόγον αυτου, Ap. 17. 2 (also 1 C. 7. 13 with the reading ητις, but a better reading is εί τις in D al.) L. 17. 31. The construction is rather one of oratio variata than of anacoluthon in R. 2. 6 ff. δς ἀποδώσει ... τοις μεν ... ζωήν τοις δε ... όργη και θυμός (sc. ἔσται; the idea conveyed by δώσει would not admit of being supplied with these nouns), the passage continues with the same construction, but a fresh contrast is formed, θλίψις καὶ στεγοχωρία ἐπὶ $\pi \hat{a} \sigma a \nu \psi \nu \gamma \dot{\eta} \nu \dots \delta \dot{\delta} \dot{\epsilon} a \delta \dot{\epsilon} \kappa, \tau, \lambda$. Cp. 11. 22; G. 4. 6 f. $\delta \tau \iota \delta \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\epsilon} \sigma \tau \epsilon \nu i \delta \dot{\iota}$. έξαπέστειλεν... είς τὰς καρδίας ήμῶν.... "Ωστε οὐκέτι εί κ.τ.λ. (but ibid. 6. 1 σκοπῶν σεαυτόν κ.τ.λ. is a real case of anacoluthon).
- 12. Mixture of direct and indirect speech.—It has already been remarked that the employment of the indirect form of speech, whether with $\delta \tau \iota$ and the optative, or with the accusative (nomin.) and infinitive, is not in the manner of the N.T. writers of narrative, as it is foreign to the style of popular narrators in general (\$\\$66, 3; 70, 4); from this it follows that not only does ὅτι ordinarily take the indicative instead of the optative (a tendency which it also has in classical Greek), but it may also be followed by an accurate reproduction of the direct form of the speech, so that on thus performs the function of our inverted commas (Kühner p. 885). An example which shows this is Jo. 10. 36 (Buttm. p. 234) ... υμεῖς λέγετε ὅτι "βλασφημεῖς," ὅτι εἶπον κ.τ.λ., instead of $\beta \lambda a \sigma \phi \eta \mu \epsilon \hat{\imath} \nu$, which would have linked on much better to the protasis $\delta \nu \kappa.\tau.\lambda.^1$ But it is quite impossible for a N.T writer to do what is so common in classical Greek (and Latin) writers, namely to continue the indirect form of speech for any length of time; on the contrary they never fail to revert very soon to direct speech, a habit which is also not unusual in classical authors, Kühner p. 1062 f. Thus A. 1. 4 παρήγγειλεν ... μη χωρίζεσθαι, άλλα περιμένειν ... ην ήκούσατε, 23. 22, Μc. 6. 8 f. παρήγγειλεν ίνα..., άλλ' ὑποδεδεμένους ... (as though an inf. had preceded), καὶ μὴ ἐνδύσησθε κ.τ.λ., L. 5. 14. Inversely, the direct form of speech is occasionally abandoned in favour of the indirect or a narrative form: A. 23. 23 εἶπεν· ετοιμάσατε ..., (24) κτήνη τε παραστήσαι κ.τ.λ. (the β text is different and runs more smoothly), Mc. 11. 31 f. έὰν εἴπωμεν ..., ἐρεῖ ... ἀλλὰ εἴπωμεν ...; έφοβοῦντο τὸν λαόν κ.τ.λ. (instead of φοβούμεθα, as in Mt. 21. 26 and as D² al. read here from the passage of Matthew). A different use from this is that in Mc. 2. 10 ίνα δὲ εἰδῆτε ... (addressed to the Pharisees like the preceding words), λέγει τῷ παραλυτικῷ· "Σοι λέγω $\kappa.\tau.\lambda$." (as in L. 5. 24, while Mt. 9. 6 has $\tau \acute{o} \tau \epsilon \lambda \acute{e} \gamma \epsilon \iota$); the speech is related just as it was made, and the apostrophe to the sick man is indicated by the parenthetical words (the use of $\emph{i} \nu a$ etc. in this way, with an ellipse of 'I will say this,' is also classical, Krüger Gr. § 54, 8, note 14; and see § 81, 3).

§ 80. POSITION OF WORDS (POSITION OF CLAUSES).

1. The Greek language is not one of those which are fettered with regard to the position of the different parts of the sentence, and it does not act contrary to its nature in this respect in the N.T., and the tendency for it to do so was reduced by the fact that the Semitic languages also have no strict rules about the order of words. In spite of this, both in the Semitic languages, and in the Greek of the New Testament, particularly that of writers of narrative, certain tendencies and habits are apparent. In general the verb, or the substantival predicate with its copula, is placed immediately after the conjunction; then follows the subject, then the object, the complementary participle etc.; unemphatic pronouns, however, have a tendency to be placed in immediate connection with the verb, also anything else that is dependent on the verb, especially if the subject is extended. The same rules hold good for infinitival and participial clauses (and for a participle placed at the head of a sentence²) as for clauses with a finite verb. Thus we have (Luke 1. 11) $\mathring{\omega}\phi\theta\eta$ δὲ αὐτῷ ἄγγελος κυρίου ἐστὼς ἐκ δεξιῶν. (12) καὶ ἐταράχθη Ζαχαρίας ίδων. (13) είπεν δὲ πρὸς αὐτὸν ὁ ἄγγελος. (18) καὶ είπεν Z. πρὸς τὸν ἄγγελον. (19) καὶ ἀποκριθεὶς ὁ ἄγγ. εἶπεν αὐτῷ. With a nominal predicate: Mc. 2. 28 ώστε κύριός έστιν ὁ νίδς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου καὶ τοῦ σαββάτου (cp. L. 6. 5), for which Mt. 12. 8 has κύριος γάρ έστιν τοῦ σαββ. ὁ νίδς τοῦ ἀνθρώπον, since here the extended subject possessed more weight than the genitive, unemphasized by καί. Mt. 13. 31, 33 όμοία έστιν $\dot{\eta}$ βασιλεία τ . οὐρ. κόκκ ψ ..., = 24 ώμοιώ $\theta\eta$ κ.τ.λ. But the participle stands after the subject: L. 2. 33 ην ὁ πατηρ αὐτοῦ καὶ ἡ μήτηρ θαυμάζοντες, Α. 12. 6 ην δ Πέτρος κοιμώμενος, Μc. 1. 6, 14. 4, Still in all these cases there is by no means any binding rule about the order, so that in L. 1. in the middle of the clauses quoted above we find in verse 12b καὶ φόβος ἐπέπεσεν ἐπ' αὐτόν, clearly because $\phi \delta \beta \sigma$ offers more of a parallel to $\epsilon \tau a \rho \delta \chi \theta \eta$ in 12° than έπέπεσεν does: whereas in A. 19. 17 we have καὶ ἐπέπεσεν φόβος ἐπὶ πάντας αὐτούς, L. 1. 65 καὶ ἐγένετο ἐπὶ πάντας φόβος (D φόβος μέγας έπὶ π.) τοὺς περιοικοῦντας αὐτούς, where the reason for placing πάντας early in the sentence in the ordinary reading is to give it stress and preserve the parallelism, as the passage continues καὶ ἐν δλη τῆ ὀρεινη ... διελαλείτο πάντα τὰ ρήματα ταῦτα, καὶ έθεντο πάντι οἱ ἀκούσαντες έν ταις καρδίαις αὐτῶν. Any emphasis whatever on any part of a sentence generally tends at once to throw that part into the forefront of the sentence: ibid. 67 καὶ Ζαχαρίας ὁ πατηρ αὐτοῦ ... (as opposed to the neighbours etc., who were the last subjects of discourse), 57 τŷ δὲ Ἐλισαβὲτ ἐπλήσθη ὁ χρόνος τοῦ τεκεῖν αὐτήν. Statements of time, which mark a transition, also have a tendency to stand at the beginning; but there too the inclination to begin a sentence with a verb occasions the introduction of a meaningless ἐγένετο, which does not in all cases affect the construction, before the temporal statement: L. 2. 1 ἐγένετο δὲ ἐν ταῖς ἡμέραις ἐκείναις ἐξῆλθεν δόγμα κ.τ.λ., cp. § 77, 6; so 1. 8 ἐγένετο δὲ ἐν τῷ ἱερατεύειν αὐτὸν ... ἔλαχε κ.τ.λ., 23 καὶ ἐγένετο ὡς ἐπλήσθησαν ... ἀπῆλθεν κ.τ.λ.

 $^{^2\,{\}rm For}$ details see Gersdorf, Beiträge zur Sprachcharakteristik d. Schriftst. d. N.T., Leipzig 1816, p. 90 f., 502 ff.

2. Closely related parts of the sentence, e.g. noun and attribute, noun and dependent genitive, several subjects or objects connected by καί etc., are usually in simple and plain discourse placed together, whereas not only in poetry, but also in discourse which has any claims to a rhetorical style, they are frequently severed from each other, in order to give greater effect to the separated words by their isolation. Thus the epistolary formula runs χάρις υμιν και εἰρήνη, not χάρις καὶ είρ. ὑμίν, an order of words which is partly occasioned by the tendency which from early times exists in Greek as in cognate languages, to bring unemphasized (enclitic) pronouns and the like as near as possible to the beginning of the sentence (though not to put them actually at the beginning 1); hence we find also R. 1. 11 "wa To μεταδώ χάρισμα ύμιν πνευματικόν, Α. 26. 24 τὰ πολλά σε γράμματα είς μανίαν περιτρέπει, Jo. 13. 6 σύ μου νίπτεις τοὺς πόδας, 9. 6 (8BL) έπέχρισεν αὐτοῦ τὸν πηλὸν ἐπὶ τοὺς ὀφθαλμούς, Η. 4. 11 ἵνα μὴ ἐν τῶ αὐτῷ τις ὑποδείγματι πέση κ.τ.λ., 1 C. 5. Ι ώστε γυναῖκά τινα τοῦ πατρὸς έχειν (also to emphasize both γυν. and πατρός), L. 18. 18 καὶ ἐπηρώτησέν τις αὐτὸν ἄρχων λέγων. But here again there is no obligation to use this order of words: thus we have 2 C. 11. 16 καν ώς άφρονα $\delta \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\epsilon} a \sigma \theta \dot{\epsilon} \mu \epsilon$, where no doubt the object was to give $\delta \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\epsilon} a \sigma \theta \epsilon$ the prior position. A prior position gives emphasis, a position at the end of the sentence does so only indirectly, where the word is torn from its natural context and made independent; the later position may also be influenced by the connection with the following clause, as in 1 P. 2. 7 ύμιν οὖν ή τιμή τοις πιστεύουσιν ἀπειθοῦσιν δε κ.τ λ. the regular order of words would be too cumbrous and unpleasant: Α. 4. 33 ΑΕ μεγαλη δυνάμει ἀπεδίδουν οἱ ἀπόστολοι τὸ μαρτύριον τῆς άναστάσεως Ίησοῦ χρ. τοῦ κυρίου, but 8B etc. have a better reading τὸ μαρτ. οἱ ἀπόστολοι, and B also has τοῦ κ. Ἰησ. τῆς ἀναστ. We even have in Ap. 3. 8 μικράν ἔχεις δύναμιν (cp. 4 with v.l.).—The Epistle to the Hebrews not unfrequently has a really oratorical and choice order of words: 1. 4 τοσούτω κρείττων γενόμενος των άγγελων, οσω διαφορώτερον πιρ' αὐτοὺς κεκληρονόμηκεν ὄνομα (it was necessary to make ayy, and ovoµa stand out; the latter word also forms a link with the following clause), 5 τίνι γὰρ εἶπέν ποτε τῶν ἀγγέλων (for the same reason), 11. 32 ἐπιλείψει με γὰρ (v.l. γάρ με, infra 4) διηγούμενον ὁ χρόνος περὶ Γεδεών κ.τ.λ., which offers a close (and perhaps not accidental) parallel to Demosth. 18. 296 ἐπιλείψει με λέγονθ' ἡ ἡμέρα τὰ τῶν προδοτῶν ὀνόματα, 12. 8 εἰ δὲ χωρίς ἐστε παιδείας, 12. 1 τοσοῦτον ἔχοντες (τοσ. emphatic) περικείμενον ἡμῖν νέφος μαρτύρων, ὄγκον ἀποθέμενοι (ὄ. emphatic) πάντα καὶ τὴν εὖπερίστατον ἁμαρτίαν. But many similar instances may also be cited from Paul and 1 Peter; such is the versatility of the Greek language that lively and animated discourse everywhere gives rise to these dislocations of words.

3. With regard to the position of the adjectival attribute, the rule holds good that it generally stands after its substantive¹; i.e. the principal word comes first, and then the word which defines it more closely, just in the same way that the adverb which gives a nearer definition of an adjective (or a verb) is given the second place: ύψηλον λίαν Mt. 4. 8, ἐθυμώθη λίαν 2. 16. But we also find λίαν (om. D) πρωί Mc. 16. 2, λίαν γὰρ ἀντέστη 2 Tim. 4. 10, and in the case of an attribute δι' ἀνύδρων τόπων Mt. 12. 43 (ἀν. is the principal idea), καλδν σπέρμα 13. 27 (κ. ditto), έχθρὸς ἄνθρωπος 28, καλοὺς μαργαρίτας 45 The rule cannot be laid down for a substantive which is provided with an article: $\pi\nu\epsilon\hat{\nu}\mu\alpha$ $\ddot{a}\gamma\iota\sigma\nu$ is the correct phrase without an article, but with it we have both $\tau \delta \pi \nu$. $\tau \delta \tilde{a} \gamma$, and $\tau \delta \tilde{a} \gamma \iota \rho \nu \pi \nu \epsilon \hat{\nu} \mu a$ as in Mt. 28, 19, A. 1, 8, which then becomes a single idea. $\S 47$, 6; $\tau \dot{\eta} \nu \dot{\alpha} \gamma \dot{\alpha} \nu \pi \dot{\alpha} \lambda \iota \nu$ (Jerusalem) Mt. 4. 5, 27. 53 (but $\dot{\eta} \pi$, $\dot{\eta} \dot{\alpha} \dot{\gamma}$. in Ap. 11. 2, 21. 2, 22. 19). On the attributive genitive see $\S 35$, 6° ; on οδτος and έλεινος § 49, 4.—Matthew has a habit of putting adverbs after imperatives, while he makes them precede indicatives: thus 27. 42 καταβάτω νῦν, 43 ρυσάσθω νῦν, 3. 15 ἄφες ἄρτι, 18. 16 (ἔτι), and on the other hand 19. 20 ἔτι ὑστερῶ, 26. 65 (5. 13 ἰσχύει ἔτι, but 1) omits $\tilde{\epsilon}\tau\iota$), 9. 18 ($\tilde{a}\rho\tau\iota$; in 26. 53 before $\pi a\rho a\kappa a\lambda \epsilon \sigma a\iota$ according to AD al.), 26. 65 (vvv). —The order of words has become established by custom in certain frequently occurring combinations with καί, Winer § 61, 4, such as ανδρες καὶ γυναίκες, γυν. καὶ παιδία (τέκνα), but cod. D in Mt. 14. 21 puts παιδ. first, as ND do in 15. 38; also ἐσθίειν καὶ πίνειν, οἱ πόδες καὶ αἱ χείρες (the reverse order in L. 24. 39, but not in 8), etc.; but all these are peculiarities of a lexical rather than a grammatical nature.— The vocative stands either at the beginning, as in Mt. 8. 2 and often, or near the beginning of the sentence, as in $\ddot{\theta}$ εν, $\dot{\alpha}$ δελφοὶ $\ddot{\alpha}$ γιοι H. 3. 1 etc., or in proximity to the pronoun of the second person, 1 C. 1. 10 παρακαλώ δὲ ὑμῶς, ἀδελφοί, or to a verbal form in the second person, Ja. 1. 2 πασαν χαραν ήγήσασθε, άδελφοί μου (this may be compared with the ordinary sequence of verb subject; there is the same position of the voc. in Jo. 14. 9 τοσοῦτον ... καὶ οὖκ ἔγνωκάς με Φίλιππε, where Φ. could not well have stood earlier); it also stands after a 1st pers. plur. in which the persons addressed are included, H. 10. 19 έχοντες οὖν, άδελ /οί, κ.τ.λ.

rarely stands at the end of the sentence: L. 5. 8, A. (2. 37), 26. 7, the last passage occurring in Paul's speech before Agrippa, in which there are other instances of the vocative being purposely given a peculiar position (verses 2 and 13).

- 4. To the obvious rule, that a subordinating conjunction stands at the beginning of the subordinate clause dependent upon it, there are some exceptions, as in classical Greek, especially in St. Paul, since emphasized portions of the subordinate sentence are placed before the conjunction: $\tau \dot{\eta} \nu$ $\dot{\alpha} \gamma \dot{\alpha} \pi \eta \nu$ iva $\gamma \nu \hat{\omega} \tau \epsilon 2$ C. 2. 4, 12. 7, 1 C. 9. 15, G. 2. 10, Col. 4. 16, A. 19. 4; βιωτικά μέν οδν κειτήρια έαν έχητε 1 C. 6. 4, 11. 14 (§ 79, 7 note), 14. 9, Mt. 15. 14, Jo. 10. 9; R. 12. 3 έκάστω ώς εμέρισεν κ.τ.λ., 1 C. 3. 5, 7. 17 (bis); 2 Th. 2. 7 εως; Jo. 7. 27 ὅταν. We have further A. 13. 32 καὶ ἡμεῖς ὑμᾶς εὐαγγελιζόμεθα, την προς τους πατέρας έπαγγελίαν γενομένην, ὅτι ταύτην ὁ θεὸς έκπεπλήρωκεν κ.τ.λ., instead of ὅτι τὴν—without $\tau \alpha \dot{\nu} \tau \eta \nu$ (p. 90, note 1). The same thing happens sometimes with the relative, Jo. 4. 18 wir or exers. 1 C. 15. 36 σὺ δ σπείρεις, and akin to this is the habit in interrogative sentences of putting the emphasized idea before the interrogative: Jo. 1. 19 (= 8. 25, 21. 11, R. 9. 20, 14. 4, Ja. 4. 12) $\sigma \hat{v} \tau i \hat{s} \epsilon \hat{i}$; cp. Jo. 9. 17, 8. 25 (ο, τι, § 50, 5), L. 9. 20, 16. 11 f., Jo. 21. 21 οῦτος δὲ τί¹ etc., Buttmann 333 c.—Of the co-ordinating conjunctions some stand in the first place, such as καί, ή, ἀλλά, others in the second (on deviations from classical usage in this respect see § 77, 13; 78, 5); the latter class, however, are occasionally found also in the third, fourth, or fifth place, partly from necessity, as in 1 Jo. 2. 2 or $\pi\epsilon\rho i \tau \hat{\omega}\nu$ ημετέρων δε μόνον, Jo. 8. 16 καὶ ἐὰν κρίνω δε ἐγὼ ('even if I however'). partly at the option of the writer, for instance where there is a preposition governing a case, or a noun with an attributive genitive; 2 C. 1. 19 ὁ τοῦ θεοῦ γὰρ νίὸς sAB al., which gives greater prominence to $\theta \in \hat{v}$ than the reading of DF al. $\delta \gamma \hat{a} \rho \tau$, θ , $v \hat{i} \delta s$, 1 C. 8, 4 $\pi \in \hat{\rho}$ της βρώσεως οὖν τῶν εἰδωλοθύτων (instead of οὖν DE insert δὲ after $\pi \epsilon \rho i$)*: Herm. Sim. viii. 7. 6 έν ταῖς έντολαῖς δὲ, ix. 21. Ι έπὶ τὴν καρδίαν δὲ, Mand. ix. 3 οὖκ ἔστι γὰρ, Vis. iii. 13. 2 ὡς ἐὰν γὰρ.—On the position of $\tau \epsilon$ see § 77, 9; on the position of the negative § 75, 7; on that of the secondary class of prepositions § 40, 6 (with οδ χωρίς H. 12. 14 cp. ὧν ἄνευ Xenoph. Hell. vii. 1. 3; χάριν is placed after its case except in 1 Jo. 3. 12 χάριν τίνος).
- 5. The adoption of a hyperbaton, i.e. a departure from the natural arrangement of words, is a very old expedient for the purpose of exegesis: it is at any rate found as early as Plato, who makes Socrates use it (Protagoras 343 E), in order to compel Simonides the poet to use the expression which Socrates regards as correct. It is employed in a similar way, and with scarcely more justification, by the exegetes of the N.T., see Win. § 61, 5.
- 6. The question of the arrangement within the whole sentence of the principal and subordinate clauses which compose it, is a matter

α v. App. p. 326.

rather of style than of grammar. Grammar should perhaps take note of licenses that are permitted, such as the insertion of a final sentence before its due place: Jo. 19. 28 $\mu\epsilon\tau d$ $\tau a\hat{\nu}\tau a$ 'I. $\epsilon i\delta\hat{\omega}s$... $\epsilon \nu a$ $\epsilon \epsilon \lambda \epsilon \omega \theta \hat{\eta}$ $\hat{\eta}$ $\gamma \rho \alpha \phi \hat{\eta}$, $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \epsilon \iota$ $\Delta \iota \psi \hat{\omega}$, 19. 31, R. 9. 11. On the other hand it is a very forced explanation which makes in 1 C. 15. 2 $\tau i\nu\iota$ $\lambda \delta \gamma \omega$ $\epsilon \iota \hat{\nu} \eta \gamma \gamma \epsilon \lambda \iota \sigma \hat{\mu} \eta \nu$ $i \mu \hat{\nu}$ dependent on the following ϵi $\kappa a \tau \epsilon \chi \epsilon \tau \epsilon$; it appears rather that ϵi , like the reading in D* $\delta \phi \epsilon \iota \lambda \epsilon \tau \epsilon$ $\kappa a \tau \epsilon \chi \epsilon \iota \nu$, is an explanatory gloss, so that we only have a protasis standing before a principal clause $(\kappa a \tau \epsilon \chi \epsilon \tau \epsilon)^{1}$. Jo. 10. 36 has the appearance of being an oratorical sentence, since the subordinate clause $\delta \nu \delta \tau a \tau \eta \rho \eta \gamma i \alpha \sigma \epsilon \nu \kappa \tau .\lambda$. is placed before the principal clause $i \mu \epsilon i s$ $i \epsilon \lambda \epsilon \gamma \epsilon \tau \epsilon i \tau \iota \beta \lambda a \sigma \phi \eta \mu \epsilon i s$ (see § 79, 12, $= \beta \lambda a \sigma \phi \eta \mu \epsilon i \nu$); in reality however the sentence with its defective structure ($\delta \nu$ referring to $\beta \lambda a \sigma \phi \eta \mu \epsilon i s$) is one of the instances of the loose formation of sentences with two members, found elsewhere in John's Gospel, § 79, 8.

§ 81. ELLIPSE (BRACHYLOGY), PLEONASM.

1. An ellipse is where it is left to the reader or hearer to complete for himself the thought which is incompletely expressed: not because the writer is afraid of saying something—that is the figure of aposiopesis—but because he finds any further addition superfluous. Still every omission of this sort is not therefore to be regarded as an ellipse. It is equally superfluous to insert what would be a mere repetition of something already stated, as for instance in the case of a preposition repeated before a second noun which is connected by kal with a previous noun, the omission or insertion of which preposition is an optional matter (see Winer § 50, 7); again the verb in the protasis sufficiently indicates the verb which should stand in the apodosis, in 2 C. 5. 13 είτε γαρ εξέστημεν, θεφ (sc. εξέστ.) είτε σωφρονοθμεν, υμίν (sc. σωφρ.); this is the figure known as ἀπὸ κοινοῦ (Kühner ii. 2 1066). 2 Moreover some slight alterations or changes in the form of the word may require to be supplied: Mc. 14. 29 εί πάντες σκανδαλισθήσονται, άλλ' οὐκ ἐγώ, εc. σκανδαλισθήσομαι, which is actually inserted in D and in Mt. 26. 33 (a harsher instance is G. 3. 5 $\epsilon \xi \tilde{\epsilon} \rho \gamma \omega \nu \nu i \mu \nu \nu$, where $\epsilon \pi \iota \chi \rho \rho \eta \gamma \epsilon \hat{\iota} \tau \hat{\iota} \tau \nu \epsilon \hat{\nu} \mu a \kappa a \hat{\iota} \epsilon \nu \epsilon \rho \gamma \epsilon \hat{\iota} \kappa \tau \lambda$. must be supplied from the participles). The omission becomes of a somewhat different character where positives and negatives are combined, as in 1 C. 10. 24 $\mu\eta\delta\epsilon is$ τὸ ἐαυτοῦ (ητείτω, ἀλλὰ τὸ τοῦ ἐτέρου, sc. ἔκαστος (to be understood from μηδείς); and entirely different in 1 Tim. 4. 3 κωλυόντων γαμείν. ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων sc. κελευόντων,3 with which cp. 1 C. 3. 2 γάλα

¹Therefore a full stop should be placed after $\sigma\psi'\xi\epsilon\sigma\theta\epsilon$, where a fresh sentence begins which is unconnected with the last, § 79, 5.

² Wilke (op. cit. in § 79, 7 note) p. 121 ff.—The formula οὐ μ^{*} νον δέ, ἀλλὰ καὶ= 'moreover too' comes under this category, R. 5. 3, 11, 8. 23, 9. 10, 2 C. 8. 19, where an immediately preceding word or thought has to be supplied, which in 2 C. 7. 7 is actually repeated; it is only in R. 9. 10 that the definite words to be supplied are not given in the preceding clause, cp. Win. § 64, 1 c, who compares Diogenes L. 9. 39 (Antisthenes) and οὐ μόνον γε ἀλλὰ in Plato.

 \dot{v} μᾶς ἐπότισα, οὐ βρῶμα (sc. something like ἐψώμισα, § 34, 4): here one verb refers to two objects (or subjects), to only one of which it is applicable in its literal acceptation (the figure of zeugma, Kühner Gr. ii.2 1075. f.).1 On the other hand, an ellipse proper may only then be supposed to exist, when the idea itself is not expressed in any shape whatever, and there is also no cognate idea which takes its place in the form required. Under these circumstances the following words may be omitted: anything which may obviously be supplied from the nature of the structure of the sentence, such as the copula, § 30, 3; the subject if it is an ordinary word (such as the thing, or men), or if it is absolutely required by the statement, § 30, 4; the principal word, if it is sufficiently indicated by the attribute, therefore especially feminines like $\dot{\eta}\mu\dot{\epsilon}\rho\alpha$, $\ddot{\omega}\rho\alpha$ etc., § 44, 1 (also in the case of an article with an attributive genitive, § 35, 2). Omissions of this sort are conventional, and parallels may in some instances be found in other languages as well; a specially Greek idiom is the omission of the idea of 'other' or 'at all,' in Π' étros σύν τοῖς ἕνδεκα A. 2. $14 = \sigma$ ίν τοῖς λοιποις των ένδ. (ἀποστόλων), cp. 37, where * etc. read τον Πέτρον καί τοὺς λοιποὺς ἀποστόλους, while D omits λοιποὺς; 5. 29 Π. καὶ οἱ ἀπόστολοι (D is different); 1 C. 10. 31 εἴτε ἐσθίετε εἴτε πίνετε εἴτε τι (sc. άλλο 'besides' or 'at all') ποιείτε, R. 14. 21 μηδε sc. to do anything else, Mt. 16. 14. Objects are omitted with verbs like τελευταν, viz. τον βίον, 'to die,' or διάγειν (ditto) 'to live,' Tit. 3. 3 (βίον is inserted in 1 Tim. 2. 2), also διατελείν, διατρίβειν used intransitively show a similar ellipse; we also have προσέχειν sc. τὸν νοῦν, cp. § 53, 1, etc. Γλώσσαις λαλείν should strictly be έτεραις γλ. λαλείν, a form which it takes in the narrative of the first appearance of the phenomenon in A. 2. 4 ('Mc.' 16. 17 γλ. καιναίς); but in similar narratives further on in the Acts (10. 46, 19. 6) the additional word is at best only found in the β text, and in Paul it occurs nowhere (but see 1 C, 14, 21). The adverb $\mu \hat{a} \lambda \lambda \delta \nu$ is omitted in 1 C. 14. 19 $\theta \hat{\epsilon} \lambda \omega ... \lambda a \lambda \hat{\eta} \sigma a \iota ... \hat{\eta}$, where θέλω is 'prefer,' 'would rather,' like βούλομαι in Hom. II. A., 117. As an instance of conventional omission of a verb may be reckoned the omission of 'he said' in the report of a conversation, where the recurrence of the word would be superfluous and wearisome: Α. 25. 22 'Αγρίππας δὲ πρὸς τὸν Φῆστον (with ἔφη CEHLP); ibid. 9. 5, 11 the verb might be supplied from the previous clause $(a\pi b)$ κοινού). Somewhat different is καὶ (ἰδοὺ) φωνή, sc. ἐγένετο Mt. 3. 17 etc., § 30, 3. In letters we always find χαίρειν without λέγει, § 69, 1, unless indeed even χαίρειν is omitted, as in Ap. 1. 4 and in Paul, though in his Epistles (and in the Apocalypse) its place is always taken by the Christian greeting χάρις ὑμῖν κ.τ.λ. Verbs of any kind

² The formula οὐχ ὅτι = οὐ λέγω ὅτι, as we say 'not that,' occurs in Jo. 6. 46 οὐχ ὅτι τὸν πατέρα ἐδρακέν τις, 7. 22, 2 C. l. 24, 3. 5, Ph. 4. 17, 2 Th. 3. 9; its origin has become so obscured that Paul can even say in Ph. 4. 11 οὐχ ὅτι καθ' ὑττέρησιν λέγω, Win. § 64, 6. Cp. for classical instances of t Kühner ii. 800, but in classical Greek it involves the idea of a climax (being followed by $d\lambda \lambda d$), are omitted in formulas and proverbs, which are apt to be expressed in an abbreviated form: Mt. 5. 38 $\partial \phi \theta a \lambda \mu \partial \nu \ d\nu \tau i \ \partial \phi \theta a \lambda \mu o \hat{v} \kappa, \tau, \lambda$. (δώσει according to Ex. 21. 24), Ap. 6. 6 χοινιξ σίτου δηναρίου (πωλείται 'costs'), Α. 18. 6 τὸ αξμα ύμων ἐπὶ τὴν κεφαλὴν ὑμων, cp. Mt. 27. 25 (sc. ἐλθέτω according to Mt. 23. 35; a Hebrew phrase, see LXX. 2 Sam. 1. 16), 2 P. 2. 22 δε λουσαμένη είε κύλισμα βορβόρου (classical γλαῦκ' 'Αθήναζε etc. but in the passage from 2 Pet. επιστρέψασα may be supplied from the preceding proverb, Win. § 64, 2). * *Oρα μή (sc. ποιήσης) must also have been a common phrase, Ap. 19. 10, 22. 9. On ίνα τί, τί πρὸς σέ etc. see § 50, 7. Υμείς δε οὐχ οὕτως (should act) occurs in L. 22. 26. 'AAA' "wa, but it was, it came to pass etc. for this reason that = the Divine will was, occurs in Jo. 1. 8, 9. 3, 13, 18, 15, 25, Mc. 14. 49.—Εί δὲ μή (γε) (§ 77, 4) 'otherwise' has become a stereotyped phrase, so that it may even stand (instead of el de) after a negative sentence, as in L. 5. 36 (a classical use, Kühner 987); also instead of car de min after car mer. L. 10, 6, 13, 0 (in Ap. 2, 5 an explanatory clause with $\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\alpha}\nu$ $\mu\hat{\eta}$ is tacked on at the end), see for classical instances Krüger § 65, 5. 12. Also εἰ μή, ἐὰν μή (Mc. 4. 22, G. 2. 16) 'except' were originally elliptical phrases.—In 2 Th. 1. 5 «νδειγμα της δικαίας κρίσεως κ.τ.λ. (after ταις θλίψεσιν αις ένέχεσθε) stands for ὁ ἐστιν ἔνδ. κ.τ.λ. (cp. E. 3. 13, Ph. 1. 28). but may be classed with the acc. used in apposition of sentences, Kühner-Gerth 284 (Buttm. p. 134), as in R. 12. ι παρακαλώ ύμῶς παραστήσαι τὰ σώματα \mathring{v} μῶν $\mathring{\theta}$ υσίαν ..., τὴν λογικὴν λατρείαν \mathring{v} μων (so that this is etc.). —Jo. 7. 35 ποῦ οὖτος μέλλει πορεύεσθαι, ὅτι ἡμεῖς οὐχ εὑρήσομεν αὐτόν; is not elliptical, since $6\pi i = \delta i'$ $6, \pi i$ as in 14. 22 (§ 50, 7), 9. 17, Mt. 8. 27, Mc. 4. 411; but Mt. 16. 7 ὅτι ἄρτους οὖκ ἐλάβομεν = τοῦτ' ἐκεῖνο. őτι κ.τ.λ.; cp. the classical ellipses with ὅτι given in Kühner p. 889, note 4.

2. Omissions which are due to individual style and taste go much further, especially in letters, where the writer reckons on the knowledge which the recipient shares with himself, and also imitates ordinary speech, which is likewise full of ellipses, both conventional and such as depend more on individual caprice. Examples: 1 C. 1. 31 $\tilde{l}\nu a$ $\kappa a\theta \tilde{b}s$ $\gamma \epsilon \gamma \rho a\pi \tau a \iota$ 'O $\kappa a \nu \chi \tilde{\omega} \mu \epsilon \nu s$ s. 'in order that it may come to pass,' or 'proceed as' etc.': 4. 6 $\tilde{l}\nu a$ $\tilde{\epsilon}\nu$ $\tilde{l}\mu l \nu$ $\tilde{l}\nu l$ $\tilde{l}\nu$ \tilde which is not inherent in it in the N.T. Once Paul uses οὐχ οἶον ὅτι with a similar meaning (= 'it is not as if'), R. 9. 6 οὐχ οἷον δὲ ὅτι ἐκπέπτωκεν ὁ λόγος τοῦ θεοῦ (as Polyb. iii. 88. 5 uses οὐχ οἷον ... ἀλλὰ with the idea of a climax = class. οὐχ ὅτι). Cp. the elliptical μήτιγε, § 75, 2.

1 These combinations of particles are ultimately derived τ[®] m Heb. (§ 78, 6), cp. H. 2. 6 = Ps. 8. 5 τί ἐστιν ἄνθρωπος, ὅτι μιμνήσκη αὐτοῦ; κ.τ.λ., where ὅτι = ... So in Exod. 3. 11, 16. 7, Judges 19. 18 etc. (Gesenius-Kautzsch § 107, 4. b 3); in 1 Sam. 11. 5 the equivalent in the Greek for καίτι ὁ λαός.

There is likewise no aposiopesis in Jo. 6. 62 ἐὰν οὖν θεωρῆτε ..., sc. what could you say then ?, or in A. 23. 9 $\epsilon i \delta \epsilon \pi \nu \epsilon \hat{\nu} \mu a a \hat{\nu} \tau \hat{\omega} \epsilon \lambda a \lambda \eta \sigma \epsilon \nu$, sc. what opposition can we make? - 3. Distinct from ellipse is what is known as brachylogy, where something is passed over for the sake of brevity, not so much affecting the grammatical structure as the thought: the omission may either be conventional or due to individual style. An instance of the former is to be found in $\tilde{i}\nu a$ clauses which are thrown forward in a sentence, and which give the aim or object of the subsequent statement, Mt. 9. 6 $\tilde{i}\nu a$ $\delta \epsilon$ $\epsilon i\delta \hat{\eta}\tau \epsilon$ $\kappa.\tau.\lambda$. (§ 79, 12)2; an instance of the latter is R. 11. 18 ϵi $\delta \epsilon$ $\kappa a \tau a \kappa a \nu \chi \hat{a} \sigma a \iota$ (you must know then that) où $\sigma \nu \tau \hat{\eta} \nu$ $\hat{\nu} i \xi a \nu \beta a \sigma \tau a \xi \epsilon i \delta \lambda \lambda^{\prime}$ $\hat{\eta}$ $\hat{\nu} i \xi a$ $\sigma \epsilon$, 1 C. 11. 16, Win. § 66, 1.
- 4. The opposite to ellipse is pleonasm, which consists especially in expression being given a second time to an idea which has already been expressed in the sentence, not with any rhetorical object (such

§ 82. ARRANGEMENT OF WORDS; FIGURES OF SPEECH.

1. The sophists and rhetoricians who about the end of the fifth and the beginning of the fourth centuries B.C. created the Attic artistic prose style, did so with a certain amount of emulation with the only artistic form of speech previously in existence, namely poetry, and accordingly they endeavoured sometimes to borrow its external charms, sometimes to replace them by others equivalent to We are here speaking not so much of expression, as of the combination (arrangement, $\sigma \dot{v} \nu \theta \epsilon \sigma \iota s$) of words, and anything else that may be regarded as connected with their arrangement. Since verse was excluded, Gorgias of Sicily, the first master of artistic prose, introduced into use as in some way equivalent to it certain figures of speech, which in the language of rhetoric took their name from him (Γοργίεια σχήματα). These figures consist in the artificial and formal combination of opposites (antithesis) or parallels (parison, isocolon), the charm of which was enhanced by various assonances at the end of the clauses (i.e. rhyme) as also at the beginning and in the middle of them (παρόμοια, parechesis etc.). There is here an obvious point of contact with that which poetry elsewhere usually regarded as its distinctive feature, and also a particularly close contact with the old Hebrew parallelism of clauses. These mannerisms of Gorgias were not free from a certain degree of pedantry and indeed of obvious affectation, and for this reason they were subsequently exploded and

¹ On ἄρξασθαι, ἀρξάμενος see §§ 69, 4 note; 74, 2; on έγένειο § 77, 6.

² Also in Jo. 20. 4 προέδραμεν τάχιον τοῦ Πέτρου there is a superfluity of words: ἔδραμεν was sufficient (or προέδρ, τοῦ Πέτρου), especially as $ω_{i}$ ἢλθεν πρῶτος εἰς τὸ μνημεῖον follows.* It is somewhat different in L. 1. 76 προι ερεύση πρὸ προσώπου (= πρὸ) τοῦ κυρίου; since it is a common phenomenon of the language, that if a verb compounded with a preposition has its literal meaning, the preposition is again repeated in the complement (εἰσβάλλειν εἰs), § 37, 7.

³ But Winer § 65, 2 notes with reason that $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa$ δευτέρου etc. if it follows πάλιν is not superfluous, but a nearer definition.—D has $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\nu}\theta\dot{\epsilon}\omega$ s παραχρημα (classical) in A. 14. 10.

2* v. App. p. 333.

went out of fashion; they were most unsuitable for practical speech. and for this purpose the Attic orators of the fourth century created a very different and flexible artistic style, which is based upon an imitation of lively speech, springing directly from the feelings, with its forms and figures (σχήματα). But in place of rhyme which had been carried to excess and of assonance in general, the artistic prose of the fourth century, showing herein a certain direct approximation to the style of lyric poetry, had recourse to manifold rhythms, which by their mutual accordance imparted to the language a beautifully harmonious character; it further borrowed from the poets (a practice of which the beginnings are found in Gorgias himself) a smoothness and absence of friction in the juncture of words, doing away with the harsh collision between vowels at the end and beginning of contiguous words,—the so-called hiatus. This avoiding of hiatus continued to be practised by Hellenistic and Atticistic writers of the following centuries with a greater or less degree of strictness.

2. The Epistle to the Hebrews is the only piece of writing in the N.T., which in structure of sentences and style shows the care and dexterity of an artistic writer, and so it cannot be wondered at, if it is in this work alone that the principle of avoiding hiatus is, to some extent, taken into account. It is not the case that all collisions of vowels are of the same kind: those which are really harsh are only such as are not rendered inaudible by a pause in the thought (end of a sentence or clause), or such as cannot be effaced by elision of the first vowel ($\dot{\alpha}\lambda\lambda'$, δ') or crasis ($\kappa\ddot{\alpha}\nu$), or lastly are not formed by small 'form-words' such as καί, εἰ, μή, τοῦ, ὁ, τὸ (the various forms of the article; also ô, oô etc.) in the case of which a prose-writer excuses a license which can hardly be helped In these words the long vowel or diphthong is shortened, and as there is nothing to prevent the same shortening from taking place in the case of any other words of more than one syllable, a way is thus arrived at of getting over individual cases of harsh hiatus. The use of hiatus with τi , $\tau \iota$, $\delta \tau \iota$, $\pi\epsilon\rho\ell$, $\pi\rho\delta$ is condoned, as it is previously in poetry. Elisions of \check{a} , ϵ , o, however, are not readily adopted, if the words combined in this way are other than 'form-words' (cp. § 5, 1); on the other hand the at of verbal terminations is subject to elision (and is written with elision 1), being also reckoned for the purpose of the accent as short or almost short. If then in the Epistle to the Hebrews one leaves out of sight in the first place all the O.T. quotations, and then chapter xiii. (concluding warnings etc.), the test of hiatus gives the following results. Hiatus is a matter of indifference where there is a pause; hiatus with καί is also a comparatively indifferent matter. With $\mu\dot{\eta}$ there are 7 instances, with $\dot{\delta}$ only 5 (6. 16, 9. 7, 25, 10. 23, 11. 28), with $\tau \circ 15$, $\tau \circ 4$, of 6, $\eta \circ 1$, $\tau \circ 8$, $\tau \circ 5$, $\tau \circ 1$, $\delta \circ 1$, $\delta \circ 2$ (10. 5, 11. 16; it is avoided by using δι' ην αιτίαν in 2. 11), οδ 2, ω 1, η 1 (instances with art. and rel. amount to 52 in all 2). With ă, ε, ο (not reckoning ἀλλά, δέ, τε, ἵνα and prepositions) there are

- 20,1 7, 0 respectively; with $\alpha \iota$ of verbal terminations 18.2 These figures, if one takes into consideration the length of the Epistle, are in fact remarkably low, and only to be explained on the ground that the author paid attention to this matter. In particular, he would never have allowed himself to write anything like $\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\epsilon\tau \sigma$ $a\dot{\iota}\tau\dot{\phi}$, where the words are left distinct (an impossibility in any Greek artistic composition), or again, at any rate if it could be avoided, $\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\epsilon\tau'$ $a\dot{\iota}\tau\dot{\phi}$, where the words are combined.3 On the other hand, instances of the harsher hiatus mentioned above, while certainly rarer than elsewhere, are not absolute rarities and cannot be set aside; it appears, then, that the author had not, as others had, been taught to regard the rule as a categorical one, but held $\dot{a}\delta\epsilon\lambda\phio\dot{\iota}$ $\ddot{a}\gamma\iotao\iota$, $\ddot{\epsilon}\nuo\chio\iota$ $\dot{\eta}\sigma\alpha\nu$, $\pi\dot{\iota}\sigma\tau\epsilon\iota$ Evò\(\text{x}\) and the like, at any rate with shortening of the vowels, to be admissible.
- 3. To look for verses and fragments of verse (apart from the three quotation, A. 17. 28, 1 C. 15. 33, Tit. 1. 12), i.e. to look for rhythm in the N.T., is on the whole a useless waste of time, and the specimens of verse which have been found are for the most part of such a quality that they are better left unmentioned (Ja. 1. 17 is a hexameter $\pi \hat{a} \sigma a \delta \delta \sigma \iota s \kappa.\tau.\lambda.$, but contains a tribrach in the second foot). Again, however, we find a difference in the Epistle to the Hebrews, where in 12. 13 there occurs a faultless hexameter, καὶ τροχιὰς ὀρθὰς ποιή- $\sigma a \tau \epsilon^4 \tau o i s \pi o \sigma i \nu \nu \mu \hat{\omega} \nu$, and immediately after in 14 f. two equally faultless trimeters in succession, où $\chi\omega\rho$ is où δεὶς οὐ δεὶς οὐ δεὶς τὸν κύριον | ἐπισκοποῦντες μή τις ὑστερῶν ἀπὸ |. These fragments of verse, however, if not purely accidental, are at any rate not the essential matter: this in the Epistle under consideration is rather to be found in a carefully executed mutual assimilation of the beginnings and endings of sentences and clauses. Ending may correspond with ending and beginning with beginning, and also ending with beginning, especially where the two are contiguous. Rhythm of this kind must have been taught in the schools of rhetoric of the time in Greece and Rorie, and the writer of this Ep. must have passed through such a school. Thus we have at the very beginning $(\pi \circ \lambda \circ \mu \in \rho \circ \circ \ldots \pi \circ \tau \rho \circ) \sigma \circ \iota \nu \leftrightarrow \iota \nu$ τοῖς προφήταις $|(\vec{\epsilon}\pi' \vec{\epsilon}\sigma\chi\acute{a}\tau ov...\vec{\epsilon}\lambda\acute{a}\lambda\eta)\sigma\epsilon\nu|$ ήμ $\hat{i}\nu$ $\hat{\epsilon}\nu$ $\hat{v}i\ddot{\omega}$, twice over

² In 12. 11 εἶναι | ἀλλὰ there is a pause.

⁵This verse is noticed by Delitzsch, the following verse is added by his reviewer. $X\omega\rho ls$ in this passage only stands after its case, § 80, 4; but hiatus is also avoided by this expedient.

 $\sim ---$ (and therefore not $\dot{\epsilon} \nu \tau \hat{\varphi} \nu i \hat{\varphi}$, as might be expected): in verse 2 (ον έ)θηκεν κληρονόμον πάντων (δι' οδ καὶ) τοὺς αἰωνας έποίησεν, 1 twice ———=: verse 3 (δς ὧν ἀπαύγα)σμα της δόξης $(=\epsilon \pi o i \eta \sigma \epsilon \nu) \mid (\kappa a i \chi a \rho a \kappa \tau i \rho \tau i s i \pi o \sigma \tau a) \sigma \epsilon \omega s a i \tau o v, again twice$ ---, and then again (φέρων ... της) δυνάμεως αὐτοῦ, which also offers to the ear a rhyme with (ψ)ποστάσεως αὐτοῦ (= - - - : Choriambus and Paeon Quartus are in prose rhythm, including Attic, treated as equivalent. Further in verse 3 we have (καθαρισμόν ποιησάμενος) των άμαρτιων ήμων (έκάθισεν έν δεξιά της μεγα)λωσύνης έν ύψηλοι̂s, — — — — , making seven instances of — — in succession. The present writer follows the Textus Receptus, whereas the usual reading now, after ABD*E*MP, is καθ. ποιησ. τῶν ἀμ. without ἡμῶν. Perhaps also δι' ἐαυτοῦ before καθαρισμόν (D* and D°, EKLM and again the Textus Receptus) is not an interpolation, but has erroneously fallen out after δυνάμεως αὐτοῦ; at any rate in the opening δι' ξαυτοῦ καθαρισμὸν ποι—the conclusion of the preceding clause is repeated, $(\hat{\rho}\hat{\eta})\mu\alpha\tau\iota$ $\tau\hat{\eta}s$ δυνά $\mu\epsilon\omega s$ αὐτοῦ, $\epsilon i \pi \epsilon \nu \pi \sigma \tau \epsilon \tau \hat{\omega} \nu \dots, \simeq \sim \sim \sim \simeq$, and the two trimeters cited above from 12. 14 f., the beginnings and endings of which likewise correspond = - - - =, and 12. 24 καὶ διαθήκης véas (so here only, whereas elsewhere, including H. 9. 15, the regular phrase is διαθήκη καινή), which balances the preceding ending (δικαί)ων τετελειωμένων, — — — — etc. The present writer has elsewhere communicated a detailed discussion of this matter, which is of the greatest importance for the whole conception of the Epistle.²

4. The studied employment of the so-called Gorgian assonances is necessarily foreign to the style of the N.T., all the more because they were comparatively foreign to the whole period; accident, however, of course produces occasional instances of them, and the writer often did not decline to make use of any that suggested themselves. Paronomasia is the name given to the recurrence of the same word or word-stem in close proximity, parechesis to the resemblance in sound between different contiguous words. Instances of paronomasia are: Mt. 21. 41 κακοὺς κακῶς ἀπολέσει αὐτούς (a good classical and popular combination of words³), Mc. 5. 26 πολλὰ παθοῦσα ὑπὸ πολλῶν ἰατρῶν, 2 C. 9. 8 ἐν παντὶ πάντοτε πᾶσαν αὐτάρκειαν, 4 8. 22, A. 21. 28, .24. 3 (Herm. Mand. xi. 3 αὐτὸς γὰρ κενὸς ὧν κενῶς [MSS. κενὸς] καὶ ἀποκρίνεται κενοῖς); then there may be a contrast in the sentence, so that there is a certain subtlety and sometimes a suggestion of wit in the paronomasia: 2 C. 4. 8 ἀπορούμενοι, ἀλλὶ οὖκ ἐξαπορούμενοι,

2 Th. 3. 11 μηδεν έργαζομένους, άλλα περιεργαζομένους, Α. 8. 30 αρά νε γινώσκεις α αναγινώσκεις; (cp. 2 C. 3. 2,1 R. 12. 3 μη ὑπερφρονεῖν παρ' ο δεί φρονείν, άλλα φρονείν είς το σωφρονείν (which might almost be called finical), 1 C. 11, 20 ff. κρίμα—διακρίνων—διεκρίνομεν—έκρινόμεθα κρινόμενοι—κατακριθώμεν (ditto), 2 C. 10. 2 f. κατὰ σάρκα—έν σαρκὶ -κατὰ σ.; the paronomasia is most sharply marked in Phil. 3. 2 f. βλέπετε την κατατορήν (the Jewish circumcision), ημείς γάρ έσμεν ή περιτομή, where Paul in an oratorical manner robs his opponents of the word in which they pride themselves and turns it into a disgrace. The paronomasia in A. 23. 3 also appears to be oratorical, where Paul in answer to Ananias, who had commanded τύπτειν αὐτοῦ τὸ στόμα, replies τύπτειν σε μέλλει ὁ θεός, using the same word in another and metaphorical sense; cp. Ap. 22.28 f., and with parechesis σχίνος—σχίσει, πρίνος—πρίσει LXX. Dan. Sus. 54 f., Winer § 68, 2; so that this appears to have been a common method of retort among the Jews. The practice of twisting a word that occurs in the sentence into a metaphorical sense is illustrated also by 2 C. 3. 1 ff. (ἐπιστολή): similarly L. 9. 60 (Mt. 8. 22) ἄφες τοὺς νεκροὺς θάψαι τοὺς ἐαυτῶν νέκρούς: Mt. 5. 19 (ἐλάχιστος); but Paul is particularly fond of dwelling on an idea and a word, although it does not assume different meanings and is not repeated absolutely immediately, while there is still a certain artificial and reflective manner in the repetition (known as traductio in Latin rhetoricians). Thus in 2 C. 3. 5 ff. we first have ἱκανοί—ἰκανότης—ἰκάνωσεν, then γράμμα (following ἐγγεγραμμένη 2 f.) three times, also $\pi \nu \epsilon \hat{\nu} \mu a$ (which has likewise been used already in 3); διάκονος 6, διακονία 7 ff. four times; δόξα 7-11 eight times besides δεδοξάσθαι twice in 10 (οὐ δεδόξασται τὸ δεδοξασμένον, a kind of oxymoron with an apparent contradiction).—Parechesis is seen in the old combination of words, which became popular, L. 21. 11 λιμοί καὶ λοιμοὶ ἔσονται (Hesiod, W. and D. 241 λιμον όμοῦ καὶ λοιμόν); H. 5. 8 $\ddot{\epsilon}\mu\alpha\theta\epsilon\nu$ $\dot{\alpha}\phi$ $\dot{\omega}\nu$ $\ddot{\epsilon}\pi\alpha\theta\epsilon\nu$ (the proverb $\pi\dot{\alpha}\theta\epsilon\iota$ $\mu\dot{\alpha}\ell$ os occurs in Aesch. Agam. 170); Paul in enumerations combines the following words, R. 1. 29 (G. 5. 21?) φθόνου φόνου, 31 ασυνέτους ασυνθέτους; but κλάδων έξεκλάσθησαν 11. 17, 19 may be accidental or a kind of etymological figure (like $\phi \delta \beta o \nu \phi \delta \delta \delta \sigma \theta a \iota$).—The δμοιοτέλευτον in R. 12. 15 χαίρειν μετὰ χαιρόντων, κλαίειν μετὰ κλαιόντων (where there is assonance also in the first words of the two clauses, so that this is a case of δμοιοκάταρκτον as well) arose naturally and unsought; but in 5. 16 it may be considered as studied and deliberate, οὐχ ὧs δι' ένδς ἁμαρτήματος (so correctly DFG, also probably Orig. and Chrys., for -ήσαντος) τὸ δώρημα τὸ μὲν γὰρ κρίμα ἐξ ἐνὸς εἰς κατάκριμα, τὸ δὲ χάρισμα ἐκ πολλῶν παραπτωμάτων εἰς δικαίωμα. Paul has certainly not sought after rhyme in this passage, but has no doubt (as already in 14 f.) played with the formations in -μα, which were among the deliciae of the Hellenistic stylist.1

5. Antitheses and parallelisms of all kinds are very largely developed in the N.T., not only in the Pauline Epistles, but also in the Gospels, especially those of Matthew and Luke; in the latter their occurrence is due to the gnomic character of ancient Hebrew literature (supra 1), in the former it is the outcome of the Apostle's dialectic and eloquence. With these should be reckoned a further series of figures $(\sigma \chi \dot{\eta} \mu a \tau a)$, of which we learn in Greek and Latin rhetoricians, and for which instances are quoted from Demosthenes, Cicero etc. Antithesis and parison (supra 1), considered on their own merits, form part of these figures; but it may easily happen in cases of parallelism of this kind, that the first words are alike (anaphora), or the last words are alike (antistrophe), or the first and the last words are alike (symploce), and by this means the parallelism is rendered still more striking to the ear. Moreover words in the middle of the sentence may be alike or have a similar termination. Again cases frequently occur where there is a double anaphora etc., if each section of the parallelism is again subdivided, and the repetition of the word may take place not only twice, but even thrice and still more often. Thus we have in 1 C 1. 25 ff. ὅτι τὸ μωρὸν τοῦ θεοῦ | σοφώτερόν ἐστιν τῶν ἀνθρώπων || καὶ τὸ ἀσ θ ενὲς τοῦ θεοῦ Ι ἰσχυρότερον ἐστι τῶν ἀνθρώπων². βλέπετε γὰρ τὴν κλῆσιν ύμων ἀδελφοί | ότι οὐ πολλοί σοφοί κατὰ σάρκα | οὐ πολλοί δυνατοί | οὐ πολλοί εὐγενείς | ἀλλὰ τὰ μωρὰ τοῦ κόσμου ἐξελέξατο ὁ θεός | ἴνα καταισχύνη τους σοφούς (τὰ σοφά according to the text of Marcion) | καὶ τὰ $d\sigma\theta$ εν $\hat{\eta}$ του κόσμου έξελέξατο ὁ θεός (om. ὁ θ εός Chrys.) | ΐνα καταισχύνη τ $\hat{\alpha}$ ισχυρά | καὶ τὰ ἀγενή τοῦ κόσμου καὶ τὰ έξουθενημένα έξελέξατο ὁ θεός | τὰ μὴ ὄντα³ | ἴνα τὰ ὄντα καταργήση | ὅπως μὴ καυχήσηται πᾶσα σὰρξ ἐνώπιον τοῦ θεοῦ. Marcion's text, according to Tertukian, and in part also the text of the Fathers present several differences in the final section : καὶ τὰ ἀγενη καὶ τὰ ἐλάχιστα (minima Tert.) καὶ τὰ έξου- $\theta \epsilon \nu \eta \mu \dot{\epsilon} \nu a$ (om. $\dot{\epsilon} \dot{\xi} \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\xi}$. $\dot{\delta} \theta \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\delta} \dot{\epsilon}$ Marc., Chrys., Theod. Mops. 4) $|\tau \dot{\alpha} \mu \dot{\eta}$

 $^{^2}$ 'E $\sigma\tau\iota$ is read in both places before $\dot{a}\nu\theta\rho$. in DEFG; RABC al. have $\sigma\sigma\phi\dot{\omega}n$ τ . \dot{a} . $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\nu$, and then RAC al. have in the corresponding clause $i\sigma\chi$. τ . \dot{a} . $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\nu$, but here R*B omit $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\nu$. A similar termination must in any case be retained. Cp. 10. 16 (where B is wrong).

⁴ In a quotation illustrating R. 7. 5.

ουτα | ίνα καταισχύνη τὰ οντα. In this text καὶ τὰ ἐλάχιστα is certainly far better than the repetition of τοῦ κόσμου, and we can very readily dispense with the third occurrence of $\epsilon \mathcal{E} \epsilon \lambda \epsilon \mathcal{E} \alpha \tau_0$ $\delta \theta \epsilon \delta s$, as we may also dispense with the second instance of δ $\theta \epsilon \delta s$. In this passage, then, the parallelism is developed, though not quite from the beginning, into rounded periods of three sections, and the third section in the last parallelism, which gives the finish to the whole sentence, exceeds the others in the number and length of its clauses, which is just what rhetoricians require in final sections of this kind¹; the parallelism is thus sustained throughout the whole passage with a precision as accurate as the thought admitted of, while the sharpness of the thought is not sacrificed to form. This is a point which the rhetoricians praise as a merit in Demosthenes also, that his antitheses are not worked out with minute accuracy. And so too St. Paul does not, perhaps, say τὰ σοφά because τὰ μωρὰ has preceded, and in any case does not say ἵνα τὰ εὐγενῆ καταργήση because $\tau \dot{a} \dot{a} \gamma \epsilon \nu \hat{\eta}$ has preceded, but the expansion of the concluding clause enables him to introduce $\tau \hat{\alpha} \mu \hat{\eta} \ \mathring{o} \nu \tau a$, which together with its opposite τὰ ὄντα, which is annexed, gives a better and much more powerful expression to the thought. No Greek orator—for one must naturally compare the passage with practical speech, and not with the quiet flow of artistic speech, in which everything which may be termed δὶς ταὐτὸν λέγειν is proscribed—would have regarded the eloquence of this passage with other feelings than those of the highest admiration.

6. The practice of giving a similar termination to clauses (antistrophe) may occasionally take a simpler form as in H. 2. 16 οὐ γὰρ δήπου ἀγγέλων ἐπιλαμβάνεται, ἀλλὰ σπέρματος ᾿Αβραὰμ ἐπιλαμβάνεται (more emphatic than if the verb were left to be supplied in the second clause). The same Epistle has an excessively long instance of anaphora in 11. 3-31 πίστει (repeated 18 times), a passage which taken together with the forcible and comprehensive conclusion (32-40) corresponds in some measure to the peroration of a speech following upon the demonstration; before (and after) this point this letter is by no means so rich in figures as some of the Pauline Epistles, but exhibits in this respect a certain classically temperate attitude. St. Paul, on the other hand, has e.g. in 2 C. 6. 4 ff. ἐν 19 times, followed immediately by διὰ 3 times, and ώς 7.2 (Clem. Cor. i. 36. 2 has anaphora with διὰ τοῦτου 5 times repeated; with ἀγάπη [after 1 C. 13] in

- 49. 4.) The speeches in the Acts, which are certainly nothing more than excerpts from speeches, for this reason alone cannot have much embellishment: anaphora occurs with ἡμεῖς ... ὑμῖν in 3. 26 f., τούτος ... οὖτος 4. 10 f., τοῦτον ... οὖτος 3 times in 7. 35 ff., see further 10. 42 ff., 13. 39.
- 7. As regards the Gospels, the absence of rhetorical artifice in the Johannine speeches is manifest at once: in Mark there are not many speeches at all: the speeches in Luke are at any rate not so full and lengthy as in Matthew, and he does not appear to have devoted so much care upon their style. But in Matthew there really is some artistic sense of style, and it is therefore well for commentator and editor alike to pay attention to it. Of course the form which this artistic style takes is mainly drawn from ancient Hebrew and not from Greek; we have also to deal with a translator's work and not with an original Greek composition; still even in the Greek the presentation is tasteful and effective. For this reason, where there are variant readings, e.g. in the Sermon on the Mount, the present writer gives the preference to those which present the parallelism in Thus (Mt. 5. 45) ὅτι τὸν ἥλιον αὐτοῦ ἀνατέλλει ἐπὶ the closest form. άγαθοὺς καὶ πονηρούς (this, which gives an exact parallel with the following clause, is the reading of Latt. Syrr. Orig. etc., and is better than πονηρούς καὶ ἀγ., where the order alone is unnatural, of B etc.), καὶ τὸν ὑετὸν αὐτοῦ (inserted in citations in Clem. Hom. etc.) βρέχει έπὶ δικαίους καὶ ἀδίκους. Again we should read ibid. 7. 13 f. τί (Latt. for ιτι) πλατεία καὶ εὐρύχωρος ι δόδος ι -. τί (ιτι is here only read by $\mathbf{x}^\mathbf{B}^\mathbf{X}$) στενή καὶ τεθλιμμένη ή δδὸς ή – . Similarly in other speeches: in 25. 35 read ἐπείνασα γὰρ καὶ ἐδωκατέ μοι φαγεῖν· ἐδίψησα καὶ έδώκατέ μοι πιείν, with Latt. and Clem. Alex., not ἐποτίσατέ με, whereas ποτίσαι is correct in verse 37: πότε σε εἴδομεν πεινῶντα καὶ ἐθρέψαμεν, η διψώντα καὶ ἐποτίσαμεν; In particular, the close of the Sermon on the Mount is in the conventional text slightly disfigured. According to the concurrent evidence of six Latin authorities, as well as Cyprian Chrysostom and Eusebius, we must omit the conjunctions, as the asyndeton (§ 79, 4) is particularly suitable and effective: (verse 25) κατέβη ή βροχή, ήλθον οι ποταμοί, έπνευσαν οι ανεμοι και προσέπεσαν (Lachm. προσέπαισαν: προσέρρηξαν Euseb.) τη οἰκία ἐκείνη, καὶ οὐκ ἔπεσεν· τεθεμελίωτο γὰρ ἐπὶ τὴν πέτραν, and then in 27 κατέβη ἡ βροχή, ήλθον οι ποταμοί, επνευσαν οι άνεμοι και προσέκοψαν τη οικία έκείνη, καὶ ἔπεσεν, καὶ ἢν ἡ πτῶσις αὐτῆς μεγάλη.
- 8. The emphatic duplication of an impressive word (epanadiplosis of the rhetoricians) is not unknown in the N.T., but is nowhere to be reckoned as a rhetorical device: thus Ap. 14. 8 = 18. 2 ἔπεσεν ἔπεσεν Βαβυλὼν ἡ μεγάλη, Mt. 25. 11 κύριε κύριε, 23. 7, Mc. 14. 45, ῥαββὶ ῥαββὶ (some MSS.), Mc. 5. 41 according to e τὸ κοράσιον τὸ κορ., L. 8. 24 ἐπιστάτα ἐπιστάτα, Jo. 19. 6 σταύρωσον σταύρωσον, L. 10. 41 Μάρθα Μάρθα, in all which passages we have a direct report of the actual words spoken, as is most clearly shown by A. 19. 34 μεγάλη ἡ Ἄρτεμις Ἐφεσίων, μεγάλη ἡ Ἄ. Ἐ. (so B reads), words which were in fact shouted for two hours. (On the other band the repetition is rhetorical in Clem. Cor. i. 47. 6 αλσχρά, ἀγαπητοὶ, καὶ λίαν αἰσχρὰ καὶ ἀνάξια κ.τ.λ.). Another figure in which repetition plays a part is the kind of climax, which consists in each clause taking up and repeating the principal word of the preceding clause; the rhetoricians found this figure already existing in Homer Il. ii. 102, where the following words occur on the subject of Agamemnon's sceptre, "Ηφαιστος μέν δωκε Διὶ ..., αὐτὰρ ἄρα Ζεὺς δωκε διακτόρω 'Αργειφόντη, Τρμείας δὲ κ.τ.λ. So Paul has in R. 5. 2 ff. ή θλίψις ύπομονήν κατεργάζεται, ή δε ύπομονή δοκιμήν, ή δε δοκιμή έλπίδα, ή δε έλπις ού καταισχύνει, cp. 8. 29 ff., and a decidedly artificial passage 10. 14 πως οθν επικαλεσωνται είς θν οθκ επίστευσαν; πως δε πιστεύσωσιν οδ οὖκ ήκουσαν; πῶς δὲ ἀκούσωσιν χωρὶς κηρύσσοντος; πῶς δὲ κηρίξωσιν ἐὰν μὴ ἀποσταλῶσιν; Cp. also 2 P. 1. 5 ff. ἐπιχορηγήσατε ἐν τῷ πίστει ύμων την άρετην, έν δε τη άρετη την γνώσιν, έν δε κ.τ.λ. (7 clauses in all; but the object of using the figure in this passage is by no means intelligible). A further instance is Herm. Mand. v. 2. 4 ἐκ τῆς ἀφροσύνης γίνεται πικρία, έκ δὲ τῆς πικρίας θυμός, έκ δὲ τοῦ θυμοῦ ὀργή, έκ δὲ τῆς ὀργῆς μῆνις εἶτα ἡ μῆνις κ.τ.λ. 1

9. Asyndeton and polysyndeton have already been discussed in § 79, 3 ff.; here we may lay greater stress on one form of asyndeton, which is based upon the resolution of a periodic sentence, but which gives a more lively and effective expression to the thought than the strictly periodic form of sentence would do, 1 C. 7. 27 δέδεσαι γυναικί | μη ζήτει λύσιν || λέλυσαι ἀπὸ γυναικός | μη ζήτει γυναίκα (see above p. 280), = $\epsilon i \ \mu \hat{\epsilon} \nu \ \delta \hat{\epsilon} \delta \hat{\epsilon} \sigma \alpha i \ \gamma \nu \nu$, $\mu \hat{\gamma} \ \hat{\zeta}$. λ ., $\epsilon i \ \delta \hat{\epsilon} \ \kappa.\tau.\lambda$. (where there is likewise a strong instance of antistrophe, supra 5, and in λύσιν | λέλυσαι the figure called by the rhetoricians anastrophe, that is the end of one clause is equivalent to the beginning of the next; moreover the point of the sentence is further heightened by the brevity of the clauses). Cp. ibid. 18, 21, Ja. 5. 13 ff.2; many sentences of the same kind occur in the practical writings of Greek orators. In the passages in the orators and in the N.T. the first portion of resolved sentences of this kind is ordinarily written as a question; but certainly German has analogous phrases which are not interrogative, 'bist du los, so suche' etc. The more ordinary forms of asyndeton are occasionally employed by Paul with almost too great a profusion, so that the figure loses its force as an artistic expedient, and the whole discourse appears broken up into small fragments. The Epistle to the Hebrews shows more moderation in this respect, even in the brilliant passage where πίστει is repeated 18 times with asyndeton (supra 6); since the separate paragraphs in that passage, which are in many cases of a considerable length, are not without their own connecting links, and in the concluding

- summary 11. 31 ff., though twice over we have 10 or almost 10 short clauses standing without connecting links, yet a piece of connected speech is interposed between them (35 f.), and the whole chapter is rounded off by a periodic sentence in verses 39, 40.
- 10. Besides figures of expression (σχήματα λέξεως), to which those hitherto considered belong, the rhetoricians discriminate and give a separate name to an equally large number of figures of thought (σ_X) . Suavolas), with which it is not the case, as it is with the former class, that the substitution of one synonym for another, or the deletion of a word, or an alteration in the order of words causes the figure to disappear. As a general rule these figures of thought belong not so much to the earlier as to the later period of Attic oratory, since their development presupposes a certain amount of advance in the acuteness and subtlety of the language. The orator pretends to pass over something which in reality he mentions: thus $\delta \tau \iota \mu \epsilon \nu \dots, \pi a \rho a$ λείπω (a figure known as paraleipsis or praeteritio); and under this figure one may of course, if one pleases, bring Paul's language in Philem. 19 ίνα μή λέγω ὅτι καὶ σεαυτόν μοι προσοφείλεις. 1 Again, 2 C. 9. 4 μήποτε ... καταισχυνθώμεν ήμεις, ίνα μη λέγωμεν ύμεις is not a simple and straight-forward statement: the simple expression of the Apostle's thought would be $\kappa \alpha \tau \alpha \iota \sigma \chi \nu \nu \theta \hat{\eta} \tau \epsilon$, but as that would pain his hearers, he appears to turn the reproach against himself, while he makes it clear that he does so by what the rhetoricians call a σχήμα ἐπιεικές. Paul also occasionally employs irony (εἰρωνεία) of the sharpest kind: 1 C. 4. 8 ήδη κεκορεσμένοι ἐστέ; ήδη ἐπλουτήσατε; χωρίς ήμων έβασιλεύσατε; 2 C. 11. 19 f. ήδέως ανέχεσθε των αφρώνων, φρόνιμοι όντες ἀνέχεσθε γὰρ κ.τ.λ., 12. 132; he knows how to change his tone in an astonishing way, and if conscious of the offence which he is about to give or has given, he employs prodiorthoses as in 2 C. 11. 1 ff., 16 ff., 21 ἐν ἀφροσύνη λέγω, 23, or epidiorthoses as in 12. 11 γέγονα ἄφρων κ.τ.λ., 7. 3, Β. 3. 5 κατὰ ἄνθρωπον λέγω,³ since he everywhere puts himself in a position of the closest intercourse and liveliest sympathy with his readers.
- 11. Other figures of thought have more of an obviously rhetorical character, so especially the (so-called rhetorical) question with its various methods of employment, sometimes serving the purpose of dialectical liveliness and perspicuity, as in R. 3. 1 τί οὖν τὸ περισσὸν τοῦ Ἰονολοίον; with the answer πολὺ κατὰ πάντα τρόπον, 4. 10 πῶς οὖν ἐλογίσθη; ἐν περιτομῷ ὄντι ἢ ἐν ἀκροβνστίᾳ; οὖκ ἐν περιτομῷ κ.τ.λ. (this use is especially frequent in the Epistle to the Romans: but cp. also Jo. 12. 27), sometimes used as an expression of keen sensibility, astonishment, or unwillingness, but also of a joyful elation of spirit, Wilke p. 365 cites also passages like 1 Th. 4. 9, where however no figure can be recognized ($\vec{\psi}$ $\chi \rho \epsilon (a\nu \ \epsilon \chi \epsilon \tau \epsilon)$ any more than in H. 11. 32, where the expression used corresponds accurately to the fact.

as in R. 8. 31 τί οὖν ἐροῦμεν πρὸς ταῦτα; εἰ ὁ θεὸς ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν, τίς καθ' ἡμῶν; to which there is subsequently attached a pair of questions, with their subordinate answers, which are also expressed in an interrogative form (ὑποφορά, subjectio): τίς ἐγκαλέσει κατὰ ἐκλεκτῶν θεοῦ; θεὸς ὁ δικαιῶν; τίς ὁ κατακρινῶν; Χριστὸς Ἰησοῦς ὁ κ.τ.λ.¹ This is one of the brilliant oratorical passages, which are a distinguishing feature of this Epistle, and the Corinthian Epistles (see further e.g. 2 C. 11. 22 Ἑβραῖοί εἰσιν; κἀγώ. Ἰσραηλῦταί εἰσιν; κἀγώ. σπέρμα ἸΑβραάμ εἰσίν; κἀγώ, κ.τ.λ.), but the discussion of such passages is out of place in a grammar and can only be tolerated if briefly dwelt on and treated by way of appendix. 2

² A detailed analysis of several passages is given by J. Weiss, Btr. zur Paulinischen Rhetorik, 1897 (in Theol. Studien, B. Weiss dargebracht, Gtg. 1897,); cp. also Heinrici in Meyer's Komm. z. N.T., div. vi., ed. 8, p. 457 f. In the opinion of the present writer, there is not one of the Pauline Epistles which could be reckened along with the Ep. to the Hebrews as artistic prose. The Ep. to the Romans and the first Ep. to the Corinthians approximate to this type; here, in view of the persons addressed, the writer took special pains. In all the other Epistles the most that can be said is that in individual passages such an approximation takes place. Of the remaining N.T. writings the Gosp. of Matthew is the only one which exhibits any approximation to it, cp. above 7; the Acts in design and arrangement is excellent, but its manner of presentment is distinctly unprofessional ['idiotisch'] ($l\partial (\omega \tau \iota \kappa \dot{\tau}) \phi \rho \dot{\alpha} \sigma \iota s$ as opposed to $\tau \epsilon \gamma \iota \iota \iota \kappa \dot{\tau}$). That a definition of 'artistic prose 'may not be wanting, it should be remarked that the present writer reckons as such all writings which, in the intention of the writer who had received technical instruction in this respect, were meant not only to give information, nor yet merely to produce an impression, but also to please. That, in the writer's opinion, may be said of the Epistle to the Hebrews, but not, at least in the fullest sense, of any other book in the N.T.

No inference of any kind can, however, be drawn from the reading, except that the writer knew no Greek. W.-Schm. compares further $8 \alpha \dot{v} \tau \dot{v} \dot{v}$ (v.l. $\alpha \dot{v} \tau \hat{\varphi}$) and $3 \alpha \dot{v} \tau o \hat{v}$ (for $\alpha \dot{v} \tau \hat{\tau} \dot{r} \dot{r}$), but in the last passage it is not clear that there is any solecism.

We should do well to follow many authorities and prefix the art. to the second νόμου, while in the case of the first (where there is less evidence for its insertion) its absence may more easily be explained, since there it is not, as in the second place, the sum-total of the law which the writer has in mind. See also for anarthrous νόμος Ja. 4. 11, 2. 11 (but ὅλον τὸν νόμον 2. 10), 2. 12 νόμον ἐλευθερίας, not the Mosaic but another law (εἰς νόμον τέλειον τὸν τῆς ἐλευθερ. 1. 25). PAGE 166.

^a 5. The pronouns of the 1st and 2nd person singular are very commonly used in various languages without any definite reference to the speaker or the person addressed, in order to present some statement of general application in a more lively manner by a reference to the individual case. This is not so common in Greek as in other languages, but there are some clear examples of it, not confined to the 2nd person. Thus Demosthenes ix. 17 says ὁ γὰρ οἶς ἄν ἐγὼ ληφθείην πράττων – οδτος έμοι πολεμεί, meaning not 'I Demosthenes.' but anyone you will, here indeed any state. Instances of this use may also be found in St. Paul. 1 C. 10. 30 (cp. 29) εἰ ἐγὼ χάριτι μετέχω, τί βλασφημούμαι ὑπὲρ οδ ἐγὼ εὐχαριστῶ; G. 2. 18 εἰ γὰρ ἃ κατέλυσα πάλιν οἰκοδομῶ, a case of a definite supposition (εἰ, not ἐάν), which is certainly not applicable to St. Paul: but from 10 onwards the 1st person is used in its literal sense, except that what is stated is meant to be of general application for all true Christians. More especially the passage R. 7. 7 ff., which Origen and others rightly interpret, and in particular verse 9 f. έγω δὲ ἔζων χωρὶς νόμου $\pi o \tau \epsilon \kappa \tau \lambda$. can hardly be taken as referring to the Apostle's own person; it is true that in verse 25 (αὐτὸς ἐγώ), as Origen points out, he gives a personal turn to his words, while once again in 8. 2 $\dot{\eta}\lambda\epsilon\nu\theta\dot{\epsilon}\rho\omega\sigma\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ $\sigma\epsilon$ (8BFG; others $\mu\epsilon$) the general application is resumed, the second person being this time employed. This usage appears in other passages, where it calls for little remark, R. 2. 17, 11. 17, 14. 4 etc.: we sometimes find with it the imaginary individual addressed in the vocative, as in 2. I & $a\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\epsilon$. This is quite in keeping with the lively character of St. Paul's epistolary style, which so often resembles that of a dialogue.

1* The vowels in ϵv must in the $\kappa o \iota v \dot{\eta}$ (as previously in Ionic) have been more distinctly articulated than in Attic; then the ϵ in $\epsilon \cdot v$ would naturally once more be augmented (this augmentation the grammarians from ignorance condemn in Attic, Cramer, An. Ox. iii. 258), while $\dot{\eta} \cdot v$ now for the first time would be correctly pronounced as a dissyllable, as is shown by the forms $\eta \ddot{v} \xi a \tau o$, $\eta \ddot{v} \lambda o \gamma \eta \sigma \epsilon v$ (MSS. like 8A throughout).

It is natural, however, to connect the gen. with the word preceding it, and elsewhere in St. Paul $\delta \mu o_i \omega \mu \omega \hat{s}$ has a dependent gen.

¹LXX. Gen. 7. 3, 9. From classical Greek Winer adduces Aesch. Pers. 981 μυρία μυρία πεμπαστάν, i.e. τὸν κατὰ μυρίους ἀριθμοῦντα; but even in Sophocles there occurred in the lost drama Eris μίαν μίαν = κατὰ μίαν. Grammarians who are opposed to the Atticists appeal to this instance; it appears, therefore, that the Atticists had censured this usage as colloquial, and it was not merely a creation of Jewish-Greek. Thumb, Gr. Spr. im Zeitalter des Hellenismus, 128. Pap. Oxyrh. i. p. 188 τρία τρία (3rd cent. A.D.).

¹ In these last two passages there is no partition indicated at the beginning of the sentence, but it is only through the ol δè that it becomes apparent that the preceding statement was not applicable to the whole body. Cp. Winer-Schm. § 17, 2, who compares passages from classical authors.

³ Jo. 5. 11 δ δὲ ἀπεκρίθη ΝC*GKL al., ἀπεκρ. alone C³DEF al., a remarkable reading δς δὲ ἀπ. AB, as in Mc. 15. 23 δε δΕ ΝΒ. Cp. § 79, 4.

PAGE 152.

¹ In L. 3. 19 the common reading is \dot{o} δè Ἡρφδης \dot{o} τετραάρχης, but e omits the addition \dot{o} τετρ. (cp. versc 1); in any case 'the aforesaid H. (verse 1), i.e. the tetrarch' would be a possible, if a somewhat circumstantial, expression. In Mt. 16. I $\dot{\eta}$ Μαρία $\dot{\eta}$ Μαγδαλην $\dot{\eta}$ is only read by B*L, the other authorities omit the first $\dot{\eta}$.

PAGE 159.

⁵ But the correct reading appears to be τη̂ς κοινωνίας τη̂ς εἰς αὐτούς. This is found in three separate citations of the passage by Chrys., and should therefore be adopted. See S. K. Gifford, Pauli epistolas qua forma legerit Chrysostomus, Halis 1902, p. 39.

PAGE 164.

1* The emphasis is occasionally very slight (W.-Schm. § 22, 2). In L. 4. 15 καὶ αὐτὸς ἐδίδασκεν, the pron. may be inserted to prevent the reader from taking $\phi \eta \mu \eta$ as still the subject; αὐτὸς may however be deleted with Ae; in other passages the text is often uncertain.

PAGE 174.

2* On $(\dot{\epsilon}\nu)$ $\dot{\phi}$ μέτρ ϕ Mt. 7. 2, Mc. 4. 24, L. 6. 38 see W.-Schm. § 24, 3, b (like δν τρόπον, δι' $\dot{\eta}\nu$ αἰτίαν).

- ¹ In Mt. 26. 62 = Mc. 14. 16 οὐδὲν ἀποκρίνη; τί οὖτοί σου καταμαρτυροῦσιν; it is impossible to unite the words in a single sentence, because ἀποκρίνεσθαι would require a πρόs, Mt. 27. 14. Chrys. cites the passage in the form οὐκ ἀκούεις τί, as in 27. 13. In the passage of James one may adduce 5. 13 in favour of separating the clauses: κακοπαθεῖ τις; προσευχέσθω, cp. § 82.
- ² J. H. Thayer in his review of the 1st edition of this grammar justifies the use of $\ddot{v}s$ as a direct interrogative by the following exx.: Plutarch, de sera numinis vind. 14, p. 558 E (an indirect question): LXX. 4 Reg. 8. 14 \ddot{v} , τ_{l} v.l. (in AB) for τ_{l} : [Justin] Cohort, ad Graec, cap. 5 ad fin. (δι' $\ddot{\eta}\nu$ airiaν as in Plut.; the passage, if correct, looks like a mixture of direct and indirect question): Euseb. P. E. vi. 7. 12 ($\ddot{\omega}\nu$ $\ddot{\epsilon}\nu\epsilon\kappa a$; I cannot discover the words). [vi. 7. 257 d in Gaisford's ed. Tr.]

¹* Cp. also Mc. 11. 3, where however punctuation and reading are doubtful.

PAGE 178.

^{2*} The same linguistic usage is found in Arrian's Diss. Epict. e.g. ii. 1. 32 πού ποτε 'to some place or other,' iii. 1. 14 τινά ποτ' ἀκούω Πολέμωνα, a certain P., etc., cp. Schweighäuser's Index s.v. τίς ποτε.

PAGE 191.

- 1 Έκελευον (ραβδίζειν) only occurs in A. 16. 22 (of magistrates), probably corrupt: insserunt=-σαν Vulg. (ibid. ραβδίζειν expressing continuance, cp. § 58, 3; the conclusion is given in 23 πολλὰς δὲ ἐπιθέντες πληγάς). For παρήγγελλεν L. 8. 29 cp. infra 5.
- 2 Also in A. 16. 5. παρεκάλει might have been expected, since the issue is expressly mentioned in καὶ παρεβιάσατο ἡμᾶs. In verse 39 also the imperf. might have been used.

1* (cp. ibid. 13 παραστήσατε, as opposed to the preceding μηδέ παριστάνετε an 12 μη βασιλευέτω 'let it no longer reign').

PAGE 196.

1* On the other hand, 'come (back again) hither' is expressed by $\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\theta\dot{\epsilon}$ in Mt 14. 29, Jo. 4. 16 (also in the use made of the passage Mt. 8. 9 in Clem. Hom ix. 21). The Ap., it is true, has everywhere $\dot{\epsilon}\rho\chi ov$, 6. 1, 5, 7, 22. 17, 20.

1* (the text, however, is uncertain).

1* Another possible explanation of ϵi μή τi αν is that suggested to me by Mr. James Sternberg from his Septuagintastudien: $\tau i = \ddot{o}$, τi (§ 50, 5), hence the phrase $= \epsilon l$ μή \ddot{o} , τi αν $\dot{\epsilon}$ ν αντφώνου. So Lev. 21. 17 ανθρωπος $-\tau i$ νι $\dot{\epsilon}$ αν (v.l. ψτινι $\dot{\epsilon}$ αν) $\dot{\eta}$ $\dot{\epsilon}$ ν αντ $\dot{\varphi}$ (pleonastic, § 50, 4) μ $\hat{\omega}$ μος.

PAGE 229.

^{2*} D again in Jo. 11. 55 has $\pi \rho i \nu$ τὸ (sic) $\pi \acute{a} \sigma \chi \alpha$ for $\pi \rho \eth$ τοῦ π .; of greater importance is the reading in Mt. 26. 34 attested by L I (a) $\pi \rho i \nu$ ἀλεκτοροφωνίας instead of $\pi \rho i \nu$ ἀλέκτορα φωνῆσαι. 'Αλεκτοροφωνίας has also the support of Origen, but he has $\pi \rho \eth$, not $\pi \rho i \nu$.

PAGE 247.

¹ In 2 C. 10. 12 there has been interpolation: read without οὐ συνιοῦσιν ἡμεῖς δὲ, so that αὐτοὶ κ.τ.λ. (§ 48, 6) links on with οὐκ εἰς κ.τ.λ. in 13, cp. G. 6. 4. Griesbach has already adopted this reading, following D*FG.

Page 255.

1* Similarly ἐπεὶ μή, ὅτι μή etc. in Arrian Diss. Epict., see ii. 1. 32, iv. 4. 8 etc.; ἐπεὶ μή Apollonius περὶ ἐπιρρημάτων, p. 70, 24, Schneider.—In the passage of Hebrews at any rate μήποτε (μὴ τότε \aleph^D^) is clearly interrogative († never 'would be μηδέποτε or οὐδέποτε).

PAGE 267.

1* Ibid. 3. 2 Origen had the much better reading attested by the Athos Codex and also the comm. of Or. preserved in Latin πρῶτοι γὰρ ἐπιστεύθησαν (similarly Euseb.).

¹ Hdt. iv. 172 τῶν δὲ ὡς ἔκαστός οἱ μειχθῆ, διδοῖ δῶρον. But the Lxx. has the same use, e.g. in Jos. 2. 14; also Herm. Vis. iii. 8. 9.

² In modern Greek $\mathring{\omega}s$ (from $\mathring{\epsilon}\omega s$) also means 'until'; cp. also Anacreontea 30. 13 (date uncertain) $\mathring{\omega}s$ $\mathring{\epsilon}\tau\iota$ $\mathring{\xi}\mathring{\omega}$, clearly = $\mathring{\epsilon}\omega s$; other exx. of the confusion of $\mathring{\omega}s$ and $\mathring{\epsilon}\omega s$ in Radefmacher, Philologus N.F. xiv. 495 f.; $\mathring{\omega}s$ for $\mathring{\epsilon}\omega s$ is similarly used in Soph. Aj. 1117, O.C. 1361, Phil. 1330. But in the N.T. the two words are not elsewhere confused ($\mathring{\omega}\sigma\tau \epsilon$ with an inf. = 'until' in 'Jo.' 8. 9 D?), and we should therefore perhaps write with \aleph in verse 35 $\mathring{\epsilon}\omega s$ 'as long as,' and in verse 36 $\mathring{\omega}s$ quando 'now when.'—There are numerous vll. in Mc. 9. 21: $\mathring{\omega}s$ τοῦτο γέγονεν \aleph^* A al., $\mathring{\epsilon}\omega s$ B, $\mathring{\epsilon}\xi$ οῦ \aleph^c , $\mathring{\epsilon}\phi'$ οῦ \aleph .

PAGE 283.

* According to D also 10. II: $\dot{\eta}$ πόλις εἰς ἢν ἄν εἰσέλθητε εἰς αὐτήν, έξετάσατε τίς εν αὐτ $\hat{\eta}$ κ.τ.λ.

Page 295.

^{2*} The text, however, as is so often the case in Jo. is not uniformly attested: I have, following the Lewis Syriac etc., adopted $\pi\rho\rho\epsilon\phi\theta\alpha\sigma\epsilon\nu$ $\tau\delta\nu$ II.
